SYRIA CHARGES ATTACK PLOTTED

Chiang's Bluff Disclosed by Washington

Threat to Make Deal With Japan in 1942 Bared by State Dept.

By DONALD J. GONZALES

WASHINGTON (U.P.) — The State Department Saturday night released for publication the first of a series of the long-secret "China Papers" which figured in the 1952 presidential campaign.

High light was a threat of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek to make a separate peace with Japan in 1942 and a suggestion by the U.S. Ambassador to then Nationalist China that Chiang's "bluff be called."

After winning the presidential election in 1952 Republicans began immediate moves to force publication of the papers and the records of wartime conferences held under Democratic administrations.

The Republicans contended that publication of the papers would effectively answer the 1949 Democratic "white paper" on China policy. In that document, then Secretary of State Dean Acheson said the Chinese Communist victory over Chiang "was beyond the control of the government of the United States."

U.N. Debates Hungarian Issue Monday

U.S. to Ask Reds to Let Observers Inspect Country

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — The U. N. announced Saturday night the General Assembly will debate the Hungarian question Monday at the request of the United States.

A headquarters spokesman said Prince Wan Waithayakon of Thailand, president of the 79-nation assembly, scheduled the debate to replace policy speeches of delegations.

A source close to the U. S. delegation told a reporter the United States and perhaps 10 other countries will introduce a resolution urging the Communist Budapest government to let U.N. political observers into Hungary.

Cuban delegate Emilio Nunez-Portuondo declared that if Hungary does not let in observers he will submit a resolution, perhaps Tuesday, to expel the Hungarian delegation from the Assembly.

U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold has been trying since early November to get observers into Hungary or to go there himself. His latest request was delivered in Budapest Thursday.

He has instructions from the Assembly to investigate and suggest ways to remedy the situation in that country, where Soviet troops last month suppressed an uprising.

* * * *

THE ASSEMBLY also has called in resolutions for withdrawal of Soviet troops and an end to deportations of Hungarian citizens.

A source familiar with the U. S. position said the projected resolution will ask Hungary to admit the observers and ask Hammarskjold to keep urging the government there to admit them.

The resolution will request the secretary general to send observers to Hungary or "nearby countries."

The U. S.-backed resolution reportedly will contain no provision to punish the Hungarian government in case that regime remains adamant.

SEASON WINDS UP

Trojans Beat Irish

Southern California's Trojans closed their season with a 28-20 victory over Notre Dame at the Los Angeles Coliseum Saturday. It was the eighth loss of the year for the Irish.

Also on the football scene, New Year's Day bowl bids were accepted by Tennessee, Baylor, Syracuse and Georgia Tech.

25 Tumble Off Bridge as Rail Snaps

CHICAGO (AP)—The pressure of a crowd of exuberant young football fans jammed on a pedestrian bridge forced a railing to give way Saturday and 19 of them were injured when they fell through it.

They tumbled 25 feet onto Illinois Central Railroad property.

One of the injured was in serious condition. Most suffered broken arms or legs and head injuries.

The bridge leads over the IC tracks near Soldier Field on the lakefront. The crowd of teenagers was thronging from the big stadium, where St. Leo had beaten Calumet 12-0 in the annual city championship high school football game.

A crowd of 66,282—largest in eight years—had attended the game.

Ten injured youngsters were being treated in St. Luke's Hospital. Nine received treatment at Mercy Hospital. Judy Lamm, 12, was reported in serious condition at Mercy Hospital. She suffered head injuries.

Martial Law Set in Iraq

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP)—A royal decree Saturday suspended parliament for a month, freezing all political activity in Iraq.

The decree was issued by King Faisal II only a few hours after a newly convened parliament heard the young monarch say all of Iraq is under martial law.

Parliament had opened with its usual pomp. The effect of the decree, issued at the request of Premier Said, is to stave off debate by deputies on the current Middle East crisis. Before the king made his announcement 40 deputies had signified their intention to take part in foreign policy debate.

Said's government now has a breathing spell in which to wait and hope for a calmer Middle East atmosphere.

In the traditional speech from the throne—written and presented to the king by Said—the young monarch told deputies martial law was proclaimed to protect the rear lines of the army while it prepares to take part with Jordan in the "common defense of the Arab states."

The action by the throne at the behest of the government came at a moment when this country is increasingly concerned with the activities of Syria. The local press in Bagh-

Accusation Cites Buildup of Neighbors

England, Israel, France, Turkey Named in Plea

LONDON (U.P.) — Syria Saturday accused Britain, France, Turkey and Israel of plotting a military attack on Syrian territory.

Syrian Foreign Minister Salah Bitar, in a cable to United Nations Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold, asked the U.N. General Assembly for help against the "aggressive intentions" of these countries.

Bitar said the situation "constituted a threat to the peace," and asked that it be placed before the current session of the General Assembly in New York.

* * * *

SYRIA'S SAFETY and independence are threatened by the concentration of Israeli forces along its borders as well as by statements made by Turkish officials, Bitar said.

He called attention to the talks in London between acting Turkish Foreign Minister Ethem Menderes and British Foreign Minister Selwyn Lloyd.

He referred to news reports alleging that Syria is becoming a Communist puppet of the Soviet Union and is being supplied with vast amounts of arms and technical advice.

These, Bitar said, "prove that British, French, Israeli, Turkish and other leading officials are planning an armed attack on Syria through a propaganda maneuver based on the fabrication of tendentious reports."

* * * *

BITAR WARNED that Syria will repulse any attack, no matter from where it comes.

These charges reinforced the opinion of diplomats that the Syrian situation potentially is more dangerous to the peace of the Mideast than the subsiding Suez crisis.

These officials regard it as a virtual certainty that Russian "volunteers" would go into action in Syria if there was armed conflict between Syria and such neighbors as Turkey and Iraq.

The Russians already have charged that Turkey is on the road to "premeditated aggression" against Syria. It also has alleged that the United States is preparing for "active intervention" in the area.

Posses Draw Noose on Texas Fugitives

SHAMROCK, Tex. (AP)—One youth was killed and two men were wounded Saturday in a running gun battle between law officers from Texas and Oklahoma and two unidentified fugitives.

More than a score of officers had the two men cornered Saturday night in a brushy pasture on the J. B. Stephens ranch, five miles east of Shamrock on U. S. Highway 66. The fugitives were armed with high-powered rifles.

Killed was Victor Lee Stephens, 19, son of the ranch owner who joined policeman Luke Henley of Shamrock in an attempt to halt the two men who were fleeing from Texola, Okla. Deputy Sheriff Marvin Skinner.

Police gave this account of the gun battle:

Skinner started chasing the pair in Texola about 4 p.m. Saturday when their car hit another and left the scene of the accident. The men opened fire on Skinner and wounded him. In spite of his wounds, Skinner chased the men west on Highway 66 toward Shamrock. He called ahead for aid, exchanging shots with the fugitives on the way.

Accompanying Henley and Stephens was Mannon Nix of Shamrock, who was wounded by a bullet in the arm.

Officers from Texola and Clinton, Okla., and from Pampa, Shamrock, Wheeler, McLean, Amarillo and other nearby Texas towns were engaged in the manhunt. Floodlights were brought in, and a plane

Navy Denies It Will Call Reservists

Spokesmen for the 11th and 12th Naval Districts said Saturday night they knew nothing of any plan to call up Navy reservists to man tankers being reactivated from mothball fleets.

Earlier Saturday, the San Francisco Examiner reported that 6,000 reservists would be called to active duty to serve aboard 39 tankers being reactivated for sea duty by mid-January.

The Navy in Washington said no such call for reservists had been put out from there and that none was planned.

Two of the tankers, the USS Enoree and the USS Sabine, are to be recommissioned Dec. 10 at Long Beach Naval Shipyard. A local spokesman for the Military Sea Transportation Service, which will operate the tankers, said no "white hats" have yet been selected to crew the vessels but added he knew of no plans for a reservist call.

Continuance of Budapest Strike Urged

BUDAPEST (U.P.)—Leaders of Hungary's workers urged them Saturday to resume their "total strike" for another five to 10 days against the tough line policies of Soviet puppet Premier Janos Kadar.

Leaflets scattered in the streets of Budapest called for the defiant new gesture in an effort to get concessions from Kadar's regime.

The leaflets were signed with the name of the Central Workers Council of Budapest, the most powerful workers' group in the country.

The government - controlled Budapest radio announced Saturday the leaflets were being distributed all over the battered city. But it also produced a "spokesman of the Budapest Workers Council" to denounce the leaflets.

Two U.S. Turncoats Cross to Hong Kong

HONG KONG (Sunday) (AP)—Two American turncoats of the Korean war who chose to live in Red China for three years arrived here today. Presumably they will return to the United States.

The two are Aaron Wilson, 24, of Urania, La., and Arley Pate, 26, of Carbondale, Ill. They arrived grim-faced at this British crown colony.

"I only want to go home," Pate remarked as he crossed the border. Wilson said nothing.

The two have been away from their homes at least six years.

Report Russ Troops Mass in Bulgaria

ISTANBUL, Turkey (U.P.)—Reliable reports from Edirne Saturday confirmed reports that Russia is massing troops in Bulgaria.

But the mayor of that town less than 10 miles from the Bulgarian border denied rumors that Turkish and Russian troops had clashed in a border fight that killed four Turks and 17 Russians.

The mayor said Red army troops had not reached the Turko-Bulgarian border at all.

Russian troops were reported massing in Bulgaria. Some of them were reported to have landed at Varna on the Black Sea coast.

The Bulgarian ambassador to Turkey, Boris Manolov, was reported returning to Sofia today for consultations.

Editor Charges Tijuana Police Let Vice Flourish

TIJUANA, Mex., (U.P.) — A newspaper editor who said he had been threatened with death for continuing his editorial campaign charged Saturday that Tijuana police were making no effort to clean up alleged vice conditions.

Jose Garcundo Bustamente, editor of Noticias, declared, "Crime in this modern city is increasing and many private citizens feel it necessary to bear arms for protection."

Another newsman, Manuel Acosta Meza, was assassinated last July after making editorial charges of vice and payoffs. The murder has not been solved.

Woman Found in L.A. River

Chou Hints at Release of POWs

NEW DELHI (U.P.)—Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai hinted Saturday that American prisoners still held in Communist China's jails may be released soon.

When a reporter asked Chou at a news conference if there was a chance of the Americans being freed soon, he replied:

"They can get out before the end of their sentence if they have good behavior."

He also told newsmen at the conference, which was held following his talks with Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, "I want to point out that there still are Chinese in American jails who have not been released and sent back to China."

There are some Chinese in American jails, mostly on narcotics convictions, but informed American sources said they have never heard of any one of them asking to go back to mainland China.

* * * *

INFORMED SOURCES said Chou asked Nehru to convey a message to President Eisenhower that Red China is willing to free the detained Americans. He hinted that he expected justic from the United States in return, implying he wanted the Chinese now held in American jails to be released. The message presumably will be conveyed to Eisenhower when Nehru meets him in Washington later this month.

DENVER (AP)—Troy K. Teague, 34, of Fort Worth, Tex., pleaded guilty in federal district court to a charge of passing a worthless $5,000 check last June at Colorado Springs.

L.A.C. Says: Modern Republicanism

Many political observers believe old line reactionary Republicans are in for quite a shock. They predict that President Eisenhower really means it when he talks of "Modern Republicanism." It is probable he will advocate and have passed several social security measures greatly opposed by right wing Republicans. Among these changes are expected to be a further widening and increase in retirement benefits—some form of medical insurance to cover everyone in the nation—probable encouragement of a shorter work week, and asssistance to the small business man.

This program will displease many old line Republicans—but it will bring him support from many Democrats and a large majority of the independents. The

Fly Casting Champ Dies in Air Crash

Roy Mabee, 70, of 8841 Lincoln Ave., Anaheim, was killed Saturday when his plane crashed into a plowed field two miles east of the Orange County airport. He was a national fly-casting champion.

Orange County deputy coroner Roger Burnham said that Mabee had taken off 1:30 p.m. Saturday and had crashed upon returning to the field.

Cause of the accident was not immediately determined.

Bomb Fell Long Ago, She Sees It Yet

MRS. J. MELBERGER ... Remembers Pearl Harbor

By BOB BECKMAN

GARDEN GROVE—A Japanese bomber dived down from the mountains behind the city of Honolulu, Oahu, Territory of Hawaii, and headed straight for the battleship Arizona, lying at anchor in Pearl Harbor.

Watching the plane was Mrs. John A. Melberger, wife of a Navy careerman who was at sea.

Fascinated—then horrified—Mrs. Melberger saw an object, something like a short, stubby fountain pen, fall from the plane.

It was a bomb. It plummeted into the Arizona's smokestack.

The mighty battlewagon "seemed to disintegrate," said Mrs. Melberger, now 58.

THE EYE-WITNESS to one of the major catastrophes of the sneak attack at Pearl Harbor 15 years ago next Friday, now lives at 13121 Monroe St.

Despite the years that now intervene, Mrs. Melberger's voice breaks as she tells of the hours preceding and during the attack.

Her husband, then a first class water tender aboard the heavy cruiser Indianapolis, was at sea for maneuvers.

Mrs. Melberger, and several other "Navy wives" went to their regular Saturday night dance.

The men they danced with were friends who had served with their husbands at base after base. Some were members of the Arizona's crew, obligated to return to their ship at 1 a. m.

"Some of our closest friends bid us goodnight and went

L.A.C. SAYS:

President will not be running for re-election so he will have a freer hand than he would otherwise. Senators and Congressmen will be faced with supporting such legislation—or going home and explaining why they did not. They will have to choose between the small number of right wing Republicans and the majority who agree with the President's "modernization" approach.

Right now many of these Republican right wingers are riding high. The great victory of Eisenhower and Nixon is their victory—as they see it. They fail to appreciate the cold fact that the Republican Party lost out with the majority of the people. The people voted for Mr. Eisenhower because of his great popularity. They did not vote a Republican House and Senate. And experienced political observers in Washington are frank in doubting that the Republicans have a chance two years—or four years from now—unless they gain the confidence of a large percentage of Democrats and Independents who are progressive—but neither radical or reactionary.

In California it is clear that Repubicans were elected with large numbers of Democratic votes. That had to be true because there are a lot more Democrats registered than there are Republicans. If these people felt any loyalty to the Republican Party they would be so registered. They are actually independents, crossing party lines and voting for the man and not the party—or they vote for the party which at the time meets with their approval.

These independent individuals see reactionary leaders seeking to obstruct the President's social security program. On the other side they see labor leaders taking an ever bigger position in Democratic party affairs. The independent thinker does not like either of these pictures. He wants real progressiveness. He has found that in President Eisenhower, and voted for him. The big question is, can the President bring Republicans to modernization in time to save the party from annihilation?

Chiang's Impatient 1942 Bluffing Bared

left the country. Others were absolved of wrongdoing and were reinstated in their posts.

The State Department refused to release some of the documents about which this reporter asked specific questions.

As to Chiang's alleged peace overtures, Ambassador C. E. Gauss said in a memorandum to the State Department in 1942 that he was firmly convinced that the Nationalist threat of a separate peace "is a bluff; and the type of bluff that Madame Chiang (Chiang's wife) was capable of concocting and selling to the Generalissimo."

* * * *

THE DOCUMENTS further underscored the uneasy nature of the American-Chinese alliance and the friction within the U.S. government over China policy.

In the first of the series, Chiang voiced complaints against the United States in the early days of the war. In one document presented to President Roosevelt, the Generalissmo said many of his officers concluded that "China is treated not as an equal, like Britain and Russia, but as a ward." Many times he complained about the slow delivery of American war supplies.

But feeling against Chiang's tactics was found in high American quarters. Brig. Gen. John A. Magruder, chief of the U.S. military mission to China, said Chiang was a "remarkable figure" responsible for holding China together. However, he said Chiang "can well be reminded that China, which has more than any other nation to lose if Japan wins the war, is putting out the least war effort of all the Allies."

* * * *

AT THE SUGGESTION of Secretary of State Cordell Hull, Gen. George C. Marshall ordered Magruder and other American military officers in China to avoid "any thought of hopelessness in the situation or any United States intention to abandon" China. Magruder had suggested preparing for a withdrawal.

The United States early in 1942 was alarmed by reports that the Chinese Nationalists would arrange a "peace" with Japan. Gauss informed Washington that this idea represented Madame Chiang's "impatient and captious attitude" and that neither she nor the Generalissimo "had any thought of a possible peace with Japan."

"If he (Chiang) persists in demanding more (supplies) and threatens peace with Japan, I am of the opinion that he should be told, with authority of Washington, that when he undertakes to negotiate a peace with Japan the American military and diplomatic missions will immediately be withdrawn without further ado from China, and that finishes all American assistance to China — now and for the future," Gauss said.

In a talk with Gen. Joseph (Vinegar Joe) Stilwell, Gauss said that "even the Communist leaders in China "seem to know that Chiang is putting up a bluff, for they tell us that it is a bluff and we should 'call' it."

from Oklahoma City was ordered to fly over and drop flares.

The Oklahoma Highway Patrol said the pair is also wanted for questioning about a slaying Saturday at Dripping Springs, Tex., near Austin.

The Texas Department of Public Safety said the man found on a country road near Dripping Springs had been beaten badly around the head and face and had a bullet wound in the left temple.

Military bases and colleges and universities in central Texas were checked for missing persons in an effort to establish the dead man's identity.

The dead man was between 21 and 27 years old, was about 5 feet 8 inches tall and had light brown hair clipped short.

The man also had a tatoo reading "Skip and Barb" on his left forearm, the word "Skip" tatooed on his right forearm and a dagger tatooed on the right forearm.

The man wore light gray flannel trousers, with the laundry mark "F. B. Thompson" on them, a gray slipover sweater, white shirt and black plain-toed shoes.

Young King Freezes Parliament of Iraq

dad reports that communist elements in Damascus are moving toward a position of control.

At the same time, Damascus radio attacks on the Iraq government are becoming more and more violent. In view of all this, special significance is being attacked here to portions of the throne speech which spoke of "beloved Egypt." The words from the throne, spoken for the government, were obviously aimed at calling the Arab nationalist feelings of the populace.

In the throne speech Faisal reviewed Iraq's foreign policy and called attention to its efforts to stand by Egypt in order to help defend Egyptian sovereignty against aggression.

"Aggression in Egypt threatened the security of all Arab countries and has resulted in a stand by Egypt to defend its independence and sovereignty," Faisal declared.

LONDON, Sunday (UP)—Moscow Radio told the Arab world Saturday that the people of Iraq have risen in a "holy war" against the government of "imperialist" Premier Nouri El Said.

The broadcast said the people were demanding that Iraq withdraw from the Baghdad pact. An anonymous Moscow commentator sharply attacked El Said in the Arabic language broadcast beamed to the Middle East.

35 Blind Tots Taken for Plane Ride

VAN NUYS (UP)—Thirty-five blind children agreed with Richard Ewing Saturday it was a beautiful day for flying.

They soared over the San Fernando Valley in Ewing's new light plane with Ewing and two friends taking turns at the controls.

"When would they ever get an opportunity to fly?" asked Ewing, owner of a Los Angeles print and lithography shop.

Norman Kaplan, executive director of the Foundation for the Junior Blind, accompanied the children to the airport. The youngsters have been to airfields before, Kaplan said, but this was their first time up.

"Flying's fine," said Suan Alperin, 7, after her ride. "You get up so high, and you can see so far."

back to the Arizona," said Mrs. Melberger. "That was their last dance."

* * * *

THUS IT WAS that she watched—stunned—at dawn when the bomb thudded into the Arizona's vitals.

"Parts of the big ship flew everywhere," she recalls. "I finally stopped staring—and ran to the apartment of another Navy wife."

The women were so shaken, she remembers, that when their friend poured cups of black coffee, "we just couldn't swallow at all."

In the hectic hours that followed, Mrs. Melberger was pressed into operating a "taxi service" between Honolulu and the harbor. Every available vehicle was used to rush military personnel to their bases.

"And all the time I was just driving mechanically," Mrs. Melberger said. "My mind was on the Indianapolis and my husband's safety."

He was safe.

Two months later, Mrs. Melberger and thousands of other wives were returned to the mainland. Her husband was injured in a boiler explosion not long afterward.

He, too, was returned and—with 30 years service to his credit—was discharged.

They now live quietly in their modest home here with a dog, several fruit trees and their sewing and workshop hobbies.

"Pearl Harbor seems so long ago," Mrs. Melberger sighed, "and yet so fresh in our memories."

Man Slays Wife, Wounds Daughter

CHICAGO (UP)—Police said a 42-year-old man shot and killed his estranged wife and critically wounded their teenage daughter Saturday night.

Dead was Mrs. Connie Wendt. Her daughter, Nancy, 14, was in critical condition at St. Joseph's hospital.

A search was organized for William Wendt after the girl told police her father had ambushed her and her mother in the hallway of their north side apartment building. Both were shot in the back as they ascended a flight of stairs.

Police said a shotgun apparently was the weapon used.

of Soviet arms pouring into Syria by announcing Friday that it will hold "routine" army maneuvers near its frontiers with Syria and Russia in the next few weeks.

Britain and France, too, are concerned about the Syrian situation. As a result, they have welcomed U.S. support for the Baghdad Pact nations and are believed desirous of clearing up the Suez problem quickley so they can be free to handle any new Middle East crisis.

Final details for withdrawal of Anglo-French troops from Egypt were worked out here in recent days in conferences between French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau and British Foreign Secretary Lloyd.

* * * *

THEIR DECISION to complete a "phased withdrawal" by the end of the year—and possibly before Christmas—is expected to be announced Monday.

The British Cabinet met at No. 10 Downing St. under the direction of R. A. Butler, who is acting head of the government in Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden's absence in Jamacia.

According to diplomatic circles, there will be no conditions attached to the Anglo-French withdrawal. Public reasons for the move are expected to be that it will speed up clearing the canal and will bring about a quicker Middle East peace settlement.

WASHINGTON (UP) — High government officials saw encouraging signs Saturday that the Middle Eastern crisis is beginning to calm down.

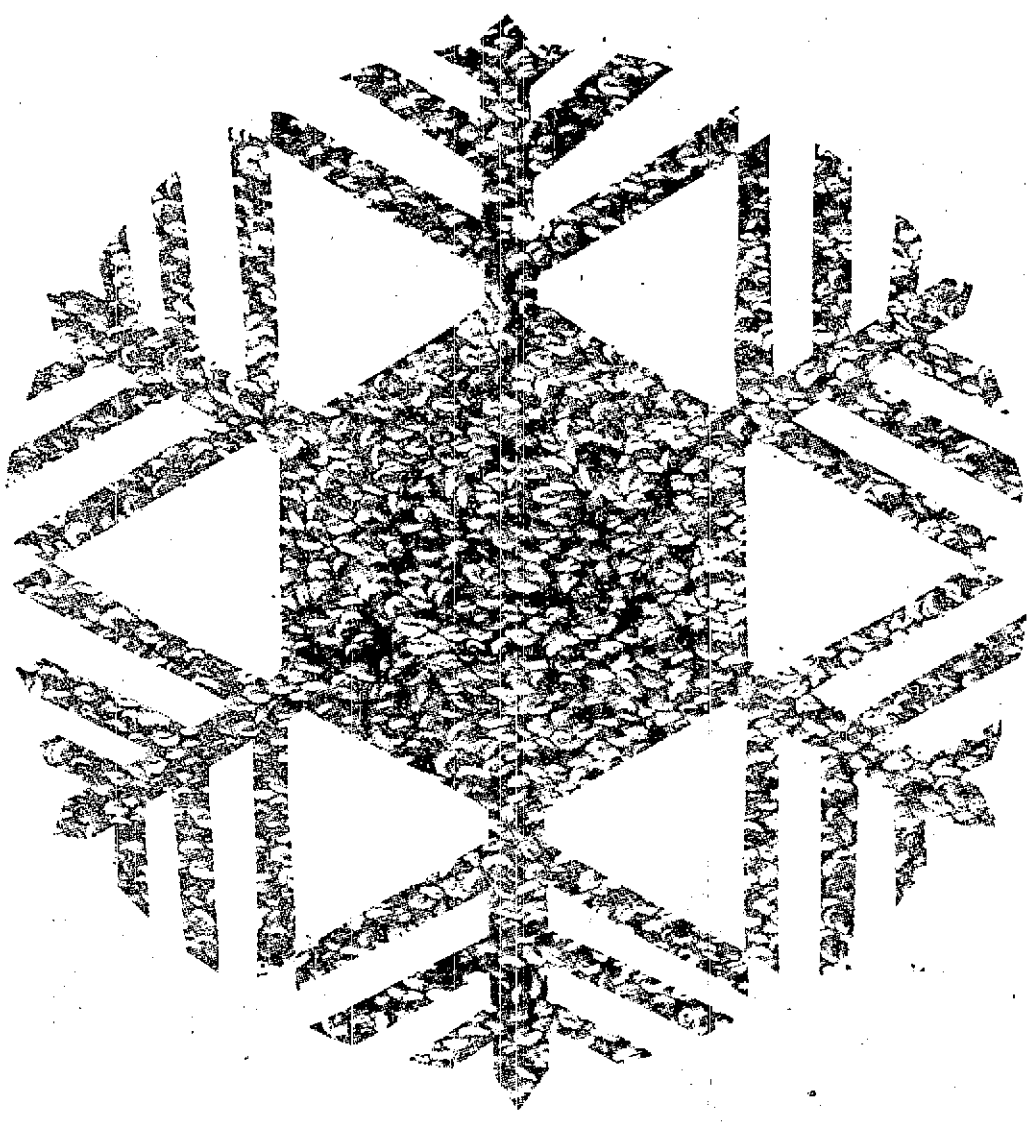

They also foresaw allied unity on the upswing after hitting an all time low when Britain and France invaded Egypt a month ago.

The reasons for their optimism included:

—"definite" diplomatic and military information that the situation in Syria was not as dangerous as at first feared. Syria is receiving small arms from Communist nations but there is no evidence large amounts of heavy weapons have been delivered. There is a feeling here that Moscow, deliberately whipped up the "dangers of imperialist aggression" against Syria to keep the Middle East in ferment.

Reid, former president and board chairman of Hancock Oil Co., bequeathed 10,000 shares of class A common Hancock stock, with a market value of $400,000 to the Boy Scouts. Since Reid's death the gift has accrued 400 more shares and $4,620 in dividens.

The bequest to Camp Fire Girls was 5,000 shares, valued at $200,000, together with accrued dividends of 200 more shares and $2,310.

Ducks Unlimited received 3,000 shares valued at $120,000, together with dividends of 120 shares and $1,386.

REID'S DAUGHTER. Virginia Reid Moore made the distributions in accordance with a court order granted last Monday by Superior Judge Joe Raycraft. The gift to the Camp Fire Girls was made in the name of Mrs. Moore, an active Camp Fire worker in Long Beach.

Judge Lyman B. Sutter, president of the Boy Scout Council, received the gift in their behalf. Judge Sutter noted that Reid maintained an active interest in the Scouts for 35 years, bought and developed the local Scout park which bears his name.

MRS. DONN W. BETTIS, president of the Long Beach Council, Camp Fire Girls, accepted their gift. She expressed her happiness about the bequest saying, "We will try to carry out the wishes of Mr. Reid and feel that this wonderful gift is a living memorial to his name and his generosity. It will go on for generations."

Arthur M. Bartley, executive director of Ducks Unlimited, Inc., in receiving that organization's bequest, paid tribute to Reid as a sportsman and nature lover and as first president of the Ducks Unlimited Foundation. He said the gift would help perpetuate the work of the organization in conserving waterfowl on the North American continent.

A program encouraging more volunteers to promote the Presbyterian faith in foreign lands was launched here Saturday evening.

Details were reported in a speech before the second annual meeting of Presbyterian Men of Southern California at Municipal Auditorium. The speaker, Dr. Louis H. Evans, minister-at-large for the Presbyterian Board of National Missions, said:

"If you're a dentist you can conduct a dental clinic in a mission area that has never had one. If you are an electrical engineer, you could help reconstruct the entire electrical apparatus of a mission hospital.

"If you have nothing to offer in the way of professional skills, there still are many important tasks you could do."

Entitled "World Concern Fellowship," Dr. Evans reported the new plan already has been tested and found to be exceptionally successful.

R. J. WIG
'Churchman of the Year'

R. J. Wig, San Marino, was named "Presbyterian Churchman of the Year" for Southern California.

A consulting engineer and businessman, Wig is a member of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions, vice president of the Foundation of the Presbyterian Church in the United States, and Presbyterian representative from the church-at-large to the National Council of Christ in America.

The meeting ends today with 2 p.m. dedication of the ultra-modern Presbyterian Headquarters Bldg. at 1501 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles.

Baby Burned

Fourteen-month-old Giles Shauna was treated at Seaside Hospital Saturday for first and second degree burns on the right cheek, ear, neck and shoulder. A cup of hot coffee spilled on the child at her home, 902 Magnolia Ave.

350 Leaders Honor Vehicle Dept. Chief

A testimonial dinner honoring Dana J. Bullock, head of the local Department of Motor Vehicles for 20 years, was held in the Petroleum Club Saturday night.

Over 350 civic leaders met to honor Bullock. He was the first civil service appointee to head the local DMV agency.

"In 1936 when I took the job," Bullock recalled, "$30 a day was taken in motor registrations. Now over two million dollars a year is handled."

Representing the city was Police Chief William and Mrs. Dovey, Assistant Division Chief of the Department of Motor Vehicles Lloyd Kemp represented the state.

Also attending the dinner were three of the Bullock's four sons, and one daughter and Mrs. Bullock, C. Standlee Martin represented district automobile dealers.

The Bullocks were driven to the dinner by friends; he doesn't drive after dark.

Bullock will retire Jan. 3. He first became head of the agency Jan. 3, 1936. They live at 817 E. 19th St.

Darrel Cotton of 66 61st Pl., a student at Long Beach City College, was elected district governor of Circle K International, Kiwanis-sponsored student organization meeting in Monterey.

Drunk Driving Suspect Hurts 2

Norma J. Green, 18, of 1831 Magnolia Ave., and Mary Walsh, 56, of 1752 Gardenia Ave., Saturday were treated at Community Hospital for injuries, after their car, driven by Edward Green, 18, of the Magnolia Ave. address collided with one driven by Stephen R. Ware, 35, of 9602 Chanticleer Rd., Anaheim, at Anaheim St., and Gundry Ave. Police booked Ware on suspicion of felony drunk driving.

Firm to Pay L.B. $230,925

General Telephone Co. of California will pay $230,925 in taxes to the city of Long Beach in the 1956-57 tax year, the company announced Saturday.

Total amount paid in all cities and counties served will be $7,195,571, topping the previous year's figure by $1,443,601.

Tax payment to Orange County will be $162,904.

President Edwin M. Blakeslee said the increase in tax payments is indicative of population growth and increased use of telephones in the 126 communities served by General.

LOCAL NEWS BRIEFS

Open House On at L.B. Air Base

Today is the day the public is invited to see how the Air Force is operating its reserve program.

The Long Beach Air Force Base will hold an open house from 1 to 5 p. m. at its 155-acre installation adjacent to the Long Beach Municipal Airport.

Chamber to Seek Members

CODE

The Long Beach Chamber of Commerce will open its annual membership drive Jan. 10, George Radenhausen, president, announced Saturday.

Albert L. Code, manager of the Southern California Edison Co., has been named chairman of the 1957 campaign, which will be known as "Task Force 500."

The chamber's "500 Club" is sponsoring the endeavor.

Extended Service Extended

Extended service customers of the General Telephone Co. had their extended service extended at 12:01 a. m. today, according to C. E. Scott, southern division manager.

Subscribers with HEmlock 2, 5, 6, and 7 prefixes to their numbers are now able to dial all DAvenport, FAirfax and FRontier numbers without calling the operator.

Further extensions of the extended service will go into effect Sunday, Dec. 16, Scott added. Subscribers affected by these conversions will be mailed lists of the additional numbers as they are added to the service.

Club Will Sell Gasoline

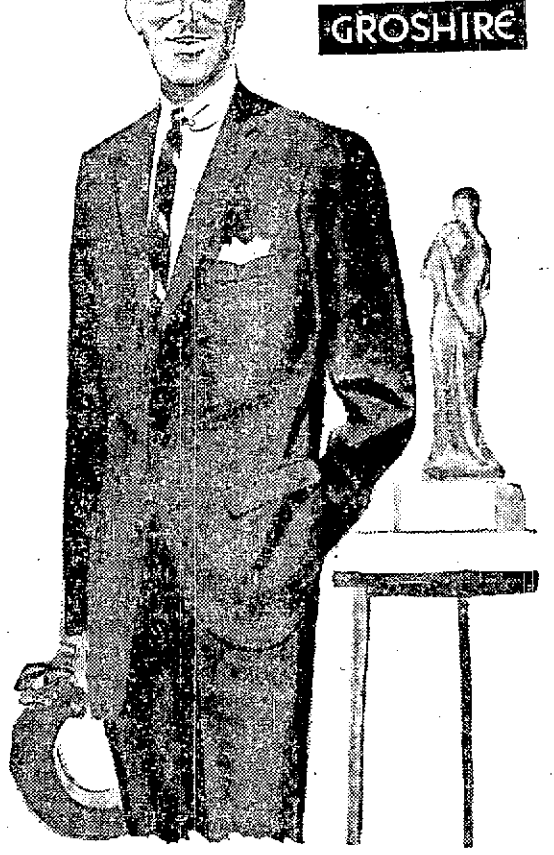

Long Beach City College Newman Club will operate Chuck and Don's Service Station, 61st St. and Atlantic Ave., all day today to raise funds for the club treasury.

About 40 members will work at the station during the day, according to the club president. Ron Horvath, 19, of 418 Smith St. Part of the proceeds will be used in the club's annual charity project, Horvath said.

Democratic Club Will Elect

The Long Beach Democratic Luncheon Club will elect new officers at noon Tuesday at the Wilton Hotel.

Confessed Killer of Four Says He Slew Another

Refuses Details Until 'Someone' Pays Him $1,000

Ex-convict Stephen Nash, confessed slayer of four persons, told police Saturday he also killed a fifth person but refused to divulge details.

Nash, 33-year-old transient truck driver, said he would withhold information until "someone" gives him $1,000 for his "exclusive story."

The victim, he said, was a wealthy young man in San Francisco.

"He was well-to-do and 22 years old," the 6-foot-2, 180-pound suspect told detectives in Los Angeles. "He was in a car that I shoved into the ocean in San Francisco and I don't think they ever found him."

* * * *

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA authorities have no record of an unsolved crime fitting the description of the hitchhiker case. Neither have they been able to find a murder or missing person case which would explain Nash's latest admission.

Nash was arrested Thursday night on Los Angeles' Skid Row with blood encrusted on his hands and on a hunting knife he carried. Police said the blood was that of the Rice boy, found dying from 30 stab wounds on the beach at Santa Monica Thursday.

The tall, gangling psychopath re-enacted for police movie cameras Saturday how he stabbed the boy.

Berg's body was found in his apartment Tuesday, stabbed three times in the chest and abdomen.

Hoodlum Widow Quizzed

CHICAGO (UP)—Police Saturday questioned the mother and widow of Alan "Duke" Holt, 27, slain slot machine hoodlum, in an effort to solve his murder and prevent further gangland killings.

Holt's mother, Mrs. A. Bollen, Chandler, Ariz., arrived here by plane a few minutes after the victim's widow, Connie, arrived from Tampa, Fla.

The two were taken by police to a hotel to await the opening of an inquest into Holt's death in suburban Stickney Thursday night.

Holt was described as a "big time" operator in the business of looting slot machines operated by syndicates in plush resort cities from Florida through Chicago to Las Vegas.

Holt and his companions would loot the machines by using specially-made tools to trip the slots. They would net about $100 a night.

Syndicate leaders were believed responsible for Holt's death. His body, riddled with buckshot, was dumped from a car in front of a newly-constructed home.

Police sought to round up Holt's companions in an effort to prevent other slayings. One of them, Max Gretschel Jr., 27, Forest Park, was taken into protective custody by authorities.

Gretschel said he is "scared to death" that he too is marked for murder. He said both he and Holt had received warnings from the syndicate.

Police said they are on the trail of Eddie Vogel, head of the slot machine syndicate here, and five of his aides.

Danish Troops Widen Canal Peace Zone

U. N. OCCUPIED ZONE, Egypt, (AP) — Danish infantrymen widened their peace zone on the Suez Canal Saturday and set up housekeeping under the blue and white flag of the United Nations.

The flag was hoisted on a 15-foot strip of secondhand lumber to denote occupation by U. N. police of the battle line where a cease-fire order halted the British-French drive just north of Qantara Nov. 7.

* * * *

A COMPANY of 163 blue-helmeted Danes, which relieved British forces west of the canal Friday took over foxholes of a French foreign legion platoon east of the canal Saturday.

The British moved back 400 yards or so and the French a lesser distance.

The Egyptians kept their old front line positions. About a mile of territory, including the U. N. buffer zone, now separates the two armies.

The old battleground of sand and swamp was ringed with U.N. roadblocks to cover a sector 1,000 yards long and about 900 yards wide.

At noon the zone was officially closed to all but U. N. personnel. Even reporters from neutral nations were ordered out if they were uniformed as war correspondents accredited to the British or French armies.

A U. N. detachment of 26 Canadian engineers did some mine sweeping for the Danes along the Egyptian front and come up with three antipersonnel mines described as of Russian manufacture.

"The Egyptians don't seem to know exactly, or are reticent in telling us, where their mines are," said Capt. Norman Henderson, commander of the Canadian detail. "So we're taking no chances."

The British had assured the Danes there were no mines in the no-man's-land adjoining the British positions. The French legionnaires relieved Saturday cleared their own minefields before withdrawing.

The Danish police, commanded by Maj. N. C. Larsen, erected tents and dug entrenchments. Some, off duty, stripped and swam in the canal. Others fished from rowboats.

Sgt. Bredo Gustav, in charge of the front line troops, said "everything has gone smoothly."

Local Polio Chapter Gets $11,350 Grant

The local chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis Saturday received $11,350 from New York headquarters, reports William J. Curry, Long Beach chairman. The money will be used for patient care.

Burglar Uses Key to Get Out of Jail

PRINEVILLE, Ore. (AP)—Police of this central Oregon town said Saturday they were investigating what apparently is the case of a prisoner who left his jail cell at night whenever he wanted to and who finally left for good last month.

The prisoner was identified as Roy Stinehart who was arrested Sept. 1 on a charge of burglary.

On Nov. 4 he was missing from his locked jail cell.

Another prisoner, Troy Hawkins, released from the jail some time ago, was picked up this week and he shed some new light on the affair. Hawkins was quoted as saying that Stinehart had a key to the jail, which is untended at night, and that he went out every night and sometimes brought money with him when he returned before daylight.

Police have reopened the investigation of a number of burglaries that occurred while Stinehart supposedly was in jail.

Police were unable to say how Stinehart might have come into possession of the key.

Higher Farm Pegs Urged

WASHINGTON (UP) — Sen. Milton R. Young Saturday called for a reappraisal of the administration's farm programs and urged higher support levels or a new price support plan for wheat.

The North Dakota Republican, frequent critic of administration farm policies, said in an interview that a new look is needed at the overall effect of present farm programs—"particularly as they affect the farm areas west of the Mississippi."

He said results of last month's election showed dissatisfaction with administration policies in that section. He said both administration and congressional leaders should make separate studies of the picture.

U.S. Navy Vessel Sinks Italy Tug; Crewman Missing

NAPLES, Italy (UP)—The U. S. Navy military transport Alcor rammed and sank an Italian tug which was towing it into port in heavy seas here Saturday night.

One of the tug's five crewmen was missing and feared drowned. The others swam to safety. Authorities said the accident was apparently caused by big waves and high winds.

The Alcor docked safely.

Butler Reveals Demos' Hope of Ruling California

LOS ANGELES (UP)—Paul Butler, Democratic National Committee chairman, said Saturday the Democrats have high hopes of taking over control of California's state government in 1958.

Butler, here to confer with top local Democratic leaders, said his party considers California as "a vital state in our plans."

"Democratic gains in the Senate and Assembly, and picking up two congressional seats make a wonderful opportunity for us to take the state government in 1958," he said.

$100,000 Rockefeller Gift for Hungarians

NEW YORK (UP)—The American Red Cross Saturday announced a $100,000 gift from Mr. and Mrs. John D. Rockefeller Jr. to help Hungarian refugees.

A total of $150,000 for Hungarian relief has been received by the New York Red Cross chapter in the past two days.

Inoculate 50,000 in Detroit

DETROIT (AP) — Students from two more Detroit elementary schools "probably" have diptheria, Dr. Joseph G. Molner, city health commissioner, said Saturday. The latest cases would bring the total to 132 in the city's outbreak, including five deaths.

Meanwhile, city health authorities went on with plans to inoculate 50,000 children in 100 schools before the Christmas holidays. A 16-team task force has been organized for the mass immunization program and Molner asked parents whose children don't live in the afflicted area to have their children inoculated also.

* * * *

THE OUTBREAK is centered in the central portion of the city. Mostly grade-school children have been stricken.

The state health department and state police Friday brought antitoxin from six cities around the state to Lansing where state authorities will hold the serum in case the outbreak reaches epidemic portions.

Molner said Detroit faces a "potential shortage" of the antitoxin.

Champion Steer Sells for $20.50 lb.

CHICAGO (AP)—The doors closed Saturday night on the nine-day International Livestock Exposition, sending 10,050 carefully tended steers, barrows, wethers and other animals back to their farms or to the slaughterhouses.

At least one exception will be the Grand Champion Steer, P. S. Troubadour, which sold for a record $20.50 a pound. He will make a round of guest appearances at fairs and agricultural colleges.

Livestock men were estimated to have collected more than $5,000,000 for the sale of their prize animals. About 391,000 spectators, one of the largest numbers in recent years, came to see the show.

Iowa State College won the intercollegiate meat judging contest for the second straight year. The college thereby won the right to hold the challenge trophy offered by the National Livestock and Meat Board for another year.

Stockmen from 39 states and one Canadian province, Ontario, brought entries in the livestock and horse divisions.

Skin Divers Hunt Body in 32-Deg. Lake

SPENCER, Iowa (AP) — Six skin divers worked Saturday in the near-freezing waters of Lake Okoboji as the search for the body of a young drowning victim went into its 9th day.

A half inch of ice had to be removed in Emerson Bay before the divers could descend. Despite their insulated suits, the 32- to 36-degree water temperature prevented the divers staying down more than a half hour at a time.

Working in pairs, the divers were going as deep as 70 to 80 feet in their search for the body of Wayne Swezey, 16, of Spencer. Swezey and Robert Wyatt, 17, drowned Nov. 23 when their duckboat capsized on the lake. Wyatt's body was recovered the day of the drownings.

* * * *

HUNDREDS OF volunteers, working with seines and grappling hooks. Hundreds of other volunteers were on the beach.

An emergency rescue fund voluntarily subscribed for use in meeting actual expenses of the volunteers has reached $8,500.

Skin divers at work included Carl Lindberg, Alvin Telam, Bob Keagle and Longley Smith, all members of a Minneapolis skin divers' club; Larry Bethe, a member of the Milwaukee Skin Divers' Assn., and Bob Nefcges of Spencer.

Bethe and Matt Jacobchick, also of Milwaukee, initiated the descents Friday.

Arrests Rise, Deaths Drop

CHICAGO (AP) — Crack down on traffic-law violations and you cut down on traffic deaths.

That may sound like a slogan. But it's not. It's a formula distilled from reports from cities and states that have had remarkable reductions in fatalities.

The National Safety Council announced Thursday that motor-vehicle deaths had dropped 12 per cent in October. NSC termed the slump "amazing" because it bucked the normal seasonal trend and broke a rise that had carried through 19 months in a row.

Blood, Sand Drama in Mexican Arena

Accidents Frustrate South Pole Buildup

McMURDO SOUND, Antarctica (AP) — A string of mishaps has temporarily stalled the American buildup at the South Pole.

The latest accident occurred Thursday night. A big U. S. Air Force C124 Globemaster bringing technicians from New Zealand crashed and caught fire at this air base on the Antarctic Coast—the staging area for construction crews building bases at the pole and elsewhere on the ice-covered continent.

* * * *

THE PILOT, Capt. Warren J. Fair of Greenville, S. C., suffered a broken leg and a civilian technician, James R. Farlow of San Bernardino, Calif., injured an ankle. Other crewmen and the remaining 30 passengers escaped injury.

But the three million dollar aircraft was considered a nearly total loss.

There already were two of the 90-ton Globemasters broken down—with landing gears shattered—at the edge of the ice runway. One plane crash-landed only Wednesday on its return from a flight to drop supplies to 29 Navy Seabees at the South Pole. Another crash-landed Oct. 22.

The 16 civilian technicians aboard the latest Globemaster to crash had flown from the United States to try to repair the first damaged craft before McMurdo Sound's ice runway melts away.

Although damage to the first two planes is relatively minor, they must be repaired soon. The 6,000-foot runway now is only 25 miles from the edge of the fast-breaking bay ice. Last January the distance was 50 miles.

Repeated tractor breakdowns here and at the South Pole base also piled on more frustration.

* * * *

WITH THREE CARGO planes and a large number of the base's tractors out of operation, the airlift of equipment to the Seabees building the polar camp ground to a virtual halt.

The Seabees' mission is to put up prefabricated buildings for a party of American scientists who plan to spend the Antarctic winter at the pole, making observations for the International Geophysical Year.

The job must be completed during the short southern hemisphere summer now well under way. There is considerable concern that the airstrip here will melt before it is finished. The ice now averages 14 feet in thickness. Therefore the mishaps that have stalled progress are particularly costly.

THE PLANE that crashed Thursday night was the State of Oregon—the first Globemaster ever to fly over the South Pole. It was named for the home state of Air Force Maj. Gen. Chester E. McCarty, who piloted it on the Polar flight Oct. 26.

Fair and Farlow were injured sliding down escape ropes after the right inboard engine caught fire. The fire was put out by crews wearing asbestos suits, but inspection showed that the main frames of the 173-foot wing were damaged beyond repair.

States End Parley on Road Law

RENO (AP)—About fifty legislators and highway officers of 11 western states Saturday closed their two-day discussion of a mass of details aimed at unifying automobile driving regulations.

Elton K. McQuery of San Francisco, representative of the Council of State Governments, said the same subcommittee on legislative problems of highway operations will meet again in San Francisco Jan. 12-13.

* * * *

DISCUSSION at the meeting here revolved around proposed changes in articles of the uniform vehicle code, formed by the National Committee on Uniform Ordinances and Regulations.

The changes centered around proposed improvements to such regulations as the distance to begin stopping before an intersection.

* * * *

SUBCOMMITTEE members are scheduled to discuss the proposed changes with officials in their respective states and return with recommendations at the San Francisco conference.

The conclusions reached after the conference will be presented the legislatures of the western states.

Deer Hunter Admits Guilt in Robbery

PROVO (UP)—Elliott King, 20, Salt Lake City, has pleaded "guilty" on charges of robbing a California couple in Spanish Fork Canyon.

The plea was made in Fourth District Court where King was arraigned before Judge Leroy Tuckett. Tuckett will sentence King Dec. 14.

King held the California couple, Mr. and Mrs. D. Wayne Cox of Hayward, Calif., at gunpoint while he took approximately $300.

The Californians were driving in Diamond Fork Canyon near Thistle when they stopped on the narrow road for an oncoming car. Four deer hunters got out of the other car, and one of them, King, pointed his deer rifle at Mr. and Mrs. Cox and told them he wanted their money.

King was apprehended Nov. 22 in Las Vegas, Nev.

Phone Co. Parleying Continues

NEW YORK (UP)—Union and company negotiators, working night and day to prevent a nationwide strike of long-distance operators exchanged ideas Saturday about new contract proposals for 25,000 telephone company employes in 42 states.

A spokesman for the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. said management and negotiators for the AFL-CIO Communications Workers of America exchanged new proposals at a joint bargaining session Friday night.

Each side considered the other's revised demands in separate meetings Saturday morning and Saturday afternoon, and exchanged information about them. There was no joint meeting, however.

* * * *

NEITHER SIDE would disclose the nature of its stand in the marathon negotiating session, which has continued despite a strike deadline set for midnight last Wednesday.

Involved in the dispute are 25,000 long-distance operators, maintenance workers and other AT & T employes in 42 states and the District of Columbia. The states not involved are Delaware, Montana, Nevada, New Hampshire, Oregon and Vermont.

Long-distance operators now receive $40 to $67 a week. Maintenance workers are paid $41 to $114.

Forethought Saves Pair From Pit

REDDING (UP)—Two young Berkeley men were trapped in a cave pit for about 50 hours—then rescued because of a note.

Reginald Bjornstad, 22, University of California anthropology student, and Gerald L. Adamson, 21, were saved by a six-man search party.

Adamson suffered a skinned leg and sprained ankle.

He and Bjornstad discovered a cave near Shasta Lake Tuesday while exploring the area, and told U. S. Forest Ranger Spencer Ward they were going to inspect it.

They entered the cave late Wednesday and found a pit 90 feet deep. They used a knotted rope to descend and for hours picked up bones, fossils and pieces of rock formations.

Adamson then started to climb the rope, was too exhausted and tumbled to the bottom. He and Bjornstad each had two candy bars and a box of raisins.

Ranger Ward passed by the cave Friday and saw a note the men had left, saying they were inside. He promptly organized the search party.

Painter Slays Two, Self in Fit of Rage

ANDOVER, Kan. (AP) — A house painter, enraged because he had lost custody of his three children, shot and killed his estranged wife and a neighbor woman, shot at and missed another man, then fatally shot himself as officers pursued his speeding automobile Saturday.

Officers said Earl Parsons, 30, brought his children to the sheriff's office in nearby El Dorado and protested a court order restraining him from molesting his wife, Marcia, 22, and the children. He was told to return the children to their mother and go into court if he wished to get the order changed.

Several hours later, Parsons came to the family home here and shot twice at Claude James, a neighbor, but missed. Then Parsons shot his wife to death inside the house. James' wife, Geneva, 33, who was visiting with Mrs. Parsons, was shot and killed as she ran outside.

Parsons fled in his car and police broadcast an alarm for his capture. Police at Winfield, 30 miles south, pursued his car as it sped through the city then ran off the road and crashed.

Officers who pulled him from the wreckage said he had shot himself twice near the heart. A .22-caliber revolver was found in the car. He died in a hospital an hour later.

Body Found in River

GRANTS PASS, Ore. (AP)—The body of William Stanford Larch, 23-year-old Southwest Airlines employe from Arcata, Calif., was recovered from the Rogue River near here Saturday.

His car was hauled from the river beside the Pacific Highway Friday.

10 Slain in Cuba Violence

SANTIAGO, Cuba (UP) — Troops and police battled rebel snipers firing from downtown buildings Saturday and fought other skirmishes in the city's outskirts in the second day of outbreaks against the government of President Fulgencio Batista.

At least 10 persons are believed to have been killed and more than 30 wounded in the two-day violence.

Nearly 500 persons were reported under arrest in various parts of Cuba, including more than 40 active rebels and some 400 known opponents of Batista.

* * * *

SNIPERS IN HALF a dozen buildings in central Santiago fired on troops and police and took potshots at patroling planes. Fairly heavy firing was heard at various points in the city, but there was no sign of a concerted attack.

Saturday's fighting seemed to be on a smaller scale than the outbreak Friday in which most attacks were carried out by squads of six to eight rebels.

Some sources speculated that the rebels, dispairing of overthrowing Batista by direct attack, hoped to create a general panic that would force him out of power.

Others believed the scattered, small-scale attacks were intended to create disorder as the prelude to the landing of an "invasion fleet" manned by leftwing refugees from Cuba and other Latin American countries.

Mexican reports that some 4,000 refugees who had been living in Mexico City have dropped out of sight in the past week stimulated the latter belief, although officials here scoffed at the theory.

Town's Protector Involved in Triangle

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Residents of the suburban Orangevale area complained Saturday of inadequate police protection after the area's resident deputy resigned in the wake of an investigation into the shooting of his next door neighbor.

The neighbor, John Buck, was shot in the ankle while struggling with his daughter-in-law, Nina L. Buck, 20, for the possesion of a pistol Thursday night.

Sheriff Don Cox said Deputy Harold McCune resigned Saturday after the girl told officers the shooting resulted from a quarrel with her mother-in-law and that the quarrel involved McCune.

Dep. Dist. Atty. Kenneth M. Wells said Mrs. Buck told him the mother-in-law had accused her of dating McCune while her husband was on military duty overseas.

Informed of McCune's resignation, the Orangevale Chamber of Commerce adopted a resolution calling on the Sacramento County Board of Supervisors for "immediate steps to provide a resident deputy who will be more diligent in the pursuit of his duties." The resolution also complained that protection afforded by the sheriff's office is inadequate.

McCune, Orangevale resident deputy since 1954, refused comment.

Boy, 11, Dies Rather Than Peril Brother

HOFFMAN, Minn. (UP) — An heroic 11-year-old boy drowned in icy Red Rock Lake near here Saturday rather than endanger his younger brother in a rescue attempt.

Siebelt Saarthoff fell through the ice into eight feet of water while sledding with his brothers, Darryl, 10, and Roger, 9.

Authorities said Darryl offered to pull Siebelt out with a sled, but Siebelt, clinging to the edge of the ice, refused. He said he was afraid he would pull Darryl into the water with him.

A few minutes later Siebelt's fingers slipped from the ice and he drowned.

Marine Held in Student's Strangling

WASHINGTON (UP)—Jim B. Edmonds, 19-year-old AWOL Marine private from Albany, Ga., was charged with homicide Saturday in the strangulation of a 33-year-old college student.

Police said Edmonds confessed strangling the student, George P. Le Febvre, in his apartment here two weeks ago. Le Febvre's body was found last Tuesday, clad only in underwear and with a pink pillowslip twisted around the neck. A 14-inch oil painting of a nude woman was propped near his feet.

Edmonds was picked up Tuesday in Albany after suffering minor injuries when he overturned Le Febvre's 1955 automobile on a highway outside the city. He was returned here by plane Saturday.

* * * *

HOMICIDE detectives said Edmonds, who was absent without leave from his Marine post here, told them he killed Le-Febvre because the student made "improper advances" after inviting him to his apartment for a cup of coffee.

They quoted Edmonds as saying he wrecked Le Febvre's car deliberately in an attempt to kill himself because the slaying was preying on his mind.

Police said Edmonds' fingerprints, taken earlier this month when he was charged with assault on a policeman, matched some found in Le Febvre's apartment.

Overheated Stove Causes Child's Death

FRESNO (AP) — Three-month-old Karen Lin French burned to death Saturday despite efforts of her mother and a neighbor to rescue her from a blazing cabin.

Officials of the Mid-Valley Fire District said the fire, caused by an overheated wood stove, broke out while Mrs. Verdi French, 35, was at a store near the cabin, but the flames already engulfed it.

AF Plane Drops Iron Lung at Sea, Aids Man on Ship

HONOLULU (AP)—A chest type "iron lung" respirator was dropped to a military transport ship by plane far at sea Saturday for a critically ill passenger.

A C54 Rescuemaster plane from Hickam Field flew the respirator to the Gen. H. J. Gaffey 850 miles northeast of Honolulu.

The transport, en route from the Orient to San Francisco, radioed a passenger had "acute encephalitis."

The patient's name was not disclosed, but a doctor aboard the Gaffey later said the man was "doing all right."

The plane had to circle the transport for some time because the sea was too rough for a small boat to pick up two water-tight steel barrels containing the respirator.

Transocean Canoeist Refuses Food

HALIFAX, N. S. (AP)—A Dutch sea captain said Saturday that a German attempting to cross the Atlantic in a 12-foot sailing canoe had turned down his offer of food.

Capt. H. G. Van Broekhuisen, master of the 12,000-ton Elitar, a combined passenger-cargo ship, said the canoe with Hans Lendiman aboard was 1,200 nautical miles from land when he saw it.

"We asked Lendiman if he wanted food, but he said he didn't need a thing. He told us he had left Las Palmas (in the Canary Islands) 35 days ago and was aiming for St. Thomas in the Virgin Islands.

"I figured it would take him at least another 45 days to make his destination," the captain said.

Capt. Broekhuisen said they could see only the man's head and part of his shoulders because the canoe was closed in like a kayak.

'Bomb Shelter' Jumping With Bulldozer's Bumps and Grinds

'Take-It-Off' Crew to Open Another Show

By BRYAN HODGSON

A sad wind blows through the burlesque hall, and the ghosts of the girls are cold today as they haunt the cluttered ruins of the Bomb Shelter.

Once a bawdy bistro of bump-and-grind, the barn-like night club at Lakewood Blvd. and Spring St. will be torn down soon to make way for extension of the main runway at Long Beach municipal airport.

* * * *

BUT THE OFFICIAL wrecking crews will find much of their work already done. The mysterious decay which crumbles all abandoned buildings has set in, aided by vandals who have shattered the walls and windows, scattered the furniture and carpeted the floor with broken bottles.

The gaudy ladies have gone, and the polished wit of vanished comedians seems to raise an ironic echo in the silent shambles.

* * * *

SOON, A GROUP of businesslike men will open in a new "take-it-off" show on the ground where the Bomb Shelter stands.

They'll be the pilots of the new DC8 jetliners, which will roll from the assembly lines at Douglas Aircraft Co.

And though the stars of this show may lack some of the equipment boasted by the buxom Bomb Shelter beauties, there's one consolation:

The new show is booked solid for years to come.

ONCE THE HEADQUARTERS of burlesque cuties, the "Bomb Shelter" at Spring and Lakewood has been doomed by Municipal Airport construction. Isolated and vandalized, the structure rocks with clatter of bulldozers.

Association Sets $5,000 Book Awards

The American Library Association will make awards totaling $30,000 to authors of books published in the United States in 1956 and 1957 which make "distinguished contributions to the American tradition of liberty and justice," according to City Librarian Edwin Castagna.

Awards of $5,000 each will be made to authors of books in three categories: contemporary problems and affairs (non-fiction); history and biography (non-fiction), and imaginative literature (fiction, poetry or published drama). Publishers of award-winning books will receive citations.

Separate juries of three persons each, prominent in each of the three fields of work represented by the categories, will select the award winners. Anyone may suggest works to be considered by the judges. Details will be available soon in libraries.

Hearing on Closing of 6th Pl. Tuesday

A City Council move to close 6th Pl. to make way for a 140-unit apartment building is scheduled for hearing at 11 a.m. Tuesday, but the proposal is expected to be abandoned at the request of one of its originators.

Edward S. Milkes, 196 Ximeno Ave., owner of two lots adjacent to the dead-end street, formally has withdrawn his application in a letter to City Clerk Margaret Heartwell.

Milkes was associated with Ajax Construction Co. and others in asking that the street be vacated to provide a portion of the site for the multi-million-dollar structure.

* * * *

HOWEVER, Atty. Samuel Lackman said he will be present in the Council chamber anyway to present the protest of 150 property owners and residents in the area, if needed.

Lackman has spoken against the project on previous occasions, arguing it will obstruct the view, prevent access to the beach and constitute a precedent for abandonment of other streets south of Ocean Blvd.

The proposal has been endorsed by the Planning Commission, but when Council members ordered the hearing they made it clear they had not decided for or against the project.

10-Year Pay for Disability $54 Million

State disability insurance benefits totaling $54,617,040 have been paid wage earners in the Long Beach area and Orange County during 10 years.

The figure was reported Saturday by V. L. Hetzel, manager of the Long Beach District Disability office of the State Department of Employment.

The total, comprising 17 per cent of the state's outlay of $315,000,000, included $5,305,776 in hospital benefits paid since Jan. 1, 1950. The latter sum covered approximately 579,748 days of hospitalization.

* * * *

BENEFITS PAID by the local office represented partial compensation for loss of wages resulting from 189,545 periods of disability covering more than 1,325,408 weeks of enforced absence from work. The benefits covered non-occupational illness or injury.

The disability insurance program, paid for by employes through a 1 per cent tax on wages, began in the first week of December 1946. The maximum weekly benefit today is $40 as compared with $25 at the program's start. Hospital benefits are $10 a day, not exceeding 12 days.

RANDOM NOTES FROM EUROPE

Unhappy Over Gas Rationing

By MARIE W. AND WALTER T. RIDDER
(I. P.-T. Washington Bureau)

The Europeans are mighty unhappy over the sudden resumption of gas and oil rationing. Most of the countries comparatively recently had abandoned such wartime measures and to be faced with the whole performance over again was a bitter blow to the populations. Along with the rationing, brought about by the Suez crisis, other reminders of the war and immediate postwar period crept out of the woodwork. In England, for instance, no sooner had rationing been announced than its unsavory companion "the spiv" made his reappearance, selling his under-the-counter gas coupons. Then again, department and food stores reported a run on certain commodities—tinned foods, stockings, clothing—which were in perennial short supply during the war. Throughout Europe the people have the uneasy feeling they have been through all this before and are fearful what may yet come.

* * * *

A LOT OF name-changing seems to be in order in certain parts of East Berlin. The showcase of that Communist sector is a long esplanade of shops, restaurants and apartment buildings lumped together under the once imposing name of Stalin Allee. The recent post-mortality difficulties which Stalin has been experiencing has prompted the good people of the East Zone formally to request their government to change the name back to its original version, Frankfurter Strasse. The reigning fathers of the East Zone have the matter under consideration, but in view of Mr. Molotov's recent apparent comeback in Russia, they may well hesitate a little longer before changing the name. A bust of Stalin is displayed prominently along the Allee and naturally enough the populace has asked that it be removed. The authorities have acquiesced by announcing the space taken up by the bust is needed for a new hotel. The two ritziest and most expensive restaurants along Stalin Allee are called the Budapest and the Warsaw. In view of recent events in Poland and Hungary it is probable that the populace will demand their names be changed too. All of which proves that when you're living in a Communist country there's more in a name than Shakespeare thought.

* * * *

THE YOUTH of East Germany are giving their elders a hard time. Students in East German universities recently circulated a pamphlet making certain demands, among them more military training. In explanation of that demand, the students added in fine print: "It worked so well in Hungary."

One youthful East German girl student still has the authorities wondering whether she was sincere or pulling their legs. At one of the discussion groups so beloved by the Communists, this young girl arose and asked plaintively: "What's happened to Comrade Stalin? For years I was told he was the hero of our times and his name is engraven on my heart. Now I no longer hear anything about him. What happened?" The best authorities could do was to suggest that "Poppa knows best" and that she should not go around asking silly questions.

'Lean Division' Postpones Diet of Its Santa

WACKERNHEIM, Germany (UP)—The U. S. Army has permitted a 240-pound lieutenant to postpone his reducing diet until after Christmas so he can be an authentic Santa Claus.

Ex-football player Lt. Charles Knepper, of St. Louis, Mo., had been peeling off pounds under doctors' orders to fit in with the 2nd Armored Division's reputation as a "lean, mean division."

But after Knepper was chosen to play Santa Claus for German orphans at his unit's Christmas Party, the celebration's organizers began to worry. They felt his dieting was progressing too fast. They feared the kids would see a lean gaunt Santa, or that Knepper would have to be padded with pillows.

Lt. Col. Joseph R. Meacham, of Logan, Utah, commander of the 94th AAA Battalion, agreed to call a diet truce until after Christmas. He told battalion surgeon Capt. Oliver P. Campbell, of Colorado Springs, Colo., to relax his vigilnce over Knepper.

"I remember how I felt the first time I found out Santa needed help to fill out his costume," Meacham said. "Let the kids have a good party."

Knepper is determined to slim down after the holidays. He traces his ballooning poundage to a summer job in a St. Louis brewery.

"It sort of got out of hand," he said. "I was about 260 a few months ago, but I'm down to around 240 now. I don't dare go much lower before Christmas, or a lot of kids are going to ask their parents embarrasing questions about why Santa is so scrawny."

Whose Century?

IN A DYSPEPTIC and cynical column elsewhere on this page today, Ed Creagh of the Associated Press tells the 20th Century that it is headed for the hot place in a basket. This may become known as the Elvis Presley century, he laments—"whiny, sneering, trembly in the legs," reeking of sex rather than romance, idiotically figuring out bigger and better ways to blow itself to pieces, lacking taste, full of hate, fearful, aimless, and paranoiac.

It looks to us as if Ed was feeling sore at Presley because of those sideburns, got to thinking of all the other things that make him sore, and batted his frustration out on the typewriter.

OTHERWISE, Ed surely wouldn't have overlooked so many of the people and events which should make us proud of this century. Elvis Presley may be whiny, sneering, and trembly in the legs, and he may symbolize a fragment of the 20th Century. But before we start deciding it's Presley's century, let's remember that it's also the century of many courageous, inventive, and adventuresome people and some great guideposts in human history. They'll stand high long after people are scratching their heads and trying to remember what Rock 'n' Roll was.

THIS IS THE CENTURY of Albert Einstein, who expanded the limits of the universe. . . . Orville Wright, who kept his legs under control in the first successful flight in a heavier-than-air, mechanically propelled airplane. . . . Henry Clay Folger, founder of a library containing the largest collection of Shakespeariana in the world. . . . Kendall the discoverer of cortisone; Banting, Best, and MacLeod, discoverers of insulin; Alexander Fleming, discoverer of penicillin, and Jonas E. Salk, maker of a vaccine against dread polio. . . . Henry Ford, the man who revolutionized industry. . . . Earl Warren, author of the school desegregation decision, a milestone in human justice. . . . And Mahatma Gandhi, who set in motion the ending of colonialism.

IT IS THE CENTURY of Frances Alda, Sherwood Anderson, George Arliss. . . . The Barrymores, Arnold Bennett, William Jennings Bryan, Buffalo Bill, and Richard Byrd. . . . Enrico Caruso, Winston Churchill, Samuel Clemens, Marie Curie. . . . Alexander de Seversky, Bernard De Voto, Will Durant. . . . George Eastman, Dwight Eisenhower, and Eleanor. . . . William Faulkner, Kirsten Flagstad, Father Flanagan, and Glenn Frank. . . . John Galsworthy, James Garfield, and Carter Glass. . . . Oscar Hammerstein, William Randolph Hearst, and Cordell Hull. . . . Ickes. . . . Jerome Kern, Rudyard Kipling, and Fritz Kreisler. . . . Fiorello La Guardia, Charles Laughton, Sinclair Lewis. . . . Douglas MacArthur, George Catlett Marshall. . . . Eugene O'Neill. . . . Ivan Pavlov, Marcel Proust. . . . Elmer Rice, Jacob Riis, Will Rogers, and Rockefeller. . . . William Saroyan, Upton Sinclair. . . . Robert Taft, Lawrence Tibbett, and Arnold Toynbee. . . . Carl Van Doren, Thorstein Veblen. . . . Skinny Wainwright, Hugo Walpole, Edith Wharton. . . . William Butler Yeats, Sergeant York, and Count Ferdinand von Zeppelin. . . .

WHOSE CENTURY DID YOU SAY it was, Ed?

ED CREAGH

Will This Be Known as Elvis Presley Century?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Maybe this will become known as the Elvis Presley century.

It's whiny, sneering, trembly in the legs and it makes a lot of money.

It reeks of sex instead of romance, but it runs like a hare from serious commitments.

Maybe, like the groaning post-adolescent from Mississippi, the 20th Century is more a fad than a reality. Maybe we'll get over it by the year 2000, which is no encouragement to those of us who don't expect to be around that long.

We don't have, as the post World War I days had, a lost generation.

We've lost a whole century.

We split the atom and opened the door to power and riches undreamed of. Instead we used this new tool to blast two cities level with the earth and raced on, idiot fashion, finding bigger and better ways to blow ourselves to pieces.

We invented radio and used it, for the most part, to broadcast either syrupy nonsense or hate propaganda.

"Love Me Tender . . . " That's a key word: tender. Not too hard or it might hurt. Love is dangerous, anyway; people might take advantage of you.

Besides, get too intense and you wind up on a psychiatrist's couch. It's simpler to hate. Or at least to sneer.

"Don't Be Cruel . . ."

That's another Presley tune. No, don't be cruel. Why are people so mean to us when we're so nice to everybody? Nobody understands us. Everybody hates us.

"Heart break Hotel . . ."

Presley again. And that's us. Sitting in our lonely rooms, biting our fingernails, waiting for the bomb to go off, lamenting the warm comfort (or so it says here) of centuries past.

* * * *

HISTORY MAY SAY that this sideburned youth who wiggles his hips while singing popular songs was a symbol of this time—that this century does a lot of wiggling and squirming without ever getting anywhere.

ELVIS PRESLEY
Whiny and Trembly

But let's not be too hard on Mr. Presley. Doubtless he does the best he can, and nobody should interfere with his right to do it.

But when the American people shell out over a million dollars a year to watch him do it—

Well, leave it at that. Maybe this is an Elvis Presley century.

Finally Getting Wise?

JOHN S. KNIGHT

France, Britain Caught With Hands in Jampot, Try to Put the Blame on Ike

OF THE GREAT POWERS, only the United States has consistently been guided in the current crisis by the principles and purposes of the United Nations as set forth so eloquently in 1945 at San Francisco.

Why then, one may ask, is the U. S. being subjected to such torrents of abuse from our European allies?

Why did the British press, prior to a sudden change of tone last Thursday when the U.S. warned Russia to leave the Baghdad powers alone, speak contemptuously of President Eisenhower as a man who "doesn't know what he is doing"?

KNIGHT

Why have more than 100 Tory members of Parliament scolded the United States for "gravely endangering the Atlantic alliance?"

Why are the French saying that the U. S. has failed them by not coming to France's aid during the oil crisis?

Why does Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban challenge the U. N. by saying that its course in the Middle East "will have the effect, if not the intent, of permitting the revival of the Nasser dictatorship in Egypt?"

* * * *

THE OBJECTIVE observer, it seems to me, must conclude that these words of anger are in reality expressions of guilt.

Great Britain and France, long accustomed to Uncle Sam's coddling, are now reaping the consequences of an unprofitable adventure. They have been caught with their hands in the international jampot.

And, like small children, they seek to place the blame elsewhere.

"Ike Cold-Shoulders Britain," screams a headline from the usually pro-American London Express. "Eisenhower, Friend or Foe?" shouts the London Evening News. The Sunday Times warns that "the anti-British policies of Eisenhower and his Secretary of State . . . are leading to a rapid and dangerous rise of anti-American feeling in Britain."

* * * *

THIS HYSTERICAL nonsense is a far cry from the war days when the British press was sometimes candid enough to admit that Ike had saved their hides.

I think it is only fair to say that the British and French had reason to complain about Secretary Dulles' uncertain handling of the Middle East crisis.

But was this sufficient provocation for their blundering folly in Egypt? Where we consulted before they placed what they considered to be their national welfare above and beyond the integrity of a member U. N. nation?

President Eisenhower, who, I am sure, is standing up well under the British tirades, had only two choices when Great Britain and France joined the invasion of Egypt triggered by Israel.

He could either have given tacit approval to their acts, or resisted aggression, as he did, through the United Nations. Had he sided with our European allies, condoning their aggression, on what moral grounds could he then condemn Soviet aggression?

Should we have one rule for our friends, and another for our enemies?

* * * *

THE UNITED STATES, by supporting the basic principles of the United Nations rather than the ill-considered actions of its two strongest allies, had taken both a sound poistion and one consistent with the ideals we cherish.

Should the United Nations ever perish, the blood will not be on our hands.

Irked as we may be by the criticism from abroad, the task ahead is not only to resolve the present crisis but to forge a basic settlement between Israel and Egypt.

* * * *

IF THE UNITED Nations, with support from the United States and other countries, can negotiate a permanent solution and then be prepared militarily to back it up, the U. N. will have come a long way from the days when it was scornfully described as "that debating society on the East River."

DAVID LAWRENCE

U. S. on Nobody's Side Except That of Justice

WASHINGTON—This is a time to keep things in perspective. It is not a time for recriminations. The outburst of anti-American feeling in the British and French press is understandable. Nobody likes oil rationing.

It wasn't the American government which blocked the Suez Canal or blew up the pipelines in Syria. These were the consequences when national passions were aroused.

LAWRENCE

The problem now is how to cool things down — not how to inflame them more. The British editorials which point to the "disruption" of the western alliance—and the angry expressions of some of the conservatives in the British Parliament who think America is not cooperating in getting oil to Europe, but is chastising the British and French for their use of force—will not help move things toward a solution.

If there is to be a postmortem on mistakes and errors of policy in the last few years Americans could refer back to the British restraint which stopped the United Nations armies from using maximum military power in Korea and securing a victory there. Yet one of the London editorials proudly claims now that Britain "backed America to the hilt in Korea."

America is not the only country where there is grave concern about the Suez area. Canada, too, is having its internal debate on the subject. Lester Pearson, Foreign Minister at Ottawa, says the whole British Commonwealth came near "dissolution" a fortnight or so ago. He asserts boldly that Canada will not be tied up either to Britain or to the United States in shaping policy.

* * * *

CLEARLY ANY tendencies to "go it alone" are ominous. Even when the United States endeavors now to strengthen the United Nations — trying not to throw her influence to any side but merely pleading for a course that can lead to a peaceful settlement — the brickbats come just the same.

The demands for America to side with Britain and France and forget everything else that has happened will only add to the complications. London and Paris should know that American hearts are close to the British and French people no matter what the issues or the criticisms. President Eisenhower tried to express just that thought in his brief statement from Augusta on Tuesday.

But when all is said and done, a realistic course has to be followed by the United States. A policy has to be shaped to fit the changing circumstances of a troubled world. It will not avail to have the United States play the part of a leader who tries to boss the show and tell other nations what to do.

America is not on anybody's side except the side of justice. The questions that have inflamed the world in recent days are susceptible of solution if there's a return to considerations of moral law in the world.

Calif. Delegates Preferred Humphrey, Gave Him Zero

CALIFORNIA'S DELEGATES to the Democratic National Convention last August stated their choice for the Vice Presidential nomination, locked the ballots up in a steel box, and delivered the box to Adlai Stevenson after his nomination for the Presidency. When the roll call of the states took place, California's delegation cast its lot with Estes Kefauver for the Vice Presidency. But now the results of the vote locked up in the steel box can be told. Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, rather than Sen. Estes Kefauver, was the delegation's original preference.

The California delegation's activity regarding the selection of a Vice Presidential candidate was one of the most interesting episodes of the convention.

THE HERETOFORE MISSING details are made public by Dave Selcer, a Long Beach Democratic leader, who launched the nationwide, preconvention campaign in Sen. Humphrey's behalf. Selcer reports that he recently received the following account from a person who was prominent in the Southern California Stevenson-Kefauver Campaign Committee:

"Early in the convention, a number of California delegates thought that they should see to it that California was not left waiting in the lurch when the Vice Presidential candidate was chosen. Their original plan was to have a preference poll taken among the California delegates as to their choice of the Vice President and release this prior to the time that the President had been nominated in order that their delegation would have effect on the selection of the Vice President.

"Cooler heads prevailed, however, and it was pointed out that such a poll could embarrass the Presidential nominee since in the past it has always been understood that he will have a final say in the selection of the Vice President.

SEN. HUMPHREY
The Potatoes Jolted Down

"A new plan was adopted by which a secret ballot would be taken and the ballots themselves locked in a steel box and delivered to the Presidential nominee immediately after his nomination. This way only he would know results of the California poll and could be guided. When the poll was taken, it was felt by those present that Estes Kefauver would probably get the most votes, and due to the interest and admiration of a number of the California delegation for Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, he would come in second.

* * * *

"EACH DELEGATE WAS HANDED a ballot and asked to write in the name of his first, second and third preference for the Vice Presidential candidate. These names were placed in a locked box, as arranged, and brought to Adlai Stevenson headquarters. The results of this poll were naturally kept until this time in order to save any embarrassment to the nominees of the Democratic party. However, the results of this poll can now be announced.

"The California delegates' first choice was as follows: Sen. Hubert Humphrey, 51; Sen. Estes Kefauver, 46; Atty. Gen. Pat Brown, 11; Sen. John Kennedy, 8; and the rest scattered among other nominees.

"The second choice tally was as follows: Sen. Humphrey, 52; Sen. Kefauver, 38; and the rest divided between Kennedy, Brown and the other nominees . . . "

By the rule of preferential voting, Humphrey was the choice.

We checked the steel box story with a delegate who had been present at Chicago. He confirmed its existence, said it had been his impression that Humphrey was favored, but noted that the ballots had been put in the box quite early in the convention when Sen. Humphrey was the most prominent Democratic Vice Presidential prospect. Stevenson had given him a strong boost by calling him the best-qualified.

* * * *

BUT BY FRIDAY, AUG. 17, the potatoes had jolted down in the sack. When the first ballot roll call came, California, whose 136 delegates had ½ vote each, gave Kefauver 33, Humphrey 23½, Kennedy 10½, and others 1. On the second ballot, California gave Kefauver 37½, Humphrey 5, Kennedy 25, and others ½. California refused to be stampeded to Kennedy and on the third ballot gave Kefauver 50, Kennedy 18, and Humphrey zero.

* * * *

THUS WE HAVE A PICTURE of the way the sands shift in a political convention. A delegate may go in with his mind made up on a certain line of action, but the swift-moving events which make some candidates and break others cause him to do things he had not anticipated. He likes Humphrey but votes for Kefauver or Kennedy in an "open" convention.

TO THE EDITOR:

Your editorial about Garald Lagard (Sunday, Nov. 25) was wonderful. It inspired admiration for the subject and for the writer. Weed Abatement Project Noted

TO THE EDITOR:

I would sure like to know why the Weed Abatement Control does not do anything whatsoever in making or compelling the Pacific Electric to clear their right of way from Artesia, up to the Coyote Creek.

The weeds, grass and young trees along this line is about the worst fire hazard any community could have. One match thrown anywhere along this track would destroy any number of homes, barns, etc.

Is it that the Weed Abatement Control is afraid to compel or order the railroad to clear its property?

* * * *

FOR SOME 20 years here in Artesia district the Weed Abatement Control has constantly year after year charged me from $3 to $12 for cleaning my lots; that is, when they thought that the lots were not clean enough from weeds when the weeds were only a foot or so high. However, the weeds right here on the Bloomfield P. E. crossing are from 10 to 12 feet high, and still not a thing has been done about it. It is not only the fire hazard but in the next few weeks or so the rains will be coming down and then the water will not be able to flow down the drain ditches along the P. E. right of way, which empties into the Coyote Creek. Consequently, the water will back up on our property and we will have, as usual, water standing from 2 to 6 feet on our property along the railroad.

Now, please, Mr. Weed Abatement Control, see to it that something is done about it and soon.

Wants to Put Russ Out of U. N.

TO THE EDITOR:

Now is the psychological moment for America and the U. N. to regain the respect and confidence of the entire world and prove that we unequivocally stand for freedom and that we intend to protect it with our very blood if all other pressures prove of no avail.

The first step should be the immediate expulsion of Russia from the U. N. From its very beginning she has strangled all efforts made for the benefit of the free world.

Gov. Lausche in Key Spot to Change Senate Rule

WASHINGTON—Senator-elect Frank Lausche, who set the unique record of being five times Governor of normally Republican Ohio, though a Democrat, could do a unique job in the U. S. Senate.

Lausche first indicated he might line up with Republicans in organizing the Senate; though he has now ducked a showdown by postponing arrival in Washington until after the Senate is organized.

What he could do is to get to Washington on time then make a deal to back whichever party agreed to abolish Senate seniority in appointing committee chairmen.

PEARSON

This antiquated system of picking the most powerful men in the Senate by accident of service is the serious stumbling block to our legislative system. Actually it would make little difference which party organized the Senate if this system were abolished.

President Eisenhower would profit to some extent by Democratic leadership because three of his chief critics — McCarthy of Wisconsin, Malone of Nevada, and Jenner of Indiana — would not then be chairmen. However, if Senate seniority were abolished McCarthy would not have to be Chairman of the Senate Investigating Committee, where he caused more trouble for Eisenhower than the Democrats. Nor would Jenner have to be Chairman of the Rules Committee and Malone of the Interior Committee.

Lausche, by making a deal with the Republicans, might be able to change that. Simultaneously he would win the thanks of the nation. Or if he made an agreement with the Democrats he might be able to oust Mississippi's Sen. Eastland as Chairman of the Judiciary Committee, a spot where he lost more Negro votes for the Democrats than any other single person.

Committee chairmen, regardless of party, won't easily relinquish their potent posts with the privilege of blocking bills, holding up votes, appointing extra patronage. But it's worth trying. And Lausche, the middle-of-the-roader from Ohio, is in a key spot to try it.

* * * *

SEN. FRED PAYNE of Maine has confided to friends that one reason he isn't going to run for re-election is because he can't get along with Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, also of Maine. That's the first time anyone got out of the Senate because they couldn't get along with a lady . . . George Bradley, Waterbury, Conn., truck driver, hasn't had a chargeable accident on the road in 24 years, is probably the outstanding truck driver of the nation even though the American Trucking Assn. hasn't picked him for its annual safety award. Bradley learned to drive a truck in a cemetery. That was how he learned to keep people out of cemeteries.

Thug Phones Victim's Wife to Untie Him

MINEOLA, N. Y. (UP)—Mrs. Harry Schmidt knew there was trouble when she received a telephone call Saturday that her husband was tied up at the office.

The call came from a thoughtful bank bandit. He told Mrs. Schmidt she would find her husband bound in his office at the Mineola Savings and Loan Association.

* * * *

THE GUNMAN pushed his way into the Long Island bank this morning when Schmidt, an executive of the company, went there to tend to some business. He forced Schmidt to give him $10,000 from the safe and then tied the banker with a rope.

Before fleeing in Schmidt's Cadillac, the gunman telephoned Mrs. Schmidt. He told her he would leave the car in front of a nearby hospital. That is where police found it.

Chief of Liberia Wants His Yacht

MONROVIA, Liberia (AP) — President William V. S. Tuban says he found on his recent two-month tour of Europe that chiefs of state—for reasons of national interest—should have suitable ocean-going vessels at their disposal for such travels. He has asked the Liberian Congress to approve again an appropriation for a presidential yacht. He vetoed the act when it was first voted.

Mother Kills Two Sons, Self

GROVE CITY, Pa. (UP) — A minister found the bodies of a despondent young mother and two of her three young sons Friday in a carbon monoxide death bed she made in the snow behind her family car on a deserted farm. Authorities said it was definitely a murder-suicide case.

The third boy escaped asphyxiation by rolling from beneath the blankets. Although hospitalized for frostbite, he was expected to recover.

Mrs. Lois May Mong, 29, of nearby Pine Township, disappeared from home Friday night, leaving a note which said "look for me in an old strip mine." She took her sons William, 9, Frank, 7, and Timothy, 3, with her.

State police, local officers, and neighbors organized a search for Mrs. Mong and the boys after her husband, Roy, found the note.

The Rev. Robert Frederick, pastor of the Nazarene Church here came upon the tragic scene at about 9 a.m. after a woman parishioner who heard Mrs. Mong discuss the spot recently directed him to a deserted farmhouse.

The bodies of Mrs. Mong, William and Timothy lay under blankets and quilts on the snow-covered ground behind the automobile. She had piped the car exhaust fumes to the blankets through a hose.

Frederick said the third boy, Frank, 7, apparently survived because he was farthest from the end of the hose and rolled clear.

Negroes' Transfer Advised

CLINTON, Tenn. (UP)—The superintendent of Anderson County schools Saturday sought the transfer of nine Negro students who withdrew from integrated Clinton High School when they became the target of stones and eggs thrown by white youths.

Frank Irwin asked the nearby Knoxville school board to allow the Negroes to attend segregated Austin High School if they should voluntarily drop from the class rolls here.

* * * *

TOM JOHNSTON, chairman of the Knoxville board, said the group would consider Irwin's request Dec. 10. Irwin told the board that none of the students so far had asked to be transferred.

The Negroes were admitted to Clinton High three months ago under a U. S. District Court order. They went home Tuesday and refused to return to classes in protest against stonings and egg-throwing by white students.

Before they were admitted to the formerly all-white school here, the students attended Austin High for Negroes in Knoxville, some 20 miles away.

The Anderson County school board Thursday offered to pay tuition and provide transportation for "one or more" Negroes who would transfer to a segregated school outside the county.

* * * *

NEGRO PARENTS and relatives of the students expressed determination to keep them enrolled at Clinton, but called on the board to guarantee protection for their children.

More than 700 Tennessee National Guardsmen patrolled this town of 4,000 for 11 days last September after local law-enforcement officers were unable to control mob-like crowds protesting school integration.

Principal D. J. Brittain Jr., claimed some white students, encouraged by adults, were waging a campaign of intimidation and harassment against the Negroes in an effort to force them out of school.

Phones to Chiang to Get Answer

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—Oklahoma University senior Clarence Springstead wanted to know whether a Chinese labor corps was used in France in World War I but he wasn't able to find an answer.

After failing to get the information for a history class, he telephoned the top man available—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek in Formosa.

Through his interpreter, the generalissimo told the student he couldn't answer off-hand but promised to check further and mail an answer.

Discharge of Negro Explained

WASHINGTON (U.P.) — Air Secretary Donald A. Quarles said Saturday the Air Force accepted a Mississippi court's drunken-driving conviction of Lt. Titus A. Saunders as "sufficient grounds" for forcing the young Negro officer to resign.

In an exclusive interview with the United Press, Quarles said he did not review the court trial before giving Saunders the choice of resigning or being discharged "under less than honorable conditions." He said it was not the responsibility of the Air Force to determine the adequacy of the evidence.

It was sufficient for the Air Force, he said, that Saunders had been convicted and that the conviction had been upheld upon review by the Mississippi Supreme Court.

* * * *

SAUNDERS' resignation became effective Saturday. The 25-year-old Meigs, Ga., officer weighed two choices and finally decided to quit.

His former chaplain, the Rev. Benjamin H. Adams of Basking Ridge, N. J., asserted the Air Force had used threats against Saunders after pressure was brought by Sen. John Stennis (D-Miss.), a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee. Adams also claimed Saunders was convicted on "trumped up charges" and is "the victim of circumstance and racial prejudice."

The case, which caused days of anxious consideration by top defense and Air Force officials, has now come to the attention of the White House.

Gov. Frank J. Lausche of Ohio earlier this week wrote to President Eisenhower protesting that the situation confronting Saunders was "unjust in view of the circumstances." Lausche had refused to allow extradition of Saunders to Mississippi on grounds "the ends of justice would not be served."

* * * *

QUARLES SAID he decided Saunders would either have to resign or be dropped because it would be "improper" for him to continue in service with a penal sentence hanging over his head.

Saunders, at liberty on bail, was convicted in 1954 and sentenced to a $500 fine and six months in the labor gang.

As long as Saunders was faced with this sentence and possible extradition, Quarles said, it was obvious the young officer's usefulness to the Air Force was limited.

In reaching his decision, Quarles said he had not passed on "the validity of the evidence" on which Saunders was convicted. He did say, however, that the testimony was examined by his legal staff.

* * * *

IN THE accident that led to Saunders' conviction, his car, driven by a woman companion, struck an auto driven by a white woman. Saunders was found guilty on the basis of moving the car out of the line of traffic after the accident.

Bridges' Men Defy Senate Hawaii Quiz

HONOLULU (U.P.)—Dock and plantation workers resumed "normal Saturday work schedules" Saturday after a one-day, island-wide work stoppage in protest to the Eastland subcommittee hearings into alleged subversion in Hawaii.

Officials of Harry Bridges' International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union were not available to comment on the resumption of work. But industry spokesmen pointed out that Saturday is "normally a light day" with few workers on the job.

The Senate subcommittee, headed by James Eastland (D-Miss), met in a brief session at which former Territorial Gov. Ingram Stainback charged that the ILWU was "Communist controlled" and the union wielded a strong influence on Hawaii.

* * * *

STAINBACK, a Democrat, now a Teritorial Supreme Court justice, said he was passed over for reappointment as governor in 1951 and "kicked upstairs" to the Supreme Court due to Communist pressure.

Union officials have maintained a stony silence before the subcommittee, in most instances refusing to give more than their names and addresses in response to questioning.

Sen. Herman Welker (R-Idaho), a subcommittee member, said at the hearing he had gained access to a "mimeographed document" which ordered ILWU witnesses to refuse to answer any questions beyond giving their names and addresses.

Stainback told the subcommittee Communists within the longshore union had been gunning for him since he fostered a movement leading to seizure of Hawaii docks which broke a longshoremen's strike in 1949.

The hearings recessed shortly before noon HST (5 p.m. EST) until Monday.

Teenagers to Get Polio Vaccinations

NEW YORK (AP)—The first mass polio vaccination of teenagers will start Tuesday in Phoenix, Ariz.

Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, said Saturday about 18,000 students in public and parochial high schools and junior colleges in Phoenix and Maricopa county will be inoculated.

O'Connor said the voluntary mass program was initiated by parents and school and health officials who were concerned at statistics showing that more than 40 per cent of this year's polio incidence in Arizona was among teen-agers and young adults.

A survey showed that 75 per cent of the teenagers in the county had not been inoculated.

Vaccine will be provided by the Arizona State Department of Health through a fund set aside by the federal government for the 0-19 age group. The Phoenix-Union School District will purchase commercial vaccine for students over 19 and will charge $1 a shot.

GIRL AUCTIONEER SEES DREAM COME TRUE

Regina Okita, 14, who campaigned to have the annual police auction date changed from Monday to Saturday, sells the first of 167 unclaimed bicycles. The Poly High sophomore told City Councilmen the auction day should be Saturday so more school children could attend. Aiding her in Saturday's auction—one attended by many youngsters—were Officer Lloyd E. Keller (left) and Police Lt. Howard Sweet.

Icelanders Urge U.S. to Stay

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP)—Iceland's Social Democratic Party said in a statement Saturday that the international situation has deteriorated to the point that the presence of U. S. armed forces is necessary to bulwark defense installations.

The Social Democrats had pressed earlier in the year for removal of the U. S. forces stationed here, and waged a successful election campaign on that issue. Last March Parliament demanded that the U. S. forces withdraw from the Icelandic air base they have manned at Keflavik since 1951.

Negotiations have been under way for sometime. A Washington dispatch earlier this week said tentative agreement had been reached on operation of the air base.

Wilson Heads for Europe to Save NATO

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson will head for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization conference in Paris a week hence. There he will face again the question whether the United States plans reduction of its forces in western Europe.

The question has new point at this NATO meeting, for several reasons:

1. The continuing reduction in U.S. Army manpower.

2. The suggestions of Russia (undoubtedly for propaganda purposes) that the Soviet Union will withdraw its forces from occupied areas if the United States pulls its troops out of Europe.

3. The apparently still remote possibility that the NATO structure itself might crumble because of tensions among its leading members—the United States on one hand, Britain and France on the other.

* * * *

UP TO NOW, Wilson has insisted that the steadily progressing cut in total Army manpower is not affecting the combat effectiveness of the five Army divisions in Western Germany. Whatever trimming has been done in Army troops in Europe, Wilson has insisted, has been among service-type, support troops, not in fighting elements.

However, Wilson leaves for the Paris session fresh from budget-making meetings. At those meetings, the "force levels" of the military services for the next fiscal year are determined. A decision to accelerate the reduction of total Army manpower could compel some changes in combat strength in the five divisions assigned to the NATO forces.

* * * *

AT THE NATO sessions, which begin formally on Dec. 11, the foreign ministers and defense ministers of the member nations will ratify troop strength plans for the ensuing year.

The Soviet hints about a mutual withdrawal of Russian and U.S. troops to their own territories are viewed coldly here. They are described as another insincere play of Soviet political strategists.

Disbelief tinges any discussion of the possibility that the Western European military alliance might fall to pieces.

* * * *

EVEN IF the existing NATO structure did disintegrate, it is argued, a defense system still could be maintained through bilateral or multi-lateral agreements among the three major powers, Britain, France and the United States.

Those who suggest this, however, concede that should France decline to enter such agreements even a truncated military alliance system would be impossible. France, geographically if for no other reason, is the keystone in any plan to prevent Soviet invasion of the Western European plain.

Should a situation come about wherein the United States withdrew its land and Air Force from Europe, a whole new set of strategic plans would have to be pulled out of the presumably wide assortment of blueprints kept by the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

* * * *

DEFENSE of the United States then would be based upon and actually within the United States or, at the most, North America.

Offensive airpower would rest almost entirely on the long range bombers of the Strategic Air Command. Medium bomber operation would be limited or impossible.

Based back home in the United States would be five more Army divisions, added to the nine now at Army posts here—unless decision was made to reduce divisional strength.

Only naval carrier forces, operating and supplied from American ports, would be able to maintain station near Europe.

Red Prober Nearly Loses Life in Hawaii

HONOLULU (AP)—Benjamin Mandell, 65, of Washington, D. C., research director for the Senate subcommittee investigating communism in the Hawaiian Islands, went for an early morning swim Saturday and nearly drowned.

He was found floating off the Outrigger Canoe Club by another swimmer at 7 a.m. Doctors said he didn't start reviving until 8:30 a.m.

Mandell told William Arens, committee investigator, that he had gone for his usual early morning swim. He said he got in deeper than he thought, started for shore swallowing water and "that's the last I remember."

Arens usually goes swimming with Mandell, but did not do so this morning.

Mentally Ill Ratio Called 1:1

WASHINGTON (AP) — Everybody has a mental health problem at one time or another, a nationally - known psychiatrist said Saturday night.

Dr. William C. Menninger of the Menninger Clinic, Topeka, Kan., said in a speech prepared for the closing session of the sixth annual convention of the National Association for Mental Health:

"The statistics on the incidence of mental ill health have been variously cited as one (person) in 16, one in 12, and one in 10.

"However, even the most startling of these figures do not tell the entire story, because they refer only to the extreme cases of mental disorder.

"We have become so concerned with the severe manifestations — psychosis and acute psychoneurosis — that we have tended to overlook the common, everyday emotional disturbances which can be as upsetting and incapacitating as many of the physical illnesses."

He added:

"When we take these into account, the toll of mental illness must be reckoned as one in one, for there isn't a person who does not experience frequently a mental or emotional disturbance severe enough to disrupt his functioning as a well-adjusted, happy, and efficiently-performing individual."

* * * *

THE PSYCHIATRIST said that mental ill health does not always show up in an obvious clinical pattern, but that it may take the form of such things as:

Vague, gnawing anxiety or depression; ill-concealed feelings of suspicion, fear, resentment and hate; a variety of physical complaints which have no organic basis; aggressive acts directed against specific individuals or against society in general; and marital difficulties, occupational troubles, and school problems.

He said the nation's four million cases of "problem drinkers" constitute one evidence of the widespread effects of mental ill health. Also, such things as the 1,750,000 cases of serious crime each year, the half-million cases in juvenile courts annually, and the ratio of one divorce for every four marriages.

Widow Turns 200-Year Tradition Off

NEW YORK (UP) — History was made on Wall Street Saturday. For the first time in 200 years of financial activity on the street, a woman became head of a firm belonging to the New York Stock Exchange.

Mrs. Charles Ulrich Bay, widow of the former U. S. ambassador to Norway, took over as board chairman and president of the the 92-year-old firm of A. M. Kidder & Co. Her husband headed the firm at the time of his death last year.

Mrs. Bay, mother of three Norwegian-born adopted children, long had shared her husband's business activities and took over many of his duties when he became ill in 1954.

"It was inevitable that just such a thing as this would happen," she said. "We have women judges, engineers, department store presidents. All this seems perfectly natural to me."

Twin Studied for Transfer of His Kidney

BOSTON (AP)—Doctors at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital s Saturday no decision wi made immediately whether to transplant a kidney from 13-year-old Jerry Foster of Mink Creek, Idaho, to his identical twin Jimmy.

A hospital statement said Jimmy "will be under study for some time" before the decision is made. "Jimmy's condition is not critical at present," the statement said, "and his ailment is of an entirely different nature than that of three other twins upon whom transplants have been performed."

"Jimmy's illness," the statement said, "is due to abnormal development of the kidney rather than glomeronephritis. He has complicating infection of the ureteral tubes. However, his critical condition was relieved temporarily by surgery performed by Dr. Corwin Groom of Pocatello, Ida., improving the drainage from the kidneys."

The twins flew here Nov. 20, accompanied by their mother, Juanita.

Big Storm Brews in Canada

By Associated Press

Fair weather dominated most of the nation Saturday but more wet snow plastered the eastern Great Lakes area.

The nation's basic weather pattern continued mostly unchanged, but the weatherman said a rather intense storm was bearing down on the west coast of Canada that could send sub-zero cold churning into the northern states.

Heavy snow squalls continued throughout the day along the eastern shore of Lake Ontario. Watertown, N. Y., had a four-inch fall during the forenoon. Light snow or flurries spread across the New England states.

Relatively hot weather returned to Texas, with the mercury pushing to near 80 degrees. It was warm, too, in Southern California.

It was mild in the Great Plains with 60 degree temperatures as far north as Nebraska.

A slightly warmer trend was forecast for the east on Sunday, but an overnight frost was expected to dip as far south as Florida.

Two Girls, Youth Found Asphyxiated

HANSON, Mass. (AP)—Two teen-aged sisters and a 22-year-old youth were found dead Saturday in a parked panel truck. A second youth was unconscious but alive.

Police identified the dead as: Georgianna Moore, 16, her sister, Judith, 14, and Wallace Goldman, 22, all of Brockton.

Taken to Brockton hospital in critical condition was Herbert MacFaun, 22, of Easton.

* * * *

THE PANEL truck was found about 11:30 a.m. in a wooded lane off Route 27 near the East Bridgewater line by a man and his son who went to the woods to go target shooting. Its engine was running.

Police said they believed the deaths were caused by exhaust fumes.

The truck is owned by David Breen, a Brockton caterer by whom MacFaun was employed.

Breen earlier had reported he loaned the truck to MacFaun overnight, but that he failed to return it Saturday morning.

The girls' mother had reported them missing since 8:30 last night.

Brownell's Daughter Joan Weds

WASHINGTON (U.P.) — Joan Brownell, 21-year-old daughter of Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr., was married Saturday to Thomas Behan Jr., of Springfield, Pa.

Many Washington officials, headed by Vice President and Mrs. Richard M. Nixon, were on hand for the ceremony.

Brownell gave the bride away.

Undersecretary of State Herbert Hoover Jr., Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams, Disarmament Adviser Harold E. Stassen and almost all of Washington officialdom not at the Army-Navy football game crowded into the small church.

Ivy Baker Priest, treasurer of the United States, and Deputy Atty. Gen. Warren Rogers were among those ushered into the balcony.

Hoover switched plans and attended the wedding instead of the Army-Navy game as he had planned to do. The Nixons were late arriving because they had been watching the game on television.

1st Auto Death for Hobart, Okla.

HOBART, Okla. (AP) — This southwest Oklahoma city of about 19,000 persons recorded its first chargeable auto traffic fatality in history Saturday, the Highway Patrol reported.

A 16-year-old boy, Chester Beatty Jr., of Hobart, was killed when an auto in which he was a passenger collided with a Rock Island freight train within the city. Two other boys in the car were injured, one critically.

1,041-Pound Man Shipped by Air Freight

CHICAGO (UP) — A 1,041-pound man, who must be seen to be believed, slumped across a cast-iron reinforced bed aboard a cargo plane Saturday and said "a lot of others are worse off than me."

Robert Earl Hughes, 30, who claims to be the world's fattest man and has to fly on cargo ships because passenger aircraft are too small for him, paused here enroute to New York, where he and a publicity man hope to cash in on television appearances.

"But I don't want the money that much," Hughes said. I'd gladly give it all up for a chance to be normal."

Hughes, dressed in blue work pants, gym shoes, and a short sleeved cotton shirt that required seven and one-half yards of 36-inch wide material, doesn't look the six feet, one inch tall he is. A beard of skin surrounds the lower part of his chin. His body is a glob of fat. But his smile is warm and sincere.

"What can I do?" he asked. "I've just got to make the best of what the Lord gave me."

* * * *

HUGHES, who can't walk more than 20 steps at a time, had to be put on the plane with an hydraulic fork lift. The little land travelling he does is done on a semi-trailer truck.

"I look at it this way," he said. "I can read, write, have a warm and comfortable home and a fine group of relatives. A lot of other people aren't as fortunate."

Hughes, who was born normal but began gaining abnormally at the age of six months, said doctors told him a ruptured thyroid gland, caused during a spell of whooping caugh, is responsible for his weight.

"There is nothing I can do about this. I know that," he said "so I decided there was no use feeling sorry for myself. I was a little lonely when my mother died nine years ago, but now I live with my brother and his family and I have gotten sort of used to life."

* * * *

HUGHES, whose heart equals that of a 1,000-pound steer, quit school after the eighth grade when he weighed 595 pounds. Two years ago he and his sister-in-law's father hired a truck and began hitting the carnival circuit.

"We split everything right down the midle, 50-50," Wesley Dennis, 45, whose daughter married Hughes' brother said. Hughes lives with the couple and their two young children in a Hannibal, Mo., duplex. The Dennises live next door.

"We're a happy family," Dennis said. "We have what we want to eat and we have two nice cars. Robert and I and all of us have created a little world all our own—away from the staring and the curious and the vultures."

Dennis said Hughes reads a lot, mostly detective and true story magazines, and watches television.

"He plays with his little nephews, too," Dennis said. "He's just part of the family. We don't let him get lonesome."

Mexico Turns to Rainmaker for Relief

MEXICO CITY (UP)—A rainmaker who claims remarkable results for his "ionic machine" will leave soon for northern Mexico to try to ease the prolonged drought in the parched Texas border area, it was reported Friday.

Sources close to Prof. Jose Ugalde said the government's Department of Hydraulic Resources will equip a mobile laboratory ofr him and send two engineers north to assist in his experiments.

Ugalde claimed recently that his "ionic ray" — whose exact nature is a closely-guarded secret — caused a heavy rainfall here. Weather experts scoffed at his claim, but the hydraulic department said it would try anything that might end the long drought.

Russ Say 6,000 Top 100 Years

LONDON (AP) — Moscow radio reported that V. Shapiro recently interviewed more than 6,000 persons in the Soviet Union who are more than 100 years old. The broadcast quoted Shapiro as saying all of them "worked hard and, even at their present age, still enjoy working."

See Record in Wyo. Gasser

KEMMERER, Wyo. (AP) — A well which blew in with a terrific blast last week may develop into southwestern Wyoming's largest gas producer.

It is the Vaughan B. Connelly well in the LaBarge Field. The new gasser will have to be brought under control before an estimate of production can be made, but oil men say it will flow several million cubic feet of gas a day.

The gas, with high distillate content, blew out all the mud in the well, wrecked part of the rig and blew the roof of an adjoining shanty when it came in.

Connelly, an independent operator, is drilling another well in the field west of Calpet and is making locations for other wells in Sublette and Lincoln Counties.

'GOOD MORNING!'

Filipino Discovers Long Beach Friendly

By LEE CRAIG
Harbor Reporter

A cheerful street sweeper gave the first impression of Long Beach life to Feliciano V. Koh, 33-year-old Filipino civil engineer here to study operations at the local port.

"I leave my hotel to find a bus to go to the harbor," Koh says. "I meet this man running the sweeping machine. I gape at it and he says to me:

"'Good morning, fine day'"—and he gives me big smile.

"I think, 'My, how friendly these people are.'"

Koh's official position at home in Manila is designing engineer of the Division of Ports and Harbors, Bureau of Public Works, Philippines.

FELICIANO KOH
Natives Are Friendly

HIS VISIT here is sponsored by the International Cooperation Administration, which, through the Maritime Administration, has arranged with local port authorities for him to study operations in this area for three of his six months in America.

In the six weeks he has been here Koh has not learned too much so far that will help him at home.

"At home, we do almost everything by manual labor," he says. "I see many techniques of construction here that I could use if only we had heavy machinery."

ONE THING, however, has particularly impressed him.

"Everyone works in harmony. Here, employes are told in staff meetings how their work fits into big picture. Morale is good. Everyone proud of their work.

"This, we should copy."

Koh was amazed at American workers' standard of living.

"I met a draftsman who rides to work in a Cadillac," he said.

Koh's biggest problem is that he misses his wife and three children back in Manila. He would like to meet fellow Filipinos here but is chary of making overtures to those he sees.

"I try it once," he says, "I get a dirty look. He was a Cambodian."

Record Mail Forecast by Postmaster

Postmaster George J. McMillin said Saturday he anticipates the largest volume of Christmas mail in the history of the Long Beach office, 5 to 10 per cent more than last year.

This is the way McMillin figures the Christmas mail: Outgoing Christmas cards and letters, 18,123,000; incoming Christmas cards and letters, 22,000,000; outgoing Christmas parcels, 1,100,000; incoming Christmas parcels, 1,400,000.

POSTMASTER McMILLIN suggests deadline dates for mailing gifts and greetings as follows:

Greeting cards and gifts for all out-of-town destinations in the mail by Dec. 10.

Cards and packages for local delivery posted Dec. 15.

Greetings and parcels for air mail not later than Dec. 20.

The postmaster asks all patrons to observe five basic rules for assuring prompt safe delivery of mail.

1. Address mail fully, using zone numbers if possible in both address and return address.

2. Sort quantities of local and out-of-town mail in separate bundles, label the bundles "local" or "out-of-town."

3. Be sure to put a return address on all cards and parcels.

4. Insure ample cushioning material when wrapping gifts and tie with strong cord. Gifts of delicate nature should be marked "fragile."

5. Insure packages and register items of monetry value.

CALL FOR VOLUNTEERS

'MD' March Set Tuesday

Many more volunteers are needed here for the Tuesday night "March for Dystrophy," J. Richard Shelley, local area campaign chairman, reported Saturday.

Shelley asked prospective volunteers—men or women—to contact Robert Mulvey, 4555 E. 10th St., march chairman, today. He may be reached Monday at the Ace Blueprint Co., 1711 E. 4th St.

"The march is our chief means of raising funds to aid the more than 200,000 victims of muscular dystrophy in America today," Shelley said.

"When you realize that 135,000 of this number are children in whom the disease progresses rapidly, then you know a cure must be found."

FUNDS COLLECTED will be used for county research projects at USC and UCLA, for wheel chairs and other orthopedic equipment, for physical therapy to prolong the lives of the victims of the incurable ailment and for diagnosis.

Muscular dystrophy patients in the Long Beach-Lakewood area are treated at the Tichenor Orthopedic Clinic, 1660 Termino Ave.

Shelley urged householders desiring to contribute to the march to light porchlights Tuesday night. The Long Beach-Lakewood goal for the fun campaign is $10,000.

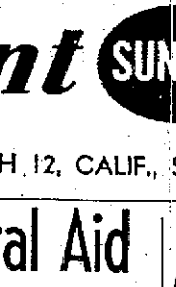

GAIT TRAINING with parallel bars is received by Dennis Clifton, 7½, of 635 W. 19th St. Mrs. Nancy Mahan, physical therapist, aids the young muscular dystrophy patient. Fund march is set Tuesday night.

Hospital Aid Captained by Bud Ridings

Harry E. (Bud) Ridings Jr., Long Beach auto dealer and civic leader, Saturday was named general chairman of the multi-million-dollar United Hospital Fund campaign.

The appointment was announced by George A. Richards and Harry Buffum, chairman and associate chairman of the fund's leadership committee.

The campaign, which will get under way next month, will raise money to furnish and equip new hospital buildings approved by city voters in a special election Feb. 9.

RIDINGS

THE CAMPAIGN GOAL, which has not yet been announced, will be "the largest financial objective in the history of Long Beach philanthropy," according to E. B. Miller, fund president.

Ridings, now a member of the Board of Harbor Commissioners and who was named Long Beach's "outstanding young man of the year" by the Junior Chamber of Commerce in 1953, immediately made an appeal for public support of the forthcoming drive.

* * * *

HE POINTED OUT that the $10,500,000 bond issue approved last February was only for construction of hospital buildings. Equipping the hospitals depends on voluntary contributions of the people of the greater Long Beach area.

This will be the first general public campaign for hospitals in the history of Long Beach, Ridings said.

The drive already has the approval of 258 organizations — groups representing labor, parents, churches, businessmen, veterans and civic and service activities.

Participation of doctors will get under way in January, with major gifts scheduled for March and the public campaign slated for mid-April. The drive is expected to be completed by July 1.

Committees already are being formed for these and other phases of the drive—such as special gifts, men's and women's divisions, hospital employes, church relations and speakers' bureau.

Boat Harbor Buildings Nearly Ready for Use

Plans OKd for Other Bay Units

By GEORGE WEEKS
City Hall Reporter

The first three buildings at Alamitos Bay Marina will be ready for use about Dec. 15—well in advance of the opening of Basin 1—and preliminary plans have been completed for seven more structures to be built early next year.

Painting and other finishing work is under way on the utility and concession group.

The three buildings, constructed of masonry blocks and redwood siding, are connected by a roofed-over passage and service yard. They encompass 6,234 square feet of floor area.

* * * *

THE CENTRAL unit consists of a restaurant and kitchen, with a small clubroom on the second floor.

In the second unit will be a business office with space for a boat broker and a marine hardware store. The third unit consists of comfort stations.

The recently-established Marine Dept. will have its offices in the concession group pending construction of the second series of buildings. Quarters will be provided for Lawrence McDowell, department director, and Thomas McInturff, harbor master.

* * * *

PRELIMINARY PLANS for the second series of structures were approved last week by the Planning Commission. The architects, Montierth & Strickland, have 60 days in which to prepare final plans. Construction is expected to start early in March, City Engineer Jess D. Gilkerson said.

The seven buildings are estimated to cost $158,000. Like other marina units, they are being financed from the Tideland Oil Fund.

Principal unit in the second group is a headquarters building to be located at the southeasterly top of the marina area. Eventually it will house the marine director and harbor master.

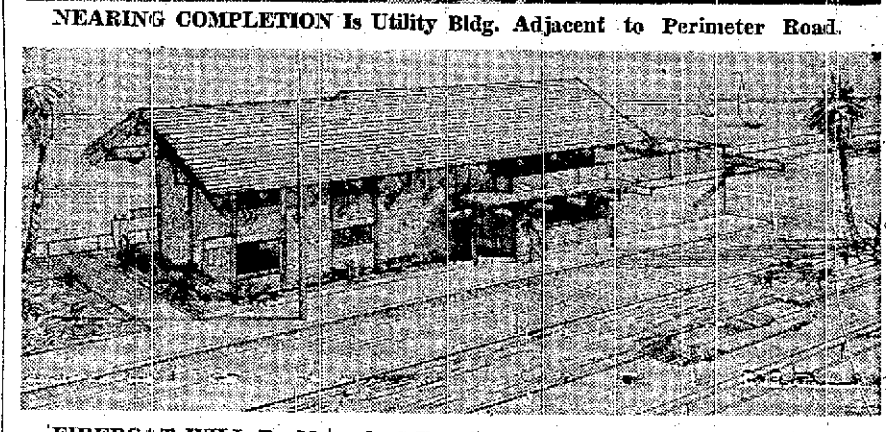

The main building will measure some 60 by 68 feet. Although most of it will be only one story high, it will be surmounted by an observation tower. Construction will be of masonry and redwood siding.

Adjacent to it will be a storage building for use of the city departments, Coast Guard and State Fish and Game Service.

A third unit will be a two-story fire station with all the usual facilities except that space will be provided for only one small land rig. A fire boat will be moored within easy reach of the fire company stationed there. The location is north of the headquarters building.

NEARING COMPLETION Is Utility Bldg. Adjacent to Perimeter Road.

FIREBOAT WILL Be Moored at Two-Story Station Near Headquarters.

Orange County Demos Air Dirty Linen at Conference

It was the same dirty laundry but a different washing machine Saturday for Orange County Democrats.

Members of two factions—feuding since October—gathered at the courthouse in Santa Ana to tell their side of the fight to a special hearing officer summoned by the California and Southern California party heirarchy.

He is Macklin Fleming of Los Angeles, an attorney, sent by William Rosenthal, Southern California party chairman, to listen to each side's version of the Oct. 8 meeting.

It was that session that split the county organization down the middle and left each faction claiming control of the county Demos.

* * * *

AT THAT MEETING, one group of committee members attempted to oust Chairman William McNulty of Yorba Linda.

Their action backfired and acting Chairman Fred Wilson of Costa Mesa charged all with conspiracy to overthrow the elected officers and suspended them.

Despite the opposing faction's objections, Wilson—acting on a tie vote—ruled he could adjourn the meeting. He did.

* * * *

BUT MEMBERS of the opposing faction held the meeting was not adjourned, continued with business at hand and proceeded to elect a new slate of officers. Part of their session was in the dark when pro-Wilson members shut off the lights.

Named to "replace" McNulty was Herbert Licker, Garden Grove attorney.

Since then, both the McNulty force and the Licker group have claimed command.

Licker was one of six persons suspended by Wilson at the stormy session.

* * * *

OTHERS WERE Eugene Greenwood, Buena Park; Lester Van Tatenhove, Santa Ana; Hazel Lewis, Stanton; William Lee, Costa Mesa, and Henry Gilmore, Santa Ana.

All this was aired again Saturday before Fleming but in quieter tones.

Wilson, nuddling often with McNulty, did most of the talking in defense of his actions and in questioning the integrity of his opponent's actions.

* * * *

LICKER LED the rebuttal from his side.

Repeatedly, Wilson attempted to provide or obtain information of the Licker faction's actions prior to the Oct. 8 meeting in an effort to show conspiracy on the part of the pro-Licker members.

Fleming ruled only testimony concerning the meeting events could go into the record.

The hearing officer indicated it will be several days before a decision on the hearing is announced.

Magician to Appear Before Masonic Club

Royal Arch Masons, Royal Select Masons and Knights Templar will be guests of Long Beach Masonic Club Thursday noon in the Wilton Hotel. Henry Mendoza, magician, will entertain. The Rev. Dr. Russell M. Brougher will preside.

New City Champion Hits 'Checker Bums'

Rudolph Krause, 53, of 230 Temple Ave., the city's new checker champion, says a good many nationally known masters of the game are little better than "bums."

Some champions do nothing but play checkers," explained Krause, who doesn't fit in such a category since he works every day at his job as presser for a local cleaners shop.

Krause's view on checkers might surprise those less proficient at the game:

"There is no real necessity to ponder a long time over your moves. Some players do it just to unnerve their opponents."

"One mistake against a good player and you lose the game. That's where checkers differs from chess—you can't make up for a mistake."

Kraus doesn't fit the picture of the typical checkers player in that he started playing the game only 10 years ago.

* * * *

KRAUSE IS a member of the Chess and Checkers Club at Lincoln Park where the city has provided a playing room. It's the only club of its kind in the city.

The tournament was held over the past month to name the champion. Fifteen of the best club players entered and, according to Vice President A. F. Whitehurst, the competition was hot all the way.

Each played a four game series with the other entrants.

M. H. Bapp was runnerup.

West Siders Will Carol for Yuletide

Three concerts and three nights of Christmas caroling have been scheduled by the West Side Boys' Club choir, reports G. A. Hopkins, director.

On Dec. 10 the boys will entertain the Naples Improvement Assn. at a 7 p.m. meeting in the Naples Elementary School.

Three days later the choir will be featured at the annual ham dinner of the central branch of the Boys Club, 1585 Chestnut Ave.

On the evenings of Dec. 18, 19 and 20, the 35-voice group will sing carols on Westside streets.

On Dec. 21, it will present a concert at its own Christmas party in their clubhouse at 1835 Willard St.

Hopkins, who is also director of the club, said the boys got together about five months ago just to sing popular songs. They were so pleased with the results, they decided to try more serious music.

Ages of the boys range from 9 to 13 years. Hopkins' wife, Elsa, is accompanist for the group.

Freeway Sign Curbs Up to City Council

Pro and con arguments on city legislation sharply restricting advertising signs in locations within 500 feet of a freeway are scheduled for airing at 9:30 a. m. Monday before the City Council's ordinance committee.

Chairman Virgil H. Spongberg has invited supporters and opponents to renew the controversy touched off last May when a more comprehensive series of amendments was first considered by the Planning Commission.

The revised version is less restrictive and makes exceptions for certain types of signs, such as those identifying the building on which they are located and the firm occupying the premises.

But the Chamber of Commerce, through a special committee headed by James Gordon, has reiterated its opposition to some of the provisions. Principal support is expected to come from spokesmen for the Planning Commission and for various civic groups already on record as favoring the measure.

According to the planning staff, the restrictions are necessary both for traffic safety and to facilitate freeway landscaping.

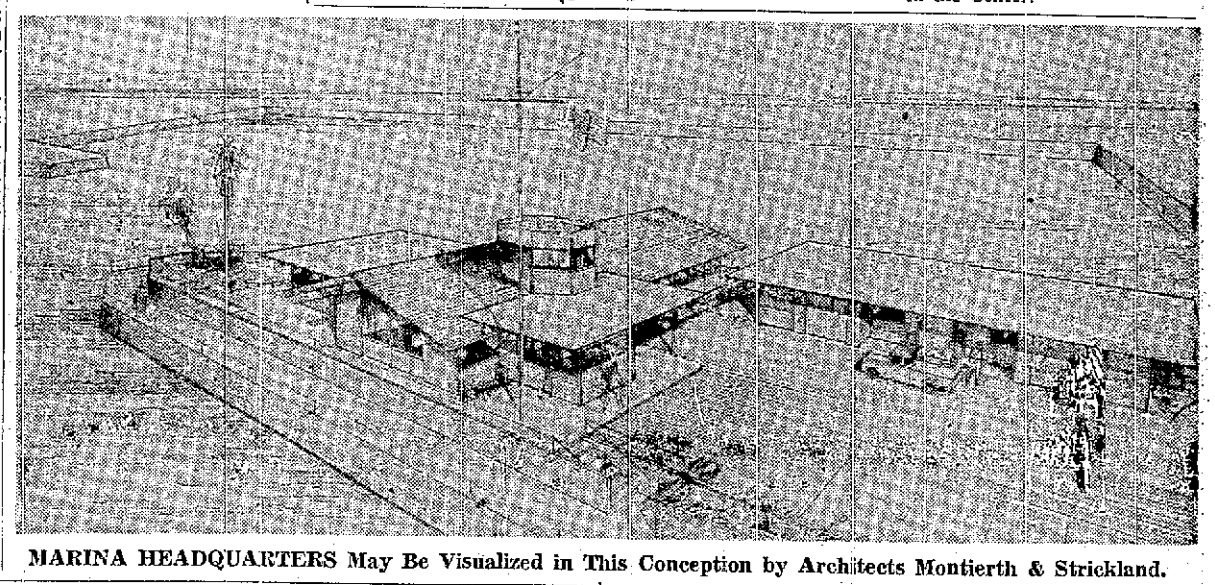

6 Choirs to Sing in Lakewood Center Tuesday

Six choirs from Lakewood-Los Altos churches will sing Christmas hymns and carols in Lakewood Center Tuesday from 7 to 7:30 p.m.

M. M. Taylor, project chairman for the sponsoring Lakewood Center Businessmen's Assn., said the choirs will appear in various locations along the mall.

The choirs will be from the Palo Verde Ave. Christian, Los Altos Methodist, Bethany Lutheran, St. Cyprian's Catholic, St. Thomas Episcopal and Lakewood Presbyterian Churches.

Choirs from six other churches in the area will sing on Dec. 11 in the Center.

CHRISTMAS SHOPPERS AIDED

Stores to Stay Open Evenings

Starting Monday, Downtown stores will be open until 9 p. m. every day excepting Sundays.

The only exception to the Yule season night openings will be Dec. 24 when the stores will close at 5:30 p. m.

Vito Romans, manager of Long Beach Retailers Associated announced the evening schedules.

He added that all the Downtown stores would open at 9:30 a. m. daily through the Christmas shopping season.

DON SPRING, president of the retailers' group, cited Downtown as a "one-stop" shopping area.

He said the location of parking lots was such that no customer had to walk more than a block from one to get to his favorite store.

Brochures containing aerial maps of the Downtown area will be distributed at stores next week. The maps show specific location of the parking lots.

Since October 1955, there has been an increase from 45 to 60 in the number of Park and Shop lots Downtown, Spring said.

THERE ARE 843 stores Downtown, including 53 different types.

Spring also noted that the retailers this year have added to the area where Christmas street decorations have been hung.

The new locales include 3rd St. from Locust to American Aves. and another block on Pine Ave to 8th St. Decorations also are planned by the retailers for Broadway from Pine to American Aves.

There's Lots of Space for Your Boat in Basin

Practically everybody who has applied for slip space in Basin 1 of Alamitos Bay Marina will get it if boats meet requirements specified in the ordinance.

Lawrence McDowell, director of the city Marine Department, announced Saturday there is a waiting list in only one category, the 30-foot class of slip. In all others the available space exceeds applications.

Only a few slips remain in the large 50 to 80-foot class. The greatest number of vacancies is in the smallest group, the 20-foot berth.

Total applications approximate 75 per cent of the 342 mooring spaces in the basin, McDowell said.

The department is continuing to accept applications at 5873 E. 2nd St. Owners must apply in person and a deposit of two months slip rental is required.

McDowell pointed out that the ordinance bans "decrepit" boats, even if space is tentatively assigned in advance of inspection.

He predicted a rush of applications when owners of smaller craft take their boats out of winter storage.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

FHA Home Loan Rate Increased

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government Saturday boosted the interest rate on FHA home loans from 4½ to 5 per cent in a move designed to prime the dwindling flow of mortgage funds available to prospective home buyers.

The increased interest rate on loans insured by the Federal Housing Administration becomes effective Tuesday on future FHA commitments. It was described as "a decisive step to help home buyers to obtain mortgage financing."

The practical effect of Saturday's action should make it easier to get a home loan because of the more attractive return to lenders, but at the same time means an increase of millions of dollars in financing costs to future home owners.

City Aids Embezzler

ELLENVILLE, N. Y. (AP)—A bank president was arrested for a half-million-dollar manipulation Saturday, and townspeople rushed to the bank—not to withdraw but to deposit.

And while bank president William R. Rose was being arraigned on federal charges, held in $25,000 bail and questioned by the U. S. attorney's office in New York City, Ellenvillians were reported organizing a testimonial dinner to him. Rose, the leading citizen in practically every phase of Ellenville life, denied that he got any of the juggled bank funds.

Ike OKs Refugees

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — President Eisenhower shredded red tape Saturday and ordered 21,500 Hungarian refugees from Soviet terror admitted to the United States. The original plan offered asylum to only 5,000.

In announcing the big increase at the President's vacation headquarters, the White House said the greater number "will be brought here with the utmost practicable speed" under an emergency program. Eisenhower will ask Congress in January to take longer range action.

O'Shea Faces Charge

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actor Michael O'Shea has been ordered to appear in court next Wednesday to answer charges that he fired a rifle at a neighbor's tractor during a neighborhood feud.

The charges were filed by Harold Morrison, O'Shea's neighbor in Van Nuys. They have been feuding for months over the noise made by Morrison's son, Richard, 13. The boy said O'Shea, husband of actress Virginia Mayo, fired a .22-caliber rifle at a tractor which he and a friend were riding near the actor's home.

4 in Family Perish

MT. KISCO, N. Y. (AP)—The wife and three children of a United Nations interpreter died early Saturday in a fire that broke out when he fell asleep while waiting for a pot of cooking grease to get hot enough to make fish and chips.

Dead from smoke poisoning were Mrs. Frances Hall, 35; John, 5; Spence, 4, and Patricia, 2. Ronald Hall, 40, suffered burns when he tried frantically to save his family from the flames that engulfed his ranch-type home.

Williams in Brazil

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP)—Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan and his wife arrived Saturday for a nine-day vacation visit to Brazil. Later, they plan to go to Uruguay, Argentina, Chile, Peru and Mexico.

Insured at 101

PUEBLO, Colo. (AP)—A Chicago firm is willing to insure the health of Mrs. Pauline Sandoval, who's 101 years old.

The sprightly Pueblo woman said the firm (Continental Insurance Co.) has accepted her application for hospitalization insurance.

Auto Plunge Off Ferry Kills Woman

RAVENSWOOD, W. Va. (AP)—Mrs. Marion Archer of Racine, Ohio, en route home after a day of Christmas shopping, drove her car off an Ohio river ferry Saturday and was drowned.

Two men smashed a rear window and saved her 7-year-old ward, Lillian Mae Weekly.

Ferry attendants said Mrs. Archer, 70, made a perfect approach to the empty boat. Suddenly the car speeded up, crashed through a chain at the end of the ferry and plunged into the river.

The car windows were shut and the auto sank slowly. Fred Jones of Cleveland and Dave Young of Mount Vernon, Ohio, who were in a car behind, dashed aboard, smashed the window and rescued the little girl.

Mules to B-r-a-a-a-y Their Last as Army Prepares to Disband Flop-Eared Battalion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The The Army is abolishing its last mule-powered combat unit—the 4th Field Artillery Battalion—and assigning its honored colors to something called an "airphibious firing unit."

About 125 old Army mules and a few horses will be put out to pasture when the battalion folds up at Ft. Carson, Colo., this winter.

The new unit takes to the air at Ft. Sill, Okla., in 38 helicopters to learn new ways to move howitzers, rockets and other weapons for the ground forces.

The Army's lowly pack mules nonetheless have outlasted the fancier cavalry horses by 12 years.

The last cavalry unit turned over its mounts and took to motor trucks and tanks in December, 1944, and the cavalry was abolished as a combat branch the following year. Only the name remains, in the designation of an infantry outfit as the 1st Cavalry Division.

The Army now has 116 horses and 314 mules, all of the latter in the United States. Except for an elite ceremonial unit of seven perfectly matched greys, used in military funerals at Arlington National Cemetery, horses and mules perform only odd jobs.

With the decision made to disband the last pack animal combat unit this year, the Army is now looking to the future of its feathered friends, the homing pigeons. Although they have served with honor in every Army campaign since 1878, the pigeons are also on the way out.

This will leave the Army with only its dogs. The Army now has 1,350 sentry dogs, and is training more of them to serve for Air Force guard duty.

Although the mule is passing from the Army scene, its name is being preserved in a way in the form of a type of jeep identified as a "mechanical mule."

But to the Army's dying breed of mulekinners, the clatter of a gas engine will never be a substitute for the braying of an ornery Army mule.

Virgin Islands Park Dedicated

CRUZ BAY, Virgin Islands (AP) —A tropical beauty spot in the Caribbean Sea became the 29th American national park Saturday.

In dedication ceremonies, U.S. Secretary of the Interior Fred A. Seaton accepted title to more than 5,000 acres of palm-studded land on St. John Island and formally established "the Virgin Islands National Park" 961 miles southeast of the tip of Florida.

500 Expected at Weed Parley

SACRAMENTO (AP) — More than 500 persons are expected at the annual California weed conference at Fresno Jan. 22-24, the State Agriculture Department said Saturday.

Farmers, county, state and federal workers, representatives of companies making weed control materials and farm equipment distributors have been invited.

VFW Chief Urges Curbs on Neutrals

DENVER (AP) — National Cmdr. Cooper T. Holt of the Veterans of Foreign Wars proposes a get-tough policy toward neutral nations.

Holt, from Chattanooga, Tenn., told newsmen here that American military and economic aid should be withheld from countries refusing to take a stand against Russia.

"We're against any military or economic aid to Tito or Nehru — or any of them who want to remain neutral in these days when the only choice is between democracy and communism," Holt said. He added that the VFW has no objection to aiding foreign peoples in need.

Holt said the United Nations should maintain a military force "ready to enter any freedom-loving country which Russia enters."

If the U. N. passes a resolution "condemning Russia and telling it to get out of Hungary —they should have some means of getting them out," he declared.

Almost Painless Drill Introduced for Dentists

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A high-speed dental drill which results in "almost painless" cavity preparation was demonstrated here Saturday.

Drs. Arthur Dugoni, San Francisco dentist, and Dr. John Rhoads, prosthetic dental professor at the college of physicians and surgeons here, showed the new drill over a closed television circuit to some 600 alumni from California, Oregon, Nevada and Arizona in their 58th annual meeting.

* * * *

THE NEW MACHINE develops speeds of more than 100,000 revolutoins per minute instead of the present 6,000 to 15,000 range.

A rubber bushing on the burr or drillhead, and a cushion of air developed when the drill is operating, reduces the vibration which Dr. Rhoads said is responsible for most of the discomfort during dental drilling.

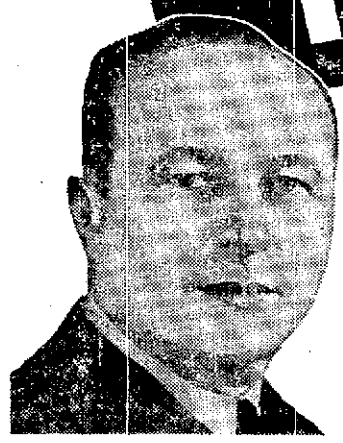

The drill cuts cavity preparation to one-fourth of the present time, Rhoads said, and vibration becomes almost imperceptible when speeds exceed 60,000 revolutions per minute.

FRICTIONAL HEAT is disposed of by jets of water and air from the handle, he said.

No claim is made for completely painless drilling, he said, but the increased ease and speed in its operation results in "much less tension and fatigue among patients, as well as much less complaint of discomfort and bone-conducted noise." He said "many patients who formerly asked for local anaesthesia find they do not need it now."

Labor Merger a Year Old; Crises Ahead

WASHINGTON (UP) — The AFL-CIO celebrates its first anniversary this week, with some crises behind it but more ahead.

The first year since the Dec. 5, 1955, merger that produced the 15-million member AFL-CIO has been spent mainly in consolidating the strength of its national leadership and policies, under various stresses and strains.

Starts were made toward the goals of organizing the millions of unorganized workers, eliminating jurisdictional conflicts among the AFL-CIO's 138 member unions, strengthening labor's political influence, clearing corruption out of the labor movement, ending racial discrimination in union membership, and completing the merger of state and city AFL-CIO groups. But progress has been at a plodding pace, at best. There also have been no significant mergers of rival AFL-CIO unions.

* * * *

IN AN ANNIVERSARY statement, AFL-CIO President George Meany said "we have made considerable progress so far in establishing unity as a living fact and an effective working force. As a result, we will be able to forge ahead more rapidly in the year to come."

In its second year, he said, the AFL-CIO will pour "our full energies" into organizing new union members, and will "lead a nationwide drive" for "progressive" legislation, including federal aid to education, better housing, broader application of a higher minimum wage and "thorough-going changes" in the Taft-Hartley Labor Act.

The AFL-CIO's first major organizing target—700,000 non-union textile workers, mostly in the south—was set last June. The executive council decided to give all its aid to the textile union from the CIO, following months of fruitless negotiations for merger or at last a joint organizing agreement between the old CIO union and its rival from the old AFL.

Since then, the AFL-CIO also has assigned organizers to help unions in the chemical and tobacco industries.

* * * *

BUT IN late August, the executive council concluded that even with cooperation in these fields, something more was needed before any big organizing could be accomplished in the South. A staff committee is studying the possibility of a big "educational" campaign to break down southern hostility to organized labor.

In the field of legislative activity, the AFL-CIO and 17 other national organizations in various fields have formed what is probably the biggest lobbying group ever set up in this country. The combined group is set to work for passage of a federal aid to education bill in Congress next year.

AFL-CIO officials have little hope, however, of achieving action on the Taft-Hartley Labor Act next year. At best they think efforts to change the act will result in a stalemate as occurred in 1954 or lack of any action as occurred in 1955. At worst they fear opening the "Pandora's Box" of changes that labor doesn't want.

Organizationally, AFL and CIO state and city groups in 29 states—including the most highly unionized states—still are delaying their mergers. The predominant obstacle appears to be personality and union rivalry. The deadline is Dec. 5, 1957. Meany has said that unless the deadline is met, the national AFL-CIO will simply lift charters and establish new state and city groups.

Russian Relief Cargo Arrives at Alexandria

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt (AP)—A Russian ship loaded with relief supplies for Egyptian war refugees arrived Saturday.

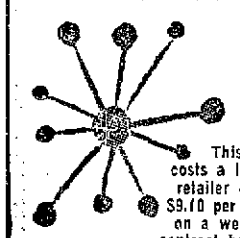

A large crowd met the vessel, shouting support for Egyptian President Nasser and Soviet Premier Bulganin.

The leader of the Soviet Red Crescent (Red Cross) mission told reporters:

"This gift is the expression of the Soviet people's friendship toward the struggling Egyptian people and is proof that a friend in need is a friend indeed."

The shipment included 3,000 tons of wheat, 500,000 tins of food, 10 ambulances, a completely equipped field hospital and medicines.

Dear Mr. Petree:

We very much appreciate the fact that we have been asked to participate in the BONUS BUY for this month.

For this occasion, we have produced an especially fine top-grain leather chair which will be a welcome addition to any fine home and for the price that it is being offered by Barker Brothers, I am sure it should prove to be the greatest event in BONUS BUYS for this year.

Because of the large committment placed by your firm for these chairs, we have been able to receive price concessions from the people who produce the leather and other sources from whom we buy raw materials making it possible to produce this chair for the price at which it is being offered.

Assuring you of our continued cooperation and again thanking you for the privilege of being called upon to serve you, we remain

Sincerely yours,

READIES FOR FIRST L. B. VISIT

Hawaiian Steamship Co.'s S.S. Leilani, which will begin passenger service to Hawaii from here and San Francisco next February, is shown receiving a final coat of paint at Camden, N. J., before delivery to its owner. The 700-passenger vessel is due here late in January, loaded with visitors from the East Coast. Several million dollars have been spent to enlarge and modernize the ship's facilities.

TRUCK TRAILERS ON RAIL CARS

Mail to Be Speeded 'Piggy Back'

Now it's "piggy-back" mail.

Verne Scoggins, regional director of the Post Office Department, announced Saturday the "piggy-back" system will be started this week. It will be used to expedite delivery of Christmas parcel post and bulk mail between San Francisco and Southern California.

Loaded truck trailers will be mounted "piggy-back" upon flat rail cars.

From the Los Angeles freight yards, trucks will move the trailers to a temporary mail terminal at Cheli Air Force Base. The base will service communities within 25 miles of Los Angeles.

The operation is expected to result in 650,000 sacks of mail by-passing the Los Angeles Post Office terminal annex.

Jewish Relief Drive

KIT CARSON VISITS SMALL FRY HERE

Surrounded by kids clutching his pictures, television's Kit Carson handed out autographs to the small fry gathered at Butler Brother's Department Store in Lakewood Saturday morning.—(Staff)

Hungary Ousts Last Yank Correspondent

VIENNA (UP)—United Press Correspondent Russell Jones, the only American newsman to remain in Budapest from the start of the all-out Russian campaign to crush the Hungarian revolt, Saturday was ordered to leave Hungary within three days.

Peter Kemp, correspondent of Catholic publication, was given similar expulsion orders by the Hungarian foreign ministry.

Jones, whose first Hungarian visa expired Friday, had been negotiating with the foreign ministry for several days for an extension until the end of the year.

Saturday he was summoned to the foreign ministry, given a three-day visa valid until Monday and told he must then leave.

"What happens if I stay?" Jones asked.

"Please, Mr. Jones, do not try to stay," he was told.

Kemp, who came to Budapest on behalf of the "Universe" and stayed on to represent the London Daily Express, previously had been given a visa valid until Dec. 9. Saturday it was cancelled and he was given a three-day visa similar to Jones'.

Jones entered Hungary on Oct. 29 without any visa at all but got permission to stay one month from the ill-fated government of Premier Imre Nagy.

Austin Goes Home

BURLINGTON, Vt. (AP)—Warren R. Austin, former U. S. ambassador to the United Nations who suffered a stroke at his home Oct. 12, was discharged Saturday from Mary Fletcher Hospital.

I, P-T Printer E. J. Quick, 35 Years on Job, Retires

Earl J. Quick, 5611 E. 23rd St., who worked for The Independent, Press-Telegram and its predecessors 35 years, set his last line of type for the newspaper last week.

Feted at retirement ceremonies, the printer was presented a cash gift from his associates by Les Williams, representing Long Beach Typographical Union 650, Independent, Press-Telegram Chapel.

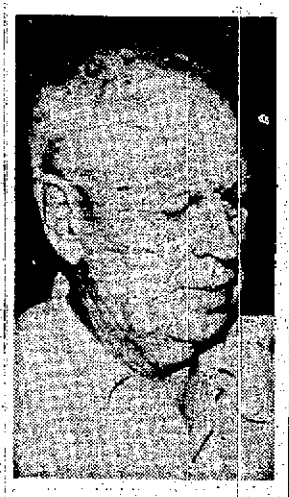

H. F. Burmester, Press-Telegram editor, presented Quick with a watch inscribed, "In appreciation of 35 years faithful and efficient service." In addition, the printer will receive full retirement benefits.

A native of Prairie City, Quick moved with his family to Perth, N. D., in 1904. It was there that two years later the 17-year-old boy first worked as a "printer's devil" after school.

In 1909 he started his apprenticeship with the Kalispell Bee in Montana. In 1921 he came to work for the Long Beach Press, predecessor of the Pdess-Telegram.

Quick and his wife, Katharine, are the parents of Mrs. Joanne Keen.

One of the printer's principal hobbies has been bowling. He has chalked up two perfect 300 scores.

Union Oil Transfers Control of Tankers

LOS ANGELES (UP)—Union Oil Co. of California turned over the management and operation of its tanker fleet Saturday to Pacific Coast Transport Co., a subsidiary.

E. L. Hiatt, vice president for transportation, said the switch was in line with the firm's policy of contracting for services not directly connected with production, manufacturing and marketing of petroleum and petroleum products.

Soviet Starts Flights

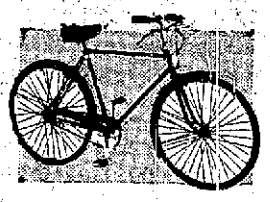

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet airline, Aeroflot flew one of its TU104 jet passenger planes to Peiping Friday to inaugurate a weekly jet express Prague-Moscow-Peiping service.

L. B. Library Offers Christmas Ideas

The Long Beach Public Library reminded residents Saturday that ideas and suggestions on all aspects of the Christmas holiday are available at the library.

"Books can offer a great deal of practical help on every phase of the Christmas celebration," Librarian Edwin Castagna explained.

Material ranges from the story behind Christmas to instructions for making gifts, decorations and Christmas cakes and cookies, the librarian said.

The story behind the celebration of Christmas is told in such books as James Barnett's "The American Christmas," Maymie Krythe's "All About Christmas," Frances Weiser's "The Christmas Book," Alfred Hotte's "1,001 Christmas Facts and Fancies," and Earl Count's "4,000 Years of Christmas."

* * * *

POETRY AND stories are found in "The Home Book of Christmas," edited by May L. Becker; "Let's Celebrate Christmas," by Horace Gardner; "The World's Greatest Christmas Stories," edited by Erick Posselt; and "A Christmas Book," by Dominic Lewis.

The library has numerous books on holiday decorations. They include Patricia Roberts' "Party Decorations for Christmas and Other Occasions"; Theodore Saros' "Christmas Lighting and Decorating"; Ann Wertsner's "Make Your Own Merry Christmas"; Dorothy Biddle's "Christmas Idea Book," and Marjorie Young's "Decorating for Joyful Occasions."

Other titles which have chapters on decorating, in addition to helpful material on gift-making, greeting cards and food, are "Popular Mechanics' Christmas Handbook," and "Today's Woman Ideas for Christmas."

* * * *

FOR HOLIDAY MENU ideas, the library has Charlotte Turgeon's "Cooking for Christmas" and Zella Boutell's "The Christmas Cook Book," which include both recipes and bits of legend, and the "Christmas Cookie Book," by Virginia Pasley. Carli Laklan's "Gifts From Your Kitchen" has more than 300 recipes for Christmas and other gift-giving occasions.

Numerous books are also available which offer suggestions for attractive and useful gifts that can be made at home.

Instructions for gift wrapping are covered in Margery O'Shaughnessy's "A Simplified Guide to Gift Wrapping" and Drucella Lowrie's "The Art of Wrapping Gifts."

IN SMALL BUSINESS CLASS

Every Man's a Boss!

They want to succeed—and they want to be their own bosses.

Those are the common interests of the 30 or so persons who meet at Long Beach City College Business and Technology Division at 7 p. m. Tuesdays.

They are members of a class on "How to Organize and Operate a Small Business." The instructor is Mrs. Eva Tibbetts.

With the exception of a married couple, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn M. Minott of Garden Grove, each student is bent on entering a different type of small business. Starting any business these days takes a lot of courage and know-how, says Mrs. Tibbetts.

* * * *

THE MINOTTS plan to enter the motel or lodge resort field. They say they are motivated by a desire to "get out of large cities and away from big business."

Joe DeMaio, 41, of 2021 W. Canton St., was cited by his instructor as a good example of the man who will probably succeed in an industrial shop.

After 11 years as a sheet-metal worker, J. L. Cobb, 28, of 1819 E. 52nd St., wants a life divorced from factory routine. He's considering a hardware or sporting goods store.

* * * *

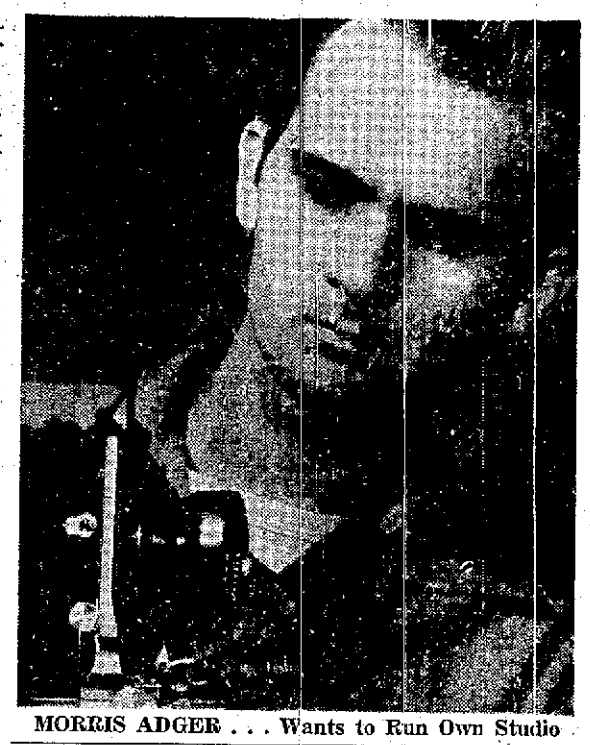

WITH A $200 "shoestring," petite, brown-eyed Yvonne McFarlin, 21, of 2324 Earl Ave., has already opened a small dance studio. She plans to confine her instruction to children.

Richard L. Davis, 24, of 1213 E. Washington St., has a manner as brisk and engaging as his butch haircut. He hopes to own a combination garage and service station.

Morris H. Adger, 24, of 356 Truman Boyd Manor, already is a successful candid cameraman—but he, too, wants to be his own boss. With five years' experience in portrait work, he feels he has a basis for his own business.

These and other students in the class use a State Department of Education text. They also benefit from the practical knowledge of their instructor, Mrs. Tibbetts.

Pontiff to Hold Rites This Week

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Pius XII today will begin participating in weeklong spiritual exercises in preparation for the Christmas season.

As last year, they will be conducted by the Rev. Giorgio Loiacono, Jesuit priest and professor of theology and philosophy, who will speak daily in a chamber near the Pontiff's Vatican apartment.

The Pontiff will sit alone, but the orator's daily spiritual talks also will be heard by cardinals and other high Vatican prelates who will take their places in an adjoining room. During the period, ending on Dec. 8, the Pope will suspend all audiences.

New Division Chief

WASHINGTON (AP) — Brig. Gen. William M. Breckenridge has been selected as the new commander of the 5th Infantry Division at Ft. Ord, Calif., an Army source said Saturday.

He now is chief of staff of the 5th Corps in Germany.

Knight Hails Electricians; Cites Deaths

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gov. Knight complimented electricians Saturday night for their safety work but noted that 30 persons were killed by electricity in California last year and urged even greater safety measures.

Speaking at a Los Angeles apprenticeship union graduation ceremony for electrical workers, Knight said "management and labor, working as a team, have it in their power virtually to wipe out electrical injuries and deaths."

"They tell me that the industrial revolution is entering a new phase, that mass production is to have an electrical brain," Knight said.

"They call this automation. The electrical industry which has been giving us light and heat and power—radio and television—will soon be even more indispensable to our way of life."

Graduate Gets Marilyn Note

CHESTER, England (AP) — Jeremy Spenser, 19, graduating from a military school here, said among his letters of congratulations was one from Marilyn Monroe. He declined to say what she said. Spenser recently worked with Miss Monroe in a film she made in England.

Flier Fined for Hitting Man

PRINCESS ANNE COURTHOUSE, Va. (AP)—Edward B. Segar, who was piloting a plane which struck his uncle while the latter was in a duck blind, has been fined $100 on a charge of reckless flying.

The wing tip of Segar's plane hit Edward R. Baird as he hunted in Back Bay Last Nov. 23.

Segar, 22-year-old commercial pilot, said he had flown close to the blind to drop a note to his uncle telling him where to look for ducks.

Judge J. Davis Reed, in imposing the fine against Segar, said the Civil Aeronautics Administration is investigating the case and will decide whether or not Segar's pilot license should be revoked.

1912 CRISIS RECALLED

Our Fleet Was One Ship

The crisis in the Middle East has turned back history's pages for one retired naval chief petty officer here.

For Bob Myers, 64, of 458 Platt St., the pages flip backward to November, 1912.

He was a seamen aboard the coal-burning, four-stacker cruiser Montana. The ship was moored to a dock in the "Back Channel" of the League Island Navy Yard at Philadelphia, Pa.

The United States was at peace, but there was war overseas. The fight was between the Balkan States and Turkey, then known as the Ottoman Empire.

Turkey's boundaries extended along the eastern Mediterranean from the Bosporus to the Egyptian border at Gaza, a familiar name in today's history.

* * * *

THE MONTANA and a sister ship, the Tennessee, were ordered to leave in 48 hours to reinforce our Navy in the Mediterranean.

BOB MYERS
Casbah Off Limits

Uncle Sam's Mediterranean fleet in 1912 consisted of one converted yacht called the Scorpion. It had seven officers and 80 enlisted men.

The Montana, making an average speed of 14 knots, reached Gibraltar in eight days and the Mediterranean in five more.

Her destination was Beirut, now in Lebanon but then in Syria. She was to patrol between Port Said, Egypt, and Alexandrette, Syria.

"Ours was a watchful, waiting mission," recalls Myers. "We participated in no armed maneuvers.

"We toured the Turkish coffee shops, found the Turks very friendly and tried smoking their hubble-bubble pipes. We frequented the shopping bazaars and acquired many souvenirs, some of which were stamped 'Made in U.S.A.'

"We drank huge quantities of rich German pilsner beer for a 'bechelek' (11 cents) a quart.

"We observed that the old ways lingered and the camel caravan was the principal method of moving supplies into and out of the city."

* * * *

AFTER ABOUT seven months of "watchful waiting," the Montana was ordered back to the states. En route, she stopped at Algiers.

"I remember that the Casbah was off limits and we were warned to keep away," said Myers. "Naturally, it was the first place we went."

Myers, now an employee of the Southern California Edison Co., was discharged from the Navy in 1927, but stayed on the reserve roster. He was recalled for duty in World War II and was assigned to maintain the electrical works at the Naval Air Station in Clinton, Okla.

"I'll never forget that place," he said. "I was the only sailing man on the whole air station."

Fire Destroys War Mementoes

HILLSBOROUGH (AP) — Retired Lt. Gen. Delos C. Emmons' collection of military mementoes was destroyed by a fire in his home Friday night.

Damage to a study and bedroom was estimated at $25,000.

"Everything I've collected all my life was burned," said Emmons, 67, who was World War II commander of the Western Defense Command.

The loss included autographed photographs of Presidents Roosevelt and Eisenhower, Winston Churchill and other dignitaries; family records dating back to the Revolutionary War, battle flags, and citations for the general's many medals.

Santa, Reindeer Too Busy to Stand Still

ARLINGTON, Va. (UP) — Arlington police were looking for Santa Claus and his reindeer "Blitzen."

They said a nine-foot Santa and his reindeer disappeared from a display being constructed at an Arlington shopping center.

FBI Poised to Seize Hawaii Subversives

By JOSEPH GRANT

HONOLULU (AP)—FBI agents here are ready to strike at a moment's notice to arrest potential subversives throughout the Territory of Hawaii.

A well kept watch list is in FBI files here. The agents cooperate closely with civilian police and military intelligence agencies, primarily the counter-intelligence corps, in compiling the list.

It gives the latest information, practically up to the hour, of the location of all persons on a "1-A" suspect list.

The FBI had the same type of list ready when the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor, although its Honolulu office opened only in 1939.

The FBI's first order when it opened then, from Agent-in-Charge Robert C. Shivers, was to "make a thorough appraisal of all the factors which have a bearing on the internal security of the islands."

By the evening of Dec. 8, 1941, a total of 482 people had been interned.

Since then the names have changed but suspect lists are still top priority in FBI and counter-intelligence offices.

* * * *

MOST OF the information on suspects is obtained from informants, paid or those who volunteer information. What they say is closely evaluated, and the information is coupled with an evaluation of the informant himself. This is to guard against rumor mongers or purposely planted false information.

Known espionage agents are rarely arrested during peacetime except in case of emergency.

* * * *

THE FORMER Agent whose name could not be disclosed, also pointed out:

"The Russians are old pros at this game, while we're still relative amateurs. But one thing is certain—we don't worry too much about the so-called 'prominent Communists' that make the papers.

"It's the quiet man who has been voting the Republican or Democratic ticket, pays his taxes, takes his kids to Sunday school and mows his own lawn Saturday afternoon.

"He doesn't have a police record. You probably would never remember his after passing him on the street."

But the 1-A lists probably have his name if he is involved in espionage or a potential saboteur.

Queen Inspects Float

Miss Universe, Miss Long Beach Prepare for Parade

By VERA WILLIAMS

Miss Universe of 1957—Carol Morris of Iowa—visited Pasadena the other day to see the Long Beach float on which she will ride in the 68th annual Tournament of Roses on New Year's Day.

Eddie Rickenbacker, celebrated war aviator, will be grand marshal of the parade.

As the world's first lady of beauty, Carol will help Long Beach portray "First in Beauty," as this community's floral entry in keeping with the pageant's 1957 theme, "Famous Firsts in Flowers."

Miss Universe will have four attendants: Miss Welcome to Long Beach, who is Sybil Smith; Miss Long Beach City, who will be chosen among city employes; a girl from Long Beach State College and a girl from Long Beach City College. These beauties have not yet been chosen.

* * * *

FOR THE PARADE, Miss Universe will wear the gown in which she was crowned last summer; her attendants will wear matching aqua gowns.

Long Beach floats have been consistent winners in Tournament parades, and "First in Beauty" is expected to be a strong contender for the Sweepstakes award.

Mrs. Isabella Coleman of Pasadena, who has designed most of this city's floats since 1932, is designing the 1957 float. It will have between 250,000 and 300,000 blossoms, she estimates, including 1,000 cattleya orchids, 7,500 large shocking pink "Better Times" roses and 5,000 China White chrysanthemums.

Seventeen feet high, 20 feet wide and 42 feet long—the maximum dimensions permitted by Tournament officials—the float will have a three-tiered base supporting a large swan, a Cupid fountain and a large throne protected by a dais.

* * * *

"BETTER TIMES" roses will cover the tiers forming the base and a full-length geometrical design made of cattleya orchids will decorate the pool of white roses.

Orchids and China White, Treasure Island and Peter Paul chrysanthemums also will cover the sides of each tier.

The swan made of Treasure Island chrysanthemums will float in a pool fed by the Cupid Fountain of Love made of cyclamen petals.

Miss Universe and her four attendants will be sheltered by an Arabian canopied dais from which four turrets will extend. Orchids and roses will decorate the dais and throne.

* * * *

MISS MORRIS, who comes from Ottumwa, Iowa, captured both the Miss United States and Miss Universe titles at the Miss Universe Beauty Pageant in Long Beach last summer.

Now under contract at Universal - International Pictures, she said she is "thrilled" that the University of Iowa will meet Oregon State College in the Rose Bowl Game, and the Hawkeye band will be seen in both the parade and game.

The statuesque 21-year-old brunette is 5 feet 7 inches tall, weighs 125 pounds, and measures 36-23-36.

* * * *

THE NAME Eddie Rickenbacker is practically synonymous with daring and with aviation.

In World War I, "Captain Eddie," flying primitive planes and without benefit of parachute, downed 26 German aircraft, giving him the title of America's "ace of aces." He was the most decorated flier of the war, holding the Croix de Guerre with four palms, Legion of Honor medal, Distinguished Service Cross with nine oak leaves and the Congressional Medal of Honor.

When the nation entered World War II, Rickenbacker went into the service again. He flew to all sectors on confidential missions for top leaders of the war effort.

DRAWING OF Long Beach float for Tournament of Roses holds attention of Carol (Miss Universe) Morris and float designer, Mrs. Isabella Coleman. Behind drawing is papier-mache figurine of Cupid, which will wear floral decorations on parade. Miss Universe will be queen of Long Beach floral display.

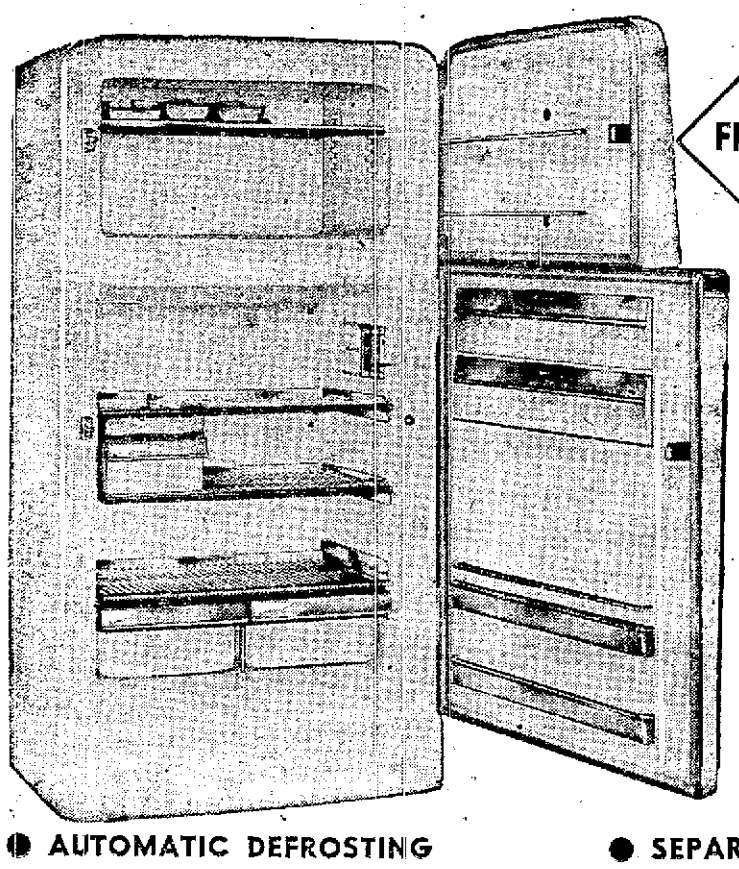

EX-MISS WELCOME TO LONG BEACH, Judy Ware models aqua acetate taffeta gown which will be supplied by Buffum's Department Store to the four beauties who will ride float with Miss Universe in Rose Tournament parade on New Year's Day.

U.S. Election Confusing to Russ Editor

MOSCOW (AP)—A Soviet editor who recently toured the United States as a State Department guest complained that American elections are too complicated. There are too many candidates, he said.

Here in the U.S.S.R. things are simpler: one party, one candidate.

The editor, V. L. Kudryavtsev of Izvestia, in the third of a series of articles giving his impressions of the U.S.-sponsored journey to observe the elections, said of the American practice of presenting to voters a long list of candidates for offices ranging from President to minor county posts:

"Truly one has to be an employe of a Washington institute of government affairs and not plain 'Joe Smith' to make out some extent what this is all about."

* * * *

THE SOVIET Communist journalist, who is accustomed himself to vote for a single-party, single-slate of candidates at home, complained that the American elections are monopolized by the Republican and Democratic parties.

He said that "actual control over the elections is taken over by two major parties. It is not known on what laws the claims for monopoly rights to represent the American public are based."

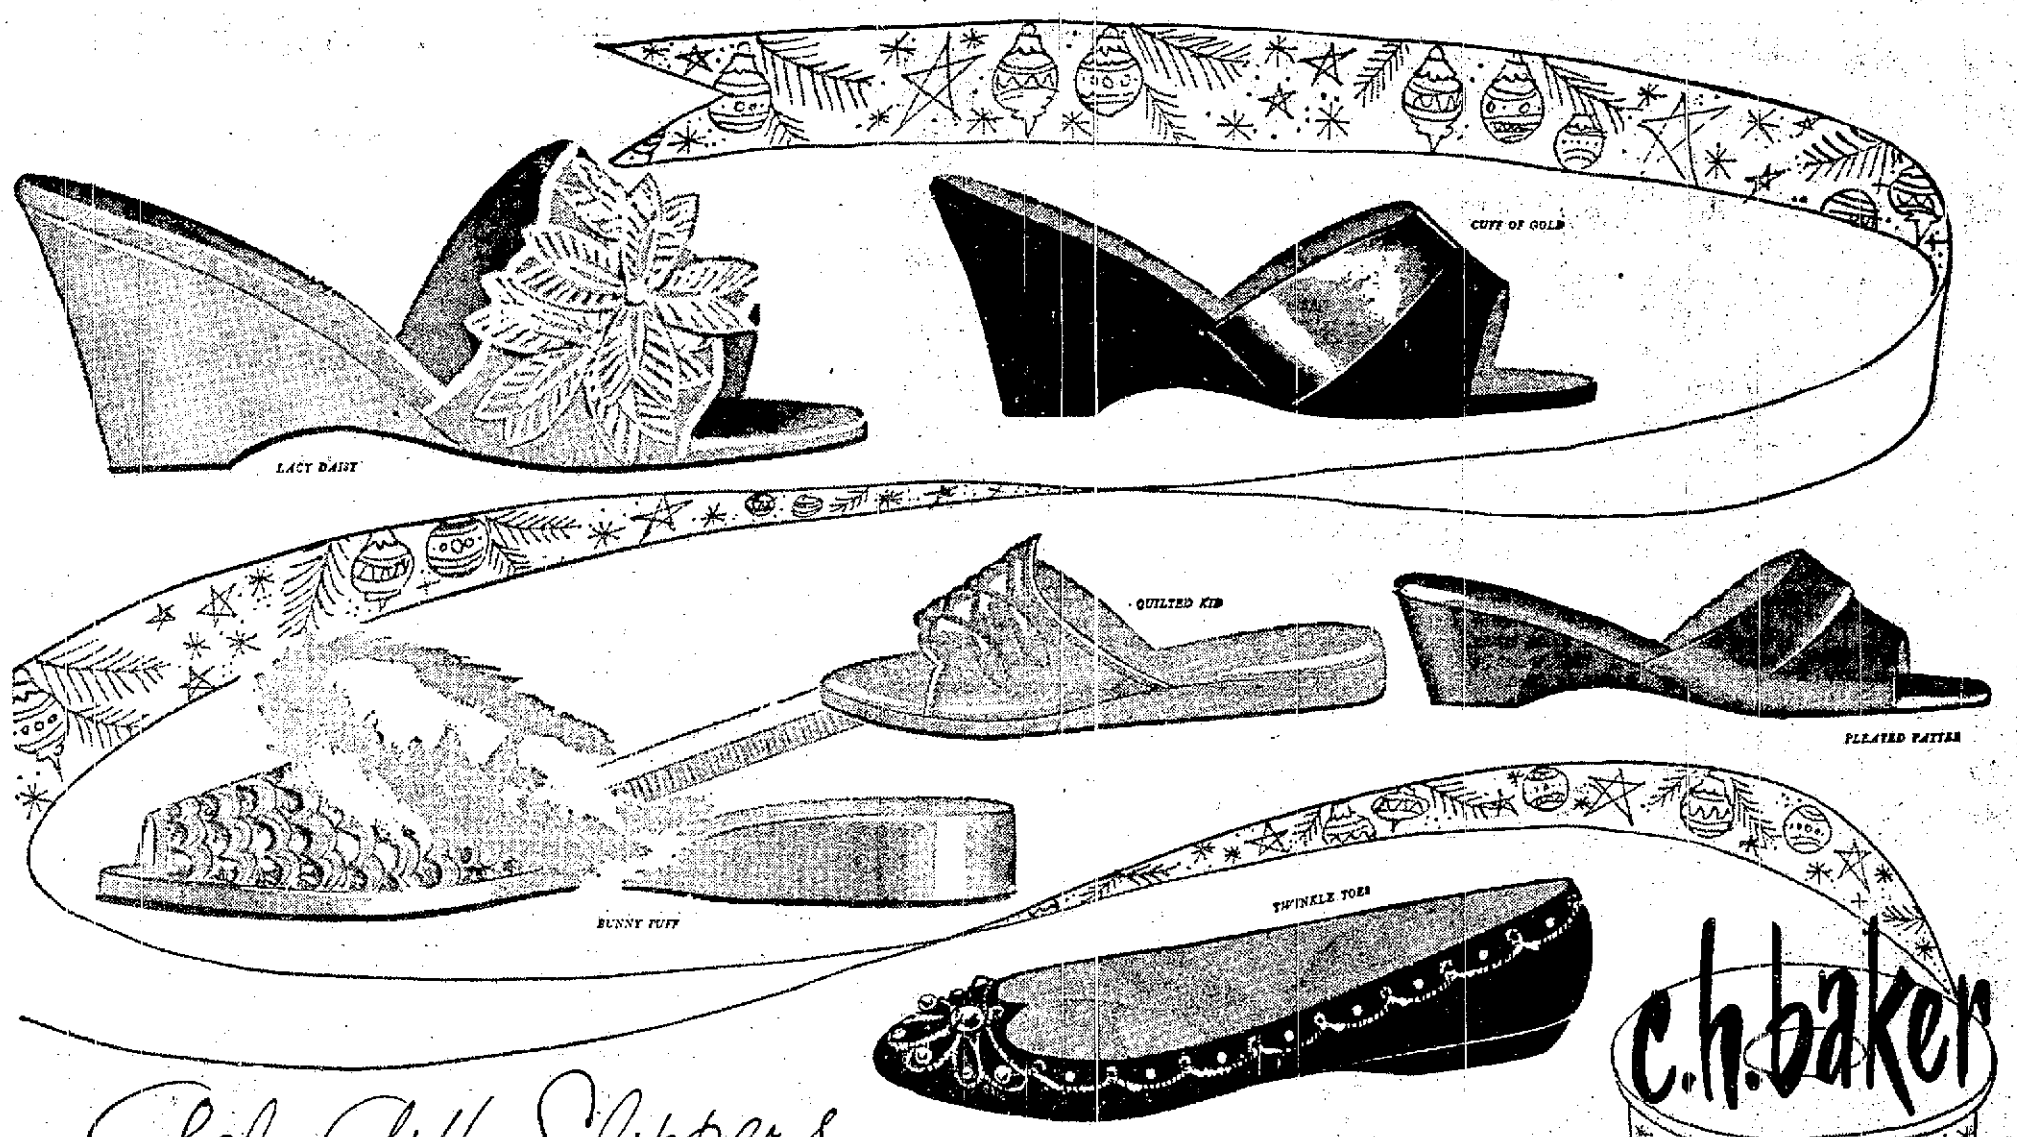

"Ruling circles of the United States fear the appearance of organizations on the political scene which could advance candidates from social groups," he wrote.

* * * *

"THEY STRIVE to pass off the Republican and Democratic parties as representatives of all Americans without exception, without separating them into social groups."

Kudryavtsev expressed surprise at the presence of police at election polling places.

The Russian journalist concluded: "The most important impression we brought from our trip is that the American people are striving for peace and want good, friendly relations with the Soviet Union.

CATASTROPHE FACED

Population Growth Problem for Japan

By DON BALDWIN

TOKYO (AP)—The Japanese people, whose industry and ingenuity welded a chain of tiny, mountainous islands into a great nation, today face a national catastrophe because of a vast and expanding population.

This California-size nation might support 60 million people. A few weeks ago the population topped 90 million, a figure which experts in years past have warned would be the "explosion" point. And government experts say the number of Japanese will increase every year until 1990 when the population will hit a peak of 108,475,000.

Experts around the world are watching Japan's efforts to trim its population. It may provide a test tube picture of what some scientists believe the whole world must ultimately face.

What is Japan doing to head off catastrophe? It has cut its birth rate to an all-time low in the years since World War II. It has a five-year economic plan which could be projected over a longer period. And some progress is being made toward developing new sources of food supply.

* * * *

BUT FEW EXPERTS think Japan can solve its problem alone, and many are hesitant to say a solution exists.

When the war ended in 1945 Japan counted 72 million people, about two million more than prewar. In the following 10 years its population increased 17,300,000, more than the 1950 population of Argentina.

The birth rate, low in 1945, jumped to 34.3 per 1,000 population by 1947. At the same time the death rate, steady at around 17 per 1,000 prior to the war, began a sharp decline to less than half the prewar rate.

Last year both birth and death rates hit new all-time lows, according to Welfare Ministry statistics. Births totaled 1,730,000, or 19.3 per 1,000 population, compared with about 25 for each 1,000 in the United States. Deaths totaled 690,000 or 7.8 per 1,000, well below America's 1954 average of 9.2 per 1,000.

* * * *

IT IS PREDICTED that Japan will reach a population of 100 million before 1970 and a peak of 108,475,000 in the following 20 years. After that, the population will decline and again fall below 100 million by 2015.

Study Urged on Effects of Radiation

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP)—A pilot study of the effects of radiation on the human body that would include 10,000 or possibly 100,000 persons has been proposed by Dr. L. H. Snyder, president of the American Assn. for the Advancement of Science.

Snyder, who is dean of the Oklahoma University Graduate School, told 250 delegates at the Oklahoma Academy of Science meeting here that there is an urgent need for accurate information and records on radiation exposure.

Snyder particularly mentioned lack of information on fallout of strontium-90, which he called "insidious."

"It is unfortunate that much of our information on these matters has reached us second hand from monitoring data of other nations," he said.

MOOSE PASTURE STOCKS

Public Buying Pie-in-the-Sky

By ROGER GREENE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pie-in-the-sky promoters are bamboozling the American public out of more than 150 million dollars a year in the biggest explosion of wildcat stock ventures since the roaring 20s.

Officials of the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC)—the federal "watchdog" agency over securities — are broadcasting that warning as complants from victims of get-rich-quick stock schemes pour in from all parts of the country.

The SEC's big headache is that thousands of investors, caught up in the fever of a stock market boom, are cashing in gilt-edge "blue chip" stocks to buy risky or worthless securities sold to them over the telephone by total strangers.

Why do they do it?

Big, grey-haired Tim Callahan, SEC special investigator, shook his head wearily.

"It's incredible," he said, "just incredible what people will fall for."

* * * *

CALLAHAN, AN almost legendary Yale football hero who twice made Walter Camp's All-America teams, said "boiler room" gyp artists masquerading as reputable brokers are peddling frozen Canadian Moose Pasture and Rocky Mountain Goat runs for tens of millions of dollars—and inflicting widespread heartbreak and tragedy.

"Telephone pitchmen, called loaders or dynamiters, put the pressure on victims to find out what securities they own and then switch them out of good, sound stocks and bonds into cheap unlisted securities," Callahan said.

Pitchmen get the names of prospective victims in a variety of ways including the purchase of lists from disgruntled former employes of reputable investment houses. Others may advertise investment advice. For three months or so the advice is relatively sound—then they throw the hooker.

The loader, said Callahan, is the prima donna of the boiler-room pirates. "He'll put in a long-distance call from New York to a rubber worker in Akron, Ohio, and tell him: 'Mr. Jones, a man in your position in life should have 10,000 shares of this wonderful stock.'

TIM CALLAHAN
It's Incredible

"In no time at all, the guy in Akron is so flattered he's gulping. He doesn't want the broker to think he's a cheapskate, particularly after the broker called him all the way from New York. So he agrees to buy 200 shares at 4 dollars a share, and the gyp pockets 800 dollars for three minutes' work over the phone."

Callahan said stock buccaneers often operate from blind addresses, without numbers on the door, in rat-infested lofts. One New York firm used the fancy-sounding name of a singing waiter in a German Hofbrau on its nameplate. It paid him 100 dollars a week for the privilege.

* * * *

SEC OFFICIALS emphasized that such boiler-room vultures—so called because of the din created by their fast-talking sales pitch in crowded hole-in-the-wall quarters—should not be confused with the vast majority of scrupulously honest investment firms.

Nevertheless, says SEC Chairman J. Sinclair Armstrong, the problem of shady dealers in serious and getting worse.

Flooding the country with glitering and often hard-boiled appeals to avarice, crack boiler-room "dynamiters" make as much as 3,000 to 6,000 dollars a week sitting at the telephone and high-pressuring victims in distant states.

One firm, recently shackled by the SEC, had a whopping bill of $207,369.32 for long-distance tolls in the first eight months of 1956.

Another New York broker, also the target of a SEC crackdown, sold 8,952,693 shares of dubious Canadian "Moose Pasture" stock for $30,629,302 and harvested a profit of $4,425,397 in a few months.

Among other things, according to the SEC, boiler-room spielers make widely exorbitant claims of rich oil strikes and promise that the stocks will "double your money before Christmas." All too often, the bottom drops out as the gypsters, having exhausted the field in one stock, turn off the pressure and start ballyhooing another wobbly issue.

* * * *

"SOMETIMES YOU wonder how they get away with it," Callahan said in an interview at the SEC's New York regional headquarters.

Callahan, the SEC's star roving sleuth, estimated there are 50 to 60 "boiler rooms" now operating in New York City alone.

Others are running full blast in Jersey City and Hoboken, N. J., and in several Canadian cities. Many of the Canada-based racketeers, he said, are Americans who were driven north of the border by tight U. S. laws.

Banner Metal Firm New Industry Here

Banner Metal, Inc., 2959 Victoria St., one of the newer industries to locate in the metropolitan Long Beach area, is now at full production in its new location, Ed Shaw, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Industrial Development Committee, reports.

"Vincent J. Ryan, president, and James D. Wilson, sales manager for Banner Metal, were guests at the Chamber's Board of directors' meeting last week to report on their company's operation," Shaw said.

Ryan said Banner Metals is the west's largest manufacturer of wire shelves, advertising display racks, and special material handling containers and equipment.

"Approximately 98 per cent of all baked goods in Southern California is delivered to stores on Banner's palettes.

"These sanitary trays were designed to replace the more cumbersome wooden trays used by many bakeries at one time.

* * * *

"THE COMPANY also manufactures wire baskets for cooking tuna. These are used by most of the tuna canneries in this area.

"One of our metal racks is specifically designed for radar construction. Radar sets and components are built on these racks and then shipped intact to their destination.

"Each salesman coming with the company has a unique challenge. Unlike most salesmen, he does not have certain customers to begin with, nor a particular territory. It is up to that salesman to build his own customers and territory by determining what Banner can manufacture that will suit the needs of a buyer. One example is the substitution of metal trays for wooden trays in a bakery.

"THIS COMPANY worked closely with world-famous furniture designer Charles Eames in designing a metal chair that has outlasted several other types that have been introduced on the market in the past five or six years.

"The company was founded in Los Angeles 25 years ago under the name of Wire and Metal Manufacturing Co., and has had three different owners. It occupied facilities at 2053 E. 38th St. six years before obtaining a 20-year lease on this new facility here in the Dominguez Estates area.

"We are now employing 100 persons at our plant, but we look forward to expansion in Long Beach in the near future and will probably soon employ approximately 300 persons.

"Banner Metals is more than pleased with its location here in smog-free Long Beach. We have found everything convenient for our employes and for the company itself," Ryan concluded.

Park Village Designed for Luxury Life

Park Village Estates in Anaheim have been designed for families with an inherent pride of ownership who want comfort and a real home, not just a shelter, report Pierce and Armour, the developers.

Located in Anaheim on Crescent between Magnolia and Dale Aves., the homes have 3 bedrooms and a family room, 2 full baths with stall showers.

Each home has a fireplace, extra wide overhangs and is filled with many extras found only in luxury-priced custom homes.

Among the features, the homes offer forced-air heating, O'Keefe & Merritt range and oven, G. E. dishwasher, G. E. disposal, range hood and fan, G. E. washer-dryer and the kitchen has great storage space.

Priced from $15,950 to $17,750, the homes may be reached from Long Beach by driving east on Carson St., which becomes Lincoln Blvd., to Dale St., just east of Hwy. 39, turn left and follow signs to models.

NEARING START OF ROYAL PALMS

Architects J. Richard Shelley and Francis O. Merchant, AIA, are shown with detailed working plans which they have completed for Royal Palms mutual-ownership apartments. The 12-story structure will be built at First and Atlantic Ave., downtown Long Beach. Construction is due to start soon, it was announced.

Royal Palms Construction Near

Completion of one of the last steps before start of construction of the Royal Palms apartment tower was announced with the finishing of the final detailed plans and specifications of the 12-story building. Architects J. Richard Shelley and Francis O. Merchant have completed these architectural drawings, and a complete set of plans is now on display at the model apartment.

Definite date for the excavation and start of construction will be announced shortly, according to E. T. Moore, of Moore Realty, sales agents.

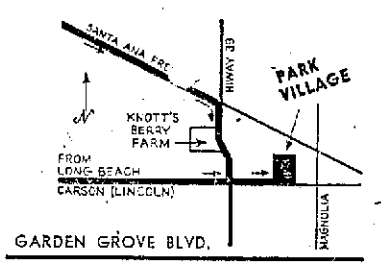

In accordance with FHA regulations governing this development, all purchasers must be approved by the FHA, and the processing of applications is now 75 per cent completed. Because some applicants have not qualified, several units—including a few choice view apartments—are now available and will be placed on sale Monday, according to Moore.

The steel, concrete and glass structure is due to rise at First and Atlantic Ave., a block from the ocean. Colorful kitchens, with built-in electric oven and range, are one of the many modern features of the 164 apartments. Swimming pool, patio, and social lounge are recreational facilities provided on the main floor.

Under the co-operative plan for operation of the Royal Palms, the regular monthly payment of the owner-resident covers all payments for interest and principal, taxes, insurance, repairs, maintenance, heating, redecorating, repairs, water, replacement of appliances, and reserve funds.

REALTY OFFICE OF WEEK

In business here 10 years, the E. T. Moore Realty Co. was selected for honor by the Long Beach Board of Realtors as the Realty Office of the Week. Here is shown the main office at 4151 E. Carson St. Other offices are at 4560 Orange Ave., 76 Atlantic Ave. and 2451 Bellflower Blvd. The firm reports $8,500,000 in sales the first 10 months this year. Moore, former Realty Board president, is active in many civic ventures and his offices provide complete realty servicing, including sales, rentals, property management, leasing, exchanges, escrows, loans and insurance.—(Staff photo.)

IN FOOTHILLS

Shown is one of 56 different exterior stylings offered in Sun Gold Hills, Santa Gertrudes and Janine Aves., north of Whittier Blvd., in the fast-growing east Whittier area.

Sun Gold Hills Sales Soaring

Crowds visiting Sun Gold Hills have doubled in size since the completion of work on Whittier Blvd., which has been widened and resurfaced, it was reported yesterday by Robert H. Walter, president, Sun Gold, Inc.

As a result, sales of the $17,000 to $25,000 Individualized homes have reached a new peak and there has been a big rush to buy a limited number of homesites offered within the development, at Santa Gertrudes and Janine Aves., north of Whittier Blvd.

The lots, which range in size from 90 feet by 120 feet to full acres, are priced from $7500 to $10,000. Full acres are offered for as little as $8900, according to Robert H. Smith, sales manager.

The lots are being sold for 25 per cent down, with 10 quarterly payments at six per cent, he said. Both VA and FHA terms are available to home buyers with monthly payments arranged from $110, including all costs. Vets pay about 10 per cent down while non-vets are making down payments of approximately 25 per cent.

Homestead Gardens Sale Gets Results

The big "Homestead Sale" of quality-built residences at Homestead Gardens in Garden Grove will continue this weekend following the sale of over $300,000 worth of homes during the past 7 days, it was announced yesterday by Walker & Lee, Inc., sales agents.

Feature of the special sale is the opportunity for both vets and non-vets to move into the 3-bedroom, 2-bath homes for only $50.

"These new special 'Homestead Sale' terms have brought us the biggest crowds of the fall selling season," stated a Walker & Lee spokesman. The homes are located on Verano St., just north of Westminster Ave., within easy access of the Santa Ana Freeway.

* * * *

EXEMPLIFIED BY a display of model homes with complete furnishings by Aaron Schultz, the Homestead Gardens dwellings are built on spacious lots containing a minimum of 7200 square feet, have thermostat controlled heating, big wardrobe closets, steel casement windows, fibre-glass insulation, acoustic ceilings, lath and plaster walls, stall showers with large glass doors and big garages with added storage space.

Other home features include garbage disposers and many kitchen conveniences. All homes have wide driveways, weatherstripping on doors, 40- to 50-gallon automatic water heaters, gutters, downspouts, and wide overhangs. While some models have Modernfold doors to add to the flexibility of living arrangements.

New Apartments Proving Popular

The latest in apartments for Downey, Woodruff Square, is drawing much interest of renters, said Robert E. Rodgers, Jr., of the Southtown Realty and Investment Co., agents.

Woodruff Square's location at Woodruff and Foster Aves. is accessible to all every-day needs. Two shopping centers are located within three blocks of the buildings. There are four schools very near to the project and North American Aviation and Rheem Manufacturing Co. are within a 5 minute drive.

Features of the apartments, designed and built by Jerome M. White & Associates, Los Angeles, are built-in copper hoods within a 5-minute drive. lighting, garbage disposals, hardwood floors, wardrobe closets, built-in TV antenna outlets.

SPECIAL SALE

A special "Homestead Sale" of three-bedroom, two-bath homes at Homestead Park permits both vets and non-vets to move in for just $50. Typified above, the residences are located on Verano St., just north of Westminster Ave., Garden Grove.

Security Traders Honor L. B. Man

At the annual election of the Security Traders Association of Los Angeles, Clemens T. Lueker, 3856 Pacific Ave., was elected vice president for 1957.

Lueker, who is manager of the trading department of Hill Richards & Co., is currently serving as secretary of the association, and in the previous year also held the office of treasurer.

He is a lifetime resident of Long Beach, graduating from Polytechnic High School in 1936.

Big Health Center for Steel Workers

PITTSBURGH (LE)—A "positive approach to maintain the employe in health" underlies the plans of the nation's second largest steel-maker for its $400,000 health center.

Construction has started here on the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. health center which will serve the 12,000 employes of the firm's Pittsburgh works.

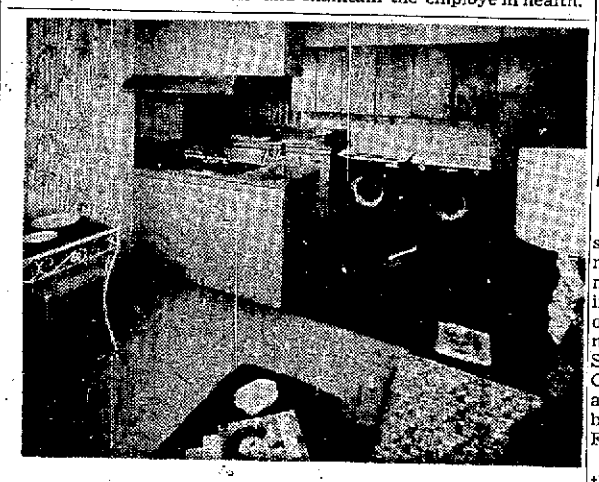

The one-story building of steel and glass will house a suite for first aid treatment, facilities for physio-therapy and rehabilitation, an emergency operating suite, X-ray equipment, private consultation and examination rooms, a laboratory, an electro-cardiogram room, nurses' quarters, a library, and a conference room.

Adm. Ben Moreell, chairman of the J. & L. board, said:

"We regard our program as one of preventive medicine which cooperates with constructive public health activities."

The corporation's medical director, Dr. D. J. Lauer, put it this way:

"There are two approaches to industrial health. The traditional one has been a negative and defensive approach. We propose a positive approach to maintain the employe in health."

IN ANAHEIM

The above kitchen view is representative of the New Approach Homes of the Butler-Harbour Construction Co. Four finished models are on display at 8333 Lincoln Ave., Anaheim, just off the Santa Ana Freeway.

Will Continue Opening of New Approach Unit 2

Extension of the grand opening of a new second unit of New Approach homes and announcement that some homes may be had in time for occupancy before Christmas holidays are expected to attract large weekend crowds to the popular new residential community in Anaheim.

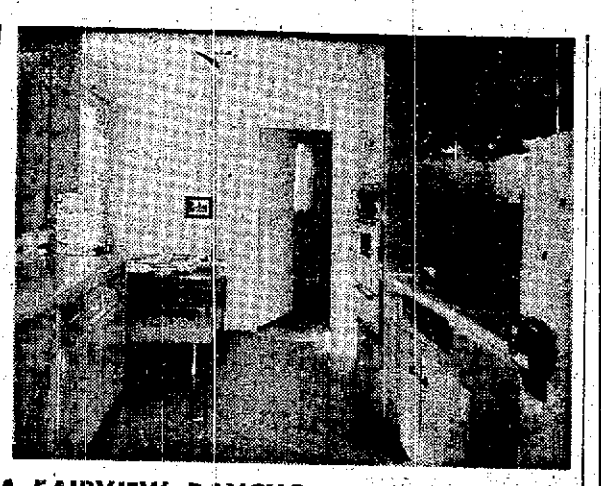

"Construction is being pushed on a number of homes to meet the demand for homes for the holidays," declared a spokesman for the Butler-Harbour Construction Co., developers of the property at 8333 Lincoln Ave., just off the Santa Ana Freeway.

Four furnished model homes, with decor by C. Tony Pereira, are attracting large crowds week-days, as well as weekends. The homes were designed by AIA Architect Roy W. Donley and are priced from $16,000 to $17,995.

* * * *

IT WAS NOTED by Walker & Lee, Inc., sales agents, that veterans may buy on terms which allow them to move in for as low as $675 down, including all costs. For non-vets, there are FHA terms as low as $2,900 down, plus costs and impounds.

Planned for families in the $500 to $600 a month income range, the homes have such luxury features as large sliding glass doors, color-styled automatic gas ranges and ovens with lights and fans, natural ash kitchen cabinets, tile counters, tile range tops with wainscot, automatic dishwashers, garbage disposers and louvered windows.

A FAIRVIEW RANCHO

Corner of kitchen in new Prince Charming series of Fairview Ranchos, featuring exciting all-new Waste King built-in equipment is shown. Development is at Fairview and Bristol Ave. in Santa Ana.

Charm Is Appealing in Fairview Rancho

The unusual combination of story-book charm and almost magical automatic kitchens, makes the new "Prince Charming" series of Fairview Ranchos one of the most attractive and novel developments in the Southland, according to Frank Chandler of Key Land Co., sales agents for the D & E Corp.'s big-family homes at Bristol and Fairview, in Santa Ana.

Designed to reflect much of the charm of nearby Disneyland, Chandler points out that these 3-bedroom and 2-and-a-den, 2-bath, 2-car garage homes, also present the remarkable new kitchen equipment created by Waste King, such as the built-in gas range with automatic pilot, "spillover" trays, and burners guaranteed for life, the unusually large wall oven with full-view window, eye-level control panel, waist-high broiler, and automatic oven-tender timer, all available in charming new colors.

* * * *

ALSO INCLUDED in these kitchens is a super-quiet built-in dishwasher with roomy contour racks and a revolutionary rinsing and drying action that prevents steaming up of walls and windows. And, of course, the famed Waste King Pulverator.

Full price for the "Prince Charming" series of Fairview Ranchos is only $13,750, Chandler reports, with monthly payments of $69.67, which includes principal and interest. Veterans still pay the easy way, with no down payment except impounds and closing costs.

However, not only the kitchens and the easy financing, Chandler reports, are drawing value-wise homeseekers to Fairview Ranchos. Equally attractive are the quality-construction features of the homes themselves, he points out, with their wide brick fireplaces of floor-to-ceiling height, the spacious dining rooms and terraces; the abundant supply of natural-finish ash hardwood cabinets; the select oak floors and lath and plaster walls.

There are separate service porches.

To reach Fairview Ranchos from Long Beach take 7th St. to Bristol, then turn right on Bristol to the furnished models.

Can Trade Old Home for New

Trading in an old house on a new one is getting to be an accepted buying procedure according to Alvin P. Pedersen, one of the builders of the Goetz Villa homes in Garden Grove. Many paying on a VA or FHA loan may have a considerable equity built up in their old house, he explains, and this equity can usually be converted into cash to cover the down payment and costs of moving into a new, larger, more suitable home.

The only difficulty in most cases is that the home owner doesn't know how to go about making the exchange. "We have made it easy for them," Pedersen stated. In all cases, if a house qualifies under our home trade-in plan, we feel reasonably certain of making a complete transaction suitable to the present owner within 30 days."

* * * *

THE GOETZ VILLA HOMES that are offered under this trade-in arrangement are among the most completely equipped homes ever presented in this area. For example, even clothes poles and incinerators are included. The kitchens boast of fully built-in ovens and ranges, as well as the garbage disposal, exhaust fan and hood, dishwasher and exceptionally spacious cupboard and cabinet space.

The spacious living rooms are highlighted by huge corner fireplaces with extensive use of brick reaching from hearth to ceilings.

To see the Goetz Villa homes, from Long Beach, drive out to 7th St., turn north on West St. to Lampson Ave., then west to the sales office and model homes.

Job Agencies Elect Bane

The South Coast Chapter of California Employment Agencies recently chose Taylor F. Bane of Caldwell Personnel Agency to head the group for the coming year. Bane is well known as a personnel specialist.

TAYLOR F. BANE

Other officers for 1957 include Robert Cushman, Sierra Employment Agency, vice president; Mrs. Vi Bane, Certified Personnel, secretary-treasurer; Leo Hill, Select Personnel; Mike Payette, Belmont Employment; Blaine Smith; Wes Employment Agency, Norwalk, and Flo Bailey of the Flo Bailey Agency in Compton on the board of directors.

T. F. JOHNSON
To Speak Here Tuesday

FHA Official Realty Speaker

Thomas F. Johnson, assistant commissioner of the Federal Housing Administration, Washington, D. C., will be the speaker at the Board of Realtors breakfast meeting Tuesday in Lafayette Hotel.

Johnson, former economist of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, is in charge of the operations and functions of the various FHA programs and the legislative proposals for changes in the programs.

Verne Morrill, program chairman for the month, arranged for Johnson's appearance.

A trio from Wilson High School will sing Christmas carols. They are Connie Gillette, Marilyn Wright and Kay Donald.

FHA Appraiser Realty Speaker

Morris Leenov, FHA chief appraiser for the Long Beach area, will be the speaker at the North Long Beach Real Estate Club breakfast meeting Thursday morning at Mayo's Cafe at 8 a.m. Josephine Clendening is program chairman.

Will Convene in Palo Alto

Loren H. Evans, president of the Long Beach Assn. of Life Underwriters, will head a large delegation of Long Beach life insurance men at the California State Association of Life Underwriters' Mid-Year Convention this week in Palo Alto.

According to Evans, who represents Manufacturers Life Insurance Co. in Long Beach, 1544 E. 7th St., the meeting will be held Dec. 6, 7 and 8 at Rickey's Studio Inn near Stanford University.

Headlining the list of speakers will be A. Jack Nussbaum, president of the National Association of Life Underwriters.

The meeting will also feature a large display of materials used by the Long Beach professional association and other California associations in their work.

Soft Goods Gains Seen in Big Christmas Buying

NEW YORK — An emphatic resurgence of downtown selling coupled with a strong swing to soft goods sales and an overall increase in retail sales are indicated for Christmas, 1956, in a nationwide survey of department store retailers conducted by the Bureau of Advertising, American Newspaper Assn., through its member newspapers.

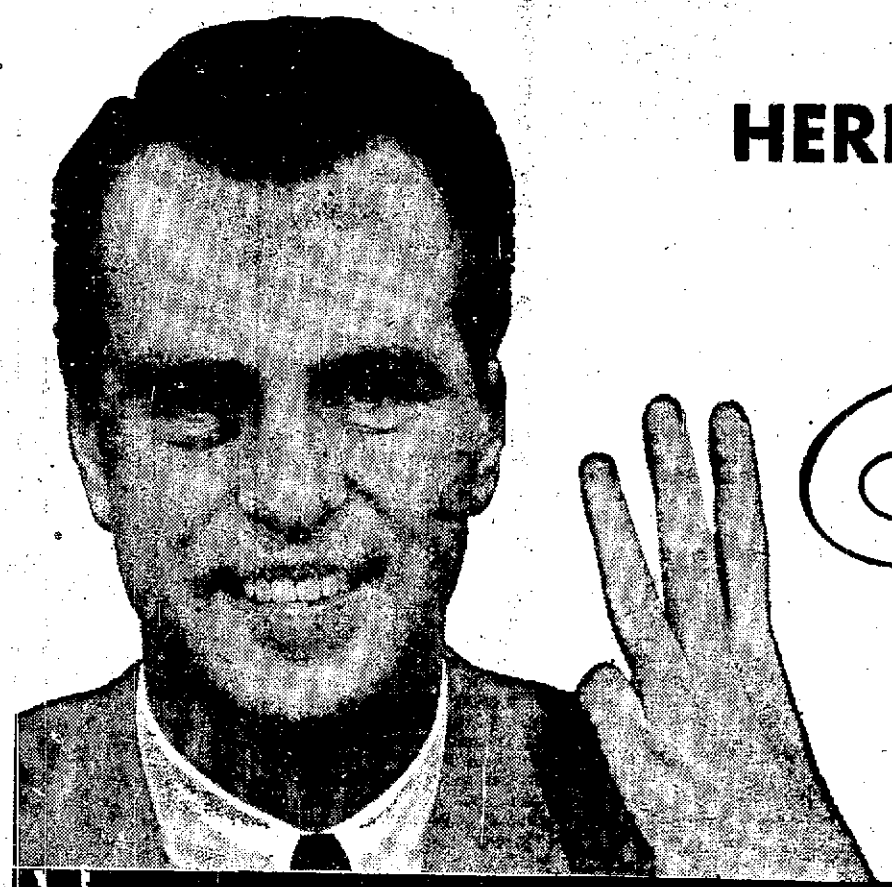

The survey included 110 retailers representing 55 key markets in 24 states and two Canadian provinces.

Fully three-quarters of the retailers surveyed expect downtown stores to gain ground this Christmas against outside competition. Ten per cent expect downtown stores to lose ground, while 15 per cent either expressed no opinion or stated they had no such problem.

* * * *

BACKING UP evidence in recent months of a trend back to soft goods selling are the beliefs of 74 per cent of the retailers surveyed who expect a bigger percentage gain in soft goods than hard goods.

When placing their advertising retailers continue to rely on newspapers as their basic medium, survey results show. More than 8 out of 10 retailers interviewed plan to invest 80 per cent or more of their advertising budget in newspapers. Sixty-three per cent will place 90 per cent or more of their ad funds in newspapers, and 18 per cent will allocate the entire Christmas ad budget to newspapers.

IN GARDEN GROVE

Typified is the Midwood-Signature Homes "Special Edition" series shown on Dale St., between Ball Rd. and Cerritos Ave., in Garden Grove. "First Edition" homes are at Magnolia and Cerritos, nearby.

Garden Grove Signature Homes Are Located in Expanding Area

Tremendous growth of the Garden Grove area, as reflected in the rapid building of new churches, schools and shopping centers, is further underscored in increased crowds visiting Signature Homes, outstanding new residential development.

James Waters, sales manager for Midwood-Signature Homes, reported that 20 new churches have been organized in Garden Grove in the past two years and said that 8 new schools are now under construction.

Additionally, he pointed out, 8 new shopping centers are now rising.

"All this activity is indicative of the growing popularity of Garden Grove as a residential area and helps explain why we have thousands of visitors weekly to see our two displays of furnished model homes," he said.

* * * *

ONE DISPLAY is a showing of 4 furnished homes in Signature Homes new "First Edition" series of luxury 3-bedroom and family room or 4-bedroom, 2-bath residences at Magnolia and Cerritos Aves. The "First Edition" homes are priced from $15,800.

The second display exemplifies the "Special Edition" series, companions to the larger homes offered from $11,700. These have 3 bedrooms and 2 baths and are being shown on Dale St., between Ball Rd. and Cerritos Ave., not far from the "First Edition" homes. All of the furnished models are open daily and Sunday from 10 a.m. until 8 p.m.

Vets may buy the smaller homes on terms from $234 down, plus costs and impounds, while vets' down payments are from $316, plus costs and impounds for the larger homes.

FHA terms are offered non-vets on homes in both series, with monthly payments from $52.50 and from $66.42, both principal and interest, applying to the smaller and larger Signature Homes.

Street Name Now Longer

CHICAGO (AP)—Street names are getting longer.

A survey of 971 typical street names has been made to determine what is happening to their street signs and their designs.

Today's average street name has almost seven letters, but the average is held down by such old-time favorites as Oak, King, Queen, Walter, River, High, East, West, North and South.

The higher average is due to the suburbanite's desire for a quaint or exclusive sounding street like Wyldhaven, Frost Woods, Briar Cliff, Trestle and Magnolia.

Anaheim Home Fair Takes Cal-Vet Loan

Starting today Anaheim Home Fair Homes have been equipped to take advantage of the new 3 per cent Cal-Vet Loans, it was announced by Tom Keys, sales manager for Walker & Lee, who are handling the sales for this popular Anaheim development.

This financing for California veterans can mean a saving of $25 per month based on rates for normal mortgage financing. "Of course," Keys stated, "FHA financing is available to non-veterans."

Among the many exceptional features found in the Anaheim Home Fair Homes are built-in Western-Holly range and oven, built-in GE dishwasher, built-in GE washer and dryer in color; modern or provincial hardwood cabinets of alderwood, birch or ash, slumpstone or brick fireplaces with paneling, big family rooms with breakfast bar, steel casement windows, oak floors, open beamed ceilings, and custom lighting fixtures with choice of provincial or modern.

Monthly payments to the non-veteran on FHA terms that include principal and interest are only $62.25 per month. Monthly payments on Veteran financing that also include principal and interest are only $78.17.

In cooperation with the United States Marines, Anaheim Home Fair Homes have been designated as an official collection agency in the "Toys for Tots" drive and convenient receptacles have been placed throughout the development so that visitors may place their toys so some needy child will have a Merry Christmas this year.

To reach Anaheim Home Fair Homes from Long Beach drive out Carson (Lincoln in Orange County) to Euclid and turn right to Broadway and model homes.

Sees Million Homes in '57

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Walter H. Dreier, president of the United States Savings and Loan League, predicts that more than a million new homes will be built in 1957.

Dreier made the statement as the executive committee of his organization met to complete plans for the start of the group's annual convention.

The league claims a membership of more than 4,300 savings and loan associations which finance about 40 per cent of American home purchases.

Dreier said that the "worst of the decline in new home building is behind us."

"If during 1957," he said, "there appears to be any chance that the number of new starts will drop below the million mark, I am positive that the national administration and the Congress will act promptly to prevent any such decline." He added:

"The building and sale of new houses in many areas has slowed down for reasons in addition to financing problems. New and existing houses are staying on the market longer, because the demand for housing is not as strong now as it has been in other postwar years."

Imperial Estates Selling Well Ahead of Building

There are three main reasons why the homes in Imperial Estates new unit 16, in Norwalk, are selling faster than they can be completed, explains Frank Chandler of Key Land Co., sales agents for the recently opened large 3-bedroom, and 2-bedroom and den family residences with two baths, built by the D and E. Corp.

"First," said Chandler, "although they are secluded and 'away from it all,' they are only 20 minutes from the Los Angeles Civic Center. Second, the fine quality of their construction can be seen at a glance. And third, the terms on which they are being sold are easy for everyone."

Full price is from $13,100, with low down payments to veterans, plus costs and impounds, and low monthly terms of $66.38, which includes principal and interest.

* * * *

COMBINING THE practicality of traditional design with the best of contemporary design, the sturdy conventional construction of these homes is shown by their fine interior detailing — the genuine lath and plaster walls, acoustical plaster ceilings, oak hardwood floors over raised wooden subflooring, and large sliding glass walls to the spacious patios.

Built-in functionalism and beauty, it is explained, extends into every room in these homes, especially the kitchens with their many handsome ash cabinets, upholstered breakfast buffet, colorful ceramic tile counterstops, range hood with fan, semiautomatic dishwasher, and sink-installed disposer. Big separate service porches are also provided for all laundry-day activities.

All lots are being professionally landscaped. Three furnished models showcase the homes. They are reached by Lakewood Blvd., to Rosecrans Ave., with a left turn on Curtis-King Road to the development.

IN IMPERIAL ESTATES

Quality of construction, fine detailing and functional built-ins are stressed in the Imperial Estates' new 16th unit, at Curtis-King Rd. and Rosecrans, in nearby Norwalk. Built by the D & E Corp., the development offers many stylings, including the one shown above.

Crossroads Village Homes on Sale Near Santa Ana

Crossroads Village, a collection of California contemporary homes, opens a new unit for sale today in the southern suburbs of Santa Ana, Marvin Stiller, sales manager, announced.

Minutes from El Toro as well as the beach cities, the new homes have been priced from $12,975 to $13,235 for 3 and 4 bedrooms, den or family room, 2 baths and numerous built-in conveniences.

Designed by Cliff Olsten, the new Crossroads Village homes are all built on large lots with a maximum of glass walls and specious interiors.

KITCHENS FEATURE built-in ranges and wall-oven, garbage disposer, range hoods, birch cabinets and Formica-topped drainboards. Living rooms have sliding glass doors and giant Texas sandstone fireplaces. Bathrooms utilize chrome accessories, Coralite tile, glass showers. Bedrooms have deep walk-in wardrobes. All homes are heated by forced air with thermodstatic control reaching to every room.

For vets, monthly payments run as low as $65.79, including principal and interest. Homes in the area are already occupied, with schools, churches and shopping centers nearby. Downtown Santa Ana is less than two minutes away.

To visit Crossroads Village from the Beach cities, drive Coast Hwy. 101 to Newport Beach, out Newport Blvd. to Delhi. From El Toro, take Inland Hwy. 101 north to Newport Blvd., then left to Delhi and right to furnished models.

Builder of Crossroads Village is the well-known Godbey Development Co., with headquarters in the area.

Reds Giving Farm Medal

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union has announced a new medal — this time for "virgin land development."

Inaugurated to spur one of Communist leader Nikita Khrushchev's pet projects, the medal will go to collective farmers, workers on state farms, machine tractor stations, and trade union functionaries for outstanding work in developing virgin or long fallow land in such areas as Kazakhstan, Siberia, the Volgabasin, and the northern Caucasuses.

A PARK 7 HOME

Sales of $650,000 of Park 7 "Traditional Series" homes, such as the model pictured above, have been made in less than 4 weeks, sales agents reported. The new Park 7 Homes are located 11 minutes from the heart of Long Beach, via E. 7th St.

New Park 7 Series Selling Fast

An appreciative public has purchased $650,000 worth of the new, Park 7 "Traditional Series" homes in less than 4 weeks, Don Coleman, sales agent, reported.

Coleman said he had "never seen anything like" the public enthusiasm for the new 3-bedroom homes which were recently opened to the public.

Designed by Architects Carlson and Middlebrook, the "Traditional Series" homes are a sharp departure from the celebrated Park 7 "modern classics." They feature towering cedar shake roofs and sparkling diamond - lite windows. Rough used brick and wide use of wood paneling are prominent on the gabled exteriors. Eaves are wide and sun-sheltering.

* * * *

LOCATED exactly 11 minutes from downtown Long Beach, the new Park 7 homes are priced from $15,475, complete. They are available both to veterans and non-vets on low VA and FHA terms. Monthly payments are as low as $79.70.

Within the new homes, living rooms are built around fireplaces of used brick or slumpstone, with wide, raised hearths, each containing a fireplace log lighter.

Typical of the attention to detail in the new Traditional Series are such items as silent mercury switches throughout, and unique folding mahogany closet doors which make possible immediate access to all parts of the closet.

* * * *

IN THE SUN-LIT Park 7 kitchens are built-in oven and range in color, garbage disposer, kitchen exhaust fan and durable ceramic tile.

Among many construction "firsts" in the new homes is the new 2-4-1 sub-floor construction designed by the Douglas Fir Plywood Assn. This method insures absolutely level floors and eliminates the shrinking and settling common to new homes.

To visit the new development, take 7th St. straight east from the heart of Long Beach to the big Park 7 signs.

Large Crowds, Sales Soaring in Midwood-Signature Estates

Heavy sales and increased crowds greeted the opening of two furnished model homes at Midwood-Signature Estates in Fullerton Sunny Hills area, it was reported yesterday by Sales Manager James H. Walters.

Walters said the long Thanksgiving weekend was the start of one of the best weeks in the history of Signature Estates.

Complete with furnishings by Lloyd's of Long Beach, the new display of model residences is located on Highland Ave., just east of Richman Ave., and is reached from Los Angeles by following the Santa Ana Freeway to Commonwealth Ave. which is followed to Richman Ave., where a north turn leads to Highland Ave. and the new dwellings.

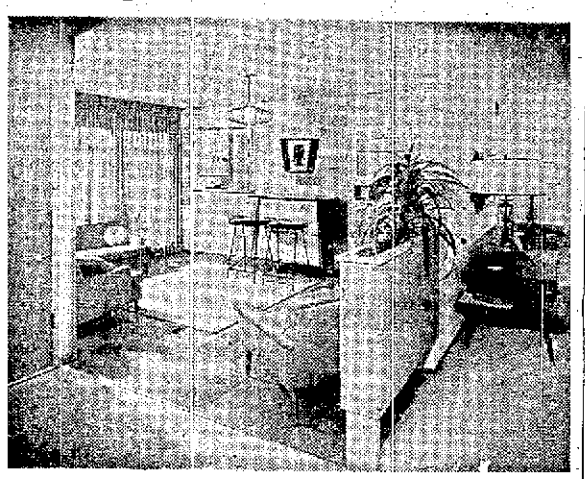

"All Signature Estates homes have two attractive baths and buyers are given their choice between 4-bedroom floor plans and plans with 3 bedrooms and an ideally arranged family room," Walter said, pointing out that the development offers the widest selection of architectural stylings.

* * * *

ESPECIALLY POPULAR, he noted, is the inclusion of all-electric kitchens, complete with such conveniences as wall-hung refrigerators and freezers, built-in ranges and ovens, automatic dishwashers, automatic washers and dryers.

Offered in a wide choice of colors, including turquoise green, woodtone brown, petal pink and canary yellow, the appliances are a "no cost extra" in the homes which are priced from $22,900.

Terms for vets are from $460 down, plus costs and impounds. Non-vets pay low FHA down payments and from $91.81 monthly, principal and interest.

IN SUNNY HILLS

New Midwood-Signature Estates homes, as typified above, are now being shown on Highland Ave. just east of Richman Ave., in the Sunny Hills region of Fullerton. Four-bedroom and three-bedroom with family room plans, all with two baths, are offered.

Joins Prudential

George V. Fenton, 3774 Conquista Ave., has been appointed agent for the Prudential Insurance Co. in the Long Beach district agency, it was announced yesterday by Robert B. Turner, manager.

Cunningham Newest Unit Selling Fast

Cunningham Co. surpasses it's reputation for top construction and fine features in their latest development, Stratford Homes of Anaheim, reports Charlie Sanders, sales manager, who has been associated with the construction company's developments 8 years. The Broadway Euclid Series of 3 and 4-bedroom, 2-bath dwellings are really being purchased by home-seekers who value the ideal location as well as the construction qualities of the homes, said Sanders. Many of the buyers, he reveals, are second-home-buyers who are using their equities to finance the down payments on Stratford Homes.

Rare hardwood sakar cabinetry highlights the kitchens, which have an abundance of cupboard space, gas or electric built-in oven and range, ventilating hood and fan, garbage disposal, dining areas, formica counter tops and built-in clocks and door chimes.

* * * *

PANELED FIREPLACE walls —many with built-in bookcases —built-in dressing tables in some models, luxury-size bathroom mirrors, dust-free slab doors and lustrous oak floors with 2-inch tongue and groove subfloors are features.

Formica sink tops in both baths, Pullman lavatories, and a stall shower in the master bedroom bath, sliding glass doors, patios, service porches, storage room and hobby space in the oversize garages, sidewalks and street lights installed are more of the qualities.

Priced from $15,750, Stratford Homes are available on both VA and FHA financing. Models are reached from Long Beach, by driving out Carson St. and turning right on Euclid Ave. to Broadway.

Harbor Park Estates Are Selling Fast

Spurred by the wishes of new owners to be completely settled in their homes by the holiday season, Harbor Park Estates sales show an advance expected to remain steady, reports a spokesman for the development of 3 and 4-bedroom, 2-bath homes. In addition to the immediate possession of the homes, the ideal Garden Grove location and the many top quality features are more sales incentives.

Both veterans and non-veterans are buying the homes which have the expensive features associated with homes costing much more, salesmen say. Among the many qualities are 2-car garages, plastered interiors, built-in Roper range and oven, select hardwood flooring and disposal units.

With the industrial areas of Santa Ana, Long Beach and Los Angeles all within short commuting distance, the subdivision also enjoys the proximity of famous Southland recreational areas including Disneyland, beaches, golf courses, parks and resorts.

New shopping centers, fine schools and churches, community activities are also within easy access of the homes. Non-veterans pay only $900 down, while veterans are buying Harbor Park Estates by paying impounds only to move in.

Visitors drive out Garden Grove Blvd. (7th St.) to Hwy. 39, turn north to Chapman Ave., and continue past Harbor Blvd. to the models.

MEMBER HOME BUILDERS INSTITUTE

Buyers Given Occupancy in Brief Period

Buyers of Chapman Woods homes in Garden Grove may still take possession of their new dwellings in time to observe the holiday season completely settled. This was announced by a spokesman for the 3 and 4-bedroom, 2-bath dwellings who said the homes have special appeal for families who have outgrown their homes and need the spaciousness offered by Chapman Woods homes at a moderate cost.

Living rooms with sliding "Horizon" window walls, bathrooms with Pullman lavatories, colored fixtures and tiled stall showers, central hall planning, backyard incinerators, Royal Jet forced air heat with summer ventilation, insulation, weatherstripping, raised foundations with oak flooring and Telejack-TV outlets are some of the features that, in spite of the low price, present luxury living in a preferred location.

Kitchens have birch cabinetry, Armstrong linoleum and disposal units.

Priced from $13,850 to $14,650, Chapman Woods homes are being purchased for only $95 cash required. Visitors drive out Garden Grove Blvd. (7th St.) to Hwy. 39, turn north to Chapman Ave. and east to 9th St.

GOETZ VILLA

From Long Beach: drive east on 7th St., 1200 block (Garden Grove Blvd.) to West St. then north to Lampson and west to Goetz Villa.

PRICED FROM $16,400

This is one of the models of the big Holiday Park homes, priced from $16,400, which are finding a ready market among growing families desiring spaciousness, the developers report.

Big Holiday Park Homes Appeal to Growing Family

With 3 large bedrooms, an all-purpose room and 2 baths, Holiday Park homes of Garden Grove appeal strongly to families who want the spaciousness of a well-constructed home and a large, tree-studded lot, reports a spokesman for Walker and Lee, Inc., sales agents.

The recent announcement of VA financing in addition to the FHA financing has spurred sales in the subdivision, it was noted. A Davies, Keusder & Brown, Inc., development, Holiday Park homes are available in Provincial or Contemporary architectural treatments, with heavy shake or rock roofs and color coordinated exteriors.

* * * *

KITCHENS ARE EQUIPPED with built-in Gaffers and Sattler ovens and ranges, rotisseries, fully automatic Waste King dishwashers, food puverators, Stanthony vent hoods and breakfast seats or dining peninsulas. Fireplaces, in a variety of treatments, are complemented by the generous use of masonry. A brick wall, with fireplace centered and raised to present a strong focal point, is popular with buyers who also praise the free-standing fireplace backed with indoor barbecue and the raised hearth with seating or decorating space of brick on either side.

Sliding glass walls, concrete patio, wide, 4-foot hallways, open beam ceilings in some models, large, sliding door wardrobes, electric heaters in both baths, Pullman lavatory, oversize stall shower, glass-enclosed tub and shower, roof and ceiling insulation, forced air heat with summer vent switch and intercom system wiring are more of the qualities.

PRICED FROM $16,400, Holiday Park homes are available to non-veterans for from $2900 down. Veterans with monthly salaries from $550 may qualify for VA financing.

Furnished models, open daily and Sundays at West St. and Chapman Ave., one mile south of Disneyland Hotel, are easily reached from Los Angeles by driving out Santa Ana Freeway to Harbor Blvd., south to Katella, and west on Katella to West St., south to the model homes. From Long Beach, visitors drive out 7th St. (Garden Grove Blvd.) to Hwy. 39, turn left, (north) to Chapman, and east on Chapman to West St., north to the homes.

Only $95 Needed by Non-Vets

Down payments for non-veterans of only $95 with no costs, no impounds, is attracting many home buyers to the big 3 or 4-bedroom, 2-bath homes in Ellanbee Manor, states Frank H. McFarland, sales agent for the Laramore Construction Co. development in West Orange County.

Much larger than the average home of its price ($11,250 to $11,850) Ellanbee Manor features over 1,300 square feet of living area set on extra wide lots in a fine residential neighborhood.

The homes feature wide picture windows in the living and dining areas and French doors to the patio spaces make indoor-outdoor living a reality while remaining in keeping with the provincial styling.

* * * *

FINDING THAT most families with growing children not only want, but actually do need more than one bath, the floor plans include a bath and a half or two full baths in all cases. The extra breakfast areas adjacent to the kitchen and separate from the dining rooms also appeal to large families.

To see these homes, drive out the Santa Ana Freeway to Harbor, then south past Disneyland to Westminster Blvd. Turn south past Disneyland to Westminster Blvd. Turn west to Newhope and south again to the Ellanbee Manor sales office. From downtown Long Beach, drive east on 7th St., which becomes Garden Grove Blvd. Continue to Harbor Blvd., then south to Westminster, west to Newhope and south to the open model homes.

Only 20 Hi-way '39' Homes Left to Sell

A complete sell-out of all remaining homes in Hi-Way "39" Plaza is predicted by Gilbert J. Hayes, sales agent. Only 20 of these distinctive "California Living" styled homes remain.

Contributing to the development's success is the value offered in these spacious 3-bedroom homes, as well as quality of construction, both interior and exterior.

"Publicity about relaxing credit restrictions has sent more people out house hunting," Gilbert J. Hayes said. "Although our term structure already is the most liberal possible, we have benefitted by recent news stories about the government lowering of down payment levels."

Hi-Way "39" Plaza homes require an initial payment of only $50 for veterans to move into the custom-styled homes. Monthly payments for vets, covering all charges, range from $73 to $77. Income requirements range from $825 to $350 gross per month.

* * * *

HI-WAY "39" PLAZA homes have been in great demand, Hayes said, because they meet all the buyers' demands for basic soundness as well as outstanding architectural beauty. In addition to hardwood floors, genuine lath and plaster and raised foundations, the Plaza homes boast such features as garbage disposals, weather-stripped doors, generous size closets and wardrobes, spacious room arrangements, liberal use of ceramic tile, and stall showers.

Such a multitude of features is not usually found in a home in the low price range of "Hi-Way '39' Plaza." Located on Huntington Beach Blvd., just 5 miles from Huntington Beach, the new homes between Bolsa and Sugar Ave. are adjacent to fine shopping areas and excellent schools.

Road History Does Repeat

CHARLEMONT, Mass. (U.P.)—The first anti-turnpike organization in America was founded here just 150 years ago.

It was dedicated to the elimination of the ancient turnpike system of toll roads. Twenty-seven years later the Massachusetts legislature finally voted the turnpike out.

In November Massachusetts opens its new $239,000,000 East-West Turnpike. Incidentally, it will be a toll road.

PAINTERS DONATE SERVICES

Painters and decorators from the Harbor Chapter of local Union 256 gave up their day off to do a complete paint job on the North Long Beach YMCA at 6095 California Ave. More than 40 painters finished the project in less than five hours. Not only was all of the labor donated but the Whitley Paint Stores with an assist by the Olympic Paint Co. furnished all of the paint and material for the job. This is the second time in six years this job has been done by joint effort of this local and Whitley Paint Stores.

VISITED AUCA LAND

Adventurer's Home With Head (His Own)

By BOB SWANSON

Armand (Bolder) Landry, 41-year-old adventurer, anthropologist, photographer, lecturer and former Long Beach resident, is home from a reconnaisance trip through Auca Indian territory in the Ecuador jungle—with his head still on his shoulders.

The Aucas butchered five American missionaries there a year ago and Landry couldn't help consider the possibility that he might not only be killed but his head removed and shrunken.

During two months in the jungle, however, Landry and his party—a guide named Tarzan and four Indians—didn't see a single one of the dreaded Aucas. However, the adventurer spotted through a spyglass a scantily attired Indian woman and a baby who might have been members of the fierce tribe.

* * * *

THERE WAS another near contact.

"We ran across a freshly abandoned camp of Aucas one morning and picked up spears and a number of artifacts," Landry said. "Apparently we must have outnumbered them and they fled."

For five days in the jungle, the party would have been helpless against attack because their river boat collapsed, plunging guns, cameras, camping equipment and canned food into the water.

Landry, who resided here at 2131 Jay Mill St., in 1952 and 1953 and who now lives in Los Angeles, said the reconnaisance probe into the jungle provided many valuable lessons on equipment and procedures.

He plans a "final penetration" into the jungle early in 1957, remaining there for about a year.

Among the items that will be needed will be a flat-bottom metal boat with outboard motor, small airplane, camping equipment, 16-millimeter camera, tape recorder, guns, food.

He hopes to obtain many of these necessaries through contributions and from lecturing fees.

* * * *

A FORMER professional rodeo cowboy, Landry was accompanied as far as Quito, Ecuador, by Elly Hecksher, photographer and independent motion picture producer.

Landry piloted a jeep loaded with nearly a ton of equipment and foodstuffs down the Pan-American Hwy. as far as San Jose, Costa Rica, where the expedition waited for 77 days for a Grace Lines steamer to pick them up for the final journey to Ecuador.

ARMAND LANDRY
Displays Auca Spear

The planned return trip to the jungle next year has the double purpose of scientific investigation and "pacification" of the Aucas, Landry said. In this, he added, he has the approval of the Ecuadorian government.

Meanwhile, he plans to write books and also to publish some kind of "jungle news" magazine to report on the progress of preparations for the expedition.

Equipment is needed for this project, too, including a typewriter and mimeograph machine, Landry reports.

HALE, HEARTY

Woman Over 101 Insured

PUEBLO Colo. (AP)—A Chicago firm is willing to insure the health of Mrs. Pauline Sandoval, who's 101 or older.

The sprightly Pueblo woman said Saturday the firm (Continental Insurance Co.) has accepted her application for hospitalization insurance.

Mrs. Sandoval started wearing glasses only a year ago and said she has been in a hospital only once. That was for a kidney ailment 16 years ago.

Catholic church records at Walsenburg, Colo., show she was a parish member in 1855 but her exact age is uncertain. Mrs. Sandoval's birth certificate was destroyed by fire.

It Happened Last Night

TWINKLING STAR

NEW YORK — Edith Adams had come up through television and the swank saloons to the star's dressing room in a Broadway hit.

Her cigar-smoking, mustache-tweaking, TV-star husband, Ernie Kovacs, was helping her fit up the dressing room when he announced:

"There's one thing the room lacks."

EDITH ADAMS

Removing a half-smoked cigar from his mouth, he placed it on the edge of the dresser, where it perhaps remains even now.

"You're right, that's better!" Edie said, hugging him.

There've been some changes made at the St. James since these TV folks came along and went into "Li'l Abner." Edie started furnishing her dressing room before the opening night—which is supposed to be bad luck in the theater.

Nor does Edie say, as many actresses might, that she has now achieved the very heights of her ambition in the role of "Daisy Mae."

Instead she looks at Ernie and asks, "Next time, huh?"

"Next time, Baby," he says.

* * * *

SHE MEANS that next time she'll truly be the star — her name billed over the title. Now it's billed under the title, but she does have the star's dressing room. And Roz Russell, with whom she appeared in "Wonderful Town," recently reminded her, "I told you that in three years you would have your own show. And it's only two-and-one-half!"

Ernie spoofs the star's dressing room bit.

"In television we gag it," he says. "On the star's dressing room we usually put up a sign saying 'Men's room' or something."

Blond Edie, who's from Wilkes-Barre, Grove City, Pa., and various New Jersey points, has been in TV probably longer than Ernie — starting away back when she was "Miss U. S. Television" — and by now is accustomed to most of that industry's foibles . . . and her husband's.

* * * *

WIFE-LIKE, she totes a dozen or 15 cigars for him when they travel.

"One night a perfume stopper came out," she says, "spilling perfume all over my bag."

"Have you ever tried to smoke a perfumed cigar?" asked Ernie, still indignant.

Into the dressing room Ernie brought, one night, an Elvis Presley handkerchief he'd purchased for Edie in a Times Sq. store.

"Just as I was buying it," he said, "a woman came up for my autograph. She said 'You are — — — —,' and I nodded. Then she saw what I was doing, and hesitated. I suspect that she wasn't sure she wanted my autograph after that."

Busy as he is with his own NBC chores, Ernie must watch his wife's health, too. Visiting her out-of-town before the show got to New York, he got worried.

"Her ribs were sticking out . . . there was no chest whatever," he told me with a worried look.

"I put her on a diet to make her gain weight.

"I made her eat cakes, desserts, ice cream. I gained seven pounds!"

Edie was on Jack Paar's TV show, also on Stork Club, as well as her husband's own partner when he did a forenoon show . . . and it was while she was on Ed Sullivan's show doing a Marilyn Monroe impersonation that some of the producers saw her possibilities as a Daisy Mae.

"Before she got so skinny," says Ernie, "Edie had such a great figure — even I used to like to look at it."

SCREEN COMEBACK

Jane Withers, after a nine-year absence from the screen, returns to co-star in Edna Ferber's novel, "Giant," for Warner Bros. Here, as Vashti, Miss Withers enacts a scene with Robert Nichols, who portrays her husband, Pinky.

Ann Blyth May Get Helen Morgan Role

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Ann Blyth is a surprising front runner in the choice to play Helen Morgan on the screen.

Director Mike Curtiz so far has auditioned hundreds of actresses, many of them unknowns, for the role of the wistful singer who skyrocketed to fame with her singing of "My Bill" in Ziegfeld's original "Show Boat."

"So far," says Curtiz, "Ann has made the best test. I'd sign her tomorrow if (producer) Jack Warner approves."

Ann, long known as Hollywood's "little lady," scored heavily in a test scene wherein she performed a hootchy-kooch dance.

"I didn't want to test Ann," said Mike, "because she is the symbol of sweetness but she begged so hard, I gave in. I directed Ann in 'Mildred Pierce' and should have known what a great actress she is."

* * * *

Mike says the ideal personality and physique of Helen Morgan would be an Ava Gardner with the talent of Audrey Hepburn.

Another hot possibility for the role is Julie London, the modern singer who most sounds like Helen.

"She made a wonderful dramatic test," reports Mike. Mike, in the midst of the biggest search since Scarlett O'Hara, says casting is the biggest headache in Hollywood today.

ANN BLYTH
Leads in Tests for Part

Exhibitors want big names and the few big names know it.

"As soon as a star becomes a big name, he asks 50 per cent, even 75 per cent of a picture. At that rate, we couldn't even afford a piano for Helen Morgan to sit on. I've looked at hundreds of unknowns but finding one good enough for this role is like striking oil."

The owner, a transplanted Texan, says he started this because he individually likes good barbecue and couldn't find it. Why don't all of you authorities on the subject go out and try his? Maybe you can prove a Texan wrong.

He has take-out service and plenty of tables inside and out. He is open from 11 a.m. to 3 a.m. every day. Closed Mondays. You might even meet a friend at the Pit Barbecue.

Buyers Take Most Accessories

By LEE LINDBERG

DETROIT (UP) — The desires of American motorists have changed radically from the days following World War II when many buyers complained about dealers forcing useless accessories on them.

Today, with new cars in abundance, buyers often ask for just about everything in the book.

Heaters and radios in recent years have been so popular that they almost were considered "standard" equipment. But since the war, there has been a steady upswing in the popularity of other extra cost items — automatic transmissions, windshield washers, turn indicators, backup lights, power features and the like.

A three-year study just completed by Dodge shows that the trend for more and more gadgets is expected to continue.

* * * *

"SAFETY, COMFORT and convenience are fast becoming as important to today's automobile customer as are design and performance," said Lee F. Desmond, Dodge vice president in charge of sales.

Heaters, now ordered on nearly 98 per cent of 1957 Dodge cars, stil are the most popular extra cost items.

Spurting into a close second are automatic transmissions. The Dodge story showed that Torqueflite and Powerflight were ordered on more than 95 per cent of its new models.

Automatic transmissions have become so popular that some General Motors, Ford and Chrysler divisions have done away with the standard gear shift altogether.

* * * *

THE DODGE survey showed that orders for power brakes have increased from 13 per cent in 1955 to nearly 22 per cent on its current models, while power steering now is being installed on one-third of its new cars. In styling, more and more motorists are going in for hardtop convertibles. The only optional item offered by the company which hasn't shown an increase in popularity is tinted window glass.

FOR SMALL FRY

A safety factor designed primarily for children is this safety suit developed by the Mercury Division of Ford Motor Co. Kids are zippered into the jackets which fasten to the sides of the seat. The safety feature is being demonstrated at Harbor Lincoln-Mercury at 1633 American Ave.

WORLD OF WHEELS

Chief of Ford Edsel Division Optimistic

By ART STEPHAN
Independent, Press-Telegram Auto Editor

A prediction that many new car buyers who helped make 1955 the all-time record auto sales year will come back into the market for 1957 models was made by J. C. (Larry) Doyle, general sales and marketing manager of the newly named Edsel Division of Ford Motor Co.

In a luncheon address before a group of bankers and finance men in Los Angeles, Doyle estimated the 1957 new car market at more than 6,000,000 units. He also revealed some hitherto unknown facts about the 1955 record year when 7,170,000 new cars were registered.

The 1955 market was not "borrowing from tomorrow" as so many people have tried to prove, Doyle said. "Instead it revealed a new depth to the market and saw new car ownership begin to approximate a level more consistent with the size of our population and its vast buying power.

"Studies have shown," he said, "that new car buyers of the current year come principally from people who did not buy a car the previous year.

* * * *

"THE 1955 installment buyers are liquidating their obligations in an orderly manner and many will be able to enter the new car market again in 1957." Doyle said. "This does not necessarily mean that all who can buy will buy, but they represent a vast source of prospects and many can be converted to new car buyers during 1957."

Ford Motor Co. spent considerable time and money ascertaining why the 1955 market was such a surprisingly large one, Doyle said. Three important facts were discovered:

1. One third of the new car buyers of 1955, or approximately 2,500,000 people, previously had been used car purchasers.

2. Almost 60 per cent of the cars sold were in a price range that started with top models of the low price field and went up through the medium price field.

3. This upgrading was not confined to the automobile industry because the new and rapidly expanding middle income group represents a substantial and reliable element in our economy.

During the past five years, Doyle said, families with an annual income of $5,000 or more have increased from 23 per cent of our population to 41 per cent. Our people feel that by 1965 more than 50 per cent of all American families will be in this bracket.

MOTOR SPORTS

Jaguar Credited With Making Sports Cars Popular Over U. S.

By PAUL WALLACE

After briefly describing the MG in a recent column, the next logical step in any discussion of popular sports cars is the Jaguar.

If the MG introduced sports cars to postwar America, the Jaguar popularized them.

The original XK-120 sports roadster was built in 1948 as a show model. It was equipped with a new double-overhead-camshaft engine which closely followed racing car principals.

With the sleek, streamlined body that now, eight years later, is still much admired, the car was an immediate sensation.

* * * *

INFLUENCED BY the public acclamation, Jaguar Cars, Ltd., set aside plans for a new sedan and began tooling for production of the roadster whose performance was more than equal to its appearance.

The first XK-120 engine developed 160 horsepower. The same 3½ (210 cubic inch) power plant today has been hopped-up to develop 220 horsepower in the C-modified model.

The original XK's offered style and performance formerly available only in high-priced custom machinery of the Ferrari class.

The Jaguar was then and still is the standard of comparison among sports cars.

* * * *

ITS BASIC BODY LINES, which already are considered classic, have remained unchanged and rival in functional beauty anything that has come along since.

The car now comes in convertible (with roll-up windows and padded top) and hardtop coupe models as well as the popular roadster (and two sedans which utilize the XK engine).

The sports models with the C-modified engine which gets the car to 60 mph in 8.4 seconds delivers locally for upwards of $4,000 depending upon equipment.

* * * *

THE POTENT JAG is a good choice for the driver who wants plenty of urge. It is among the larger and heavier imported sports machines.

Not a light-feeling car to drive around town, it is at its best on the open road. Its handling qualities are excellent and it is one of the easier sports machines for the novice to control through hard corners and at high speed.

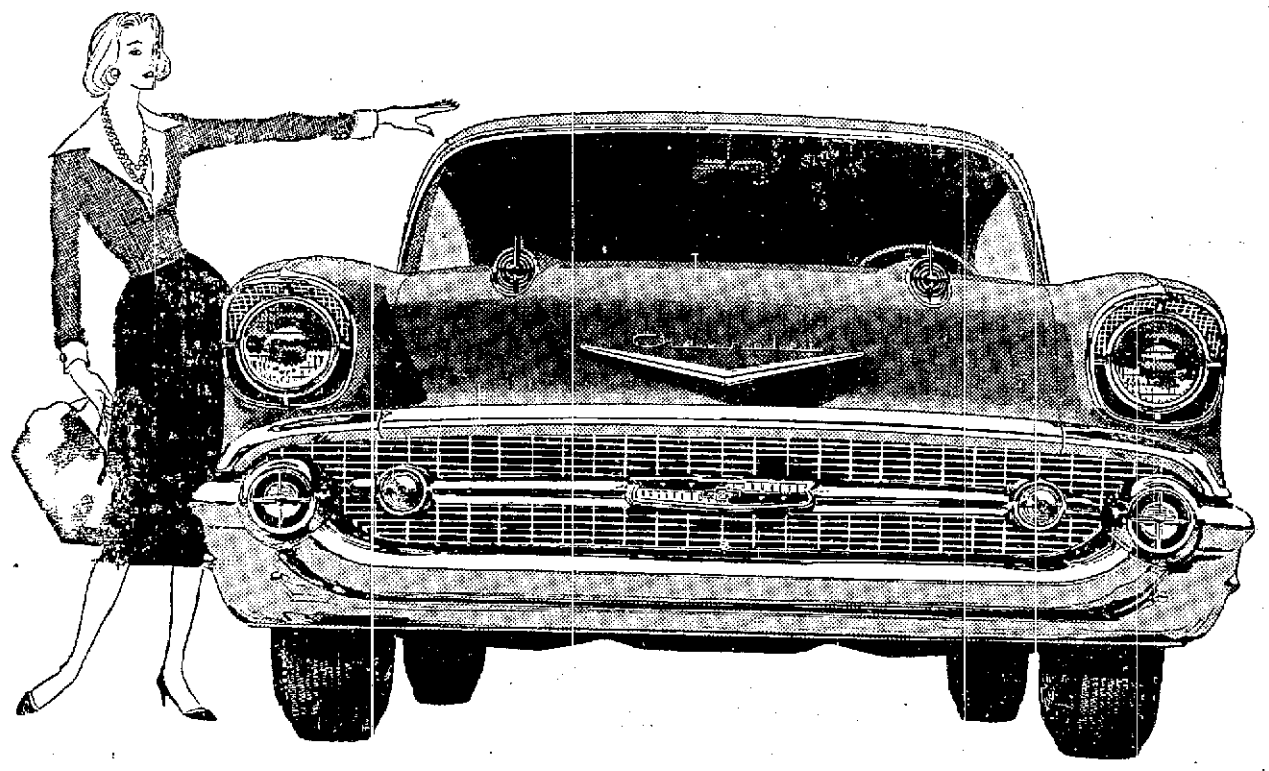

The XK models of our experience incline to be somewhat sensitive about holding a tune and they are not easy on gasoline and oil.

But Jaguar remains a very fast, luxuriously finished and ruggedly built car and an outstanding auto anyplace it goes.

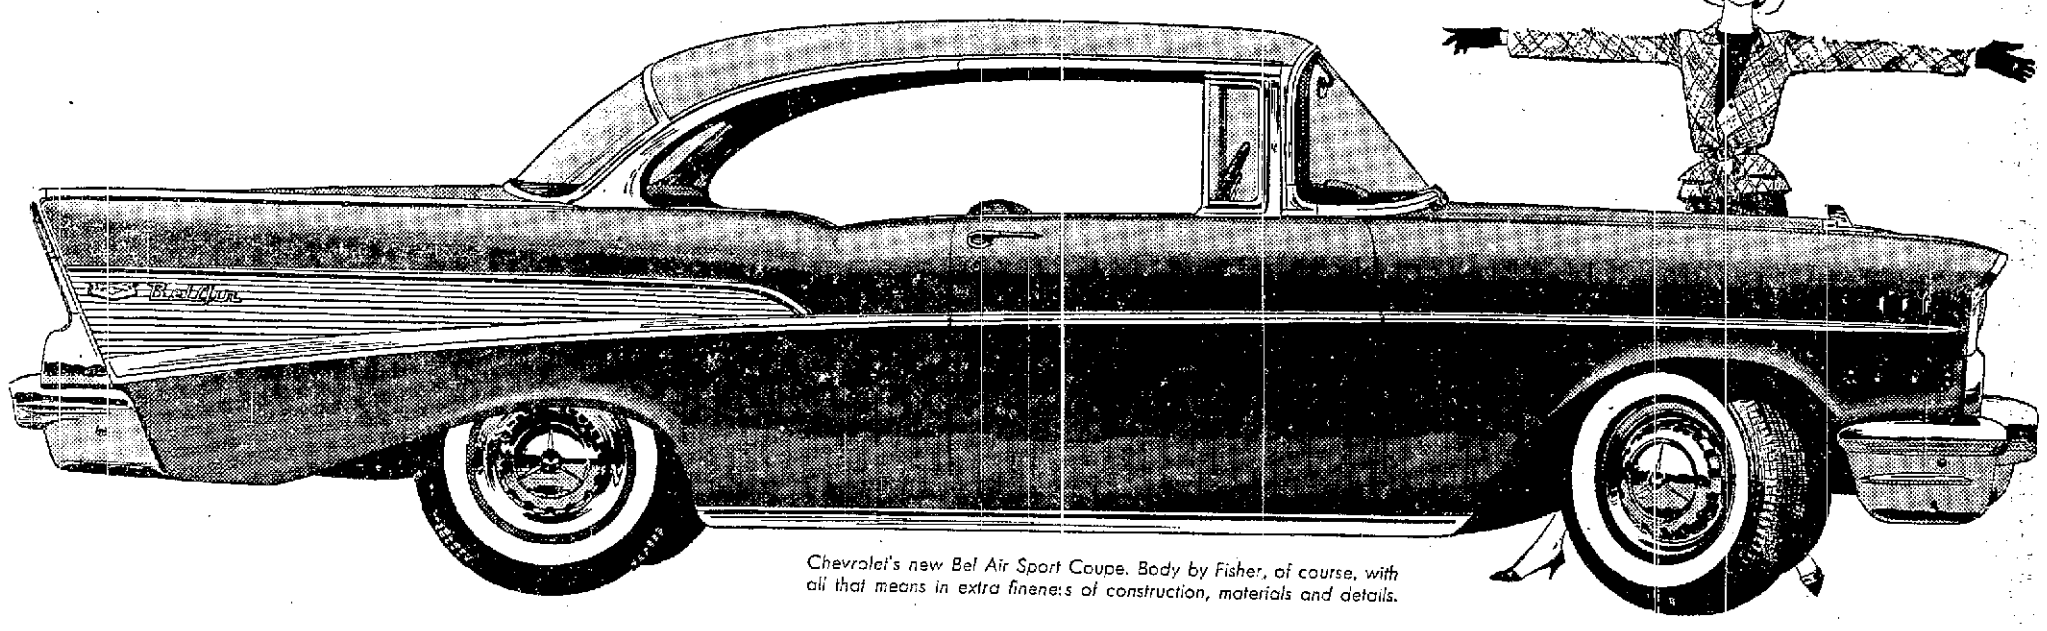

RETIRED EMPLOYES

Members of the National Assn. of Retired Civil (Federal) Employes, Chapter 21, will meet 1:30 p.m. Wednesday in Moffett's & Peek Garden Room, 939 E. 3rd St.

See the '57 Chevrolet now on display. It's sweet, smooth and sassy!

Chevy's lower and longer... and every inch a beauty!

Chevrolet's new Bel Air Sport Coupe. Body by Fisher, of course, with all that means in extra fineness of construction, materials and details.

Sure it's longer and lower. And lovelier, with the smartest, smoothest design anybody's come up with for '57. And livelier, with new power (even fuel injection!) plus Turboglide automatic drive—the first and only triple-turbine transmission.

The handsomest profile on the highway belongs to the '57 Chevy! It's clean-lined, close to the road. Looks longer and lower—and it is! Here the bright new ideas begin, and they go on and on, inside and out.

Things you'll especially like: A colorful choice of 20 new models. Remarkable pep and handling ease. A superb six. New V8 horsepower options that range up to 245.* And a choice of two automatic drives as extra-cost options. There's famous, frisky Powerglide. Or Turboglide, Chevy's new automatic that brings you triple-turbine takeoff and the smoothest going yet.

You may find it hard to put your finger on the thing you like best about this sassy new Chevy. Could be its happy feeling of lively, easy-going fun. Or the pure satisfaction of driving a car that's so agile and responsive. And so new and daring in design! Could be any or all of those things—all good reasons to stop by and pick out your favorite among the 20 new Chevrolet models.

N.Y. Show to Shelve Motorama

By DAVID J. WILKIE

DETROIT (AP) — Theoretically "dream" cars will be banned at the National Automobile Show opening in New York's new coliseum Dec. 8, but—

There will be a lot of cars whose engineering and styling weren't even dreamed about a few years ago. The cars on display at the $10 million revival of the manufacturer-sponsored auto show will qualify as "production" models, but as one industry show representative put it, many of them will be "jazzed up" to the limit.

There will be several models that would cost you $10,000 before you could get title to it; there will be the last word in huge trucks, all-aluminum coaches and other vehicles and a couple of hundred exhibits of products related to motor vehicle production.

There will be cutaway exhibits of engines, transmissions, brake systems, power-operated accessories and extra emphasis on the efforts the industry is putting forth to make motoring safer.

* * * *

THE SHOW ITSELF is the first to be sponsored wholly by the auto makers since 1940. It will run from Dec. 8 through Dec. 16. Revival of the show this year temporarily has shelved General Motors' Annual Motorama.

Several cars new to the production lines will have their initial public presentation at the show. Chrysler has a brand new model in what it calls its "300 series." It is called the "300-C," has an engine developing 375 horsepower with two four-barrel carburetors, dual headlights, a cockpit type interior, and high-swept tail fins said to reduce steering corrections in cross winds by 20 per cent.

Chrysler reports it has been driven at an average of 145.7 miles an hour over its 4.7 mile oval test track.

* * * *

FORD WILL SHOW its new retractable all-steel hardtop model scheduled to go into production in January. The Mercury Division will show its newest creation, the Turnpike Cruiser, which was in the "dream" car category only a year ago. Styling and engineering details still are being withheld.

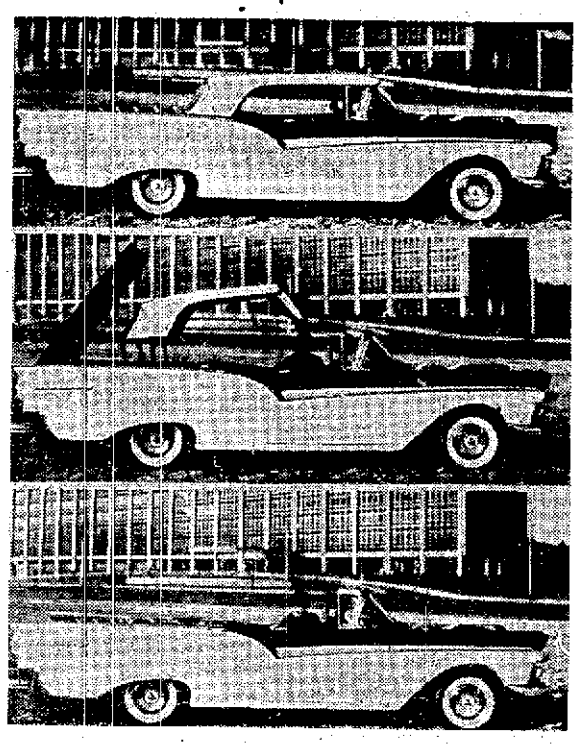

Each General Motors division will have full line exhibits. The Chevrolet exhibit will include the 36 millionth passenger car to be built by the division, and a Corvette sports model equipped with a fuel injection system instead of the conventional carburetor.

A cutaway display of the fuel injector designed to demonstrate how it operates also will be part of the Chevrolet display. A price tag of $485 for the injection system was disclosed only last week.

Cadillac again will show its super prestige model, the Eldorado brougham, with many styling and design changes since its first presentation at the GM Motorama. Designed for limited production, it boasts many features that were in the "dream" area a few years ago.

Also scheduled for first public showing next Saturday is the 1957 Packard. Packard finished its 1956 model run late last June. Its planning for 1957 was clouded in uncertainty until Studebaker-Packard Corp. announced a few weeks ago that defite production schedules had been drafted.

Current plans are to introduce the 1957 Packard at dealerships in January.

HARD TOP TUCKS AWAY

Ford Motor Co. is showing this truly convertible hard top convertible. With the top up it resembles a standard hard top but when the steel roof and rear window swing on hinges the top can be packed away in the trunk. Ford Plants Set Record for Output

Ford Division, for the first time in its history, built more than 8,500 cars and trucks in a single day to set two new production records, it was announced Saturday. Total value of the day's production is close to $20 million.

R. S. McNamara, Ford Motor Co. vice president and Ford Division general manager, said the plants were operating at near-maximum overtime to meet an unequalled demand for new 1957 Fords.

As soon as Wednesday's total production was tabulated, Henry Ford II, company president, sent telegrams to the employes and managers of each plant congratulating them for their "continuing all-out effort to produce not only the quantity of new Ford cars needed to meet the unprecedented demand, but also the quality demanded by our customers."

* * * *

McNamara said Wednesday's total production was 8,542 units, breaking a record that had stood for more than a year.

Passenger car production alone was 7,370 units, 454 units above the previous record that had been set on Tuesday when 6,916 units were built. The record broken Tuesday also had stood for more than a year.

Ever since introduction of the new 1957 Ford on October 3, the division's 15-car assembly plants have been working on heavy overtime schedules, now up to 35 per cent, to meet customer demand. McNamara said demand for the cars has outdistanced even the most optimistic expectations of the division and its dealers.

Australia's Fast Growth Bringing Costly Inflation

SYDNEY (IP) — Inflation has hit Australia with the wallop of a kangaroo kick right where it hurts the most — in the pocketbook.

Bank economists list present living costs at 130 per cent higher than in 1945, compared to a 75 per cent increase in Britain and a 50 per cent raise in the United States.

The average Aussie knows little and cares less about bankers and their adding machine statistics, but the spectre of inflation now shadows him through all his waking hours.

Any attempt to get by on his 1950 budget would change living in Australia today to a mere existence. The average "bloke" or wage-earner would only be able to half fill his morning tub because of increased gas and electricity rates.

The cost of the traditional steak-and-eggs Australian breakfast would leave him with just the eggs and some onions on the plate, at today's prices. Today's Australian can ride only one mile on the buses, streetcars and electric trains for the money that formerly carried him two and three miles.

* * * *

THIS CREEPING inflation, with its ever-rising cost of living, is the price Australia pays for national growth.

Australia now has 25 per cent more people than it had at the end of World War II. This means larger physical output in both primary and secondary industries. Never before has there been as much money and labor spent on public works, factory building and new industries. There has been greater capital investment on the nation's farms and sheep stations — in machinery, buildings and pasture, plant and livestock improvement.

All the same, this better "national" picture leaves the wage earners unimpressed. Their salaries creep up with "basic wage" hikes, but never catch up with the heavier expenses involved in the mechanics of living.

Australia took its worst inflation jump in 1951 — when the Korean War shot wool prices to record highs. With too much money around, the cost of living jumped to 70 per cent above the 1945 figure. At that time Britons were tightening their austerity belts against a 40 per cent rise in living costs, while Americans only faced an over-all rise of 12 per cent.

Worse still, the trend remains uncurbed as government and employer battle the vicious cycle of higher wages-higher costs-higher wages. In the past 12 months, food and groceries have gone up another 10 per cent, for instance. Rents, already up by 40 per cent since 1950, went up eight per cent.

Southland PANORAMA

Month-long December events in Southern California provide a gamut of sights, sounds and aromas for Christmas season sightseers.

Brilliant scarlet poinsettias are blooming throughout the Southland.

The subtropical marine vegetation in the Underseas Gardens off Santa Catalina Island sprouts new growth. The big fish of this undersea forest are visible from glass bottom boats leaving regularly from Avalon.

Mile-high orchards in San Gorgonio Pass yield bumper crops of Rome Beauties, Golden Delicious, Winesap and other varieties in the Oak Glen apple harvest.

* * * *

AN ANCIENT CHRISTMAS flag, the red and green burgee which flew over European cities in the Middle Ages, was hoisted Saturday over Santa Monica City Hall. The city will sponsor 12 performances of its annual Nativity Play beginning Dec. 8, at Miles Playhouse, Lincoln Park.

Other sights of the month include Glendale's dazzling six-block tunnel of lights on Brand Blvd., and Ontario's three-mile-long Christmas Tree Lane.

Southern California, in the same parallel as the Holy Land, may look at a Yule sky similar to that of the Holy Land and compare a recreation of the exact Nativity sky in Griffith Planetarium.

There are nightly performances by children's choirs in San Marino's sixth annual program at Huntington Dr. and San Marino Ave.

* * * *

MANY UNUSUAL BREEDS of pigeons will be exhibited Tuesday through Sunday at the Glendale Pigeon Show in the basement of the Glendale Civic Auditorium.

* * * *

* * * *

PRO-AMATEUR GOLF Tourney, the fourth annual at Palm Springs' picturesque Tamarisk Country Club, is scheduled for Saturday and Sunday.

* * * *

SAN DIEGO'S ANNUAL Poinsettia Festival for nine days starting Saturday, includes Poinsettia Ball, Poinsettia Bowl Football game between top service teams and Poinsettia Show in Balboa Park. World's largest poinsettia farm in nearby Carlsbad is in full bloom.

DRY LAND SKI schools for adults, free of charge, will be conducted at Ladera County Park, Los Angeles, from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m., Dec. 4, 5, 6, 11 and 13. Ski schools also are planned for Farnsworth Country Park in Altadena, Arcadia County Regional Park and Crescenta Valley Park in La Crescenta.

Army Clearing Budapest Rubble

VIENNA (AP) — Radio Budapest said Saturday night generals, colonels, majors, noncommissioned officers and privates would go out today to help clear away the debris of war in Budapest.

But the rubble-clearers will be members of the Hungarian army —not the Russian army that did most of the damage.

Valentino Keeps Fans Even Today

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite the movie and theater idols that have come and gone since the 1920s the popularity of one silent film star apparently is undimmed.

When the New York Public Library took down an exhibit of 200 photographs of stage and screen "greats" only two had been "lifted" by the passing fans. Both were of Rudolph Valentino.

QUICK! NEW DENTURES
on my year-end offer
WAIT UNTIL NEXT YEAR
to make your 1st CREDIT PAYMENT
WHY NEW DENTURES NOW INSTEAD OF NEXT YEAR
It's better to get new dentures now for two reasons:
FIRST, we are less busy during the holiday season than any other time of the year. Although we try to spend as much time as is needed on any case during the whole year, now we have more than enough time for everyone.
SECOND, to encourage you to get new dentures now instead of waiting until next year, we are extra liberal on credit. Save your cash for holiday fun and expenses. If you need it you may have two full years to pay.
WHY 2 YEARS TO PAY, WHEN NEEDED
Although most people find it easy to pay my low prices in the customary 15 months, I want to remove the money barrier even more. Make up your mind now to have new dentures when you first need them—right now when you want to look your best—why wait until next year?

PARENTS CAN'T HELP

Children Facing Bleak Yuletide

By DICK FRIEND

"The five little children are well cared for, they have a clean home, but their parents are unable to provide a Christmas for them. The parents both are ill, and were just released from the hospital. The mother must stay at home to care for the youngsters. The father reports daily to the hospital, and can only do light work. Christmas will be bleak for these five children. Case 54."

This is typical. It is a case worker's report to the Christmas Cheer House. It is a story of need—a story that will be repeated nearly 1,200 times in Long Beach this Christmas.

It's a story of a family on its last leg, financially down and nearly out, lacking the funds to offer even an assemblance of a normal Christmas.

ALREDAY, 600 families have been listed at the Clearing House. Many more are expected. Starting Monday, volunteers will be on duty at the Armory, 854 E. 7th St., taking more names. They'll also be taking the names of Long Beach people who can help—by donating dollars, canned goods, toys or clothing.

The Clearing House is just as it's name implies. Agencies throughout the Long Beach area, including Salvation Army, Catholic Welfare Agency, and scores of others, supply the names to the House.

There, workers do the rest—with the generosity of Long Beach people. Entire families can be adopted—and many have already. Neighborhood groups have signed up to supply necessary gifts and food for a needy family.

GIRL SCOUT troops have joined together to adopt families.

Organizations and more fortunate families also have registered.

If the donor wishes, he may go out and buy and wrap the gifts desired by the family. All names are carefully screened by case workers.

"We need volunteers to help answer the telephone, and after Dec. 10, when our large warehouse opens up, we will need new clothes and food and good toys," said Peggy Finley, coordinator of public information for the clearing house.

Those who desire to adopt a family, which costs from $15 up depending on the size of the family, should call the clearing house at HE 7-7179 or HE 4-7170.

Those who cannot afford to adopt an entire family, but who desire to help others, also should call, she said.

WON'T SOMEBODY RING?

At Christmas Cheer Clearing House, Mrs. C. L. Samaniego awaits phone calls from Long Beach folks wanting to adopt needy families for the holidays. You can pledge aid by telephoning HE 7-4179 or HE 4-7170.—(Staff Photo.)

$100 A PLATE

Golden Boy Award Dinner Scheduled

With all proceeds slated for the Boys' Clubs of Long Beach, the second Golden Boy Award Dinner—at $100 a plate—will be held here Thursday evening.

The dinner, described as a "gourmet's delight," will be served at the Victor Hugo Restaurant, 730 E. Broadway. It will be provided by Fred Hershorn, second vice president of the clubs and owner of the restaurant.

* * * *

MORE THAN 100 persons are expected, according to Maurice A. Bugbee, executive director of the club.

The club last year cleared $13,000 on the first dinner.

At the dinner, a prominent Long Beach individual will be named to receive the Golden Boy Award for devoted interest and service to the clubs.

Superior Judge Fred Miller received the first award last year.

College Sets Art, Health Forum Talks

Abstract art, health problems of the senior citizen and world affairs will be subjects of Long Beach City College General Adult Division meetings this week.

Paul Darrow, art instructor at Scripps College, Claremont, will lecture at the monthly Art Forum at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday in Room 502 of the art building on the Lakewood Campus. His subject will be "The Development of Abstract Art."

Dr. George W. Ainlay, a specialist in geriatrics, will moderate a panel discussion on "New Advances in Geriatrics for a Better Life" at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday in Washington Junior High School auditorium.

Panel members will be Dr. Carroll J. Bellis, a local surgeon; Dr. R. L. Fowkes, oral and dental surgeon, and Yngve Ahlm, physical therapist. The meeting will be the last in a series on health problems of the senior citizen. It originally was scheduled for Wednesday afternoon.

Dr. Giles T. Brown will present the third lecture of a series at 7 p. m. Monday in Room 202 at Poly High School. His topic, "South Africa, Land of Treasure and Trouble, Part I," will be illustrated with color slides.

AT CITY LIBRARY

Using recordings for learning in subjects other than music is a recommended procedure for all ages. This week's record list at the Long Beach Public Library shows how varied the subjects may be.

Noted were: "Brush Up Your German" (up-to-date conversations prepared by Linguaphone); "English Speech Instruction" (to correct frequent mistakes in enunciation); "Ameco Code Course" (for Morse Code training); "Sustained Dictation" (for practice up to 140 words a minute); Moliere, "Le Malade Imaginaire" (a classic comedy in French) and "Israel Is Born" (a documentary by Arthur Holzman). All may be borrowed from the Main Library.

SC Conquers Notre Dame, 28-20

By DAVE LEWIS
Sports Editor

LOS ANGELES COLISEUM—The Fighting Irish of Notre Dame never fought harder for a victory than they did here Saturday, but they were up against too much for the eighth time this season and finally were plowed under by Southern California, 28-20, in a crunching battle before 64,538 fans.

Only a superhuman performance by Notre Dame's great all-American, Paul Hornung, kept the Trojans from breaking the game wide open and recording as decisive a win as they did a year ago in their 42-20 romp that signalled the forthcoming collapse of the Irish this season.

In fact, it was Hornung's electrifying 95-yard kickoff return in the closing seconds of the third period that kept Notre Dame very much in the ball game as the two teams headed into the final quarter with SC holding only a slim 21-20 lead.

But the Trojans quickly pulled out to a "safe" eight-point lead at 28-20 in the first 46 seconds of the fourth period when Ernie Zampese exploded 38-yards through right tackle for a touchdown.

Ball control, which wrecked UCLA's Bruins a week ago, was successfully employed again at that point by SC to keep Notre Dame from mounting a threat while there was still enough time to pull the game out of the fire.

And with only 2½ minutes left to go, the Trojans began hitting the sagging left side of the Irish line as they hammered their way to the four-yard line before the battling Notre Dame players rose up to hurl back the Troy surge that appeared destined to rack up still another score.

After holding for downs on the four, the Irish, whose "spirit" had been questioned by former Coach Frank Leahy only last Thursday, mounted a furious aerial attack in denial of the charges as they shot the works in a last-ditch effort to register another score and as time ran out they were poised on the SC 33 after roaring 64 yards.

Not even a touchdown or a conversion at that point, however, could have saved the Irish from closing out the most miserable season in the history of the school. It was their eighth defeat against only two victories.

Meanwhile, the Trojans rang down the curtain on their 1956 campaign with a creditable 8-2 record that was climaxed by victories over UCLA and Notre Dame for the first time in the same season in 18 years.

It was one of the most exciting games of the collegiate season in the Coliseum as the Trojans swarmed into a 7-0 lead; then yielded six points to the Irish, only to finish out a wild first period with a 14-6 lead. Notre Dame closed the gap to 14-13 at halftime.

Southern California pulled out to a 21-13 lead late in the third period only to have Hornung make it 21-20 with his spectacular kickoff return.

The bruising contest was featured in particular by savage line play and the spirited performances of both clubs produced some of the most fierce blocking and tackling seen this season.

Even in defeat Hornung stood head and shoulders above the other players on the field. He certainly justified his all-American rating and his selection by the Green Bay Packers as the bonus pick in the recent pro draft.

Hornung was sensational all afternoon. . . . A real workhorse who was dangerous every second he was in the game.

Holding him to 49 yards total offense is a tribute to the fine defensive play of the Trojans.

He carried the ball nine times for a net of 24 yards and a 2.67 average that was cut down when he was spilled for a 10-yard loss attempting to pass in the fourth quarter and loss of a sizeable gain earlier in the game because of a penalty.

The Irish ace also returned two punts for 45 yards and had a third runback of 46 yards nullified by a clipping penalty; punted seven times for a 38.14 average; completed one pass in two attempts for 25 yards, and caught three passes from Bobby Williams for 26 yards while having another reception for a gain of 25 yards wiped out by another penalty.

He carried the ball on two kickoffs, picking up 24 yards on one before breaking loose on his 95-yard scoring jaunt.

Hornung accomplished this offensively against Trojan defenses set especially for him whether he played quarterback or left half.

Much of Hornung's finest play of the day, though, came on defense where he made several great "saves" for the Irish.

But while Jess Hill, bowing out as SC's head football coach to take over the athletic directorship, described Hornung as a "wonderful player," he said he can only rate him next to Troy's own Jon Arnett.

Hill says Arnett, who closed out his abbreviated five-game season against Stanford in midseason, is a much better runner than Hornung.

* * * *

THE TROJANS opened with such a rush that it appeared as if they'd blast Notre Dame clear out of the stadium, taking the opening kickoff and marching 66 yards in 10 plays for the TD as Don Hickman ripped off 19 yards, C. R. Roberts hurtled 11 yards and Jim Conroy finally rolled out around right end for 10 yards and the touchdown at 3:34. Ellsworth Kissinger, whose field goal last week toppled UCLA, promptly booted the first of his three conversions. The other was kicked by Rex Johnston following the second touchdown.

But any hopes that Trojan backers might have had of seeing a runaway win over the Irish were quickly dispelled when Notre Dame fought back after the kickoff with a 76-yard drive of its own sparked by a freak 40-yard gain on the first scrimmage play.

Dick Lynch fumbled as he stabbed at right tackle and left end. Dick Royer recovered the ball in the air and raced all the way to the SC 36-yard line.

* * * *

WILLIAMS FINALLY shot right up the middle on a "sneak" for six yards and the score at 8:06. However, Hornung's kick was wide to the left and SC maintained a lead it never relinquished.

The Trojans bounced back after the kickoff with their sec-

28 Firsts but U.S. Now Is on Defensive

MELBOURNE (AP) — U. S. Olympians, having dominated the track and field phase of the 1956 games with a brilliant bunch of Yankee Doodle Dandies, now must look to their swimmers and divers in the final run with Russia for the unofficial team championship.

It's going to be close. And the Yanks may not make it.

Despite a record-smashing 15 gold medals in men's track and field, where the Americans piled up 232 points, Uncle Sam enters the last week of Olympic competition with only a 463 to 390½ edge over Russia in the point standings.

Over-all, the United States has bagged 28 gold medals, to 18 by the Russians. But there isn't much hope of adding many more to that U. S. total outside of the swimming competition.

Swimming and diving is the last of the "blue-ribbon" events in the Games. But there are a swarm of fringe sports to be decided, including gymnastics, and the Russians figure to make the most of it.

SATURDAY WAS a great day for America, Australia, France, Ireland and the ninth consecutive crowd of 100,000 in the Melbourne Cricket Grounds.

Bobby Morrow of the United States won his third gold medal of the Games—tops for the men—by anchoring the American 440-meter relay team to victory in the world record time of 39.5.

Mildred McDaniel of the United States unexpectedly won the women's high jump and set a new world record of 1.76 meters, or five feet 9¼ inches to cap the fine all around performance by American girls.

The United States 1,600-meter relay team with Charley Jenkins running his lap in a sparkling 45.4 won its event in 3:04.8.

Slender Ron Delany, the Villanova student from Erie, battled his way out of the pack in the greatest 1,500-meter field

RECORD SEEN

Million-Plus See Games

MELBOURNE (AP) — Olympic Games paid admissions Saturday reached almost the million and a half mark, which means Melbourne will set an all-time record with one week of the events still to go.

Never before have such throngs seen the Olympic track and field events — capacity crowds of 100,000 every day.

Only the stadium at Los Angeles in 1932 was bigger than the Melbourne Cricket grounds and this was little more than half full on many days.

Jackson Next for Floyd?

CHICAGO (AP) — New heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson's first title defense probably will be against Hurricane Jackson, but Floyd's manager certainly would like Rocky Marciano to try a comeback against his 21-year-old successor.

At Toronto, however, Marciano said he would not end his retirement announced last April.

Cus D'Amato, Patterson's beaming pilot, told a news conference Saturday that he was interested in any title defense which would bring the most money at the gate.

* * * *

THAT BROUGHT up Marciano's name and D'Amato quickly conceded a meeting between Rocky and Patterson would be the "most desirable match that possibly could be made."

"There is no doubt it would draw the biggest gate in the history of boxing," he said.

While D'Amato was discussing Patterson's plans, the new champion—who left by automobile a few hours after belting out Archie Moore for Marciano's vacated title in the Chicago Stadium Friday night—was arriving at Brooklyn where his wife, Sandra, bore a 6½ pound daughter Friday night.

D'Amato said that, although IBC President Jim Norris held no "exclusive" with Patterson, he would accept whatever match Norris promotes.

* * * *

AS A HORDE of sports writers interviewed D'Amato, just two floors down in the same hotel a grim-faced Moore was breakfasting with no more than a word of sympathy from passing acquaintances.

Moore still talked about a match with Jackson, but the IBC reportedly has a Detroit light heavyweight title defense in mind for Moore against No. 1 contender Chuck Spieser.

Yells Make Reds Jittery

LONDON (U.P.)—Radio Moscow complained Saturday that yelling fans at the Melbourne Olympic Games were creating a "nervous tension against Soviet sportsmen" and hinted darkly at political inspiration.

The Soviet newspaper was quoted as saying that "honest fans" were turning into "political bawlers."

"The more exciting the contest of Olympic athletes, the more pent-up the emotions in the public seats. But one cannot justify those who turn from honest fans into political bawlers and attempt to create among the public a nervous tension against Soviet sportsmen," it said.

ONLY ONE BOWL BID STILL OPEN

Navy Says No, 4 Others Yes

By Associated Press

Tennessee, Baylor, Syracuse and Georgia Tech accepted prized bowl invitations Saturday while Navy, held to a 7-7 tie by underdog Army, rejected a Cotton Bowl invitation.

The selection of Colorado's Orange Bowl opponent, expected late Sunday, will complete the lineup of major postseason games. Here's the way the bowl situation shapes up:

Rose Bowl—Iowa (8-1) vs. Oregon State (8-2-1).

Sugar Bowl—Tennessee 10-0) vs. Baylor (8-2).

Cotton Bowl—Syracuse (7-1) vs. Texas Christian (7-3).

Orange Bowl — Colorado (7-2-1) vs. either Clemson (7-1-2), Duke (5-4-1) or South Carolina (7-3).

Gator Bowl — Pittsburgh (6-2-1) vs. Georgia Tech (9-1).

Each of the bowl games, except the Gator, will take place on New Year's Day. Pittsburgh, which has a regular season game remaining against Miami (Fla.) next Saturday, will meet Georgia Tech Dec. 29.

Rear Adm. W. R. Smedberg of Navy turned down the Cotton Bowl invite minutes after the completion of the game in Philadelphia. Smedberg told the Navy team he did not think it in the best interest of the Navy to accept a bowl bid after the tie.

Syracuse, which lost only to Pittsburgh this year, quickly grabbed the Cotton Bowl spot after Navy had turned it down. Syracuse, featuring the great Jim Brown, will be the first Eastern team to play in the Dallas Bowl since Penn State in 1948.

'NO FEUD WITH LEAHY'

Irish Never Quit Fighting--Terry

By DICK ZEHMS

LOS ANGELES COLISEUM—Contrary to one man's (Frank Leahy) opinion, the Fighting Irish of Notre Dame are still fighting—right down to the last whistle.

As spirited as any Notre Dame team ever visiting this giant saucer, the Irish fought for every inch of real estate—with their lives—before they surrendered to SC's Trojans here Saturday afternoon before 64,538 fans, 28-20. Be reminded, please, that they were 13 point underdogs going into their 1956 season finale—a dismal year of two victories and eight defeats.

This, then, was the worst season in Irish history. But they never quit fighting, as charged last Thursday by former N. D. Coach Leahy in a public announcement. In fact, only their spirited play kept the Trojans from piling on more abuse.

As for Irish Coach Terry Brennan's announced intentions to answer Leahy following the game, it exploded in thin air. There is no feud.

"We never quit fighting today," stated Brennan, who is ending his third season at the South Bend command. "We played as well as we did against SMU and Oklahoma. It was one of our better games.

"What Mr. Leahy said is his opinion. He watches our games. He is entitled to express his beliefs, the same as anyone else.

"No, I don't believe there is a feud between us, nor do I think the fact that I denied Paul Hornung the chance to appear on Leahy's television show Friday night had anything to do with his Thursday statement criticizing our spirit. The request was made to me for Hornung's appearance last Tuesday. . . . I don't let any of

Once Over Lightly

by DAVE LEWIS

Probably the deepest satisfaction derived from sports writing is to forecast correctly a major event such as Friday night's heavyweight championship title fight . . . particularly when an overwhelming majority of observers went for the loser — Archie Moore.

We frankly were amazed in checking the forecasts to see so many scribes throughout the nation tabbing Moore. While Arch was the logical favorite off the records, Floyd Patterson nevertheless had everything going for him.

As we pointed out in our Friday column, we were stringing along with Patterson to win, adding that "I've never considered any other selection since the fight was first signed."

We also said that Patterson figured to chop the "Ancient One" into hamburger if he could weather the first few rounds.

Well, as it turned out, Floyd produced his own weather in the early rounds . . . blowing up a real storm for Archie in registering a surprisingly easy victory.

Moore showed absolutely nothing . . . except, of course, that he's an old man trying to keep active in a young man's game.

We gave Patterson all four completed rounds and had him ahead in the fifth, too, when the end came with blinding suddenness when Floyd jumped in with a paralyzing left hook that started Arch down and on his way out of the heavyweight championship picture for good.

THERE WERE many reasons why we picked Patterson, some of which I am not at liberty to divulge.

But one is that we were told that Arch is but a hollow shell of his former self. The fast pace at which the old boy has lived down through the years plus his advancing age finally took its toll. Rocky Marciano wouldn't touch Moore until his handlers were sure Arch was far enough over the hill so as not to be too troublesome . . . and that was 15 months ago. Moore, who "lives it up to the hilt," couldn't help but go back even more in the past year.

Secondly, the big rap against Patterson was his "questionable" win over Hurricane Jackson last June. But far too much emphasis was placed on that bout by certain observers.

Actually, we thought Patterson made a strong showing against Jackson, especially in view of the Hurricane's record of making his opponents look bad with his freak style. Only one man has ever stopped the "animal," Nino Valdes beat him via a KO on New York's three-knockdown rule and only then on a disputed knockdown. As I recall, Jackson got tangled up in the ropes and was not on the floor when the referee ruled him down for the third time in one round and ended the fight.

In our follow-up column on the Patterson-Jackson go last June, we had Floyd winning all the way . . . giving him eight of the 12 rounds as against only one for Hurricane with three even.

In fact, we were told by one veteran handler of fighters while in Chicago a few weeks ago that Patterson would need to put out only half the effort he did against Jackson in order to handle the burned-out Moore.

BUT THE MOST important reason for picking Patterson was the word from Floyd's manager, Cus D'Amato, during our trip east.

D'Amato is noted for being conservative to a fault and he convinced us when he said that he was certain Floyd not only would win . . . but would win by a knockout.

"I never would have taken the fight if I didn't think so," he said. "I even consented to fighting in Chicago where the officiating has left a lot to be desired. I do my worrying before I sign, thinking that maybe I didn't do the right thing and maybe overlooked something important.

"But once I sign, I'm relaxed. And this time I've never been so sure of anything in my life when I say that Floyd will flatten Moore!"

Everyone knows that Moore can punch, but still another ring source in the Midwest told us that he doubted that Arch could catch up with the exceptionally fast Patterson before running out of gas.

The key to Floyd's quick KO victory, of course, was his speed afoot and his remarkably quick hands.

It was obvious from the outset that Moore was in there looking for just one opening so he could explode a combination on Floyd's chin and finish it quickly.

INTERCEPTIONS RUIN RICE, 46-13

Baylor Romps to Bowl Bid

WACO, Tex. (UP)—Baylor won a Sugar Bowl berth Saturday by smashing Rice, 46-13, sparked by a band of alert pass defenders and a fleet of backs led by Del Shofner.

A crowd of 20,000 fans saw the Bears score in every period, winding up the season with a third-place finish in the Southwest Conference in a wild contest which brought Baylor two touchdowns on pass interception runbacks. A third interception set up another score.

Shofner scored two touchdowns and stood out on defense along with all-America guard Bill Glass, who intercepted a Rice pass in the third period and ran it back 45 yards to the Rice three to set up a touchdown.

Rice held Baylor to a 20-13 halftime edge, and twice tied the Bears in the first half. But the Bears erupted in a frenzied second half marked by two touchdowns within two minutes early in the third period.

Led by quarterback King Hill, Rice completed 18 of 33 passes for 227 yards, but Baylor stopped the Owls when it counted, intercepting four passes with runbacks totaling 160 yards.

Shofner scored on a 30-yard pass late in the second period from quarterback Bobby Jones and on a 10-yard run in the fourth quarter.

Fullback Charles Dupre scored twice, plunging three yards and running a pass interception back 48 yards. Sophomore fullback Billy Pavliska scored on a 5-yard run after intercepting a Rice aerial.

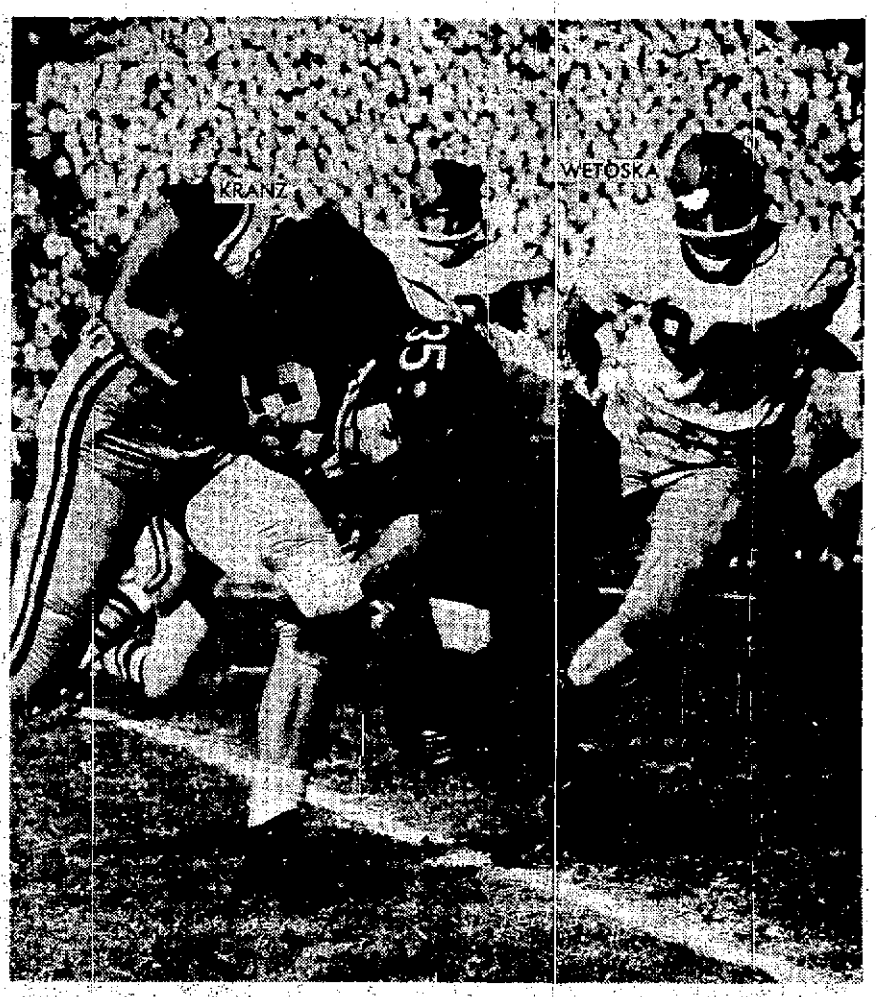

Rice tied the Bears twice in the second period, once on a one-yard plunge by Hill, and later when fullback David Kelley bounced over from the two. Kelley sparked the 90-yard march with a 40-yard run.

Bruin Five Crushes Nebraska

UCLA's Bruins made it two in a row over the visiting Nebraska Cornhuskers Saturday night with an easy 78-60 win at Pan Pacific Auditorium.

The first half was somewhat slow, UCLA ran it to 21-4 after eight minutes as Nebraska had trouble finding the bucket. Nebraska got only 24 hoop attempts in the first half and made good on only five for a poor 21 per cent average. The visitors' accuracy from the free throw line was only eight out of 17.

UCLA left the court at the half with a 38 to 18 lead. . . .

NEBRASKA looked like a different team in the second half and started whittling at the Bruins. With about six minutes left to play the Cornhuskers cut the lead to 61-54 as forward Don Smidt started peppering the basket with field goals and free throws. But in the last five minutes, UCLA again eased away.

Smidt, who got only two field goals in the first half, tanked 18 points in the second and was high scorer of the contest with 22. Forward Jim Halsten led UCLA with 17, and teammate Dick Banton had 15.

BYU Downs Washington

PROVO, Utah (AP)—Brigham Young University out-hustled the University of Washington Saturday night for a 70-66 basketball victory despite 32 points scored by Bruno Boin of the Huskies.

The smaller BYU Cougars held off the taller Huskies and stalled out a thrilling final three minutes.

Boin, remarkably agile for a man 6-feet-10-inches tall, plunked in long hook shots from the right hand corner. He also was a standout on both backboards.

Oxy Wins SCIAC Harrier Crown

POMONA (AP) — Occidental College won the all-Southern California Intercollegiate Athletic Conference cross country run Saturday with 16 points.

Redlands was second with 55 points, Caltech had 78 and Pomona-Claremont 95. Whittier was not entered.

The winning time over the four-mile course was 20 minutes 19 seconds. The event was held at the Mt. San Antonio Junior College course with Occidental as the host.

Duquesne Wins, 70-55

Mich. State Quint Loses

EAST LANSING, Mich. (UP)—Iowa State, led by guard Gary Thompson with 21 points, grabbed an early six-point lead Saturday night and then coasted to a 60-53 victory over Michigan State in a non-conference basketball game before 7,467 fans in Jenison Fieldhouse.

The Cyclones dumped in six points on four free throws and a layup before the Spartans even got organized. From there on Iowa State matched point for point with the Spartans throughout the game. The Cyclones led 36-29 at halftime.

Dons' Surge Overcomes Cal, 70-56

BERKELEY (AP) — The University of San Francisco Dons, trailing through most of the game, finished with a rush Saturday night to beat California, 70-56, and run their record victory string to a new intercollegiate record of 57 straight.

California grabbed a 36-30 halftime lead as a crowd of 7,200 saw the contest. Larry Friend, a senior forward, tallied 16 points in the opening stanza. It wasn't until the final six minutes that the Dons could take over the lead.

As they went ahead, 52-50, Friend left the game with an injured leg and the Dons pulled steadily ahead.

Mike Farmer, Gene Brown and Mike Presseau, all veterans from last year's national championship club, spearheaded the closing drive.

It was the second victory of the season for the Dons who Friday night downed Chico State, 63-34, to set an all-time collegiate record for consecutive victories.

Friend, who did not return to the game after being injured, wound up high point man with 24.

Rams-Pitt Game Even

PITTSBURGH (Special)—The first television "bowl" game of the year will be screened to the Southland this morning when the Los Angeles Rams and Pittsburgh Steelers meet here in the National Football League's cellar bowl.

Unlike other bowls, the Ram-Steeler meeting is not a post-season affair, although it may be wishful thinking for Ram coach Sid Gillman and Steeler boss Walt Kiesling. Both clubs have two games remaining after today's contest, but both coaching staffs have been looking ahead to 1957 for some time.

* * * *

THE RAMS ARE sole occupants of the Western Conference cellar with a 2-7 record. The Steelers share the Eastern Conference basement with Cleveland, each at 3-6. Off those records and the fact that both teams have several key players on the injury list, the oddsmakers figure today's meeting closer than next month's rent.

Pittsburgh will be without the services of Lynn Chadnois, its top running halfback, and Gary Glick, the defensive whiz who was the Steelers' sure-use bonus choice last year. Both are through for the year.

Ram casualties range from the definitely out status of linebackers Larry Morris and Hugh Pitts, end Ron Miller, tackles Frank Fuller and Charley Toogood and guard Jack Ellena to the injured-but-will-play category of halfbacks Tom Wilson and Ron Waller.

* * * *

TO PLUG SOME of the holes, the Rams signed Bear castoff Jess Castete, a defensive halfback, and took linebacker Bob Griffin off the injured-reserve list.

The Rams, after being drubbed, 56-21, by Baltimore last week, are still looking for their first road win of the year. They have beaten only the Eagles and 49ers. Pittsburgh holds a 20-17 exhibition win over the Rams, but resemblance of either team to September form is coincidental.

In today's feature NFL games, the Chicago Bears put their Western Conference lead on the line against Detroit and the New York Giants risk their Eastern lead against Washington. The Bears hold a ½ game lead over the second place Lions. The Giants are a full game up on the third place Redskins, but only a half game ahead of the runnerup Chicago Cardinals. The Cards play host to Green Bay today.

L.B. State Bows in Water Polo

SAN JOSE (AP) — San Jose State beat Cal Poly, 18-5, Saturday night and won its fourth straight California state college water polo championship.

In earlier matches San Jose State defeated Long Beach State, 20-4, and San Francisco State, 14-6. Cal Poly reached the tournament final round with a 9-1 win over Los Angeles State.

Downey '5' Wins Tourney

Rabbits Lose in Overtime

By RON DRESNICK

Two free throws by forward Tom Monson in the last 29 seconds of the three minute overtime period gave Downey High a 57-56 victory over Poly Saturday night and the championship of the seventh annual Long Beach Invitational basketball tournament. A crowd of 1,300 watched the finals at the Long Beach City College gym.

Monson, a 5-9 jump shot specialist, besides securing the Viking win with his last second shots, scored a total 29 points and was named outstanding player of the tournament.

Going into the final quarter the game was tied 40-40, when Monson began to take charge. With the rebounding support of Dick Roche, who snared eight in the last period, Monson fired through 13 points during the final 11 minutes, seven on free throws.

Poly evened the score at 54-54 with 2:25 to go but a charging foul, Monson's two free shots and a Downey interception killed the Hare chances.

In the game for third place, Torrance High trounced Alhambra, 72-53, as Richard Ruffell and Jerry Matthews hit 25 and 20 points, respectively.

* * * *

THE CONSOLATION bracket finals see-sawed back and forth before Artesia's Pioneers went on a second half spree to down Lynwood, 49-33.

Although losing the championship, Poly led with three all-tournament selections, placing center Art Brush, Kent Hazard and Fred Jingles on the all-star squad.

Others to make the select ten were Tony Rosales, Downey; Don Livingston and Paul Collier, Alhambra; Ruffell and Matthews, Torrance; and Don Bailey of Artesia.

The defeat for the SCIF defending champion Hares stopped a Poly win streak of 13 straight games extending back to the 1955-56 season.

Decision to Filippo

Veteran Lou Filippo of Los Angeles survived the rapier thrusts of Kid Castro of Manila for 10 bloody rounds to win a unanimous lightweight decision Saturday night in Hollywood Legion Stadium.

Filippo bled almost continuously from cuts over both eyes for five rounds.

Filippo had Castro on the canvas for a three-count in the second and staggered him in the fourth, fifth and sixth.

Stockton Scores Potato Bowl Win

Stockton College scored twice in the second quarter and led all the way to trim Orange Coast, 20-12, before 11,780 in the annual Potato Bowl game at Bakersfield Saturday night.

Stockton took the lead when Dave Veerkamp zipped 11 yards on a pitchout, boosted it to 13-0 on Marshall Dragomanovitch's two-yard plunge and ended its scoring in the fourth period on Lew Schmidt's 35-yard dash.

Orange Coast scored in the third period when Ted Dinkler pounced on a wild Stockton pitchout in the end zone and in the fourth quarter on Bob Crockett's 15-yard pitch to Jack Mahlstedt.

Bond Leads Tribe in Second Half, 65-54

PALO ALTO (UP) — Stanford forward Bill Bond cracked open a see-saw contest Saturday night as he made eight points in the final five minutes to lead the Indians to a 65-54 win over St. Mary's.

Bond, only lukewarm in the first half, got the range on the Stanford pavilion basket after the intermission, racking up 16 of his 19 points.

St. Mary's forward Odell Johnson razzle-dazzled the Indian defense in the early part of the game. He forced his way through under the backboard on several fast breaking plays to flip the ball through the hoop.

LUNDY'S SHOT WINS, 62-60

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP)—Big Lamar Lundy, only a week out of a football uniform, dunked a basket with five seconds to play and his Purdue Boilermakers edged Evansville College's defending Indiana Conference champions Saturday night, 62-60.

Evansville led by 13 points at one time in the first half, but superior height gave the Boilermakers control of the rebounds and pulled them back into contention.

Hitting the high spots . . .

BEAR FACTS. If either Paul (Bud) Hastings or Greg Engelhard sidles up to you, gives with a tap on the shoulder and wants a few secret minutes of your time, look out! They are after a new head football coach at the University of California . . . and might want you!

Yes sir, Bud and Greg have been appointed, in their executive capacities with the Associated Students, a two-man coach-seeking team from Berkeley. They will prowl the land in secret—incognito, false mustaches, gum shoes and all that—in search of a successor to the warm, friendly Lynn (Pappy) Waldorf, who has resigned.

This is the procedure Cal will pursue in picking a successor to the Wise Walrus of Strawberry Canyon. They may be on the prowl now, for that matter. They were scheduled to begin their search shortly after the Stanford game.

Pappy's contract runs until July 1, 1957, but a new coach will be needed by next spring to introduce his system, hence the operating plan adopted for the Cal executives. Greg will attend the annual meeting of the grid coaches next Jan 6 in St. Louis while Bud may be miles away—negotiating with a candidate.

Cal wants a name coach. Greg and Bud actually have two missions to perform. They'll be sounding out prospective hirelings on two conditions—interim coach and permanent coach. Since UCLA wants out of the Pacific Coast Conference and the old order is in a shaky state, wiser heads at Cal believe perhaps an interim coach might be the better step until all is peace and quiet in the PCC.

Right now, however, the names most prominently mentioned for the Cal job are Rod Franz, the former All-American who is Bear frosh coach, and Eddie Erdelatz of Navy.

Anyway, one big name coach has told prominent bay area Cal grads the Bear job is a big risk:

"A man would have to have his head examined if he jumped into the Pacific Coast Conference as it stands today. I don't even think the conference schools know where they are going!"

BREAKDOWN. The split was strictly geographical when Pacific Coast League baseball writers voted Tommy Heath of Sacramento and Bob Scheffing of Los Angeles co-managers of the year.

Sacramento, San Francisco, Portland and Vancouver chapters of the voting group picked Heath. San Diego, Los Angeles, Seattle and Hollywood went for Scheffing. Only Seattle strayed from the sectional line!

OLD PRO. Sammy Baugh, the noblest g.b. of them all in the NFL, found time to try his hand at golf last summer. Now he's a par shooter.

Old Sambo, who owns a cattle ranch near Abilene, Tex., handles two coaching jobs at Hardin-Simmons. He's the head man of the Cowboy football team, which is only natural. However, he also coaches the school's rodeo team.

Don't laugh. Most Texas colleges and high schools sponsor rodeo teams. Rodeo competition is conducted in the spring months. Other sports suffer.

Sammy coaches the bulldoggers and ropers. He knows from experience. He has had to do the bulldogging and roping on his own ranch for many years.

PCC Faces New Crisis

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Today starts make-or-break-week for the Pacific Coast Conference, still embattled on the problem of aid to football players and other athletes.

Alumni of UCLA, one of the schools hit hardest by conference penalties over illegal help to gridders, have moved to bolt the conference, apparently to operate independently.

The threat undoubtedly exerts pressures as the conference studies such questions as revising the athletic code in regard to aiding athletes and elimination of the round robin schedule. That schedule went into effect this past season requiring each team to play all others with the exception of Idaho.

Placed on probation, fined and assessed loss of player eligibility along with UCLA were SC, Washington and California.

Chancellor Raymond B. Allen of UCLA terms the conference code unrealistic in regard to aiding athletes.

Changes will be made in the aid section of the code. President Robert Gordon Sproul of the University of California, chairman of the PSS Presidents' Council, said after a recent meeting that none of the members suggested keeping the code in its present form.

Today the powerful council holds a day-long session in San Francisco. They'll prepare proposals for the faculty representatives from the nine schools to study during the conference meeting in Beverly Hills, Monday night through Thursday. Generally these proposals can be considered mandatory.

Should UCLA leave the conference under antagonistic conditions, the problem of scheduling games arises, not only for football but for the other intercollegiate sports.

Whatever UCLA's future may be, the alumni group has brought the Pacific Coast Conference to another crisis in a series dating back to last spring.

ond drive, this one carrying 77 yards in nine plays as Roberts boomed 18 yards over tackle and Zampese ripped off 10 more on key plays to set the stage for the scoring play . . . the identical pass maneuver that produced their touchdown against SC last week.

Conroy pitched out to Roberts going wide to the left and the big fullback then passed 15 yards to Hillard Hill in the end zone at 11:52. Johnston's kick made it 14-6.

* * * *

NOTRE DAME overcame two 15-yard clipping penalties early in the second quarter in putting together a 51-yard scoring drive for their next touchdown. The Irish picked up 25 yards on a pass interference penalty, made 25 more on Hornung's pass to Royer and another 14 yards on Williams' pass to Bob Ward to put the ball in position for Williams' 10-yard scoring bomb to Bob Wetoska in the end zone at 7:34. Hornung's kick was good and the score was 14-13.

After an exchange of fumbles near midfield, SC began moving again late in the second stanza, rolling from their own 25 to the Irish 34 before Doug Kranz' pass was intercepted on the Notre Dame 10 by Williams, who returned 30 yards to the 40.

* * * *

NULLIFICATION of Hornung's spectacular 46-yard punt return from the Notre Dame six to SC's 48 was what got the Irish into big trouble in the third period and set the stage for Troy's third touchdown.

The clipping penalty not only wiped out Hornung's run, but shoved the ball back to the Notre Dame one. The ensuing kick from deep in the end zone came out to the 36 from where the Trojans struck in seven plays.

A fourth-and-nine pass from Conroy to sophomore end Don Voyne clicked for 15 yards and the touchdown at 13:20 and Kissinger kicked goal to make it 21-13.

That lead stood up just 13 seconds, though, when Hornung streaked 95 yards with the kickoff and then kicked the conversion to make it 21-20.

* * * *

AGAIN THE Trojans refused to leave themselves vulnerable on the scoreboard by fighting back after the kickoff with a 73-yard surge in six plays capped by Zampese's 38-yard scoring run just 46 seconds after the final period got under way.

The touchdown came on a fourth-and-one play . . . and Zampese caught the inrushing Irish secondary flat-footed when he broke through the line on a drive over right tackle.

In wrapping up the victory the Trojans accomplished a real rarity in collegiate football by taking two straight games from Notre Dame. It's only the third time in their classic 28-game series that Troy has been able to put two wins back-to-back.

Snead Takes Palm Beach Lead by Two

Combined with a 68 in Friday's 18 holes, the round gave Snead, of Boca Raton, Fla., a 36-hole total of 139.

A couple of youngsters on the winter tour are only two strokes behind. They are Don Addington of Tecumseh, Mich., and Gardner Dickinson Jr. of Panama City, Fla.

Three strokes off the pace is Walter Burkemo of Detroit and another stroke back is Mike Fechik of Mahopac, N. Y.

The low scorers:

TITLE VISIONS?

Rademacher Can Dream

MELBOURNE (UP) — Pete Rademacher of Grandview, Wash., the new Olympic heavyweight boxing champion, is pledged to remain amateur in spirit and action but there are no restrictions on his dreams.

And, like every other American in the Olympics, he knows that Floyd Patterson won the world heavyweight title only hours before Rademacher won his. And every other American, like Rademacher, knows that four years ago at Helsinki, Patterson won the Olympic middleweight crown.

He's not saying, but he can dream.

CRUSH COLONIALS

Kentucky in 94-66 Romp

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Vernon Hatton, a flashy, homegrown guard, set Kentucky's basketball attack off to a sizzling start Saturday night and the Wildcats coasted over Washington and Lee, 94-66, in their season opener before 11,300.

Hatton's deadly accuracy in the early going and the rebounding of center Ed Beck and sophomore forward Johnny Cox helped Kentucky to a 20-point bulge just past the middle of the first half and the winners were in no danger thereafter.

ever and took the metric mile in 3:41.2 for an Olympic record.

Australia's golden girl, Betty Cuthbert, joined Morrow as a triple gold medal winner by anchoring her nation's 400-meter relay team to victory in the world record time of 44.5.

Alain Mimoun, the little Frenchman, won his nation's first gold medal in capturing the classic marathon, finishing as fresh as he started and the vast crowd loved it. They even seemed to enjoy a baseball game between an American Army team and an all-star Australian team, won by the Americans, 11-5. The announcer proudly said it was the biggest crowd ever to see a baseball game and he probably was right.

* * * *

TO CAP THINGS off, Bob Clotworthy won the men's springboard diving championship for the United States and his teammate, Bill Yorzyk, won the men's 200-meter butterfly event.

Clotworthy, Mountainside, N. J., won the men's springboard diving with Don Harper, Palo Alto, Calif., second and Glen Whitten, Lakeland, Fla., fourth.

Yorzyk, Northampton, Mass., who bettered his world record with a 2:18.6 clocking in the semifinals, "coasted" home with a 2:19.3 to win the 200-meter butterfly gold medal. Jack Nelson of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., was fourth.

The other swimming final was strictly an Australian event. Dawn Fraser, who had waged a battle of record with Lorraine Crapp in the preliminaries, led an Aussie sweep in the gals' 100-meter freestyle with a world record clocking of 1:02. Lorraine was second in 1:02.3 with Faith Leech slipping in ahead of Joan Rosazza of Torrington, Conn., for third by a tenth of a second in 1:05.1. Shelley Mann of the Washington, D. C., Walter Reed Swim Club, was sixth.

* * * *

AND OF COURSE, the rangy, slick American basketball team wound up the Olympic tournament by defeating Russia, 89-55, and adding another victory to the American list.

Boxing and wrestling were disappointments for the U. S. Only light-heavyweight Jim Boyd of Rock Mount, N. C., and heavyweight Pete Rademacher of Grandview, Wash., came off with gold medals—while Russia won the team boxing championship. The best Yank in wrestling was Dan Hodge of Norman, Okla. He managed a silver medal for a second in the middleweight division as Russia again took a team title.

Now the United States goes on the defensive. Finished are its traditionally strong sports of track and field, rowing, basketball, weightlifting and boxing.

Ahead lie sports in which the Europeans excel and in most of which the United States will be lucky to pick up a few crumbs.

Miami Blasts Florida

GAINSVILLE, Fla. (UP) — With fullback Don Bosseler racing 72 yards for one of his two "scores and setting up a third Miami whipped Florida, 20-7, Saturday in the "frustration bowl" game between two good elevens that will spend New Year's in the NCAA doghouse.

Some 40,000 fans watched the Miami Hurricanes jump to a quick 14-0 first half lead. They then canceled out Florida's only score in the fourth quarter with Bosseler's brilliant run to preserve Miami's undefeated record with just one game to go.

The only Florida score came with 7½ minutes to play when end Dan Pelham broke through to block a Miami kick, grab the ball on the 20 and run across untouched.

* * * *

ON THE THIRD play from scrimmage after the Florida kickoff, Bosseler's run put the Miami lead out of reach. He cut through left tackle from his 28 toward the sidelines and then ran the distance in a clear field.

The victory left Miami's record marred only by a tie with Georgia, but the Hurricanes end the season next week against Gator Bowl-bound Pittsburgh because they are banned from bowl play this season by the NCAA. So is Florida.

* * * *

THE FIRST Miami touchdown was set up by Bosseler, who intercepted a pass from Harry Spears on the Miami 40 and returned it 20 yards. Ten plays later the Hurricanes moved to the one, and quarterback Sam Scarnecchia sneaked over.

Fumble Sets Up LSU 7-6 Win Over Wave

NEW ORLEANS (UP)—Jimmy Taylor, a big fullback with a feather tred, scored a touchdown on a one-yard plunge, then kicked the extra point Saturday to give LSU an upset 7-6 victory over Tulane before 60,000.

LSU's winning score was set up by a Tulane fumble on the Green Wave three yard line and came three plays after Tulane had held an LSU drive on the three.

Tulane substitute fullback Jimmy McCoy fumbled and center Durwood Graham recovered for LSU. Two plays later Taylor went over from the one and booted the extra point.

Tulane, which had numerous drives stalled within short sight of the end zone scored early in the second period to take a 6-0 lead.

Fullback Ronny Quillian scored from two yards out, but tackle Emmett Zelenka failed to convert.

Plainsmen Turn Tide

BIRMINGHAM (UP) — Veteran Auburn quarterbacks Howell Tubbs and Jimmy Cook threw the ball and end Jerry Elliot caught it to trounce Alabama, 34-7, before a sell-out crowd of 44,000.

It was Auburn's third straight win over an Alabama team trying to work out of a dismal three years football depression.

Navy Ties Army, Nixes Cotton Bowl Bid

Sooners Breeze to 40th Straight

STILLWATER, Okla. (U.P.)—Oklahoma's greatest football team kept its blaze of glory bright Saturday, defeating its home-state rival, Oklahoma A&M, 53-0, for its 40th straight victory—a new national record.

The Big Seven champions apparently cinched their second consecutive national championship. They are not eligible for a bowl trip this year under conference agreement with the Orange Bowl.

Oklahoma gained 520 net yards rushing and set a new national record for a season with an average of 391 yards per game.

Junior halfback Clendon Thomas scored twice in the first half to go ahead of his all-America running mate, halfback Tommy McDonald, in point-making. Thomas banged over from the one after an Oklahoma drive of 74 yards in the first quarter and took a 7-yard pass from McDonald in the end zone five minutes later.

* * * *

THOMAS CLOSED the season with a total of 108 points to 102 for McDonald, a senior playing his last game for Oklahoma.

McDonald's only touchdown came in the final period. Thomas, Saturday's rushing leader, set it up with a 41-yard romp to the 17, and McDonald went the rest of the way on the next play.

Oklahoma's first touchdown, coming on the fourth play of the game, set the tone for the one-sided affair before 36,500 spectators. Quarterback Jimmy Harris gained 24 yards on the first play from scrimmage, and fullback Billy Pricer took a handoff through center for 37 yards for the touchdown.

Jay O'Neal, understudy to Harris, figured heavily in two scoring thrusts before halftime. He set up one touchdown with a 19-yard throw to halfback Carl Dodd, then lateraled to halfback David Baker from three for the score.

* * * *

IN THE THIRD period, O'Neal and Baker duplicated this tricky run-lateral for another touchdown from the three, capping a drive of 65 yards in 11 plays.

Thomas gained 123 yards in 15 carries to 75 in 13 carries for McDonald.

NAVY MARCHES DOWN FIELD

Middies Rally for 7-7 Tie

PHILADELPHIA (U.P.) — Favored Navy, outplayed for three periods, rose to fury pitch in the final moments Saturday and turned an Army fumble into a touchdown that netted a 7-7 come-from-behind tie, but the failure to win cost the Midshipmen a trip to the Cotton Bowl.

Immediately after the game Rear Admiral W. R. Smedberg III, superintendent of the Naval Academy, announced that Navy had decided to turn down a bid to play Texas Christian in the Dallas, Tex., classic on New Year's Day.

"I do not think in the light of our record that it would be in the best interests of the Naval Academy to participate in a post-season bowl game," Smedberg stated. The players did not get to vote.

Navy finished with a record of six victories, one defeat, and two ties.

* * * *

HOWEVER, Smedberg left the impression Navy would have accepted a bid had it won the game. The service schools have an "unwritten rule" that they will not play in post-season combat unless they are victorious in this game. Navy won here two years ago and beat Mississippi in the Sugar Bowl, 21-0.

The Middies, hemmed inside their own 50-yard line most of the afternoon by a dog-eat-dog Cadet line, marched 27 yards in seven plays after pouncing on a Cadet miscue and scored with seven minutes left to play.

Sophomore fullback Dick Dagampat crashed over from half a yard out. Ned Oldham kicked the point which gave the bruised Middies a tie in a game in which breaks played the major part in both scores.

THE CADETS' lead touchdown early in the third period was set up when quarterback Dave Bourland snagged a Navy pass and returned the interception 28 yards to the Middies' four. Bob Kyasky, the Army's siege gun all season, ripped over left tackle on the first play. Dick Murtland kicked the point.

Navy never could steam past mid-field under its own power as the lightning fast Cadet line kept up the relentless pressure. The only sorties to Cadet territory came when a bounding punt was touched by an Army end and then recovered by a Middie on the Army 20, and on an earlier fumble recovery at the same point.

The Cadets still were trying in the final seconds when Jim Kennedy tried a field goal from the Navy 36 but it was short and time ran out before Navy could put a play in progress.

* * * *

BOURLAND, the question-mark quartback who had agonizing moments all season, supplied the two key plays to Army's third-period score.

The signal caller pulled the quick kick out of the bag early in the third period to rock Navy back to its 20. Then Bourland latched onto a pass by Tom Forrestal and ran it to the Middie four before he was chased out of bounds.

Dagampt was the workhorse in the Navy TD drive. He carried to a first down on the 11 and another first on the half-yard mark. Then he smashed over.

ORDER EXAM FOR SADDLER

Give Moore 3½ Months to Defend Light-Heavy Title

CHICAGO (U.P.) — Archie Moore must defend his light-heavyweight boxing title by next March 18 or forfeit it, the executive committee of the National Boxing Assn. ruled Saturday.

"Moore's last title defense was against Yolande Pompey in London June 18," said George Barton, NBA committeeman and boxing commissioner at Minneapolis. "Under our regulations, he was to defend it again within six months time, or by Dec. 18. But because of the physical beating he took from Floyd Patterson he was granted a three months extension."

Featherweight champ Sandy Saddler was ordered to undergo a thorough physical examination no later than Dec. 10. If found in shape, he must sign by Jan. 15 for a title defense. Saddler is on the mend after an auto accident.

The NBA went on record as recognizing Ralon Macias of Mexico as bantamweight champ and Mario D' Agata of Italy the No. 1 contender.

Tech Power Rips Georgia

ATHENS, Ga. (U.P.)—Georgia Tech riddled Georgia, 35-0, Saturday for its ninth victory against one loss and immediately accepted a bid to play Pittsburgh in the Gator Bowl Dec. 29.

Georgia Tech used a one-two punch at fullback to pierce the hard shell of Georgia's line and halfback Paul Rotenberry then scampered merrily as the Engineers turned the game into a romp.

Tech players in their dressing room accepted the Gator Bowl invitation by unanimous vote. It will be Tech's sixth consecutive bowl appearance. The Engineers have won all five.

Fullbacks Ken Owen and Dick Mattison softened up Georgia in a brutal first half before a crowd of 50,000 and Rotenberry turned the ends with an eight-yard touchdown sweep and a 53-yard breakaway that set up another score.

* * * *

THE ISSUE never seemed in doubt after Tech marched 86 yards for its first score in the second period. Rotenberry shot over right tackle for the final eight yards after Mattison had churned 46 yards in eight carries during the drive.

Georgia Tech took the second half kickoff and 43 seconds and four plays later had its second tally. Jimmy Thompson returned Pud Mosteller's kickoff 18 yards to the Tech 28. Then Rotenberry took a pitch-out from Wade Mitchell, turned right end and streaked 53 yards to Georgia's 19 where Marion Bush hauled him down.

* * * *

THOMPSON WENT for 14 and a Georgia offside penalty moved the ball to the one, where Mitchell sneaked in.

Tech exploded for three touchdowns in the fourth quarter as the tired Bulldogs could muster only slight opposition.

Georgia Tech scoring: Touchdowns—Rotenberry (8, sweep). Mitchell (1, sneak). Flowers 2 (1, buck; 12, pass from Vann). Mattison (1, buck). Conversions—Mitchell 3, Vann 2.

Rebels Come From Behind for 13-7 Win

OXFORD, Miss. (AP) — Mississippi mounted a last minute drive Saturday to whip Mississippi State, 13-7, in their 52nd annual football game before 34,000 fans.

Ray Brown and Paige Cothern were the heroes of the Mississippi rally. Cothern's leap over center put it on the four. Brown went through the middle to score.

Both previous scores came on breaks in the second quarter. First, Brown went back to pass from the 50, looked around, and passed directly into the arms of State's Jimmy Dodd, who raced 45 yards to score. Bobby Tribble's conversion was good and State led 7-0.

Then came Mississippi's break a few plays later. State quarterback Billy Stacy fumbled and he was downed on his two.

Two plays later Cothern bulled through left tackle with little more than two minutes of the first half left.

Northwestern Sets New Field Goal Mark

EVANSTON, Ill. (U.P.)—Veteran Dick Mast and a trio of sophomores led Northwestern to a 99-60 victory over Western Michigan Saturday night.

The Wildcats set a new school field goal record by collecting 44 baskets compared with the old record of 39 against Michigan in 1945.

MAJORS LEADS 10TH STRAIGHT WIN, 27-7

Vols Smash Vandy, Accept Sugar Bid

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (U.P.)—All-America Johnny Majors guided Tennessee to a 27-7 win over Vanderbilt Saturday, capping a perfect season, and the Volunteers immediately accepted a bid to the New Orleans Sugar Bowl.

It was the 10th straight victory this season for the Volunteers, second-rated team in the nation.

Tennessee, which also won its first undisputed Southeastern Conference crown since 1946, accepted the Sugar Bowl bid as soon as the game ended.

Majors personally scored once on a 25 yard run, tossed two key passes in another touchdown drive and kept another going with a clutch 12-yard run.

Fullback Tommy Bronson made two of the Tennessee scores, diving over twice from one yard out.

* * * *

VANDERBILT PUT UP a stubborn fight for two periods but Majors' touchdown early in the second half broke the game open.

Tennessee, in traditional fashion, turned two fumbles into touchdowns in the first half.

In the opening period guard Bill Johnson recovered a Vandy fumble on the Commodore 38. Majors was tossed for a loss but then threw to end Buddy Cruze for 24 yards to the 16.

From there Majors and Bronson carried to the one where Bronson just went up and over the Vandy line for the score.

Vandy, with quarterback Don Orr in good shape for the first time in weeks, snapped back to tie the score.

Orr intercepted a Tennessee pass on the Vanderbilt 32 and Vandy moved 68 yards in 14 plays with Orr, halfback Phil King and fullback Jimmy Butler carrying the burden. Butler went over from the three.

That was all for Vandy except for a last period splurge that died deep in Tennessee territory.

Tennessee went ahead in the second period after taking a Vandy fumble on the Commodore 25. The Vol second team went over in two plays with fullback Carl Smith scoring.

Early in the third period. Majors scampered 25 yards for the touchdown that really broke the game open.

Tackle John Gordon, end Roger Urbano and guard Bill Johnson were standouts for Tennessee defensively.

Last Minute Safety Earns Missouri Win

It was Faurot's 101st win in his tenure at Missouri and almost didn't come when a fumble on Missouri's final conversion attempt left the game tied 13-13 with only 3:12 to go.

The safety came when senior tackle Chuck Mehrer grabbed Kansas halfback Bobby Robinson in the end zone with 39 seconds left. On the play before, the determined but stalled Tigers had pounded Kansas back from its 20 to the four.

Missouri	0	0	7	8	—15
Kansas	0	6	0	7	—13

Missouri scoring: Touchdowns—Doane (4, run); Plumb (14, pass from Doane). Conversions—Rash 1. Safety, (Robinson, tackled by Mehrer in end zone).

Gopher Zone Earns Win Over Vanderbilt

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (U.P.)—Minnesota, trailing Vanderbilt 34-30 at the half, switched into a zone defense Saturday night and rallied to a 63-60 victory in the season's opener for both teams.

Forward George Kline paced the Gophers, dropping in seven field goals and five free throws.

Vanderbilt jumped off to an early lead, rolling ahead by 10 points during the opening moments. However, the Gophers began clicking in the second half, pulling ahead by eight points at one stage.

Dayton Opens Bid

DAYTON, O. (U.P.)—The University of Dayton began its quest for national recognition with an easy 84-48 basketball victory over Gustavus Adolphus here Saturday night.

South Pasadena in Northern CIF Final

South Pasadena High downed Sherman Burroughs, 28-14, on the winner's field Saturday to gain a berth in the Northern Group CIF football finals.

South Pasadena will meet Mater Dei for the championship next week. Undefeated Mater Dei swept to the finals with a 39-0 victory over St. Monica Friday night.

TCU Reserves Subdue SMU

DALLAS, Tex. (U.P.)—Reserve quarterback Dick Finney and scrub halfback Carlos Vacek, who had never thrown in a game before, tossed touchdown passes Saturday as Cotton Bowl-bound Texas Christian downed stubborn Southern Methodist, 21-6, before 32,500 persons.

Sandwiched in between Vacek's 10-yard second quarter flip to end Harold Pollard and a final period four-yard scoring pitch from Finney to scatback Virgil Miller, the Texas Christian first team managed to convert a Southern Methodist fumble into an eight-yard touchdown run by quarterback Charles Curtis.

With the reserve units carrying the brunt of the offensive success against injury-stricken Southern Methodist, TCU tucked away a 7-3 season record and an undisputed Southwest Conference second place to carry into the New Year's Day bowl against Syracuse.

* * * *

SOUTHERN METHODIST had scored first on a four-yard drive by halfback Charles Jackson in the second period after the day's most spectacular play—a 75-yard interception return by SMU guard Tom Koenig—had set up the situation.

The Methodists put up a terrific scrap in view of the fact that four of its first six backs weren't even in uniform due to injuries and the quarterbacking was in the hands of sophomore David Musslewhite, who had seen only one minute of varsity action all season.

But, the TCU ground attack, sparked by the reserves, was too much for SMU to handle as it rolled up 279 yards to 64 for SMU.

Tigers Bid for Bowl in 28-7 Victory

CLEMSON, S. C. (AP)—Clemson rolled to a convincing 28-7 football victory over undermanned Furman here Saturday in its drive for a bid to meet Colorado in the Orange Bowl.

All-Conference halfback Joel Wells opened the scoring with a 15-yard touchdown run ending a 70-yard drive from the initial kickoff. He scored again in the second period from the two after Furman had tied the game with a 90-yard first period march. Furman halfback Jackie Powers raced two yards for the touchdown.

Late in the second period Clemson got its first touchdown via passing with quarterback Charlie Bussey throwing for 13 yards to end Dalton Rivers in the end zone.

The victory gave the Tigers an overall 7-1-2 record and left it 4-0-1 in the conference.

San Jose Bogged in Hawaii Mud

HONOLULU, T. H. (U.P.)—The University of Hawaii beat San Jose State at its own passing game Saturday night and posted a 20-0 victory in a mud bath before 6,000 football fans.

The game, which was the last one for retiring Coach Bob Bronzan, tied the Spartan's all-time record of seven losses in one season.

San Jose's vaunted passing attack bogged down in the wake of an all-day downpour. Quarterbacks Bob Reinhard and Marv McKean completed but five of 16 attempts and had three intercepted.

'ARMY BEST WE'VE MET'

Midshipmen, Erdelatz Disappointed at Bowl Ban

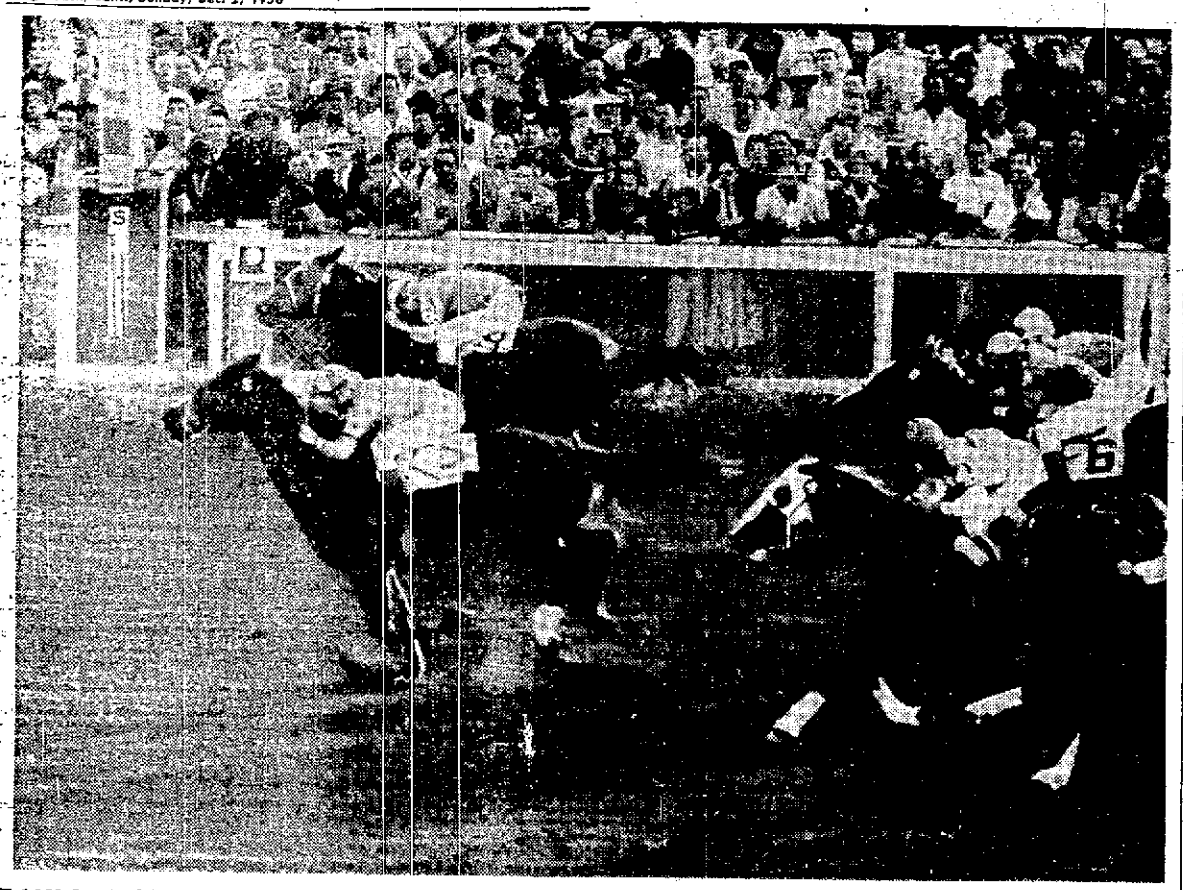

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Rejection of a Cotton Bowl bid by Admiral W. R. Smedberg rankled more in the Navy locker room than the failure to beat Army.

Smedberg's decision left a bitter taste that exceeded the disappointing 7-7 tie. Coach Eddie Erdelatz made no attempt to hide his feelings and remarks by the players echoed his thoughts.

Erdelatz said this was the best Army team he has seen in seven years. "Definitely the best we've met all season," he added. "We didn't move the ball. We had an early opportunity but didn't cash in."

Animated gestures and expressions of disgust were mute evidence of how the Army players felt about the tie.

Coach Earl Blaik said, "In there is the most disgusted group I've ever seen. They thought they should have won, and so do I. How could they say anything after the way things went?"

ARAGON 12-5 PICK OVER GENE POIRIER

Oddsmakers have installed Art Aragon a 12-5 choice over New York's Gene Poirier for their non-televised 10-rounder next Tuesday at Hollywood Legion Stadium.

Aragon, currently ranked as the world's fourth best 147-pounder, will be making his first start since stopping Cisco Andrade, Aug. 29 at Wrigley Field.

Poirier's two best showings this year were decisions over Danny Perez and Carmen Fiore in New York. He also gave Gaspar Ortega a close battle at St. Nick's in New York before dropping a split decision.

Gold Nita Snares Feature as Bob's Folly Disappoints

John F. Mawson's Gold Nita, a little filly with a great big heart, sprinted to a half-length victory Saturday in the $13,650 Pacific Coast Quarter Horse Racing Association California-bred Stakes before 10,120 fans who wagered $613,793 on a nine-race card.

Both the attendance and mutuel figures were new records for a fall meeting at Frank Vessel's friendly Orange County course.

Gold Nita, seemingly beaten a hundred yards from the wire, came with a great rush between horses to turn back Clabber Pat and Peaceful Acres in 18.4 seconds for the 350 yards and, coupled in the wagering with Mobile's Mite, paid $2.80, $2.20 and $2.10 across the board as one of seven favorites to get home in front.

* * * *

THE VICTORY of Gold Nita, a 2-year-old daughter of Chudej's Black Gold—Penita, bred by her owner, a Los Angeles industrialist, was worth $6,142.50 and was her second of the meeting.

Gold Nita was away a trifle slowly, her stablemate, Mobile's Mite, filling in as pacemaker. But Mobile's Mite surrendered the lead after 100 yards and Clabber Pat and Peaceful Acres took over.

Midway through the stretch, jockey Kenneth Chapman got Gold Nita in top stride and she worked her way up between horses to wrest command near the wire and draw out quickly.

* * * *

THE AMAZINGLY formful day had only one real disappointment and that was Dr. R. T. Leneve's Bob Folly, world record holder for 440 yards, who wound up fifth in the companion feature, the $5000 Johnny Dial Stakes at 400 yards, as a 95 cents-on-the dollar favorite.

Bob's Folly was never in the chase as Betty Jo Kiser's Vanetta Dee grabbed the lead from Dividend nearing the finish to win by a head in 20.5 seconds for 400 yards, with Alfaretta third.

SAN MATEO (AP) — Bobby Brocato topped the $500,000 mark in turf earnings Saturday, winning the featured $15,685 Bay Meadows Handicap in the track record-breaking time of 1:40 4/5 for the mile and a sixteenth.

The five-year-old son of Natchez, highweighted with Johnny Longden at 128 pounds, took the four-horse feature with speed in reverse.

The Argentine-bred Hollandes II, with Willie Shoemaker up, was second by a length, and Count Chic was third.

Bobby Brocato, in breaking the old track standard of 1:41 3/5, paid $3.30 as the solid favorite.

United States Five Praised—Best Ever

MELBOURNE (UP)—Coach Gerald Tucker Saturday night described his U. S. Olympic champion basketball team "as good as any ever assembled in the world."

The highly-elated American said "everybody down here has tried to figure out that these kids are not as good as they really are. But they would be equal to any team in any league anywhere."

Tucker described the Russians as "good" and said the Soviet team would be representative of American collegiate basketball but would not win very many games.

"They would have to play our game," Tucker explained, "as American basketball differs considerably from that played in Europe. The Russians handle the ball well and are a well coached group."

* * * *

THE FINAL GAME, which the U.S. won handily, 89-55, was anti-climactic since the Russians had already been drubbed by an almost identical score, 85-55, in an earlier meeting.

So thoroughly did the Americans dominate the game that Soviet athletes left the arena in embarrassment at halftime when the count was 56-27.

Tucker singled out Bill Russell, K. C. Jones and Bob Jeangerard, as the leading factors in the title win. They scored 13, 15, and 16 points respectively in the gold medal game—Jeangerard's was high for the contest — and Russell and Jones turned in their finest defensive efforts of the eight games played in the Olympics.

Russell, who was drafted by the Boston Celtics and is sought after by the Harlem Globetrotters, says he has no plans now about turning pro. He said: "All I can think about right now is that we won. I'm getting married Dec. 9 and I haven't got time to go thinking about anything else."

Bob Kelley Says---

By ALAN CLINE
(Pinch-hitting for Bob Kelley)

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The University of San Francisco Dons, No. 1 basketball team in the nation, still has height, experience and hustle. But Coach Phil Woolpert has a mighty problem. No Bill Russell.

Russell, 6-10 mainstay of a team which set the national collegiate consecutive win record of 55 and won two NCAA titles, and his teammate, K. C. Jones, Don Captain and a tremendous competitor, have graduated. Both are in Melbourne with the victorious U. S. Olympic basketball squad.

"Jones was always there when the team needed a lift," Woolpert said. "It is a gift he has . . . an intangible . . . something lots of people don't see."

AND HOW ABOUT the loss of Russell, the giant with the knack of knocking opponents' shots back into their faces and the ability to score with a backward two-handed "dunk" shot?

"There just isn't anyone to fill Russell's shoes," Woolpert said.

The Dons opened their 25-game season Nov. 30 against Chico State and although they won rather handily, Woolpert feared they would not be ready, even for that game—that even three first stringers back from last year's squad won't begin to make the team jell until midseason.

HE EXPLAINS his national champions practically started together as freshment. They knew what each other was going to do before he did it.

As for the 1956-57 club, Woolpert says:

"We'll have a lot of hustle and drive but we're bound to make mistakes."

Carl Boldt, who draws Russell's job; Mike Farmer and Gene Brown form the nucleus of the club.

Boldt, 6-5, is described as an excellent ball handler, a good shooter and adequate on the backboards "although no Russell."

Farmer, 6-7, a forward, is strong, good on defense and another good outside shooter.

Brown, 6-3, is the team's best ball handler who Woolpert says can get off shots where very few can. He filled in superbly for Jones last year.

THE OTHER TWO starters are Mike Preaseau, a 6-5 forward, and Dave Lillevand, a 5-11 guard. Preaseau is a speedy and capable rebound man while Lillevan is rated as deceptive and a great competitor.

The three top reserves are Art Day and Al Dunbar, two junior college transfers from Hannibal-Lagrange (Mo.) and Charlie Russell, Bill's brother.

Russell, 24, and a year older than his famius brothers, is a service returnee and a forward.

Day, at 6-9 has plenty of potential, Woolpert says, but doesn't have the wingspread or the strength of a Bill Russell. But Day is only 19. Dunbar is another 5-11 speedster.

SAY PRESS QUARTERED AT 'CLIP JOINTS'

MELBOURNE (Sunday) (U.P.)—A writer in the Sydney Daily Telegraph said today that some of the hotels and nightspots in Melbourne are earning a reputation as a "nation of latter-day bushrangers." (highway robbers).

"With prices blantantly and admittedly increased for the duration of the Games, a number are giving service and facilities only slightly better than usual," the writer said.

"It is fortunate, however, that this bandistry is being offset by the benerosity, and hospitality of other hotels and by thousands of private citizens.

"But some of the international press is quartered at the clip joints and the world is going to hear about it," he said.

Tartars Drill for 4th JRB Contest

By JERRY HALL

Compton College footballers put aside their crown this week and get down to the grim business of polishing an attack to hurl at the Texas invaders in the Junior Rose Bowl Saturday.

The national championship the Tartars tucked away last week won't mean much to the Arlington, Tex. challengers, because they are armed with a booster shot of confidence. They romped all over the team that almost upset Compton (15-12) recently — the Cameron, Okla., Aggies.

Arlington beat Cameron 27-13. A month later the Aggies journeyed to Compton and charged the towering Tartar linemen off their feet for three quarters, but their squad of only 24 tired in the late going.

* * * *

COMPTON HAS A 10-0 record, running up 393 points to the opposition's 24. Arlington has a 8-1-1 slate, falling only to Tarleton, Tex. That was a 30-7 setback, but quickly explained. The Arlington squad was bedridden with the flu until game time. The JRB promoters eagerly produce a doctor's notarized statement to all doubters.

This Compton team rates right with the best of Tartar powerhouses of the past. It is right on the heels of school records in several departments. The team established a new school record for most touchdowns during the regular season—61. No other Tartar team has scored so many or been scored on so seldom.

The Tartars are going after their 36th in a row without defeat.

Compton has never lost a bowl game. This is its fourth appearance in the Pasadena JC classic and a repeat performance, as the Tartars defeated Hinds, Miss., in last year's game.

Y Swimmers Win Whittier Relays

Long Beach YMCA swimmers won five events in capturing the team championship of the eighth annual Whittier Relays Saturday. Long Beach had 73 points, followed by Alhambra with 55 and Whittier with 27.

Long Beach winners:
Prep 80-yard medley relay: Bob Duncan, Mike MacQuarie, Dave Garner, Ricky Anderson, 43.9 (new record).
Prep 80-yard butterfly relay—MacQuarie, Dick Still, Gary Grandle, Garner, 52.3.
Prep 160-yard freestyle relay—Duncan, Mike Kaneen, Ron Blackledge, Grandle, 1:40.0.
Junior 160-yard medley relay—Mike Mehlor, Billy Rose, Steve Chew, Sam Rauth, 1:41.3 (new record).
Intermediate individual medley—Bulay Wrye, 1:56.6, (new record).

Would Santa Maria Country Club in little Santa Maria outdraw the Los Angeles Country Club in big Los Angeles as a site for a golf tournament?

An emphatic "yes" was the answer of Ralph Evans, Southern California PGA tournament committee chairman.

Our question was made in reference to the selection of Santa Maria as the site of the State Open next May and came on the heels of a lively debate on why the Southern California Open flopped (as PARticulars predicted it would) at Tijuana last month.

"I don't think the State Open would draw more than 200 people at Los Angeles CC," Evans startled us with. "There's a good chance that with good promotion, the tournament will be a success at Santa Maria."

Why was the Southern California Open a flop?

"The sponsors didn't deliver as they promised," said Evans. "Tijuana enthusiastically wanted the tournament and assured us it would be a success. They just didn't deliver."

According to one Long Beach pro who competed, there were scarcely more than 100 persons in attendance for all four days of play. In addition were these factors:

1. The tournament was not held in Southern California.

2. You had to go nine places down the order of finish to find a Southern California home club professional.

3. The large field was almost bare of leading amateurs in a tournament which is presumably supposed to be a test between the amateurs and professionals.

PARticulars had criticized the SC-PGA tournament committee for its selection of Tijuana. But according to Evans, it had no other choice.

"I tried all summer to get a sponsor and Tijuana was the only one to respond. The bid by Lakewood Rotary Club you referred to was made after arrangements had been completed with Tijuana. If they are still interested in it next year, we will be very happy to talk with them."

We didn't mean to imply personal criticism of Evans in our column concerning Tijuana. There are few more efficient and personable pros than the dapper little Clock CC representative.

(P.S. Would Santa Maria outdraw Los Angeles? It's hard to believe. We don't.)

HOLE-IN-ONE honors to Dick Smith and S. A. Krieger.

Smith, of 321 Pomona Ave., hit a 9-iron ("a real good sweet shot") into the 135-yard 18th hole at Recreation Park while playing with Glenn Krebs, Joe Feldik and Joe Sparks.

Krieger, of 300 Granada Ave., connected on the 93-yard third hole at the South Course in a family threesome of Ronny and Marilyn Krieger.

ONCE OVER—

the boxing business knew . . . that he wasn't strong enough to shoot the works from the start. He had to gamble on a one or two-punch victory. He laid back waiting for such an opening that never came as young Patterson methodically cut him down.

Patterson's blazing speed never gave Moore a breathing spell and his body shots had Arch breathing hard by the end of the third round, according to Jimmy Powers, the TV announcer. Floyd confirmed this in his dressing room statement that he knew he had him after a punishing blow to the body in the third.

While Patterson is not a devastating puncher, he hits sharply and often. The blows are more punishing than they appear to be on the TV screen. They sap the strength of an opponent.

Only ones around now with a chance against the new champion are Eddie Machen . . . and the retired undefeated heavyweight king, Rocky Marciano.

Sid Flaherty undoubtedy will insist on several more tuneup fights for Machen before turning his tiger loose against Patterson in a big outdoor show either late in 1957 or in June of 1958.

Meanwhile, a Patterson-Marciano outdoor bout next summer is still a solid possibility.

As we have reported, there are indications that Rocky will announce a comeback sometime in March or April!

Last-Second Score Wins for Holy Cross

BOSTON (AP)—Senior quarterback Billy Smithers connected with Paul Toland on a 20-yard pass with 40 seconds remaining to enable Holy Cross to edge past stubborn Boston College, 7-0, Saturday in the 53rd meeting between the Jesuit rivals before 34,176 chilled fans at Fenway Park.

Boston College turned back four other scoring bids by the Crusaders from Worcester before Toland slipped by a BC defender and took Smithers' high lob.

Holy Cross scoring—Touchdown, Toland; Conversion, D. Hohl.

Minors Open Meet Monday

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UP)—Baseball comes out of moth balls Monday when the minor league meetings open with a top-heavy draft, proposed new bonus rules agenda that includes the annual and a "save the minors" program.

The current bonus rule, a sore spot with many baseball men for the past 10 years, will come under attack by a Chicago White Sox bloc which seeks adoption of so-called "premium player draft" as a means of permitting rookies to play one year in the minors before entering the majors.

The major league clubs will conduct their annual draft of minor league players Monday.

Among the top draft eligibles of 2,856 players are such former bonus babies as Paul Pettit, Gus Keriazakos, Frank Leja, Bruce Swango, Joe Amalfitano and Ed Cereghino. Draft price ranges from $2,000 for class D players to $15,000 for open classification (Pacific Coast League).

No Soccer Games at L. B. Stadium Today

Rosewall, Gibson Win

ADELAIDE, Australia (UP)—Althea Gibson of New York battled to an 8-6, 7-5 triumph over Shirley Fry of St. Petersburg, Fla., in the women's final of the South Australian tennis meet Saturday, while Ken Rosewall overpowered Lew Hoad, 6-1, 7-5, 6-1, in the all-Aussie men's windup.

Miss Fry was the better retriever, but Miss Gibson was powerful with her service throughout and also capitalized on a fine volleying game.

Rosewall exercised nearly perfect control with his placement shots to win the championship from Hoad.

CC Enters Pre-Coast Sail Meet

By BOB RUSKAUFF

A double portion of sailing action on Newport Bay is on tap today, featuring (1), opening fall championship races sponsored by Balboa YC and (2), a tune-up series at Newport Harbor YC, hosted by UCLA and pointing toward the 12th Pacific Coast Intercollegiate championships, Dec. 15-16.

For the first time in several years, Long Beach City College will be in the action today, likewise in the championships, which are expected to lure teams from a dozen schools.

Viking team captain, Lee Thompson, said that helmsmen today will be Jim Clinton and George Chapman, with a "mixture of crews. From what happens in the tune-ups we'll pick our winning combo for the championships."

Defending Dec. 15 and 16 will be Occidental which—via skippers Tom Ramsey of Long Beach and Peter Frost, Newport—last year walloped all rivals to take the title. Pomona-Claremont, represented by Llewellyn Bixby IV, now graduated and looked toward his Armed Forces stint, and Win Fuller were runners-up.

BYC's fall series today will have in action boats over 14 feet length. The championships will conclude next Sunday. Also opening two Sundays of series action for all classes, will be boats racing at Redondo under sponsorship of the Wind'ard YC.

LONG BEACH will be site of annual meetings of two speedboat racing organizations. Inboarding's Southern California Speedboat Club will hold its big banquet Dec. 22 at Pacific Coast Club, under direction of rear-commodore-driver, Bob Willis. Los Angeles Speedboat Association has Feb. 2 slated, at the Lafayette Hotel. The LASA Yule party is Dec. 15 at Nicodell, Hollywood.

Fishin' Around
By DONNELL CULPEPPER

It's hard to pin down the recent revival of interest in fresh-water fishing except to attribute it to the warm weather which has bathed California for more than a month. Actually, we received more calls from fishermen than hunters last week.

The requests for angling information come at a time when only the southern counties are open to trout fishing and, we might add, when there is so little water that most trips are hardly justified. However, here's a rundown on the best bets in case California's summer-like weather continues through December:

* * * *

ISABELLA LAKE—190 miles from Long Beach via Bakersfield and Kern River Canyon. Trout fishing fair to excellent with many two-and three-pounders being taken by trollers. Boats and motors for rent at the landing. New campground completed near the lake. Private boats may be launched for a specified fee, but all boats must observe rules, which are strictly enforced. When wind starts to blow dangerously, sirens are sounded and all boats must go to shore. Kernville is three miles from lake and there are five modern motels there. The lake now holds 175,000 acre feet of water.

Arrowhead Lake — Fishing fair to good. Summer stocking program really paying off now. Boat landing will be open all winter and fishing permitted every day, weather permitting.

* * * *

TROUT PLANTINGS were made at Crystal Lake and the East and West Forks of the San Gabriel River last week. Fulmor Lake (Riverside County) also was restocked. In San Bernardino County, Arrowhead, Green Valley and Gregory Lakes received fish, as did the Middle and North Forks of Lytle Creek. Another stocking of catchable-size rainbow went into Matilija Reservoir (Ventura County).

Clyde J. Thisse and Leonard R. Delmar, both of Long Beach, did a scouting trip to Cachuma Lake, near Santa Barbara, and saw some anglers take limits and partial limits of rainbow. Thisse reported that one fish was weighed in at 3 lbs., 2 oz.

Cachuma is in the Santa Ynez Valley between Santa Barbara and Buellton. Camping facilities as yet are limited. Boats and outboards are available and private boats may be launched for $1. The Department of Fish and Game is not stocking the lake this winter, but there seems to be a good holdover of fish from last summer and previous seasons.

* * * *

SCANNING OTHER fishing fronts, we find that Little Rock Reservoir will be unsuitable for fishing within a matter of days. The irrigation district is draining the lake because of drought conditions. DF&G wardens hope to rescue the fish there and transplant them to other areas.

El Capitan and San Vicente, the only reservoirs still open for fishing in San Diego County, are producing very poorly.

Legg Lake will be closed Dec. 31 for an indefinite period.

And that just about covers the nearby fresh-water spots. If you want to try for bass and catfish, head for the Colorado River and Lake Mead, Havasu and Mohave. Weather is ideal there at this time and fishing at times is excellent.

The cutthroat season is on at Walker Lake, Nev., and trout in the 6-to-9-pound categories are filling the refrigerators there. As long as the balmy weather holds, fishermen should continue to do well there, trolling deep just off shore. If you are interested in accommodations, write Barney O'Malia, El Capitan Club, Hawthorne, Nev.

* * * *

THE PHEASANT season ends today in all parts of the state except at the private clubs which have contracts with the DF&G. But there's still time to hunt quail and chukars (if you can find 'em) and, in addition, the band-tailed pigeon season is under way.

Best places for the bandtails will be Abel and Frazier Mountains, where wardens have noted heavy concentrations of birds. After this opening week end, they may scatter widely. The outlook is poor in Orange and Riverside Counties, even though there's a normal good-sized population of the birds near Idyllwild.

Duck hunting has ranged from poor to fair, with weather conditions changing every few days in Imperial Valley. Hunters on the state-controlled units (Hazard - Wister and Finney-Ramer) did exceptionally well on those windy days, but the hunting fell off in more moderate weather.

Waterfowlers returning from central and northern California also are complaining about the bluebird weather. The birds are everywhere but they are too smart to come within range of guns when the sky is clear.

* * * *

MAIN INTEREST in ocean fishing turned to the surf, where anglers were doing exceptionally well for this time of year. There have been some big catches of opaleye in the Laguna Beach area, as well at the Federal Breakwater, off Long Beach.

Barred perch are starting to hit all the way from the border north to Santa Barbara and several clubs in the Santa Monica area have set dates for winter derbies.

Deep-sea fishing tapered off, with only the half-day and all-day boats running out of Long Beach landings for the rockfish banks.

'MOST POPULAR' Name Victor on Tuesday

The hot contest for the "Most Popular Football Player" in Long Beach high schools was narrowed down to six candidates Saturday as the vote count continued following the final voting last Friday.

Those in the running for the honor were Jim Smith and Henry Andrews of Poly, Dave Groff of Millikan, Dave Floyd of Wilson, and Al Roman and Walt Osgood of St. Anthony's.

The winner will be announced in Tuesday morning's Independent.

Reds' Robinson, Sox' Aparicio 'Rookies of Year'

NEW YORK (UP)—Leftfielder Frank Robinson, who wasn't even on the Cincinnati Redlegs' roster last spring, and shortstop Luis Aparicio of the Chicago White Sox Saturday were selected as the major league "rookies of the year" by the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Robinson was the unanimous choice of the 24-man selection committee in the National League, while Aparicio was named on all but two American League ballots.

Robinson wound up the 1956 season with 38 home runs, tying a rookie record set by Wally Berger of the Braves in 1930. He batted .290 and drove in 83 runs.

Aparicio wound up with a respectable .266 average, batted in 56 runs in 152 games, and banged out 18 doubles, six triples and three homers.

As a fielder, Aparicio led all shortstops in total chances (759), assists (474) and putouts (250). He figured in 91 double plays and committed only 35 errors.

TV Tele-Vues by TERRY VERNON

Danny Kaye clowned his way to fame and fortune but there's a "Secret Life of Danny Kaye" that hasn't been highly publicized, nor does Danny want it to be. However, persuasive Edward R. Murrow talked Kaye into letting the "See It Now" cameras follow Danny on a 50,000 mile globe-girdling trip.

Appearing before an audience of one spastic child in Greece and an audience of thousands in Belgrade, Danny Kaye is seen in action as the Ambassador-At-Large for the United International Children's Emergency Fund (UNICEF).

Language barriers fell before the smiling Kaye and his buffonery and everywhere he went, from the London Palladium to the sands of the Moroccon desert, he won hearts for his cause of better understanding and peace.

It's a 90-minute tour on TV over (2) starting at 4:30 p.m.

DAYTIME DATA

"Let's Take a Trip" (2) at 9 a.m. goes to basketball practice at Columbia University . . . The Rams-Steelers game on (2) at 11 a.m. . . . Sen. Wayne Morse visits "770 On TV" at 12 noon on (7) . . . Rabbi Edgar F. Magnin tells the story of Channukah on (11) at 1:30 p.m. . . . "Jalopy Derby" on (5) at 2 p.m. from Gardena with more races on (11) at same hour. (5) won rights to telecast the Gardena Races in a court fight so (11) moved its scene to San Berdoo where jalopy races are also held, and Bill Welsh does the calling . . . A film report on earthquakes and what causes them is billed for (4) at 2:30 p.m. . . . Carveth Wells "Explores the World" on (4) at 3 p.m. with a report on missionaries, "world's greatest explorers" . . . Ray Bolger has Charles Laughton as his guest when he opens his "Washington Square Playhouse" on (4) at 4 p.m. . . . Dr. Glenn T. Seaborg, Nobel Prize winner, shows the Bevatron in action on "Journey Into Science" over (2) at 4 p.m. . . . "Medical Horizons" (7) at 4:30 repeats the premature childbirth study after many requests.

5 p.m.

"Christmas In Stereo" is heard on (4) and KFI-radio as a simulcast of the Burbank Symphony takes the air. Put your radio (AM) set about six feet from your TV set (FM) and you'll hear the concert in stereophonic sound.

6 p.m.

On Dec. 7, 1941, six Japanese aircraft carriers unleashed 135 dive bombers, 40 torpedo bombers, 104 high-level bombers and 81 fighter escort planes against Pearl Harbor. "Air Power" on (2) utilizes Japanese films to show how this "daly of infamy" was planned and executed.

6:30 p.m.

"Lassie" and Jeff are precariously placed in a truck that balances on the edge of a big drop-off and Gramps is faced with forgetting his fears of a tractor in order to save the pair on (2).

7 p.m.

When Jack Benny was in England he filmed four shows and one of them is shown tonight on (2). Jack and Mary tour London but Jack is still able to get into some serious troubles.

In an attempt to foil the abduction plans of some enemy spies Lt. Storm of the "77th Bengal Lancers" almost becomes a married man on (4).

The world's foremost mechanical dolls will be seen when "You Asker For It" visits Neuschatel, Switzerland on (7).

7:30 p.m.

Corky and Bimbo join in pursuit of a gypsy who kidnapped the circus' beautiful equestrienne during "Circus Boy" on (4).

"What's My Line" (2) has more mystery guests to puzzle the panel.

8 p.m.

Engineers
NORTH AMERICAN AVIATION'S
MISSILE DEVELOPMENT DIVISION'S
NAVAHO
Fully-integrated program for development of advanced missile.
Long range program openings . .

AUTOMATIC CHECK-OUT EQUIPMENT
New field is opening in automatic checkout equipment for missile systems.
Engineers and senior engineers experienced in electrical, hydraulic and pneumatic controls will advance with this organization as well as engineers experienced in mechanical design, computers and instrumentation.

ELECTRICAL POWER
Advanced missile system projects will carry from analysis and component selection through test.
Engineers interested in power generation, distribution and control and in electrical control of mechanical systems should investigate this expanding group.

REMOTE CONTROL
Expansion of radio-control group in highly advanced command equipment requires engineers experienced in RF nuising and transmission equipment.

RADAR ENGINEERS
Further effort in radar will use engineers interested in microwave techniques and computers for equipment design and test.

GUIDANCE ENGINEERS
Formation of new group will involve analysis and evaluation of guidance systems, installation and test.
Engineers and senior engineers with B.S. or advanced degrees and experience in missile guidance systems will find future supervisory opportunities.

INSTRUMENTATION ENGINEERS
Continuing advances in the NAVAHO program have created openings for engineers experienced in all types of aircraft and ground launching equipment and instrumentation.

THERMODYNAMICS
Studies of internal aerodynamics, jet engine theory, wind tunnel test, supersonic inlets, compressible flow, heat transfer and boundary layer studies.
Engineers and senior engineers with degrees in ME, Aero or Physics are desired.

ARMAMENT ENGINEERS
Expanding group for development of missile arming and fuzing systems of advanced types.
Members of this group must be experienced in controls, electromechanics, instrumentation, electronic and mechanical design at intermediate and advanced levels. Degree in EE, ME or Physics are required.

STRUCTURES ENGINEERS
Investigate structural problems of high speed flight—thermal, stress, heat transfer, weight control, vibration. Engineers and senior engineers with bachelor's or advanced degrees are desired.

AERODYNAMICS
Further work is being done in heat transfer and hypersonics for advanced missiles, along with aerodynamic effort on the current NAVAHO program.
Requires fully-qualified men having degrees in Aero, M.E., Physics or applied math with three years experience preferred.

TEMPERATURE PREDICTION
Engineers with background in heat transfer, digital and analog computer techniques or thermodynamics to determine temperature distribution in missile structure. Specific projects are also underway to supply basic data and analytical methods for temperature prediction.
Openings include engineers with B.S. to Ph.D. in M.E., Chem. E. or Aero.

POWERPLANT ENGINEERS
Effort on fuel systems, hydraulics, pneumatics, ramjet, turbojet or rocket plants can use engineers experienced in these fields as well as air conditioning, refrigeration and cooling systems layout.
Degrees in M.E., Aero, Civil or Chem.E. can be utilized on these problems.

ENVIRONMENTAL TEST
Research testing pointed toward new testing techniques on complete missile structures, electrical, pneumatic, hydraulic systems and ground launching equipment.
This rapidly expanding group has excellent facilities to support increased work load and desires B.S. or M.S. in M.E., Civil, Aero or E.E.

ELECTRICAL GROUND EQUIPMENT
Expanding group to design and test electrical equipment for launching the NAVARO.
Experience in power generation, distribution and control and complex circuits involving control of missile systems is required.

St. Nicholas started a famous tradition with simple gifts...

Today's Santa Claus must supply millions of varied gifts.

NEED MONEY FOR CHRISTMAS?

Keeping-up with Santa Claus often puts a heavy strain on the budget, and most of us need extra money to match our gift-buying to our gift list. If you need extra money, see PF right away, as your friends and neighbors do.

Down-Hearted!
Will Someone Have Me?
DEAR FOLKS:
I am looking for a home who would appreciate me. I consist of a beautiful complete living room including rugs, TV, lamps, etc., fine triple type dresser bdrm. set, twin maple bedroom set for youngsters or adults, handsome inlaid chrome dinette set with six chairs and lovely refrigerator, gas range and fine automatic washer. And if some nice couple likes me there are blankets, dishes and silverware.
I am available for no money down for only $445 complete. My monthly upkeep is so low you won't be disappointed.
P.S.—I could make some family very happy who are now in town, or someone who is just starting out with no credit. Thanking you in advance, hope to see you soon.
If you can't use all of me, you can have part of me.
I can be seen daily 10-9 and Sunday 11 to 6. I'm located near intersection Manchester Blvd. & Broadway, ½ blk. of Manchester, L. A.

Hastening a Child on Road to Recovery

By BAXTER OMOHUNDRO

"T. L. C." is a treatment often vitally needed by child patients in the strange, sterile surroundings of a hospital ward, but it's one that busy doctors and nurses sometimes are hard-pressed to provide.

But more than 100 women from throughout the harbor and South Bay areas are giving an abundance of "Tender, Loving Care" to youngsters at Harbor General Hospital, Torrance.

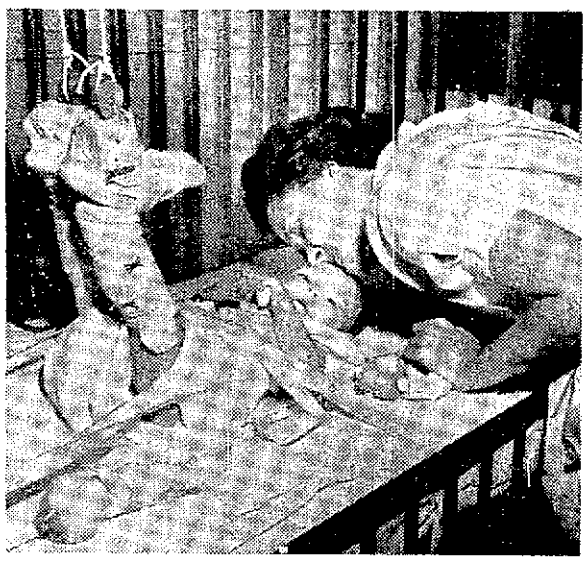

RECEIVING HIS SHARE of "T. L. C." at Harbor General Hospital is Dennis Wiemart, who gets a big hug from Mrs. C. A. Tillman of Lomita.

The women are members of Volunteers for Children, organized a little more than a year ago by the group's president, Mrs. John Stoddard of 3209 Antonio Dr., after she read of a similar volunteer corps in New York City.

A housewife and mother as are many of the members, Mrs. Stoddard goes to the hospital when her two healthy youngsters are in school.

She and the other volunteers help the children on the road to recovery with morale-lifting activities: reading, playing, talking and lots of motherly cuddling.

It fills an important emotional need that no prescription from the hospital pharmacy could ever provide. In effect, the women are "stand-in mothers," since the children's real parents usually are allowed to visit them only two hours weekly.

PRESIDENT AND FOUNDER of Volunteers for Children at the hospital, Mrs. Virginia Stoddard of Torrance, gives a goodnight-kiss to little Elaine Kuehl as she tucks her into bed.

The volunteers spend at least two hours weekly at the hospital. They wear white blouses with pink pinafores, which they provide.

In addition to the members who go to the hospital, there are 60 associates who make toys and garments for the youngsters.

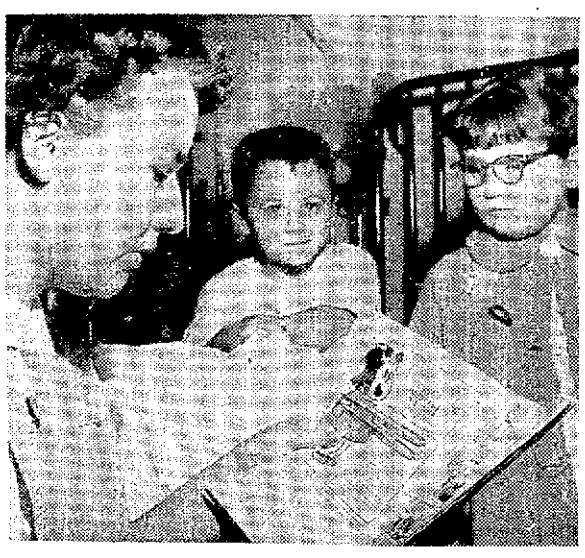

More members are needed to round out the organization's program, according to Mrs. Stoddard.

"We're particularly looking for women who can serve during the evening 'tuck-in' time," she reports. "Bed-time is when the children seem to miss their parents most."

The V.F.C. program is supported to a large extent by area service groups, with the local Kiwanis Club undertaking the project this year.

Such organizations have helped the volunteers provide the tiny patients with a wheel chair, stroller, cradle gyms, toys, speech therapy clinic, television set, film and viewers, books and Christmas party.

"We never meet socially," Mrs. Stoddard explains. "Our only aim, and our greatest reward, is to see a smile on a sick child's face."

STORY TIME is a happy time for hospitalized youngsters Dale Erwin and Nancy Lackey, as they listen to Mrs. Terrell Croskrey of Harbor City.

SILVER SPLENDOR

Provisionals of Assistance League of Long Beach sort through holiday decorations for that "something different" that traditionally places their Silver Ball among the city's outstanding social events of the season. While this year's decorations will remain secret until the event—Friday at Virginia Country Club—Leaguers, from left, Mrs. Henry Viets, Mrs. Carlos L. Cates, Mrs. Francis Heusel, president, and Mrs. Harold Maggart (seated on table) promise a lovely setting in silver and green to complement the formally-clad revelers. The evening will begin with a 7 o'clock cocktail hour, followed by dinner and dancing.

Silver Ball Glows on Horizon

Thoughts of thrift shops, girls clubs and other philanthropic endeavors will be forgotten Friday as Long Beach Assistance Leaguers gather at Virginia Country Club for their annual Silver Ball, arranged by League provisionals, and distinguished as the group's only "purely social" event of the year.

Traditionally a high spot on the city's social calendar, the formal event will begin with pre-dinner cocktails at 7 o'clock, followed by dinner and later dancing to the music of Jimmy Whetmore and his orchestra.

Mrs. Fred Tucker Jr., and Mrs. George Barker, League actives, are heading the ball committee as chairman and co-chairman respectively. Mrs. William Rhorer who is in charge of decorations is keeping them a well guarded secret, but reveals guests will find themselves in a color scheme of green and silver.

In charge of invitations and reservations for the 100 couples expected at the gala event are Mrs. Eldon Bassett and Mrs. John D. Walker. Other provisionals assisting in preparations are Mmes. Ernest Belcher, Chris Conway, Elliston Farrell, Carlos T. Gates, Arthur Hagge, Harold Maggart, Gilmer Millie, Waldo Moore, Douglas Newcomb, Burson Schooling, and Henry Viets.

Through the Eyes of a Refugee

By ILKA CHASE

The arrival of the first Hungarian refugees in this country, moved me to compose the following letter. It might have been written by one of the newcomers to a friend who had also escaped from his unhappy homeland, but who found refuge elsewhere in Europe.

DEAR PEPPI:

Well, Peppi, we have arrived in America. I wanted to write you sooner but it was a long, tiring trip, although exciting, and so many new impressions have crowded in upon me, I am only now getting things sorted out in my mind.

As we stepped from the plane onto the big airport an Army band was playing loudly. It had a strong umpah umpah beat and, at first, I thought it was the American national anthem, but after a few moments I realized it was Brahms, the Hungarian Dances 5 and 6. You know me, Peppi. I am musical and personally I don't mind if I never hear Brahms' idea of Hungarian gypsies again, but it was a kind gesture. The Americans wanted to make us feel at home.

One thing that startled me, though, was the number of soldiers about. Peppi, the Americans are afraid of us! Five soldiers to every one of us. "No, no," I wanted to tell them. "Don't worry; we are in your debt, we are grateful to be here," but when you speak so little of a language it is hard.

"One More, Please"

There were even more newspaper reporters and men with cameras than there were of the military. Imre's son, Sandor, was on the plane, too. He speaks good English and hoped maybe to get a job on a paper, but poor boy, I do not think it will be possible. The profession must be greatly overcrowded as it is. We posed and posed for our pictures, but always the photographers asked for just one more. Possibly their cameras aren't very good and they can't be sure of results. That is one thing we could do to repay a little, maybe.

Please get in touch with Joseph in West Berlin. A couple of years ago I lent him some money. I don't want the money back but I would very much like him to send me a good German camera and I will give it to one of the nice American newspaper photographers.

After we were photographed we marched over to an outdoor platform, where a distinguished gentleman, the Secretary of the American Army, Mr. Wilbur Brucker, made a speech. There was a strong wind blowing and Mr. Brucker and the other gentlemen of the delegation and ourselves were all quite cold. Mr. Brucker looked rather unhappy, but you could see he felt he had to do something official.

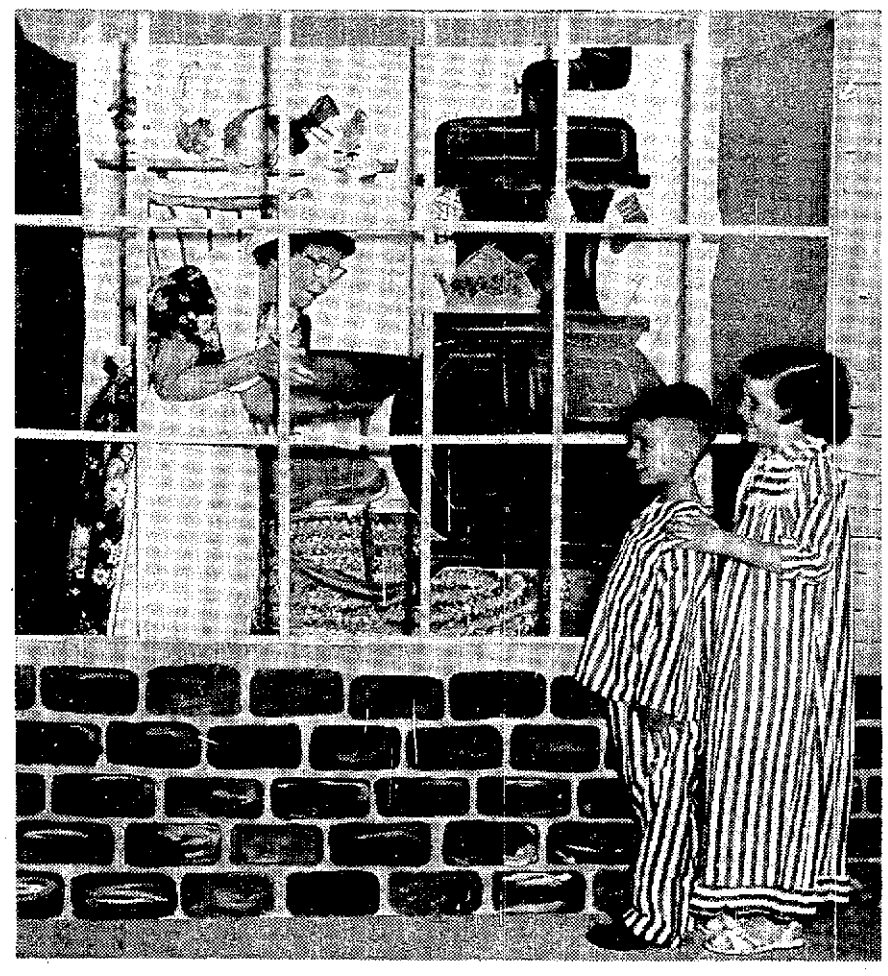

The first thing he said was that he wanted to initiate us. For a moment I was worried. I remembered the initiations at the university — dumped in cold fountains, swallowing worms — it was nothing I wanted to go through at my age. But I would have done it, Peppi, without a murmur. I would not want an American to think we Hungarians are cowards, but as it turned out Mr. Brucker didn't mean what I had thought.

On Freedom

The next thing he said was, "I want you to know what freedom is all about." I looked at the others. Some of them looked sad and some had curious little smiles. I think maybe Mr. Brucker doesn't understand that we

HOLIDAY WELCOME

A glimpse into the delights of the "Cookie Lady's house" is enjoyed by Ronny Clark and Rosemary Myers in this setting from the holiday tableau to be presented at the AAUW traditional Christmas dinner Tuesday at First Congregational Church. Portraying the Cookie Lady is Miss Carlotta Bennett.

PROVISIONALS PLAN

Dancing to the music of Jimmy Whetmore's orchestra will follow dinner when Assistance League of Long Beach calls a halt to philanthropic endeavors long enough to enjoy its one big social function of the year, the annual Silver Ball, slated Friday at Virginia Country Club. Among provisionals serving on the planning committee are, left to right, Mrs. Chris Conway, Mrs. Eldon S. Bassett, Mrs. Gilmer Millie, and at fireplace, Mrs. William G. Rhorer.

Traditional AAUW Event to Open Christmas Season

"Christmas Windows" will be theme of a tableau to be presented by the Arts Section following the traditional Christmas dinner Tuesday of Long Beach Branch, American Society of University Women, at First Congregational Church.

Husbands have been invited as special guests, and will be honored by being seated at special tables reserved for couples.

Mrs. Robert Prior, chairman, reports that five Christmas scenes have been painted by Mrs. A. M. Myers and herself for the tableau, and will complement favorite Christmas poetry selected by the committee. Youngsters who will pose in the pictures are Ronny and Michael Clark, Pat and Rosemary Myers, Suzie Arnold and Pamela Newel.

A voice choir, under the direction of Miss Carlotta Bennett, will provide narrative settings before the scenes are opened. Miss Bennett has created an original poem from the theme "Christmas Windows" which will be presented as a climax to the prologue.

Mrs. Clemit Hale, music chairman, has arranged for Miss Harriet Wood, harpist, to provide delicate tracery of Christmas music while the paintings are being shown.

"Angel Face" by Eileen Fisher will be presented by the choir preceding the first scene of a stained glass church window.

Lettie Van Deveer's "Secrets" will narrate the familiar scene of children investigating packages under a Christmas tree.

Next "The Christmas Cookie Lady" by Eileen Fisher will set the scene for an old fashioned kitchen, "Santa Claus Magic," another delightful selection by Eileen Fisher, will narrate a department store Santa scene.

The final scene, showing the soft lights of a village at night, will close the tableau as the choir recites "O Little Town of Bethlehem."

More than 40 members have been working on the program's preparation, according to Mrs. Forrest Clark, program chairman, who urges members and guests to let the festive occasion begin their holiday season.

Admiral and His Lady to Host Party

The Commander Mine Force U. S. Pacific Fleet, Rear Adm. M. E. Murphy, and Mrs. Murphy have extended invitations to a cocktail party at the Mine Force Flag Mess next Sunday from 5 to 7 p.m.

Over 100 guests have been bidden, prominent citizens of both Long Beach and Los Angeles as well as senior naval officers on active and retired lists.

Assisting the host and hostess receive will be Adm. Murphy's Chief of Staff, Capt. Robert Martin, and Mrs. Martin and Lt. E. A. Drabent.

For the festive occasion Mrs. Murphy is planning her decor to reflect her favorite colors, the russet tones of late autumn. An hors d'ouvres buffet table will hold tall candelabra and an intricate arrangement of fall blossoms.

The Wild Waves Say

By IOLA MASTERSON

DECEMBER JUST walked through the door carrying an armful of 19 shopping days until Christmas!

Biggest welcome this annual visitor received was out at Lakewood Country Club yesterday where Verna (Mrs. Wilbur Lee) Candy and her mother, Anna (Mrs. M. L.) House gathered together 160 of their friends to put them in a holiday mood. For the bridge luncheon the hostesses left no doubt that December was the honored guest by using her favorite colors, red and green. Assisting were Nancy Mertz, Nora Clarke, Austrid Hammond, Vera Briggs and Alice Irvine.

THE KINDEST THING the Sandlarks do each year is to present their Christmas Fantasy and the smartest thing anyone can do is go and see it! Here's why. The wonderful display of holiday decorations are all for sale. The Fantasy is taking place this weekend in the Wilton Hotel lobby and is open to the public from 10 a. m. until 10 p. m. today and until noon tomorrow.

Among those who saw it Friday at a preview coffee hour and proclaimed it "best yet" were Grace London, Emmy Lou Ingram, Virginia Carey, Ruby Kean, Frances Starr and Mary Alice Johnson. Can't remember whether it was Emmy Lou or Ruby that couldn't be budged from in front of a particularly unusual entry depicting a scene at the North Pole and all made of white fur. Maybe they saw more than table decoration possibilities in that display! In the presence of fur, you know, women are wily!

PINK SO DELICATE it looked fragile as cotton candy was used by Betty Lou Hayter, Marion Bigony and Joanne Christensen for their invitations bidding women whose friendship they share to a coffee hour at Assistance League Clubhouse next Friday. Among those asked to assist have been Judy Deatherage, Shirley Peek, Patti Landis, Barbara Paquette, Martha Tylicki and Aimee Walker.

DIANE ADAMS WAS suddenly "stricken" with a good old-fashioned case of happiness Friday and everyone near her caught the merry bug. She was guest of honor at a bridal shower given by Baba Graham and Pat Van de Water at Baba's home, 3809 Pine Ave. Blond, slender Diane, who will wed Jim Steveson next February, was presented with a group gift of crystal.

BIRD OF PARADISE and golden crysanthemums blazed their way across the buffet table at Assistance League Clubhouse Wednesday in a handsome floral goodby to autumn when Edna (Mrs. Marion) Houser and Grace (Mrs. Fred) Hudson entertained at a bridge and brunch party.

THAT WORD CHRISTMAS will have the monotonous sound of a broken record in a couple of weeks but right now it has a wonderful ring to it—especially when it accompanies those two other familiar words, "annual party." Gyro Club is having its guest night Christmas dinner dance next Saturday at the Mounted Police Clubhouse and among those who have received invitations from members are Margaret and Bob Sully, Maxine and Bill Clemo, Lillian and Dan Farnham, Betty and Decatur Mitchell, Joan and Greg Hoskins, Jackie and Bob Campbell, Johni and Dick Simmons, the Earl Downeys, Pat and Jim Collins, the William Gillis', Marge and Tom Fagin, Jackie and Dean Lucas and the Melvin Hamers.

IN THE FACE OF SUCH LOGIC as, "if your suitcases are still packed, why not travel?" we were unable to remain mad at Dorothy and John Munholland who returned from three months in Europe on Nov. 17 and then took off again just four days later for San Francisco! Didn't sound like we-all around here had much appeal to the Munhollands until Dorothy assuaged our feelings (when they finally came home to stay Monday) with that bit about packed bags. Actually they went up to spend Thanksgiving with Dorothy's brother and sister-in-law, Elinor and Joe Campbell and stayed to see the Big Game. What about their travels? Had a wonderful time. Bought an MG sedan in England which they are having shipped to them here, and toured all through Europe, the Scandinavian countries and Britain.

IF, WHEN THEY WALK, their heels click like castanets well, that figures! Charlene Bennett and Fritzi Myer returned Friday from Mexico after three weeks full of buenas dias. They divided their time between Mexico City and Acapulco where the Senoritas Bennettez and Myercia had un tiempo fantastico.

HENRY HOPKINS GATHERED some very close friends around him for dinner at the University Club the other night and the very closest was Elizabeth Ann Dix. Guests soon learned that dinner was the least important thing about the evening when Elizabeth and Henry confided they planned to be married next Saturday, Dec. 8. Formerly of Long Beach, Henry has resided in Los Angeles for the past three years where he is now serving as supervisor of the Architectural Dep't, State of California. His bride-to-be is formerly of New Zealand. They will answer the million dollar question at First Baptist Church in the City of the Angels.

THE SEASON OF "littlest angels" has a new recruit this year. Ready to view her first Christmas in cherubic splendor is Kathy Anne Kline, Captain Henry and Ramona (Kirkpatrick) Kline's first baby. Born in Albuquerque, N. M., where Henry is doctoring at Sandia Base Hospital, one of Kathy's first visitors was grandmaw Eleanor Kirkpatrick. Eleanor, we understand, wasn't bothered by the state highway patrol for driving too fast on the way over. Patrolmen figured it was the aeronautical boys' responsibility to hock her for flying too low! Raymond proved grandfathers are more composed and took a conventional type aircraft over at a later date to drive the family car home. This time with its tires firmly on the road the entire trip!

IF THE ROARS OF laughter rattling the walls of the Long Beach Community Playhouse Thursday night seemed louder than usual that was to be expected. What else, with the members of seven Lions Clubs and their "lionesses" in attendance to see the players' current comedy, "The Solid Gold Cadillac." Members of each club had pre-theater cocktail parties and after the show they congregated at the Hawaiian Restaurant for midnight supper. What made it especially riotous to the manclass kings of the asphalt veldts was the appearance of brother Lions (genus: downtown club) Keith Houdyshell and Val Deaser in starring roles. Vito Romans was chairlion for this pride of playgoing leos.

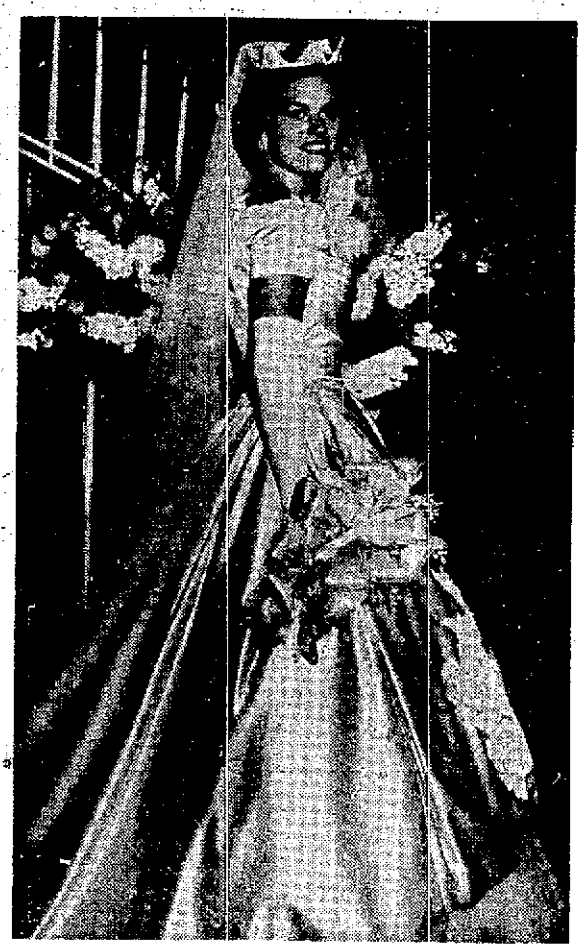

LES LAWSON SR. is over in Melbourne, Australia, and where this sports lover's eyes should be we'll bet by now there are sparkling reflections of two gold medals! While he's "down under" Della is "way up there" in Longmeadow, Mass., to spend Christmas with daughter Jane, Gil Keegan and their children. Les will fly back into town Dec. 7 and then take right off again for the East and a Yule rendezvous.

WHILE THE NAME LAWSON is still on the tip of our typewriter might as well let it tell you not to ask Dick or Elva to go anywhere next Saturday night. Don't ask their bridge playing cronies Clara and Harold Odmark, Kay and Stubb Elliott or Cleone and Sol Deeble, either, because they have a date with a couple of bridge tables at the Lawsons' for their "club's" annual Christmas party and bid-bake.

THIS TYPEWRITER has something else it wants to get off its keyboard, so before it blows its magic margin we'll let it tabulate. Mention of the Olympics is what did it. Other Long Beach games watchers are Jackie and Harry Wood, who flew to Aussie land Nov. 8, pausing for five days in Honolulu en route before continuing to Sydney to visit friends and relatives (Harry's father was an Australian). Then on to Melbourne. These Alamitos Bay Yacht Club members have more than a casual interest in the sailing events because Harry, competing in a Finn-Mono type craft, represented the West Coast in Olympic eliminations this summer in San Francisco and in the finals held in Massachusetts, placing sixth in the nation. They'll be home Dec. 12.

Lawhorn-Niederberger Vows

In an evening ceremony in Belmont Heights Methodist Church, two Long Beach State College graduates, Joyce Neiderberger and Paul William Lawhorn, recited wedding lines after the Rev. Charles Yoder.

Mrs. Paul William Lawhorn —Curl Ray Studio

The bride's own youthful beauty was magnified by her lustrous heirloom bridal dress, designed by William Cahill, of pure silk satin and dyed to match ice-blue guipure lace. The gently gathered bell-shaped skirt swept back to a cathedral length train, adorned with lace insertions re-embroidered with silk cord. From its scalloped front peeped ruffles of pleated nylon tulle. Empire folds of satin on the closely fitted bodice were filled in with matching lace and the natural edge of the lace formed a wide decolletage. A coronet of lace and pearls held her illusion tulle veil. Orchids and lilies of the valley blended in a delicate bouquet.

Mrs. Jack Grier was matron of honor and Charles Lawhorn performed the office of best man. Others in the entourage were Miss Joan Potter, Mrs. James Martin, Richard Blatterman and Myron Pelsinger.

The feminine attendants wore dresses which echoed the brides' in color and detailing, but were of deeper blue and were accented by their bouquets of red roses.

The bride is the daughter of Walter Niederberger, 5719 E. 2nd St., and of the late Mrs. Niederberger. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Lawhorn of Downey.

Before she attended LBSC, the bride was graduated from Polytechnic High School and Long Beach City College. Her affiliations include TNT and Delta Delta Delta. Now a teacher at Newport High School, the bridegroom attended high school in Downey and, later, Whittier College.

After greeting guests at a church reception, the justweds left for a stay in San Francisco and Carmel, then returned to take up residence in Seal Beach.

College Staff Annual Fete

All members of Long Beach State College faculty and staff are invited to the Faculty Wives annual Christmas party Thursday evening. Gathering at the campus Little Theater, guests will bring donations for the Long Beach Christmas Clearing House.

The program of two one-act plays presented by the college drama department will include "Love and Mathematics" written by student Vernon Lynn and directed by Earl Byers. Under the direction of Elizabeth Baker will be the medieval miracle play, "The Second Shepherd's Play."

Serving at Christmas tables in the Student Lounge following the plays will be Mrs. Robert Wylder and her committee, Mmes. Irving Ahlquist, George Appleton, Edwin Becker, Roscoe Buckland, Brice Grant, Wilfred James, Darwin Mayfield, Ernest Miner, Lawrence Peterson and Robert Winslow.

How America May Look to an Hungarian Refugee

have good reason to know what freedom is all about. Then he said he wanted us to applaud the American Flag.

Travel is certainly broadening, Peppi, and when I get back to Hungary or, God willing, if I am to make a home here, I shall remember this quaint custom when friends come to visit and ask them to applaud my furniture and my flower garden.

Fine, Filling Food

After we had applauded the flag which, by the way the children loved doing, they thought it was a game, we applauded what was called "the men responsible for the top-level handling of this great enterprise." That was us. We were the enterprise.

Later we went to the barracks and they fed us. Fine filling food: pea soup, pork chops, mashed potatoes, lots of good things but, Peppi, I see a chance to start a little business. Americans don't understand about coffee.

There were toys for the children, and needle and thread and razors for us. It was very touching. We were all beginning to have tears dripping off our noses until Hanni and Lajos Pfeister stuffed their toys down the beautiful American toilets, and that broke up the sentiment.

The customs were nothing. Of course, we had nothing either but there was no red tape such as we would have had at home. It is wonderful to have a refuge, but it is difficult to be dependent.

We are grateful beyond measure but we shall continue to work and to pray for the freedom of our own country.

Your friend,
GYULA.

Yule Vacation

The holidays will find Mr. and Mrs. Henry Levitt of Park Estates on a vacation that will take them to New Orleans, Havana, Miami and New York. They will make the trip by air and will be gone a month.

UNICEF Leader Honoree at Taubman Cocktail Buffet

Mrs. Guido Pantaleoni of New York City was the honored guest Friday at a cocktail buffet given by Mrs. George P. Taubman, 1429 La Perla.

President of the US Committee for UNICEF (United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund), Mrs. Pantaleoni has been in the Los Angeles area for a western conference of the organization.

Both she and Mrs. Carter Collins of Berkeley, Northern California chairman for UNICEF, are weekend house-guests of the Taubmans.

Party guests Friday evening learned that Mrs. Pantaleoni's parents were Antoinette and Jozef Adamowsky, well known musicians who played before many crowned heads of Europe, later taught at the New England Conservatory of Music and played in the Boston Symphony.

Mother of five children, the honoree spent seven years on the stage and became director of the Children's Theater Bureau of the Association of Junior Leagues of America.

Her husband, of Italian, English and Irish ancestry, lost his life during World War II. His background, coupled with his wife's Polish and Swedish ancestry has given the family the happy alias of "The Little United Nations."

Spirit of Christmas Reflected in Varied Activities Planned by Military Women

By VIRGINIA NEWTON

Suddenly it's the Christmas season and the parties take on a very festive air. Among those planning their once-a-year holiday party are the popular Wives of Navy Doctors Club members who will gather at the Officers Club, Allen Center, on Wednesday, Dec. 12, at noon for their traditional meeting around the Christmas punch bowl where they will be served by Mrs. F. W. Thompson.

Board members will be the hostesses for the luncheon. Mrs. Harold Hirshland will be in charge of the decorations, and Mrs. George F. Cottle will present names of needy service families that the club will furnish with dinner, presents and clothing.

Mrs. Lewis Dorgan is in charge of reservations, and all wives of Navy medical and dental officers in this area are invited to attend. Many out of town guests are expected.

Mrs. Arthur Spring is the houseguest this weekend of Mr. and Mrs. Clare Ennis in Los Angeles. Also with them are former Navy folks, Mr. and Mrs. Knox Perrill.

Word has been received from former residents, Rear Adm. and Mrs. Martin J. Lawrence of Mare Island, of the marriage of their daughter, Sally, to Leroy Otho Ward, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman E. Ward of Rockville, Md. Mrs. Ward will finish her course in nurses training at Garfield Memorial Hospital in Washington while her husband completes his two-year tour of duty aboard the USS Canberra. Upon completion of his Navy duty, Ward will continue his teaching career.

Capt. and Mrs. B. A. Smith will be moving shortly to San Jose, where the captain takes over command of the USS Chara. He will be relieved here as chief of staff to Commander Cruiser Division Three by Capt. Gordon Selby, who comes to this area with Mrs. Selby from Washington, D. C.

Last Wednesday night, the wives of officers attached to the USS Helena enjoyed a bridge gathering at the home of Mrs. C. E. Rambo.

Mrs. J. D. Johnston had as her recent houseguests from Las Vegas, Lt. Cmdr. and Mrs. R. V. Neighbors and daughters.

Dec. 7 has been chosen as the important date for Air Force Officers Wives Club Christmas luncheon in the Officers Club at the Air Base. Hostesses will be Mrs. Gene Newberry and Mrs. Charles Nottingham. With a fashion show as part of the Christmas package for members, Mrs. Leon Forman will commentate and club members will act as models.

Wives of officers attached to the USS Los Angeles were present recently at a very pretty baby shower given by Mrs. Eugene Geiger for Mrs. Charles H. Black.

Last Wednesday night, Mrs. William Cox and her daughter, Ann, prepared a beautiful surprise birthday dinner—plus a huge birthday cake for CWO Cox. Also sharing honors on the birthday was Lt. Thomas Moore, also from the USS Bryce Canyon. One of the guests, Mrs. Patsy Stagner of Honolulu, entertained with Island dances.

Just returned from several months in the east are former Navy Cmdr. E. W. Sweezy and Mrs. Sweezy, who were houseguests of Sweezy's mother, of Wilton, N. H. They were most happy to get back to all this Christmas sunshine, leaving an 8-inch snowstorm behind.

Recent houseguests of WO and Mrs. C. R. White was Mrs. Pansy Stagner of Honolulu, who stopped en route to witness her daughter Dorinda's marriage in Kansas City, Mo., to Lawrence Nicholson. Over last weekend, the threesome were down in San Diego seeing former Navy friends.

Other recent houseguests from Hawaii, and former Island neighbors of the Whites, were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Zane, who returned to Hawaii, with Mrs. Zane staying in their home there, and Zane going on to his Army post in Korea.

At the recent Air Force Officers Wives Club dessert bridge party, hostesses were Mrs. Alverson and Mrs. Roma Brooks. Winners for the afternoon were Mmes. Xyla Steverson, Nita Jensen and Roma Brooks.

Officers Wives Club of Long Beach members are reminded of their Christmas luncheon party Wednesday and that instead of the exchange of gifts, each will give toward the Christmas fund for needy service families the club will sponsor this year.

Air Force Officers Wives Club members will be hosts to their husbands and friends on the evening of Dec. 9 at the cocktail hour in the Air Base club for their annual formal Christmas party. Playing for the dancing will be Joe Kemper's Orchestra.

Will Elect

Election of officers will take place Tuesday when Del Mar Rebekah Lodge No. 275 convenes at 8 p.m. in Machinist's Hall, 728 Elm Ave. Mrs. Lorna Ronerson is chairman.

Gamma Phis to Convene

Mrs. Philip E. Putnam will open her home at 1451 Josie Ave. to the luncheon meeting Tuesday noon of Long Beach alumnae of Gamma Phi Beta. Her co-hostesses are Mrs. Malcolm Johnson and Mrs. Charles E. Bennett.

Members have been asked to bring food, clothing or toys for the chapter's basket for a family at Christmas.

Mrs. C. J. Wiede, president, will conduct the meeting.

Mmes. Putnam and Weide attended the inter-city council meeting Thursday at the Wilshire Country Club in Los Angeles.

PEO Meeting

Unaffiliated PEO members are invited to a meeting of Chapter OL at 12:30 p.m. Tuesday at the home of Mrs. R. V. Nicholas Jr., 4200 Blackthorne Ave. Reservations may be made with the hostess.

Celian Christmas Party to Benefit Juvenile Bureau

Preparations for Christmas are under way for The Celians as they gather decorations and make plans for a party Dec. 10 in the Community Room at Bank of Belmont Shore.

Continuing its practice of rendering service to the Long Beach Juvenile Bureau, the club will feature at its Christmas party a tree in honor of boys and girls who will turn to the Juvenile Bureau personnel for many kinds of assistance during the coming weeks. Each Celian will bring gifts for these children and teenagers — lipsticks, socks, underwear, toys, pocket combs and other items—which will be purchased especially for the occasion, and used clothing which has been laundered or cleaned and mended, and purses and bags to take the place of the paper sacks sometimes representing the only equipment the young person has.

Plans for the party were discussed at a recent meeting at the home of Miss Mabel Erkine. Mrs. Lincoln Arnold is service chairman for the group.

Other activities of the Celians in past weeks have been a gathering in the spacious new Park Estates home of Mrs. Don Erb, and a party at which Mrs. Gerald Desmond was hostess. Mrs. W. S. Payne Jr. and Mrs. Frank R. Jagerson are new members who were honored at Mrs. Desmond's party.

MEETING OF RED CROSS LEADERS

A massive amount of planning and organizational work is done each year months in advance of the annual Red Cross Fund Drive in March. Among those who have already accomplished much to insure the success of the 1957 drive are these outstanding district representatives from the ranks of Red Cross volunteer leaders, from left, Mmes. William A. Holmes, Lakewood Plaza; Nellie Combellack, Signal Hill; Wayne Meinert, North Long Beach; John Baker, West Long Beach; John Hackett Jr., Dominguez, and Glenn K. Buss, Lakewood. They were feted this week at a luncheon.

Red Cross Honors Volunteer Leaders

By IOLA MASTERSON

In an air of friendly informality, area chairmen and colonels of the 1957 Red Cross Fund Drive were honored at a garden party Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Lon Peek, 703 E. Roosevelt Rd. Mrs. Peek is campaign chairman of the Women's Division.

Autumn colors added their warmth to the vibrant party. Tables, set in the sheltered patio of the Peek home, were effectively decorated with fresh harvest fruits and vegetables tumbling from horns of plenty.

Following a delicious luncheon, prepared and served by volunteers of the Red Cross Canteen, Mrs. Peek welcomed the 100 women who were guests in her home. She then asked Mrs. J. Roscoe Howell, vice chairman, to introduce guests at the head table including Mrs. James H. Dawson, chairman for the Greater Lakewood area; Virgil Gillispie, chapter chairman; Earl Fast, 1957 campaign manager; Mrs. Homer Grant, chairman for volunteers; Mrs. W. Ray Webb, ticket chairman for the annual Red Cross fashion show to take place March 6; Mrs. Carol Scott, who gave the invocation; and Roland Bach,, chapter manager.

Bach gave a short talk on the roll the volunteer plays. "There could be no Red Cross without volunteers," he said, and added that from its inception women have provided the basic strength of the corps.

Mrs. Orville Cole was then presented to give one of her popular dramatized play reviews. She chose the gripping "Dairy of Anna Frank." Through the portrayal of its tragic true life characters she brought a most timely message to the women, working together in a service dedicated to combat just such human suffering as the play depicted.

The area chairmen Mrs. Peek has asked to serve with her include Mmes. Scott, East Side; Malcolm Todd, Central; James Mills and Eli Kling, West Side; John Hackett Jr., Dominguez; Odie Wright, Bixby Knolls and Los Cerritos; George Vermillion, North Long Beach; Ralph Willifred and Glenn K. Buss, Lakewood; and William G. Holmes and James Hayes, Los Altos and Lakewood Plaza.

AT DESERT CLUB

County Supervisor Burton Chace and Mrs. Chace of Long Beach are pictured at Shadow Mountain Club in Palm Desert during a weekend visit. They are among scores of prominent Southlanders who have joined in festivities at the smart desert spa since its formal opening Nov. 17 heralded the beginning of the winter season.

Duggans Golden Day

Lending special sentiment to festivities surrounding Mr. and Mrs. George A. Duggan, 2202 Bermuda St., as they celebrate their golden wedding anniversary today at Lakewood Country Club, will be the attendance of members of their original wedding party, and many of the original wedding guests.

Attending the pair at their marriage Dec. 5, 1906, in Golden, Colo., as well as at today's reception, are Mrs. Ella Tangye of Denver, Colo., sister of Mr. Duggan, and H. L. Ward of Long Beach, brother of Mrs. Duggan. Their ringbearer, Mrs. Dorothy Knowlton of Berkeley, also will attend today's fete.

The reception for 200 guests has been arranged by the honored pair's sons-in-law and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Warren A. Sparks and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Roehrick of Long Beach. Four generations of the Duggan family will be represented by their two daughters, three grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren.

Original wedding tintypes will be displayed in reception decor, as will the couple's wedding certificate.

The Duggans established their first home in Lujane, Colo., where Mr. Duggan was with the U. S. Reclamation Service, later returning to Denver. They moved to Long Beach in 1926 and prior to his retirement in 1950, Mr. Duggan was associated with Shell Chemical Corp.

Kathleen Lynn Harwood

Local Pair Linked by Romantic News

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Harwood of 312 Ximeno Ave. have announced the engagement of their daughter, Kathleen Lynn, to Richard Whitlock Dickinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dickinson, 3849 Pacific Ave., and grandson of Mrs. Nina Wolf Dickinson, Long Beach, and the late Mr. Earl Dickinson, and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond C. Whitlock of Colorado Springs, Colo.

The betrothal news was revealed at the fall banquet of Brethren Christian High School in Nixon's Fullerton Restaurant.

Miss Harwood, a senior at Brethren, is active in interscholastic sports and devotes much of her time to solo and choral work both at school and at church.

Her fiance is a member of the champion water polo team and the basketball squad at Long Beach City College and is affiliated with the Schola Cantorum on that campus.

The young couple plans to further their college education before setting a wedding date.

Virginia Maurer

Parents Tell of Betrothal

Former Long Beach residents Mr. and Mrs. William Maurer, now of Garden Grove, are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Virginia Marlene, to Harvey Henry Loterbauer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Loterbauer, Crandall, S.D.

The bride-elect is a graduate of St. Anthony's High School, Long Beach City College, and attended Long Beach State College.

Her fiance attended schools in Crandall.

No date has been set for the wedding.

TO BE BRIDE

Helen A. Shaw, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Shaw, 6261 Orange Ave., will marry Thomas W. Quick, son of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Quick, 1054 E. Market St., in June. She attends Jordan High School and her fiance is a graduate of Jordan.

Will Install

Installation of new officers will take place when the Auxiliary to the Long Beach Fire Department convenes Thursday at 12:30 p.m. in the Red Velvet Room of the Lafayette Hotel.

Married 50 Years, Pair Will Mark Anniversary

The story of their 50 years of marriage and half a century of Long Beach history will be intertwined in memories recalled today by Mr. and Mrs. David A. Nims, 315 Cherry Ave., when they celebrate their golden wedding day.

About 50 friends have been bidden by the couple's son-in-law and only daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Holmes, to their home at 1920 Bermuda St. for open house from 2 to 5 p.m. Their son, David, his grandfather's namesake, will assist.

Bouquets of bronze chrysanthemums, floral sprays and greenery, and golden bells will be reminders of the wedding theme and will create a festive setting as the elderweds cut a towering tiered wedding cake and sip a toast of golden German Rhine wine punch.

It was 1905 when Mrs. Nims' father, Samuel Brown, brought his family to Long Beach from Exira, Iowa, to settle on a 40-acre ranch on the south slope of Signal Hill. The choice site, with the days of pulsing oil wells still closed in the future, was green with fruit trees — guavas, oranges, lemons, limes, figs, persimmons and walnuts. The family home was a huge one —its 16 rooms, with 8 red brick chimneys, a striking marker against the skyline.

The following year, Mr. Nims, who had met Rachel Brown in Exira where he was visiting his school-teacher brother followed her here and they were married, staying on at the ranch for six years. Three years after the birth of their daughter, in 1909, they moved to Los Angeles. In 1923 they returned to live at their Cherry Avenue home, and have resided there since that time.

Golden State

A public card party will be sponsored by Golden State Auxiliary No. 279, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Tuesday in Veterans Memorial Building, Broadway and Cedar, with proceeds earmarked for the VFW home fund. Mae Bell will be in charge. A second event is planned for Dec. 10 when the group will entertain 100 men in Ward 8, Sawtelle Hospital, at a Christmas party. Games, refreshments and gifts will be enjoyed. Florence Gale is chairman of the day.

WRC to Elect

Election of new officers will be conducted at a 12:30 p.m. meeting Wednesday of Womans Relief Corps No. 93 at Veterans Memorial Building. Mary McDonald will preside.

Mary Lou Hauck Pretty Bride

Demure in a bridal gown of white lace and satin, Miss Mary Lou Hauck spoke wedding vows and exchanged rings with Neil Edward Andersen at a nuptial mass celebrated Nov. 17 by the Rev. James P. Lynch.

The skirt of the bridal gown, worn over a hoop, billowed gracefully as the bride walked down the aisle with her brother, Arkie C. Hauck, who gave her in marriage. Lace of the bodice and the full length sleeves was repeated in scallops at the neckline. She carried a cascade of white roses.

Elaine Hauck was her sister's maid of honor, and Marjorie Smith served as bridesmaid. Both were attired in waltz length gowns of Wedgewood blue satin with matching blue velvet circles and brief veils. The maid of honor carried light pink carnations and the bridesmaid deeper pink.

As his best man the bridegroom chose Donald L. Taylor. The wedding guests were escorted to their places by Harold Bernstein and Richard Hauck, brother of the bride.

Following the ceremony, a reception took place in the gardens of the bride's mother, Mrs. Lucille J. Hauck, 215 Termino Ave. Floral arrangements of white stock and chrysanthemums adorned the buffet table as well as the bride's table on the lanai.

The newlyweds departed on a trip to Carmel and San Francisco and are now at home in Long Beach.

The new Mrs. Andersen was graduated from St. Anthony's High School and St. Vincent's College of Nursing, Los Angeles. Son of Mr. and Mrs. George Andersen of Longview, Wash., the bridegroom attended Lewis and Clark College in that state. He is now serving with the Air Force in Long Beach.

Thrust and Parry Play

When the national tournament begins tonight in New Orleans, many of the hands will be full of such thrust and parry exchanges as we see in today's example. Both sides have the chance to play well, but the final good play is decisive.

West opens the jack of hearts, reasonably enough, and declarer wins in dummy in order to try the spade finesse. West wins with the king of spades and shifts to the eight of diamonds since it is clear that all of the other suits are hopeless.

If South plays a low diamond from the dummy, East will cover with the nine. If declarer plays the ten of diamonds from the dummy, East will cover with the jack. In either case, the idea is to drive out South's king. West will later get in with the ace of clubs and will lead another diamond, thus permitting East to drive out South's king. West will later get in with the ace of clubs and will lead another diamond, thus permitting East to take the rest of the suit.

So much for the good play by the defending side. Now let's see how declarer can parry this thrust. The correct play is to put up the queen of diamonds from the dummy. East must win with the ace, since otherwise declarer will later make a second diamond trick with the king.

Now, however, East cannot safely continue diamonds. If East returns the jack of diamonds, South can win with the king and thus establish dummy's ten.

East is therefore obliged to abandon the suit, and South can win with the king and thus establish dummy's ten.

East is therefore obliged to abandon the suit, and South can keep his king of diamonds to stop the suit when it is next led. Declarer has time to knock out the ace of clubs while he still has a diamond stopper, and thus easily makes his game contract in no-trump.

Emblem Club

Mrs. Tom Carr and her committee, working with the refreshment committee headed by Mrs. Howard Stebbins, are making arrangements for the Christmas party and gift exchange to be given Wednesday by Emblem Club 106 in Machinists Hall. Mrs. R. A. Berg will preside.

Mrs. Allen N. Willett to Guide Lakewood GOP Club

At a beautifully appointed harvest theme buffet luncheon in November, Lakewood Federation of Republican Women concluded a busy and work-filled year with election of new officers.

Heading the new executive board as president for 1957 is Mrs. Allen N. Willett.

Mrs. Willett is a graduate of the University of Kansas and also did post graduate work at the University of California at Berkeley. She has taught in Kansas, Arizona and California schools. She is active in church work, is president of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon mothers' club in Long Beach, and during the recent political campaign served as secretary to Assemblyman Bill Grant. She lives with her husband and three children at 5361 E. 29th St.

Mrs. Darcy L. Cage, president of the Los Angeles County Federation of Republican Women, was guest of honor at the meeting. She spoke on "The Republican Story" concluding with commendation for the accomplishments of the Lakewood club.

Mrs. Cage then installed Mrs. Willett and the other new officers of the club, Mrs. Joseph Striegel, first vice president and program chairman; Mrs. Henry Markkanen, second vice president and membership chairman; Mrs. Horace Cushing, third vice president and press chairman; Mrs. Lyle Gardner, recording secretary; Mrs. Clyde Causey, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Keith Davis, treasurer; and Mrs. Leon Benwell, auditor.

Chosen to Assist at Annual Party

Mrs. Fred E. Clarke of Long Beach has been chosen as one of the patronesses of the Cardinal's Christmas Party for Children to take place Dec. 16 in Los Angeles' Ambassador Hotel.

With His Eminence James Francis Cardinal McIntyre as host, the annual benefit party, staged in the hotel's Embassy Room between 2 and 4:30 p.m., will echo with the Christmas glee of tots aged 3 to 6 from Southland orphanages, nurseries and foster homes.

Special decorations will include colored balloons, holly and a massive tree covered with shimmering tinsel, as well as a magnificent Italian hand-carved Nativity Scene from the collection of Adolph Fusek.

Why Grow Old?

'Sister, You Made Me Boil,' Writes a Reader

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

The following is a reproduction of part of a letter I received recently from one of my readers, "Apropos of your article—'I am Just a Housewife'—Sister, you made me boil! So a homebody can lie down whenever she wants to, huh? She isn't under pressure, huh?

"Not under pressure? No matter how much pressure a career girl might be under, she usually has Saturdays, Sundays and holidays and a two-week vacation. How much time does a housewife have off?

"Go to the library? The only time I ever go is to get some mystery stories for my husband. I consider it a great luxury to be able just to read today's paper today.

"I do not like the term 'housewife' either but I detest the word 'homemaker.'

"I don't know what I think I have accomplished by writing this letter but I just had to blow off some steam."

You have accomplished just what you said, "blown off steam." That is one way we writers can be of service to our readers. We often act as safety valves.

You also have presented the other side of the picture, one which I myself often have written about in this column. Over and over again I have said that there is no harder job in the world than taking care of a house and young children, without help.

In the article which disturbed this reader I was suggesting that the housewife keep in mind always the importance of her job, that new information about child psychology, interior decorating and nutrition, would add zest to her life.

I still think, and know from experience, that the woman in the home CAN lie down once in a while for a few minutes if she really wants to do so. She can spend a few minutes on herself. I think the woman who wrote to me is making a mistake in not taking out a few books for herself when she does go to the library.

The care of a home and small children is so demanding and constant that unless the woman makes a real effort to avoid it occasionally she will lose sight of herself as an individual. Time wrenched from duties, even a small bit of time which is invested in rest or diversion (a hobby perhaps) will allow her to live her life with less fatigue and more zest.

The women in the home sometimes forget that many of the "career" women also run homes, and even have children. Many of them work harder over the weekend than they do during the week.

If we are determined to do so we can enliven any rut we find ourselves in.

Judge Ralph K. Pierson

Chef of the Week

Judge on Trial as Cook; Does Something 'Fishy'!

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
Independent, Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

Born in the land of the gourmet—the hominy grit and the chicory, Chef of the Week Judge Ralph K. Pierson is seen today, passing judgment on an oyster "stew." It's "the most" in his menu "court."

In case you're a bit slow this morning, he came from romantic, old New Orleans. Though he can boast about the many crawfish caught in the Louisiana bayous, his real childhood love was to accompany his dad to the fish wharf on an oyster eating spree.

At the age of 10, his family moved to Denver, Colo. It was there that he "boned up" on grammar school, high school and baseball. The advent of New Years Eve, 1923, found him entering the Port of San Pedro, Calif., which was to become his future home. Three months later he brought his bride from Denver.

Having been exposed to "law" men all his life, he enrolled in Southwestern Law School. His grandfather, his father, five uncles and eight or 10 cousins all suffix their name with "attorney at law."

Pierson opened his first law office in San Pedro, where he remained until 1933. It was then that he became city attorney at Compton. He served there until 1949, at which time he was appointed to the Municipal Court at Long Beach. In October of '53, former Gov. Warren assigned him to the Superior Bench, where he is the affable calendar judge for his six colleagues.

While Judge Pierson has been around for quite a time, he recently made headline news with some sartorial advice to two "ducktail" hairstyled "customers." Lawyers and clients take heed as to how you're shorn.

At home, our "chef" loves to putter, and has a small work shop to putter in. He loves to cliff-garden in his Portuguese Bend home. It becomes a bit precarious at times—that is, if he takes time out for beach "sighting."

Pierson belongs to Anchor Masonic Lodge 273 at Compton, and serves the grand lodge on both the grievances and commercialism committees. With a profound interest in boys, he is immediate past district chairman of Midland District Boy Scouts.

And now . . . for that oyster stew. Here's how he does it.

OYSTER STEW
(About 6 Cupfuls)

Heat well in a double boiler:
2 tblsp. butter
1 pint oysters with liquor

Combine and scald in a saucepan:
3½ cups milk
2 tblsp. butter
1 tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. peper

Stir and blend well in a cup:
½ cup milk
1½ tblsp. flour

Add these ingredients to the scalded milk, stir and boil it until it thickens and pour it over the hot oysters. Place the stew OVER, not IN, hot water for 15 minutes before serving it.

Sorority Plans Snow Ball

Plans for their annual holiday Snow Ball have been completed by members of Beta Rho Chapter of Theta Sigma Phi and the dance will take place Saturday at the American Legion Hall, 59th St. and Orange Ave., with festivities slated to begin at 9 p. m.

A traditional winter motif will be used for decorations. Proceeds will be used to aid needy families at Christmas. Committee members in charge include Helen Crowell, Jackie Bartlett, Helen Ritter, Joan Roper, Georgia Shamburg and Maxine Shamburg.

Our Children

Understanding of English Is Basic Key to Success

By ANGELO PATRI

Language is basic to civilization. Words have great power. The use of them can mean the difference between success and failure in any department of life. The choice of the word, the inflection it is given, the tone in which it is spoken can make all the difference in the world to speaker and listener.

Facility in language, then, ought to be an achievement desired by students in secondary schools and colleges. To be persuasive in speech, to write with distinction, clarity and directness, to be able to select and use effectively the very right word is to have a commanding place in any society.

"By their speech we shall know them."

This feature appears daily in The Independent.

Yet we find students, even some graduates of institutes of higher learning, unable to make a brief speech with any degree of effectiveness, to write a letter in direct and informative style, or with (shame be it known) ability to spell ordinary words correctly. We are not putting enough emphasis on the importance of language in our schools.

Beginning with the youngest children, attention should be paid to, accent should be placed upon, the value and importance of pronouncing words correctly, using them so as to indicate knowledge and respect for their value.

In our great cities where many children of foreign-born parents attend school, language becomes a major subject, above all others. These children must learn to talk the English language without a foreign accent, learn to spell its words, write it correctly. This presents a terrific problem to the teachers. With an overload program, with time for language limited, they struggle, often in vain, to overcome the language difficulties of their pupils.

These classes should be given more time for study and use of the English language, even though that cuts out some other subject. If in the elementary classes, the pupils learn to talk, write and spell well, the teachers who meet them in secondary schools will be able to teach them more effectively in all other branches, because the understanding and use of our language is fundamental to the learning of any subject.

Slang, catch words, wisecracks, often pass for language. These may have their places, though I grudge them any, but school is not the place for them. Learning the English language is no slaphappy task, as anyone who has struggled through it will agree. It requires steady, concentrated attention and practice.

HOUSE OF NINE HAS NO COMPETITORS

The House of Nine, specialty shop for women who wear small size clothes, announces that it has no actual competitors in the retail field. Stores that have a petite department or junior miss section are not specializing in the same way as the House of Nine.

Now a national retail chain operating in 28 cities in 10 states, the House of Nine continues to offer apparel in sizes five, seven and nine only. Its clothes are bought to specific requirements and are perfect in style and fit. It also claims the largest selection in sizes five, seven and nine in America because of the great buying power of the firm.

"Buy your size where they specialize," is the slogan of the House of Nine shops which have gone a long way in solving big problems for little women.

Speaker, Bazaar Top Events for Ebell Club This Week

Two events—an inspirational talk and a fall festival—fill the Ebell of Long Beach calendar to overflowing this week. On Monday members will hear Dr. W. Ballentine Henley talk on "Tomorrow Is Here," a treatment of man's apparent destiny and a glimpse into a future filled with hope and encouragement.

Dr. Henley has earned academic degrees in law, government, religion and history. He serves on the board of three hospitals and is a member of the American and California Bar Associations. Other affiliations include the Los Angeles Board of Advertising Club, Breakfast Club, Rotary, and Board of Water and Power Commissioners. He was affiliated for 10 years with the University of Southern California. He is listed in Who's Who in America.

Mrs. James A. Worsham, program chairman, will introduce Dr. Henley. Mrs. L. E. Shanks will preside at the business meeting at 1:30 p.m. Group Z, Mrs. William F. Goyette chairman, will be hostess at the noon luncheon.

Handmade articles, home baked goods, candy and other foods will be included in the variety of booths at the Ebell fall festival Friday morning and afternoon in the patio of the club.

Orange bread and tea will be served by one of the groups from opening time, 10 a.m., until the close at 4 p.m. Luncheon from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. is the project of another group. Every group within the club will sponsor a booth.

Card playing will be offered in the lounge. Tickets for luncheon and cards may be purchased at the door. Members and friends of Ebell are invited to attend.

Widows Club

Spanish American War Veterans Widows Club members will exchange inexpensive Christmas gifts during their meeting Tuesday at 12:30 p.m. in Linden Hall. Mrs. Helen Woolums will preside at the brief business session following the turkey luncheon.

Your Baby & Mine

She Paddles Him

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Advice in this column of any kind, is not built upon this adviser's personal bias. Naturally it enters in. But advice on subjects such as discipline is based on the group findings on this important subject. It is obvious that no matter what stand one takes, someone will disagree. Personalities enter into this, too.

It is only because it has been found that children respond better, or just as well, to disciplines not based on physical punishment, that this viewpoint is expressed so often in this column.

Mrs. S. A. C. has one child of 16 months and she already is convinced she has discovered the secret of good discipline. And maybe she has—for her.

She writes, "I give my baby the best care I know of and I have had several courses in child psychology and baby care. I feel since all children are different, parents should find out what punishment works best in each situation.

"In my case my boy is too young to be reasoned with and too young to be deprived of privileges, yet old enough to run in the street or away with another child if I am not looking. I think a little paddling works better than anything. I certainly do not enjoy this, but think this is a good punishment if done in a spirit of love and not just to satisfy one's anger.

"May I ask why it is so cruel to give a spanking (and I certainly don't mean a beating or face slapping) when there is only a momentary sting and other punishments could be detrimental to his personality or health permanently?

"I could bring my baby inside when he runs away—as you suggested—but then he would be denied air and sunshine. Now he plays where I can watch him and only rarely runs into the street. I believe in using praise more than punishment, but when it is a dangerous habit, like running away, spanking works better."

Let us amend this to say, for you and for the moment, if spankings worked perfectly to discipline children, there would be nothing to the subject, for easily eight out of 10 parents use it. But there are different parents as well as different children and spankings make some defiant and rebellious, others sneaky, others weakly submissive, lacking all initiative. For though you say spanking may mean a momentary sting—others may mean any kind of physical belaboring which subdues a child and hurts him.

You'll find I am sure—as all individuals have — that while a little paddling on the buttocks does not harm a small child—he readily outgrows the right response to this and then discipline really becomes something you must think about, not just pass off with, "Oh, I'll give him a good spanking."

Our leaflet on "Obedience and Discipline," may be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it and 10 cents to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of the Press-Telegram.

This feature appears daily in the Press-Telegram.

Plan Unique Style Show

North Long Beach Women's Club will meet Wednesday at Houghton Park Clubhouse for noon refreshments to be followed by a unique fashion show presented by the Goodwill and special music by the Choralettes. Group Three with Mrs. Harold Gross, chairman, will serve as hostesses.

Club members will model including Mmes. Gross, Paul Lawrence, J. L. Montague, George Webb, Carl LaPont, Vinton Pease, James Wagner, Claude Leverette and Francis Crawford. Mrs. Rawlin Abrahamson, program chairman, will introduce the program. Members of the Junior Club will be honored guests of the day.

The executive board will meet at 10 a. m. with Mrs. Virgil Koon, president, in charge.

Vital Meeting

New officers will be elected at the Monday meeting of Emily R. Jewell Tent No. 15, Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War. Members will gather at 7:30 p.m. in Veterans Memorial Building, Broadway and Cedar. Dr. Mabel Conger will preside.

Mrs. Topper Smith

Smith-Mill Nuptials Read in St. Luke's

Miss Mary Ellen Mill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Mill of Palos Verdes Estates, and Topper Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. James K. Smith of Long Beach, were wed in double ring services in St. Luke's Episcopal Church. The Rev. C. Lee Mills was officiating clergyman.

Fall floral decor for the Nov. 9 evening ceremony included large China chrysanthemums and oak leaves banking the altar, and clusters of the same flowers and vivid-hued leaves decorating aisle pews.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an Empire-styled gown of white silk Italian taffeta, styled with imported trellised lace bodice, Peter Pan collar and short sleeves. Her fingertip illusion veil fell from a Dutch cap of taffeta and she carried a white orchid and lilies-of-the-valley corsage on a lace-covered Bible.

Matron of honor Mrs. Judd A. Goldfeller and bridesmaids Rosemary Wooldridge and Grace Davis were in waltz-length bottle green iridescent taffeta frocks and carried sprays of copper wood roses and Talisman spider chrysanthemums.

Stanley G. Johnson served as best man, and the 350 guests were seated by David Norton, James Warren, Howard Soice, Paul Sonnino and Richard Tubbs.

Following a reception at the Virginia Country Club, the young couple departed on a honeymoon trip to Warner's Hot Springs. They are now residing in Belmont Shore.

The bride is a University of Southern California alumna, presently attending Long Beach State College.

The bridegroom, now teaching journalism and English at Millikan High School, attended USC and is a graduate of Long Beach State College. In addition, he is director of Los Altos Methodist Church Choir. Smith has been prominent in the music and speech fields for many years.

Out-of-town guests here for the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Herman Barjmain of Stockton, cousins of the bridegroom, who were house-guests in the James Smith home. Other cousins of his attending were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bices, Scott and Kathleen, of San Marino, who returned from Europe in time for the wedding, and an aunt, Mrs. S. P. Scott of San Marino.

Reception to Honor Director

By VERA WILLIAMS
Independent, Press-Telegram Art Editor

Today will be the final day to see the California Water Color Society and Spectrum Club shows in the Municipal Art Center, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd.

A reception for Art Director Jerome Allan Donson and Mrs. Donson who arrived recently from Florence, S. C., is slated for 8:30 p. m. Saturday, with the Municipal Arts Committee host. Mrs. Jim Krosl is president of the Municipal Arts Committee and Eddie Frank is chairman of arrangements for the reception. Four Japanese girls will serve tea.

Combined with the reception will be a preview of "The Art of Japan," a three-part Japanese show which officially will open the next day, to run through Jan. 13. Included will be drawings, calligraphy, prints and folk arts such as ceramics and basketry.

"Motif No. 1," Rockport," which won Alvin Beiler of Lomita top honors in the recent San Pedro Art Assn. show, is being moved to the permanent exhibit in San Pedro High School.

The painting, of the famed red fish shed at the end of the stone pier at Rockport, near Gloucester, Mass., won the Art Patrons purchase prize and first honors in water color.

It shows the shed on which hang several lobster float markings, part of the pier, a sail boat in the foreground, a youngster sunning and another youngster diving from the pier.

Beller, a native of Detroit, spent considerable time with art colonies at Gloucester and at Woodstock, N. Y., in the Catskills. He received his art training at Detroit, Gloucester and with Arthur Beaumont here.

Paul Lauritz, who has received 75 medals and awards, will show pictures and paint a marine in oil at the meeting of the Community Art League in Kiwanis Hall, 9302 E. Laurel Ave., Bellflower, at 8 p. m. Monday. Doors will open at 7:30 p. m.

Winners of the recent juried show are: Oil, Evelyn Carpenter, first; Jean Brass, second; Ethel Elliot, third; J. J. Salter, R. W. Alcock, Virginia Breson, Agnes Warrick, honorable mention. Water color; Elizabeth Walsh, first; Dorothy Simonich, second; Nona Taylor, third; Betty Hays, Edna Padrick, Charlott Troesch, honorable mention.

Winning pictures may be seen in the Bellflower library.

Following a custom of years, Paul Conner will show his paintings, principally desert scenes, in Pacific Coast Club Galleria during December. Also following a long-time custom, he has asked a group of friends to exhibit with him. This year they are Helen Daniels, Margie Cate, Russell Combs, Joseph Nordman, Chris Gronfeldt, Pearl Jones, Gertrude Kruegar and Mrs. J. L. Elmendorf.

A reception for Mr. and Mrs. Conner, open to the public, is planned for 2 to 5 p. m. Dec. 9.

In the main galleries of the Los Angeles County Museum, Los Angeles, the 36th annual exhibition of the California Water Color Society closes today.

Lucille Brown Greene, Long Beach artist, is represented by a casein, "Kids' Matinee No. 2." Mrs. Greene is chairman of the art department of Santa Monica High School.

Elsa F. Warner, head of the art department at Poly High School, shows "Vernal Mood."

Other artists from this area include Rex Brandt, who won a $50 prize, and his wife, Joan Irving of Corona del Mar; George Carich of Costa Mesa and Jay Meuser of San Pedro.

Following the Los Angeles showing, the exhibition will be in Oakland Museum Jan. 5-Feb. 3.

Lucille Brown Greene also has two pictures in the Women Painters of the West exhibit in the Greek Theater, Los Angeles.

Oil paintings by Evelyn Delight Carpenter, 5850 Dunrobin, Lakewood, will be displayed in the Whittier Art Gallery, 727 S. Painter, Whittier, through Dec. 14. The show will be open to the public Sundays, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, 2 to 5 p.m.

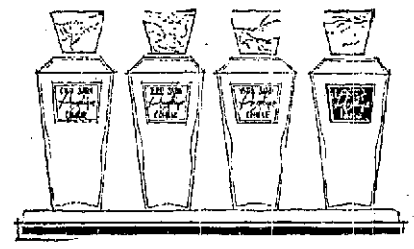

Paintings by Helen Crail and Laura Artz, drawings and jewelry by Catherine Richter, hand decorated fabrics, fine china and enamels by Florence Gendron will be shown from 1 to 5:30 p. m. today at 2412 E. 1st St.

Hill-Foust Betrothal Revealed

—Perry Griffith.

Miss Nancy Lee Foust

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Foust of 3734 Gaviota Ave. have announced the engagement of their daughter, Nancy Lee, to Edwin Morris Hill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hill, 362 E. Home St.

Thirty guests at a recent tea in the Foust home learned of the betrothal when they gathered in the dining room to view a beautifully decorated cake inscribed with the couple's names.

The bride-to-be was graduated from Polytechnic High School where she was active in campus affairs, including Pi Sigma Phi Sorority and Portia Welfare Club. She attended USC and is now enrolled at the California College of Commerce.

Her fiance, a Jordan alumnus, is majoring in criminology at Harbor Junior College.

No date has been set for the wedding ceremony.

Susan's Window Shopping

CASUAL COMFORT A LA ELEGANCE for milady's at-home hours . . . that aptly describes this two-piece outfit priced surprisingly low for the working gal to slip into after a hard day. The Lucina blouse, trimmed in nylon lace, is completely drip-dry. Priced at about $4, it comes in sizes 32 to 38. For under $6, the velveteen capri pants, sizes 7 to 15, offer budget-wise luxury.

For the name of the store showing this style, phone Susan at HEmlock 5-1161, Ext. 249, from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. Monday through Friday, or write Susan, Dept. A, Independent, Press-Telegram, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Symphony Sponsors Teachers' Workshop

Old King Cole, the merry monarch of the nursery rhyme, called for fiddlers three, but when Fred Ohlendorf, Assistant supervisor of Music, Long Beach Unified School District, called for fiddlers he called for ten times three.

The occasion was a workshop for teachers of instrumental music, sponsored by the Long Beach Symphony Association. The distinguished musician who met with the teachers Friday was Robert Gross.

Gross is to be soloist at the Dec. 9 concert of the Long Beach Symphony Orchestra. He is a violinist with an imposing concert record. At the age of 12 he was awarded a fellowship at Juilliard Graduate School in New York, the youngest student ever admitted there. His Town Hall debut was in 1944 and this was followed by many New York concerts, including performances with Stokowski and the CBS Symphony.

He has given premiere performances of such works as the Roger Sessions Concerto (with Izler Solomon in Chicago and with Stokowski on tour) and of solo violin works by such composers as Hindemith, Krenek and Schoenberg.

Gross has instructed at the Juillard School and is currently a member of the faculty of Occidental College.

Lauris Jones, conductor of the Long Beach Symphony Orchestra, and Ohlendorf, member of the board of directors, made it possible for teachers of music in the public schools to confer with Gross as part of the local association's program for the development of fine music in the community.

Gross will play the Khatchaturian "Concerto in D Major" when he appears as soloist with the orchestra on Dec. 9 at Concert Hall. Tickets are available at Humphreys, 130 Pine Ave., or from the Long Beach Symphony Association, 5836 Appian Way.

Sisterhood Plans Skit

Sisterhood of Temple Israel will meet Tuesday at 12:30 p.m. in the Temple social hall, 3528 E. 3rd St. In keeping with the Chanukah season a candlelighting playlet, "We Re-Kindle the Lights," will be presented with Sisterhood members participating. There will be a gift exchange.

Mrs. David Barkin will present a short film on mental health, with a narrator. Another highlight of the afternoon will be fashions in hats from the recent "Hat Parade" given by the Young Matrons at their membership tea.

Mrs. Burton Meyer, president of Sisterhood, invites members and their friends to this meeting. Reservations may be made by calling the Temple office or Mrs. Meyer. Hostesses for the luncheon will be Mmes. Norman Abrams, Kenneth Hirsch and Louis Zommick.

Film 'Tour' for Guests

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Wagner were hosts in the second of a series of cocktail and buffet dinner parties in their Alamitos Bay front home Saturday evening. Colored slides of Central American scenes were shown by Mrs. Wagner's son, Dr. Ryland R. Madison, who, with Mrs. Madison recently returned from a five weeks air tour of neighboring countries.

Gold and wine colored mums and autumn leaves with gold candles were the decor on the lace-over-gold silk covered buffet table and also in the living room where 50 guests "traveled" via colored pictures to Cuba, Panama, San Blas Islands and Guatemala.

NEWLYWEDS

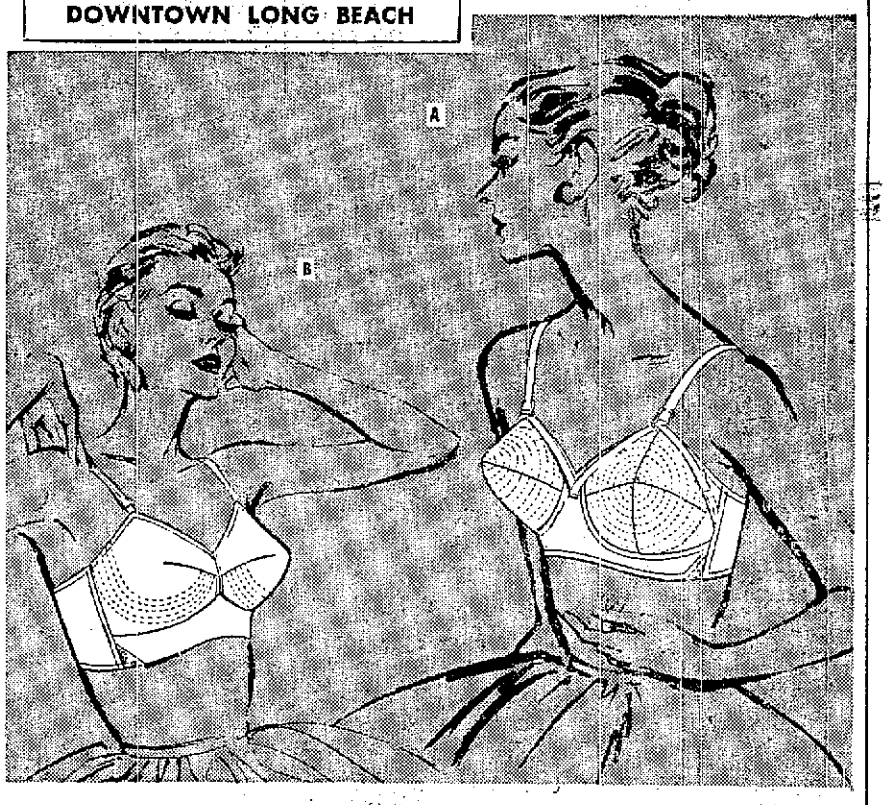

The Chapel of Memories in Norwalk was the setting for the Nov. 24 marriage of Gloria Jean Austin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Austin, and John Clarke, son of Mrs. Catherine Gundy of Chicago, Ill. The pair honeymooned in Santa Barbara and are now residing in Long Beach.

Barbara Taber Joins Bridal Ranks to Become Mrs. John Joseph Trani

St. Cyprian's Catholic Church was the setting when Miss Barbara Ellen Taber became the bride of John Joseph Trani. Father Mario Matic performed the double ring ceremony uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Taber, 4440 Charlemagne Ave., Long Beach, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Trani, 964 13th St., San Pedro.

Entering on the arm of her father, the bride chose a period gown of rosepoint Chantilly lace and tulle over candlelight satin. Styled with scoop neckline and long pointed sleeves, the gown featured a bouffant skirt of tiered lace. A crown of orange blossoms, held her veil of silk illusion and she carried a cascade arrangement of white orchids and stephanotis on a white prayer book.

Miss Paula Taber attended her sister as maid of honor, attired in turquoise embroidered crystalline, Empire style, with bouffant skirt and carried a bouquet of talisman roses.

Bridesmaids were Mmes. Edward Encinas and Francis Crouse. They wore gowns of maize yellow crystalline and carried talisman roses with yellow streamers.

James Trani served his brother as best man; ushers were Ira Beaver and Peter Costa.

A reception in the parish hall of the church was followed immediately by a family breakfast at the home of the bride's parents. Hostesses were Mmes. Jack E. Walker, Donald P. Nash, William Cliatt, Gayle McCune, Ira Beaver and the Misses Jeanne Hilt and Louise Trani.

The new Mrs. Trani is a graduate of St. Anthony's High School and attended Long Beach City College. Her husband graduated from San Pedro High School and attended Compton Junior College.

Following a wedding trip to San Francisco and the Bay area, the couple will reside at 4571 E. Carson.

To Meet at Guild Luncheon

Officers and directors of St. Mary's Hospital Guild have invited their advisory board to meet with them at luncheon Monday at Brower's Restaurant.

Serving as advisers to the guild are Dr. Gordon Bateman, chief of staff of St. Mary's Hospital; Fred Crow, Joseph Madden, Robinson A. Reid, Roger Young, Frank Vessels Sr., Dr. Leslie Esposito and Mrs. Herbert E. Waite.

Mmes. Francis Utecht and Milton Katz will present plans for a gift nook as a new guild project, and Mrs. S. Rush Coffin will discuss proposed hospital tours. President Mrs. Vernon Fay will introduce Sister Mary David, administrator of the hospital, to tell of future building plans.

Members of the board of directors of the guild who will act as hostesses include Mmes. Fay, John Clarke, Charles A. Foulks Jr., William A. Kirk Jr., Joseph Mullarky, Joseph Madden, John Arkush Jr., John Burrell, Donnell Davis, William Jellick, Charles K. Jones, Jackson Mense, James Wood and W. Odie Wright.

BENEFIT CARD PARTY

Mmes. Patrick Kelly, Willard George and Morris Marwede, left to right, display some of the awards that will be given at the annual fall card party sponsored by St. Pius X Institute, Young Ladies Institute. Scheduled for Tuesday at 8 p. m. in Our Lady of Refuge Hall, Los Coyotes, Clark and Stearns Sts., the event will benefit patients at Long Beach General Hospital. The public is invited. Refreshments will be served.—(Staff photo.)

Pair to Wed in February

Mr. and Mrs. Harry D. Stout of 126 Gordon St. have announced the engagement of Mrs. Stout's daughter, Shirley Ann Eppler, to Daniel Morton Meusch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold B. Meusch, 243 E. Ellis St.

The bride-to-be is attending Jordan High School from which her fiance was recently graduated. They will wed Feb. 9 in St. Athanasius Catholic Church.

Miss Shirley Ann Eppler

Zeta Tea to Honor Alumnae

Zeta Tau Alphas are honoring parents and alumnae this afternoon by presenting a parent-alumnae tea at the home of pledge Mary Campbell, 3125 E. Ocean Blvd. from 1 to 4 o'clock.

Purpose of the tea is for parents and alumnae to become better acquainted.

Chapter members are preparing refreshments and alumnae, including Mrs. Francis Flynn, general alumnae adviser; Mrs. Vivian McCarey, social adviser, and Miss Catherine Segel, pledge adviser, will pour.

Christmas Tree

St. Margaret's Guild of St. Francis Episcopal Church, Palos Verdes Estates, will have its Christmas tea at the home of Mrs. George Tremble, 1725 Palos Verdes Dr., West, Palos Verdes Estates, from 3 to 5 p.m. Friday. Members of the guild will act as hostesses, and handmade Christmas candles and garlands will be sold. Proceeds will be devoted to the Parish Hall Building Fund.

Golden Age

Golden Age Club will meet at noon Thursday in Linden Hall for its Christmas gift exchange and turkey dinner. Mrs. Ethel Fairbanks will officiate at a brief business meeting.

Card Party Set

St. Anthony's Altar Society will sponsor a public card party at 8 p.m. Monday at Catholic Center. Bridge, canasta, pinochle and 500 will be played, and refreshments served.

Miss Thiele Will Wed in February

Feb. 23 has been chosen as her wedding day by Shirley Ann Thiele, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Thiele, 2947 Gale Ave. News of her engagement to Donald W. Blocker, formerly of Omaha, Neb., and now a resident of Hollywood, was revealed at a recent cocktail party for family and close friends. The pair will exchange vows in St. Barnabas Catholic Church.

A 1953 graduate of Polytechnic High School, the future bride attended Long Beach City College where she was affiliated with Entre Nous.

Her fiance received his early education in Nebraska and attended the University of Omaha and the University of Nebraska. He is a member of Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity.

Altar Society's Annual Party

St. Anthony's Altar Society will honor past presidents and install new officers at a Christmas meeting in Catholic Center, 6th and Alamitos, Wednesday at 1:15 p.m. After the business session there will be a social hour.

In accord with a custom inaugurated several years ago, members will forego a gift exchange and instead will donate the price of gifts to the Catholic Relief Services "Feed a Family" fund.

Sundae Sauce

Take a tip from baby's enjoyment—the next time you serve ice cream, uncap a jar or two of one of the pureed fruits which are bottled for baby's benefit.

NEW HOME

Poly High graduate Martha E. Winters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Leonard Winters, 2178 Lime Ave., and David T. Bender, son of J. A. Bender of Norwalk, and Mrs. William Boyle of Wilmington, were married in First Methodist Church of Moline, Ill. They will reside in that city.

WINTER WEDDING

A winter wedding is being planned by Joyce Collier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Collier, 6672 Gaviota Ave., and Charles Thompson, son of the Ben H. Thompsons of Bellflower. The bride-elect is a Jordan graduate. Her fiance attended Excelsior High.

Days of Forty-Niners

LONG BEACH STATE COLLEGE EVENTS

by PLACER MINER

The accent will be on eating and entertainment at Long Beach State College these next few days.

The Tekes (Tau Kappa Epsilon Fraternity) get things started today when they reverse the usual order of things and wait on their mothers at their first Mother-Son Tea. The affair, with about 80 persons expected, is set for 1 to 3:30 p. m. in the Student Lounge.

Dr. George Barker and Jim Dukes, Teke advisors, are in general charge, with Claude Klug entrusted with the details for refreshments.

Purpose of the tea is to give everyone in the Teke circle a chance to get acquainted with everyone else. There is also a possibility, say Teke spokesmen, that a TKE mothers' club will result from the get-together.

At about the same time the girls of Zeta Tau Alpha Sorority will be hosting their parents and ZTA alumnae at the home of pledge Mary Campbell, 3125 E. Ocean Blvd., from 1 to 4 p. m.

The sorority members are using this occasion to kill two birds with one stone: first, they hope the affair will allow parents and alumnae to become better acquainted and, second, they are thanking their alumnae for all the help and support rendered the chapter at LBSC.

Finally, Sunday evening, Califias, Long Beach State's women's honorary service group, will host servicemen for the fourth straight year as they entertain 150 members of the armed forces with a hot dish dinner and an evening of entertainment at the Long Beach Armed Services YMCA.

Califias, expecting their guests to be in top form to dispose of home cookin', have called on Associated Women Students for a little help with the serving.

After the tables are cleared, the servicemen will be treated to performances by LBSC drama groups and the two winning groups in last week's Barbershop Quartet Contest on the campus.

Wednesday evening will see the annual Fall Sports Awards Banquet at the Imperial Restaurant in Garden Grove. The place will be filled with hungry athletes, coaches, school officials and friends of the teams.

After dinner the gathering will get down to the serious business of making awards to members of the football, cross country, and water polo teams.

Movie highlights of the football season just ended will wind up the affair.

Saturday will see two more campus groups gathered around the proverbial festive board.

Pi Omega Pi, national business education honorary, will hold its Initiation-Installation Dinner at the Officers' Club of the Long Beach Air Force Base. Time will be 5 p. m.

A little while later, it will be the Industrial Arts Club with a dinner dance. Ol' Placer Miner is lacking details on this one: communications aren't too good yet between our new administration building and the Industrial Arts people on the lower campus. We understand, though, that past IA affairs like this have always been most successful, and we imagine that Saturday's gathering won't be any exception.

Before we forget, congratulations to the winning groups in last Wednesday's Barbershop Quartet Contest: Tau Kappa Epsilon Fraternity in the men's group, and Delta Zeta Sorority in the women's division.

Placer Miner may be a bit old fashioned, but he can't quite grab on to the melodies (?) of the present rock-and-roll period. 'Twas nice to hear the harmonies of days gone by. We'll be looking forward to next year's sing.

ATTENTION ALL SPORTS EDITORS—AND PHOTOGRAPHERS!!!

Long Beach State gets the jump on the regular bowl game season when cuties from the Alpha Phi and Delta Delta Delta sororities battle for the campus flag football championship next Thursday noon in the first annual "Powder Puff Bowl Game."

Sigma Alpha Epsilon is sponsoring the affair, and is furnishing the coaches. Reports from the rival training camps say the girls are all keyed up for this one and want to take home the winner's trophy to their sorority.

Placer Miner visited the Alpha Phi practice field a couple of days ago. The girls had two teams working out, but so many males were eager to lend a hand with the coaching that the speedy backs could scarcely find running room. We were impressed by one of the Alpha Phi formations—an eleven (wo)man line and a three girl backfield.

This coming game is one we can't afford to miss.

Jim Dutch, Phi Kappa Tau prexy and head of the Interfraternity Council, is in New York this week attending the national Interfraternity Conference.

Taking note of the temperatures the eastern half of the country has been having lately, we venture to say that he will appreciate smoggy, warm California when he gets back.

Fifteen coeds vie for a spot in the New Year's limelight Tuesday noon when they compete in the semi-finals of the Miss Long Beach State contest. The field will be narrowed to five, with the finals scheduled for Dec. 14 at the college Christmas Formal.

The lucky winner will represent LBSC on the Long Beach city float in the Rose Parade, sharing honors with Miss Universe, Miss Welcome to Long Beach, Miss City of Long Beach and Miss Long Beach City College.

Among Career Women

BPW, Osteopathic Clubs Tell Past, Future Events

By ANNE GILCHRIST

Members of Long Beach National Business and Professional Women's Club suddenly became aware that Christmas is just a "whoop and a holler" away when they met Monday night at the YWCA.

With President Eunice Snyder conducting, they completed plans for their traditional club Christmas party which will take place just one week from tomorrow at Jones Dining Room and also heard Ruth Shoemaker explain plans for their annual party for the ladies of Casa Consuela Rancho Los Amigos which is slated for Dec. 8.

Other reports of recent club activities and accomplishments were made by Eve Tichenor, Catherine Campbell and Ella Barre.

Florence Eddy was welcomed back after a seven and one-half month sojourn in Europe and during the social hour, presided over by Gladys McPike and Helen Lee Beebe, was surrounded by sister club members anxious to hear all about her travels.

Osteopathic Assistants

Dr. Ethan A. Peterson of Compton and his wife were guests of Osteopathic Medical Assistants at their last dinner meeting at Hoefly's, Belmont Shore. Dr. Peterson, recently featured on the TV show, "I Search for Adventure," re-told the story of adventures during an unprecedented trip in 1939 across the Pacific Ocean from Hong Kong to Yokohama and thence to the harbor here in a Chinese junk. He later sailed this tiny craft down the coast of Mexico to Panama, Ecuador and again across the Pacific. On each journey Dr. Peterson was accompanied by his petite and charming wife who served as projectionist and showed pictures of their travels while he narrated.

Hostesses of the evening were Beverly DeFrancis, Janice Sewell and Amelia Richardson. Margaret VanAmburgh, president, conducted the meeting. Eileen Ware, program chairman, introduced the guests.

Susan B. Anthony DAR Chapter

Mrs. Edgar A. Fuller, past state regent of Daughters of the American Revolution and a past reporter general of the Smithsonian Institute was the distinguished speaker at the last luncheon meeting of Susan B. Anthony Chapter at Lakewood Country Club. She explained the purposes of DAR and of many of its specific aims. Of particular interest was her description of the work of DAR chapters in such foreign countries as France, England, Canada and China.

Miss Mildred Murphy, regent, conducted with Miss Mary Frances O'Brien serving as chaplain. Others participating in the program were Mrs. Opal C. Simpson and Mrs. Grace Dewey.

MONDAY: Pork chop suey on rice or ham a la king on cornbread, frozen spinach, apricot and pineapple compote, whole wheat bread and butter or Lorna Doone cookie and milk.

TUESDAY: Hot meat sandwich, mashed potatoes with gravy, Waldorf raisin salad with nut garnish and milk.

WEDNESDAY: Hamburger on bun, buttered whole kernel corn, autumn fruit cup, cheese slice and milk.

THURSDAY: Creole noodles, cut green beans, fruit gelatin, toasted French bread and milk.

FRIDAY: Cheese enchilada or baked hash with gravy, frozen peas, garden salad with egg garnish, whole wheat bread and butter and milk.

PERSONALIZED PATTERN

SYLVAN RICH of Martini Diminutives believes that even the petite woman can carry extravagant detail, provided it is cleverly scaled down to size. Here he takes a princess silhouette, guaranteed to add height, and gives it a fetching side swipe, a deep inverted pleat that is bias bound and topped with a bow. The bodice hides pleats on the outside seams that start on a line with the bust and extend to the shoulders, a trick that gives an effective release. Make this custom made pattern with its accurate perforations for easy and precise matching in satin, brocaded silks, faille, taffeta, shantung, plain or embroidered cottons. From this chart select the one size best for you.

Sizes	Bust	Waist	Hips	Lgth. from Nape of Neck to Waist
10	34	25	35 inches	16 inches
12	35	26	36 inches	16¼ inches
14	36½	27½	37½ inches	16½ inches
16	38	29	39 inches	16¾ inches
18	40	31	41 inches	17 inches

Size 12 requires 5¾ yards of 39 inch material for dress. To order Pattern No. A-2056, state size; enclose $1.00. Address PERSONALIZED PATTERNS, Box 1005, G.P.O. Dept. LZ-13, New York 1, New York. Personalized Pattern Booklet PZ available for 50c each. If paid by check add 4c.

Marriage Is No Escape; True Love Needs Testing

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case T-331: Louise M., 17, told her high school teacher she was going to elope, so the teacher sent Louise to me.

"Dr. Crane, I am madly in love with Frank," Louise exclaimed with great fervor. "Besides, my home life is so unhappy, I just feel I shall go crazy if I don't get away from my parents. They are quarreling all the time. And my father gets drunk almost every week. Then he comes home and beats my mother and me.

"So I think marriage would solve my problems, don't you?"

* * * *

GIRLS, IF YOU simply wish to get away from an unhappy home, there are better outlets available which you should try before a hasty marriage.

For example, join the women's division in our military service. Therein you will get a good education and also be away from your quarreling parents. But never rush into hasty marriage as an escape from unhappiness at home. That is unfair to your husband, as well as to yourself.

Outlined below are some of the underlying reasons why girls rush into weddings, even though they seldom admit them so frankly until they break down under a rigid cross-examination by a psychologist or other marriage counsellor.

First, girls often decide on a wedding because it seems the fashionable thing to do. This is especially true in rural and small town areas where the coeds in the senior year of high school are often engaged and planning weddings soon after commencement.

Many a girl is thus stampeded by social pressure. She feels she isn't in the approved top social bracket unless she does what the rest of her crowd are doing. This, incidentally, indicates a "sheep" type of personality. Such a girl is also likely to smoke cigarets, drink liquor and do whatever else seems to be popular with her group.

* * * *

OTHER GIRLS, like Louise, have unhappy homes, so they marry to escape the situation. Alas, girls who grow up in unhappy homes are not likely to have the know-how to build happy homes of their own. So they often foist upon their own youngsters the same type of discord from which they tried to escape by their early elopement. Some selfish women also marry to avoid having to get up early every weekday to go to an office or factory job. They imagine a wife has the life of indolence. This is the opposite of the real facts, especially if a wife is accepting her proper obligations.

For a successful housewife has the most difficult career any woman can ever select. It far exceeds in complexity the demands upon a woman lawyer or a female physician.

* * * *

MANY WEDDINGS also occur because immature girls get infatuated after their first kiss and mistake such sexual excitement with true love. There is a vast difference:

True love is unselfish. Sexual infatuation is exceedingly selfish and demanding. It is the type that leads to premarital sexual affairs. True love thus involves waiting until the prospective husband has a good trade or profession so he can support a family. And till the wife has finished high school, plus at least a year of business college or university work, plus another year on a job where she can learn how to earn and budget money.

True love can survive a rigid rating of yourself and your sweetheart, so send for the 200-point "Tests for Sweethearts." Beware the urge to rush into marriage, for that very fact usually indicates infatuation; not true love.

Please enclose a long, 3-cent stamped self-addressed envelope and 20 cents in requesting a Dr. Crane Bulletin. Address: Dr. George W. Crane, in care of Hopkins Syndicate, Mellott, Ind.

GOP Tea to Compliment Electioneers

Tea honoring precinct workers in the presidential election will take place Wednesday when the 18th Congressional District Republican Women entertain in Woman's City Club, 1309 E. 3rd St.

After conducting a business meeting at 1 p.m., Mrs. R. A. Bixby, president, will present Mrs. V. V. Ducotte, who will pay tribute to the workers.

A high light of the business meeting will be election of officers and their immediate installation by Mrs. Cecil Kenyon, president of the Southern California Republican Women. Before turning over the gavel, Mrs. Bixby will give a report on the year's events.

Molly Mayfield

'Happiness Pills' No Blessing

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I know that modern science is fine—but it certainly has thrown me a curve. I suppose I have only myself to blame, but that doesn't solve much of anything.

My husband and I have been married for 10 years. He is a lawyer and quite a good one, a good provider and an interesting companion. But while we always have had many things in common, the pace at which he learned to live was pretty frightening.

I swear his mind almost never stopped working. He'd wake me up in the middle of the night to tell me he had just hit upon a solution to this case or that. Or he would decide out of a clear blue sky that we ought to get up at the crack of dawn and go fishing.

Life certainly was never dull, but it was nerve-wracking. It got to where I thought he was getting ready for a mental breakdown. He said that was a bunch a nonsense, that he always had been high-strung but that he felt fine and was healthier than he'd ever been. (You'll notice I'm putting this in the past tense, because it's all changed now—on account of me.)

I kept insisting that he have a checkup and he finally agreed.

He came back from the physician's office saying the doctor had told him he was in the best of health. Then he produced a bottle of white pills which he said the doctor had prescribed, somewhat reluctantly, to make him calmer. Then he suggested we go out to dinner.

He began taking the pills that night, after we got home. And, believe me, we haven't been out to dinner since! My husband is still sweet and kind, but he's changed so much. He's downright placid about everything, never gets disturbed, sleeps through the night like a baby. In short, he's unutterably dull!

I called the doctor to ask "why" and he said the white pills were some of the new tranquilizers that everybody had been talking about. He said they were working on my husband just the way they should, and that the effects were nothing to worry about.

I couldn't very well tell him that I wasn't worried—just bored. I wish I had my livewire back, even if our life was hectic. But hubby just smiles and says this new relaxation is wonderful and he's certainly glad I suggested it. What now?—OUTWITTED.

DEAR OUTWITTED:

Remember the verse that ends ". . . always wanting what is not?" You seem to be re-enacting it.

Quite frankly, your husband sounded intriguing and delightful as he was originally. And it would seem that his mode of living wasn't harming him at all. I'll bet there are a lot of housewives who are saying to themselves, after reading your description: "She didn't know how lucky she was."

So now you've gone and changed him, very drastically and very rapidly. You don't like your handiwork.

These tranquilizers, a doctor tells me, have proven quite successful in some cases but do have their drawbacks. No medicine ever can be classed as an unmixed blessing.

As to your present problem, I can only see two ways out. First, you might try hiding the pills when he gets home, pretending sweetly that you haven't seen them.

Then ask him to take you to a show or go for a drive—while he's not being tranquilized. If he agrees, let's hope he'll realize the fun he's been missing, throw away the pills and get back to his original personality.

But if he persists in being "tranquil," I suggest you start taking the stuff, too.

It may not restore your husband as he used to be—but maybe it will keep you calm enough not to be troubled about the way he is now. And I just can't resist a tiny "ha ha" at your expense.—M. M.

AT THIS POINT OUR STORY MOVED WITH LANCE INTO THE SOUTHWEST. MEANWHILE, MANY ROBES PLEADED WITH THE SPIRITS TO RETURN THE LONG KNIFE...

THE DISTRESSED GIRL MADE EVERY SACRIFICE KNOWN TO CUSTOM...AND AT LENGTH A GREAT SPIRIT CAME TO HER AND SAID, "FOLLOW THIS MAN AND SHOW HIM YOUR HEART...AND THOUGH YOU ENDURE GREAT SUFFERING, IN THE END HE SHALL BE YOURS AND YOU SHALL BELONG TO HIM....."

ALONE, WITH A BONE KNIFE HER SOLE PROVIDER, MANY ROBES SET OUT AFTER HER WHITE WARRIOR. IT HAD BEEN DAYS SINCE HIS DEPARTURE AND THE GIRL COULD NOT HAVE KNOWN HIS DESTINATION. SOME UNSEEN FORCE POINTED HER SOUTHWEST...AND TO THE SOUTHWEST SHE FOLLOWED.....

Count the measures - or shake the can - prove M·J·B gives you extra value, extra flavor!

Try shaking several brands of coffee next time you're at the store. You'll notice other coffees rattle, but M.J.B's quiet. That's because it's packed solid . . . right to the brim! M.J.B's quiet can tells you there's a bonus of extra measures . . . 2 to 8 measures more to the pound than other leading coffees. Flavor roasting is the secret. M.J.B expands each bean to release all the deep, rich coffee goodness. This increases the volume so you get extra measures and more flavor in every pound. Try the shake test!

You can't make a bad cup of M.J.B!

The mountains are starting to move at Long Beach Post Office as Christmas mail —huge sacks of it—pass through. Merle Hansen stows a big load in his truck.

Postage: $1,500,000

By Clarence Bernard Propes

Postmaster McMillin and C. E. Davis, of L. B. office check $1,500,000 stamp shipment.

POST OFFICES throughout the land are waiting for mountains to move in, floods to inundate, and avalanches to smother and paralyze their operations.

That is what, by every sensible rule, should happen to the Post Office Department when the Christmas mail comes roaring through the chutes. These events won't be disastrous, however, for the postal service is calmly prepared for what will strike in the next few days.

In Long Beach, a million and a half dollars' worth of stamps are in the vaults. Dozens of shiny new ball point pens are chained to the counters. A thousand extra employes are ready to swing into action. A forest of mail racks waits on the floor of a specially-hired warehouse. Sixty-one giant trucks and 190 private cars are prepared to do the bulky handling.

LONG BEACH'S Postmaster George J. McMillin regards the problem placidly.

"We'll get it out and you can be sure that any Christmas parcel in our hands on Dec. 24 will be delivered in time."

Superintendent of mails Verne Brustkern nods in agreement.

"The mail will go out as rapidly as it comes in," he promises. "The public can help by mailing as soon as the address is written. We'll keep the parcel post windows open as long as anyone is in the lines, and there will be numerous pickups at corner mail boxes."

The Long Beach post office will do about $800,000 worth of business this month. Chief Accountant J. Ernie Sohn says there has been a steady 5 per cent rise in postal receipts.

"In 1950 we did $412,000 worth of December business. Last year it was $735,000, and it will continue to grow."

AT 828 E. 12TH ST. is a temporary warehouse with 28,000 square feet of floor space, soon to be completely covered with bags of parcel post. It is now a re-echoing jungle of metal racks with suspended mail sacks. The bags are labeled for every corner of this country and every major geographical division of the world.

A clerk is working a rack of sacks labeled for the Far East. He picks up a Christmas package addressed to Bombay and labeled, "Don't Open Until Christmas."

"Someone must think steamships are awfully fast," says the clerk. "But, then again, maybe he thinks we're awfully slow and won't get it there until next Christmas."

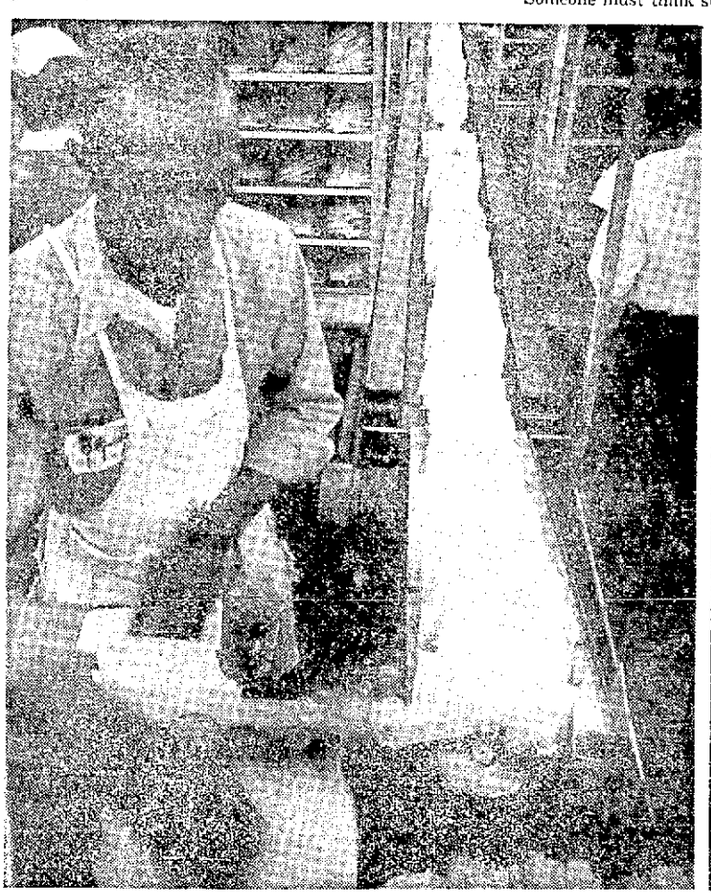

"You can see the mail come toward Long Beach like a tidal wave," says another clerk. "Most of it is outgoing, headed for the eastern seaboard. It will build up to a tremendous volume and then the bulk of it will be addressed to the Middle West. About a week before Christmas, the outgoing mail will trickle down to a comparative nothing and there'll be a mountain of mail addressed to Long Beach."

THE SADDEST and sweetest-smelling job is that of the clerk who rewraps broken parcels. The air around his bench is filled with the fragrance from broken bottles of toilet water and perfumes. Spilled talcum gives a broken box of dates a sexy aura, and neckties are freshly colored with jams and jelly.

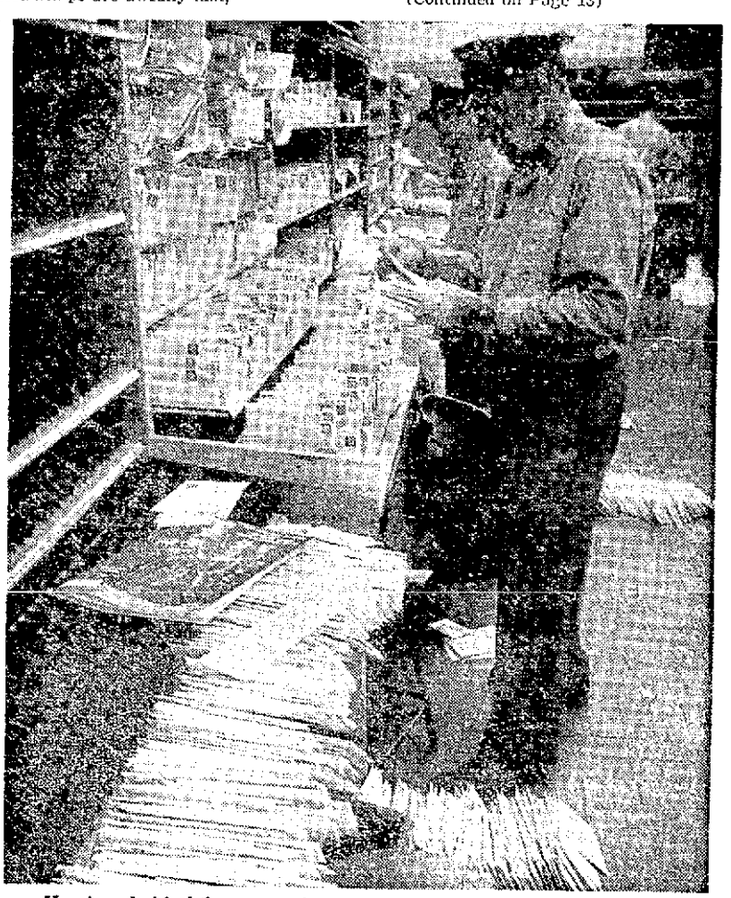

"Poorly wrapped packages are our greatest headache," says Parcel Post Clerk Francis Scott. "Some of those we receive would hardly survive a trip downtown and they certainly won't last in the mails. Too many people use flimsy paper and weak string."

"Use a stout carton and, if the article is fragile,

Letters and cards march in seemingly endless ranks through a stamp canceling machine run by Gilbert Tillman. Avalanche is yet to come.

Here's a behind-the-scenes idea of what's going on daily in the post office. Paul Kier sorts his lot of mail before going to deliver.

SOUTHLAND'S SHORT SHORT STORY

The Getting Used to It

By Blaine Nels Simons

Illustrated by Clyde Winslow

IN MY EARLY BOYHOOD days a favorite time of year was the summer vacation at Uncle Ben's farm. Besides having many things to do there I also enjoyed my Uncle Ben. I thought he was a character. Aunt Mary probably thought so, too, and he proved it one summer.

I had just turned thirteen. Uncle Ben started out the first evening in his usual way. While Aunt Mary and I were finishing the dishes, he solemnly stated:

"Carl Nestor escaped."

Without further comment he went back to reading his newspaper.

"Who, Ben Willis, is Carl Nestor?" snapped my Aunt. She was always irritated when she felt his dramatic side was beginning to show.

"Oh, you know, Mary, the scar-faced fella that held up Gus Benson's service station down the road a couple of years back," he replied without looking up.

"When did he escape?" she asked.

"Last night, paper says. No one's seen him since." Uncle Ben rattled the paper loudly and looked up at me. "Maybe he's in your room, my boy, maybe—"

"Ben Willis, of all things to say to a twelve—"

"Thirteen," I piped.

"—thirteen-year-old boy! Now you go over to the sports page and don't mention that convict again!"

HE DIDN'T, but all night long I dreamed of scar-faced convicts.

By the time I got down to breakfast the next morning Uncle Ben had left for the fields. He had also left my Aunt in a bad mood.

"That uncle of yours! He took his shotgun with him. I—"

"Do you think he—"

"No, I don't think he thinks that convict's within fifty miles of here," she answered for me. "But you know your Uncle Ben and his dramatics. Told me he figured he'd see the convict and get the reward. More'n likely he's only after a crow or two and the twenty-five-cent bounty on them. I really—" she shook her head and went back to her work.

During her good-natured tirade I had taken the silent opportunity to gulp down my breakfast. Now I grabbed the sack of lunch that had been put up for me and was out the door heading toward adventures by the river.

"Be sure to say hello to your uncle if you see him," shouted Aunt Mary.

BY THE TIME she had finished the sentence I was coasting past the barn. The barn! I wondered if my hiking stick from last year was still in the haymow where I'd left it. It would be just the thing for vaulting the mudflats. Setting my lunch down I hurried inside. Climbing the ladder two steps at a time I reached the loft and headed for a corner where I'd remembered leaving it.

"Make another move and you're a goner!"

I can remember even today that my heart stopped beating then and my very breath sucked from me.

Somehow I was able to turn my head to the right and saw a man standing there. It was too dark then to make out more than his outline.

"Who, who—" I finally was able to stutter.

"Shut up, kid," he whispered savagely. "Commover here and siddown — and shut up."

I stumbled the two feet to him and sat down. It was a relief to me that I was still trembling because it proved I was still alive.

I WAS CLOSE ENOUGH now to see he was carrying something in in his right hand. An ax! The ax from Uncle Ben's woodshed!

His face was close to mine now and I could see a scar running across his forehead.

"Carl Nes—" I stammered.

"Shut up!" He clamped his other hand over my mouth, then relaxed his hold and sat back. "Didn't know you was old enough to read papers. But it makes no difference. Just shut up."

Light was beginning to filter into the loft now and I glanced towards the haymow door.

"Listen kid," he growled softly, "don't go gettin' any ideas. I don't know why you come here but you're gonna stay." He looked over at me closely. "When they expect you back?"

I could have bitten off my tongue after I said, "Suppertime."

"Fine. We'll just sit here 'til then. Then when the farmer comes home we'll slip down the back way to the river. Boy, you're my ticket out of here," he chuckled hoarsely. "I'm glad you come."

I WAS SITTING a couple of feet from the edge of the loft. When I glanced over toward it — where freedom lay so close — he grabbed my arm.

"Aint no use figgerin' a way out, boy. I'd have you before you could make a move. So sit back—" he shoved me back into the hay — "and shut up."

He clutched the ax tightly but relaxed his grip on me. I didn't move a muscle. I could breathe and think and talk, but I felt helpless — like the summer before when the ladder fell down when I was on the barn roof. There was no use thinking. Aunt Mary would figure I was at the river and Uncle Ben would think I'd come by the field while he was at the other end. I tried to forget these things but I couldn't.

Funny how the farm sounded when I couldn't see it. The calves bound for the State Fair moved restlessly in their stalls below us. Now and then the sound of a whinnying horse would drift in from the pasture — like it was miles away. Chickens cackled around the farmyard and the ducks quacked their way to and from the pond. But it was the stillness I noticed most of all, I remember. How peaceful it was on the farm. It should give time to think and relax — but every time I tried to, the vision of Carl Nestor and his ready ax blocked my attempts.

I DON'T KNOW how long we'd been there when I heard the sound of a car coming into the yard. I sat straight the minute I heard it.

My captor sat up too, but in a moment lay back down again. "Take it easy, kid," he grinned. "It aint the cops — too old a car. No one'll be looking for me here, anyway. You can bet on that. I hiked six miles last night cross-country to get here near the river. They're lookin' for me to take a road, steal a car, or catch a freight. But not me. I'm followin' the river. They won't be looking here."

By now I, too, suspected this. No hope for the police. I was tired now and lay back. A feeling of loneliness started coming over me and in a moment I recall that I was almost completely overcome in a wave of homesickness. I turned my head to hide from Nestor the helpless look that must have been on my face, and tried to crawl deeper into the hay as though to find some warmth and comfort waiting for me there.

"If you're thinkin' a hidin' in the hay, or crawlin' through it somewhere, you better stay where you lay. This old ax ain't too sharp but it'll do the trick."

I FROZE ON HIS WORDS, but I will never know if it was his words that stopped me or the sharp prong my right hand touched deep in the hay. A pitchfork! My hand quickly and silently moved over its surface. It was a pitchfork! A weapon!

I looked at Nestor. He was lying back again. He hadn't seen my right arm move, hadn't seen the look that had, I know, momentarily crossed my face. Then I looked at the ax he was holding and knew again I was licked.

I lay back but shifted my position slightly so that my hidden hand gripped the neck of the pitchfork. I watched Nestor. He never looked at me but he didn't relax his grip on the ax handle, either. We must have stayed that way for an hour — or maybe it was just a few minutes.

SUDDENLY THE SOUND of a team jangling and pounding its way up the river road met my ears. Uncle Ben! He was coming home for lunch! Then I groaned silently. He'd never know I was here.

When I jerked into a sitting position I'd almost pulled the pitchfork out with me. Luckily Nestor had been looking in the direction of the road so hadn't seen me. He followed the sound of the horses until they stopped.

"Whoa there, boys," I heard Uncle Ben shout.

"Farmer comin' home for lunch," grunted my guard. He sprawled back in the hay again, apparently confident Uncle Ben wouldn't be looking for us.

AFTER WHAT SEEMED to be several minutes I could hear Uncle Ben's voice again — up by the house. Then I could hear him tromping down by the barn, then back to the house again. How I wanted to shout his name — but couldn't. How I wished he'd know — somehow — that I was up here. Maybe he'd get suspicious that he hadn't seen me by the field. Maybe he'd find my lunch sack where I'd left it down by the barn door before I'd come up here. Maybe — . Then I gave up thinking of maybes.

Dead silence. Then footsteps again. Uncle Ben's? They approached the barn — and entered. Now they were creaking towards the hayloft ladder. They stopped — and I stopped breathing again. My hand tightened on the unseen pitchfork. I looked at Nestor. He was leaning towards me, but looking around me at the ladder top. His fist was tight around the ax handle, knuckles white from the pressure.

THE LADDER GROANED. Uncle Ben — was it Uncle Ben — was coming up. Nestor motioned me down and back as he sank to a ready crouch.

We were about six feet over from where the ladder rested on the loft. It was gloomy enough in the

Tons of nickels and dimes. Shipping room for bank's coin business is seen above. Through this room pass more than 60,000 pounds of coins each week.

Bags of coins are dumped, carried by escalator (background) to the counting head of the receiving machine.

You'll Need Your Change

By Jack B. Kemmerer

LAST YEAR, we, the people of this country, put $1,800,000,000 in coins into vending machines, not counting telephones, parking meters and service machines such as coin-operated TV receivers. For these coins we received items ranging from hot coffee, cold drinks, hot soup, cigarettes and fresh fruit to pocket combs, toothbrushes, handkerchiefs, music and hot meals.

There are more coins in use today in the United States than ever before, and the amount is still on the upswing.

FOR EXAMPLE, when telephone companies throughout the nation raised the cost of a phone call from a nickel to a dime, many areas were again pinched for dimes. When the state of California passed a sales tax several years ago there was an extreme shortage of pennies.

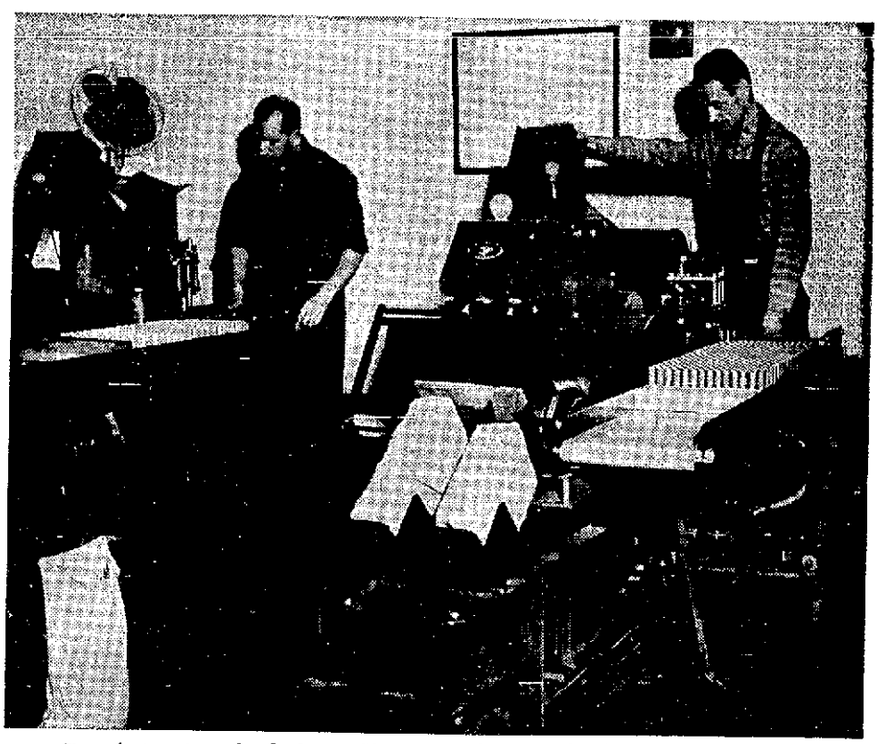

THE TREMENDOUS population growth in southern California has the banks working overtime to meet the greatly increased demand for pennies, nickels, dimes, quarters and half dollars. Today, Los Angeles handles more coins than any other city in the world. To keep ahead of this need, banks have installed highly mechanized equipment for all phases of the work.

One such installation, Security-First National Bank of Los Angeles, is the largest in the world and currently sorts, counts and wraps more than 30 tons of coin in a five-day week. This adds up to approximately one half million rolls of coins per month, varying anywhere from $300,000 to $600,000 per week.

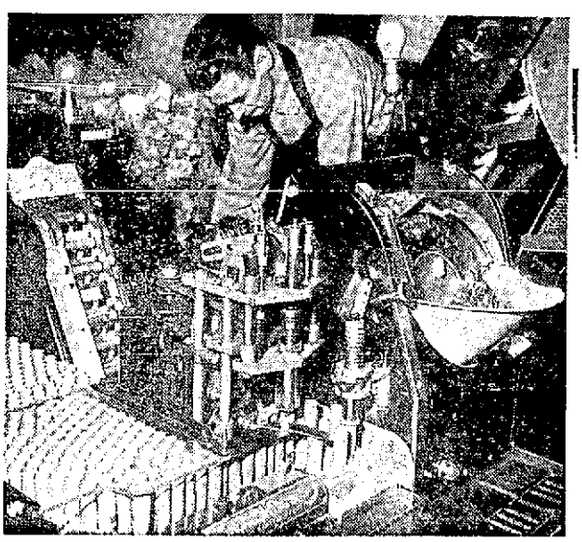

MONEY COMING into the vault arrives in armored trucks. An armed guard in a bullet-proof, glass - enclosed cupola overlooking the truck delivery area flashes a coded signal to another guard in the vault.

The second guard presses a button and a heavy steel door is raised electrically. The raised door exposes a conveyor belt which carries the money sacks to the underground level.

Downstairs, the heavy sacks are unloaded on handtrucks. Guards push the trucks through several more steel doors into the vault for sorting, counting and wrapping.

Two fast automatic devices will count and wrap coins from pennies through quarters in paper-covered rolls and will count rolls up to 1,000 per hour.

Counting head (right) counts and sends each coin to filler tube (center). Pre-rolled wrappers are at left.

This device sorts mixed coins, rejects slugs, foreign and damaged U. S. money.

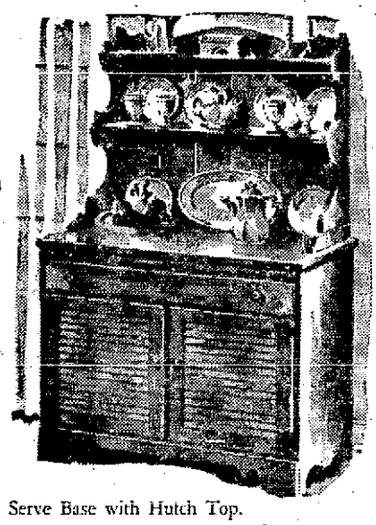

Coins are stored in underground vault, ride to surface on belt to fill the orders.

FASHION

Black Is Back

With the party-and-dance, theater-and-cafe season full upon us, hats have stolen the spotlight in the fashion news—and black is back as never before! A new hat wardrobe is a must. Patou, Paulette Svend, Le Monnier and Gilbert Orcel stole the Paris shows, and G. Howard Hodge has put signature labels in a delightful line of American hats that are far ahead stylewise and good for many seasons. Here are 3.

Of imported French velour, this dramatic high toque has cerise satin binding and brilliant ornamenting.

Peek-a-boo pink satin band and rhinestone ornament make this dramatic black pillbox an original beauty.

Black can be exciting—and black IS exciting in this three-tiered cushion brim with mauve pink accenting.

Gable Dealt a Hand of 4 Queens

CLARK GABLE is returning to the silver screen, surrounded this time by four comely, man-hunting queens.

Playing the part of a notorious western gunman, he rides into the town of Touchstone after escaping a posse. He hears the story of the McDade gang, a band of bank robbers, who were reportedly wiped out at Wagon Mound but not until they had hidden their loot of $100,000 in gold. When he goes after the gold he collides with the four widowed McDade girls: Birdie (Barbara Nichols), Ruby (Jean Willes), Sabina (Eleanor Parker) and Oralie (Sara Shane). None of them has seen a man in two years!

With Gable wheeling for the gold and dealing for one of the four beauteous widows, things really sizzle in "The King and Four Queens," United Artists CinemaScope and DeLuxe Color production due about Christmastime.

OUR COVER

The satiric pen of famed caricaturist Al Hirschfeld shows Gable neatly balancing his four queens. (Note: Gable's horse seems to be enjoying his glamorous passenger list.)

Clark Gable plays role of a notorious western gunman in his newest movie, "The King and 4 Queens."

In search of gold, he's dealt hand of four restless queens, Birdie, Ruby, Sabina and Oralie (not shown), daughters-in-law of Ma McDade (Jo Van Fleet, at right).

But after taking part of the gold and examining his prize-winning hand of queens with typical Cable care, Clark discards all but one, pretty Sabina.

HE RECALLS BATAAN DEATH MARCH

'Stay on Your Feet or Die'

By Bud Lembke

ADVENTURE doesn't often drop in the lap of a man. He must thrust himself in its path. It takes luck, too, for one to cast aside the humdrum and live dangerously.

A decision to travel and a spin of a globe, and the die was cast for John L. (Larry) Kiernan in March 1938. When the globe stopped spinning, his finger was pointing at the Philippine Islands.

Storm clouds had been brewing for some years over the Far East, and so it was with high hopes of finding excitement that Kiernan left Long Beach and took a ship to Manila.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO this week, Kiernan began reaping more thrills than he'd bargained for.

It was an unbelievably cruel adventure that was to take him through the infamous Bataan Death March and pile horror upon horror during nearly three and one-half years of Japanese imprisonment.

On this anniversary of Pearl Harbor and Japan's attack on the U. S., Kiernan is once more living quietly in Long Beach. He is one among the 10 per cent of American forces trapped on Bataan Peninsula who lived to tell the tale. It is an ordeal the like of which few men in history have had to undergo.

More than a decade since it ended, Kiernan finds it difficult to recall details of the misery, the slow, inch-by-inch starvation, the relentless attrition of a man's endurance and the senseless punishment. But most of the terrible drama is etched indelibly in his memory.

THE DEATH MARCH—"stay on your feet or die."

A hundred men wedged into a stifling, torrid box car smaller than the average American living room for a ride of death from one prison camp to another on a war-time Thanksgiving Day.

Forced at bayonet point to hold your hands high over your head for an hour and 20 minutes, while an army of mosquitoes feasted on your exposed body and bit your face until your eyes swelled shut and didn't open for four days.

Ordered to stand at attention and, too weak from the extraction of an ulcerated tooth to comply, jerked to your feet and knocked to the floor.

Those were but a few of the low points in the series of calamitous events.

Kiernan was working as an accountant at a gold mine near Baguio in northern Luzon when the radio cracked out news of the Japanese attack.

Just before Christmas, the 60 Americans at the mine, in the face of the advancing Japanese army, fled to an isolated sawmill previously stocked with food.

IN A COUPLE OF DAYS, Kiernan and two of the mine engineers decided to make a break for it and try to reach Manila to join the U. S. Army.

By a circuitous route, they hiked out of the mountains and in two days reached Manila.

From their experience at the mine, all three were familiar with demolition work and were hired upon arrival as supervising engineers with an Army unit that won fame as "Casey's Dynamiters," named after the commanding colonel.

Kiernan's assignment was to haul in dynamite for demolition of the huge Pacadan oil installation. It was finally touched off on Dec. 31, he recalls, with a "tremendous roar and the most frightening burst of flame and smoke any of us had ever seen."

There had been no time for him to be sworn into the Army. That came three weeks later when he received a field commission in Bataan, where he had raced in a wild ride with a commandeered car on New Year's Eve, over a pitch black road past the fleeing populace and retreating Army units.

THREE TIMES, engaged in building trails and roads, his unit was moved back. On April 6, the Japs broke through. Every man was pressed into a final, frantic stand. Word was passed to lay down arms on April 8.

In 100-degree, humid tropical

Wrap Gifts to Show You Care

Neatly wrapped in carefully selected paper, the gift above will prove to recipient that giver really cares.

By Caroline Coleman

YOUR CHRISTMAS gifts this year can be more wonderfully exciting—and better express the spirit with which you give them—if you take the time to wrap your presents with care and ingenuity.

There's no end to the clever devices you can employ, but the important thing is first to understand the fundamentals of gift wrapping.

According to Marcia Simpson, gift-wrapping stylist for Ben-Mont Papers, Inc. and one of America's most foremost authorities on the subject, gift-wrapping begins inside the box. Treat every gift as though it were precious and fragile. Wrap your gift in fine white tissue—wads of cotton, if the gift is small and you'll add a touch of elegance.

Selecting gift paper can be fun. For small boxes—the kind used to hold gifts like ties, stockings, or handkerchiefs—a small, over-all pattern is usually best. Holly, mistletoe, angels; a whole host of small patterns is available.

For boxes large enough to hold appliances, a robe, or a large toy, choose a paper with one larger, dominant center design—a glistening Christmas tree, for example.

WITH YOUR GIFT wrapped in tissue and your paper selected, you're ready to wrap. There are four basic steps.

FIRST—Lay the gift wrapping paper, face down, on a clean, flat, surface. Place the box, upside down, on the paper. Try to position the box on the paper so that the design will show to the best advantage when wrapping is completed.

SECOND—Cut the paper so that it is wide enough to go around the box and overlap 2 or 3 inches. The paper should also be cut to extend slightly more than one-half the depth of the box at both ends.

THIRD—Fold the paper up and around, overlap and seal with a decorative gummed sticker or with cellophane tape.

FOURTH—As illustrated, fold top ends down tightly and make diagonal creases at the sides and then fold sides in. Seal with a decorative gummed sticker or with cellophane tape. Do the same at the other end.

NOW YOU'RE READY to tie the package with ribbons and attach decorative bows. According to Ben-Mont's Miss Simpson, there's only one basic method of tying ribbon, but this may be varied by placing the ribbon off center in any direction. Here again, you can use your imagination in selecting the size, type and texture of ribbon that seems most appropriate. In tieing, there are four steps.

FIRST—Hold ribbon on the top of the package, allowing the short end to extend about six inches beyond the center.

SECOND—Bring the ribbon the length of the package, then at starting point, cross ribbon and bring it around width of box and back to starting point. Be sure that the ribbon does not twist on the bottom of the package.

THIRD—Cut off the ribbon, but leave 4 or 5 inches. This end is then brought over and under the crossed ribbon,

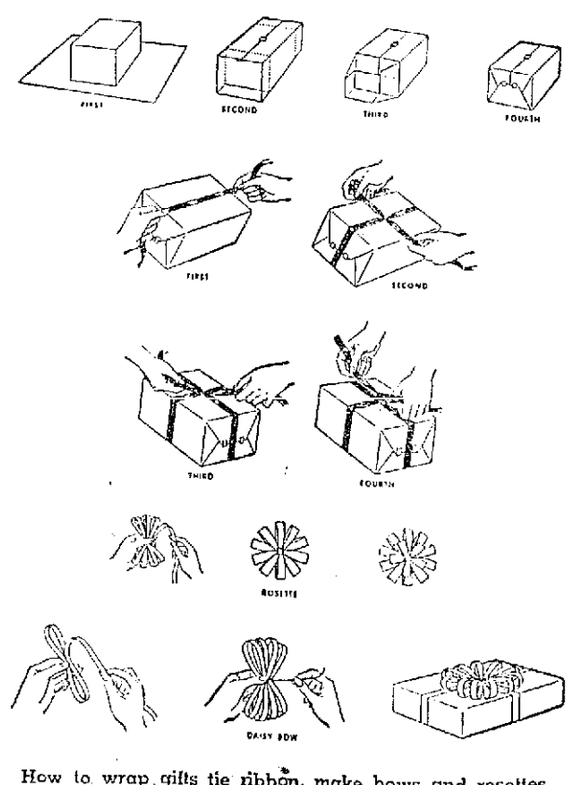

FOURTH—Pull up tightly together and tie a knot.

THERE ARE SCORES of fancy bows you can apply. Two types are especially popular, and they're easy to make.

DAISY BOWS—As illustrated, form ribbon in any number of loops of any length. Tie in center with another piece of ribbon and attach to package.

ROSETTES — As illustrated, form ribbon in loops measuring with forefinger. Tie same as daisy bow. If curling ribbon is used, curl ends by drawing ribbon between thumb and dull edge. To make double rosettes, tie smaller rosette on top.

Now fasten the gift card, and the job is done. If you chose your gift paper thoughtfully, wrapped the package with care, and added an attractive ribbon, it will be quite clear on Christmas day that you care about the person who's getting your gift.

How to wrap gifts tie ribbon, make bows and rosettes (details in accompanying article) illustrated above.

Children of the Stars

Still photographers covering the Hollywood beat term it a "good day" when they can grab a couple of shots of a film personality with his or her children on set. Still photographers at Universal-International Studio did even better recently with three of the top stars.

When Laraine Day made return to films in "Toy Tiger," her children, Chris and Michel, visited her on the set.

Jeff Chandler's children, Jamie, 9, and Dana, 7, are seen with parents at the premiere of "Away All Boats."

Miguel Ferrer rides shoulders of dad, Jose, on set of "The Great Man." Jose's daughter, Leticia, looks on.

His Art Depicts Medieval History

Finishing touches are applied to his 36-foot mural on history of treatment of mentally ill by E. C. Wallin of Long Beach State College faculty.

AN ART INSTRUCTOR who is something of an authority on the treatment of the mentally ill . . . !

That is Eugene C. Wallin, faculty member at Long Beach State College who last summer as a graduate student at Pennsylvania State University painted a mural for the admissions lobby of the new state hospital at Hollidaysburg, Pa.

It is a 36-foot, four-section mural, each of the nine-by-five foot panels dealing with a separate period in the history of mental care.

THE MURAL, which fulfills part of Wallin's thesis requirements for his doctor of education degree from Pennsylvania State, traces the evolution of care of the mentally ill from early herb dosages to modern psychiatric techniques and miracle drugs.

Included in the pictorial narrative are Dorothea Dix, who traveled about the country in the last century exhorting state legislatures to support welfare institutions, and spending her own fortune in the process; Thomas S. Kirkbride, who formed a team with Miss Dix and designed and built mental hospitals, including a model institution in Philadelphia; and Benjamin Rush, a signer of the Declaration of Independence and the first American physician to do research on mental illness.

WALLIN USED the moon—once believed to cause madness and the origin of the term "lunatic" as a symbol running through the mural. It dominates the first panel but gradually is "eclipsed out" in the next three.

The artist painted the mural in a quiet spot on the Pennsylvania campus—the artificial ice skating rink. He fastened his canvas onto four wooden frames and hung them on pulleys from the ceiling.

HE HAS PAINTED in oils for years, and exhibited in a show in the Illinois State Fair.

He is a native of Rockford, Ill., and received his bachelor of arts degree from Beloit College, Wis., in 1949 and his master of fine arts from the University of Iowa in 1951.

Yule Feast of Lights

By Ellen Saunders

REDLANDS UNIVERSITY'S annual public Christmas program—the moving Feast of Lights — is scheduled for the campus chapel this year on Dec. 15 and 16.

This will be the 10th consecutive year the unique dramatization of the Christmas story has been presented at the college.

Performances are planned for Saturday and Sunday nights and Sunday afternoon.

The pageant takes place in two parts. The first act tells the story of the Nativity, tracing the thread of prophecy of the coming of Christ through the Fulfillment. It is presented in song and narration interspersed by music from the big four-manual Cassvant organ and orchestral accompaniment.

FOR THE CLIMAX of the program, the audience joins with the 150-member student choir in the singing of the traditional Christmas carols.

During the early part of the second act, the chapel is illuminated with a single candle at the altar.

Then, one by one, faculty members representing the 12 apostles light other candles from the altar flame.

The Feast of Lights figuratively becomes that when the choristers light their candles, the chapel gradually lighting up with the hundreds of winking flames.

WITH THE CHOIR moved to illuminate the manger scene, now visible for the first time, the audience begins filing out of the sanctuary as the choristers sing "Silent Night."

Each spectator stops at the door and looks back for a last glance at the singers, each holding a candle, standing below the manger scene in which Mary, Joseph and the shepherds and kings kneel in adoration before the Christ child.

use plenty of packing," says another clerk. "Wrap the carton in heavy paper and use heavy cord — pulled tight. Any parcel wrapped like that will get through in good shape."

THE CALM of the post office is that of a David, full of faith, prepared to cut a giant down to size. This giant will be conquered, but only to spring up again, bigger than ever next year, which is another story.

"This Christmas rush is just part of the job," says a carrier. "I've been at it 12 years and it's just a matter of getting used to it."

He paused reflectively. "Come to think of it," he adds, "I've never gotten used to it, but who wants to get used to Christmas?"

The Mission California Forgot

The Mission Nuestra Senora de la Soledad, long neglected, is being restored by the Native Daughters.

By Helen Smith

THERE is a mistaken belief that all of California's picturesque missions along El Camino Real have been restored.

One of the originals, built in 1791, was completely neglected until 1939. The adobe walls of Mission Nuestra Senora de la Soledad, located midway between King City and Salinas, had long been in the process of returning to the soil from which they were made until discovered by California Native Daughters of the Golden West.

Through the efforts of this group the mission, 13th in a chain of 21 founded by the Spanish padres as they walked along the Kings Highway almost two centuries ago, has been partially restored.

IN AUGUST of 1955, the original bell that once called Indian neophytes to services in Mission Soledad, rang its summons again in the rebuilt chapel for the first time in 118 years when secularization brought almost immediate ruin to the edifice.

Founded on Oct. 9, 1791 by Father Fermin de Lasuen, the building was never pretentious nor as attractive as those located in this area. It did, however, serve as an important link in the chain and continued the development of the Salinas Valley area.

IN 1834, 700 Indians were dependent upon the mission. It was stocked with 4500 head of cattle, 163 horses and mules and 4950 sheep. Six hundred and eighty three bushels of grain were harvested in one year.

Mission Soledad was a refuge for coastal missions when the pirate Bouchard plundered and burned along the Monterey shores. Although the soil was comparatively poor, through the kindness of the padres prosperity and contentment abounded there for more than 40 years.

THE PICTURE quickly changed when the priests at Mission Soledad were divested of their authority. The Indians forsook their religious teachings by the hundreds and in only a few short years decay set in.

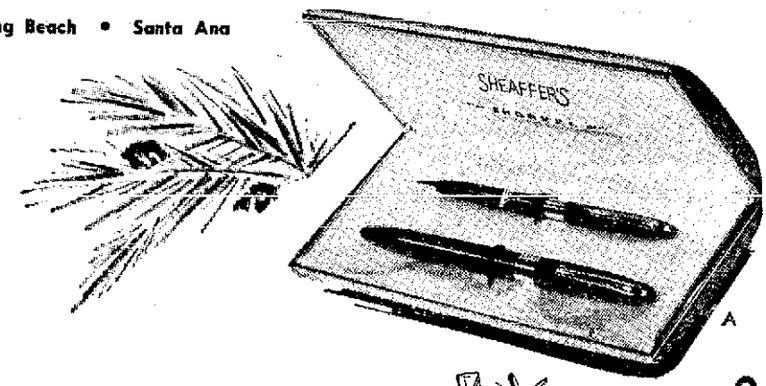

Fr. Vicente Francisco de Sarria, then in charge, was unwilling to desert the Indians even though the church no longer supported the missions. A few of his followers stayed by him until he died of hunger and want and his remains were carried to Mission San Antonio de Padua for burial.

Mission Soledad is the only one overlooked by state-wide programs to rebuild these venerable structures. Because it is a priceless landmark, the Native Daughters of the Golden West have undertaken a restoration program with the result that $26,000 has been spent on the project to date.

The graves of Jose Joaquin de Arrilage, governor of California, and Padre Florence Ibanez are located somewhere among the ruins. It is hoped that they will be revealed during future building.

Although the walls were reduced almost to ground level and mute desolation prevailed, old records provide complete architectural details to enable the old and stately church and school to again take its place among California's famed historical spots.

'STAY ON YOUR FEET OR DIE' AT BATAAN

heat on April 17, Kiernan began the torturous 100-mile Death March to San Fernando Pampanga. Those who fell or tried to get water out of a muddy ditch along the road were shot or bayoneted.

Many of the American troops started the march with canteens of water, but mid-way along, the Jap soldiers moved through and stripped these from the parched captives.

About three-fourths of the 200 men in Kiernan's group made it to San Fernando Pampanga. It was the first in a seemingly endless string of hellish experiences that was to reduce Kiernan from a healthy young man standing five feet, eight inches and weighing 142 pounds to a disease-ridden skeleton of less than 70 pounds.

THE BOXCAR RIDE to O'Donnell Prison, where "incredible filth," dysentery, malaria and slow starvation began to exact a steady toll of lives.

Cabanatuan Prison, in central Luzon.

A lesson here.

Four men try to escape, are caught attempting to crawl under the fence. Each is given a shovel, and an American sergeant is sent along with them in a guarded truck.

He brings back the hair-raising story: the first man is shot; the next in line is forced to bury him in a shallow grave; then he is shot, and the fiendish plot unfolds until the sergeant digs the fourth would-be escapee's grave, and he returns.

"I know of no successful escape from a Japanese prisoner-of-war camp," says Kiernan. "It was foolhardy, and I never gave it a thought."

November 1942, and a grim 19-day voyage to Japan. Kiernan and 599 other prisoners crammed in the hold of a small ship with only one small toilet "honey bucket" and everyone suffering from dysentery. The men clad only in cotton khakis, starting out in unbearable heat and running northward into winter's paralyzing cold, with waves washing down on the wretched men through the open hold.

JAPAN, AND Camp Tanagawa on the main island of Honshu. Kiernan suffering from the diseases of manutrition: beriberi, dysentery, scurvy, periodically partially losing his eyesight. Under the pretense of calisthenics, the weakened men forced to do the "goosestep" every morning.

Zentsuji Prison on the island of Shikoku, for 2½ years. No heat in the barracks, but above all, "the one real problem was food—we were being starved gradually, but systematically."

But through it all, Kiernan had hope.

"Those who didn't, died," he explains.

Ironically, the bigger men died first. Their constitution demanded more calories.

A diabolical blow at the mind and morale.

Red Cross shipments of food and medicine were brought out to the camp, stacked in the middle of the compound and there they lay.

"The Japs allowed us to sit on the boxes but they never let us open one, and men died because they didn't," says Kiernan.

A FINAL MOVE to Rokuroshi Camp on Honshu, and Kiernan was at his lowest ebb. His fingernails and hair had stopped growing, yet his captors kept him working hard, digging in a sweet potato patch.

Then one day a rumor from a guard that the Americans had "used a terrible weapon to destroy one of our cities." On Aug. 22, 1945, eight days after the unconditional surrender, the heretofore arrogant Jap camp commander humbly brought the news to the senior officer among the prisoners and to a man, they dropped to their knees in prayer.

Not a pretty story, but one with a happy ending for Kiernan.

Retired from the Army, he works for Long Beach Gas Dept., resides with his attractive wife, Bettie, at 3315 E. First St. He is now 43.

He has had a couple of major stomach operations, but his health is now good.

HOW DID HE survive what so many others couldn't?

"It wasn't determination completely, because I heard men say: 'I won't die. I'm going to beat this thing.' And then die as they said it," he states quietly.

"Maybe it was luck. It's anybody's guess."

Soap Opera Is Her Dish

Mary K. Welles, former Long Beach girl, is going great guns as an actress in New York soap opera.

By Earl Wilson
"It Happened Last Night" Columnist

ACTRESS Mary K. Welles of Long Beach is an avid "soap opera" listener — and it isn't only because she acts in them.

"I even listen when I'm at home," confided Mary K., who's currently in New York and heard on ABC Radio's "True Story," "Whispering Streets," "When a Girl Marries."

Mary K. formerly lived on Loma Ave. in Long Beach and her mother, Mary Ludewig, was a radio script writer for Station KGER and a free lance writer for the old Long Beach Sun.

"When I was 8 years old I decided I wanted to be an actress," Mary K. said. "Mother said, 'Sure, sure, you'll be a school teacher.'

"But when I got to be 12 and still said I wanted to be an actress, she said, 'Okay, by this age you ought to know.'"

MARY K. REMEMBERS her drama coach, Miss Dougherty, at Wilson High School. She also took lessons from the Long Beach coaches, Mr. and Mrs. Elias Day, and appeared at the Community Playhouse.

After making two pictures at Paramount, Mary K. headed for New York eight years ago where she's made her mark on radio and TV (Robert Montgomery, Philco Playhouse, etc.). During the summers, she's had roles with some of the big stock companies, including Elitch Gardens in Denver.

"I prefer radio to television," Mary K. said emphatically, and she's a veteran of both.

"THE DIFFERENCE IS this," she said, "TV is a challenge to your nerves — radio to your talent."

"Working on TV is like giving a performance in tight shoes."

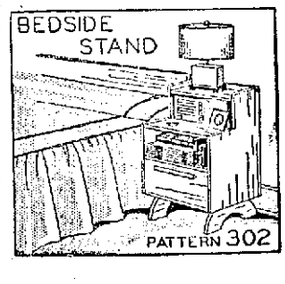

Mary K.'s the only one of her family ever to be in show business, but she told me her fifth great uncle was pretty famous.

"Who's that?" I asked.

"George Washington," she said.

Casey Stengel, boss of the Yankees and wife Edna relax in recreation room of their Glendale home.

Casey Takes It Easy

By Bob Myers

Associated Press Staff Writer

THE CASEY STENGEL in the off-season quiet of Glendale isn't much different from the Stengel of the excitement of New York as the manager of the Yankee baseball club.

Only the physical surroundings and the atmosphere are in contrast, and a sharp one it is.

In New York, Casey is under pressure. Life there is one of big crowds, and exacting demands, and residence in the luxury of an apartment overlooking Central Park.

This, of course, is apart from the demands Casey faces each day as the working field general of the New York Yankees, a job which pays him more than $80,000 a year.

GLENDALE IS FAR different in the few months of the year that Casey can call it home.

Here Casey Stengel of the ball field wars might well be Charles Dillon Stengel, his christened name.

The Stengel of this off-season, off-beat mood lives in a large two-storied home well back of a wide front lawn.

Back of the house is the sun house. It fronts on a swimming pool large enough to accommodate most of the neighborhood's children, which it frequently does.

This handsome home was built by Mrs. Stengel's father. The pool is the oldest in Glendale. "Casey," says Mrs. Stengel, "has been in it twice."

THE "OLD PERFESSOR" is really taking it easy this off-season, his most strenuous activity is emptying the waste-paper baskets. More constructively, he enjoys barbecue cooking and is highly accomplished in the art of lighting a successful blaze.

Casey is getting large chunks of just plain rest, taking a nap when he feels like it. Occasionally, he drives out to inspect some family real estate. On Saturday afternoons, he is glued to his television set to watch football.

Now Casey is at the very peak of the game, his Yankees have won seven out of eight pennants since he took over as manager, and they have won six world series.

"I can verify that Casey has not changed a bit," Mrs. Stengel comments.

"SOMETIMES HERE at home, maybe after a cocktail, he'll try to get by with a little bragging about himself.

"But he doesn't get very far. Not with me, or Jack or some of our nieces to calm him down."

Casey interrupted and started out on his favorite theme—the Yankees, and the 1956 Series.

"Casey," said Mrs. Stengel, "turned in the greatest job of managing this year he ever did."

Casey, with a familiar, rasping growl, which seldom scares anyone too much, groaned.

"Aw, cripes, what do you know about it. Now you take..."

"Now you just listen," interrupted Mrs. S., regaining the floor. "I ought to know something. I'm out to the ball park every day."

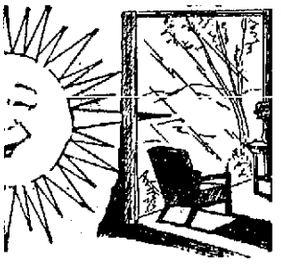

SHE WENT ON to recall that she wanted Casey to retire from baseball in 1949, and again in 1952.

"But when we won in 1953," said Mrs. Stengel, "I decided that if he was that good a man-

Adventure With No Holds Barred

JACK LONDON was a man's man, a rough-and-tough, no-holds-barred adventurer. He had his first drink (beer) at the age of 9, became an oyster pirate in San Francisco Bay at 16, and later became a U.S. officer to wipe out the pirates who were destroying the oyster beds. He breezed through the University of California at Berkeley in 19 months and then raced for the Alaska gold rush without waiting for his graduation paper. He was the first to run the rapids on the McMillan River above White Horse while other miners portaged around, bummed across Canada and the United States as a hobo, lived in the slums of London, crossed the Pacific in a small boat called the Snark. He became a reporter to cover such epochal events as the Russo-Japanese war and, finally — before his death in 1916 built his famous Wolf House on his ranch at Glen Ellen, Northern California.

Through all his countless adventures he had a burning desire to write, and write he did. And everything he wrote was imbued with all the movement, color and excitement he found in his own adventures.

Wishing to preserve London's best stories in a single volume for a new generation, Irving Shepard has edited "Jack London's Tales of Adventure" (Hanover House, $4.95). In the introduction he explains that he has attempted to select the most absorbing tales London ever wrote — reflecting a representative selection from all phases of the adventurer's diverse literary career—novels, sociological and political essays, sports, war reporting, autobiography, travel.

Mr. Shepard did his job well. The volume contains selections from such famous books as "The Seawolf," "Martin Eden," such adventure as "The Cruise of the Snark," his reporting on the Jeffries-Johnson fight, and 25 of his famous short stories. The work is illustrated with an album of London photographs, many of them quite rare. Men with red blood will read this one from cover to cover.

MONICA STIRLING, author of the widely commended "Boy in Blue" gives us in her new volume the story of a French love affair, "Some Darling Folly" (Coward McCann, $3.50). An artist with words, Miss Stirling sketches with controlled sweeps actor Remy Malet, lovely Sophie Dubois and her husband Etienne; and she recreates scenes of Paris, of the world of the theatre and of the courts, with the heart and mind of the below-surfaces craftsman. This short but most satisfying story of the handsome actor's affair with his married lover is delicately done, with no offensive language, with subtlety. Though the impression left is not so deep as that left by Miss Stirling's previous work, it does offer the mature reader a suspenseful evening as the two lovers spar for positions. Cleverly, Miss Stirling often keeps the husband in the background; but his presence is always felt; and he comes alive, as do the two lovers, and other characters as well.

"ONE WAY TICKET," mystery by Bert and Dolores Hitchens, 5530 Parkcrest St., will be published this month by Doubleday, Inc. Mrs. Hitchens, a mystery writer of long standing, is the author of 30 mystery books, some written under the nom-de-plume of D. B. Olsen. This is the second book in which she and her husband have collaborated. The new book is a fast-paced, technically accurate story of railroad detection. Last year their "F.O.B. Murder" won many mentions among lists of the year's best, including the New York Times' "Best Ten."

ALWAYS WELCOME are gifts of food. If the food is gaily packaged, that's a "plus" —and if it reveals that an individual's tastes have been remembered, then it is a compliment as well as a gift. We cannot always make our gifts so meaningful but, at Christmas, we should make a special effort toward something extra.

Cookies, which make an ideal gift, may be packaged in any way that suits one's fancy—in boxes, baskets, in cellophane, foil or other pretty papers. Many families have traditional recipes for making Christmas cookies, but perhaps the following recipes may provide a desired variety.

Brownies

- ¾ cup sifted cake flour
- ½ teaspoon double-acting baking powder
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ⅔ cup butter or other shortening
- 2 or 3 squares unsweetened chocolate
- 2 eggs
- 1 cup sugar
- ½ cup chopped walnuts
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift again. Melt shortening and chocolate together over hot water. Beat eggs well, add sugar gradually, and beat thoroughly. Then add chocolate mixture and blend. Add flour and mix well; then stir in nuts and vanilla.

Bake in greased 8x8x2-inch pan in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 25 minutes for moist chewy brownies; or 30 minutes for cake-like brownies. Cool in pan; then cut in squares or rectangles. Makes about 20 brownies.

If desired, frost with confectioners' icing, which may be tinted green and flavored with peppermint, and press ½ candied cherry on top of each brownie.

Confectioners' Icing

- 1 egg white stiffly beaten
- 2½ cups sifted confectioners' sugar
- 2 teaspoons hot water (about)
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Add about ½ sugar to egg white, beating thoroughly. Add remaining sugar, alternately with water, until of right consistency to spread. Add vanilla and beat thoroughly.

Mincemeat Surprises

- 3½ cups sifted cafe flour
- 2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ cup butter or other shortening
- ½ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
- 1 egg, unbeaten
- 2 tablespoons milk
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Cream shortening, add sugar gradually and cream together until light and fluffy. Add egg and beat well. Then add flour, alternately with the milk, a small amount at a time, beating well after each addition. Add vanilla and blend. Chill until firm enough to roll (about 1 hour).

Roll dough ⅛ inch thick on lightly floured board and cut with floured 2½-inch cookie cutter. Place half of cookies on ungreased baking sheet. Place one teaspoonful of Mincemeat Filling in center of each and spread out to within ¼ inch of edge. Cut small hole in center of each remaining cookie; then place on top of filling, pressing edges together to seal. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees F.) 10 minutes, or until done. Makes about 2½ dozen cookies.

Mincemeat Filling. Combine 1 cup mincemeat, ¼ cup firmly packed brown sugar and ½ teaspoon rum flavoring; mix well.

Christmas in a Magic Kingdom

Giant tree, carolers and costumed performers will roam through shops and streets of Disneyland in the Christmas season, in manner of drawing above.

By Jeri Ceresi

BRIGHTEST SPOT in all the Southland this Christmas will be Walt Disney's Magic Kingdom in Anaheim.

Walt is presently readying a glorious old-fashioned festival for the enjoyment of the thousands of holiday season visitors to his 20 million-dollar entertainment capital.

Live entertainment in the form of hundreds of visiting choral groups, orchestras, choirs and bands will blend with the park's majestic yule season decorations to carry the happy spirit of Christmas to all lands.

Added to these visiting groups, who will appear on a scheduled basis, will be the Disneyland Carollers, costumed performers who will roam the streets, shops and restaurants of the Magic Kingdom each day from noon till closing, starting Tuesday, Dec. 11.

LAST YEAR'S Christmas at Disneyland drew excited praise from the thousands of holiday season visitors, both local and from out of state. Theme of the decorations will carry the joy and beauty of a turn-of-the-century Christmas time, in harmony with the park's 1900 era Main St. area.

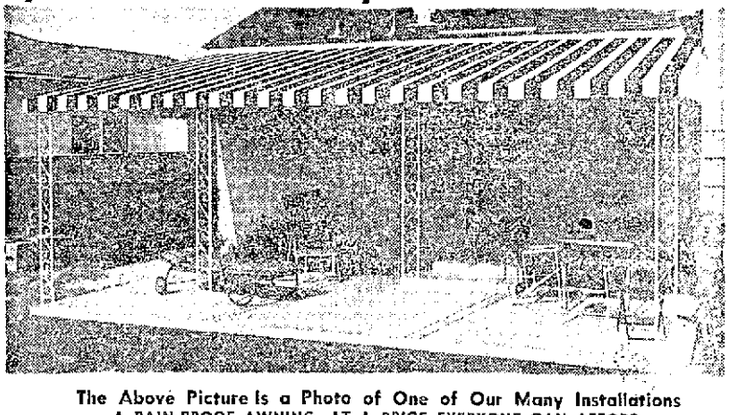

Youngsters will delight to long forgotten Christmas customs as they are revived through the magic touch of Walt Disney. Older folks will relive childhood memories with the wandering carolers, old-fashioned festooning and "period piece" window decorations of the Main St. shops.

All of Main St. will seem a giant Christmas package, decorated on every foot of its length. Overhead, natural green garlands reach from buildings on both sides of the street. The authentic gas lamps that illuminate Main St. will be hung with Old English holly wreaths and silver and gold bells.

ILLUMINATED cutouts of sacred and festive Christmas scenes will greet the visitor at every turn. Capping the decorations and providing Main St. with its most spectacular sight are the buildings themselves, outlined with thousands of multi-colored light bulbs.

At the terminus of Main St., in Disneyland's Central Plaza, will be the park's giant tree — a full 40 feet in height and decorated on every bough and stem, capturing in its evergreen branches all the joy and happiness of the Christmas season.

Making Capital of Disadvantages

Artistic landscaping and ingenious architecture join to make this house "at home" on narrow, sloping lot.

Ojai fieldstone used for a fireplace and wall in beautifully grained ash highlight the living room of Dr. and Mrs. Hans Weil and their two girls.

By Eileen Ball

FROM THE STANDPOINT of beauty and from the excellence of its location, the lot Dr. and Mrs. Hans Weil found at 263 Granada Ave. was a superb "find"—especially for this city where land for building is as scarce as the proverbial hen's teeth. But what they did not fully appreciate — until their architects showed them — was the enormous difficulty of designing a house for this comparatively narrow lot that sloped so abruptly from its north side in a seven-foot drop. The topographical characteristic coupled with the special desires the Weils had in mind for their home imposed a great many restrictions on their architects, Richard Poper and William Lockett, AIA.

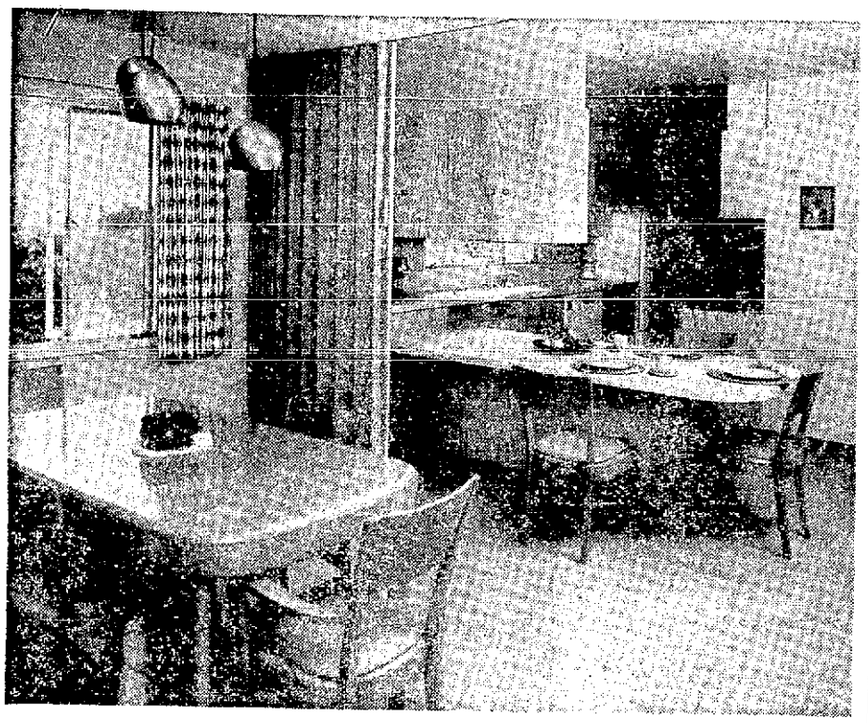

The house that resulted is scarcely a year old. It embodies all that the Weils wanted—and more. It is highly functional, the architecture extremely attractive, and it turns the disadvantages of the site to aesthetic advantage, belying both the drop and the width of the lot.

THE EXTERIOR of the house is of sandlewood stucco, cream-colored wood and natural redwood board and batten siding. The width of the house is seemingly extended through use of spans of redwood eggcrate lattice.

Already existing along the

north side of the lot was a retaining wall of used brick. Now, the walkway leading back to the secluded entry is bordered by planting and this low, attractive wall.

To the left of the front door is a fixed panel of clear glass against which grows a mass of tropical greenery. This attractive entryway is completely sheltered by the flat overhang of the roof, plastered underneath with the sandlewood stucco.

The front door opens to a completely separate entry carpeted in brown and white tweed wool and paneled in natural ash. A free-standing cabinet of curly Japanese ash stands out from the entry wall on wooden legs, a unique arrangement for guest wraps.

To the right of the entry is the living room with an unusually high ceiling, a dimension determined largely by Dr. Weil's highly prized possession an antique breakfront, more than 300 years old. From the Bishop's Castle in Freiburg, Germany, this enormous piece of furniture stands nearly as high as the ceiling which is two feet above average. Of solid rosewood, it is 10 feet wide and has multi-paned doors of hand blown glass.

BALANCING THE ROOM at the opposite end is a fireplace of combined Ojai and Santa Maria fieldstone. The ceiling is of white acoustical plaster spanned with heavy beams and two walls are completely paneled in natural honey-colored ash.

Two painted walls are of a shade of sandlewood that identically matches the boucle curtains. They drape the west exposure that is almost completely glass. Centering the glass walls are panels that slide open to a sheltered terrace and the garden. Spanning the width of the glass is a lighting trough that effectively lights the beamed ceiling.

The room is furnished with a pair of sofas—modern in line and upholstered in off-white wool tweed, a pair of Dux chairs from Sweden that are upholstered in a pink-and-brown geometric print, a round cocktail table and a handsome corner table of oiled teakwood.

TO THE LEFT of the entry is the den . . . a sanctuary that is exclusively Dr. Weil's domain. It is mahogany-paneled and features vast amounts of built-in bookshelves and storage compartments, and includes hi-fi system and an enviable collection of records. Along the other side of the room runs a bank of windows that overlook the walkway. Here is Dr. Weil's large birch desk. A pair of teak and oak chairs with rush seats plus a love seat upholstered in oatmeal tweed provide seating. Everything for Dr. Weil's convenience and enjoyment—in pursuit of his profession at home and of his hobbies—is included in this room.

Directly beyond the entry is the kitchen and dining room, an area which, essentially integrated, may be readily separated by an expansive folding leather door.

The floor of the dining area is cork. The end walls and the ceiling are putty colored. The other wall of the dining room is "papered" in natural burlap, a wonderful material for the art connoisseur who changes his paintings occasionally, for this is a wall covering that hides the nailholes!

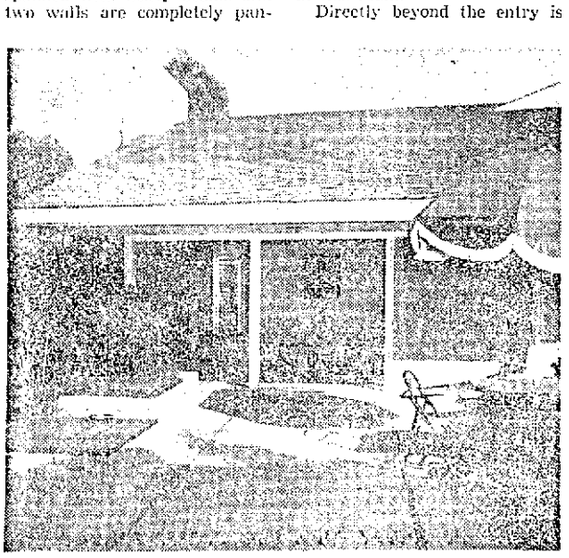

A LARGE AND simply designed dining table of birch has matching chairs upholstered in turquoise. Over the table hangs a contemporary light fixture of brass. Draperies are sill length, of a colorful harlequin pattern flecked with gold.

The large kitchen has a wealth of ash cabinets. Separating the dining room from the preparation area is a large breakfast bar, wide enough for the proper setting of china and glassware. Countertops in the kitchen are surfaced with beige linen-like plastic. Flecked vinyl flooring is copper, black and white. From the kitchen a door opens to the patio, facilitating the serving of outdoor meals. The back door opens to a completely sheltered breeze way to the garage, a feature of importance to a doctor who must, occasionally, make night calls in all sorts of weather.

Connecting the two bedrooms of the Weils' daughters is a spacious bath specifically designed for their joint use. A long Pullman counter surfaced with pink-and-black figured plastic contains two lavatories. On either side of the bathroom are built-in chests exactly the same size. Dorothy's bedroom is turquoise and brown. Ruth's room is decorated in shades of pink and chocolate.

THE MASTER bedroom has putty-beige walls and ceiling, with one long wall completely lined with wardrobes. The bedspread is deep turquoise. Large windows overlook the front of the lot and are curtained with sill-length sandlewood draperies. A built-in chest of drawers is crafted of natural ash and terminated in a handy dressing table backed with a plate mirror. Hand-blocked paper was used for two walls of the room, featuring a dull gold geometric pattern on an off-white ground.

The master bath is large. Its fixtures of seafoam green match the tile Pullman counter. Pale green wallpaper completes the monochromatic scheme.

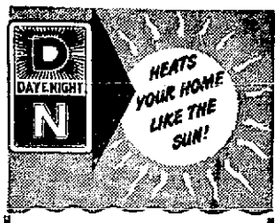

Living room is oriented to the patio and garden. The single level was gained by filling in the property.

Little Lick-Em Sticks

DON'T BREAK your fingernails while cleaning the kitchen tile. Nor should you bruise your fingers polishing carved furniture. Instead, use a lollipop stick! Not for Susie's pleasure alone was this small wooden cylinder created. It and its near relative, the ice cream stick, if washed and kept handy in a drawer, will make life sweeter for you, too! You lick off the goodies and the little sticks will lick tough household chores.

Cleaning tile and around faucets, for instance, can be done this way: First smooth on liquid cleanser, bleach, or scouring powder moistened with water. Allow this cleaning medium to soak into dirt and stain for a few minutes. Make sure that it reaches into all cracks and corners. Then, using pointed end of lollipop stick, work soil gently loose from seams in tile, corners, around faucets and drains. Flush away with warm water, rinse and wipe dry. You'll have gleaming, new-looking tile again —and no chipped fingernails.

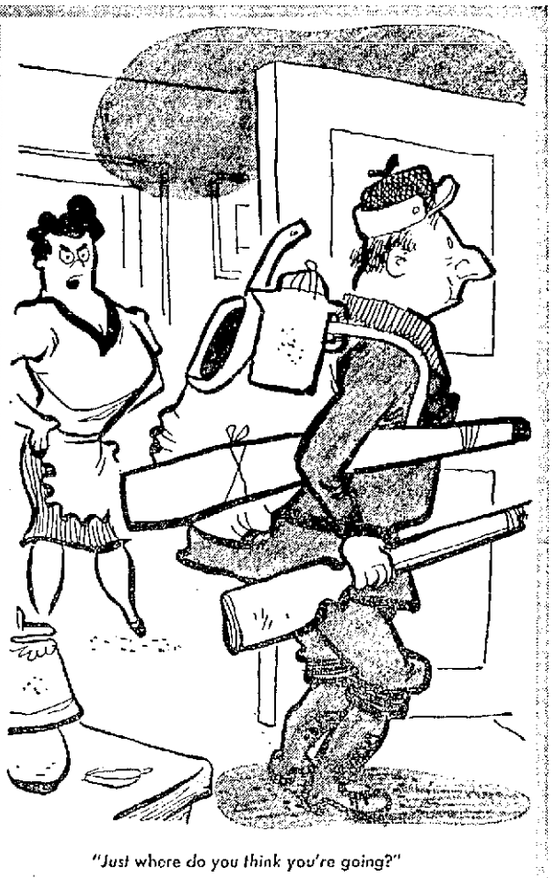

YOUR KITCHEN range will not be quite the ogre to clean it sometimes appears to be if you let a lollipop or ice cream stick help you. Wrap a cloth about a stick, dip in cleaning solution. And poke away at the dirt and grime on gas burners, sharp corners and other hard-to-get-at places that seem to be a part of every kitchen range. Rinse with hot soapy water, wipe dry. Furnace grates and radiator grilles glow their appreciation at the same treatment.

These little sticks, when wrapped with cotton and dipped in furniture oil, will polish clear to the bottom of those curlicue cracks on furniture scrollwork. Watch the dusty crevices and corners (even those that defy your trusty vacuum cleaner) come shining clean once more.

BY WRAPPING a fluff of cotton about a lollipop stick you can: oil a lock or hinge with minimum of muss and effort; touch up marred or scratched woodwork with paint or varnish; clean gently but thoroughly around the dials of your automatic washer, dryer, refrigerator and other appliances; get behind locks and in corners of windows.

You can loosen burned-on food from pots and pans with a lollipop or ice cream stick. You can stir small cans of paint with them. In fact, before attempting any task that demands scraping, poking, polishing or stirring, ask yourself: "Will a lollipop stick do this for me?"

HELEN L. GULLUM

"Just where do you think you're going?"

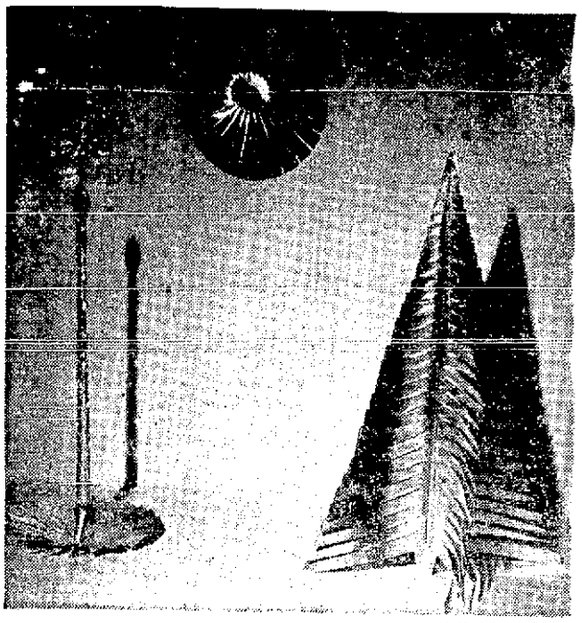

HUMOR CONTINUES to find its way into some of the best fall books, three of which are especially recommended for belly-busting guffaws.

In "Hunt and Be Damned" (Prentice-Hall, $2.95), Lawrence Lariar—who has long hunted in Flatbush, near Coney Island, and who has been hunted by laugh seekers—cartoons and writes his way to his best effort yet (he has compiled many such collections) in a gallery of hunting types such as "Alcoholics Unanimous," "Through Field and Stream and Hem and Seam," "How to Cook Your Own Goose," and "The Handy Hunters Dictionary." Just the thing for a pleasant easy-chair safari.

"The Hokinson Festival" (Dutton, $5) contains almost 500 cartoons of Helen E. Hokinson's characters—urban, suburban and exurban—which have made readers of The New Yorker exclaim with delight for lo, these many years.

"The Pick of Punch" (Dutton, $3.95), edited by Nicolas Bentley, is a big book crammed with wits and nitwits in the cause of satire and the lighter brand of lunacy. This collection, out of the famous and respected old British magazine, is a galaxy of the world's best writers-in-the-lighter-vein and it's really great!

Christmas Ornaments

Bright aluminum tree, candle or reflector will add to yule decor outdoors. What's more, they're easy to make.

By Walter Finch

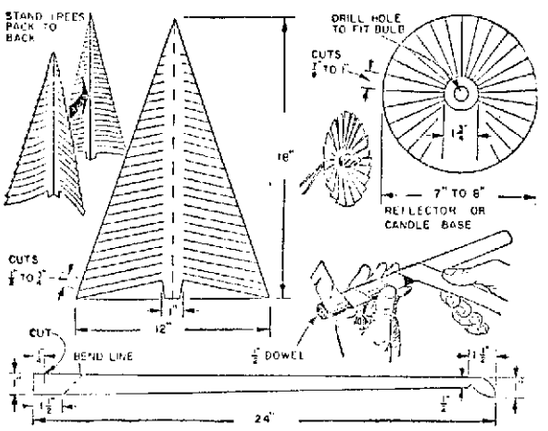

BRIGHT ALUMINUM shaped as a tree or candle and as a king-size reflector for outdoor lights will make your home gayer this Christmas. They're easy to make, too, from Do-It-Yourself aluminum. Because they're metal and won't rust, you can use them again, year after year.

To make the tree, cut the triangular shaped blanks as shown. Bend each half down the center, then cut parallel slits from each side ½" to ¾" apart, using ordinary scissors or household shears. Set cut halves back to back on a mantle or as a table centerpiece.

The reflector is simply a disc of plain aluminum sheet with slits cut into it from the edge. Drill the hole to fit the bulbs.

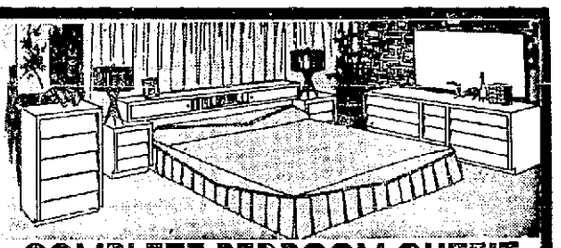

WIND THE STRIP cut for the candle around a ½" dowel; then pull out the dowel. Bend the bottom end to fit into one of the slits cut into a base like the reflector. When the season is over, the candle is simple to take apart and store.

Reynolds Do-It-Yourself aluminum is available at your local lumber or hardware store.

Bargain in Spain

Spanish hotels and restaurants, already a bargain, now have government fixed price ceilings on table d'hote meals, according to Trans World Airlines officials in Madrid. Maximum prices for four course meals are: Luxury class, $1.40; first-class, $1.15; second-class, 95 cents; third-class, 75 cents. TWA's Holiday Discount Fare to Madrid is another bargain — $479.60 round trip from the United States, allowing 15 full days in Europe.

Around the World With

DELAPLANE

I understand there are several kinds of "taverns" in England. What are they like?

THE BAR SYSTEM in England is so complicated that I gave up trying to work it out. There are pubs. The pubs include "private bars" sometimes, "public bars" sometimes, and "saloon" bars. The beer is drawn from the same tap. But the prices are different according to where you sit.

As near as I can figure it out, you can take a lady into the saloon bar and sit down. In the private bar you sit on a stool. In the public bar, you stand up and play darts.

Beer is ordered by the pint or half pint. And if you order beer you don't get what you think of as beer. If you want beer you order bitter. There's something called "arf and arf." I have not had nerve enough to give it a chemical test.

The pubs are good for luncheons. Some that I've tried in London and liked are The Antelope, Jack Straw's Castle and Nag's Head.

We would like to see some of the French countryside. How would you suggest we go?

I PREFER to drive in France. Buy the Guide Michelin (on any sidewalk magazine kiosk.) Tells you prices, best hotels, best cellars, best foods. All in all the best driving guide in the world. The French National Tourist Bureau, 8 Avenue de l'Opera, has a list of car rentals ranging from $2.25 to $4.50 per day (15 days or more) plus 3½ to 6½ cents per kilometer. Or look in the Paris edition of the New York Herald Tribune.

My daughter is planning to do some summer school work next year. She thinks she would like Mexico. Can you tell me of any schools there that offer summer courses?

Some schools in Mexico catering to Americans for summer study are Mexico City College, La Escuela Interamericana, Saltillo (Coahuila), Instituto Tecnologico de Monterrey, Monterrey (Nuevo Laredo) and Universidad de Guanajuanto, Guanajuanto (Guanajuanto). Language and culture courses mainly.

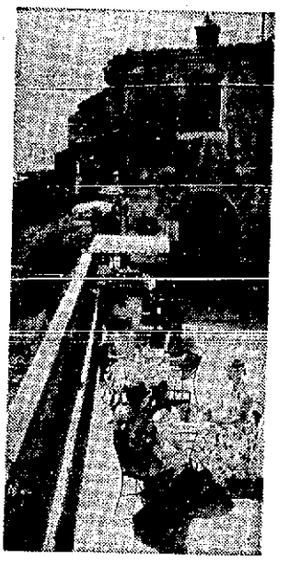

For art the Instituto Allende, San Miguel Allende (Guanajuanto).

For a complete list of Latin American schools that give summer courses, write for Opportunities for Summer Study in Latin America. Available for 10 cents from the Pan American Union, Department of Cultural Affairs, Division of Education, Washington, D. C.

Your mailed questions will be answered (no phone calls). Send stamped and addressed envelope to: Stan Delaplane, Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, Sixth and Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif.

Tongue-Twister

Among the hundreds of Welsh tongue-twisters is a place called Tu Hwnt i'r Bont, says Pan American. It's a cafe on the banks of the River Conway near a hump-backed stone bridge. Unlike the pronunciation, the meaning is simple. Just try to say Tu Hwnt i'r Bont, when you mean "beyond the bridge."

Pan American World Airways

Chez Justin in the village of Eze on the French Riviera is typical of relaxing centers that dot the Mediterranean seacoast of France. Charming, out-of-the-way places are often just as attractive as are the more glamorous resorts, much cheaper to live in and provide a better insight into the warm, sunny land.

Going to Europe?

Anticipating another Europe tourist record next year, local travel agencies are already offering a free "mailing-piece folder" put out by Cook's Travel Service called "Europe Summary of Escorted Tours 1957."

Folder outlines eight escorted Europe tour routes with 102 departure dates from New York and Montreal from March 6 to Oct. 9, plus suggestions regarding several other tours and routes from January onward.

Inclusive fares range from $846 for a 40-day "popular" tour from Montreal, to $2,338 and up for a 56-day "grand tour" from New York with crossings in first class on board Cunard's "Queen" liners.

Many first-time visitors to Europe, travel agents find, prefer escorted tours as an easy way to see the Old World without having to keep an eye on baggage, passport regulations, customs, hotel accommodations and other travel details.

Waikiki Booms

Hawaii's fabulous hotel development at Waikiki Beach, a tourist "eighth wonder," may soon see another tower of tourism rise on one of the world's most famous strands.

And thereby soon may pass one of the travelers landmarks —the Halekulani Hotel, as such —now known as a bit of the old and true Hawaii. The Halekulani is up for lease or sale.

The hotel was founded by Robert Lewers and has been under the continuous lease or outright ownership of Kimball family since 1917 when it was taken over by Clifford Kimball. It is now operated by the Kimball interests under the direction of George P. Kimball, trustee, and Richard K. (Kingie) Kimball, general manager. It is located midway on Waikiki Beach between Matson and Kaiser Hotel properties, a prime beach area with top swimming, surfing and catamaran sailing conditions. Although of only 190 rooms, it is one of the four top Waikiki hotels on a beautifully landscaped site capable of supporting an operation of some 1,000 rooms.

Greater service to Waikiki, greater revenue possibilities and the need for 3,000 more hotel rooms in the area to care for the projected influx of tourists in the jet transport age has led to the decision to modernize, according to the Kimballs.

Meantime, the service that has won the Halekulani global fame will be continued, with the hope that any future deal may incorporate a continuance of many of these desirable features, it was indicated.

"Mele Kalikimaka!"

Modern catamaran, a version of ancient Polynesians' twin-hulled canoe, is used by Santa Claus in Hawaii.

By Catherine McNaught

CHRISTMAS is a latter-day fete in the ancient annals of Hawaiian Island customs and, therefore, it is only natural the Hawaiian Santa Claus should come sailing into Honolulu from the sea, to leap ashore with his pack of good things. No sleigh for him on this happy coral shore!

And his merry greeting is "Mele Kalikimaka!" instead of the usual "Merry Christmas!" That's because "r" and "s" were foreign to the original Hawaiian language and the natives could not handle them in speech.

Before the coming of the white man the Hawaiian people were pagan in belief and the celebration of Christmas was an alien observance. It now seems odd that the general acceptance of Christmas was delayed due to the objection of the first missionaries from Boston, a serious and dedicated people. Too intent on educating and converting the natives they discouraged their noisy, boistrous way of celebrating the Christ Mass.

THE HAWAIIANS are basically a happy people and will celebrate anything. They had always delighted in religious festivals, but in 1819 when the Kapu system of the old gods was discarded, they were without a religious belief. For this reason the native chiefs welcomed the missionaries and encouraged their people to become Christians. Today the Christmas holidays are celebrated with a zeal and noise which drives many of the more conservative citizens out of the cities, as firecrackers are an essential part of the celebration.

The first Christmas observance recorded in the Hawaiian Islands took place in 1786, prior to the arrival of the missionaries, aboard the English ship, the Queen Charlotte, anchored off the island of Kauai. Native chiefs were invited and gifts were distributed to the children on shore. This was the period when a flourishing fur trade with the Orient had developed and British and American ships started arriving in large numbers. They had discovered the strategic location of the islands and stopped to take on water and supplies.

HOWEVER, IT WAS not until 1862 that King Kamehameha IV and Queen Emma, members of the Church of England, gave official sanction to the Christmas holiday, and published a proclamation to that effect. A Christmas Eve service was held in the church, which the King and Queen attended, followed by a torch light procession through the streets singing carols, ending at Iolani Palace. Christmas as a religious observance was thus established.

There are unusual phases in the Hawaiian forms of celebration. Each Christmas Eve there is a pageant with carols on the balcony of the Iolani Palace. With no racial prejudice, Japanese, Chinese and Hawaiian children enact the Nativity scene, and the singing of carols is often accompanied by ukuleles and steel guitars. Christmas menus often consist of roast pig and poi, breadfruit and devilfish, accompanied by plenty of limu, a form of seaweed.

THE LIBERAL popping off of firecrackers probably originated from the Chinese custom of setting off fireworks to frighten away bad spirits. But the enthusiasm is the same as on the mainland, and the true Christmas spirit prevails.

From time immemorial the catamaran, the Polynesians' big double canoe, was the means of transportation and exploration from island to island. So, to the deliriously happy children of Honolulu it seems most appropriate for Kris Kringle to arrive aboard a catamaran with Christmas trees in the rigging and bags of toys in the hold.

Ethiopia Calls

Ethopia is beckoning the traveler with a bent for the unusual. Connecting with Trans World Airlines flights into Cairo, Ethopian Air Lines is flying an ever increasing tourist load to Addis Ababa each week. And now that the "big rains" have stopped, the land of the Conquering Lion of Judah expects an even greater influx of travelers.

Hotels in the capital city are excellent and trips into the countryside surrounding the capital are scenically rewarding. The climate is akin to California, visitors report.

PET PARADE

A Word About Exotics

By Eleanor Avery Price

YOUR GENUINE love or distrust of wild animals would determine whether you would be successful in raising an unusual pet such as the mischievous honey bear, or kinkajou, a member of the raccoon family, pictured with this article. And don't fool yourself that animals won't know the difference!

Sheila Stedman, founder and organizer of the World League of Animal Lovers in Durban, South Africa, has proven over and over again that so-called wild animals can instinctively detect friend from foe, and she has witnessed some strange and kind actions toward her by jungle beasts, although she is no longer surprised because she has a true feeling of friendliness and affection toward every wild creature ranging from the smallest animal to the huge elephants of Uganda.

ANOTHER GREAT animal lover, one whose name has been heard and seen frequently this past year, is Prince Ranier III of Monaco. For years the Prince has spent his spare time collecting, keeping, and studying exotic pets. By 1955, a truly fine zoological park was completed on part of the rocky section of the palace gardens.

Prince Ranier himself captured many of the animals which now occupy Centre E'Acclimatation Zoologique de Monaco, the park's name. Fortunately the climate of Monaco is mild and suitable for his exotics.

All of Prince Ranier's captives are treated as pets and are therefore exceptionally tame. The zoo contains chiefly anthropoids such as chimpanzees, an orangutan and gibbon apes, but there are also other monkeys such as the squirrel, black spider, Uakari from Madagascar, and the Woolly.

THE FIRST ZOO is attributed to China and the first emperor of the Chou dynasty who reigned about 1100 B.C. This zoo was called Intelligence Park and was apparently created for scientific and educational reasons.

The ancient Greeks and Romans captured wild animals but slaughtered them in gladiatorial shows. In later years, royalty and wealthy persons maintained menageries, aviaries, and aquaria. Among them were Henry I, Henry III, Henry IV of England and Philip VI of France.

Cuddles, an affectionate and mischievous kinkajou, or honey bear, is Mrs. Mary Weatherbee's interesting pet.

IMPERIAL VALLEY Kennel Club will hold a dog show and obedience trial on Sunday, Dec. 9, at Holtville. Several nearby motels will accommodate guests with well-behaved dogs.

IF YOUR DOG is a barker, get a water pistol and keep it loaded and handy. If the barking is unnecessary, give the dog a squirt right in the face, then scold severely and shake your finger. Eventually an upraised finger will quiet the animal.

loft so that whoever was coming up just out of the bright sunlight wouldn't be able to see us. I could hear the steps groaning one by one. Then —.

It was Uncle Ben! In his right hand — a shotgun! My mind raced with my heartbeat. Uncle Ben pulled himself up and looked around, eyes blankly passing mine several times. He walked slowly towards the haymow door. His back was towards us. Did he know — or was he just being dramatic again to scare my Aunt Mary? I grinned at the thought. Then all of a sudden I felt completely relaxed. The long wait was over. That long, lonely fear of the morning had conquered itself, and I thought, It must be the getting used to being afraid that's worst . . . that's it, the getting used to it!

I LOOKED AT NESTOR. Fear — a stranger to him that morning — was beginning to etch into his face. I looked at Uncle Ben. Now just beginning to open the hayloft door, he was oblivious to fear, but might not be in a minute.

Suddenly a wave of strength seemed to sweep over me. My right hand clutched the pitchfork's neck tightly and I rammed it out in the direction of Nestor's back. He gave a wild shout and leaped up, droping the ax in his panic and raising his hands. As I scrambled up I saw Uncle Ben turn quickly, shout something and then, in his excitement, blast a hole in the barn roof with the shotgun. I stumbled backwards and fell off the edge of the loft.

"You're under arrest," I heard Uncle Ben shout in a high-pitched voice.

It was then that I hit the barn floor, I suppose, for I remember no more.

Situation With Lens Appeal

By the Shutterbug

"A BOY and his dog"—how many times have you read this phrase or seen it pictured in books and magazines? The idea behind it is so universally appealing that it has been used in advertising campaigns for products as diversified as life insurance and linoleum.

In our every-day picture taking, too, children and pets are among the most popular subjects. Someone recently pointed out that more cameras are aimed at kids, canines and cats in one day than at the Grand Canyon in a whole year.

What more could any family want for its album than a happy-go-lucky, youngster-and-dog snapshot like this?

IT'S INTERESTING to note that both youngsters and their favorite animals actually have a great deal in common as subjects. Both of them—whether pictured together or separately—provide plenty of action, can be alternately angelic and aggravating, demand considerable patience on the part of the snapshooter, and view the world from a much lower eye-level than we adults do.

It is by capitalizing on these special characteristics that the picture-taker can succeed in getting really superior snapshots. Shooting kids and their pets is by no means "kid stuff"—but the results are rewarding and make whatever efforts are involved thoroughly worth the little extra time it takes to achieve just the effect you want.

IN MANY CASES, some perfect shots of children and pets we've seen wouldn't have been possible at all unless the picture-taker had come down to their level. Inhibition thrown to the winds—and armed with a few appropriate props like lollipops, balls and biscuits—the snapshooter should be prepared to caper about, laugh and play with his young subjects.

Lively is the word for any child and his pet. So your camera must be ready to catch them "in action"—at precisely the moment when the small youngster and kitten together discover the warmth of an electric blanket, or the tiny pup takes to gnawing on the child's bunny-cared slipper.

To tell your story, don't rely on one shot only—make a series of them.

LONG BEACH CAMERA Guild will have a black and white print contest at 8 p.m. Wednesday in Municipal Art Center, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd.

Winners in the November competitions: Black and white prints, Virginia Wieland, first; Evelyn Richmond, second; Virginia Callender, third; W. J. Thomas, Virginia Callender and Dr. F. W. S. Modern, honorable mention. Color slides: Harold Marosh, first; Virginia Callender, second and third; Evelyn Richmond, Esther Modern, Carl Van Steenbergen and Clara Watkins, honorable mention. Albert Nadeau of Hollywood Camera Club judged the black and white print contest and Charles Schmenger, past president of the YMCA Camera Club, judged the color slide competition.

Casey Stengel Takes It Easy

ager baseball needed him more than I—or California—did."

Casey and Dizzy Dean are past masters in fracturing grammar. Stengel has an edge on Diz, however. He has an amazing knack for sentences that run without benefit of pause or period and eventually end up with such profound conclusions as:

"A club should win in that Brooklyn ball park regardless if it loses."

Many writers have tried, and generally failed, to write down a complete Stengel observation. So, for posterity, on the day I called on him a tape recorder was set up in Casey's den.

He was asked for his reactions on being named the American manager of the year for the fifth time.

HERE IS THE REPLY, which required more tape than we thought it would:

"Well, I'd have to say on this award of the year that naturally the first thing you'd have to say, that is, you should be thankful for the award of that kind and you should be thankful it was not given by one man but by a number of men that are authorities on baseball because they have followed the sport so many years and because it's a voting proposition in which the majority share and therefore that's why you get the selection and feel honored because you have received the selection from the men who voted you the award, which is the writers, the sports writers.

"And the second thing is you got to thank naturally is your ownership for making it possible that they own a ball club and were successful enough to have scouts pick up enough players to make it a very good team.

"And third and last certainly you have got to thank the ball players and the coaches for cooperating great enough to win a pennant and a world championship and naturally that makes the manager more successful, in which no doubt success generally gives you the award although it isn't often you get the award just because you win a pennant or world championship.

"And the fourth thing is you got to be satisfied with yourself that you're doing a good job with the talent entrusted to you."

FOUR YEARS AGO one of the game's all-time greatest, Ty Cobb, said:

"Casey deserves to be in the Hall of Fame. He has shown the greatest ability in successfully manage a ball club and surely deserves credit as the top manager of all time."

Cobb's observation still looks good in 1956.

the recent contest of the Southern California Council of Camera Clubs. Slides taken at the recent convention of the Photographic Society of America at Denver, will be shown under the auspices of El Camino Camera Club at 8 p.m. Monday in Plummer Park, 7373 Santa Monica Blvd.

THE GOLD-PLATED camera has made its appearance, for those who want super-elegant exteriors on their shutterboxes. The German-made Regula 35-mm camera with lever-actuated film advance, coupled rangefinder, double-exposure prevention, and a beautifully gold-plated case, has been introduced into this country by Burleigh Brooks of New York. Lens is a 2.8 Steinheil, 45-mm focal length, and a carrying case designed like a jewel-box can be had, too.

LEITZ OF WETZLAR has just introduced an addition to the Leica family, a new wide angle lens. It is called the Summaron 28-mm, f5.6, and covers an angle of view of 75.4 degrees.

EXERCYCLE Keeps You Slender, Young and Active!

No matter how old you are, or how soft, or fat, or weak you have grown as a result of muscular inactivity, EXERCYCLE can take you in hand and, little by little, make a new person out of you. Within 10 days you'll start feeling younger, looking better and acting livelier. In 30 days you'll awaken a new and refreshed person . . . you'll stand taller, feel lighter, look healthier, eat heartier and sleep more soundly. And you'll feel less jittery, too. For there's nothing that will relax the nerves more naturally and quickly than gentle muscular activity. Soon friends will say: "You look simply great!" And you'll say: "I feel great!"

No Puffing!
No Straining!

Van Gogh Inspired This Table!

By Caroline Coleman

A HOUSEHOLDER'S occasional need of a table in a small space typifies the reason the market for folding card tables is so stable. For more reasons than a game of bridge a housewife finds herself dragging a card table out of the hall closet with weary regularity. It offers itself up willingly as a surface upon which the kids can paste, draw and eat snacks. It makes a fairly stable prop for a typewriter and doubles as a desk over which to strew income tax papers.

But storing it and setting it up is, at best, somewhat of a nuisance. Not so for the Elmo Jenkinses, who have ingeniously devised a way of gaining spur-of-the-moment table tops without the hauling, dragging and pinched-finger routine that often goes with the card table.

MRS. JENKINS' dining area has, in addition to a large dining table surface that stays hidden away in its wall compartment, an eye-deceiving snack table that never gives away the secret of its presence between occasions of use.

This table looks exactly like a wonderful reproduction of a Van Gogh street scene as it hangs against the wall in a handsome, natural-wood, shadow-box frame. And, really, that is exactly what it is — until Mrs. Jenkins decides to convert it into a table. Then the picture, which is mounted on a sturdy thickness of masonite, is unsnapped from its top clip and lowered in much the manner of a wide ironing board. As the picture swings out from the wall to assume the horizontal, the frame swings free from a top hinge, establishing itself as a rectangular "leg" upon which the table is supported.

INSTALLED in the den is a similar device. Here, the picture is of Toby mugs framed in deep shadow-box scallops of pine mounted on a larger rectangle of thick masonite. As the latter is lowered to present a handy work desk, the framed picture swings free to form a prop. Further function is found in the recess behind the masonite top. Shallow shelves, hidden when the table is latched shut, hold pens, pencils, writing paper, checkbooks and all the other small items needed at the average desk. Average? That is hardly the word for the clever brainstorms of the Jenkinses!

Excuse for Party

Tourists in Miami may scurry for home on hearing reports of a possible approaching hurricane, but to old-time residents it's an excuse for a party. An article in the current ASTA Travel News, official publication of the American Society of Travel Agents, reveals that many a Miami hostess holds a hurricane party featuring canned goods, sterno, candles, plenty of Scotch and a battery radio. Added precaution includes a a bathtub of water in case the mains are temporarily shut off.

Shea's Castle--Little-Known

By Jo Hindman

SHEA'S CASTLE, near Lancaster in the Mojave Desert, is a well-known landmark, but mysteriously little is known about the man who built it.

It is said that when the booming 20s were just getting underway, a successful real estate man withdrew from the lands market and invested in a desert domain, an aggregate of homesteads covering 1,369 tawny acres tucked into a spur of west Antelope Valley. The fabulous, many-roomed castle that rose upon the sunbaked earth stands imperishably today, but memory of the slender distinguished-looking Irishman who built it, referred to only as R. P. Shea, is fading into blurry recollection. Legend, too, whispers of Shea's wife, a sad colleen from the Emerald Isle, whose heart finally broke within the walls of the castle seared by the sun-gold blaze of desert floors. She wearied with longing for rainy Irish skies.

Begun in 1924, the castle was completed within two years. Strange was the sight and stranger the tales as stone lodged against stone, raising thick walls and rounding out real towers into the crenelated rock parapets — warlike battlements as genuine as any in the Old Country. Shea, people say, sent an architect to Ireland to gather authentic ideas.

LIKE A PICTURE from a storybook, the towers and battlements clustered on a lonely alluvial desert meadow cause a blink of surprise in today's America.

Oldtimers in the area recall that "everyone worked on the castle," and as the grain and alfalfa fields were being blighted by an arid cycle at the time, the economic lift given to the area by the wages and currency circulated by Shea's enterprise is still remembered gratefully today. Some say it is a replica of Blarney Castle in Ireland. Shea's castle towers are round; Blarney's famous one is square. However, the massive architecture definitely calls to mind the staunch masonry of wild northern Ireland near County Cork. Irish masons came to California to help build it.

NATIVE STONE was quarried on the grounds, hewn into blocks, and used in constructing the castle. The millionaire's passion for authenticity resulted in costly importations: Walnut and cedar for paneling, marble from Italy for fireplaces, inlays of precious woods from Europe for flooring. Beautiful native onyx also was used. Cost was not an item, but perfection was.

The layout includes eight bedrooms, seven bathrooms, six fireplaces, large servants quarters, steam-heated and electrically lighted; hotel-size pantry and kitchen, fountain-cooled courtyard and circular tower rooms. Hand-adzed beams are sunk into stuccoed walls and ceilings, hand-wrought chandeliers are impressive and leafy ironwork frames the dining room archway that leads down three steps into the shag-carpeted main hall that can be warmed by a massive fireplace.

A six-car garage adjoins the main castle building, but reminiscent of feudal splendor is a stone stable, also towered, buttressed and the size of a 10-room house; a dairy, miscellaneous buildings, and two pond-sized, roofed cisterns perched on the hillside to collect water from springs above. The property has 22 live running springs, two of which supply water to the residence.

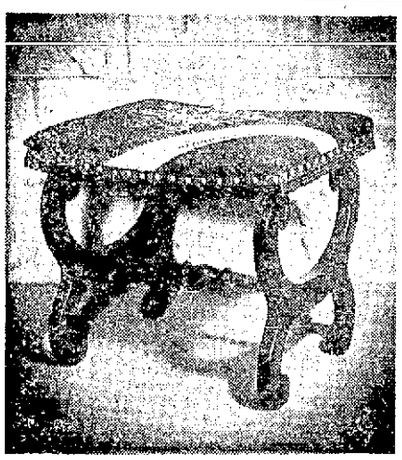

A CHECK DAM, currently dry, once collected the waters of a seven-acre lake as shown on an old geological survey map. The castle lies at 2,847 elevation.

The castle and its grounds are inclosed by 11½ miles of woven wire fencing, seven feet high, stoutly set in concrete and worth $120,000 if duplicated today. A private entry road, graveled and outlined by granite boulders, can be reached by a country dirt road off 140th Ave. about 20 miles west of Lancaster or Palmdale, and is entered beneath an elaborate grillwork flanked by a granite sentry box.

Aerial view of Shea's Castle reveals warlike parapets copied from castles of Ireland. Stable is in upper left center. Castle is in Antelope Valley.

HOW TO Make a Scandinavian Bird in the Christmas Tradition

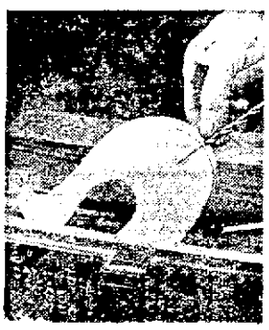

1. A GAY, QUAINT Christmas symbol you can make yourself will become—with passing years—a part of your family's own Christmas tradition.

2. DRAW BIRDS with soft pencil on ½-inch pine ruled into ½-inch squares, as indicated in this photograph. Material can be any soft pine available at your lumberyard, or you can salvage it from old crates, boxes. Wood that shows the least grain is easiest to work with.

3. COPING SAW cuts into soft pine like butter, and follows curves you marked. Keep the blade at right angle to surface so cut edge will be square. If you're making several, tack two pieces of stock together, and cut both at one time. It's faster—and ensures uniformity.

4. DRILL HOLE for doweling leg before you start to round the edges and shape the bird. If you'll mark direction of hole on the side, it will help you guide the drill. Dowel about 3/16 of inch makes right-size leg—and it should be about 2 inches above the little square base.

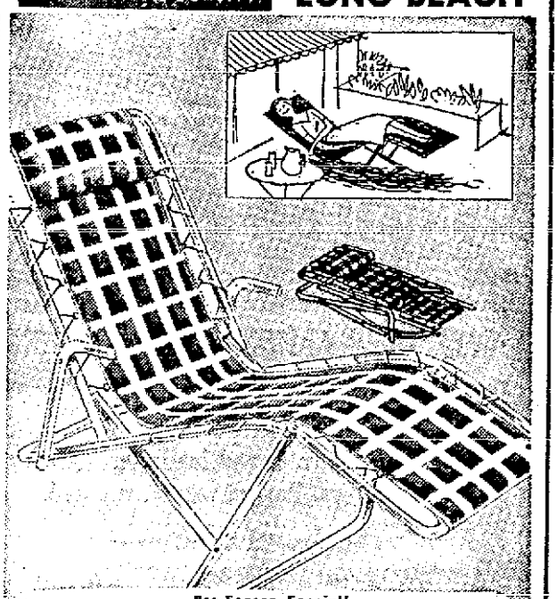

5. SHARP KNIFE or razor blade is your carving tool. Mark lines you'll want to cut for feathers, eye, and take light cuts, following lines. First cuts should be shallow V-grooves. Then deepen them gradually, as you widen and smooth cuts. Watch grain direction, to prevent knife from digging in.

6. PAINTING BIRDS is easy, now that the feathers and tail are carved. The carving helps to guide your brush true, eve if you're a novice. Give bird base color first, 2 coats of white. Then hit-or-miss feathers with yellow, blue, green, or red.

GARDENS

Potted Tulips Are a Challenge

By Bob Gilmore

Tulip bulbs may be potted as late as December in Long Beach area and still be sure of prize-winning blooms.

GROWING potted tulips with 12-inch stems is not an impossibility in Southern California. As a matter of fact, you can force tulips in your own garden and produce blooms as gorgeous as those seen in a florist's shop during spring. Special cultural demands must be met but these are neither complicated nor expensive. Your five-year-old child actually can grow prize-winning tulips in your home.

It is unfortunate that so many Southern Californians blame the weather for their failure to grow prize-winning tulips. The weather, of course, is different from that experienced in Holland, back east or in the Northwest. Yet it is possible to compensate for our lack of cold weather and still obtain top quality results.

Briefly, the way to grow tulips in the open garden in Southern California is to plant them late and deep. These same conditions can be emulated when growing the plants in pots. As a matter of fact, excellent results will be obtained by planting tulips all through December; and while, quite obviously, you cannot plant tulips deep in a pot, yet the benefits of deep planting can be realized by keeping the bulbs in a dark, cool and uniformly moist situation.

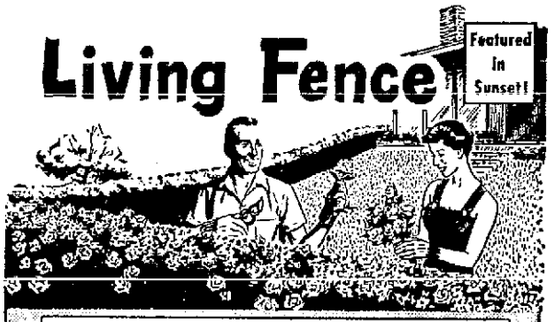

IF THE BULBS have been precooled, they can be planted as late as Christmas and they will flower in April. Bulbs that have not been precooled should go into the soil sometime prior to that time. The reason for this is due to the nature of the tulip bulb. The embryo flower is contained within the bulb. As the weather warms up, this flower bud moves upward in the bulb. By precooling the bulb this bud remains down at the base and that is why deep planting for this area is a sensible procedure as the soil is cooler lower down.

The best size pot is a 7-inch container. You may place from four to five bulbs in this size pot. They should be planted just slightly under the surface and spaced equally apart. The soil should be loose and porous and must not be rich or the bulbs may rot. You must not use any manures in the compost, as the burning may result. Experienced tulip growers in this area usually add a small amount of bone meal to the soil mix. This food will not burn and becomes available slowly. Also, some charcoal may be added for its purifying effect.

CONDITIONS such as result from growing plants under lath are ideal. It is advisable to place on top of the plants a mulch or straw about one inch thick. Two benefits are realized: The mulch keeps out light and also aids in retaining uniform moisture.

One very important cultural demand is that the moisture in the pots be kept uniformly damp. Avoid radical changes from extreme dryness to sogginess, as this definitely will inhibit normal plant growth. The pots should be raised on rocks or boards so that their base will be at least one inch off the surface. Three or four such supports will allow the air to circulate beneath the pots and excess water to escape.

A well balanced plant food may be applied lightly when the flowers are in the bud stage.

For a Green Christmas

For those who associate color with Christmas, about the greenest green is found in succulent jade plant.

By Karen Smith

SOME PEOPLE dream of a white Christmas, but most of us in Southern California think of Christmas as green with perhaps gay red berries or various colored baubles adding highlights here and there.

If Christmas is green to you, and you wish to give someone the greenest-green potted plant you can find, consider Crassula agenica, the succulent jade plant. Such a gift not only is entirely satisfactory for mild climates but it can tolerate neglect. Although a rich sandy loam with good drainage is to its liking, it can thrive in poor soil and hit-or-miss watering.

Pale pink clusters of star-shaped flowers twinkle in the center of leaf rosettes during December, usually in time for the holidays.

The jade plant needs sunshine whether it is a potted plant in a window or growing outdoors in the garden. Some shade, however, appears not to harm it.

IF YOU WISH to transplant the potted plant or a rooted cutting, have the soil dry so it will not pack hard around the fleshy, succulent roots. After it is planted, moisten the soil and keep it gently moist until the plant is established.

The jade plant is easily propagated by cuttings of stems and by leaves. Cuttings should not be planted for a few days after they are taken to give them a chance to form a callus on the cut end. When the protective film has formed, plant in medium moist sand or a mixture of moist sand and soil until the roots form.

Tips on Gardening

GARDENING TIPS for the week . . . It is possible to harden the plants in your garden by gradually diminishing their water supply. This will enable them to get through the winter with a minimum of suffering from the cold.

A mulch of peat will aid in keeping the soil moist during dryness or periods of long-lasting winds. And when it rains this mulch will prevent puddling on the surface. It will also reduce the caking over of the surface.

Berried shrubs such as pyracanthas and cotoneasters will guarantee color in your garden during the winter months. The bright toned berries will prove as attractive indoors for floral decorations as in the outdoor garden.

By Dorothy Jonson

Don't prune roses in December. This is too early and, too early pruning is a common mistake among novices.

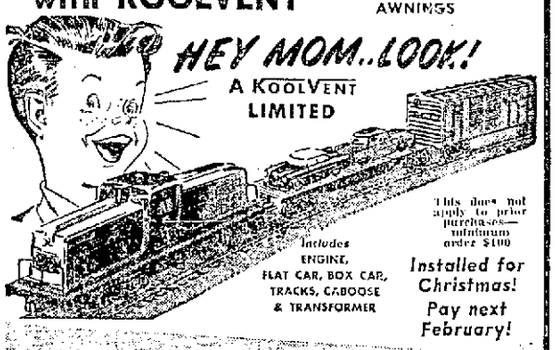

Clean roses and this applies to all plants, of course, that grow in a healthy soil, will withstand a great deal of insect infestation and plant diseases. So, if you haven't as yet given your roses a fall cleanup spray with a lime-sulphur-oil emulsion, you may still have time to do it, since December is usually a mild month here in California. By doing this, you will prevent a great deal of insect life from overwintering in your roses and on the surface of the soil.

Exclusive Franchise — Protected Territory

Revolutionary New Lawn and Garden Machine Services Lawns, Gardens, Shrubs, Trees, For As Little As $1.75 Weekly!

★ Kills Crabgrass, Weeds, Bermuda (If Unwanted)—Fertilizes and Seeds Lawns—Destroys Lawn Moths, Chinch Bugs, Over 200 Other Insects & Pests New "Hydra-matic" Way.

★ Root Feeds and Treats Valuable Shrubs and Trees—Saves Many That Were Lost Before.

NOW YOU CAN really keep lawns rich and green—free of weeds, crabgrass, and Bermuda (where Bermuda isn't wanted)—keep trees and shrubs strong and stately—keep lawns and gardens insect and pest-free—for home-owners who hate those endless, nasty chores. And you can service many schools, parks, and golf courses—apartments, factories, and commercial buildings—better and cheaper than they can themselves!

We Train You! No Experience Necessary!

Proven General Spray Service System makes big money and lots of friends from the start. Experts teach and help you. You enjoy light, easy work—long vacations if you like them—and complete freedom from price-cutting in this virgin field.

Unlimited Opportunity

This entirely new and unexploited business offers unlimited opportunity to expand. As little as $1695 down buys one set of equipment—including a brand-new 1957 Chevrolet truck with special body, painted, lettered with your name and ready to go—on our General Motors (GMAC) easy-payment plan. With this equipment you can gross over $30,000 yearly. TAKE HOME up to ½, or more. But one set of equipment is needed for every 150 customers. That means additional sets of equipment on easy GMAC terms can multiply your earnings to suit your ambition—put you workers in the $25,000-$50,000 yearly earnings class, or more if they want to go that far!

You can even start on a special, "no-cash" plan—receive ½ of your service equipment's total income!

So why not make BIG money—be SAFE from the ups and downs and layoffs of big companies—be SECURE against automatic retirement and inadequate old-age retirement plans?

Profits Guaranteed

Operating coast-to-coast, General Spray is the ONLY nation-wide lawn and garden spray service. Rugged, precision-made equipment (PATENTS PEND'G) is thoroughly proven. These revolutionary machines will make over a BILLION SQ. FT. of service applications in 1957! Equipment so foolproof it is financed by one of America's largest corporations. Service results so dependable they are backed by one of America's largest insurance companies. General Spray GUARANTEES you must be satisfied with this business and your profits from it or we buy back this equipment!

Start NOW while the best territories are still available. Only 1 franchise granted per town or territory. We supply all advertising, show you how to sell, operate, and earn even bigger profits than we promise. If you want an amazingly easy, pleasant, out-of-door, automatic-repeat business with satisfaction and success guaranteed, Write TODAY!

PAUL HOOVER

Seven of 'Em

AFTER SLAVING all week over a hot Wedgewood or O'Keefe & Merritt, Mom can hardly be blamed if she wistfully asks Pop for a rest on Sunday morning.

If Pop is alert, kind and thoughtful (as all fathers and husbands should be on Sunday morning) he'll pop Mom and the rest of the family into the car and whisk 'em off to Paul's of Lakewood restaurant, Bellflower Blvd. at Carson St.

Everybody will be delighted because Paul's serves all kinds of wonderful Sunday breakfasts from 7 a. m. to 1 p. m. in both the coffee shop and large dining room.

Owner Paul Hoover's breakfast specialty is little thin hotcakes served a la carte for 35 cents. Each patron gets seven of the little beauties, plus maple syrup and melted butter in individual containers. The hotcakes go particularly well with another of Paul's specialties — his famed homemade sausage patty, which is 40 cents a la carte.

* * * *

TWO OTHER interesting breakfasts are the Truck Driver's bonanza for $1.90 and Southern fried cornmeal mush for 75 cents. The big Truck Driver breakfast consists of a steak or pork chop, two fried eggs, potatoes, toast, jam and choice of beverage. The fried mush is accompanied by a patty of sausage. In addition, the restaurant offers five complete Club Breakfasts, ranging in price from 45 cents to $1.10.

All of these breakfasts are served daily from 7 a. m. on in the coffee shop. Sunday morning, however, is the only time they are served in the dining room.

Another item of special interest to Mom (and Dad, too) are the Wednesday luncheon fashion shows at Paul's. Staged by lovely models from the Long Beach Fashion Guild, the shows start at 12:30 p. m. The models, displaying new winter and spring styles, stroll through the Stag Room, dining room and coffee shop. Regular luncheon prices prevail, starting at $1.

LAKEWOOD

This is Christmas Catalogue No. 2

SHOP 9:30 TO 9:30 DAILY UNTIL CHRISTMAS

CHRISTMAS . . .

the very name conjures up visions of delight . . . the glittering tree and the bulging stocking, the reverent voices of carollers, the shining eyes of children. Among its wonders, too, are the love of family and the affection of friends as expressed in the giving of gifts.

For millions of Southlanders, May Co.—with the greatest gift selection in the West—is, of course, the Christmas store . . . a whole wide, wonderful world of gifts for all.

If you're an arm chair shopper, you'll find this Catalogue No. 2 (together with Catalogue No. 1, of last week) all you'll need to do your purchasing easily and quickly by mail or telephone.

If you'd rather browse in person among the thousands of gifts we've carefully selected, do come to one of our five big stores—Downtown, Wilshire, Crenshaw, Lakewood, Valley—where you'll find a most heartwarming Christmas-y welcome!

SUGGESTS THE FASTEST, CLEANEST SHAVE YOU'VE EVER HAD!

DEFINITELY DIFFERENT!

DEFINITELY WONDERFUL!

Norelco WITH ROTARY BLADES

Other shavers operate on the principle that your beard grows like a row of corn — like this

Only NORELCO shaves according to your beard's pattern — like this

- Catches every whisker — long or short — no matter which way it grows
- 12 self-sharpening blades — can't nick or irritate the face
- Fits the hand — extra quiet — lubricated for life
- FASTER — two rotating heads clip every whisker at its base
- CLOSER — sharp as a straight razor, with every modern safety feature
- SMOOTHER — no break-in required. No beard-pull, no sting.
- Stubble or 3-day beard — NORELCO'S shave is the greatest!

Man! What A Difference!

GIVE HIM THE FASTEST CLEANEST SHAVE A MAN EVER HAD!

COLUMBIA'S Hewitt is tackled by Dartmouth's line after hitting left side for six.

I'll always remember . . .

The team that ran the wrong way

by LOU LITTLE

I have seen many spectacular things happen on football fields — including our famous KF-79 play that beat Stanford, 7-0, in the 1934 Rose Bowl. But I don't think any game impressed me more than one we played against Dartmouth in 1931.

We had been shellacked by Dartmouth the previous year, 52 to 0. There was no mystery about why, either. The left side of the Indians' line, led by a fearfully big tackle named Hank Barber, had ruined us on both offense and defense. Since we were to play pretty much the same Dartmouth team the next fall, I mapped a simple strategy. We would run most of our plays against the right side of the Dartmouth line, thus steering clear of the devastating Barber.

The week before the game, we practiced running to the right side till my halfbacks, Cliff Montgomery and Ralph Hewitt, had their assignments down pat. Right from the opening kickoff, we slammed through the Dartmouth line for big yardage. At half time we were two touchdowns ahead.

But as we filed out for the second half, Hewitt took me aside. "Coach," he said, "I just realized something. We've been running our plays the wrong way — to their left instead of the right!"

I was stunned. Like the rest of the team, I just hadn't noticed it in all the excitement.

"Well, do as we planned," I told him. "Start running to their right."

The team did — but with astonishing results. Instead of picking up five or six yards a try as we'd done in the first half, we could barely get a yard.

Finally, in desperation, we switched back to running against their left, the side of the line that had killed us the year before. Immediately we started rolling again. The final score was 19-6.

Later I realized what had happened. When our boys ran against Barber and the left side, they ran hard, for we were out to avenge the previous year's beating at their hands. We lacked this drive against the right side, and so we didn't make yards. It taught me a valuable lesson. The greatest plans of the most talented people won't work if they lack two basic ingredients — aggressiveness and enthusiasm.

The author, retiring after 26 years as football coach at Columbia University, is regarded as more than a teacher of football. He is, say players, a great teacher of life. Here he tells about a moment that taught him something about life.

JAPANESE GENERAL Minoru Genda, Pearl Harbor planner, talks with PARADE's Shearer.

An anniversary—and an unusual report

This Friday marks the 15th anniversary of one of the most appalling sneak attacks in history—the Japanese bombing of Pearl Harbor, key U. S. base in the Pacific. The war thus unleashed ended in total defeat for the attackers and, ironically, a U. S. effort to turn our former bitter enemies into allies and friends.

How well has this effort succeeded? How do the Japanese feel about America today? How are U.S.-Japanese relations affected by the ever-present threat of Communism and the recent Russian-Japanese peace declaration?

To get the answers at this dramatic moment in history, PARADE's Editor Jess Gorkin and West Coast Correspondent Lloyd Shearer have just visited Japan. They interviewed for the first time the officer who planned the Pearl Harbor attack, talked with Japanese of high and low degree, questioned top U. S. military men.

PARADE believes the resulting Special Report will be called one of 1956's journalistic coups. You can read it today, starting on page 8. Read it with one thought in mind — there must never be another Pearl Harbor!

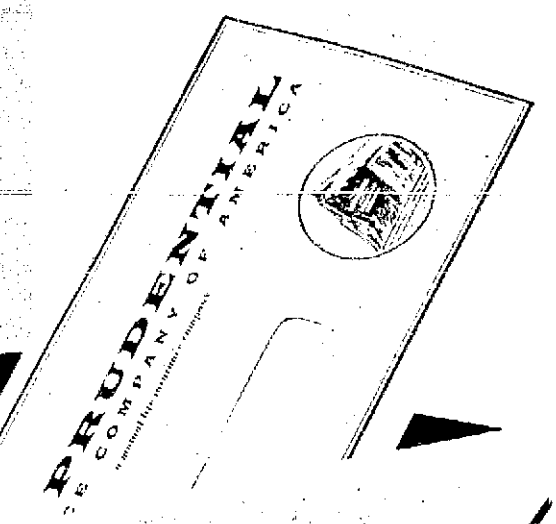

U. S. GENERAL Laurence Kuter, Far East Air Force head, poses with PARADE's Gorkin.

The sleek 1957 cars due to be unveiled here Saturday at the first National Automobile Show in 16 years represent some of the most advanced ideas of America's leading car designers. Many of them also reflect, in some degree, the ideas of teen-age boys vying in the Fisher Body Craftsman's Guild model-building competition.

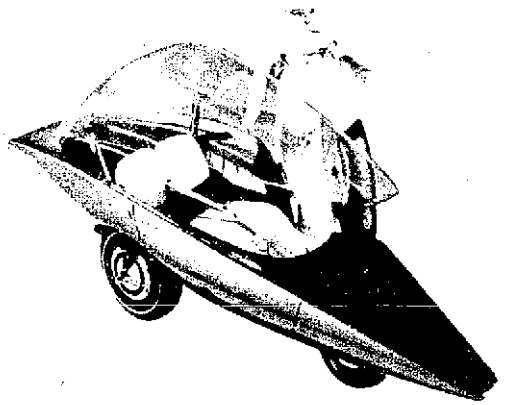

A number of entrants during the contest's 26-year history became professional designers. In fact, out of about 100 creative stylists at General Motors today, 35 once participated in the competitions. This year's competition produced a "preview" of what cars may be like in the future, along with $43,000 in university scholarships for the winners. Some 1956 dream cars are pictured here. How to choose toys

News: Baby dinners in a jar!

Facts About Late-Talking Babies

IF your baby's a slow-poke about talking, how can you help? First of all: Don't worry. Do you know late-talkers are sometimes extra-bright babies? Maybe your little one isn't bothering to talk because he's too busy learning to walk, or feed himself. He may start to talk, then stop while he learns a new skill. One thing at a time is his motto!

● You can help your baby talk by talking to him—using simple words in an easy-going way. As he eats, chat about baby's spoon. Good meat. Nice peas. When he tries to copycat your words, encourage him—but don't be eager. Tension can slow down talking. Another tip: Let baby ask for what he wants. If he gets everything by pointing or squealing, he may decide "Why talk?"

● To keep baby on friendly terms with his playpen, lift him out before—not after—he gets fussy-mad at it.

● "Cocktails" for baby? Yes, a tasty new fruit cocktail is now offered the nursery crowd by Heinz. And what a treat it is! Look for Heinz Mixed Fruit Dessert, either strained or junior.

● Safety is your first concern for baby's first Christmas tree (and all those to follow!) Check for: A fireproofed tree, a sturdy non-tip stand, tree lights and electric sockets in good condition, no lead foil or cellophane icicles and no breakable ornaments on low branches—baby might be tempted to find out whether they taste as good as they look!

● Keep your camera ready to snap pictures of baby's first starry-eyed Christmas—especially as he first spies that tree. Get a few shots of him playing with gift toys from the Grandma who couldn't come for Christmas; will she be pleased!

● Memo to Santa: Please bring toys that suit baby's age and stage of development. The right play tools help him learn skills—and have fun too. 1-to-3 month-olds like tinkling toys to listen to; bright hanging or floating toys to look at. From 4 to 6 months: toys to reach for, hold, bite on. 6 months to a year: lively toys to bang, push, take apart. And soft toys to cuddle.

● Your baby's fast-growing body soon uses up his "built-in" iron supply. Milk lacks iron, so the doctor adds iron-rich foods such as Heinz Strained Egg Yolk—a baby favorite. More than three creamy-textured yolks in each jar. Ready to warm—with or without milk—and serve.

● Do you know about Heinz tasty Strained and Junior Dinners? Baby's convenient new "miniature" meals are made of fine quality meats and vegetables, carefully balanced for nutrition and flavor. Treat your tot to Heinz Vegetables and Beef; Vegetables and Bacon; Vegetables and Lamb; Macaroni, Tomatoes, Beef and Bacon; Split Peas, Vegetables and Bacon; or to this brand new dinner which only Heinz fixes: Vegetables, Egg Noodles and Chicken. All come in glass jars to keep their better Heinz flavor, color and texture extra tempting and good.

15 years after Pearl Harbor

PARADE INTERVIEWS THE MAN WHO PLANNED THE SNEAK ATTACK

AMERICAN BATTLESHIP, the U.S.S. California, is seen slowly sinking after Japanese bombs caught her off guard.

JAPANESE PLANNER, Lt. Gen. Minoru Genda, recalls the days when he conceived a body blow at the unprepared U.S.

NO ONE old enough to remember December 7, 1941, ever will forget what happened that day. The surprise Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, America's mid-Pacific bastion, rocked this nation to its heels and touched off nearly four years of all-out war. Now, 15 years later, PARADE Editor Jess Gorkin and West Coast Correspondent Lloyd Shearer have visited Japan for a close-up look at the man who planned the Pearl Harbor attack and the Japan that emerged from its aftermath. Here is their exclusive report.

"IF THEY ONLY had listened to me," Lt. Gen. Minoru Genda says, "we would have invaded Hawaii. After the attack on Pearl Harbor and the other Oahu installations, we could have taken Honolulu pretty easily.

"This would have deprived the American Navy of its best island base in the Pacific. It would have cut the lifeline to Australia, and that country might have fallen to us like a ripe plum.

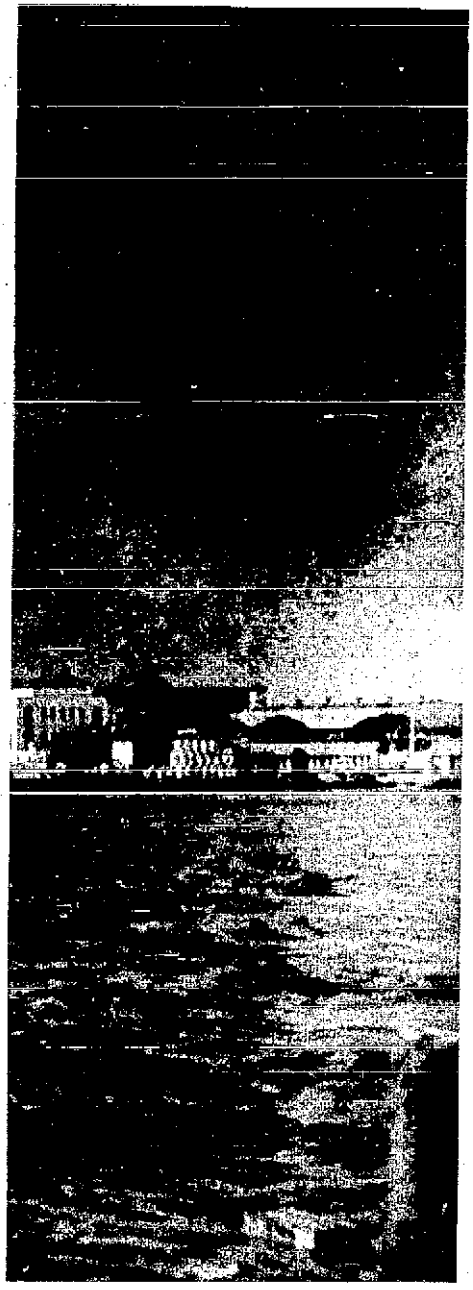

"I also was in favor of bombing the American aircraft factories and oil refineries on the California coast. In December of 1941 we could have bombed San Diego, Long Beach, Portland and Seattle without much opposition. I even suggested that we occupy California.

"With these victories won by the Japanese navy, our diplomats could have tried to work out an advantageous peace settlement."

So says the Japanese officer who planned the attack on Pearl Harbor — an attack that came nearer to crippling America than most of us ever knew. What manner of man conceived it?

Minoru Genda is short (5'2"), lean (120 lbs.), soft-spoken — and dimpled. In 1941 he was considered one of the most brilliant air tacticians in the Japanese navy. A lieutenant commander by rank, he also was a pilot of great skill and daring. Japanese referred to him and his colleagues as "Genda's Flying Circus."

An honor graduate of the Japanese Naval War College, a naval attache in London for two years, Genda originated (early in the Sino-Japanese War) mass employment of fighters to control the air in which friendly bombers were to operate. He was one of the first to advocate the employment of several carrier task forces for a single tactical operation (such as the assault on Hawaii). Before

Japan attacked the U.S., he predicted that aircraft carriers rather than battleships would decide the eventual victor.

Today, at 52, General Genda is in charge of Japan's new self-defense air force operations. As such he is regarded as a warm friend of the U.S. He flies one of our F-86F jet fighters, works hand-in-hand with our Air Force brass, is privy to many of our war plans should the Russians or the Chinese Communists move against Japan.

Recently, as we sat in Genda's office at Johnson Air Base outside of Tokyo, he spoke matter-of-factly of those fateful days 15 years ago. Nattily dressed in Air Force blues, he was polite, his manner friendly, his voice soft, his attitude that of the professional soldier.

"In 1941," Genda began, "our navy war-planners had two different principal strategies. The naval general staff, with Admiral Nagano as spokesman, advocated a bold thrust southward to the Dutch East Indies. The objective was the capture of vital oil areas — without which our navy could not operate for very long — before the U.S. Pacific Fleet at Pearl Harbor could interfere. Once it steamed out to sea, we would try to destroy it.

"The second plan was originated by Adm. Isoroku Yamamoto, commander-in-chief of our combined fleet. Yamamoto maintained that the Japanese navy should not invade southward without first immobilizing the U.S. Pacific Fleet. He feared attack in the Western Pacific before we could consolidate our gains. He suggested that we cripple the U.S. Pacific Fleet in a surprise attack while we simultaneously launched the southern offensive.

"He discussed the idea with Rear Adm. Takijiro Onishi, who assigned the Pearl Harbor project to me. He asked me: Was a surprise attack feasible?

"After weeks of study and research, I made my report. I said that a successful attack on Hawaii was very possible if we employed planes from all six of the 1st Air Fleet's carriers. This meant an attacking force of more than 300 planes.

"I suggested that we attack Pearl Harbor on a Sunday morning to gain maximum surprise. If the attack went well, I advocated that we land troops on the island of Oahu. We should then proceed to the California coast and spread demoralization by bombing installations there."

Once Genda had handed in his report, he sat back to wait while his superiors debated the plan. For the most part, the naval general staff was against it. Too much of a gamble, they said. Genda's own admiral, Chuichi Nagano, whose 1st Air Fleet would play the leading role in the Pearl Harbor attack, also opposed the plan.

But Admiral Yamamoto insisted that the U.S. Pacific Fleet was Japan's strongest foe and must be destroyed first. When the general staff still disagreed, Yamamoto threatened to resign. In the end he was given his way.

The Attackers Form Ranks

"On November 3, 1941," Genda recalls, "Admiral Nagumo and Admiral Yamamoto met in Tokyo and approved the Pearl Harbor attack in the event of war.

"Our naval fliers then began rehearsing their target runs over Kyushu, where the terrain somewhat resembles the land surrounding Pearl Harbor.

"On November 26 our task force, 31 ships in all, moved out of Tankan Bay in the Kurile Islands and headed for a pre-arranged stand-off point. Here, once and for all, we were to be told whether or not we were going to war against the United States.

"On December 1 we were told it was war.

"Well briefed by our intelligence, well prepared by our practice, fired-up with great fighting spirit, our fleet steamed full speed ahead. Then, five hours before we reached the location where our fliers were scheduled to take off, 200 miles north of Pearl Harbor, we received a most disturbing intelligence report from Headquarters.

"Our top-priority targets, the American aircraft carriers, were not at Pearl Harbor. Neither were most of your heavy cruisers. There were plenty of other ships, but I was keenly disappointed. I knew that your carriers would become the most important ships in the war. Having no alternative, we continued on course.

"At 6 a.m. on the morning of December 7, our carriers turned into the wind. Mitsuo Fuchida, senior air wing commander, led the first wave of 183 planes to Pearl Harbor. These planes consisted of dive bombers, level bombers, fighters and torpedo planes. It took them one hour and 49 minutes to reach their objectives. The first bombs were dropped on Wheeler Field to prevent fighter opposition. Dive bombers then attacked Hickam Field and Ford Island. Success was immediate. All eight battleships moored at Ford Island were hit. Planes at Hickam, Wheeler and Ewa were shot up on the ground.

"At 8:54 our second wave, 170 planes, arrived over Oahu to finish the kill. By 1 o'clock that afternoon all the surviving aircraft were safely aboard our carriers. We had lost only 29 planes and 55 men. We had sunk or damaged practically the entire battleship strength of the U.S. Pacific Fleet, inflicted approximately 3,500 casualties on service personnel, destroyed dozens of planes.

"Most important, we had achieved our objective in destroying a major part of the U.S. Pacific Fleet and thereby preventing that fleet from interfering with our operations in southern Asia. We didn't seize Hawaiian territory because we didn't have any army soldiers to occupy the territory. The army was saving its men for war against Russia.

"One of the big mistakes in the Pearl Harbor attack was our failure to bomb exposed oil storage tanks. If we had blown up the fuel as well as the ships, we would have rendered Pearl Harbor useless for a longer period of time.

FRIENDS TODAY: USAF Capt. Frank Sloan, WAF Capt. Mary Griffin, Japanese Lt. Taeko Fujii and General Genda.

"After the Pearl Harbor attack I felt more than ever that we had to seek out the American aircraft carriers and sink them. I was in favor of heading for California or Midway. But our tankers had already withdrawn to a designated refueling position on the way home and we had to rendezvous with them.

"Six months later at Midway, after your intelligence had intercepted and decoded all our recent messages and plans, your carrier planes sank our four largest carriers.

"From that point on, practically all of us saw the handwriting on the wall. Later in the war, when your B-29's began bombing Japan from the Marianas, you repaid us for the attack on Pearl Harbor a thousand-fold.

"One night in March 1945, I remember your General LeMay sent more than 300 B-29's to bomb Tokyo from an altitude of 7,000 feet. Each plane dropped at least six tons of jelly gasoline fire bombs on the city, burning out 16½ square miles and killing or wounding anywhere from 100,000 to 300,000 people.

"That was only one night," concludes the man whose plan touched it all off, "when many of us wished we had never heard of Pearl Harbor."

Why we're teaching the

JAPANESE TO FIGHT AGAIN

JUST GRADUATED, these Japanese pilots beam over their new rank. By 1961 the Japanese self-defense air force is expected to have 30 complete squadrons.

strength of the new Japanese air force.

TYPICAL of the change in Japan's air setup is Maj. Shiro Kono, today a U.S.-taught jet pilot (top). As a World War II fighter pilot (below), he downed two of our Navy planes, possibly one B-29.

The bitter and bloody Pacific half of World War II lasted almost four years. In it America suffered 170,596 casualties to the most fanatical, tenacious enemy we ever fought.

Today, that enemy has become our friend and ally — we hope.

All over Japan we are training yesterday's hated foe to fly American jets, fire American guns, man American ships, operate American radar. We are teaching them to speak English, employ our technical terms, wear uniforms almost identical with ours. To their industrialists we are turning over plans and specifications for the construction of our latest fighters.

U.S. airmen work side by side with Japanese pilots — often the same men who swore they would die before they allowed Americans to invade their homeland. In Chitose on Hokkaido, only 23 jet seconds away from Russian air bases in the Kuriles, American and Japanese follow together on radar screens the flights of Soviet MIG-17's.

The American taxpayer, of course, pays for it all. Is it worth it? Our military planners say yes. For in any war against the Reds — Russian, Chinese or both — we want Japan on our side.

Might the Communists invade Japan? Listen to Gen. Laurence Kuter, commander of our Air Force in the Far East and one of the most astute thinkers among all the Air Force brass. He says,

"We know the Communists always have had three objectives in the Far East: 1) to take over and control the vast manpower of China, some 473 million people, 2) to control the resources and raw materials of Southeast Asia and 3) to control the industrial productivity of Japan and its trained workers.

"In China they've met with complete success; in Southeastern Asia, with limited success; in Japan, with no success. And that's because we've been here loaded for bear.

"What we're trying to do," Kuter continues, "is teach the Japanese people to defend themselves. We're training Japanese pilots to replace ours. We're developing Japanese air defenses so we can withdraw ours.

"To the Communists, Japan represents the richest prize in the Far East. To us it represents the strongest anchor in the Pacific community of free nations. To make it possible for Japan, after 10 years of vacuum in air power, to defend herself and maintain an anchor in the West, we're extending ourselves to develop the highest order of defensive air strength that the Japanese economy can eventually sustain.

"By 1961 the Japanese will have 30 complete air squadrons."

To the average Japanese white-collar worker who labors 16 hours a day for

A secret about your income that's getting around

It's no longer news that you're finding it harder to make your income do all the things you want it to do – because prices have been inching (sometimes bounding) up.

But lots of people have discovered they have been able to make their incomes climb, too. Just in case you don't know how they do it, here is the answer, in five parts:

First . . . You decide you'd like to get income from more businesses than the one you work in. You begin by making sure you've got some money left over after emergencies are provided for. Then consider investing your extra money in common stocks on the New York Stock Exchange. And don't think you have to be rich. Two out of three people who own common stock have incomes under $7500 a year.

Second . . . Remember that when you own stock you're part-owner of the company. If it grows and prospers you can grow and prosper with it – through increased income from dividends paid on your stock and increase in the value of your investment. This is how your income may keep pace with a rising cost of living.

Third . . . Some companies don't prosper or pay dividends. That's why it's important not to depend on tips or rumors but to get the facts before you invest your hard-earned money. The truth is, though, that last year nine out of ten stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange paid dividends and more than 300 of them have paid dividends every year from 25 to 108 years.

Fourth . . . Take your first step by reading our wonderfully useful little booklet "DIVIDENDS OVER THE YEARS," which lists those stocks with long dividend records, grouping them to show which ones have paid progressively higher dividends over the last ten years . . . which pay 5 to 6 per cent at recent prices . . . which companies have high earnings in relation to dividends paid (sometimes a sign of a "growth" stock) . . . and other valuable information.

Fifth . . . Get acquainted with the nearest Member Firm of the New York Stock Exchange. You'll get a cordial welcome and have an interesting experience. They'll give you advice and help you get facts you want about the kind of securities – stocks or bonds – that seem best suited to your pocketbook and needs. Ask them about the Monthly Investment Plan that enables you to buy stocks in America's greatest companies for as little as $40 every three months. And ask for your copy of "DIVIDENDS OVER THE YEARS." Or send the coupon. Plan to keep your income moving forward.

A-bomb survivors offer a new look at what we did to Hiroshima

$35 a month, such statements as this last are either double-talk or propaganda.

"You Americans are very confusing." So runs a typical civilian reaction. "Your General MacArthur comes here after the war and gives us a new Constitution. Many of us are not in favor of it, but the Japanese Diet passes it and we accept it. It specifically says Japan will never raise an army, navy or air force.

"Three years later the Korean War breaks out, and a Police Reserve of 75,000 men is organized to take the place of the American soldiers who were sent to Koren. Soon, the Police Reserve is equipped with tanks and guns and a new name — National Security Force. In 1954 the Government changes the name again, this time to Defense Force. It consists of three services: land, sea and air.

"Another thing. You tell us that Communists are evil, that they are against Christianity, individualism, freedom of speech and so forth. Most Japanese are not Christians, and we never had these democratic rights.

"It is too much to expect us to think the same way you Americans do."

The average Japanese is deeply anti-militarist, and with good reason. He has not forgotten that a tyrannical military clique led him into an utterly disastrous war against the U.S. Our bombs reduced Japan to a land of cinder-choked funeral pyres; we literally burned to the ground 90 different cities. Our armed forces killed or wounded approximately 6 million Japanese.

Yet in July, 1945, Japanese newspapers carried the militarists' claim that Japan lay on the threshold of its greatest victory. "The war is proceeding just as our leaders planned it," one journal reported. "The Americans have massed their men and ships off Okinawa. Soon they will try to invade Japan. But our soldiers, sailors and airmen are ready. We will drive them into the sea."

Five days later we exploded a single atomic bomb approximately 500 yards above Hiroshima.

The official casualty figures say the bomb killed 78,150

PEACE MONUMENT in Hiroshima is a shrine for many today. Damaged museum in background is an atom-blast reminder.

MINISTER Kiyoshi Tanimoto of Hiroshima's United Church of Christ describes the horror that A-bomb attack caused.

11-YEAR-OLD Hiroko Tomita, born 25 minutes before the bomb fell on Hiroshima, talks to PARADE's Lloyd Shearer.

DOCTOR Fumio Shigeto displays his scrapbook. In it is fogged X-ray film that told him the bomb's true nature.

persons and injured 37,425 of the city's approximately 345,000 population. Everyone we interviewed who was there at the time calls this a gross underestimate.

Says Kiyoshi Tanimoto, Reverend of the Nagaregawa United Church of Christ and one of the central characters in John Hersey's famous book, Hiroshima: "We lied about the number of survivors. We told the authorities there were more than there really were. We did this because we wanted to get more first-aid supplies, more help, more relief. My own calculation is that at least 250,000 people were killed by the atomic bomb."

Dr. Fumio Shigeto, currently director of the Hiroshima Red Cross Hospital, estimates the number of dead at 200,000. Dr. Shigeto, incidentally, was the first man in Japan to realize that the bomb was atomic.

"Our hospital was one of the few buildings left standing," he told us. "The wounded and dying crawled and staggered in by the hundreds. As hospital radiologist, I raced down to the cellar for film to X-ray some of the victims. When I took the film out of the case, I noticed that every sheet was fogged. I knew then that the bomb was radioactive."

Typically, the Japanese do not feel that there was anything unethical or particularly sinful in our exploding atomic bombs over Hiroshima and Nagasaki. "It was total war," they say. "In total war, anything goes."

After the Japanese surrender, we set up the Atomic Bomb Casualty Commission in Hiroshima to study the effects of our two A-bombs on the survivors. It now is a joint Japanese-American organization. Its doctors have examined more than 40,000 adult survivors and close to 75,000 children. Dr. Robert Holmes, its director, has drawn three conclusions concerning the effects of radiation on adults: It did not cause permanent sterility. There was a "significant increase" in the incidence of leukemia (though total cases numbered only 105). And eye cataracts "probably due to radiation" increased; these are small and affect vision only slightly.

Add Drs. William Schull and James Neel, "There are no really clear indications that radiation history of parents has affected characteristics of their children."

We talked to an 11 year-old girl, Hiroko Tomita, who was born 25 minutes before the bomb was dropped. Hiroko told us that she was the only child living of the three who had been born in Hiroshima that day.

"I've been examined three times," she said, "and the doctors say my health is perfect. My mother, however, had radiation sickness after the bombing — you know, hair falls out, vomiting, and she is still weak all the time.

"It is very kind of Americans to interest themselves in us. I wonder if we would do the same for you. I have asked my mother, and she says she does not know. 'All I know,' she says, 'is that the American Occupation has been very good for the women of Japan.' "

COMMUNIST DEMONSTRATOR — one of 800 who recently tried to stop a survey for a new air-base landing strip near Tokyo — is collared by police. Now that Japan and Russia have signed a peace declaration, Japanese Reds are stepping up their activities among workers and college students.

Actually, American troops no longer occupy Japan. The Japanese Peace Treaty, signed September 8, 1951, officially ended the Occupation. The U.S. Army has one under-strength division here, the 1st Cavalry, now down to 5,000 men. The Marines have another 5,000, and the Air Force and Navy probably 90,000 between them. These forces are stationed here under a mutual defense agreement.

There is no doubt, however, that the present improved position of Japanese women is the result of the American Occupation. General MacArthur freed them from near-slavery in 1945 by giving them the right to vote. They soon voted 39 members of their sex into the lower house of the Diet, won 985 state offices, joined some 30,000 municipal boards and took over 41 per cent of all the jobs in Japan.

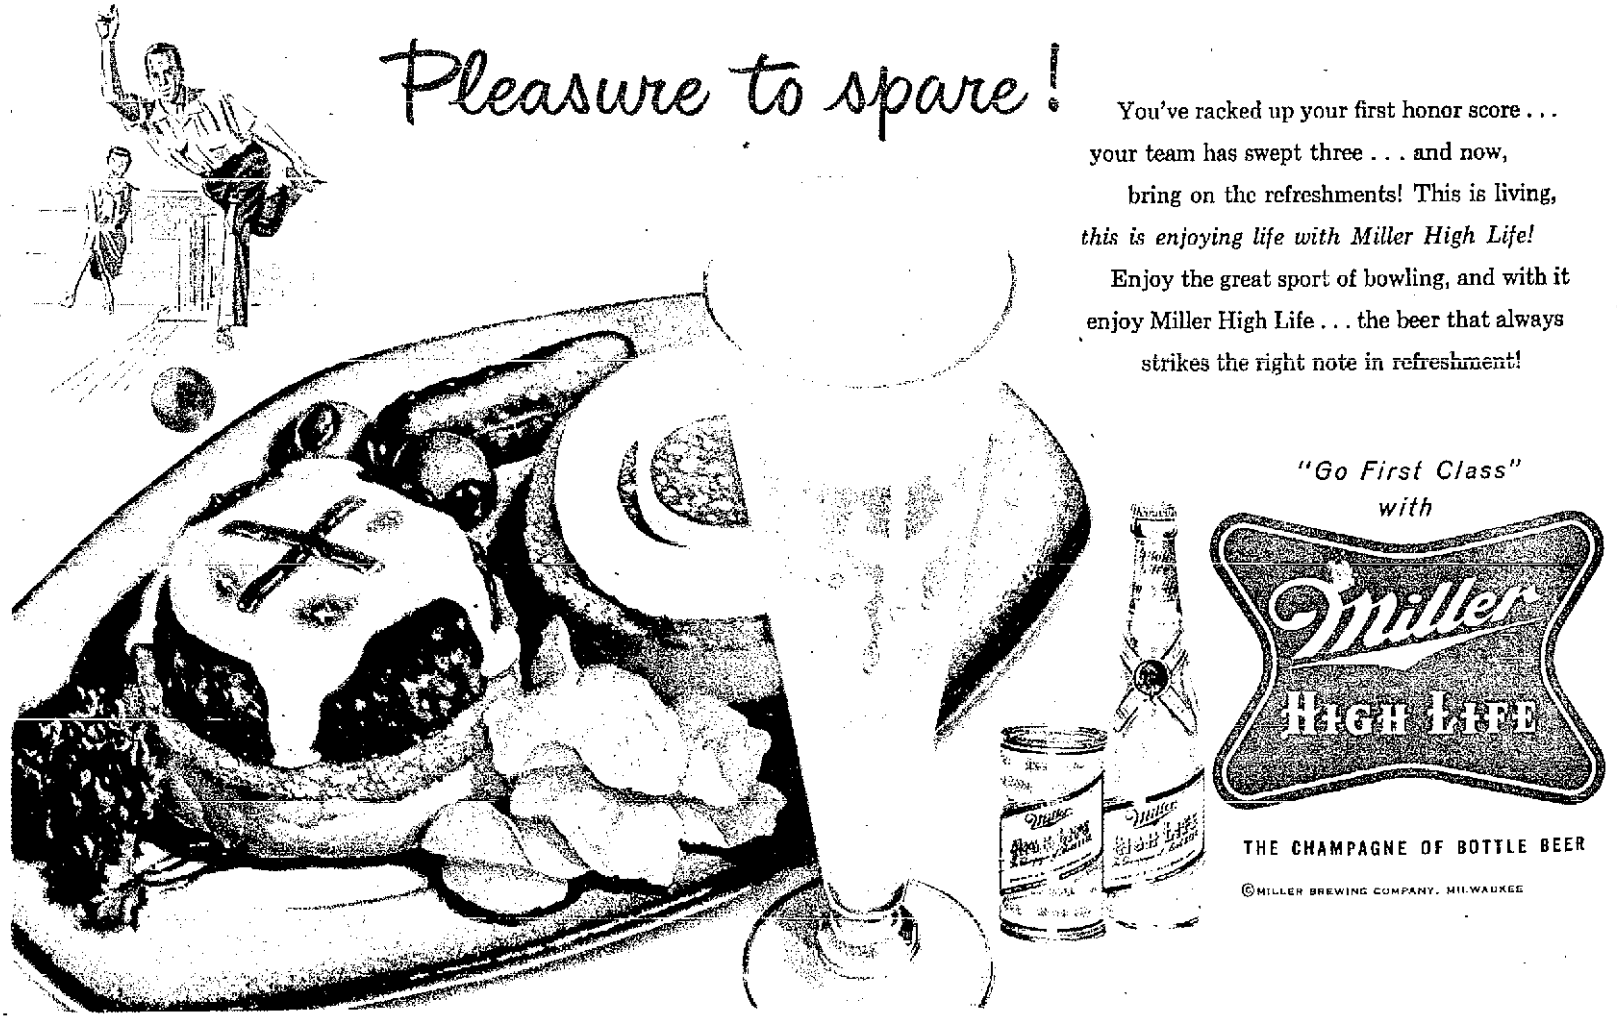

Today, the Japanese city girl of 19 has given up her traditional kimono for Western dress. She attends a co-educational college. She believes in marrying a man of her own choice instead of being sold into marriage via parental agreement. She is empowered to sue for divorce.

She is against the continuation of Geisha schools, where young Japanese girls are trained to amuse and entertain men. She is powerful enough to compel the Japanese Association of Brothel-Owners to close down their palaces of legalized prostitution by 1957.

Mrs. Japan of 1956 is determined to do her own thinking and to demand far more rights than were ever granted her in the past. In Tokyo, Osaka, Kyoto and other large cities, it is commonplace today for Japanese women to accompany their husbands to cocktail parties and other social gatherings. Prior to World War II such behavior for women was unthinkable.

Of the seven major reforms instituted by the American Occupation, it is the considered opinion of Far East experts that the only lasting one in Japan will be the enfranchisement and freedom of women. Here are the other six, all apparently failures:

1) Removal of ultra-nationalistic and militaristic leaders. As in West Germany, where many former Nazis now occupy positions of power, top Japanese posts are reverting to potential enemies of democracy. A prime example is Ichiro Hatoyama, placed on General MacArthur's purge list as a rabid supporter of Hitler and Mussolini. Under Premier Yoshida, head man during the American Occupation, Hatoyama was the real power behind the scenes. The Occupation ended, he became — and remains — Premier in fact.

2) Democratization of the police system and abolition of the thought police. Prewar Japan was known for its oppressive and brutal police force. People who were suspected of thinking incorrectly — and this could mean anything — were beaten, thrown in jail, kept there indefinitely. Today Japan's police are polite to foreigners. According to many Japanese, however, they are well on the return road to old-fashioned strong-arm methods and general ruthlessness.

3) A new Constitution renouncing war and preventing the organization of armed forces. The Japanese Constitution now is a dead letter.

4) Land reform. Modest success has followed attempts to give poverty-stricken sharecroppers some ownership of the land they worked. But large tracts of land are still held by absentee landlords, and the postwar population increase has placed 20 per cent more people on the rural lands. All told, there now are 90 million Japanese on four islands no larger in area than the state of Montana. The land cannot support the people. Their only hope lies in emigration.

5) Destruction of the "zaibatsu," monopoly combines that controlled more than 90 per cent of Japan's industrial wealth before World War II. Like the I. G. Farbenindustrie and other cartels in Germany, the zaibatsu — through interlocking directorates, bribery, connections with the Imperial family and control of the banks — are pretty much back in the saddle.

The Unions — and the Reds

6) Development and liberalization of labor unions. The Occupation authorities encouraged the development of the Japanese labor movement, hoping the Japanese would keep to the path of collective bargaining. The unions instead have gone into politics and in some instances have provided the breeding grounds for Japan's Communists and their sympathizers.

One of the great dangers in Japan today is that the people are so anti-militarist that they regard the very real Communist menace as a military red herring. While there are only 100,000 listed Communist Party members at present, these Reds are active in the major labor unions. They have organized cells in most of the universities.

They even have sought to infiltrate unions of Japanese employes of the U.S. armed forces here. They have fought American military attempts to enforce political screening of Japanese employes, and have resorted to violence when we tried to survey land needed to accommodate our jets and air transports.

The Soviet mission in Tokyo has been the chief source of funds for the party. Now that Japan and Russia have resumed diplomatic negotiations, the Soviets undoubtedly will bring in a large number of agents from Moscow.

Currently the Japanese Communists are saying that there is no external threat to Japan that requires the presence of American bases here. Yet the three Communist air forces in Asia — Russia, China and North Korea — among them have some 8,000 aircraft, half of which are jets. This number constitutes one-third of the entire Communist air strength. The Communists have approximately 100 air bases on the Asian Coast facing Japan. Their bombers and fighters could reach any target in Japan within two hours at the most.

"If we weren't defended by U.S. air strength," says Capt. Yasukiyo Nishikori (who once was Edgar Bergen's house boy), "we would have been taken over by the Communists a long time ago. I don't know why it's so hard for the Japanese to see this.

"We are a very literate and educated nation. We know how the Communists took over so many other countries, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Rumania, Hungary, Bulgaria, Latvia, China — both from within and without. And yet our people think it can't happen here."

Fortunately, there are some Japanese who think it can happen here. These include the men who have joined Japan's self-defense force — the men we currently are training to fight. ■

TODAY'S JAPAN smiles from the eyes of this Japan Air Lines stewardess. Westernized in manner and dress, she retains her Oriental charm.

THOUGHTFUL POSE lets Barbara Nichols show why observers compare her general appearance to Mae West's. Like Mae, also, she talks with few inhibitions.

She wants a HUSBAND

Barbara Nichols is young, alluring, moving toward stardom. Why can't she get a man?

COZY EMBRACE gratifies Fritz Lang, Barbara's director in Beyond a Reasonable Doubt (RKO). Single men, take note.

HOLLYWOOD.

Barbara Nichols, a buxom, ash-blonde beauty from Jamaica, L.I., came west two years ago in search of a husband. Her qualifications, she thought, were A-1. Now she's not so sure.

She had won 11 beauty contests around New York, served a stint as an Esquire cover girl, acted on Broadway in Pal Joey, starred in half a dozen TV plays. She had a whistleable figure (37-24-35) and a diploma from Jamaica's Woodrow Wilson High. What more could a girl need to lead nearly any red-blooded male to the altar?

Now 21, Barbara admits herself baffled. "After two years in Hollywood trying to hook a husband," she says, "I'm batting zero. The only thing I have to show for my time is a successful career. I've played with Van Johnson in Miracle in the Rain, Dana Andrews in Beyond a Reasonable Doubt, Clark Gable in The King and Four Queens. I've been signed at a grand a week for Pajama Game.

"But who needs this career bit? What I want is a husband. In Hollywood this is like asking for a miracle. As a matter of fact, miracles in Hollywood are more frequent than bachelors.

"Compared to the men out here," Barbara continues, warming to her subject, "men in the East are angels. Out here they're spoiled rotten. I'm talking about the single ones. You've never seen such ego, such selfishness, such vanity. You run into one of them and right away he says, 'Why haven't you called me?'

"Two days later I get a call and the guy says, 'I want you to come over for a barbecue. Oh, yes,' he adds, as an afterthought, 'on the way over, honey, will you stop and pick up a few steaks?' So I buy the steaks and we have a barbecue and then he cons me into washing the dishes and rearranging his furniture and then he sends me home. Some big deal.

"This is no isolated incident. It's happened to me on a dozen dates. The worst offenders are actors.

"Most actors — I won't mention any names — are very insecure. They're also lousy lovers. All they do is talk about themselves. They expect a girl to get intoxicated at the sound of their voices. I was out with one actor the other night. 'Darling,' he said, 'do you mind telling me how wonderful I am?' 'Excuse me,' I said, 'I feel nauseous.' "

Under the circumstances why doesn't Barbara return East? Back there, she says, "men are gentlemen."

The answer, it seems, lies in the stubbornness of this blonde beauty whom Clark Gable, for one, calls Hollywood's new Mae West. "I came out here," Barbara declares, "to find a husband. I don't care how long I stay or how many pictures I star in, I'm not going to return to Long Island absolutely manless. For a girl with my shape — well, it's incredible!"

Coincidentally, that's exactly what Hollywood thinks of Barbara Nichols. ■

The season's Junior dresses are made in gay 'Fair Lady' styles

by VIRGINIA POPE

PARADE FASHION EDITOR

Here's big news in Christmas and New Year's party fashions for Juniors: skirts are being lengthened, their hems coming to within 8 inches of the floor. This style is especially attractive when the skirts are full — as you can see in these photographs taken in the Terrace Room of the Plaza Hotel in New York.

You'll love to dance in fluffy nylon net or faille that bells over full petticoats. For the big ball of the season, when you want to be very formal, you may prefer a floor-length gown like the pastel-blue chiffon at right. According to all indications, with the "Fair Lady" styles in vogue, it's going to be a season of elegance.

Holiday fair lady

The soft beauty of nylon chiffon falls gracefully in the folds of this long pastel-blue gown. At the front, the bodice is draped in a modified Empire line; at the back, the folds are carried low over the hips. A David Klein gown. About $45. Gloves from Aris.

TWO MEN have equal ability, turn respectively into a $4,420-a-year clerk and a $15,000-a-year executive. Is it luck — or strategy?

10 TIPS ON THE STRATEGY OF EARNING A LIVING

An expert tells you how to pace a successful career

by JULES Z. WILLING

The vast majority of us earn our living by working for others. How ample or meager a living we earn depends on many things, not least the ability to market our services consistently to the greatest advantage.

Two men start equal in ability and potential. Fifteen years later, one is an office manager at $85 a week, while the other is a $15,000 executive. Luck? Perhaps. But more likely it's because one man used strategy that made the most profitable use of his talents and opportunities.

The strategy of earning a living is much like that of warfare and courtship. My analysis of the progress — or lack of it — of thousands of men in all walks of life over a period of many years discloses 10 basic rules of good career strategy. Here they are.

1 Don't fail to measure your progress periodically. The years between 24 and 35 are your working capital; they must be invested in projects that will yield a rate of return that will insure an adequate living for the rest of your life. In one year, you might put into and get out of a job all that is possible. If you spend a second year on that job, you spend about 9 per cent of your capital in a way that will yield no future return.

2 Don't look for security, permanence or long-range future in your early jobs. The chances of your making a lifetime career with your first, second or third employer are remote. The shorter your career has been, the less you should be concerned with the long-range prospects of your job, and the more value you should place on the kind of experience it gives you. There's nothing wrong with taking a dead-end job that gives you valuable experience — which in turn may help you land a permanent job with greater opportunities.

3 Keep a "career file" on yourself. This is your sales portfolio. Put into it evidence of your ability, your achievements, your rising status. Remember that it often is impossible to go back and try to gather proof of past accomplishments — so collect that proof as you go along. Your file should include suggestions you made and recognition they brought you, your raises or promotions, your firm's organization chart showing your position, samples of outstanding work you have done and the like.

4 Cultivate your contacts. It is much easier to develop friendships with people outside your company who might later do you some good if you do so while you are safely and securely employed. Don't wait until you are "between jobs" to develop helpful contacts; it may be too late.

5 Be sure to add to your qualifications as you progress. Too many people believe that raises and promotions are adequate evidence of increased ability. Frequently, these merely are evidence of momentum. If your next job is to be better than your last, you must be prepared to offer more to your next employer. What is that "more" going to be?

6 Test your market value from time to time. Too many people assume that because they are considered valuable employees in their jobs, they will be considered equally valuable on the open market. This, unfortunately, is too rarely true. The best way to find out the market value of your services is to explore outside job possibilities occasionally, even if you're not serious about applying. If you find it difficult to gain acceptance, you may spot weaknesses you can correct before they impede your progress.

7 Keep abreast of technological changes in your occupation, regardless of your age. Your way of doing things may be perfectly adequate for the firm that now employs you, but will it be adequate for others? When your firm adopts a new technology, will you be qualified to stay?

Only by keeping a sharp eye open for the new skills constantly being required in old occupations can you prevent yourself from becoming obsolete. For example, if you are an accountant, have you made any effort to learn the new and complex accounting machinery introduced in recent years? Do you recognize that accountancy is veering away from the manual and toward the mechanical? Do you detect strong undertones of engineering science in your profession?

8 Aim for assignments that will increase your employability. Sometimes the thankless job that nobody likes can sound impressive to a prospective employer. Sometimes it fills out a gap in your experience. It also may give a different point of view toward your regular work, or a hint of ways your own job can be expanded. Similarly, easy assignments with lots of prestige inside the firm may do absolutely nothing to make you either a bigger or a better man career-wise. You might enjoy them, but you don't profit by them.

9 Strive for visibility in your work. As you go up, you inevitably will move into the shadow of a top executive. In that shadow lurks the career-killer: the anonymous job of "administrative assistant," where everything is done in your boss' name and on the strength of his authority, not yours. A lesser job, with more autonomy, where you can rise or fall on the basis of your own work, is usually safer in the long run — and gets you ahead faster.

10 After 30, begin to give as much thought to the firm as to the job. From now on, you'll be able to change jobs less readily. In five years, you should be well entrenched in your career. You can't afford to join a failing firm, one that has limited opportunities in the higher brackets, one that is in a declining industry, one shaken too often by reorganization and changes of management or one that isn't prepared to pay off on demonstrated ability in two or three years.

If you follow these tips, don't expect them to guarantee fame and fortune. What they will do, however, is give you a good yardstick of your ability and progress. The rest is up to you. ■

3-way Christmas Cookies

by BETH MERRIMAN
PARADE FOOD EDITOR

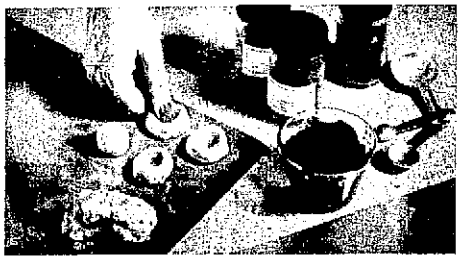

BASIC RECIPE

1 cup butter or margarine
½ cup confectioners' sugar
2 teaspoons vanilla
2 cups sifted enriched flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup quick rolled oats, uncooked

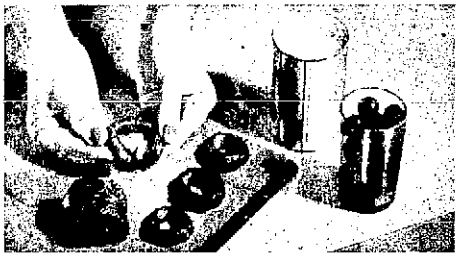

Beat butter until creamy; add sugar gradually; beat until fluffy. Stir in vanilla, flour and salt. Blend in rolled oats. (Dough will be quite stiff.) Shape in any of the ways shown at right. Bake on ungreased cookie sheets in moderate oven (325° F.) 20 to 25 minutes. Makes three to four dozen cookies.

1. COLORFUL COCONUT DREAMS: Shape dough into balls. Bake as directed (left). Cool on wire racks. Frost with thin confectioners' sugar frosting; sprinkle lightly with colored sugar before the frosting dries.

2. TOM THUMBS: To one-half of the dough add ½ teaspoon cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon each ground cloves and nutmeg. Shape dough into balls. Make depression in each with thumb. Bake about 25 minutes as directed (above left). When cool, fill centers with jam or jelly.

3. COOKY WREATHS: To one-half of the dough, add ½ oz. (½ square) unsweetened chocolate, melted. Shape ropes about 3" long; coil into circles. Bake about 25 minutes as directed (above left). Frost; top with coconut; place half a candied cherry in center of each wreath.

YOU can work wonders— with your imagination and Diamond Walnuts

Rocky Road Candy

½ lb. milk chocolate pieces
½ lb. semi-sweet chocolate pieces
16 marshmallows (¼ lb.) cut in quarters or 2 cups miniature marshmallows
¾ cup Diamond Walnuts, coarsely broken

Melt chocolate over warm (not hot) water, stirring till smooth. Spread about one-fourth of the chocolate in the bottom of 8 x 8" buttered or waxed paper lined pan. Dot with marshmallows; sprinkle with golden Diamond Walnuts. Press in with fork. Cover top with remaining chocolate. A fork will help you distribute the chocolate evenly. When firm, cut in squares. A wonderful quick treat candy!

NEW RED OR BLUE CELLOPHANE BAGS

OR VACUUM CANS

Sugared Walnuts: Stir together in saucepan 1½ cups sugar, dash of salt, ½ cup water and ¼ cup honey; cook to 242° on candy thermometer (soft ball stage). Remove from heat; add ½ teaspoon vanilla and 3 cups of crisp Diamond Walnut halves and pieces. (Food coloring may be added to syrup; also cinnamon or grated orange rind.) Stir till thick and creamy. Turn onto waxed paper and separate with 2 forks. Makes 1½ lbs.

Walnuts work wonders in cakes, cookies, desserts, hot breads, too! All look better, taste better, when you add Diamond Walnuts. Use them generously!

IN-THE-SHELL OR SHELLED, DIAMOND WALNUTS GIVE YOU PLUMP KERNELS, FINE FLAVOR

In-the-shell—get Diamond Walnuts in cellophane bags (red for Large size, blue for Medium). They're California's finest—plump, tender kernels every time. Perfect for your nut bowl—it's fun to crack these thin-shelled nuts. Thrifty, too—you get over two full cups of usable kernels from every pound of Diamonds.

Shelled—for year-round use, get 8- or 4-ounce cans of Diamond halves and pieces. Vacuum-packed so you get them as fresh and sweet as the day they were shelled. Can re-closes tightly, protects crispness and flavor. Wonderfully convenient—surprisingly economical. Check the cost per ounce yourself.

Don't let worms kill your dog

To give your dog a complete safe worming at home, use a product proved effective against the two most frequent worms.

Large roundworms steal his food, common hookworms suck his blood. Either can kill a puppy and seriously weaken an older dog.

Eliminate both types of worms with Sergeant's Sure Shot Worm Capsules (Puppy Capsules for puppies and dogs under 10 lbs.). Sergeant's outsells all other worming products 2 to 1. Use twice a year and protect your dog. Only 75¢ at drug or pet counters.

TEEN-AGE TOPICS

Teenagers, as a rule, do not feel secure about choosing clothes, and often do not want to take the advice of their parents. Here are some of your letters on the subject.

Q. Is it all right to wear Bermudas or slacks to a music lesson? Is it advisable not to wear an Italian jersey on the street? — R.F., Syracuse, N.Y.

A. I don't like to see Bermuda shorts or slacks worn by teenagers in big cities. In a small community, the costume should be acceptable.

I think it is all right to wear a jersey if it isn't too tight.

Q. What should you wear on 1) an ice-skating date, 2) a coke date and 3) a regular show date? — J.W., Indianapolis, Ind.

A. 1) You may want to wear a regular skating costume with a short skirt, but usually girls settle for slacks or a wool skirt with a heavy sweater. 2) On a coke date, wear school clothes. 3) For a movie date, most girls prefer a sweater and skirt or a simple dress.

Q. I am 14. Am I old enough to wear a suit? — V.S., Shamokin, Pa.

A. Yes, if it is simple and appropriate.

Q. At 12, I am 5 feet tall and weigh only 83 pounds. My mother tells me to wear fluffy skirts and full blouses. I want to wear straight skirts like the other girls. What do you suggest? — B.G., Allentown, Pa.

A. The kind of clothes you want to wear will make you look even thinner. Why not take your mother's advice?

Q. I am big for my age (13), but not overweight. I want to wear clothes that make me look older. — M.K., Chicago, Ill.

A. Within reason, you should dress to suit your years rather than your size.

BEFORE A RACE, this woman studies a form sheet. One-third of U.S. track patrons are women.

women gamblers — Don't!

This frank confession — from a grandmother who learned the hard way — is must reading for every woman

ANONYMOUS
as told to DOUGLAS GREENE

I came out of a nightmare not long ago and I'm going to describe it exactly as I lived it. There won't be any fancy writing, but every word I am telling you is the truth.

I'm 52 years old and a grandmother — a young-looking one, please. Grandmas aren't what they used to be. We're better looking, keep ourselves nicer and are a lot more active than our own grandmothers were.

Maybe that was part of my trouble.

Anyway, I have three married children, two boys and a girl. One boy is an engineer in a far-off city, the other a plant manager several hundred miles from where I live. My daughter lives near me in an East Coast suburban community. My husband — he's a traveling man — and I live in a three-room apartment.

My friends and I used to have an occasional poker game ever since we were first married. But the card-playing was only incidental; we met just to get a night out, a few hours away from the responsibilities of raising a family.

Then, as our children grew up, something happened. We had more time to ourselves, so we began meeting more regularly. Somewhere along the line we raised the stakes from a 2-cent to a 10-cent limit.

Later on, the children were starting to get married and leave home. Time got heavier and heavier on my hands. I visited my daughter regularly — but how often can you go without becoming a mother-in-law pest? When her babies came, of course, I had plenty to do helping out. But as they got bigger, I was needed less and the loneliness grew worse.

Up Go the Stakes

That's when the card games got more active. All of us, it seems, were in about the same situation. We raised the stakes again — to a 25-cent limit.

Gradually I became more and more interested in cards. I began reading books on how to play, studying odds and figuring out new ways to win. Now I had something to do, to be interested in. Once I won $75.

This lasted for months. Then, slowly but surely, poker began to lose its kick. I was feeling the need for greater excitement.

I graduated to the horses.

It was an easy, natural and completely painless switch. It was natural because my husband and I used to go to the track — not very often but once in a while, as many people do. But then it was just a day's outing. Now there was a real kick to it. I loved the thrill of doping out the races and watching what happened. I loved the fear — yes, fear — that would grab me when I had bet a fairly large sum.

I loved winning. And when I lost, it made me want to come back and win even more. I went to the track as often as I could, sometimes two or three times a week.

The long trips back and forth were tiring. However, I soon found the solution — a solution that ended up in misery and shame for me.

I was out walking with a friend one day. She pointed to a fat man on a street corner. "See that fellow?" she said. "He's a bookie." The next day I went out and found the fat man. I asked him if he'd take my bets. He had seen me before and so he said that he would.

This seemed to solve all my problems. Now there were no long trips to the track.

AFTER A RACE, loser unhappily watches her horse trotting past winner's circle.

Gambling addiction: New peril to women

What happened to the author of this article also is happening to thousands of other U.S. women, according to police officials. Says Howard Winter, manager of the famous William J. Burns International Detective Agency: "... Women have never gambled as much as they are now. The situation is worst in Chicago, Los Angeles, San Francisco, the Florida resorts, New York and Nevada. More husbands than ever are coming to us, asking our operatives to find out what is happening to the household money and the cash in joint accounts. We have to tell them ... that it's being lost in gambling."

Most of it, of course, is lost at the horse tracks. (The Thoroughbred Racing Association recently found that women comprise 32 per cent of the patrons at U.S. tracks.) Others gamble at cards, especially "poker parties" held in apartments and sometimes staged by professional promoters.

Gambling, of course, is not necessarily harmful, points out Dr. Robert Holt, ditector of New York University Research Center for Mental Health. But, he adds, it can become an addiction that can wreck your life — as in the case of the author.

'I looked up at the board that flashes the results. I felt my knees give way . . . I almost fainted'

All I had to do was stay home and wait for the results on the radio. It was a wonderful way to fill the lonely hours.

I didn't know it, of course, but I had become a compulsive gambler. I craved the excitement of playing just as the alcoholic craves liquor and the drug addict yearns for narcotics.

Nobody really believes he is an addict until it's too late. So I never gave any thought to the consequences. I was enjoying myself and that was enough. And yet I was sick — for compulsive gambling is a sickness just like alcoholism.

What made me sick? Loneliness, I am sure. But a very special loneliness that, I found out later, is hitting more and more women every year. We have our busy years raising a family and then suddenly it's all over. We feel lost, unwanted and unneeded. We're still strong and healthy and there's nothing for us to do.

But I had found something to do. Gambling filled my days with pleasure.

Suddenly there wasn't so much pleasure. I started to lose.

Day after day, week after week, I lost. Up to this point, I had never gone up or down more than $150. So I always had money to bet, using a tiny savings account and my house money. But one day I found I was $500 in debt.

Borrowing, Borrowing

I owed the fat man $100. I had borrowed $200 from a friend on a flimsy excuse and I had gambled away $200 that my husband had left me to pay insurance premiums.

I looked up another friend. My daughter, I told her, had smashed up her car and wanted to get it fixed before her husband found out. She lent me $250.

But instead of using this $250 to pay back my friends, I worked twice as hard trying to dope out the horses. And I doubled my bets, figuring I'd make a killing, get even — and then quit.

But I didn't make any killings. I found myself getting deeper in the hole.

I went sleepless two nights in a row, worrying and wondering what to do.

But, really, what else was there? I went out and began borrowing small sums from my friends. After a week I had part of what I needed.

But again the fever took hold. Again I gambled. Again I lost.

Now I was about $1,000 in debt and badly scared. I went to my old jewelry box and took out my bracelet watch and gold earrings. They brought $150 at a pawnshop.

I wanted to go to a finance company, but I was afraid they would write to my husband — and I didn't want him to know anything about this. Although he was, and is, a wonderful man, I was afraid he would be horrified at what I had done.

100 per cent Interest

So instead of going to the finance company, I went to a woman who, I had heard, loaned money. I borrowed $300. I was to pay her back at the rate of $50 a month for a year. I knew the rate — 100 per cent — was illegal, but I needed the money. I had a little book in which I wrote down all my debts. The list was getting longer.

I could think of only one way out — one big killing on the horses.

I took my fur coat from storage and pawned it for $175. I went to the track and bet every cent I had — over $600 — on one race.

My heart pounded as I walked away from the window. I couldn't watch the race. I wandered under the grandstand until I heard the roar that told me they were off.

When the roaring stopped, I walked out. I looked up at the board that flashes the results.

I felt my knees give way and I almost fainted. I had lost.

The next day I did what I hoped I'd never have to do. I pawned my diamond engagement ring for $400. From the pawnshop I went right to a 10-cent store and bought a paste ring which looked almost like my own. I put this on and prayed my husband wouldn't look too closely.

I should have stopped then. But the pull was too strong, made worse by fear and the desperate longing to get even. I kept borrowing, betting and losing.

My pride was gone. I'd borrow a dollar from anyone — the butcher, the fruit man, the candy-store owner. I asked them all. Deep down I knew that someday my husband would find out, but I tried never to let myself think about it.

How does a woman feel when she has to ask her groceryman for a dollar to bet on the horses? After you've held your head up high for many years, reared a fine family and kept a lovely home, it's a feeling that's impossible to describe.

But I know how I acted. I couldn't look people in the eye any more. I couldn't even look in a mirror at myself. I couldn't sleep. I didn't care how sloppily I dressed. I couldn't even eat.

And every time I thought of my family and how they'd feel when they found out, the hurt became unbearable.

One rainy night I sat down and counted up all my debts. I owed a total of $4,000.

I went to a closet, pulled down one suitcase and packed a few things. I didn't know where I was going. I had only a few dollars in my purse. I was over 50 years old; jobs would be hard to get. But I had to leave rather than face my husband and children.

I walked toward the door. In the foyer is a large mirror. I caught a glimpse of myself and turned my head away.

A key turned in the lock. The door opened and my husband walked in. I hadn't expected him home from his business trip for a week.

We looked at each other. I stood there holding my suitcase and began to sob.

He came over and led me to a chair. "Tell me all about it," he said.

"I'll Go Now"

Someone had told him, of course, some one of the dozens of people I owed money to. It didn't matter now.

The whole story poured out. When I finished, I said: "I'll go now."

"Where are you going?"

"I don't know."

He took away my suitcase. "You're not going anywhere," he said.

I looked at him, dry-eyed, but with an overwhelming sense of love and gratitude.

It cost my husband his life's savings to pay off all the debts. In return, I made a solemn vow to him that I would break my addiction. And I did, though it took long months with my husband standing by to help when the temptation became almost too much.

Today my life is a full one — without gambling. One of my sons has moved back to the city and my time now is happily taken up with my grandchildren, community activities and a number of hobbies that I have recently discovered.

But I know there are many thousands of other women, bored and lonely, who still gamble heavily. They don't know they are addicts. And they don't know the terrible heartache that their addiction will cause.

If my story wakes them up, then what I suffered won't have been in vain. ■

The mountains are starting to move at Long Beach Post Office as Christmas mail —huge sacks of it—pass through. Merle Hansen stows a big load in his truck.

Postage: $1,500,000

By Clarence Bernard Propes

Postmaster McMillin and C. E. Davis, of L. B. office check $1,500,000 stamp shipment.

POST OFFICES throughout the land are waiting for mountains to move in, floods to inundate, and avalanches to smother and paralyze their operations.

That is what, by every sensible rule, should happen to the Post Office Department when the Christmas mail comes roaring through the chutes. These events won't be disastrous, however, for the postal service is calmly prepared for what will strike in the next few days.

In Long Beach, a million and a half dollars' worth of stamps are in the vaults. Dozens of shiny new ball point pens are chained to the counters. A thousand extra employes are ready to swing into action. A forest of mail racks waits on the floor of a specially-hired warehouse. Sixty-one giant trucks and 190 private cars are prepared to do the bulky handling.

LONG BEACH'S Postmaster George J. McMillin regards the problem placidly.

"We'll get it out and you can be sure that any Christmas parcel in our hands on Dec. 24 will be delivered in time."

Superintendent of mails Verne Brustkern nods in agreement.

"The mail will go out as rapidly as it comes in," he promises. "The public can help by mailing as soon as the address is written. We'll keep the parcel post windows open as long as anyone is in the lines, and there will be numerous pickups at corner mail boxes."

The Long Beach post office will do about $800,000 worth of business this month. Chief Accountant J. Ernie Sohn says there has been a steady 5 per cent rise in postal receipts.

"In 1950 we did $412,000 worth of December business. Last year it was $735,000. and it will continue to grow."

AT 828 E. 12TH ST. is a temporary warehouse with 28,000 square feet of floor space, soon to be completely covered with bags of parcel post. It is now a re-echoing jungle of metal racks with suspended mail sacks. The bags are labeled for every corner of this country and every major geographical division of the world.

A clerk is working a rack of sacks labeled for the Far East. He picks up a Christmas package addressed to Bombay and labeled, "Don't Open Until Christmas."

"Someone must think steamships are awfully fast," says the clerk. "But, then again, maybe he thinks we're awfully slow and won't get it there until next Christmas."

"You can see the mail come toward Long Beach like a tidal wave," says another clerk. "Most of it is outgoing, headed for the eastern seaboard. It will build up to a tremendous volume and then the bulk of it will be addressed to the Middle West. About a week before Christmas, the outgoing mail will trickle down to a comparative nothing and there'll be a mountain of mail addressed to Long Beach."

THE SADDEST and sweetest-smelling job is that of the clerk who rewraps broken parcels. The air around his bench is filled with the fragrance from broken bottles of toilet water and perfumes. Spilled talcum gives a broken box of dates a sexy aura, and neckties are freshly colored with jams and jelly.

"Poorly wrapped packages are our greatest headache," says Parcel Post Clerk Francis Scott. "Some of those we receive would hardly survive a trip downtown and they certainly won't last in the mails. Too many people use flimsy paper and weak string."

"Use a stout carton and, if the article is fragile,

Letters and cards march in seemingly endless ranks through a stamp canceling machine run by Gilbert Tillman. Avalanche is yet to come.

Here's a behind-the-scenes idea of what's going on daily in the post office. Paul Kier sorts his lot of mail before going to deliver.

SOUTHLAND'S SHORT SHORT STORY

The Getting Used to It

By Blaine Nels Simons

Illustrated by Clyde Winslow

IN MY EARLY BOYHOOD days a favorite time of year was the summer vacation at Uncle Ben's farm. Besides having many things to do there I also enjoyed my Uncle Ben. I thought he was a character. Aunt Mary probably thought so, too, and he proved it one summer.

I had just turned thirteen. Uncle Ben started out the first evening in his usual way. While Aunt Mary and I were finishing the dishes, he solemnly stated:

"Carl Nestor escaped."

Without further comment he went back to reading his newspaper.

"Who, Ben Willis, is Carl Nestor?" snapped my Aunt. She was always irritated when she felt his dramatic side was beginning to show.

"Oh, you know, Mary, the scar-faced fella that held up Gus Benson's service station down the road a couple of years back," he replied without looking up.

"When did he escape?" she asked.

"Last night, paper says. No one's seen him since." Uncle Ben rattled the paper loudly and looked up at me. "Maybe he's in your room, my boy, maybe—"

"Ben Willis, of all things to say to a twelve—"

"Thirteen," I piped.

"—thirteen-year-old boy! Now you go over to the sports page and don't mention that convict again!"

HE DIDN'T, but all night long I dreamed of scar-faced convicts.

By the time I got down to breakfast the next morning Uncle Ben had left for the fields. He had also left my Aunt in a bad mood.

"That uncle of yours! He took his shotgun with him. I—"

"Do you think he—"

"No, I don't think he thinks that convict's within fifty miles of here," she answered for me. "But you know your Uncle Ben and his dramatics. Told me he figured he'd see the convict and get the reward. More'n likely he's only after a crow or two and the twenty-five-cent bounty on them. I really—" she shook her head and went back to her work.

During her good-natured tirade I had taken the silent opportunity to gulp down my breakfast. Now I grabbed the sack of lunch that had been put up for me and was out the door heading toward adventures by the river.

"Be sure to say hello to your uncle if you see him," shouted Aunt Mary.

BY THE TIME she had finished the sentence I was coasting past the barn. The barn! I wondered if my hiking stick from last year was still in the haymow where I'd left it. It would be just the thing for vaulting the mudflats. Setting my lunch down I hurried inside. Climbing the ladder two steps at a time I reached the loft and headed for a corner where I'd remembered leaving it.

"Make another move and you're a goner!"

I can remember even today that my heart stopped beating then and my very breath sucked from me.

Somehow I was able to turn my head to the right and saw a man standing there. It was too dark then to make out more than his outline.

"Who, who—" I finally was able to stutter.

"Shut up, kid," he whispered savagely. "Commover here and siddown — and shut up."

I stumbled the two feet to him and sat down. It was a relief to me that I was still trembling because it proved I was still alive.

I WAS CLOSE ENOUGH now to see he was carrying something in in his right hand. An ax! The ax from Uncle Ben's woodshed!

His face was close to mine now and I could see a scar running across his forehead.

"Carl Nes—" I stammered.

"Shut up!" He clamped his other hand over my mouth, then relaxed his hold and sat back. "Didn't know you was old enough to read papers. But it makes no difference. Just shut up."

Light was beginning to filter into the loft now and I glanced towards the haymow door.

"Listen kid," he growled softly, "don't go gettin' any ideas. I don't know why you come here but you're gonna stay." He looked over at me closely. "When they expect you back?"

I could have bitten off my tongue after I said, "Suppertime."

"Fine. We'll just sit here 'til then. Then when the farmer comes home we'll slip down the back way to the river. Boy, you're my ticket out of here," he chuckled hoarsely. "I'm glad you come."

I WAS SITTING a couple of feet from the edge of the loft. When I glanced over toward it — where freedom lay so close — he grabbed my arm.

"Aint no use figgerin' a way out, boy. I'd have you before you could make a move. So sit back!" — he shoved me back into the hay — "and shut up."

He clutched the ax tightly but relaxed his grip on me. I didn't move a muscle. I could breathe and think and talk, but I felt helpless — like the summer before when the ladder fell down when I was on the barn roof. There was no use thinking. Aunt Mary would figure I was at the river and Uncle Ben would think I'd come by the field while he was at the other end. I tried to forget these things but I couldn't.

Funny how the farm sounded when I couldn't see it. The calves bound for the State Fair moved restlessly in their stalls below us. Now and then the sound of a whinnying horse would drift in from the pasture — like it was miles away. Chickens cackled around the farmyard and the ducks quacked their way to and from the pond. But it was the stillness I noticed most of all, I remember. How peaceful it was on the farm. It should give time to think and relax — but every time I tried to, the vision of Carl Nestor and his ready ax blocked my attempts.

I DON'T KNOW how long we'd been there when I heard the sound of a car coming into the yard. I sat straight the minute I heard it.

My captor sat up too, but in a moment lay back down again. "Take it easy, kid," he grinned. "It aint the cops — too old a car. No one'll be looking for me here, anyway. You can bet on that. I hiked six miles last night cross-country to get here near the river. They're lookin' for me to take a road, steal a car, or catch a freight. But not me. I'm followin' the river. They won't be looking here."

By now I, too, suspected this. No hope for the police. I was tired now and lay back. A feeling of loneliness started coming over me and in a moment I recall that I was almost completely overcome in a wave of homesickness. I turned my head to hide from Nestor the helpless look that must have been on my face, and tried to crawl deeper into the hay as though to find some warmth and comfort waiting for me there.

"If you're thinkin' a hidin' in the hay, or crawlin' through it somewhere, you better stay where you lay. This old ax ain't too sharp but it'll do the trick."

I FROZE ON HIS WORDS, but I will never know if it was his words that stopped me or the sharp prong my right hand touched deep in the hay. A pitchfork! My hand quickly and silently moved over its surface. It was a pitchfork! A weapon!

I looked at Nestor. He was lying back again. He hadn't seen my right arm move, hadn't seen the look that had, I know, momentarily crossed my face. Then I looked at the ax he was holding and knew again I was licked.

I lay back but shifted my position slightly so that my hidden hand gripped the neck of the pitchfork. I watched Nestor. He never looked at me but he didn't relax his grip on the ax handle, either. We must have stayed that way for an hour — or maybe it was just a few minutes.

SUDDENLY THE SOUND of a team jangling and pounding its way up the river road met my ears. Uncle Ben! He was coming home for lunch! Then I groaned silently. He'd never know I was here.

When I jerked into a sitting position I'd almost pulled the pitchfork out with me. Luckily Nestor had been looking in the direction of the road so hadn't seen me. He followed the sound of the horses until they stopped.

"Whoa there, boys," I heard Uncle Ben shout.

"Farmer comin' home for lunch," grunted my guard. He sprawled back in the hay again, apparently confident Uncle Ben wouldn't be looking for us.

AFTER WHAT SEEMED to be several minutes I could hear Uncle Ben's voice again — up by the house. Then I could hear him tromping down by the barn, then back to the house again. How I wanted to shout his name — but couldn't. How I wished he'd know — somehow — that I was up here. Maybe he'd get suspicious that he hadn't seen me by the field. Maybe he'd find my lunch sack where I'd left it down by the barn door before I'd come up here. Maybe — . Then I gave up thinking of maybes.

Dead silence. Then foot-steps again. Uncle Ben's? They approached the barn — and entered. Now they were creaking towards the hayloft ladder. They stopped — and I stopped breathing again. My hand tightened on the unseen pitchfork. I looked at Nestor. He was leaning towards me, but looking around me at the ladder top. His fist was tight around the ax handle, knuckles white from the pressure.

THE LADDER GROANED. Uncle Ben — was it Uncle Ben — was coming up. Nestor motioned me down and back as he sank to a ready crouch.

We were about six feet over from where the ladder rested on the loft. It was gloomy enough in the

Tons of nickels and dimes. Shipping room for bank's coin business is seen above. Through this room pass more than 60,000 pounds of coins each week.

Bags of coins are dumped, carried by escalator (background) to the counting head of the receiving machine.

You'll Need Your Change

By Jack B. Kemmerer

LAST YEAR, we, the people of this country, put $1,800,000,000 in coins into vending machines, not counting telephones, parking meters and service machines such as coin-operated TV receivers. For these coins we received items ranging from hot coffee, cold drinks, hot soup, cigarettes and fresh fruit to pocket combs, toothbrushes, handkerchiefs, music and hot meals.

There are more coins in use today in the United States than ever before, and the amount is still on the upswing.

FOR EXAMPLE, when telephone companies throughout the nation raised the cost of a phone call from a nickel to a dime, many areas were again pinched for dimes. When the state of California passed a sales tax several years ago there was an extreme shortage of pennies.

THE TREMENDOUS population growth in southern California has the banks working overtime to meet the greatly increased demand for pennies, nickels, dimes, quarters and half dollars. Today, Los Angeles handles more coins than any other city in the world. To keep ahead of this need, banks have installed highly mechanized equipment for all phases of the work.

One such installation, Security-First National Bank of Los Angeles, is the largest in the world and currently sorts, counts and wraps more than 30 tons of coin in a five-day week. This adds up to approximately one half million rolls of coins per month, varying anywhere from $300,000 to $600,000 per week.

MONEY COMING into the vault arrives in armored trucks. An armed guard in a bullet-proof, glass-enclosed cupola overlooking the truck delivery area flashes a coded signal to another guard in the vault.

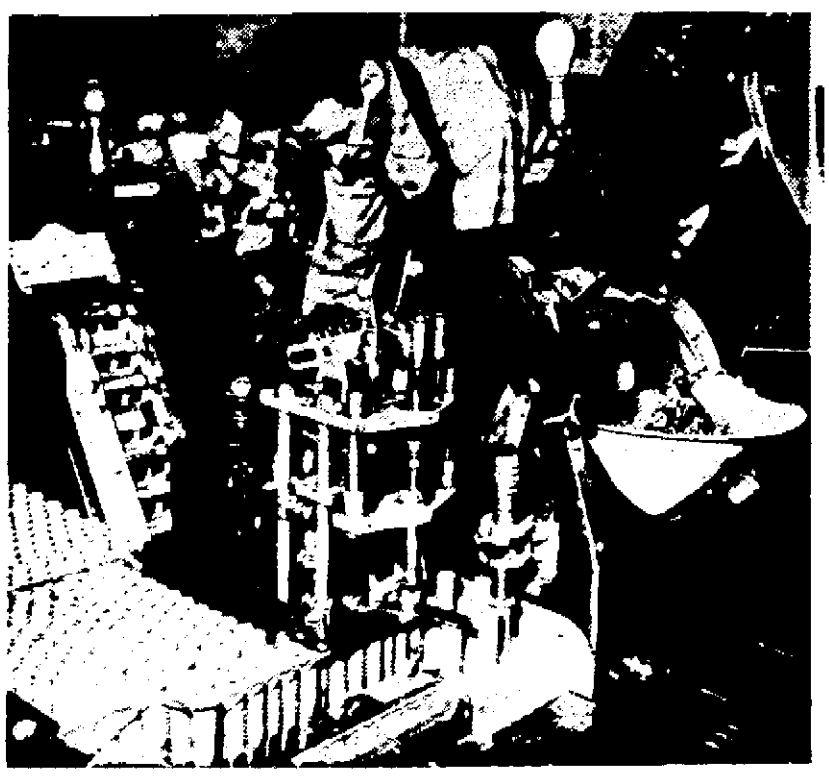

The second guard presses a button and a heavy steel door is raised electrically. The raised door exposes a conveyor belt which carries the money sacks to the underground level.

Downstairs, the heavy sacks are unloaded on handtrucks. Guards push the trucks through several more steel doors into the vault for sorting, counting and wrapping.

Two fast automatic devices will count and wrap coins from pennies through quarters in paper-covered rolls and will count rolls up to 1,000 per hour.

Counting head (right) counts and sends each coin to filler tube (center). Pre-rolled wrappers are at left.

This device sorts mixed coins, rejects slugs, foreign and damaged U. S. money.

Coins are stored in underground vault, ride to surface on belt to fill the orders.

Black Is Back

With the party-and-dance, theater-and-cafe season full upon us, hats have stolen the spotlight in the fashion news—and black is back as never before! A new hat wardrobe is a must. Patou, Paulette Svend, Le Monnier and Gilbert Orcel stole the Paris shows, and G. Howard Hodge has put signature labels in a delightful line of American hats that are far ahead stylewise and good for many seasons. Here are 3.

Of imported French velour, this dramatic high toque has cerise satin binding and brilliant ornamenting.

Peek-a-boo pink satin band and rhinestone ornament make this dramatic black pillbox an original beauty.

Black can be exciting—and black IS exciting in this three-tiered cushion brim with mauve pink accenting.

HOLLYWOOD

Gable Dealt a Hand of 4 Queens

CLARK GABLE is returning to the silver screen, surrounded this time by four comely, man-hunting queens.

Playing the part of a notorious western gunman, he rides into the town of Touchstone after escaping a posse. He hears the story of the McDade gang, a band of bank robbers, who were reportedly wiped out at Wagon Mound but not until they had hidden their loot of $100,000 in gold. When he goes after the gold he collides with the four widowed McDade girls: Birdie (Barbara Nichols), Ruby (Jean Willes), Sabina (Eleanor Parker) and Oralie (Sara Shane). None of them has seen a man in two years!

With Gable wheeling for the gold and dealing for one of the four beauteous widows, things really sizzle in "The King and Four Queens," United Artists CinemaScope and DeLuxe Color production due about Christmastime.

OUR COVER

The satiric pen of famed caricaturist Al Hirschfeld shows Gable neatly balancing his four queens. (Note: Gable's horse seems to be enjoying his glamorous passenger list.)

Clark Gable plays role of a notorious western gunman in his newest movie, "The King and 4 Queens."

In search of gold, he's dealt hand of four restless queens. Birdie, Ruby, Sabina and Oralie (not shown), daughters-in-law of Ma McDade (Jo Van Fleet, at right).

But after taking part of the gold and eyeballing his prize-winning hand of queens with typical Cable care, Clark discards all but one, pretty Sabina.

HE RECALLS BATAAN DEATH MARCH

'Stay on Your Feet or Die'

By Bud Lembke

ADVENTURE doesn't often drop in the lap of a man. He must thrust himself in its path. It takes luck, too, for one to cast aside the humdrum and live dangerously.

A decision to travel and a spin of a globe, and the die was cast for John L. (Larry) Kiernan in March 1938. When the globe stopped spinning, his finger was pointing at the Philippine Islands.

Storm clouds had been brewing for some years over the Far East, and so it was with high hopes of finding excitement that Kiernan left Long Beach and took a ship to Manila.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO this week, Kiernan began reaping more thrills than he'd bargained for.

It was an unbelievably cruel adventure that was to take him through the infamous Bataan Death March and pile horror upon horror during nearly three and one-half years of Japanese imprisonment.

On this anniversary of Pearl Harbor and Japan's attack on the U. S., Kiernan is once more living quietly in Long Beach. He is one among the 10 per cent of American forces trapped on Bataan Peninsula who lived to tell the tale. It is an ordeal the like of which few men in history have had to undergo.

More than a decade since it ended, Kiernan finds it difficult to recall details of the misery, the slow, inch-by-inch starvation, the relentless attrition of a man's endurance and the senseless punishment. But most of the terrible drama is etched indelibly in his memory.

THE DEATH MARCH—"stay on your feet or die."

A hundred men wedged into a stifling, torrid box car smaller than the average American living room for a ride of death from one prison camp to another on a war-time Thanksgiving Day.

Forced at bayonet point to hold your hands high over your head for an hour and 20 minutes, while an army of mosquitoes feasted on your exposed body and bit your face until your eyes swelled shut and didn't open for four days.

Ordered to stand at attention and, too weak from the extraction of an ulcerated tooth to comply, jerked to your feet and knocked to the floor.

Those were but a few of the low points in the series of calamitous events.

Kiernan was working as an accountant at a gold mine near Baguio in northern Luzon when the radio cracked out news of the Japanese attack.

Just before Christmas, the 60 Americans at the mine, in the face of the advancing Japanese army, fled to an isolated sawmill previously stocked with food.

IN A COUPLE OF DAYS, Kiernan and two of the mine engineers decided to make a break for it and try to reach Manila to join the U. S. Army.

By a circuitous route, they hiked out of the mountains and in two days reached Manila.

From their experience at the mine, all three were familiar with demolition work and were hired upon arrival as supervising engineers with an Army unit that won fame as "Casey's Dynamiters," named after the commanding colonel.

Kiernan's assignment was to haul in dynamite for demolition of the huge Pacadan oil installation. It was finally touched off on Dec. 31, he recalls, with a "tremendous roar and the most frightening burst of flame and smoke any of us had ever seen."

There had been no time for him to be sworn into the Army. That came three weeks later when he received a field commission in Bataan, where he had raced in a wild ride with a commandeered car on New Year's Eve, over a pitch black road past the fleeing populace and retreating Army units.

THREE TIMES, engaged in building trails and roads, his unit was moved back. On April 6, the Japs broke through. Every man was pressed into a final, frantic stand. Word was passed to lay down arms on April 8.

In 100-degree, humid tropical

Wrap Gifts to Show You Care

YOUR CHRISTMAS gifts this year can be more wonderfully exciting—and better express the spirit with which you give them—if you take the time to wrap your presents with care and ingenuity.

There's no end to the clever devices you can employ, but the important thing is first to understand the fundamentals of gift wrapping.

According to Marcia Simpson, gift-wrapping stylist for Ben-Mont Papers, Inc. and one of America's most foremost authorities on the subject, gift-wrapping begins inside the box. Treat every gift as though it were precious and fragile. Wrap your gift in fine white tissue—wads of cotton, if the gift is small—and you'll add a touch of elegance.

Selecting gift paper can be fun. For small boxes—the kind used to hold gifts like ties, stockings, or handkerchiefs—a small, over-all pattern is usually best. Holly, mistletoe, angels; a whole host of small patterns is available.

For boxes large enough to hold appliances, a robe, or a large toy, choose a paper with one larger, dominant center design—a glistening Christmas tree, for example.

WITH YOUR GIFT wrapped in tissue and your paper selected, you're ready to wrap. There are four basic steps.

FIRST—Lay the gift wrapping paper, face down, on a clean, flat, surface. Place the box, upside down, on the paper. Try to position the box on the paper so that the design will show to the best advantage when wrapping is completed.

SECOND—Cut the paper so that it is wide enough to go around the box and overlap 2 or 3 inches. The paper should also be cut to extend slightly more than one-half the depth of the box at both ends.

THIRD—Fold the paper up and around, overlap and seal with a decorative gummed sticker or with cellophane tape.

FOURTH—As illustrated, fold top ends down tightly and make diagonal creases at the sides and then fold sides in. Seal with a decorative gummed sticker or with cellophane tape. Do the same at the other end.

NOW YOU'RE READY to tie the package with ribbons and attach decorative bows. According to Ben-Mont's Miss Simpson, there's only one basic method of tying ribbon, but this may be varied by placing the ribbon off center in any direction. Here again, you can use your imagination in selecting the size, type and texture of ribbon that seems most appropriate. In tieing, there are four steps.

FIRST—Hold ribbon on the top of the package, allowing the short end to extend about six inches beyond the center.

SECOND—Bring the ribbon the length of the package, then at starting point, cross ribbon and bring it around width of box and back to starting point. Be sure that the ribbon does not twist on the bottom of the package.

THIRD—Cut off the ribbon, but leave 4 or 5 inches. This end is then brought over and under the crossed ribbon.

Neatly wrapped in carefully selected paper, the gift above will prove to recipient that giver really cares.

By Caroline Coleman

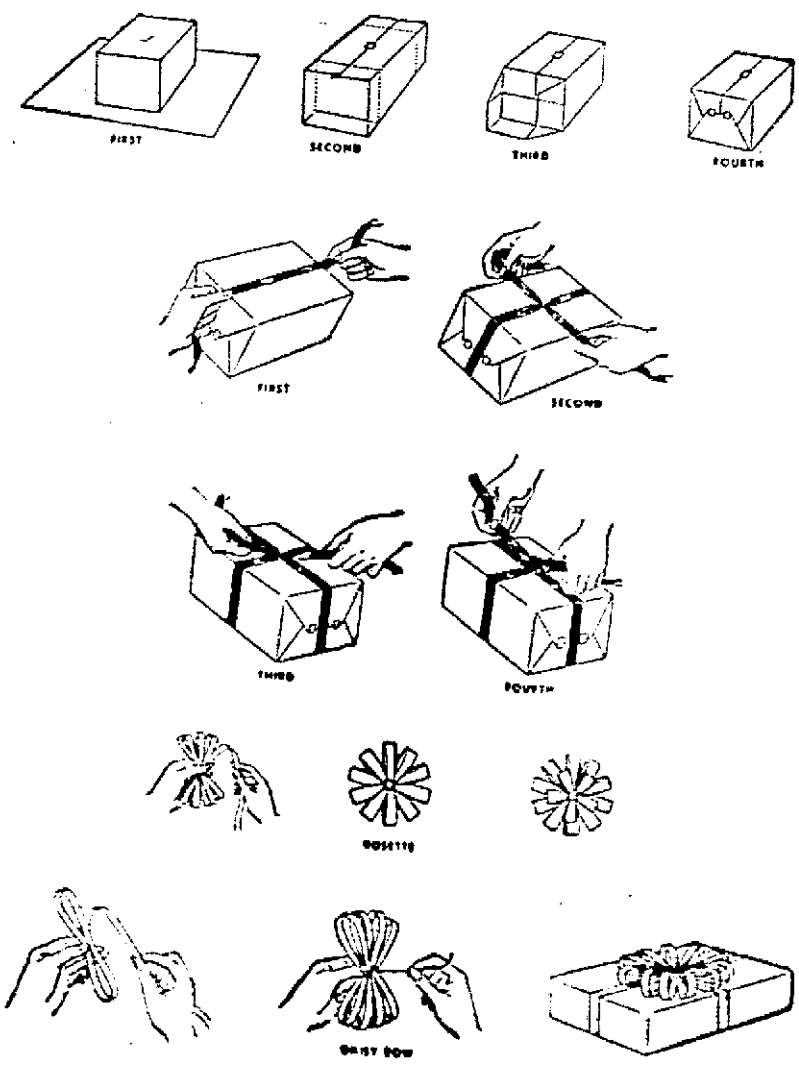

FOURTH—Pull up tightly together and tie a knot.

THERE ARE SCORES of fancy bows you can apply. Two types are especially popular, and they're easy to make.

DAISY BOWS—As illustrated, form ribbon in any number of loops of any length. Tie in center with another piece of ribbon and attach to package.

ROSETTES — As illustrated, form ribbon in loops measuring with forefinger. Tie same as daisy bow. If curling ribbon is used, curl ends by drawing ribbon between thumb and dull edge. To make double rosettes, tie smaller rosette on top.

Now fasten the gift card, and the job is done. If you chose your gift paper thoughtfully, wrapped the package with care, and added an attractive ribbon, it will be quite clear on Christmas day that you care about the person who's getting your gift.

How to wrap gifts tie ribbon, make bows and rosettes (details in accompanying article) illustrated above.

Children of the Stars

Still photographers covering the Hollywood beat term it a "good day" when they can grab a couple of shots of a film personality with his or her children on set. Still photographers at Universal-International Studio did even better recently with three of the top stars.

When Laraine Day made return to films in "Toy Tiger," her children, Chris and Michel, visited her on the set.

Jeff Chandler's children, Jamie, 9, and Dana, 7, are seen with parents at the premiere of "Away All Boats."

Miguel Ferrer rides shoulders of dad, Jose, on set of "The Great Man." Jose's daughter, Leticia, looks on.

His Art Depicts Medieval History

Finishing touches are applied to his 36-foot mural on history of treatment of mentally ill by E. C. Wallin of Long Beach State College faculty.

AN ART INSTRUCTOR who is something of an authority on the treatment of the mentally ill . . . !

That is Eugene C. Wallin, faculty member at Long Beach State College who last summer as a graduate student at Pennsylvania State University painted a mural for the admissions lobby of the new state hospital at Hollidaysburg, Pa.

It is a 36-foot, four-section mural, each of the nine-by-five foot panels dealing with a separate period in the history of mental care.

THE MURAL, which fulfills part of Wallin's thesis requirements for his doctor of education degree from Pennsylvania State, traces the evolution of care of the mentally ill from early herb dosages to modern psychiatric techniques and miracle drugs.

Included in the pictorial narrative are Dorothea Dix, who traveled about the country in the last century exhorting state legislatures to support welfare institutions, and spending her own fortune in the process; Thomas S. Kirkbride, who formed a team with Miss Dix and designed and built mental hospitals, including a model institution in Philadelphia; and Benjamin Rush, a signer of the Declaration of Independence and the first American physician to do research on mental illness.

WALLIN USED the moon—once believed to cause madness and the origin of the term "lunatic" as a symbol running through the mural. It dominates the first panel but gradually is "eclipsed out" in the next three.

The artist painted the mural in a quiet spot on the Pennsylvania campus—the artificial ice skating rink. He fastened his canvas onto four wooden frames and hung them on pulleys from the ceiling.

HE HAS PAINTED in oils for years, and exhibited in a show in the Illinois State Fair.

He is a native of Rockford, Ill., and received his bachelor of arts degree from Beloit College, Wis., in 1949 and his master of fine arts from the University of Iowa in 1951.

Yule Feast of Lights

By Ellen Saunders

REDLANDS UNIVERSITY'S annual public Christmas program—the moving Feast of Lights — is scheduled for the campus chapel this year on Dec. 15 and 16.

This will be the 10th consecutive year the unique dramatization of the Christmas story has been presented at the college.

Performances are planned for Saturday and Sunday nights and Sunday afternoon.

The pageant takes place in two parts. The first act tells the story of the Nativity, tracing the thread of prophecy of the coming of Christ through the Fulfillment. It is presented in song and narration interspersed by music from the big four-manual Cassvant organ and orchestral accompaniment.

FOR THE CLIMAX of the program, the audience joins with the 150-member student choir in the singing of the traditional Christmas carols.

During the early part of the second act, the chapel is illuminated with a single candle at the altar.

Then, one by one, faculty members representing the 12 apostles light other candles from the altar flame.

The Feast of Lights figuratively becomes that when the choristers light their candles, the chapel gradually lighting up with the hundreds of winking flames.

WITH THE CHOIR moved to illuminate the manger scene, now visible for the first time, the audience begins filing out of the sanctuary as the choristers sing "Silent Night."

Each spectator stops at the door and looks back for a last glance at the singers, each holding a candle, standing below the manger scene in which Mary, Joseph and the shepherds and kings kneel in adoration before the Christ child.

use plenty of packing," says another clerk. "Wrap the carton in heavy paper and use heavy cord — pulled tight. Any parcel wrapped like that will get through in good shape."

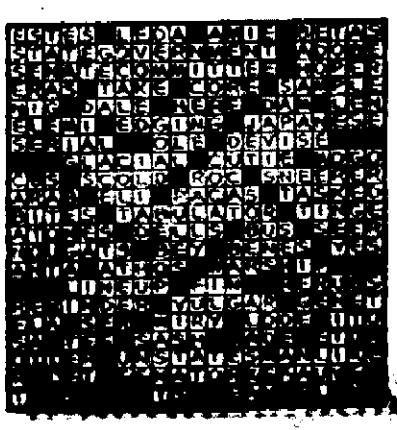

THE CALM of the post office is that of a David, full of faith, prepared to cut a giant down to size. This giant will be conquered, but only to spring up again, bigger than ever next year, which is another story.

"This Christmas rush is just part of the job," says a carrier. "I've been at it 12 years and it's just a matter of getting used to it."

He paused reflectively. "Come to think of it," he adds, "I've never gotten used to it, but who wants to get used to Christmas?"

PENNEY'S FIFTH AND PINE DOWNTOWN LONG BEACH

The Mission California Forgot

The Mission Nuestra Senora de la Soledad, long neglected, is being restored by the Native Daughters.

By Helen Smith

THERE is a mistaken belief that all of California's picturesque missions along El Camino Real have been restored.

One of the originals, built in 1791, was completely neglected until 1939. The adobe walls of Mission Nuestra Senora de la Soledad, located midway between King City and Salinas, had long been in the process of returning to the soil from which they were made until discovered by California Native Daughters of the Golden West.

Through the efforts of this group the mission, 13th in a chain of 21 founded by the Spanish padres as they walked along the Kings Highway almost two centuries ago, has been partially restored.

IN AUGUST of 1955, the original bell that once called Indian neophytes to services in Mission Soledad, rang its summons again in the rebuilt chapel for the first time in 118 years when secularization brought almost immediate ruin to the edifice.

Founded on Oct. 9, 1791 by Father Fermin de Lasuen, the building was never pretentious nor as attractive as those located in this area. It did, however, serve as an important link in the chain and continued the development of the Salinas Valley area.

IN 1834, 700 Indians were dependent upon the mission. It was stocked with 4500 head of cattle, 163 horses and mules and 4950 sheep. Six hundred and eighty three bushels of grain were harvested in one year.

Mission Soledad was a refuge for coastal missions when the pirate Bouchard plundered and burned along the Monterey shores. Although the soil was comparatively poor, through the kindness of the padres prosperity and contentment abounded there for more than 40 years.

THE PICTURE quickly changed when the priests at Mission Soledad were divested of their authority. The Indians forsook their religious teachings by the hundreds and in only a few short years decay set in.

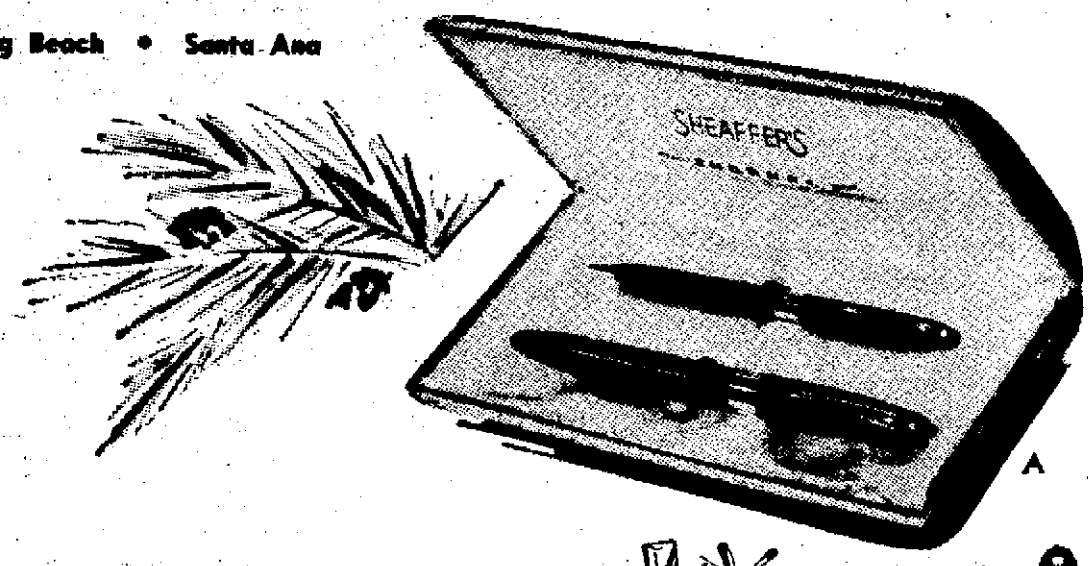

Fr. Vicente Francisco de Sarria, then in charge, was unwilling to desert the Indians even though the church no longer supported the missions. A few of his followers stayed by him until he died of hunger and want and his remains were carried to Mission San Antonio de Padua for burial.

Mission Soledad is the only one overlooked by state-wide programs to rebuild these venerable structures. Because it is a priceless landmark, the Native Daughters of the Golden West have undertaken a restoration program with the result that $26,000 has been spent on the project to date.

The graves of Jose Joaquin de Arrilage, governor of California, and Padre Florence Ibanez are located somewhere among the ruins. It is hoped that they will be revealed during future building.

Although the walls were reduced almost to ground level and mute desolation prevailed, old records provide complete architectural details to enable the old and stately church and school to again take its place among California's famed historical spots.

'STAY ON YOUR FEET OR DIE' AT BATAAN

heat on April 17, Kiernan began the torturous 100-mile Death March to San Fernando Pampanga. Those who fell or tried to get water out of a muddy ditch along the road were shot or bayoneted.

Many of the American troops started the march with canteens of water, but mid-way along, the Jap soldiers moved through and stripped these from the parched captives.

About three-fourths of the 200 men in Kiernan's group made it to San Fernando Pampanga. It was the first in a seemingly endless string of hellish experiences that was to reduce Kiernan from a healthy young man standing five feet, eight inches and weighing 142 pounds to a disease-ridden skeleton of less than 70 pounds.

THE BOXCAR RIDE to O'Donnell Prison, where "incredible filth," dysentery, malaria and slow starvation began to exact a steady toll of lives.

Cabanatuan Prison, in central Luzon.

A lesson here.

Four men try to escape, are caught attempting to crawl under the fence. Each is given a shovel, and an American sergeant is sent along with them in a guarded truck.

He brings back the hair-raising story: the first man is shot; the next in line is forced to bury him in a shallow grave; then he is shot, and the fiendish plot unfolds until the sergeant digs the fourth would-be escapees's grave, and he returns.

"I know of no successful escape from a Japanese prisoner-of-war camp," says Kiernan. "It was foolhardy, and I never gave it a thought."

November 1942, and a grim 19-day voyage to Japan. Kiernan and 599 other prisoners crammed in the hold of a small ship with only one small toilet "honey bucket" and everyone suffering from dysentery. The men clad only in cotton khakis, starting out in unbearable heat and running northward into winter's paralyzing cold, with waves washing down on the wretched men through the open hold.

JAPAN, AND Camp Tanagawa on the main island of Honshu. Kiernan suffering from the diseases of malnutrition: beriberi, dysentery, scurvy, periodically partially losing his eyesight. Under the pretense of calisthenics, the weakened men forced to do the "goosestep" every morning.

Zentsuji Prison on the island of Shikoku, for 2½ years. No heat in the barracks, but above all, "the one real problem was food—we were being starved gradually, but systematically."

But through it all, Kiernan had hope.

"Those who didn't, died," he explains.

Ironically, the bigger men died first. Their constitution demanded more calories.

A diabolical blow at the mind and morale.

Red Cross shipments of food and medicine were brought out to the camp, stacked in the middle of the compound and there they lay.

"The Japs allowed us to sit on the boxes but they never let us open one, and men died because they didn't," says Kiernan.

A FINAL MOVE to Rokuroshi Camp on Honshu, and Kiernan was at his lowest ebb. His fingernails and hair had stopped growing, yet his captors kept him working hard, digging in a sweet potato patch.

Then one day a rumor from a guard that the Americans had "used a terrible weapon to destroy one of our cities." On Aug. 22, 1945, eight days after the unconditional surrender, the heretofore arrogant Jap camp commander, humbly brought the news to the senior officer among the prisoners and to a man, they dropped to their knees in prayer.

Not a pretty story, but one with a happy ending for Kiernan.

Retired from the Army, he works for Long Beach Gas Dept., resides with his attractive wife, Bettie, at 3315 E. First St. He is now 43.

He has had a couple of major stomach operations, but his health is now good.

HOW DID HE survive what so many others couldn't?

"It wasn't determination completely, because I heard men say: 'I won't die. I'm going to beat this thing.' And then die as they said it," he states quietly.

"Maybe it was luck. It's anybody's guess."

Soap Opera Is Her Dish

Mary K. Welles, former Long Beach girl, is going great guns as an actress in New York soap opera.

By Earl Wilson

"It Happened Last Night" Columnist

ACTRESS Mary K. Welles of Long Beach is an avid "soap opera" listener — and it isn't only because she acts in them.

"I even listen when I'm at home," confided Mary K., who's currently in New York and heard on ABC Radio's "True Story," "Whispering Streets," "When a Girl Marries."

Mary K. formerly lived on Loma Ave. in Long Beach and her mother, Mary Ludewig, was a radio script writer for Station KGER and a free lance writer for the old Long Beach Sun.

"When I was 8 years old I decided I wanted to be an actress," Mary K. said. "Mother said, 'Sure, sure, you'll be a school teacher.'

"But when I got to be 12 and still said I wanted to be an actress, she said, 'Okay, by this age you ought to know.'"

MARY K. REMEMBERS her drama coach, Miss Dougherty, at Wilson High School. She also took lessons from the Long Beach coaches, Mr. and Mrs. Elias Day, and appeared at the Community Playhouse.

After making two pictures at Paramount, Mary K. headed for New York eight years ago where she's made her mark on radio and TV (Robert Montgomery, Philco Playhouse, etc.). During the summers, she's had roles with some of the big stock companies, including Elitch Gardens in Denver.

"I prefer radio to television," Mary K. said emphatically, and she's a veteran of both.

"THE DIFFERENCE IS this," she said. "TV is a challenge to your nerves — radio to your talent."

"Working on TV is like giving a performance in tight shoes."

Mary K.'s the only one of her family ever to be in show business, but she told me her fifth great uncle was pretty famous.

"Who's that?" I asked.

"George Washington," she said.

Casey Stengel, boss of the Yankees and wife Edna relax in recreation room of their Glendale home.

Casey Takes It Easy

By Bob Myers

Associated Press Staff Writer

THE CASEY STENGEL in the off-season quiet of Glendale isn't much different from the Stengel of the excitement of New York as the manager of the Yankee baseball club.

Only the physical surroundings and the atmosphere are in contrast, and a sharp one it is.

In New York, Casey is under pressure. Life there is one of big crowds, and exacting demands, and residence in the luxury of an apartment overlooking Central Park.

This, of course, is apart from the demands Casey faces each day as the working field general of the New York Yankees, a job which pays him more than $80,000 a year.

GLENDALE IS FAR different in the few months of the year that Casey can call it home.

Here Casey Stengel of the ball field wars might well be Charles Dillon Stengel, his christened name.

The Stengel of this off-season, off-beat mood lives in a large two-storied home well back of a wide front lawn.

Back of the house is the sun house. It fronts on a swimming pool large enough to accommodate most of the neighborhood's children, which it frequently does.

This handsome home was built by Mrs. Stengel's father. The pool is the oldest in Glendale. "Casey," says Mrs. Stengel, "has been in it twice."

THE "OLD PERFESSOR" is really taking it easy this off-season, his most strenuous activity is emptying the waste-paper baskets. More constructively, he enjoys barbecue cooking and is highly accomplished in the art of lighting a successful blaze.

Casey is getting large chunks of just plain rest, taking a nap when he feels like it. Occasionally, he drives out to inspect some family real estate. On Saturday afternoons, he is glued to his television set to watch football.

Now Casey is at the very peak of the game, his Yankees have won seven out of eight pennants since he took over as manager, and they have won six world series.

"I can verify that Casey has not changed a bit," Mrs. Stengel comments.

"SOMETIMES HERE at home, maybe after a cocktail, he'll try to get by with a little bragging about himself.

"But he doesn't get very far. Not with me, or Jack or some of our nieces to calm him down."

Casey interrupted and started out on his favorite theme—the Yankees, and the 1956 Series.

"Casey," said Mrs. Stengel, "turned in the greatest job of managing this year he ever did."

Casey, with a familiar, rasping growl, which seldom scares anyone too much, groaned.

"Aw, cripes, what do you know about it. Now you take..."

"Now you just listen," interrupted Mrs. S., regaining the floor. "I ought to know something. I'm out to the ball park every day."

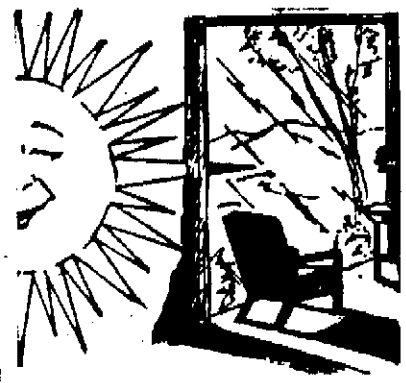

SHE WENT ON to recall that she wanted Casey to retire from baseball in 1949, and again in 1952.

"But when we won in 1953," said Mrs. Stengel, "I decided that if he was that good a man-

Adventure With No Holds Barred

JACK LONDON was a man's man, a rough-and-tough, no-holds-barred adventurer. He had his first drink (beer) at the age of 9, became an oyster pirate in San Francisco Bay at 16, and later became a U.S. officer to wipe out the pirates who were destroying the oyster beds. He breezed through the University of California at Berkeley in 19 months and then raced for the Alaska gold rush without waiting for his graduation paper. He was the first to run the rapids on the McMillan River above White Horse while other miners portaged around, bummed across Canada and the United States as a hobo, lived in the slums of London, crossed the Pacific in a small boat called the Snark. He became a reporter to cover such epochal events as the Russo-Japanese war and, finally — before his death in 1916 — built his famous Wolf House on his ranch at Glen Ellen, Northern California.

Through all his countless adventures he had a burning desire to write, and write he did. And everything he wrote was imbued with all the movement, color and excitement he found in his own adventures.

Wishing to preserve London's best stories in a single volume for a new generation, Irving Shepard has edited "Jack London's Tales of Adventure" (Hanover House, $4.95). In the introduction he explains that he has attempted to select the most absorbing tales London ever wrote — reflecting a representative selection from all phases of the adventurer's diverse literary career—novels, sociological and political essays, sports, war reporting, autobiography, travel.

Mr. Shepard did his job well. The volume contains selections from such famous books as "The Seawolf," "Martin Eden," such adventure as "The Cruise of the Snark," his reporting on the Jeffries-Johnson fight, and 25 of his famous short stories. The work is illustrated with an album of London photographs, many of them quite rare. Men with red blood will read this one from cover to cover.

MONICA STIRLING, author of the widely commended "Boy in Blue" gives us in her new volume the story of a French love affair, "Some Darling Folly" (Coward McCann, $3.50). An artist with words, Miss Stirling sketches with controlled sweeps actor Remy Malet, lovely Sophie Dubois and her husband Etienne; and she recreates scenes of Paris, of the world of the theatre and of the courts, with the heart and mind of the below-surfaces craftsman. This short but most satisfying story of the handsome actor's affair with his married lover is delicately done, with no offensive language, with subtlety. Though the impression left is not so deep as that left by Miss Stirling's previous work, it does offer the mature reader a suspenseful evening as the two lovers spar for positions. Cleverly, Miss Stirling often keeps the husband in the background; but his presence is always felt; and he comes alive, as do the two lovers, and other characters as well.

"ONE WAY TICKET," mystery by Bert and Dolores Hitchens, 5530 Parkcrest St., will be published this month by Doubleday, Inc. Mrs. Hitchens, a mystery writer of long standing, is the author of 30 mystery books, some written under the nom-de-plume of D. B. Olsen. This is the second book in which she and her husband have collaborated. The new book is a fast-paced, technically accurate story of railroad detection. Last year their "F.O.B. Murder" won many mentions among lists of the year's best, including the New York Times' "Best Ten."

S. J. LASSER'S new "1957 Income Tax Guide" (Arco, $1), prepared specifically for the filing of 1956 returns, takes the American taxpayer through his 1956 return step by step and shows him how to make the greatest savings on every and any item concerning him. Lasser has authored several books dealing with tax matters, and has had numerous tax articles published in national general and financial magazines.

LOUIS UNTERMEYER

A book to be cherished by those who love humor. "A Treasury of Ribaldry" (Hanover, $4.95) is certain to find a permanent niche in many a private library hereabouts. Containing gems from the works of the world's greatest writers—from Ovid to Ogden Nash—it was edited, with critical notes and running commentary, by none other than Louis Untermeyer who certainly knows a good laugh when he sees one.

NEW PAPERBACK originals (never before published in book form) that make good reading: "Washington Lowdown," expose of what goes on in the nation's capital, by Larston D. Farrar (Signet, 25c); "The Branded Man," action western by Luke Short (Dell First Edition, 25c); "Rebel Gun," Missouri in 1866, by Arthur Steuer (Dell First Edition, 25c); "Assignment: Murder," killers on the loose, by Donald Hamilton (Dell First Edition, 25c).

FOOD

Cookies for Christmas Gifts

By Mildred K. Flanary
Independent, Press-Telegram
Home Economics Editor

ALWAYS WELCOME are gifts of food. If the food is gaily packaged, that's a "plus"—and if it reveals that an individual's tastes have been remembered, then it is a compliment as well as a gift. We cannot always make our gifts so meaningful but, at Christmas, we should make a special effort toward something extra.

Cookies, which make an ideal gift, may be packaged in any way that suits one's fancy—in boxes, baskets, in cellophane, foil or other pretty papers. Many families have traditional recipes for making Christmas cookies, but perhaps the following recipes may provide a desired variety.

Brownies

¾ cup sifted cake flour
½ teaspoon double-acting baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
⅓ cup butter or other shortening
2 or 3 squares unsweetened chocolate
2 eggs
1 cup sugar
½ cup chopped walnuts
1 teaspoon vanilla

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift again. Melt shortening and chocolate together over hot water. Beat eggs well, add sugar gradually, and beat thoroughly. Then add chocolate mixture and blend. Add flour and mix well; then stir in nuts and vanilla.

Bake in greased 8x8x2-inch pan in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 25 minutes for moist chewy brownies; or 30 minutes for cake-like brownies. Cool in pan; then cut in squares or rectangles. Makes about 20 brownies.

If desired, frost with confectioners' icing, which may be tinted green and flavored with peppermint, and press ½ candied cherry on top of each brownie.

Confectioners' Icing

1 egg white stiffly beaten
2½ cups sifted confectioners' sugar
2 teaspoons hot water
1 teaspoon vanilla

Add about ½ sugar to egg white, beating thoroughly. Add remaining sugar, alternately with water, until of right consistency to spread. Add vanilla and beat thoroughly.

Mincemeat Surprises

3½ cups sifted cafe flour
2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup butter or other shortening
½ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
1 egg, unbeaten
2 tablespoons milk
1 teaspoon vanilla

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Cream shortening, add sugar gradually and cream together until light and fluffy. Add egg and beat well. Then add flour, alternately with the milk, a small amount at a time, beating well after each addition. Add vanilla and blend. Chill until firm enough to roll (about 1 hour).

Roll dough ⅛ inch thick on lightly floured board and cut with floured 2½-inch cookie cutter. Place half of cookies on ungreased baking sheet. Place one teaspoonful of Mincemeat Filling in center of each and spread out to within ¼ inch of edge. Cut small hole in center of each remaining cookie; then place on top of filling, pressing edges together to seal. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees F.) 10 minutes, or until done. Makes about 2½ dozen cookies.

Mincemeat Filling. Combine 1 cup mincemeat, ¾ cup firmly packed brown sugar and ½ teaspoon rum flavoring; mix well.

Christmas in a Magic Kingdom

Giant tree, carolers and costumed performers will roam through shops and streets of Disneyland in the Christmas season, in manner of drawing above.

By Jeri Ceresi

BRIGHTEST SPOT in all the Southland this Christmas will be Walt Disney's Magic Kingdom in Anaheim.

Walt is presently readying a glorious old-fashioned festival for the enjoyment of the thousands of holiday season visitors to his 20 million-dollar entertainment capital.

Live entertainment in the form of hundreds of visiting choral groups, orchestras, choirs and bands will blend with the park's majestic yule season decorations to carry the happy spirit of Christmas to all lands.

Added to these visiting groups, who will appear on a scheduled basis, will be the Disneyland Carollers, costumed performers who will roam the streets, shops and restaurants of the Magic Kingdom each day from noon till closing, starting Tuesday, Dec. 11.

LAST YEAR'S Christmas at Disneyland drew excited praise from the thousands of holiday season visitors, both local and from out of state. Theme of the decorations will carry the joy and beauty of a turn-of-the-century Christmas time, in harmony with the park's 1900 era Main St. area.

Youngsters will delight to long forgotten Christmas customs as they are revived through the magic touch of Walt Disney. Older folks will relive childhood memories with the wandering carolers, old-fashioned festooning and "period piece" window decorations of the Main St. shops.

All of Main St. will seem a giant Christmas package, decorated on every foot of its length. Overhead, natural green garlands reach from buildings on both sides of the street. The authentic gas lamps that illuminate Main St. will be hung with Old English holly wreaths and silver and gold bells.

ILLUMINATED cutouts of sacred and festive Christmas scenes will greet the visitor at every turn. Capping the decorations and providing Main St. with its most spectacular sight are the buildings themselves, outlined with thousands of multi-colored light bulbs.

At the terminus of Main St., in Disneyland's Central Plaza, will be the park's giant tree — a full 40 feet in height and decorated on every bough and stem, capturing in its evergreen branches all the joy and happiness of the Christmas season.

SOUTHLAND HOMES

Making Capital of Disadvantages

Artistic landscaping and ingenious architecture join to make this house "at home" on narrow, sloping lot.

Ojai fieldstone used for a fireplace and wall in beautifully grained ash highlight the living room of Dr. and Mrs. Hans Weil and their two girls.

By Eileen Ball

FROM THE STANDPOINT of beauty and from the excellence of its location, the lot Dr. and Mrs. Hans Weil found at 263 Granada Ave. was a superb "find"—especially for this city where land for building is as scarce as the proverbial hen's teeth. But what they did not fully appreciate — until their architects showed them — was the enormous difficulty of designing a house for this comparatively narrow lot that sloped so abruptly from its north side in a seven-foot drop. The topographical characteristic coupled with the special desires the Weils had in mind for their home imposed a great many restrictions on their architects, Richard Poper and William Lockett, AIA.

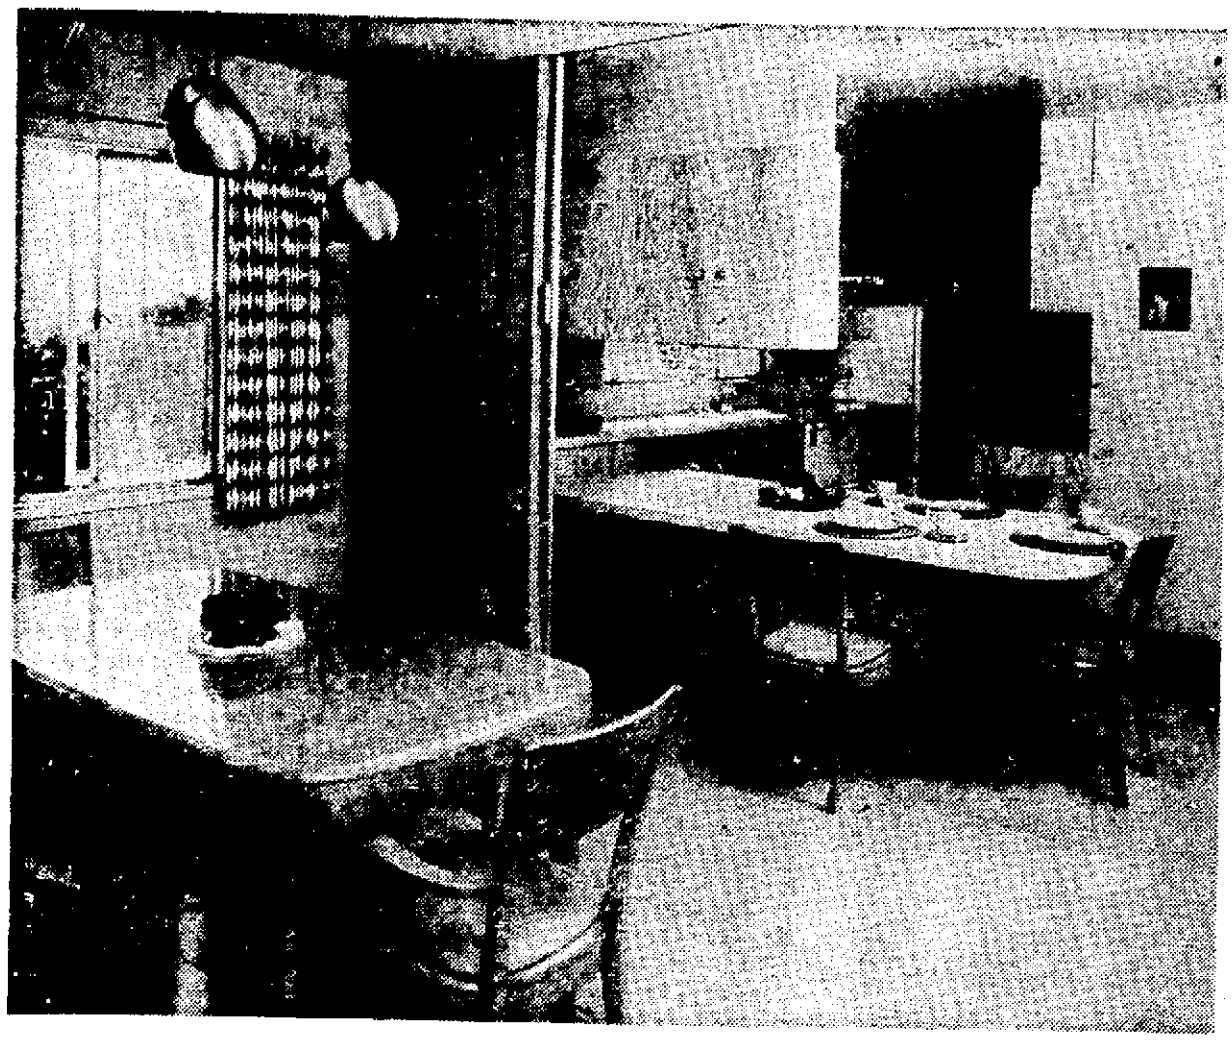

The house that resulted is scarcely a year old. It embodies all that the Weils wanted—and more. It is highly functional, the architecture extremely attractive, and it turns the disadvantages of the site to aesthetic advantage, belying both the drop and the width of the lot.

THE EXTERIOR of the house is of sandlewood stucco, cream-colored wood and natural redwood board and batten siding. The width of the house is seemingly extended through use of spans of redwood eggcrate lattice.

Already existing along the Kitchen and dining areas of the Weil home merge into a unified and highly functional component. Two rooms effected by closing a leather partition.

north side of the lot was a retaining wall of used brick. Now, the walkway leading back to the secluded entry is bordered by planting and this low, attractive wall.

To the left of the front door is a fixed panel of clear glass against which grows a mass of tropical greenery. This attractive entryway is completely sheltered by the flat overhang of the roof, plastered underneath with the sandlewood stucco.

The front door opens to a completely separate entry carpeted in brown and white tweed wool and paneled in natural ash. A free-standing cabinet of curly Japanese ash stands out from the entry wall on wooden legs, a unique arrangement for guest wraps.

To the right of the entry is the living room with an unusually high ceiling, a dimension determined largely by Dr. Weil's highly prized possession—an antique breakfront, more than 300 years old. From the Bishop's Castle in Frieburg, Germany, this enormous piece of furniture stands nearly as high as the ceiling which is two feet above average. Of solid rosewood, it is 10 feet wide and has multi-paned doors of hand blown glass.

BALANCING THE ROOM at the opposite end is a fireplace of combined Ojai and Santa Maria fieldstone. The ceiling is of white acoustical plaster spanned with heavy beams and two walls are completely paneled in natural honey-colored ash.

Two painted walls are of a shade of sandlewood that identically matches the boucle curtains. They drape the west exposure that is almost completely glass. Centering the glass walls are panels that slide open to a sheltered terrace and the garden. Spanning the width of the glass is a lighting trough that effectively lights the beamed ceiling.

The room is furnished with a pair of sofas — modern in line and upholstered in off-white wool tweed, a pair of Dux chairs from Sweden that are upholstered in a pink-and-brown geometric print, a round cocktail table and a handsome corner table of oiled teakwood.

TO THE LEFT of the entry is the den . . . a sanctuary that is exclusively Dr. Weil's domain. It is mahogany-paneled and features vast amounts of built-in bookshelves and storage compartments, and includes hi-fi system and an enviable collection of records. Along the other side of the room runs a bank of windows that overlook the walkway. Here is Dr. Weil's large birch desk. A pair of teak and oak chairs with rush seats plus a love seat upholstered in oatmeal tweed provide seating. Everything for Dr. Weil's convenience and enjoyment—in pursuit of his profession at home and of his hobbies—is included in this room.

Directly beyond the entry is the kitchen and dining room, an area which, essentially integrated, may be readily separated by an expansive folding leather door.

The floor of the dining area is cork. The end walls and the ceiling are putty colored. The other wall of the dining room is "papered" in natural burlap, a wonderful material for the art connoisseur who changes his paintings occasionally, for this is a wall covering that hides the nailholes!

A LARGE AND simply designed dining table of birch has matching chairs upholstered in turquoise. Over the table hangs a contemporary light fixture of brass. Draperies are sill length, of a colorful harlequin pattern flecked with gold.

The large kitchen has a wealth of ash cabinets. Separating the dining room from the preparation area is a large breakfast bar, wide enough for the proper setting of china and glassware. Countertops in the kitchen are surfaced with beige linen-like plastic. Flecked vinyl flooring is copper, black and white. From the kitchen a door opens to the patio, facilitating the serving of outdoor meals. The back door opens to a completely sheltered breeze way to the garage, a feature of importance to a doctor who must, occasionally, make night calls in all sorts of weather.

Connecting the two bedrooms of the Weils' daughters is a spacious bath specifically designed for their joint use. A long Pullman counter surfaced with pink-and-black figured plastic contains two lavatories. On either side of the bathroom are built-in chests exactly the same size. Dorothy's bedroom is turquoise and brown. Ruth's room is decorated in shades of pink and chocolate.

THE MASTER bedroom has putty-beige walls and ceiling, with one long wall completely lined with wardrobes. The bedspread is deep turquoise. Large windows overlook the front of the lot and are curtained with sill-length sandlewood draperies. A built-in chest of drawers is crafted of natural ash and terminated in a handy dressing table backed with a plate mirror. Hand-blocked paper was used for two walls of the room, featuring a dull gold geometric pattern on an off-white ground.

The master bath is large. Its fixtures of seafoam green match the tile Pullman counter. Pale green wallpaper completes the monochromatic scheme.

Living room is oriented to the patio and garden. The single level was gained by filling in the property.

Little Lick-Em Sticks

DON'T BREAK your fingernails while cleaning the kitchen tile. Nor should you bruise your fingers polishing carved furniture. Instead, use a lollipop stick! Not for Susie's pleasure alone was this small wooden cylinder created. It and its near relative, the ice cream stick, if washed and kept handy in a drawer, will make life sweeter for you, too! You lick off the goodies and the little sticks will lick tough household chores.

Cleaning tile and around faucets, for instance, can be done this way: First smooth on liquid cleanser, bleach, or scouring powder moistened with water. Allow this cleaning medium to soak into dirt and stain for a few minutes. Make sure that it reaches into all cracks and corners. Then, using pointed end of lollipop stick, work soil gently loose from seams in tile, corners, around faucets and drains. Flush away with warm water, rinse and wipe dry. You'll have gleaming, new-looking tile again —and no chipped fingernails.

YOUR KITCHEN range will not be quite the ogre to clean it sometimes appears to be if you let a lollipop or ice cream stick help you. Wrap a cloth about a stick, dip in cleaning solution. And poke away at the dirt and grime on gas burners, sharp corners and other hard-to-get-at places that seem to be a part of every kitchen range. Rinse with hot soapy water, wipe dry. Furnace grates and radiator grilles glow their appreciation at the same treatment.

These little sticks, when wrapped with cotton and dipped in furniture oil, will polish clear to the bottom of those curlicue cracks on furniture scrollwork. Watch the dusty crevices and corners (even those that defy your trusty vacuum cleaner) come shining clean once more.

BY WRAPPING a fluff of cotton about a lollipop stick you can: oil a lock or hinge with minimum of muss and effort; touch up marred or scratched woodwork with paint or varnish; clean gently but thoroughly around the dials of your automatic washer, dryer, refrigerator and other appliances; get behind locks and in corners of windows.

You can loosen burned-on food from pots and pans with a lollipop or ice cream stick. You can stir small cans of paint with them. In fact, before attempting any task that demands scraping, poking, polishing or stirring, ask yourself: "Will a lollipop stick do this for me?"

HELEN L. GILLUM

"Just where do you think you're going?"

HUMOR CONTINUES to find its way into some of the best fall books, three of which are especially recommended for belly-busting guffaws.

In "Hunt and Ee Damned" (Prentice-Hall, $2.95), Lawrence Lariar—who has long hunted in Flattebush, near Coney Island, and who has been hunted by laugh seekers—cartoons and writes his way to his best effort yet (he has compiled many such collections) in a gallery of hunting types such as "Alcoholics Unanimous," "Through Field and Stream and Hem and Seam," "How to Cook Your Own Goose," and "The Handy Hunters Dictionary." Just the thing for a pleasant easy-chair safari.

"The Hokinson Festival" (Dutton, $5) contains almost 500 cartoons of Helen E. Hokinson's characters—urban, suburban and exurban—which have made readers of The New Yorker exclaim with delight for lo, these many years.

"The Pick of Punch" (Dutton, $3.95), edited by Nicolas Bentley, is a big book crammed with wits and nitwits in the cause of satire and the lighter brand of lunacy. This collection, out of the famous and respected old British magazine, is a galaxy of the world's best writers-in-the-lighter-vein and it's really great!

Christmas Ornaments

Bright aluminum tree, candle or reflector will add to yule decor outdoors. What's more, they're easy to make.

By Walter Finch

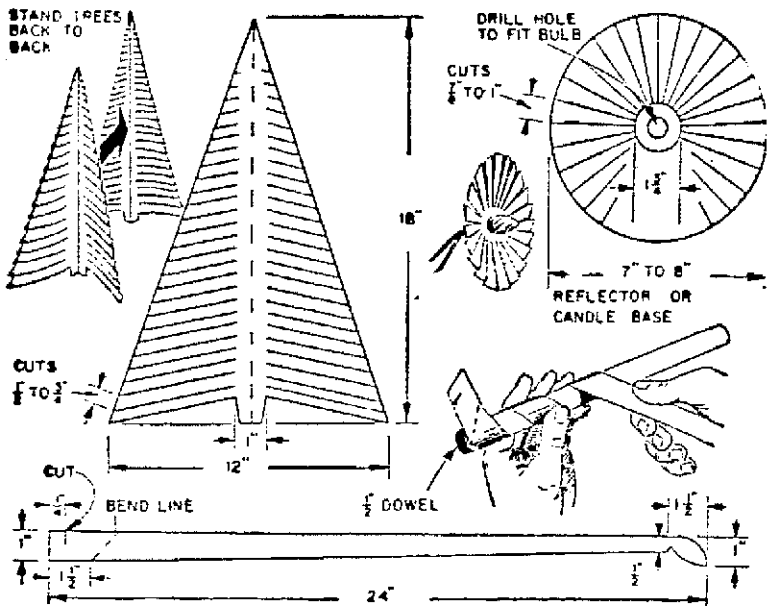

BRIGHT ALUMINUM shaped as a tree or candle and as a king-size reflector for outdoor lights will make your home gayer this Christmas. They're easy to make, too, from Do-It-Yourself aluminum. Because they're metal and won't rust, you can use them again, year after year.

To make the tree, cut the triangular shaped blanks as shown. Bend each half down the center, then cut parallel slits from each side ½" to ¾" apart, using ordinary scissors or household shears. Set cut halves back to back on a mantle or as a table centerpiece.

The reflector is simply a disc of plain aluminum sheet with slits cut into it from the edge. Drill the hole to fit the bulbs.

WIND THE STRIP cut for the candle around a ½" dowel; then pull out the dowel. Bend the bottom end to fit into one of the slits cut into a base like the reflector. When the season is over, the candle is simple to take apart and store.

Reynolds Do-It-Yourself aluminum is available at your local lumber or hardware store.

Bargain in Spain

Spanish hotels and restaurants, already a bargain, now have government-fixed price ceilings on table d'hote meals, according to Trans World Airlines officials in Madrid. Maximum prices for four-course meals are: Luxury class, $1.40; first-class, $1.15; second-class, 95 cents; third-class, 75 cents. TWA's Holiday Discount Fare to Madrid is another bargain — $479.60 round trip from the United States, allowing 15 full days in Europe.

RESORTS AND TRAVEL

Around the World With DELAPLANE

I understand there are several kinds of "taverns" in England. What are they like?

THE BAR SYSTEM in England is so complicated that I gave up trying to work it out. There are pubs. The pubs include "private bars" sometimes, "public bars" sometimes, and "saloon" bars. The beer is drawn from the same tap. But the prices are different according to where you sit.

As near as I can figure it out, you can take a lady into the saloon bar and sit down. In the private bar you sit on a stool. In the public bar, you stand up and play darts.

Beer is ordered by the pint or half pint. And if you order beer you don't get what you think of as beer. If you want beer you order bitter. There's something called "arf and arf." I have not had nerve enough to give it a chemical test.

The pubs are good for luncheons. Some that I've tried in London and liked are The Antelope, Jack Straw's Castle and Nag's Head.

We would like to see some of the French countryside. How would you suggest we go?

I PREFER to drive in France. Buy the Guide Michelin (on any sidewalk magazine kiosk.) Tells you prices, best hotels, best cellars, best foods. All in all the best driving guide in the world. The French National Tourist Bureau, 8 Avenue de l'Opera, has a list of car rentals ranging from $2.25 to $4.50 per day (15 days or more) plus 3½ to 6½ cents per kilometer. Or look in the Paris edition of the New York Herald Tribune.

My daughter is planning to do some summer school work next year. She thinks she would like Mexico. Can you tell me of any schools there that offer summer courses?

Some schools in Mexico catering to Americans for summer study are Mexico City College, La Escuela Interamericana, Saltillo (Coahuila), Instituto Tecnologico de Monterrey, Monterrey (Nuevo Laredo) and Universidad de Guanajuanto, Guanajuanto (Guanajuanto). Language and culture courses mainly.

For art the Instituto Allende, San Miguel Allende (Guanajuanto).

For a complete list of Latin American schools that give summer courses, write for Opportunities for Summer Study in Latin America. Available for 10 cents from the Pan American Union, Department of Cultural Affairs, Division of Education, Washington, D. C.

Your mailed questions will be answered (no phone calls). Send stamped and addressed envelope to: Stan Delaplane, Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, Sixth and Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif.

Tongue-Twister

Among the hundreds of Welsh tongue-twisters is a place called Tu Hwnt i'r Bont, says Pan American. It's a cafe on the banks of the River Conway near a hump-backed stone bridge. Unlike the pronunciation, the [illegible] say Tu Hwnt i'r Bont, when you mean "beyond the bridge."

Pan American World Airways

Chez Justin in the village of Eze on the French Riviera is typical of relaxing centers that dot the Mediterranean seacoast of France. Charming, out-of-the-way places are often just as attractive as are the more glamorous resorts, much cheaper to live in and provide a better insight into the warm, sunny land.

Going to Europe?

Anticipating another Europe tourist record next year, local travel agencies are already offering a free "mailing-piece folder" put out by Cook's Travel Service called "Europe Summary of Escorted Tours 1957."

Folder outlines eight escorted Europe tour routes with 102 departure dates from New York and Montreal from March 6 to Oct. 9, plus suggestions regarding several other tours and routes from January onward.

Inclusive fares range from $846 for a 40-day "popular" tour from Montreal, to $2,338 and up for a 56-day "grand tour" from New York with crossings in first class on board Cunard's "Queen" liners.

Many first-time visitors to Europe, travel agents find, prefer escorted tours as an easy way to see the Old World without having to keep an eye on baggage, passport regulations, customs, hotel accommodations and other travel details.

Waikiki Booms

Hawaii's fabulous hotel development at Waikiki Beach, a tourist "eighth wonder," may soon see another tower of tourism rise on one of the world's most famous strands.

And thereby soon may pass one of the travelers landmarks —the Halekulani Hotel, as such —now known as a bit of the old and true Hawaii. The Halekulani is up for lease or sale.

The hotel was founded by Robert Lewers and has been under the continuous lease or outright ownership of Kimball family since 1917 when it was taken over by Clifford Kimball. It is now operated by the Kimball interests under the direction of George P. Kimball, trustee, and Richard K. (Kingie) Kimball, general manager. It is located midway on Waikiki Beach between Matson and Kaiser Hotel properties, a prime beach area with top swimming, surfing and catamaran sailing conditions. Although of only 190 rooms, it is one of the four top Waikiki hotels on a beautifully landscaped site capable of supporting an operation of some 1,000 rooms.

Greater service to Waikiki, greater revenue possibilities and the need for 3,000 more hotel rooms in the area to care for the projected influx of tourists in the jet transport age has led to the decision to modernize, according to the Kimballs.

Meantime, the service that has won the Halekulani global fame will be continued, with the hope that any future deal may incorporate a continuance of many of these desirable features, it was indicated.

"Mele Kalikimaka!"

Modern catamaran, a version of ancient Polynesians' twin-hulled canoe, is used by Santa Claus in Hawaii.

By Catherine McNaught

CHRISTMAS is a latter-day fete in the ancient annals of Hawaiian Island customs and, therefore, it is only natural the Hawaiian Santa Claus should come sailing into Honolulu from the sea, to leap ashore with his pack of good things. No sleigh for him on this happy coral shore!

And his merry greeting is "Mele Kalikimaka!" instead of the usual "Merry Christmas!" That's because "r" and "s" were foreign to the original Hawaiian language and the natives could not handle them in speech.

Before the coming of the white man the Hawaiian people were pagan in belief and the celebration of Christmas was an alien observance. It now seems odd that the general acceptance of Christmas was delayed due to the objection of the first missionaries from Boston, a serious and dedicated people. Too intent on educating and converting the natives they dicouraged their noisy, boistrous way of celebrating the Christ Mass.

THE HAWAIIANS are basically a happy people and will celebrate anything. They had always delighted in religious festivals, but in 1819 when the Kapu system of the old gods was discarded, they were without a religious belief. For this reason the native chiefs welcomed the missionaries and encouraged their people to become Christians. Today the Christmas holidays are celebrated with a zeal and noise which drives many of the more conservative citizens out of the cities, as firecrackers are an essential part of the celebration.

The first Christmas observance recorded in the Hawaiian Islands took place in 1786, prior to the arrival of the missionaries, aboard the English ship, the Queen Charlotte, anchored off the island of Kauai. Native chiefs were invited and gifts were distributed to the children on shore. This was the period when a flourishing fur trade with the Orient had developed and British and American ships started arriving in large numbers. They had discovered the strategic location of the islands and stopped to take on water and supplies.

HOWEVER, IT WAS not until 1862 that King Kamehameha IV and Queen Emma, members of the Church of England, gave official sanction to the Christmas holiday, and published a proclamation to that effect. A Christmas Eve service was held in the church, which the King and Queen attended, followed by a torch light procession through the streets singing carols, ending at Iolani Palace. Christmas as a religious observance was thus established.

There are unusual phases in the Hawaiian forms of celebration. Each Christmas Eve there is a pageant with carols on the balcony of the Iolani Palace. With no racial prejudice, Japanese, Chinese and Hawaiian children enact the Nativity scene, and the singing of carols is often accompanied by ukuleles and steel guitars. Christmas menus often consist of roast pig and poi, breadfruit and devilfish, accompanied by plenty of limu, a form of seaweed.

THE LIBERAL popping off of firecrackers probably originated from the Chinese custom of setting off fireworks to frighten away bad spirits. But the enthusiasm is the same as on the mainland, and the true Christmas spirit prevails.

From time immemorial the catamaran, the Polynesians' big double canoe, was the means of transportation and exploration from island to island. So, to the deliriously happy children of Honolulu it seems most appropriate for Kris Kringle to arrive aboard a catamaran with Christmas trees in the rigging and bags of toys in the hold.

Ethiopia Calls

Ethopia is beckoning the traveler with a bent for the unusual. Connecting with Trans World Airlines flights into Cairo, Ethopian Air Lines is flying an ever increasing tourist load to Addis Ababa each week. And now that the "big rains" have stopped, the land of the Conquering Lion of Judah expects an even greater influx of travelers.

Hotels in the capital city are excellent and trips into the countryside surrounding the capital are scenically rewarding. The climate is akin to California, visitors report.

PET PARADE

A Word About Exotics

By Eleanor Avery Price

YOUR GENUINE love or distrust of wild animals would determine whether you would be successful in raising an unusual pet such as the mischievous honey bear, or kinkajou, a member of the raccoon family, pictured with this article. And don't fool yourself that animals won't know the difference!

Sheila Stedman, founder and organizer of the World League of Animal Lovers in Durban, South Africa, has proven over and over again that so-called wild animals can instinctively detect friend from foe, and she has witnessed some strange and kind actions toward her by jungle beasts, although she is no longer surprised because she has a true feeling of friendliness and affection toward every wild creature ranging from the smallest animal to the huge elephants of Uganda.

ANOTHER GREAT animal lover, one whose name has been heard and seen frequently this past year, is Prince Ranier III of Monaco. For years the Prince has spent his spare time collecting, keeping, and studying exotic pets. By 1955, a truly fine zoological park was completed on part of the rocky section of the palace gardens.

Prince Ranier himself captured many of the animals which now occupy Centre E'Acclimatation Zoologique de Monaco, the park's name. Fortunately the climate of Monaco is mild and suitable for his exotics.

All of Prince Ranier's captives are treated as pets and are therefore exceptionally tame. The zoo contains chiefly anthropoids such as chimpanzees, an orangutan and gibbon apes, but there are also other monkeys such as the squirrel, black spider, Uakari from Madagascar, and the Woolly.

Cuddles, an affectionate and mischievous kinkajou, or honey bear, is Mrs. Mary Weatherbee's interesting pet.

THE FIRST ZOO is attributed to China and the first emperor of the Chou dynasty who reigned about 1100 B.C. This zoo was called Intelligence Park and was apparently created for scientific and educational reasons.

The ancient Greeks and Romans captured wild animals but slaughtered them in gladiatorial shows. In later years, royalty and wealthy persons maintained menageries, aviaries, and aquaria. Among them were Henry I, Henry III, Henry IV of England and Philip VI of France.

IMPERIAL VALLEY Kennel Club will hold a dog show and obedience trial on Sunday, Dec. 9, at Holtville. Several nearby motels will accommodate guests with well-behaved dogs.

IF YOUR DOG is a barker, get a water pistol and keep it loaded and handy. If the barking is unnecessary, give the dog a squirt right in the face, then scold severely and shake your finger. Eventually an upraised finger will quiet the animal.

loft so that whoever was coming up just out of the bright sunlight wouldn't be able to see us. I could hear the steps groaning one by one. Then — .

It was Uncle Ben! In his right hand — a shotgun! My mind raced with my heartbeat. Uncle Ben pulled himself up and looked around, eyes blankly passing mine several times. He walked slowly towards the haymow door. His back was towards us. Did he know — or was he just being dramatic again to scare my Aunt Mary? I grinned at the thought. Then all of a sudden I felt completely relaxed. The long wait was over. That long, lonely fear of the morning had conquered itself, and I thought, It must be the getting used to being afraid that's worst . . . that's it, the getting used to it!

I LOOKED AT NESTOR. Fear — a stranger to him that morning — was beginning to etch into his face. I looked at Uncle Ben. Now just beginning to open the hayloft door, he was oblivious to fear, but might not be in a minute.

Suddenly a wave of strength seemed to sweep over me. My right hand clutched the pitchfork's neck tightly and I rammed it out in the direction of Nestor's back. He gave a wild shout and leaped up, droping the ax in his panic and raising his hands. As I scrambled up I saw Uncle Ben turn quickly, shout something and then, in his excitement, blast a hole in the barn roof with the shotgun. I stumbled backwards and fell off the edge of the loft.

"You're under arrest," I heard Uncle Ben shout in a high-pitched voice.

It was then that I hit the barn floor, I suppose, for I remember no more.

Situation With Lens Appeal

By the Shutterbug

"A BOY and his dog"—how many times have you read this phrase or seen it pictured in books and magazines? The idea behind it is so universally appealing that it has been used in advertising campaigns for products as diversified as life insurance and linoleum.

In our every-day picture taking, too, children and pets are among the most popular subjects. Someone recently pointed out that more cameras are aimed at kids, canines and cats in one day than at the Grand Canyon in a whole year.

What more could any family want for its album than a happy-go-lucky, youngster-and-dog snapshot like this?

IT'S INTERESTING to note that both youngsters and their favorite animals actually have a great deal in common as subjects. Both of them—whether pictured together or separately—provide plenty of action, can be alternately angelic and aggravating, demand considerable patience on the part of the snapshooter, and view the world from a much lower eye-level than we adults do.

It is by capitalizing on these special characteristics that the picture-taker can succeed in getting really superior snapshots. Shooting kids and their pets is by no means "kid stuff"—but the results are rewarding and make whatever efforts are involved thoroughly worth the little extra time it takes to achieve just the effect you want.

IN MANY CASES, some perfect shots of children and pets we've seen wouldn't have been possible at all unless the picture-taker had come down to their level. Inhibition thrown to the winds—and armed with a few appropriate props like lollipops, balls and biscuits—the snapshooter should be prepared to caper about, laugh and play with his young subjects.

Lively is the word for any child and his pet. So your camera must be ready to catch them "in action"—at precisely the moment when the small youngster and kitten together discover the warmth of an electric blanket, or the tiny pup takes to gnawing on the child's bunny-eared slipper.

To tell your story, don't rely on one shot only—make a series of them.

LONG BEACH CAMERA Guild will have a black and white print contest at 8 p.m. Wednesday in Municipal Art Center, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd.

Winners in the November competitions: Black and white prints, Virginia Wieland, first; Evelyn Richmond, second; Virginia Callender, third; W. J. Thomas, Virginia Callender and Dr. F. W. S. Modern, honorable mention. Color slides: Harold Marosh, first; Virginia Callender, second and third; Evelyn Richmond, Esther Modern, Carl Van Steenbergen and Clara Watkins, honorable mention. Albert Nadeau of Hollywood Camera Club judged the black and white print contest and Charles Schmenger, past president of the YMCA Camera Club, judged the color slide competition.

ager baseball needed him more than I—or California—did."

Casey and Dizzy Dean are past masters in fracturing grammar. Stengel has an edge on Diz, however. He has an amazing knack for sentences that run without benefit of pause or period and eventually end up with such profound conclusions as:

"A club should win in that Brooklyn ball park regardless if it loses."

Many writers have tried, and generally failed, to write down a complete Stengel observation. So, for posterity, on the day I called on him a tape recorder was set up in Casey's den.

He was asked for his reactions on being named the American manager of the year for the fifth time.

HERE IS THE REPLY, which required more tape than we thought it would:

"Well, I'd have to say on this award of the year that naturally the first thing you'd have to say, that is, you should be thankful for the award of that kind and you should be thankful it was not given by one man but by a number of men that are authorities on baseball because they have followed the sport so many years and because it's a voting proposition in which the majority share and therefore that's why you get the selection and feel honored because you have received the selection from the men who voted you the award, which is the writers, the sports writers.

"And the second thing is you got to thank naturally is your ownership for making it possible that they own a ball club and were successful enough to have scouts pick up enough players to make it a very good team.

"And third and last certainly you have got to thank the ball players and the coaches for cooperating great enough to win a pennant and a world championship and naturally that makes the manager more successful, in which no doubt success generally gives you the award although it isn't often you get the award just because you win a pennant or world championship.

"And the fourth thing is you got to be satisfied with yourself that you're doing a good job with the talent entrusted to you."

the recent contest of the Southern California Council of Camera Clubs. Slides taken at the recent convention of the Photographic Society of America at Denver, will be shown under the auspices of El Camino Camera Club at 8 p.m. Monday in Plummer Park, 7373 Santa Monica Blvd.

FOUR YEARS AGO one of the game's all-time greatest, Ty Cobb, said:

"Casey deserves to be in the Hall of Fame. He has shown the greatest ability to successfully manage a ball club and surely deserves credit as the top manager of all time."

Cobb's observation still looks good in 1956.

THE GOLD-PLATED camera has made its appearance, for those who want super-elegant exteriors on their shutterboxes. The German-made Regula 35-mm camera with lever-actuated film advance, coupled rangefinder, double-exposure prevention, and a beautifully gold-plated case, has been introduced into this country by Burleigh Brooks of New York. Lens is a 2.8 Steinheil, 45-mm focal length, and a carrying case designed like a jewel-box can be had, too.

LEITZ OF WETZLAR has just introduced an addition to the Leica family, a new wide angle lens. It is called the Summaron 28-mm, f5.6, and covers an angle of view of 75.4 degrees.

There's no card table problem in the Elmo Jenkins home. This one is just lowered from wall (left) by Mrs. Jenkins. It's a Van Gogh scene (right).

Van Gogh Inspired This Table!

By Caroline Coleman

A HOUSEHOLDER'S occasional need of a table in a small space typifies the reason the market for folding card tables is so stable. For more reasons than a game of bridge a housewife finds herself dragging a card table out of the hall closet with weary regularity. It offers itself up willingly as a surface upon which the kids can paste, draw and eat snacks. It makes a fairly stable prop for a typewriter and doubles as a desk over which to strew income tax papers.

But storing it and setting it up is, at best, somewhat of a nuisance. Not so for the Elmo Jenkinses, who have ingeniously devised a way of gaining spur-of-the-moment table tops without the hauling, dragging and pinched-finger routine that often goes with the card table.

MRS. JENKINS' dining area has, in addition to a large dining table surface that stays hidden away in its wall compartment, an eye-deceiving snack table that never gives away the secret of its presence between occasions of use.

This table looks exactly like a wonderful reproduction of a Van Gogh street scene as it hangs against the wall in a handsome, natural-wood, shadow-box frame. And, really, that is exactly what it is — until Mrs. Jenkins decides to convert it into a table. Then the picture, which is mounted on a sturdy thickness of masonite, is unsnapped from its top clip and lowered in much the manner of a wide ironing board. As the picture swings out from the wall to assume the horizontal, the frame swings free from a top hinge, establishing itself as a rectangular "leg" upon which the table is supported.

INSTALLED in the den is a similar device. Here, the picture is of Toby mugs framed in deep shadow-box scallops of pine mounted on a larger rectangle of thick masonite. As the latter is lowered to present a handy work desk, the framed picture swings free to form a prop. Further function is found in the recess behind the masonite top. Shallow shelves, hidden when the table is latched shut, hold pens, pencils, writing paper, checkbooks and all the other small items needed at the average desk. Average? That is hardly the word for the clever brainstorms of the Jenkinses!

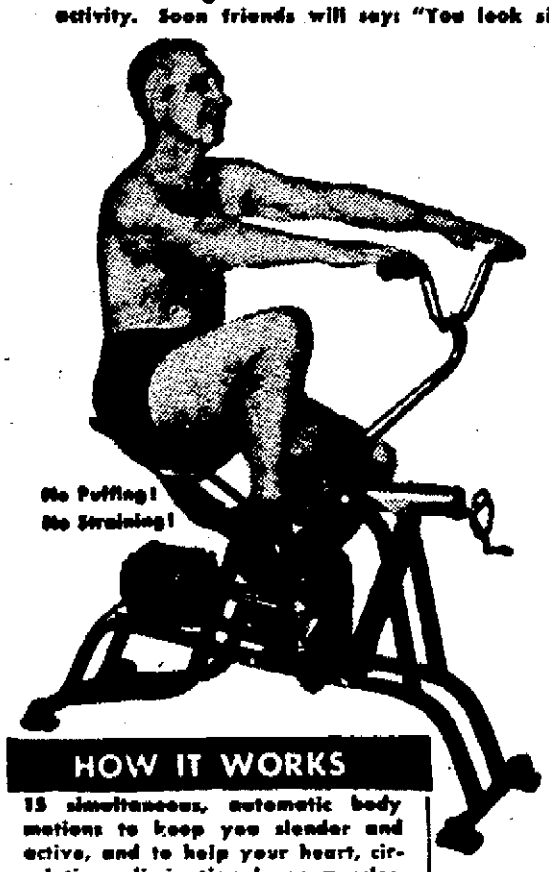

Excuse for Party

Tourists in Miami may scurry for home on hearing reports of a possible approaching hurricane, but to old-time residents it's an excuse for a party. An article in the current ASTA Travel News, official publication of the American Society of Travel Agents, reveals that many a Miami hostess holds a hurricane party featuring canned goods, sterno, candles, plenty of Scotch and a battery radio. Added precaution includes a a bathtub of water in case the mains are temporarily shut off.

Shea's Castle--Little-Known

By Jo Hindman

SHEA'S CASTLE, near Lancaster in the Mojave Desert, is a well-known landmark, but mysteriously little is known about the man who built it.

It is said that when the booming 20s were just getting underway, a successful real estate man withdrew from the lands market and invested in a desert domain, an aggregate of homesteads covering 1,369 tawny acres tucked into a spur of west Antelope Valley. The fabulous, many-roomed castle that rose upon the sunbaked earth stands imperishably today, but memory of the slender distinguished-looking Irishman who built it, referred to only as R. P. Shea, is fading into blurry recollection. Legend, too, whispers of Shea's wife, a sad colleen from the Emerald Isle, whose heart finally broke within the walls of the castle seared by the sun-gold blaze of desert floors. She wearied with longing for rainy Irish skies.

Begun in 1924, the castle was completed within two years. Strange was the sight and stranger the tales as stone lodged against stone, raising thick walls and rounding out real towers into the crenelated rock parapets — warlike battlements as genuine as any in the Old Country. Shea, people say, sent an architect to Ireland to gather authentic ideas.

LIKE A PICTURE from a storybook, the towers and battlements clustered on a lonely alluvial desert meadow cause a blink of surprise in today's America.

Oldtimers in the area recall that "everyone worked on the castle," and as the grain and alfalfa fields were being blighted by an arid cycle at the time, the economic lift given to the area by the wages and currency circulated by Shea's enterprise is still remembered gratefully today. Some say it is a replica of Blarney Castle in Ireland. Shea's castle towers are round; Blarney's famous one is square. However, the massive architecture definitely calls to mind the staunch masonry of wild northern Ireland near County Cork. Irish masons came to California to help build it.

NATIVE STONE was quarried on the grounds, hewn into blocks, and used in constructing the castle. The millionaire's passion for authenticity resulted in costly importations: Walnut and cedar for paneling, marble from Italy for fireplaces, inlays of precious woods from Europe for flooring. Beautiful native onyx also was used. Cost was not an item, but perfection was.

The layout includes eight bedrooms, seven bathrooms, six fireplaces, large servants quarters, steam-heated and electrically lighted; hotel-size pantry and kitchen, fountain-cooled courtyard and circular tower rooms. Hand-adzed beams are sunk into stuccoed walls and ceilings, hand-wrought chandeliers are impressive and leafy ironwork frames the dining room archway that leads down three steps into the shag-carpeted main hall that can be warmed by a massive fireplace.

A six-car garage adjoins the main castle building, but reminiscent of feudal splendor is a stone stable, also towered, buttressed and the size of a 10-room house; a dairy, miscellaneous buildings, and two pond-sized, roofed cisterns perched on the hillside to collect water from springs above. The property has 22 live running springs, two of which supply water to the residence.

A CHECK DAM, currently dry, once collected the waters of a seven-acre lake as shown on an old geological survey map. The castle lies at 2,847 elevation.

The castle and its grounds are inclosed by 11½ miles of woven wire fencing, seven feet high, stoutly set in concrete and worth $120,000 if duplicated today. A private entry road, graveled and outlined by granite boulders, can be reached by a country dirt road off 140th Ave. about 20 miles west of Lancaster or Palmdale, and is entered beneath an elaborate grillwork flanked by a granite sentry box.

Aerial view of Shea's Castle reveals warlike parapets copied from castles of Ireland. Stable is in upper left center. Castle is in Antelope Valley.

HOW TO Make a Scandinavian Bird in the Christmas Tradition

1. A GAY, QUAINT Christmas symbol you can make yourself will become—with passing years—a part of your family's own Christmas tradition.

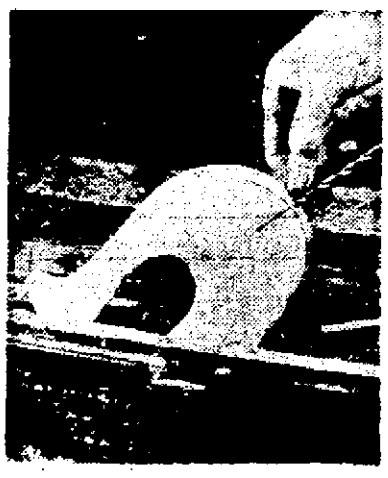

2. DRAW BIRDS with soft pencil on ½-inch pine ruled into ½-inch squares, as indicated in this photograph. Material can be any soft pine available at your lumberyard, or you can salvage it from old crates, boxes. Wood that shows the least grain is easiest to work with.

3. COPING SAW cuts into soft pine like butter, and follows curves you marked. Keep the blade at right angle to surface so cut edge will be square. If you're making several, tack two pieces of stock together, and cut both at one time. It's faster—and ensures uniformity.

4. DRILL HOLE for doweling leg before you start to round the edges and shape the bird. If you'll mark direction of hole on the side, it will help you guide the drill. Dowel about 3/16 of inch makes right-size leg—and it should be about 2 inches above the little square base.

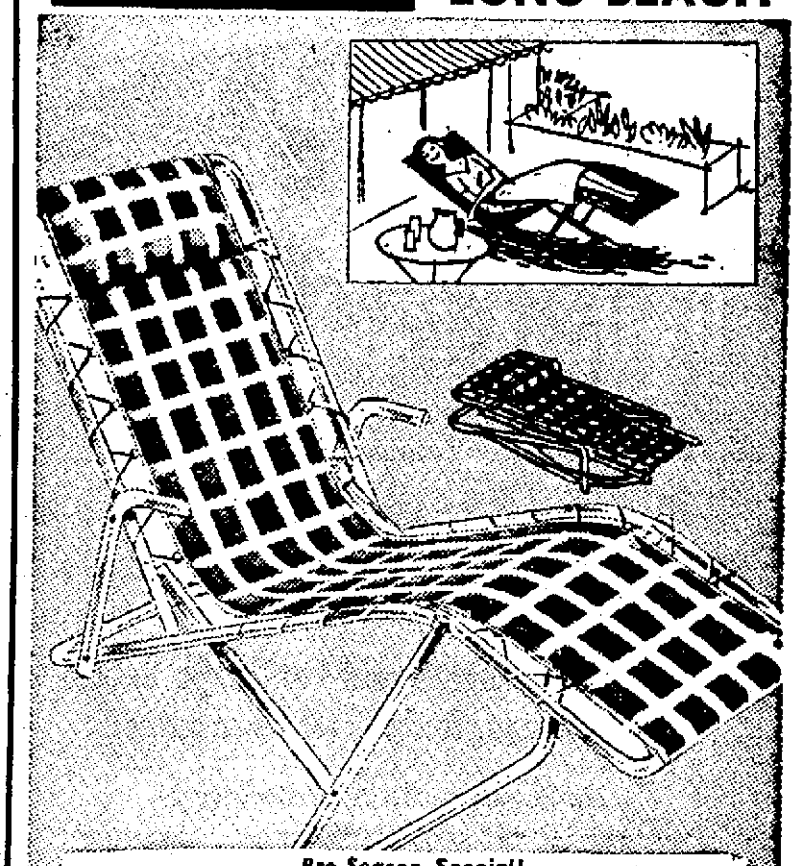

5. SHARP KNIFE or razor blade is your carving tool. Mark lines you'll want to cut for feathers, eye,—and take light cuts, following lines. First cuts should be shallow V-grooves. Then deepen them gradually, as you widen and smooth cuts. Watch grain direction, to prevent knife from digging in.

6. PAINTING BIRDS is easy, now that the feathers and tail are carved. The carving helps to guide your brush true, even if you're a novice. Give bird base color first, 2 coats of white. Then hit-or-miss feathers with yellow, blue, green, or red.

GARDENS

Potted Tulips Are a Challenge

By Bob Gilmore

Tulip bulbs may be potted as late as December in Long Beach area and still be sure of prize-winning blooms.

GROWING potted tulips with 12-inch stems is not an impossibility in Southern California. As a matter of fact, you can force tulips in your own garden and produce blooms as gorgeous as those seen in a florist's shop during spring. Special cultural demands must be met but these are neither complicated nor expensive. Your five-year-old child actually can grow prize-winning tulips in your home.

It is unfortunate that so many Southern Californians blame the weather for their failure to grow prize-winning tulips. The weather, of course, is different from that experienced in Holland, back east or in the Northwest.. Yet it is possible to compensate for our lack of cold weather and still obtain top quality results.

Briefly, the way to grow tulips in the open garden in Southern California is to plant them late and deep. These same conditions can be emulated when growing the plants in pots. As a matter of fact, excellent results will be obtained by planting tulips all through December; and while, quite obviously, you cannot plant tulips deep in a pot, yet the benefits of deep planting can be realized by keeping the bulbs in a dark, cool and uniformly moist situation.

IF THE BULBS have been precooled, they can be planted as late as Christmas and they will flower in April. Bulbs that have not been precooled should go into the soil sometime prior to that time. The reason for this is due to the nature of the tulip bulb. The embryo flower is contained within the bulb. As the weather warms up, this flower bud moves upward in the bulb. By precooling the bulb this bud remains down at the base and that is why deep planting for this area is a sensible procedure as the soil is cooler lower down.

The best size pot is a 7-inch container. You may place from four to five bulbs in this size pot. They should be planted just slightly under the surface and spaced equally apart. The soil should be loose and porous and must not be rich or the bulbs may rot. You must not use any manures in the compost, as the burning may result. Experienced tulip growers in this area usually add a small amount of bone meal to the soil mix. This food will not burn and becomes available slowly. Also, some charcoal may be added for its purifying effect.

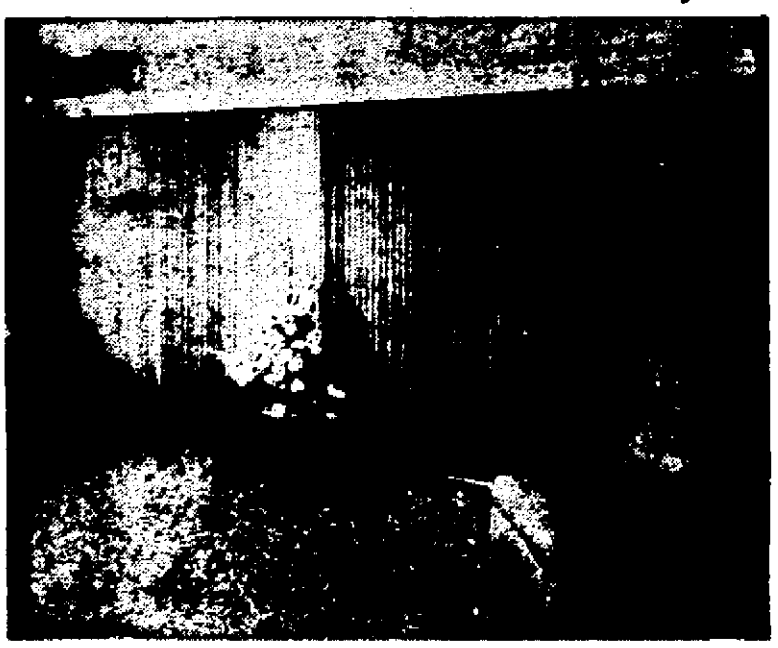

CONDITIONS such as result from growing plants under lath are ideal. It is advisable to place on top of the plants a mulch or straw about one inch thick. Two benefits are realized: The mulch keeps out light and also aids in retaining uniform moisture.

One very important cultural demand is that the moisture in the pots be kept uniformly damp. Avoid radical changes from extreme dryness to sogginess, as this definitely will inhibit normal plant growth. The pots should be raised on rocks or boards so that their base will be at least one inch off the surface. Three or four such supports will allow the air to circulate beneath the pots and excess water to escape.

A well balanced plant food may be applied lightly when the flowers are in the bud stage.

For a Green Christmas

For those who associate color with Christmas, about the greenest green is found in succulent jade plant.

By Karen Smith

SOME PEOPLE dream of a white Christmas, but most of us in Southern California think of Christmas as green with perhaps gay red berries or various colored baubles adding highlights here and there.

If Christmas is green to you, and you wish to give someone the greenest-green potted plant you can find, consider Crassula agentea, the succulent jade plant. Such a gift not only is entirely satisfactory for mild climates but it can tolerate neglect. Although a rich sandy loam with good drainage is to its liking, it can thrive in poor soil and hit-or-miss watering.

Pale pink clusters of star-shaped flowers twinkle in the center of leaf rosettes during December, usually in time for the holidays.

The jade plant needs sunshine whether it is a potted plant in a window or growing outdoors in the garden. Some shade, however, appears not to harm it.

IF YOU WISH to transplant the potted plant or a rooted cutting, have the soil dry so it will not pack hard around the fleshy, succulent roots. After it is planted, moisten the soil and keep it gently moist until the plant is established.

The jade plant is easily propagated by cuttings of stems and by leaves. Cuttings should not be planted for a few days after they are taken to give them a chance to form a callus on the cut end. When the protective film has formed, plant in medium moist sand or a mixture of moist sand and soil until the roots form.

Tips on Gardening

GARDENING TIPS for the week . . . It is possible to harden the plants in your garden by gradually diminishing their water supply. This will enable them to get through the winter with a minimum of suffering from the cold.

A mulch of peat will aid in keeping the soil moist during dryness or periods of long-lasting winds. And when it rains this mulch will prevent puddling on the surface. It will also reduce the caking over of the surface.

Berried shrubs such as pyracanthas and cotoneasters will guarantee color in your garden during the winter months. The bright toned berries will prove as attractive indoors for floral decorations as in the outdoor garden.

By Dorothy Jonson

Don't prune roses in December. This is too early and, too early pruning is a common mistake among rosarians.

Clean roses (and this applies to all plants, of course) that grow in a healthy soil, will withstand a great deal of insect infestation and plant disease. So, if you haven't as yet given your roses a fall cleanup spray with a lime-sulphur-oil emulsion, you may still have time to do it, since December is usually a mild month here in California. By doing this, you will prevent a great deal of insect life from over-wintering in your roses and on the surface of the soil.

Get Into This Solid New Business

You Must Earn $300 Weekly or We Buy Back This Equipment!

Exclusive Franchise — Protected Territory

Revolutionary New Lawn and Garden Machine Services Lawns, Gardens, Shrubs, Trees, For As Little As $1.75 Weekly!

★ Kills Crabgrass, Weeds, Bermuda (If Unwanted)—Fertilizes and Seeds Lawns—Destroys Lawn Moths, Chinch Bugs, Over 200 Other Insects & Pests New "Hydra-matic" Way.

★ Roots Feeds and Treats Valuable Shrubs and Trees — Saves Many That Were Lost Before.

NOW YOU CAN really keep lawns rich and green—free of weeds, crabgrass, and Burmuda (where Burmuda isn't wanted)—keep trees and shrubs strong and stately—keep lawns and gardens insect and pest-free—for home-owners who hate these endless, pesky chores. And you can service many schools, parks, and golf courses—apartments, factories, and commercial buildings—better and cheaper than they can themselves!

We Train You! No Experience Necessary!

Proven General Spray Service System makes big money and lots of friends from the start. Experts teach and help you. You enjoy light, easy work—long vacations if you like them—and complete freedom from price-cutting in this virgin field.

Unlimited Opportunity

This entirely new and unexploited business offers unlimited opportunity to expand. As little as $1695 down buys one set of equipment—including a brand-new 1957 Chevrolet truck with special body, painted, lettered with your name and ready to go—on our General Motors' (GMAC) easy-payment plan. With this equipment you can gross over $30,000 yearly. TAKE HOME up to ⅓ or more. But one set of equipment is needed for every 150 customers. That means additional sets of equipment on easy GMAC terms can multiply your earnings to suit your ambition—put real workers in the $25,000-$50,000 yearly earnings class, or more if they want to go that far!

You can even start on a special, "no-cash" plan—receive ⅓ of your service equipment's total income

So why not make BIG money—be SAFE from the ups and downs and layoffs of big companies—be SECURE against automatic retirement and inadequate old-age retirement plans?

Profits Guaranteed

Operating coast-to-coast, General Spray is the ONLY nation-wide lawn and garden spray service. Its rugged, precision-made equipment (PATENTS PEND'G) is thoroughly proven. These revolutionary machines will make over a BILLION SQ. FT. of service applications in 1957! Equipment so foolproof it is financed by one of America's largest corporations. Service results so dependable they are backed by one of America's largest insurance companies. General Spray GUARANTEES you must be satisfied with this business and your profits from it or we buy back this equipment!

Start NOW while the best territories are still available. Only 1 franchise granted per town or territory. We supply all advertising, show you how to sell, operate, and earn even bigger profits than we promise. If you want an amazingly easy, pleasant, out-of-door, automatic-repeat business with satisfaction and success guaranteed. Write TODAY!

PAUL HOOVER

Seven of Em

AFTER SLAVING all week over a hot Wedgewood or O'Keefe & Merritt, Mom can hardly be blamed if she wistfully asks Pop for a rest on Sunday morning.

If Pop is alert, kind and thoughtful (as all fathers and husbands should be on Sunday morning) he'll pop Mom and the rest of the family into the car and whisk 'em off to Paul's of Lakewood restaurant, Bellflower Blvd. at Carson St.

Everybody will be delighted because Paul's serves all kinds of wonderful Sunday breakfasts from 7 a. m. to 1 p. m. in both the coffee shop and large dining room.

Owner Paul Hoover's breakfast specialty is little thin hotcakes served a la carte for 35 cents. Each patron gets seven of the little beauties, plus maple syrup and melted butter in individual containers. The hotcakes go particularly well with another of Paul's specialties — his famed homemade sausage patty, which is 40 cents a la carte.

* * * *

TWO OTHER interesting breakfasts are the Truck Driver's bonanza for $1.90 and Southern fried cornmeal mush for 75 cents. The big Truck Driver breakfast consists of a steak or pork chop, two fried eggs, potatoes, toast, jam and choice of beverage. The fried mush is accompanied by a patty of sausage. In addition, the restaurant offers five complete Club Breakfasts, ranging in price from 45 cents to $1.10.

All of these breakfasts are served daily from 7 a. m. on in the coffee shop. Sunday morning, however, is the only time they are served in the dining room.

Another item of special interest to Mom (and Dad, too) are the Wednesday luncheon fashion shows at Paul's. Staged by lovely models from the Long Beach Fashion Guild, the shows start at 12:30 p. m. The models, displaying new winter and spring styles, stroll through the Stag Room, dining room and coffee shop. Regular luncheon prices prevail, starting at $1.

SYRIA CHARGES ATTACK PLOTTED

Chiang's Bluff Disclosed by Washington

Threat to Make Deal With Japan in 1942 Bared by State Dept.

By DONALD J. GONZALES

WASHINGTON (U.P.) — The State Department Saturday night released for publication the first of a series of the long-secret "China Papers" which figured in the 1952 presidential campaign.

High light was a threat of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek to make a separate peace with Japan in 1942 and a suggestion by the U.S. Ambassador to then Nationalist China that Chiang's "bluff be called."

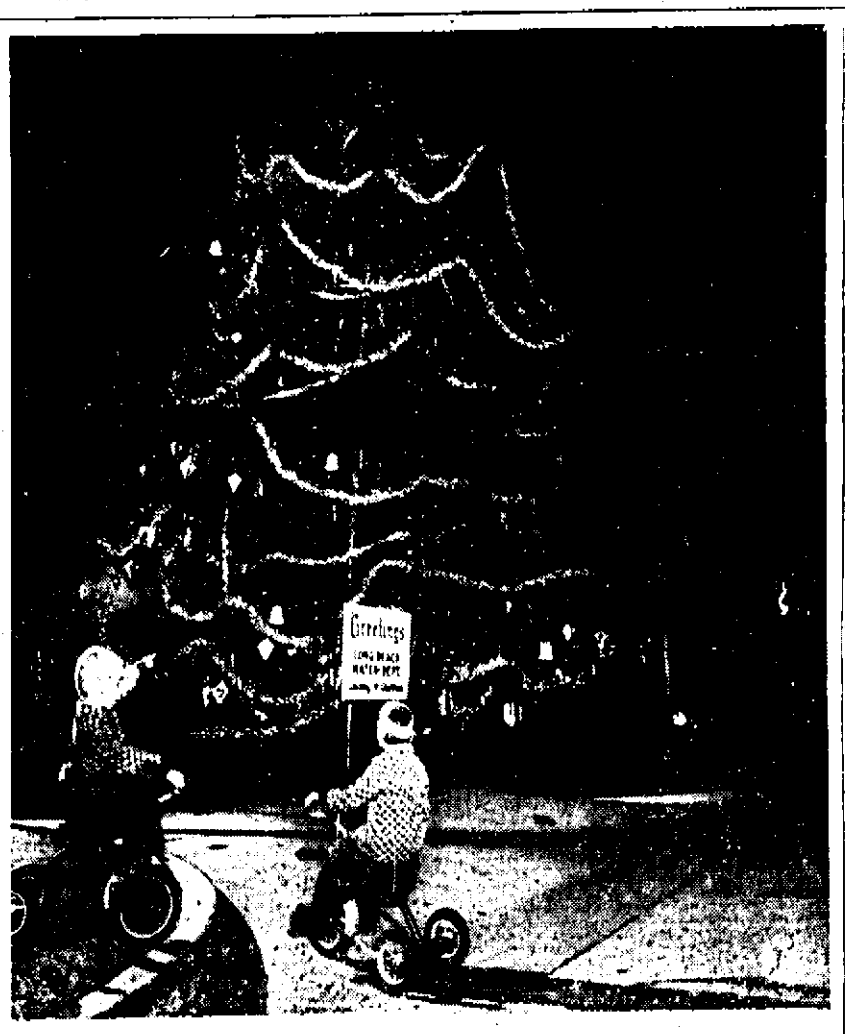

After winning the presidential election in 1952 Republicans began immediate moves to force publication of the papers and the records of wartime conferences held under Democratic administrations.

The Republicans contended that publication of the papers would effectively answer the 1949 Democratic "white paper" on China policy. In that document, then Secretary of State Dean Acheson said the Chinese Communist victory over Chiang "was beyond the control of the government of the United States."

• • • •

THE PAPERS mention names of many persons who were branded pro-Communist during their services with Democratic administrations. Some since have died, or gone to prison, or

U.N. Debates Hungarian Issue Monday

U.S. to Ask Reds to Let Observers Inspect Country

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — The U. N. announced Saturday night the General Assembly will debate the Hungarian question Monday at the request of the United States.

A headquarters spokesman said Prince Wan Waithayakon of Thailand, president of the 79-nation assembly, scheduled the debate to replace policy speeches of delegations.

A source close to the U. S. delegation told a reporter the United States and perhaps 10 other countries will introduce a resolution urging the Communist Budapest government to let U.N. political observers into Hungary.

Cuban delegate Emilio Nunez-Portuondo declared that if Hungary does not let in observers he will submit a resolution, perhaps Tuesday, to expel the Hungarian delegation from the Assembly.

U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold has been trying since early November to get observers into Hungary or to go there himself. His latest request was delivered in Budapest Thursday.

He has instructions from the Assembly to investigate and suggest ways to remedy the situation in that country, where Soviet troops last month suppressed an uprising.

• • • •

THE ASSEMBLY also has called in resolutions for withdrawal of Soviet troops and an end to deportations of Hungarian citizens.

A source familiar with the U. S. position said the projected resolution will ask Hungary to admit the observers and ask Hammarskjold to keep urging the government there to admit them.

The resolution will request the secretary general to send observers to Hungary or "nearby countries."

The U. S.-backed resolution reportedly will contain no provision to punish the Hungarian government in case that regime remains adamant.

SEASON WINDS UP

Trojans Beat Irish

Southern California's Trojans closed their season with a 28-20 victory over Notre Dame at the Los Angeles Coliseum Saturday. It was the eighth loss of the year for the Irish.

Also on the football scene, New Year's Day bowl bids were accepted by Tennessee, Baylor, Syracuse and Georgia Tech.

25 Tumble Off Bridge as Rail Snaps

CHICAGO (AP)—The pressure of a crowd of exuberant young football fans jammed on a pedestrian bridge forced a railing to give way Saturday and 19 of them were injured when they fell through it.

They tumbled 25 feet onto Illinois Central Railroad property.

One of the injured was in serious condition. Most suffered broken arms or legs and head injuries.

The bridge leads over the IC tracks near Soldier Field on the lakefront. The crowd of teenagers was thronging from the big stadium, where St. Leo had beaten Calumet 12-0 in the annual city championship high school football game.

A crowd of 66,282—largest in eight years—had attended the game.

Ten injured youngsters were being treated in St. Luke's Hospital. Nine received treatment at Mercy Hospital. Judy Lamm, 12, was reported in serious condition at Mercy Hospital. She suffered head injuries.

Martial Law Set in Iraq

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP)—A royal decree Saturday suspended parliament for a month, freezing all political activity in Iraq.

The decree was issued by King Faisal II only a few hours after a newly convened parliament heard the young monarch say all of Iraq is under martial law.

Parliament had opened with its usual pomp. The effect of the decree, issued at the request of Premier Said, is to stave off debate by deputies on the current Middle East crisis. Before the king made his announcement 40 deputies had signified their intention to take part in foreign policy debate.

Said's government now has a breathing spell in which to wait and hope for a calmer Middle East atmosphere.

In the traditional speech from the throne—written and presented to the king by Said—the young monarch told deputies martial law was proclaimed to protect the rear lines of the army while it prepares to take part with Jordan in the "common defense of the Arab states."

The action by the throne at the behest of the government came at a moment when this country is increasingly concerned with the activities of Syria. The local press in Bagh-

Accusation Cites Buildup of Neighbors

England, Israel, France, Turkey Named in Plea

LONDON (U.P.) — Syria Saturday accused Britain, France, Turkey and Israel of plotting a military attack on Syrian territory.

Syrian Foreign Minister Salah Bitar, in a cable to United Nations Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold, asked the U.N. General Assembly for help against the "aggressive intentions" of these countries.

Bitar said the situation "constituted a threat to the peace," and asked that it be placed before the current session of the General Assembly in New York.

• • • •

SYRIA'S SAFETY and independence are threatened by the concentration of Israeli forces along its borders as well as by statements made by Turkish officials, Bitar said.

He called attention to the talks in London between acting Turkish Foreign Minister Ethem Menderes and British Foreign Minister Selwyn Lloyd.

He referred to news reports alleging that Syria is becoming a Communist puppet of the Soviet Union and is being supplied with vast amounts of arms and technical advice.

These, Bitar said, "prove that British, French, Israeli, Turkish and other leading officials are planning an armed attack on Syria through a propaganda maneuver based on the fabrication of tendentious reports."

• • • •

BITAR WARNED that Syria will repulse any attack, no matter from where it comes.

These charges reinforced the opinion of diplomats that the Syrian situation potentially is more dangerous to the peace of the Mideast than the subsiding Suez crisis.

These officials regard it as a virtual certainty that Russian "volunteers" would go into action in Syria if there was armed conflict between Syria and such neighbors as Turkey and Iraq.

The Russians already have charged that Turkey is on the road to "premeditated aggression" against Syria. It also has alleged that the United States is preparing for "active intervention" in the area.

Posses Draw Noose on Texas Fugitives

SHAMROCK, Tex. (AP)—One youth was killed and two men were wounded Saturday in a running gun battle between law officers from Texas and Oklahoma and two unidentified fugitives.

More than a score of officers had the two men cornered Saturday night in a brushy pasture on the J. B. Stephens ranch, five miles east of Shamrock on U. S. Highway 66. The fugitives were armed with high-powered rifles.

Killed was Victor Lee Stephens, 19, son of the ranch owner who joined policeman Luke Henley of Shamrock in an attempt to halt the two men who were fleeing from Texola, Okla. Deputy Sheriff Marvin Skinner.

Police gave this account of the gun battle:

Skinner started chasing the pair in Texola about 4 p.m. Saturday when their car hit another and left the scene of the accident. The men opened fire on Skinner and wounded him. In spite of his wounds, Skinner chased the men west on Highway 66 toward Shamrock. He called ahead for aid, exchanging shots with the fugitives on the way.

Accompanying Henley and Stephens was Mannon Nix of Shamrock, who was wounded by a bullet in the arm.

Officers from Texola and Clinton, Okla., and from Pampa, Shamrock, Wheeler, McLean, Amarillo and other nearby Texas towns were engaged in the manhunt. Floodlights were brought in, and a plane

Navy Denies It Will Call Reservists

Spokesmen for the 11th and 12th Naval Districts said Saturday night they knew nothing of any plan to call up Navy reservists to man tankers being reactivated from mothball fleets.

Earlier Saturday, the San Francisco Examiner reported that 6,000 reservists would be called to active duty to serve aboard 39 tankers being reactivated for sea duty by mid-January.

The Navy in Washington said no such call for reservists had been put out from there and that none was planned.

Two of the tankers, the USS Enoree and the USS Sabine, are to be recommissioned Dec. 10 at Long Beach Naval Shipyard. A local spokesman for the Military Sea Transportation Service, which will operate the tankers, said no "white hats" have yet been selected to crew the vessels but added he knew of no plans for a reservist call.

Continuance of Budapest Strike Urged

BUDAPEST (U.P.)—Leaders of Hungary's workers urged them Saturday to resume their "total strike" for another five to 10 days against the tough line policies of Soviet puppet Premier Janos Kadar.

Leaflets scattered in the streets of Budapest called for the defiant new gesture in an effort to get concessions from Kadar's regime.

The leaflets were signed with the name of the Central Workers Council of Budapest, the most powerful workers' group in the country.

The government-controlled Budapest radio announced Saturday the leaflets were being distributed all over the battered city. But it also produced a "spokesman of the Budapest Workers Council" to denounce the leaflets.

Two U.S. Turncoats Cross to Hong Kong

HONG KONG (Sunday) (AP)—Two American turncoats of the Korean war who chose to live in Red China for three years arrived here today. Presumably they will return to the United States.

The two are Aaron Wilson, 24, of Urania, La., and Arley Pate, 26, of Carbondale, Ill. They arrived grim-faced at this British crown colony.

"I only want to go home," Pate remarked as he crossed the border. Wilson said nothing.

The two have been away from their homes at least six years.

Report Russ Troops Mass in Bulgaria

ISTANBUL, Turkey (U.P.)—Reliable reports from Edirne Saturday confirmed reports that Russia is massing troops in Bulgaria.

But the mayor of that town less than 10 miles from the Bulgarian border denied rumors that Turkish and Russian troops had clashed in a border fight that killed four Turks and 17 Russians.

The mayor said Red army troops had not reached the Turko-Bulgarian border at all.

Russian troops were reported massing in Bulgaria. Some of them were reported to have landed at Varna on the Black Sea coast.

The Bulgarian ambassador to Turkey, Boris Manolov, was reported returning to Sofia today for consultations.

Editor Charges Tijuana Police Let Vice Flourish

TIJUANA, Mex., (U.P.) — A newspaper editor who said he had been threatened with death for continuing his editorial campaign charged Saturday that Tijuana police were making no effort to clean up alleged vice conditions.

Jose Gardundo Bustamente, editor of Noticias, declared, "Crime in this modern city is increasing and many private citizens feel it necessary to bear arms for protection."

Another newsman, Manuel Acosta Meza, was assassinated last July after making editorial charges of vice and payoffs. The murder has not been solved.

Chou Hints at Release of POWs

NEW DELHI (U.P.)—Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai hinted Saturday that American prisoners still held in Communist China's jails may be released soon.

When a reporter asked Chou at a news conference if there was a chance of the Americans being freed soon, he replied:

"They can get out before the end of their sentence if they have good behavior."

He also told newsmen at the conference, which was held following his talks with Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, "I want to point out that there still are Chinese in American jails who have not been released and sent back to China."

There are some Chinese in American jails, mostly on narcotics convictions, but informed American sources said they have never heard of any one of them asking to go back to mainland China.

• • • •

INFORMED SOURCES said Chou asked Nehru to convey a message to President Eisenhower that Red China is willing to free the detained Americans. He hinted that he expected justic from the United States in return, implying he wanted the Chinese now held in American jails to be released. The message presumably will be conveyed to Eisenhower when Nehru meets him in Washington later this month.

He said he will raise the issue with the ministry of education.

Fly Casting Champ Dies in Air Crash

Roy Mabee, 70, of 8841 Lincoln Ave., Anaheim, was killed Saturday when his plane crashed into a plowed field two miles east of the Orange County airport. He was a national fly-casting champion.

Orange County deputy coroner Roger Burnham said that Mabee had taken off 1:30 p.m. Saturday and had crashed upon returning to the field.

Cause of the accident was not immediately determined.

Woman Found in L.A. River

A young woman found by two youngsters in Los Angeles River bed remained unconscious and unidentified in Seaside Memorial Hospital Saturday.

Estimated to be between 25 and 30 years of age, the woman was found at the end of Mountain View Rd. by police who responded to a call from James N. Snider of 159 Mountain View St.

L.A.C. Says: Modern Republicanism

Many political observers believe old line reactionary Republicans are in for quite a shock. They predict that President Eisenhower really means it when he talks of "Modern Republicanism." It is probable he will advocate and have passed several social security measures greatly opposed by right wing Republicans. Among these changes are expected to be a further widening and increase in retirement benefits—some form of medical insurance to cover everyone in the nation—probable encouragement of a shorter work week, and assistance to the small business man.

This program will displease many old line Republicans—but it will bring him support from many Democrats and a large majority of the independents. The

Bomb Fell Long Ago, She Sees It Yet

MRS. J. MELBERGER . . . Remembers Pearl Harbor

By BOB BECKMAN

GARDEN GROVE—A Japanese bomber dived down from the mountains behind the city of Honolulu, Oahu, Territory of Hawaii, and headed straight for the battleship Arizona, lying at anchor in Pearl Harbor.

Watching the plane was Mrs. John A. Melberger, wife of a Navy careerman who was at sea.

Fascinated—then horrified—Mrs. Melberger saw an object, something like a short, stubby fountain pen, fall from the plane.

It was a bomb. It plummeted into the Arizona's smokestack.

The mighty battlewagon "seemed to disintegrate," said Mrs. Melberger, now 38.

• • • •

THE EYE-WITNESS to one of the major catastrophes of the sneak attack at Pearl Harbor 15 years ago next Friday, now lives at 13121 Monroe St.

Despite the years that now intervene, Mrs. Melberger's voice breaks as she tells of the hours preceding and during the attack.

Her husband, then a first class water tender aboard the heavy cruiser Indianapolis, was at sea for maneuvers.

Mrs. Melberger and several other "Navy wives" went to their regular Saturday night dance.

The men they danced with were friends who had served with their husbands at base after base. Some were members of the Arizona's crew, obligated to return to their ship at 1 a. m.

"Some of our closest friends bid us goodnight and went

L.A.C. SAYS:

President will not be running for re-election so he will have a freer hand than he would otherwise. Senators and Congressmen will be faced with supporting such legislation—or going home and explaining why they did not. They will have to choose between the small number of right wing Republicans and the majority who agree with the President's "modernization" approach.

Right now many of these Republican right wingers are riding high. The great victory of Eisenhower and Nixon is their victory—as they see it. They fail to appreciate the cold fact that the Republican Party lost out with the majority of the people. The people voted for Mr. Eisenhower because of his great popularity. They did not vote a Republican House and Senate. And experienced political observers in Washington are frank in doubting that the Republicans have a chance two years—or four years from now—unless they gain the confidence of a large percentage of Democrats and Independents who are progressive—but neither radical or reactionary.

In California it is clear that Republicans were elected with large numbers of Democratic votes. That had to be true because there are a lot more Democrats registered than there are Republicans. If these people felt any loyalty to the Republican Party they would be so registered. They are actually independents, crossing party lines and voting for the man and not the party—or they vote for the party which at the time meets with their approval.

These independent individuals see reactionary leaders seeking to obstruct the President's social security program. On the other side they see labor leaders taking an ever bigger position in Democratic party affairs. The independent thinker does not like either of these pictures. He wants real progressiveness. He has found that in President Eisenhower, and voted for him. The big question is, can the President bring Republicans to modernization in time to save the party from annihilation?

Chiang's Impatient 1942 Bluffing Bared

left the country. Others were absolved of wrongdoing and were reinstated in their posts.

The State Department refused to release some of the documents about which this reporter asked specific questions.

As to Chiang's alleged peace overtures, Ambassador C. E. Gauss said in a memorandum to the State Department in 1942 that he was firmly convinced that the Nationalist threat of a separate peace "is a bluff; and the type of bluff that Madame Chiang (Chiang's wife) was capable of concocting and selling to the Generalissimo."

THE DOCUMENTS further underscored the uneasy nature of the American-Chinese alliance and the friction within the U.S. government over China policy.

In the first of the series, Chiang voiced complaints against the United States in the early days of the war. In one document presented to President Roosevelt, the Generalissimo said many of his officers concluded that "China is treated not as an equal, like Britain and Russia, but as a ward." Many times he complained about the slow delivery of American war supplies.

But feeling against Chiang's tactics was found in high American quarters. Brig. Gen. John A. Magruder, chief of the U.S. military mission to China, said Chiang was a "remarkable figure" responsible for holding China together. However, he said Chiang "can well be reminded that China, which has more than any other nation to lose if Japan wins the war, is putting out the least war effort of all the Allies."

AT THE SUGGESTION of Secretary of State Cordell Hull, Gen. George C. Marshall ordered Magruder and other American military officers in China to avoid "any thought of hopelessness in the situation or any United States intention to abandon" China. Magruder had suggested preparing for a withdrawal.

The United States early in 1942 was alarmed by reports that the Chinese Nationalists would arrange a "peace" with Japan. Gauss informed Washington that this idea represented Madame Chiang's "impatient and captious attitude" and that neither she nor the Generalissimo "had any thought of a possible peace with Japan."

"If he (Chiang) persists in demanding more (supplies) and threatens peace with Japan, I am of the opinion that he should be told, with authority of Washington, that when he undertakes to negotiate a peace with Japan the American military and diplomatic missions will immediately be withdrawn without further ado from China, and that finishes all American assistance to China — now and for the future," Gauss said.

In a talk with Gen. Joseph (Vinegar Joe) Stilwell, Gauss said that "even the Communist leaders in China "seem to know that Chiang is putting up a bluff, for they tell us that it is a bluff and we should 'call' it."

Fugitives in Texas Slay One

from Oklahoma City was ordered to fly over and drop flares.

The Oklahoma Highway Patrol said the pair is also wanted for questioning about a slaying Saturday at Dripping Springs, Tex., near Austin.

The Texas Department of Public Safety said the man found on a country road near Dripping Springs had been beaten badly around the head and face and had a bullet wound in the left temple.

Military bases and colleges and universities in central Texas were checked for missing persons in an effort to establish the dead man's identity.

The dead man was between 21 and 27 years old, was about 5 feet 8 inches tall and had light brown hair clipped short.

The man also had a tatoo reading "Skip and Barb" on his left forearm, the word "Skip" tatooed on his right forearm and a dagger tatooed on the right forearm.

The man wore light gray flannel trousers, with the laundry mark "F. B. Thompson" on them, a gray slipover sweater, white shirt and black plain-toed shoes.

dad reports that communist elements in Damascus are moving toward a position of control.

At the same time, Damascus radio attacks on the Iraq government are becoming more and more violent. In view of all this, special significance is being attacked here to portions of the throne speech which spoke of "beloved Egypt." The words from the throne, spoken for the government, were obviously aimed at calling the Arab nationalist feelings of the populace.

In the throne speech Faisal reviewed Iraq's foreign policy and called attention to its efforts to stand by Egypt in order to help defend Egyptian sovereignty against aggression.

"Aggression in Egypt threatened the security of all Arab countries and has resulted in a stand by Egypt to defend its independence and sovereignty," Faisal declared.

LONDON, Sunday (AP)—Moscow Radio told the Arab world Saturday that the people of Iraq have risen in a "holy war" against the government of "imperialist" Premier Nouri El Said.

The broadcast said the people were demanding that Iraq withdraw from the Baghdad pact. An anonymous Moscow commentator sharply attacked El Said in the Arabic language broadcast beamed to the Middle East.

35 Blind Tots Taken for Plane Ride

VAN NUYS (AP)—Thirty-five blind children agreed with Richard Ewing Saturday it was a beautiful day for flying.

They soared over the San Fernando Valley in Ewing's new light plane with Ewing and two friends taking turns at the controls.

"When would they ever get an opportunity to fly?" asked Ewing, owner of a Los Angeles print and lithography shop.

Norman Kaplan, executive director of the Foundation for the Junior Blind, accompanied the children to the airport. The youngsters have been to airfields before, Kaplan said, but this was their first time up.

"Flying's fine," said Suan Alperin, 7, after her ride. "You get up so high, and you can see so far."

Knight Foresees Ailment Curbs

Gov. Knight, dedicating a $3,725,000 addition to Metropolitan State Hospital, at Norwalk Saturday predicted that cures will be found for mental illnesses.

Knight told the 2,000 persons attending ceremonies at the hospital that "more than 50,000 patients now crowd California's mental hospitals."

The addition houses a 504-bed receiving and treatment center.

back to the Arizona," said Mrs. Melberger. "That was their last dance."

* * * *

THUS IT WAS that she watched—stunned—at dawn when the bomb thudded into the Arizona's vitals.

"Parts of the big ship flew everywhere," she recalls. "I finally stopped staring—and ran to the apartment of another Navy wife."

The women were so shaken, she remembers, that when their friend poured cups of black coffee, "we just couldn't swallow at all."

In the hectic hours that followed, Mrs. Melberger was pressed into operating a "taxi service" between Honolulu and the harbor. Every available vehicle was used to rush military personnel to their bases.

"And all the time I was just driving mechanically," Mrs. Melberger said. "My mind was on the Indianapolis and my husband's safety."

He was safe.

Two months later, Mrs. Melberger and thousands of other wives were returned to the mainland. Her husband was injured in a boiler explosion not long afterward.

He, too, was returned and—with 30 years service to his credit—was discharged.

They now live quietly in their modest home here with a dog, several fruit trees and their sewing and workshop hobbies.

"Pearl Harbor seems so long ago," Mrs. Melberger sighed, "and yet so fresh in our memories."

Man Slays Wife, Wounds Daughter

CHICAGO (AP)—Police said a 42-year-old man shot and killed his estranged wife and critically wounded their teenage daughter Saturday night.

Dead was Mrs. Connie Wendt. Her daughter, Nancy, 14, was in critical condition at St. Joseph's hospital.

A search was organized for William Wendt after the girl told police her father had ambushed her and her mother in the hallway of their north side apartment building. Both were shot in the back as they ascended a flight of stairs.

Police said a shotgun apparently was the weapon used.

Syria Charges Plot by Its Neighbors

of Soviet arms pouring into Syria by announcing Friday that it will hold "routine" army maneuvers near its frontiers with Syria and Russia in the next few weeks.

Britain and France, too, are concerned about the Syrian situation. As a result, they have welcomed U.S. support for the Baghdad Pact nations and are believed desirous of clearing up the Suez problem quickley so they can be free to handle any new Middle East crisis.

Final details for withdrawal of Anglo-French troops from Egypt were worked out here in recent days in conferences between French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau and British Foreign Secretary Lloyd.

* * * *

THEIR DECISION to complete a "phased withdrawal" by the end of the year—and possibly before Christmas—is expected to be announced Monday.

The British Cabinet met at No. 10 Downing St. under the direction of R. A. Butler, who is acting head of the government in Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden's absence in Jamaica.

According to diplomatic circles, there will be no conditions attached to the Anglo-French withdrawal. Public reasons for the move are expected to be that it will speed up clearing the canal and will bring about a quicker Middle East peace settlement.

WASHINGTON (AP) — High government officials saw encouraging signs Saturday that the Middle Eastern crisis is beginning to calm down.

They also foresaw allied unity on the upswing after hitting an all time low when Britain and France invaded Egypt a month ago.

The reasons for their optimism included:

—"definite" diplomatic and military information that the situation in Syria was not as dangerous as at first feared. Syria is receiving small arms from Communist nations but there is no evidence large amounts of heavy weapons have been delivered. There is a feeling here that Moscow, deliberately whipped up the "dangers of imperialist aggression" against Syria to keep the Middle East in ferment.

$750,000 of Reid Estate Aids Youth, Huntsmen

More than $750,000 in bequests by the late Will J. Reid Saturday had been distributed to the Long Beach Council of Boy Scouts, Camp Fire Girls and a conservation organization called Ducks Unlimited, Inc.

Reid, former president and board chairman of Hancock Oil Co., bequeathed 10,000 shares of class A common Hancock stock, with a market value of $400,000 to the Boy Scouts. Since Reid's death the gift has accrued 400 more shares and $4,620 in dividends.

The bequest to Camp Fire Girls was 5,000 shares, valued at $200,000, together with accrued dividends of 200 more shares and $2,310.

Ducks Unlimited received 3,000 shares valued at $120,000, together with dividends of 120 shares and $1,386.

• • • •

REID'S DAUGHTER, Virginia Reid Moore made the distributions in accordance with a court order granted last Monday by Superior Judge Joe Rayeraft. The gift to the Camp Fire Girls was made in the name of Mrs. Moore, an active Camp Fire worker in Long Beach.

Judge Lyman B. Sutter, president of the Boy Scout Council, received the gift in their behalf. Judge Sutter noted that Reid maintained an active interest in the Scouts for 35 years, bought and developed the local Scout park which bears his name.

• • • •

MRS. DONN W. BETTIS, president of the Long Beach Council, Camp Fire Girls, accepted their gift. She expressed her happiness about the bequest saying, "We will try to carry out the wishes of Mr. Reid and feel that this wonderful gift is a living memorial to his name and his generosity. It will go on for generations."

Arthur M. Bartley, executive director of Ducks Unlimited, Inc., in receiving that organization's bequest, paid tribute to Reid as a sportsman and nature lover and as first president of the Ducks Unlimited Foundation. He said the gift would help perpetuate the work of the organization in conserving waterfowl on the North American continent.

BEQUESTS OF more than $750,000 from the estate of Will J. Reid were distributed by his daughter, Virginia Reid Moore, seated. Standing are recipients, from left: Mrs. Donn W. Overseas Volunteers Sought by Churches

A program encouraging more volunteers to promote the Presbyterian faith in foreign lands was launched here Saturday evening.

Details were reported in a speech before the second annual meeting of Presbyterian Men of Southern California at Municipal Auditorium. The speaker, Dr. Louis H. Evans, minister-at-large for the Presbyterian Board of National Missions, said:

"If you're a dentist you can conduct a dental clinic in a mission area that has never had one. If you are an electrical engineer, you could help reconstruct the entire electrical apparatus of a mission hospital.

"If you have nothing to offer in the way of professional skills, there still are many important tasks you could do."

Entitled "World Concern Fellowship," Dr. Evans reported the new plan already has been tested and found to be exceptionally successful.

R. J. Wig
'Churchman of the Year'

R. J. Wig, San Marino, was named "Presbyterian Churchman of the Year" for Southern California.

A consulting engineer and businessman, Wig is a member of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions, vice president of the Foundation of the Presbyterian Church in the United States, and Presbyterian representative from the church-at-large to the National Council of Christ in America.

The meeting ends today with 2 p.m. dedication of the ultra-modern Presbyterian Headquarters Bldg. at 1501 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles.

A testimonial dinner honoring Dana J. Bullock, head of the local Department of Motor Vehicles for 20 years, was held in the Petroleum Club Saturday night.

Over 350 civic leaders met to honor Bullock. He was the first civil service appointee to head the local DMV agency.

"In 1936 when I took the job," Bullock recalled, "$30 a day was taken in motor registrations. Now over two million dollars a year is handled."

Representing the city was Police Chief William and Mrs. Dovey, Assistant Division Chief of the Department of Motor Vehicles Lloyd Kemp represented the state.

Also attending the dinner were three of the Bullock's four sons, and one daughter and Mrs. Bullock. C. Standlee Martin represented district automobile dealers.

The Bullocks were driven to the dinner by friends; he doesn't drive after dark.

Bullock will retire Jan. 5. He first became head of the agency Jan. 5, 1936. They live at 817 E. 19th St.

Firm to Pay L.B. $230,925

General Telephone Co. of California will pay $230,925 in taxes to the city of Long Beach in the 1956-57 tax year, the company announced Saturday.

Total amount paid in all cities and counties served will be $7,195,571, topping the previous year's figure by $1,443,601.

Tax payment to Orange County will be $162,904.

President Edwin M. Blakeslee said the increase in tax payments is indicative of population growth and increased use of telephones in the 126 communities served by General.

Drunk Driving Suspect Hurts 2

Norma J. Green, 18, of 1831 Magnolia Ave., and Mary Walsh, 56, of 1732 Gardena Ave., Saturday were treated at Community Hospital for injuries, after their car, driven by Edward Green, 18, of the Magnolia Ave. address collided with one driven by Stephen R. Ware, 35, of 9602 Chanticleer Rd., Anaheim, at Anaheim St., and Gundry Ave. Police booked Ware on suspicion of felony drunk driving.

Chamber to Seek Members

The Long Beach Chamber of Commerce will open its annual membership drive Jan. 10, George Fadenhurst, president, announced Saturday.

Albert L. Code, manager of the Southern California Edison Co., has been named chairman of the 1957 campaign, which will be known as "Task Force 500."

The chamber's "500 Club" is sponsoring the endeavor.

CODE

Extended Service Extended

Extended service customers of the General Telephone Co. had their extended service extended at 12:01 a. m. today, according to C. E. Scott, southern division manager.

Subscribers with HEmlock 2, 5, 6, and 7 prefixes to their numbers are now able to dial all DAvenport, FAirfax and FRontier numbers without calling the operator.

Further extensions of the extended service will go into effect Sunday, Dec. 16, Scott added. Subscribers affected by these conversions will be mailed lists of the additional numbers as they are added to the service.

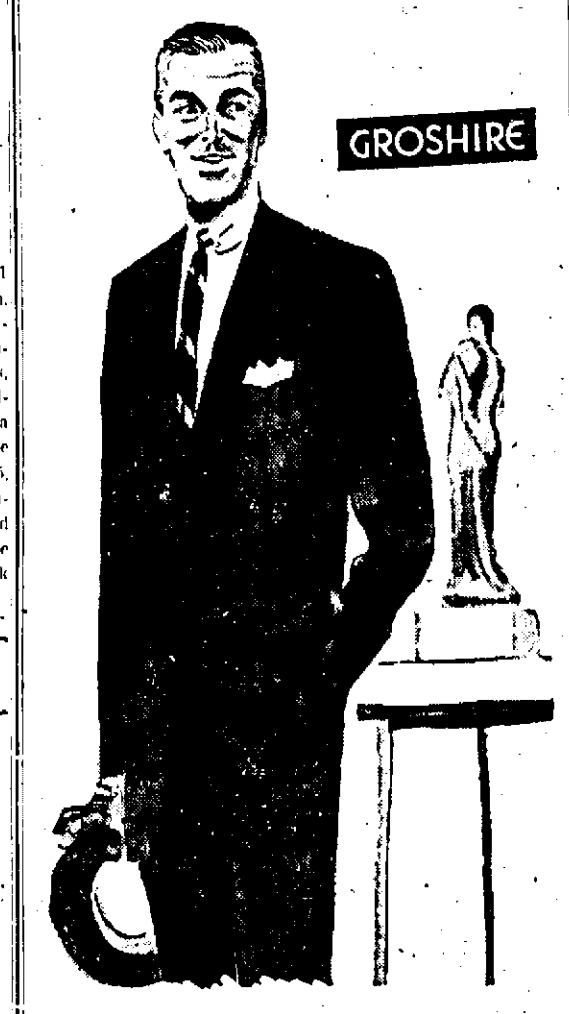

Club Will Sell Gasoline

Long Beach City College Newman Club will operate Chuck and Don's Service Station, 61st St. and Atlantic Ave., all day today to raise funds for the club treasury.

About 40 members will work at the station during the day, according to the club president, Ron Horvath, 19, of 418 Smith St. Part of the proceeds will be used in the club's annual charity project, Horvath said.

Democratic Club Will Elect

The Long Beach Democratic Luncheon Club will elect new officers at noon Tuesday at the Wilton Hotel.

Confessed Killer of Four Says He Slew Another

Refuses Details Until 'Someone' Pays Him $1,000

Ex-convict Stephen Nash, confessed slayer of four persons, told police Saturday he also killed a fifth person but refused to divulge details.

Nash, 33-year-old transient truck driver, said he would withhold information until "someone" gives him $1,000 for his "exclusive story."

The victim, he said, was a wealthy young man in San Francisco.

"He was well-to-do and 22 years old," the 6-foot-2, 180-pound suspect told detectives in Los Angeles. "He was in a car that I shoved into the ocean in San Francisco and I don't think they ever found him."

Earlier, Nash admitted slaying hair stylist John William Berg, 27, in the victim's apartment at 1039 Atlantic Ave.; 10-year-old Larry Rice of Venice beneath the Santa Monica Pier; Floyd Leroy Barnett, a transient knifed near Sacramento; and an unidentified hitchhiker near Hayward.

• • • •

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA authorities have no record of an unsolved crime fitting the description of the hitchhiker case. Neither have they been able to find a murder or missing person case which would explain Nash's latest admission.

Nash was arrested Thursday night on Los Angeles' Skid Row with blood encrusted on his hands and on a hunting knife he carried. Police said the blood was that of the Rice boy, found dying from 30 stab wounds on the beach at Santa Monica Thursday.

The tall, gangling psychopath re-enacted for police movie cameras Saturday how he stabbed the boy.

Berg's body was found in his apartment Tuesday, stabbed three times in the chest and abdomen.

CONFESSED KILLER Stephen Nash (center) shows Santa Monica detectives Ward Bell (left) and Bill Garn the ladder which he said he and 10-year-old victim, Larry Rice of Venice, used to climb over pipe. On the other side, Nash confessed, he stabbed the youngster 30 times because of his "urge to kill." Nash took officers to the scene Saturday.—(AP)

Burglar Uses Key to Get Out of Jail

PRINEVILLE, Ore. (AP)—Police of this central Oregon town said Saturday they were investigating what apparently is the case of a prisoner who left his jail cell at night whenever he wanted to and who finally left for good last month.

The prisoner was identified as Roy Stinehart who was arrested Sept. 1 on a charge of burglary.

On Nov. 4 he was missing from his locked jail cell.

Another prisoner, Troy Hawkins, released from the jail some time ago, was picked up this week and he shed some new light on the affair. Hawkins was quoted as saying that Stinehart had a key to the jail, which is untended at night, and that he went out every night and sometimes brought money with him when he returned before daylight.

Police have reopened the investigation of a number of burglaries that occurred while Stinehart supposedly was in jail.

Police were unable to say how Stinehart might have come into possession of the key.

Higher Farm Pegs Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Milton R. Young Saturday called for a reappraisal of the administration's farm programs and urged higher support levels or a new price support plan for wheat.

The North Dakota Republican, frequent critic of administration farm policies, said in an interview that a new look is needed at the overall effect of present farm programs—"particularly as they affect the farm areas west of the Mississippi."

He said results of last month's election showed dissatisfaction with administration policies in that section. He said both administration and congressional leaders should make separate studies of the picture.

U.S. Navy Vessel Sinks Italy Tug; Crewman Missing

NAPLES, Italy (AP)—The U. S. Navy military transport Alcor rammed and sank an Italian tug which was towing it into port in heavy seas here Saturday night.

One of the tug's five crewmen was missing and feared drowned. The others swam to safety. Authorities said the accident was apparently caused by big waves and high winds.

The Alcor docked safely.

Danish Troops Widen Canal Peace Zone

U. N. OCCUPIED ZONE, Egypt, (AP) — Danish infantrymen widened their peace zone on the Suez Canal Saturday and set up housekeeping under the blue and white flag of the United Nations.

The flag was hoisted on a 15-foot strip of secondhand lumber to denote occupation by U. N. police of the battle line where a cease-fire order halted the British-French drive just north of Qantara Nov. 7.

• • • •

A COMPANY of 163 blue-helmeted Danes, which relieved British forces west of the canal Friday took over foxholes of a French foreign legion platoon east of the canal Saturday.

The British moved back 400 yards or so and the French a lesser distance.

The Egyptians kept their old front line positions. About a mile of territory, including the U. N. buffer zone, now separates the two armies.

The old battleground of sand and swamp was ringed with U.N. roadblocks to cover a sector 1,000 yards long and about 900 yards wide.

At noon the zone was officially closed to all but U. N. personnel. Even reporters from neutral nations were ordered out if they were uniformed as war correspondents accredited to the British or French armies.

A U. N. detachment of 26 Canadian engineers did some mine sweeping for the Danes along the Egyptian front and came up with three antipersonnel mines described as of Russian manufacture.

"The Egyptians don't seem to know exactly, or are reticent in telling us, where their mines are," said Capt. Norman Henderson, commander of the Canadian detail. "So we're taking no chances."

The British had assured the Danes there were no mines in the no-man's-land adjoining the British positions. The French legionnaires relieved Saturday cleared their own minefields before withdrawing.

The Danish police, commanded by Maj. N. C. Larsen, erected tents and dug entrenchments. Some, off duty, stripped and swam in the canal. Others fished from rowboats.

Sgt. Bredo Gustav, in charge of the front line troops, said "everything has gone smoothly."

Butler Reveals Demos' Hope of Ruling California

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Paul Butler, Democratic National Committee chairman, said Saturday the Democrats have high hopes of taking over control of California's state government in 1958.

Butler, here to confer with top local Democratic leaders, said his party considers California as "a vital state in our plans."

"Democratic gains in the Senate and Assembly, and picking up two congressional seats make a wonderful opportunity for us to take the state government in 1958," he said.

$100,000 Rockefeller Gift for Hungarians

NEW YORK (AP)—The American Red Cross Saturday announced a $100,000 gift from Mr. and Mrs. John D. Rockefeller Jr. to help Hungarian refugees.

A total of $130,000 for Hungarian relief has been received by the New York Red Cross chapter in the past two days.

Hoodlum Widow Quizzed

CHICAGO (AP)—Police Saturday questioned the mother and widow of Alan "Duke" Holt, 27, slain slot machine hoodlum, in an effort to solve his murder and prevent further gangland killings.

Holt's mother, Mrs. A. Bollen, Chandler, Ariz., arrived here by plane a few minutes after the victim's widow, Connie, arrived from Tampa, Fla.

The two were taken by police to a hotel to await the opening of an inquest into Holt's death in suburban Stickney Thursday night.

Holt was described as a "big time" operator in the business of looting slot machines operated by syndicates in plush resort cities from Florida through Chicago to Las Vegas.

Holt and his companions would loot the machines by using specially-made tools to trip the slots. They would net about $100 a night.

Syndicate leaders were believed responsible for Holt's death. His body, riddled with buckshot, was dumped from a car in front of a newly-constructed home.

Police sought to round up Holt's companions in an effort to prevent other slayings. One of them, Max Gretschel Jr., 27, Forest Park, was taken into protective custody by authorities.

Gretschel said he is "scared to death" that he too is marked for murder. He said both he and Holt had received warnings from the syndicate.

Police said they are on the trail of Eddie Vogel, head of the slot machine syndicate here, and five of his aides.

Local Polio Chapter Gets $11,350 Grant

The local chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis Saturday received $11,350 from New York headquarters, reports William J. Curry, Long Beach chairman. The money will be used for patient care.

Inoculate 50,000 in Detroit

DETROIT (UP) — Students from two more Detroit elementary schools "probably" have diptheria, Dr. Joseph G. Molner, city health commissioner, said Saturday. The latest cases would bring the total to 132 in the city's outbreak, including five deaths.

Meanwhile, city health authorities went on with plans to inoculate 50,000 children in 100 schools before the Christmas holidays. A 16-team task force has been organized for the mass immunization program and Molner asked parents whose children don't live in the afflicted area to have their children inoculated also.

• • • •

THE OUTBREAK is centered in the central portion of the city. Mostly grade-school children have been stricken.

The state health department and state police Friday brought antitoxin from six cities around the state to Lansing where state authorities will hold the serum in case the outbreak reaches epidemic portions.

Molner said Detroit faces a "potential shortage" of the antitoxin.

Champion Steer Sells for $20.50 lb.

CHICAGO (UP)—The doors closed Saturday night on the nine-day International Livestock Exposition, sending 10,050 carefully tended steers, barrows, wethers and other animals back to their farms or to the slaughterhouses.

At least one exception will be the Grand Champion Steer, P. S. Troubadour, which sold for a record $20.50 a pound. He will make a round of guest appearances at fairs and agricultural colleges.

Livestock men were estimated to have collected more than $5,000,000 for the sale of their prize animals. About 391,000 spectators, one of the largest numbers in recent years, came to see the show.

Iowa State College won the intercollegiate meat judging contest for the second straight year. The college thereby won the right to hold the challenge trophy offered by the National Livestock and Meat Board for another year.

Stockmen from 30 states and one Canadian province, Ontario, brought entries in the livestock and horse divisions.

Skin Divers Hunt Body in 32-Deg. Lake

SPENCER, Iowa (UP) — Six skin divers worked Saturday in the near-freezing waters of Lake Okoboji as the search for the body of a young drowning victim went into its 9th day.

A half inch of ice had to be removed in Emerson Bay before the divers could descend. Despite their insulated suits, the 32- to 36-degree water temperature prevented the divers staying down more than a half hour at a time.

Working in pairs, the divers were going as deep as 70 to 80 feet in their search for the body of Wayne Swezey, 16, of Spencer. Swezey and Robert Wyatt, 17, drowned Nov. 23 when their duckboat capsized on the lake. Wyatt's body was recovered the day of the drownings.

• • • •

HUNDREDS OF volunteers working with seines and grappling hooks. Hundreds of other volunteers were on the beach.

An emergency rescue fund voluntarily subscribed for use in meeting actual expenses of the volunteers has reached $8,500.

Skin divers at work included Carl Lindberg, Alvin Telam, Bob Keagle and Langley Smith, all members of a Minneapolis skin divers' club; Larry Bethe, a member of the Milwaukee Skin Divers' Assn., and Bob Nefcges of Spencer.

Bethe and Matt Jacobchick, also of Milwaukee, initiated the descents Friday.

Arrests Rise, Deaths Drop

CHICAGO (UP) — Crack down on traffic-law violations and you cut down on traffic deaths.

That may sound like a slogan. But it's not. It's a formula distilled from reports from cities and states that have had remarkable reductions in fatalities.

The National Safety Council announced Thursday that motor-vehicle deaths had dropped 12 per cent in October. NSC termed the slump "amazing" because it bucked the normal seasonal trend and broke a rise that had carried through 19 months in a row.

Blood, Sand Drama in Mexican Arena

Accidents Frustrate South Pole Buildup

McMURDO SOUND, Antarctica (UP) — A string of mishaps has temporarily stalled the American buildup at the South Pole.

The latest accident occurred Thursday night. A big U. S. Air Force C124 Globemaster bringing technicians from New Zealand crashed and caught fire at this air base on the Antarctic Coast—the staging area for construction crews building bases at the pole and elsewhere on the ice-covered continent.

• • • •

THE PILOT, Capt. Warren J. Fair of Greenville, S. C., suffered a broken leg and a civilian technician, James R. Farlow of San Bernardino, Calif., injured an ankle. Other crewmen and the remaining 30 passengers escaped injury.

But the three million dollar aircraft was considered a nearly total loss.

There already were two of the 90-ton Globemasters broken down—with landing gears shattered—at the edge of the ice runway. One plane crash-landed only Wednesday on its return from a flight to drop supplies to 19 Navy Seabees at the South Pole. Another crash-landed Oct. 22.

The 16 civilian technicians aboard the latest Globemaster to crash had flown from the United States to try to repair the first damaged craft before McMurdo Sound's ice runway melts away.

Although damage to the first two planes is relatively minor, they must be repaired soon. The 6,000-foot runway now is only 25 miles from the edge of the fast-breaking bay ice. Last January the distance was 50 miles.

Repeated tractor breakdowns here and at the South Pole base also piled on more frustration.

• • • •

WITH THREE CARGO planes and a large number of the base's tractors out of operation, the airlift of equipment to the Seabees building the polar camp ground to a virtual halt.

The Seabees' mission is to put up prefabricated buildings for a party of American scientists who plan to spend the Antarctic winter at the pole, making observations for the International Geophysical Year.

The job must be completed during the short southern hemisphere summer now well under way. There is considerable concern that the airstrip here will melt before it is finished. The ice now averages 14 feet in thickness. Therefore the mishaps that have stalled progress are particularly costly.

THE PLANE that crashed Thursday night was the State of Oregon—the first Globemaster ever to fly over the South Pole. It was named for the home state of Air Force Maj. Gen. Chester E. McCarty, who piloted it on the Polar flight Oct. 26.

Fair and Farlow were injured sliding down escape ropes after the right inboard engine caught fire. The fire was put out by crews wearing asbestos suits, but inspection showed that the main frames of the 173-foot wing were damaged beyond repair.

States End Parley on Road Law

RENO (UP)—About fifty legislators and highway officers of 11 western states Saturday closed their two-day discussion of a mass of details aimed at unifying automobile driving regulations.

Elton K. McQuery of San Francisco, representative of the Council of State Governments, said the same subcommittee on legislative problems of highway operations will meet again in San Francisco Jan. 12-13.

• • • •

DISCUSSION at the meeting here revolved around proposed changes in articles of the uniform vehicle code, formed by the National Committee on Uniform Ordinances and Regulations.

The changes centered around proposed improvements in such regulations as the distance to begin stopping before an intersection.

• • • •

SUBCOMMITTEE members are scheduled to discuss the proposed changes with officials in their respective states and return with recommendations at the San Francisco conference.

The conclusions reached after the conference will be presented the legislatures of the western states.

Deer Hunter Admits Guilt in Robbery

PROVO (UP)—Elliott King, 20, Salt Lake City, has pleaded "guilty" on charges of robbing a California couple in Spanish Fork Canyon.

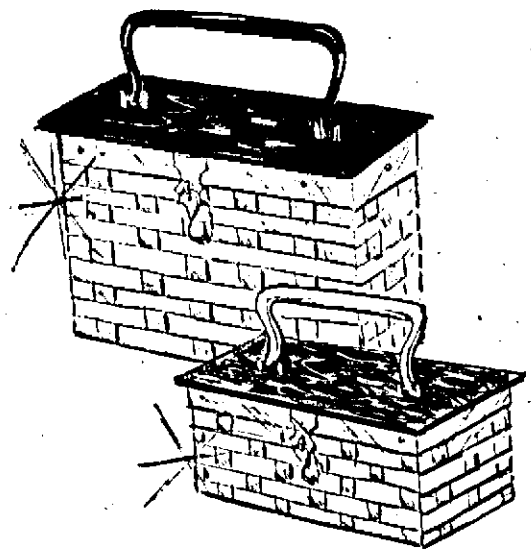

The plea was made in Fourth District Court where King was arraigned before Judge Leroy Tuckett. Tuckett will sentence King Dec. 14.

King held the California couple, Mr. and Mrs. D. Wayne Cox of Hayward, Calif., at gunpoint while he took approximately $300.

The Californians were driving in Diamond Fork Canyon near Thistle when they stopped on the narrow road for an oncoming car. Four deer hunters got out of the other car, and one of them, King, pointed his deer rifle at Mr. and Mrs. Cox and told them he wanted their money.

King was apprehended Nov. 22 in Las Vegas, Nev.

Phone Co. Parleying Continues

NEW YORK (UP)—Union and company negotiators, working night and day to prevent a nationwide strike of long-distance operators exchanged ideas Saturday about new contract proposals for 25,000 telephone company employes in 42 states.

A spokesman for the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. said management and negotiators for the AFL-CIO Communications Workers of America exchanged new proposals at a joint bargaining session Friday night.

Each side considered the other's revised demands in separate meetings Saturday morning and Saturday afternoon, and exchanged information about them. There was no joint meeting, however.

• • • •

NEITHER SIDE would disclose the nature of its stand in the marathon negotiating session, which has continued despite a strike deadline set for midnight last Wednesday.

Involved in the dispute are 25,000 long-distance operators, maintenance workers and other AT & T employes in 42 states and the District of Columbia. The states not involved are Delaware, Montana, Nevada, New Hampshire, Oregon and Vermont.

Long-distance operators now receive $40 to $67 a week. Maintenance workers are paid $41 to $114.

Forethought Saves Pair From Pit

REDDING (UP)—Two young Berkeley men were trapped in a cave pit for about 50 hours—then rescued because of a note.

Reginald Bjornstad, 22, University of California anthropology student, and Gerald L. Adamson, 21, were saved by a six-man search party.

Adamson suffered a skinned leg and sprained ankle.

He and Bjornstad discovered a cave near Shasta Lake Tuesday while exploring the area, and told U. S. Forest Ranger Spencer Ward they were going to inspect it.

They entered the cave late Wednesday and found a pit 90 feet deep. They used a knotted rope to descend and for hours picked up bones, fossils and pieces of rock formations.

Adamson then started to climb the rope, was too exhausted and tumbled to the bottom. He and Bjornstad each had two candy bars and a box of raisins.

Ranger Ward passed by the cave Friday and saw a note the men had left, saying they were inside. He promptly organized the search party.

Painter Slays Two, Self in Fit of Rage

ANDOVER, Kan. (UP) — A neighbor, but missed. Then house painter, enraged because he had lost custody of his three children, shot and killed his estranged wife and a neighbor woman, shot at and missed another man, then fatally shot himself as officers pursued his speeding automobile Saturday.

Officers said Earl Parsons, 30, brought his children to the sheriff's office in nearby El Dorado and protested a court order restraining him from molesting his wife, Marcia, 22, and the children. He was told to return the children to their mother and go into court if he wished to get the order changed.

Several hours later, Parsons came to the family home here and shot twice at Claude James, Parsons shot his wife to death inside the house. James' wife, Geneva, 33, who was visiting with Mrs. Parsons, was shot and killed as she ran outside.

Parsons fled in his car and police broadcast an alarm for his capture. Police at Winfield, 30 miles south, pursued his car as it sped through the city then ran off the road and crashed.

Officers who pulled him from the wreckage said he had shot himself twice near the heart. A .22-caliber revolver was found in the car. He died in a hospital an hour later.

Body Found in River

GRANTS PASS, Ore. (UP)—The body of William Stanford Larch, 23-year-old Southwest Airlines employe from Arcata, Calif., was recovered from the Rogue River near here Saturday.

His car was hauled from the river beside the Pacific Highway Friday.

10 Slain in Cuba Violence

SANTIAGO, Cuba (AP) — Troops and police battled rebel snipers firing from downtown buildings Saturday and fought other skirmishes in the city's outskirts in the second day of outbreaks against the government of President Fulgencio Batista.

At least 10 persons are believed to have been killed and more than 30 wounded in the two-day violence.

Nearly 500 persons were reported under arrest in various parts of Cuba, including more than 40 active rebels and some 400 known opponents of Batista.

• • • •

SNIPERS IN HALF a dozen buildings in central Santiago fired on troops and police and took potshots at patrolling planes. Fairly heavy firing was heard at various points in the city, but there was no sign of a concerted attack.

Saturday's fighting seemed to be on a smaller scale than the outbreak Friday in which most attacks were carried out by squads of six to eight rebels.

Some sources speculated that the rebels, despairing of overthrowing Batista by direct attack, hoped to create a general panic that would force him out of power.

Others believed the scattered, small-scale attacks were intended to create disorder as the prelude to the landing of an "invasion fleet" manned by leftwing refugees from Cuba and other Latin American countries.

Mexican reports that some 4,000 refugees who had been living in Mexico City have dropped out of sight in the past week stimulated the latter belief, although officials here scoffed at the theory.

Marine Held in Student's Strangling

WASHINGTON (AP)—Jim B. Edmonds, 19-year-old AWOL Marine private from Albany, Ga., was charged with homicide Saturday in the strangulation of a 33-year-old college student.

Police said Edmonds confessed strangling the student, George P. Le Febvre, in his apartment here two weeks ago. Le Febvre's body was found last Tuesday, clad only in underwear and with a pink pillowslip twisted around the neck. A 14-inch oil painting of a nude woman was propped near his feet.

Edmonds was picked up Tuesday in Albany after suffering minor injuries when he overturned Le Febvre's 1955 automobile on a highway outside the city. He was returned here by plane Saturday.

• • • •

HOMICIDE detectives said Edmonds, who was absent without leave from his Marine post here, told them he killed Le-Febvre because the student made "improper advances" after inviting him to his apartment for a cup of coffee.

They quoted Edmonds as saying he wrecked Le Febvre's car deliberately in an attempt to kill himself because the slaying was preying on his mind.

Police said Edmonds' fingerprints, taken earlier this month when he was charged with assault on a policeman, matched some found in Le Febvre's apartment.

Overheated Stove Causes Child's Death

FRESNO (AP) — Three-month-old Karen Lin French burned to death Saturday despite efforts of her mother and a neighbor to rescue her from a blazing cabin.

Officials of the Mid-Valley Fire District said the fire, caused by an overheated wood stove, broke out while Mrs. Verdi French, 35, was at a store near the cabin, but the flames already engulfed it.

Town's Protector Involved in Triangle

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Residents of the suburban Orangevale area complained Saturday of inadequate police protection after the area's resident deputy resigned in the wake of an investigation into the shooting of his next door neighbor.

The neighbor, John Buck, was shot in the ankle while struggling with his daughter-in-law, Nina L. Buck, 20, for the possesion of a pistol Thursday night.

Sheriff Don Cox said Deputy Harold McCune resigned Saturday after the girl told officers the shooting resulted from a quarrel with her mother-in-law and that the quarrel involved McCune.

Dep. Dist. Atty. Kenneth M. Wells said Mrs. Buck told him the mother-in-law had accused her of dating McCune while her husband was on military duty overseas.

Informed of McCune's resignation, the Orangevale Chamber of Commerce adopted a resolution calling on the Sacramento County Board of Supervisors for "immediate steps to provide a resident deputy who will be more diligent in the pursuit of his duties." The resolution also complained that protection afforded by the sheriff's office is inadequate.

McCune, Orangevale resident deputy since 1954, refused comment.

Boy, 11, Dies Rather Than Peril Brother

HOFFMAN, Minn. (AP) — An heroic 11-year-old boy drowned in icy Red Rock Lake near here Saturday rather than endanger his younger brother in a rescue attempt.

Siebelt Saarthoff fell through the ice into eight feet of water while sledding with his brothers, Darryl, 10, and Roger, 9.

Authorities said Darryl offered to pull Siebelt out with a sled, but Siebelt, clinging to the edge of the ice, refused. He said he was afraid he would pull Darryl into the water with him.

A few minutes later Siebelt's fingers slipped from the ice and he drowned.

AF Plane Drops Iron Lung at Sea, Aids Man on Ship

HONOLULU (AP)—A chest type "iron lung" respirator was dropped to a military transport ship by plane far at sea Saturday for a critically ill passenger.

A C54 Rescuemaster plane from Hickam Field flew the respirator to the Gen. H. J. Gaffey 850 miles northeast of Honolulu.

The transport, en route from the Orient to San Francisco, radioed a passenger had "acute encephalitis."

The patient's name was not disclosed, but a doctor aboard the Gaffey later said the man was "doing all right."

The plane had to circle the transport for some time because the sea was too rough for a small boat to pick up two water-tight steel barrels containing the respirator.

Transocean Canoeist Refuses Food

HALIFAX, N. S. (AP)—A Dutch sea captain said Saturday that a German attempting to cross the Atlantic in a 12-foot sailing canoe had turned down his offer of food.

Capt. H. G. Van Broekhulsen, master of the 12,000-ton Biltar, a combined passenger-cargo ship, said the canoe with Hans Lendiman aboard was 1,200 nautical miles from land when he saw it.

"We asked Lendiman if he wanted food, but he said he didn't need a thing. He told us he had left Las Palmas (in the Canary Islands) 35 days ago and was aiming for St. Thomas in the Virgin Islands.

"I figured it would take him at least another 45 days to make his destination," the captain said.

Capt. Broekhulsen said they could see only the man's head and part of his shoulders because the canoe was closed in like a kayak.

'Bomb Shelter' Jumping With Bulldozer's Bumps and Grinds

ONCE THE HEADQUARTERS of burlesque cuties, the "Bomb Shelter" at Spring and Lakewood has been doomed by Municipal Airport construction. Isolated and vandalized, the structure rocks with clatter of bulldozers.

WIND STRIPPING Venetian Blinds Gives Rhythmic Beat to "Floor Show" of Vandalism at Abandoned Night Club

'Take-It-Off' Crew to Open Another Show

By BRYAN HODGSON

A sad wind blows through the burlesque hall, and the ghosts of the girls are cold today as they haunt the cluttered ruins of the Bomb Shelter.

Once a bawdy bistro of bump-and-grind, the barn-like night club at Lakewood Blvd. and Spring St. will be torn down soon to make way for extension of the main runway at Long Beach municipal airport.

• • • •

BUT THE OFFICIAL wrecking crews will find much of their work already done. The mysterious decay which crumbles all abandoned buildings has set in, aided by vandals who have shattered the walls and windows, scattered the furniture and carpeted the floor with broken bottles.

The gaudy ladies have gone, and the polished wit of vanished comedians seems to raise an ironic echo in the silent shambles.

• • • •

SOON, A GROUP of businesslike men will open in a new "take-it-off" show on the ground where the Bomb Shelter stands.

They'll be the pilots of the new DC8 jetliners, which will roll from the assembly lines at Douglas Aircraft Co.

And though the stars of this show may lack some of the equipment boasted by the buxom Bomb Shelter beauties, there's one consolation:

The new show is booked solid for years to come.

Association Sets $5,000 Book Awards

The American Library Association will make awards totaling $30,000 to authors of books published in the United States in 1956 and 1957 which make "distinguished contributions to the American tradition of liberty and justice," according to City Librarian Edwin Castagna.

Awards of $5,000 each will be made to authors of books in three categories: contemporary problems and affairs (non-fiction); history and biography (non-fiction), and imaginative literature (fiction, poetry or published drama). Publishers of award-winning books will receive citations.

Separate juries of three persons each, prominent in each of the three fields of work represented by the categories, will select the award winners. Anyone may suggest works to be considered by the judges. Details will be available soon in libraries.

Hearing on Closing of 6th Pl. Tuesday

A City Council move to close 6th Pl. to make way for a 140-unit apartment building is scheduled for hearing at 11 a.m. Tuesday, but the proposal is expected to be abandoned at the request of one of its originators.

Edward S. Milkes, 196 Ximeno Ave., owner of two lots adjacent to the dead-end street, formally has withdrawn his application in a letter to City Clerk Margaret Heartwell.

Milkes was associated with Ajax Construction Co. and others in asking that the street be vacated to provide a portion of the site for the multi-million-dollar structure.

• • • •

HOWEVER, Atty. Samuel Lackman said he will be present in the Council chamber anyway to present the protest of 150 property owners and residents in the area, if needed.

Lackman has spoken against the project on previous occasions, arguing it will obstruct the view, prevent access to the beach and constitute a precedent for abandonment of other streets south of Ocean Blvd.

The proposal has been endorsed by the Planning Commission, but when Council members ordered the hearing they made it clear they had not decided for or against the project.

10-Year Pay for Disability $54 Million

State disability insurance benefits totaling $54,017,040 have been paid wage earners in the Long Beach area and Orange County during 10 years.

The figure was reported Saturday by V. L. Hetzel, manager of the Long Beach District Disability office of the State Department of Employment.

The total, comprising 17 per cent of the state's outlay of $315,000,000, included $5,305,776 in hospital benefits paid since Jan. 1, 1950. The latter sum covered approximately 579,718 days of hospitalization.

• • • •

BENEFITS PAID by the local office represented partial compensation for loss of wages resulting from 189,545 periods of disability covering more than 1,825,408 weeks of enforced absence from work. The benefits covered non-occupational illness or injury.

The disability insurance program, paid for by employes through a 1 per cent tax on wages, began in the first week of December 1946. The maximum weekly benefit today is $40 as compared with $25 at the program's start. Hospital benefits are $10 a day, not exceeding 12 days.

Foe of Eden Policy Follows His Steps

LONDON (AP)—The mass circulation Daily Mirror, which has bitterly opposed British military intervention in Egypt, Saturday announced an essay contest on the question of what course the nation should take on the issue now.

The prize: three weeks in Jamaica, where Prime Minister Eden now is resting from overstrain.

RANDOM NOTES FROM EUROPE

Unhappy Over Gas Rationing

By MARIE W. AND WALTER T. RIDDER
(I. P.-T. Washington Bureau)

The Europeans are mighty unhappy over the sudden resumption of gas and oil rationing. Most of the countries comparatively recently had abandoned such wartime measures and to be faced with the whole performance over again was a bitter blow to the populations. Along with the rationing, brought about by the Suez crisis, other reminders of the war and immediate postwar period crept out of the woodwork. In England, for instance, no sooner had rationing been announced than its unsavory companion "the spiv" made his reappearance, selling his under-the-counter gas coupons. Then again, department and food stores reported a run on certain commodities - tinned foods, stockings, clothing—which were in perennial short supply during the war. Throughout Europe the people have the uneasy feeling they have been through all this before and are fearful what may yet come.

• • • •

A LOT OF name-changing seems to be in order in certain parts of East Berlin. The showcase of that Communist sector is a long esplanade of shops, restaurants and apartment buildings lumped together under the once imposing name of Stalin Allee. The recent post-mortality difficulties which Stalin has been experiencing has prompted the good people of the East Zone formally to request their government to change the name back to its original version, Frankfurter Strasse. The reigning fathers of the East Zone have the matter under consideration, but in view of Mr. Molotov's recent apparent comeback in Russia, they may well hesitate a little longer before changing the name. A bust of Stalin is displayed prominently along the Allee and naturally enough the populace has asked that it be removed. The authorities have acquiesced by announcing the space taken up by the bust is needed for a new hotel. The two ritziest and most expensive restaurants along Stalin Allee are called the Budapest and the Warsaw. In view of recent events in Poland and Hungary it is probable that the populace will demand their names be changed too. All of which proves that when you're living in a Communist country, there's more in a name than Shakespeare thought.

THE YOUTH of East Germany are giving their elders a hard time. Students in East German universities recently circulated a pamphlet making certain demands, among them more military training. In explanation of that demand, the students added in fine print: "It worked so well in Hungary."

One youthful East German girl student still has the authorities wondering whether she was sincere or pulling their legs. At one of the discussion groups so beloved by the Communists, this young girl arose and asked plaintively: "What's happened to Comrade Stalin? For years I was told he was the hero of our times and his name is engraven on my heart. Now I no longer hear anything about him. What happened?" The best authorities could do was to suggest that "Poppa knows best" and that she should not go around asking silly questions.

'Lean Division' Postpones Diet of Its Santa

WACKERNHEIM, Germany (UP)—The U. S. Army has permitted a 240-pound lieutenant to postpone his reducing diet until after Christmas so he can be an authentic Santa Claus.

Ex-football player Lt. Charles Knepper, of St. Louis, Mo., had been peeling off pounds under doctors' orders to fit in with the 2nd Armored Division's reputation as a "lean, mean division."

But after Knepper was chosen to play Santa Claus for German orphans at his unit's Christmas Party, the celebration's organizers began to worry. They felt his dieting was progressing too fast. They feared the kids would see a lean gaunt Santa, or that Knepper would have to be padded with pillows.

Lt. Col. Joseph B. Meacham, of Logan, Utah, commander of the 94th AAA Battalion, agreed to call a diet truce until after Christmas. He told battalion surgeon Capt. Oliver P. Campbell, of Colorado Springs, Colo., to relax his vigilnce over Knepper.

"I remember how I felt the first time I found out Santa needed help to fill out his costume," Meacham said. "Let the kids have a good party."

Knepper is determined to slim down after the holidays. He traces his ballooning poundage to a summer job in a St. Louis brewery.

"It sort of got out of hand," he said. "I was about 260 a few months ago, but I'm down to around 240 now. I don't dare go much lower before Christmas, or a lot of kids are going to ask their parents embarrasing questions about why Santa is so scrawny."

Whose Century?

IN A DYSPEPTIC and cynical column elsewhere on this page today, Ed Creagh of the Associated Press tells the 20th Century that it is headed for the hot place in a basket. This may become known as the Elvis Presley century, he laments—"whiny, sneering, trembly in the legs," reeking of sex rather than romance, idiotically figuring out bigger and better ways to blow itself to pieces, lacking taste, full of hate, fearful, aimless, and paranoiac.

It looks to us as if Ed was feeling sore at Presley because of those sideburns, got to thinking of all the other things that make him sore, and batted his frustration out on the typewriter.

OTHERWISE, Ed surely wouldn't have overlooked so many of the people and events which should make us proud of this century. Elvis Presley may be whiny, sneering, and trembly in the legs, and he may symbolize a fragment of the 20th Century. But before we start deciding it's Presley's century, let's remember that it's also the century of many courageous, inventive, and adventuresome people and some great guideposts in human history. They'll stand high long after people are scratching their heads and trying to remember what Rock 'n' Roll was.

THIS IS THE CENTURY of Albert Einstein, who expanded the limits of the universe. . . . Orville Wright, who kept his legs under control in the first successful flight in a heavier-than-air, mechanically propelled airplane. . . . Henry Clay Folger, founder of a library containing the largest collection of Shakespeariana in the world. . . . Kendall the discoverer of cortisone; Banting, Best, and MacLeod, discoverers of insulin; Alexander Fleming, discoverer of penicillin, and Jonas E. Salk, maker of a vaccine against dread polio. . . . Henry Ford, the man who revolutionized industry. . . . Earl Warren, author of the school desegregation decision, a milestone in human justice. . . . And Mahatma Gandhi, who set in motion the ending of colonialism.

IT IS THE CENTURY of Frances Alda, Sherwood Anderson, George Arliss. . . . The Barrymores, Arnold Bennett, William Jennings Bryan, Buffalo Bill, and Richard Byrd. . . . Enrico Caruso, Winston Churchill, Samuel Clemens, Marie Curie. . . . Alexander de Seversky, Bernard De Voto, Will Durant. . . . George Eastman, Dwight Eisenhower, and Eleanor. . . . William Faulkner, Kirsten Flagstad, Father Flanagan, and Glenn Frank. . . . John Galsworthy, James Garfield, and Carter Glass. . . . Oscar Hammerstein, William Randolph Hearst, and Cordell Hull. . . . Ickes. . . . Jerome Kern, Rudyard Kipling, and Fritz Kreisler. . . . Fiorello La Guardia, Charles Laughton, Sinclair Lewis. . . . Douglas MacArthur, George Catlett Marshall. . . . Eugene O'Neill. . . . Ivan Pavlov, Marcel Proust. . . . Elmer Rice, Jacob Riis, Will Rogers, and Rockefeller. . . . William Saroyan, Upton Sinclair. . . . Robert Taft, Lawrence Tibbett, and Arnold Toynbee. . . . Carl Van Doren, Thorstein Veblen. . . . Skinny Wainwright, Huge Walpole, Edith Wharton. . . . William Butler Yeats, Sergeant York, and Count Ferdinand von Zeppelin. . . .

WHOSE CENTURY DID YOU SAY it was, Ed?

ED CREAGH

Will This Be Known as Elvis Presley Century?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Maybe this will become known as the Elvis Presley century.

It's whiny, sneering, trembly in the legs and it makes a lot of money.

It reeks of sex instead of romance, but it runs like a hare from serious commitments.

Maybe, like the groaning post-adolescent from Mississippi, the 20th Century is more a fad than a reality. Maybe we'll get over it by the year 2000, which is no encouragement to those of us who don't expect to be around that long.

We don't have, as the post World War I days had, a lost generation.

We've lost a whole century.

We split the atom and opened the door to power and riches undreamed of. Instead we used this new tool to blast two cities level with the earth and raced on, idiot fashion, finding bigger and better ways to blow ourselves to pieces.

We invented radio and used it, for the most part, to broadcast either syrupy nonsense or hate propaganda.

"Love Me Tender . . ." That's a key word: tender. Not too hard or it might hurt. Love is dangerous, anyway; people might take advantage of you.

Besides, get too intense and you wind up on a psychiatrist's couch. It's simpler to hate. Or at least to sneer.

"Don't Be Cruel . . ."

That's another Presley tune. No, don't be cruel. Why are people so mean to us when we're so nice to everybody? Nobody understands us. Everybody hates us.

"Heart break Hotel . . ." Presley again. And that's us. Sitting in our lonely rooms, biting our fingernails, waiting for the bomb to go off, lamenting the warm comfort (or so it says here) of centuries past.

• • • •

HISTORY MAY SAY that this sideburned youth who wiggles his hips while singing popular songs was a symbol of this time—that this century does a lot of wiggling and squirming without ever getting anywhere.

ELVIS PRESLEY
Whiny and Trembly

But let's not be too hard on Mr. Presley. Doubtless he does the best he can, and nobody should interfere with his right to do it.

But when the American people shell out over a million dollars a year to watch him do it—

Well, leave it at that. Maybe this is an Elvis Presley century.

Finally Getting Wise?

JOHN S. KNIGHT

France, Britain Caught With Hands in Jampot, Try to Put the Blame on Ike

OF THE GREAT POWERS, only the United States has consistently been guided in the current crisis by the principles and purposes of the United Nations as set forth so eloquently in 1945 at San Francisco.

Why then, one may ask, is the U. S. being subjected to such torrents of abuse from our European allies?

KNIGHT

Why did the British press, prior to a sudden change of tone last Thursday when the U.S. warned Russia to leave the Baghdad powers alone, speak contemptuously of President Eisenhower as a man who "doesn't know what he is doing"?

Why have more than 100 Tory members of Parliament scolded the United States for "gravely endangering the Atlantic alliance?"

Why are the French saying that the U. S. has failed them by not coming to France's aid during the oil crisis?

Why does Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban challenge the U. N. by saying that its course in the Middle East "will have the effect, if not the intent, of permitting the revival of the Nasser dictatorship in Egypt?"

• • • •

THE OBJECTIVE observer, it seems to me, must conclude that these words of anger are in reality expressions of guilt.

Great Britain and France, long accustomed to Uncle Sam's coddling, are now reaping the consequences of an unprofitable adventure. They have been caught with their hands in the international jampot.

And, like small children, they seek to place the blame elsewhere.

"Ike Cold-Shoulders Britain," screams a headline from the usually pro-American London Express. "Eisenhower, Friend or Foe?" shouts the London Evening News. The Sunday Times warns that "the anti-British policies of Eisenhower and his Secretary of State . . . are leading to a rapid and dangerous rise of anti-American feeling in Britain."

• • • •

THIS HYSTERICAL nonsense is a far cry from the war days when the British press was sometimes candid enough to admit that Ike had saved their hides.

I think it is only fair to say that the British and French had reason to complain about Secretary Dulles' uncertain handling of the Middle East crisis.

But was this sufficient provocation for their blundering folly in Egypt? Where we consulted before they placed what they considered to be their national welfare above and beyond the integrity of a member U. N. nation?

President Eisenhower, who, I am sure, is standing up well under the British tirades, had only two choices when Great Britain and France joined the invasion of Egypt triggered by Israel.

He could either have given tacit approval to their acts, or resisted aggression, as he did, through the United Nations. Had he sided with our European allies, condoning their aggression, on what moral grounds could he then condemn Soviet aggression?

Should we have one rule for our friends, and another for our enemies?

• • • •

THE UNITED STATES, by supporting the basic principles of the United Nations rather than the ill-considered actions of its two strongest allies, had taken both a sound poistion and one consistent with the ideals we cherish.

Should the United Nations ever perish, the blood will not be on our hands.

Iched as we may be by the criticism from abroad, the task ahead is not only to resolve the present crisis but to forge a basic settlement between Israel and Egypt.

• • • •

IF THE UNITED Nations, with support from the United States and other countries, can negotiate a permanent solution and then be prepared militarily to back it up, the U. N. will have come a long way from the days when it was scornfully described as "that debating society on the East River."

DAVID LAWRENCE

U. S. on Nobody's Side Except That of Justice

WASHINGTON—This is a time to keep things in perspective. It is not a time for recriminations. The outburst of anti-American feeling in the British and French press is understandable. Nobody likes oil rationing.

It wasn't the American government which blocked the Suez Canal or blew up the pipelines in Syria. These were the consequences when national passions were aroused.

LAWRENCE

The problem now is how to sol things own — not ow to inflame hem more. he British d itorials hich point to e "disrup on" of the estern alli- ance--and the angry expressions of some of the conservatives in the British Parliament who think America is not cooperating in getting oil to Europe, but is chastising the British and French for their use of force —will not help move things toward a solution.

If there is to be a postmortem on mistakes and errors of policy in the last few years Americans could refer back to the British restraint which stopped the United Nations armies from using maximum military power in Korea and securing a victory there. Yet one of the London editorials proudly claims now that Britain "backed America to the hilt in Korea."

America is not the only country where there is grave concern about the Suez area. Canada, too, is having its internal debate on the subject. Lester Pearson, Foreign Minister at Ottawa, says the whole British Commonwealth came near "dissolution" a fortnight or so ago. He asserts boldly that Canada will not be tied up either to Britain or to the United States in shaping policy.

• • • •

CLEARLY ANY tendencies to "go it alone" are ominous. Even when the United States endeavors now to strengthen the United Nations — trying not to throw her influence to any side but merely pleading for a course that can lead to a peaceful settlement — the brickbats come just the same.

The demands for America to side with Britain and France and forget everything else that has happened will only add to the complications. London and Paris should know that American hearts are close to the British and French people no matter what the issues or the criticisms. President Eisenhower tried to express just that thought in his brief statement from Augusta on Tuesday.

But when all is said and done, a realistic course has to be followed by the United States. A policy has to be shaped to fit the changing circumstances of a troubled world. It will not avail to have the United States play the part of a leader who tries to boss the show and tell other nations what to do.

America is not on anybody's side except the side of justice. The questions that have inflamed the world in recent days are susceptible of solution if there's a return to considerations of moral law in the world.

Calif. Delegates Preferred Humphrey, Gave Him Zero

CALIFORNIA'S DELEGATES to the Democratic National Convention last August stated their choice for the Vice Presidential nomination, locked the ballots up in a steel box, and delivered the box to Adlai Stevenson after his nomination for the Presidency. When the roll call of the states took place, California's delegation cast its lot with Estes Kefauver for the Vice Presidency. But now the results of the vote locked up in the steel box can be told. Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, rather than Sen. Estes Kefauver, was the delegation's original preference.

The California delegation's activity regarding the selection of a Vice Presidential candidate was one of the most interesting episodes of the convention.

• • • •

THE HERETOFORE MISSING details are made public by Dave Selcer, a Long Beach Democratic leader, who launched the nationwide, pre-convention campaign in Sen. Humphrey's behalf. Selcer reports that he recently received the following account from a person who was prominent in the Southern California Stevenson-Kefauver Campaign Committee:

"Early in the convention, a number of California delegates thought that they should see to it that California was not left waiting in the lurch when the Vice Presidential candidate was chosen. Their original plan was to have a preference poll taken among the California delegates as to their choice of the Vice President and release this prior to the time that the President had been nominated in order that their delegation would have effect on the selection of the Vice President.

"Cooler heads prevailed, however, and it was pointed out that such a poll could embarrass the Presidential nominee since in the past it has always been understood that he will have a final say in the selection of the Vice President.

"A new plan was adopted by which a secret ballot would be taken and the ballots themselves locked in a steel box and delivered to the Presidential nominee immediately after his nomination. This way only he would know results of the California poll and could be guided. When the poll was taken, it was felt by those present that Estes Kefauver would probably get the most votes, and due to the interest and admiration of a number of the California delegation for Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, he would come in second.

SEN. HUMPHREY
The Potatoes Jolted Down

• • • •

HANDED a ballot and asked to write in the name of his first, second and third preference for the Vice Presidential candidate. These names were placed in a locked box, as arranged, and brought to Adlai Stevenson headquarters. The results of this poll were naturally kept until this time in order to save any embarrassment to the nominees of the Democratic party. However, the results of this poll can now be announced.

"The California delegates' first choice was as follows: Sen. Hubert Humphrey, 51; Sen. Estes Kefauver, 46; Atty. Gen. Pat Brown, 11; Sen. John Kennedy, 8; and the rest scattered among other nominees.

"The second choice tally was as follows: Sen. Humphrey, 52; Sen. Kefauver, 38; and the rest divided between Kennedy, Brown and the other nominees . . ."

By the rule of preferential voting, Humphrey was the choice.

We checked the steel box story with a delegate who had been present at Chicago. He confirmed its existence, said it had been his impression that Humphrey was favored, but noted that the ballots had been put in the box quite early in the convention when Sen. Humphrey was the most prominent Democratic Vice Presidential prospect. Stevenson had given him a strong boost by calling him the best-qualified.

• • • •

BUT BY FRIDAY, AUG. 17, the potatoes had jolted down in the sack. When the first ballot roll call came, California, whose 136 delegates had ½ vote each, gave Kefauver 53, Humphrey 23½, Kennedy 10½, and others 1. On the second ballot, California gave Kefauver 37½, Humphrey 5, Kennedy 25, and others ½. California refused to be stampeded to Kennedy and on the third ballot gave Kefauver 50, Kennedy 18, and Humphrey zero.

• • • •

THUS WE HAVE A PICTURE of the way the sands shift in a political convention. A delegate may go in with his mind made up on a certain line of action, but the swift-moving events which make some candidates and break others cause him to do things he had not anticipated. He likes Humphrey but votes for Kefauver or Kennedy in an "open" convention.

Liked Editorial About Lagard

TO THE EDITOR:

Your editorial about Garald Lagard (Sunday, Nov. 25) was wonderful. It inspired admiration for the subject and for the writer. I have clipped this particular editorial to save and expect to turn to it again and again for fresh courage, as I am accustomed to doing with favorite writings, books, and friends. I had to write this to say thank you and God bless you.

Weed Abatement Project Noted

TO THE EDITOR:

I would sure like to know why the Weed Abatement Control does not do anything whatsoever in making or compelling the Pacific Electric to clear their right of way from Artesia, up to the Coyote Creek.

The weeds, grass and young trees along this line is about the worst fire hazard any community could have. One match thrown anywhere along this track would destroy any number of homes, barns, etc.

Is it that the Weed Abatement Control is afraid to compel or order the railroad to clear its property?

• • • •

FOR SOME 20 years here in Artesia district the Weed Abatement Control has constantly year after year charged me from $3 to $12 for cleaning my lots; that is, when they thought that the lots were not clean enough from weeds when the weeds were only a foot or so high. However, the weeds right here on the Bloomfield P. E. crossing are from 10 to 12 feet high, and still not a thing has been done about it. It is not only the fire hazard but in the next few weeks or so the rains will be coming down and then the water will not be able to flow down the drain ditches along the P. E. right of way, which empties into the Coyote Creek. Consequently, the water will back up on our property and we will have, as usual, water standing from 2 to 6 feet on our property along the railroad.

Now, please, Mr. Weed Abatement Control, see to it that something is done about it and soon.

Wants to Put Russ Cut of U. N.

TO THE EDITOR:

Now is the psychological moment for America and the U. N. to regain the respect and confidence of the entire world and prove that we unequivocally stand for freedom and that we intend to protect it with our very blood if all other pressures prove of no avail.

The first step should be the immediate expulsion of Russia from the U. N. From its very beginning she has strangled all efforts made for the benefit of the free world.

Gov. Lausche in Key Spot to Change Senate Rule

WASHINGTON—Senator-elect Frank Lausche, who set the unique record of being five times Governor of normally Republican Ohio, though a Democrat, could do a unique job in the U. S. Senate.

Lausche first indicated he might line up with Republicans in organizing the Senate; though he has now ducked a showdown by postponing arrival in Washington until after the Senate is organized.

PEARSON

What he could do is to get to Washington on time then make a deal to back whichever party agreed to abolish Senate seniority in appointing committee chairmen.

This antiquated system of picking the most powerful men in the Senate by accident of service is the serious stumbling block to our legislative system. Actually it would make little difference which party organized the Senate if this system were abolished.

President Eisenhower would profit to some extent by Democratic leadership because three of his chief critics — McCarthy of Wisconsin, Malone of Nevada, and Jenner of Indiana — would not then be chairmen. However, if Senate seniority were abolished McCarthy would not have to be Chairman of the Senate Investigating Committee, where he caused more trouble for Eisenhower than the Democrats. Nor would Jenner have to be Chairman of the Rules Committee and Malone of the Interior Committee.

Lausche, by making a deal with the Republicans, might be able to change that. Simultaneously he would win the thanks of the nation. Or if he made an agreement with the Democrats he might be able to oust Mississippi's Sen. Eastland as Chairman of the Judiciary Committee, a spot where he lost more Negro votes for the Democrats than any other single person.

Committee chairmen, regardless of party, won't easily relinquish their potent posts with the privilege of blocking bills, holding up votes, appointing extra patronage. But it's worth trying. And Lausche, the middle-of-the-roader from Ohio, is in a key spot to try it.

• • • •

SEN. FRED PAYNE of Maine has confided to friends that one reason he isn't going to run for re-election is because he can't get along with Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, also of Maine. That's the first time anyone got out of the Senate because they couldn't get along with a lady . . . George Bradley, Waterbury, Conn., truck driver, hasn't had a chargeable accident on the road in 24 years, is probably the outstanding truck driver of the nation even though the American Trucking Assn. hasn't picked him for its annual safety award. Bradley learned to drive a truck in a cemetery. That was how he learned to keep people out of cemeteries.

Thug Phones Victim's Wife to Untie Him

MINEOLA, N. Y. (UP)—Mrs. Harry Schmidt knew there was trouble when she received a telephone call Saturday that her husband was tied up at the office.

The call came from a thoughtful bank bandit. He told Mrs. Schmidt she would find her husband bound in his office at the Mineola Savings and Loan Association.

• • • •

THE GUNMAN pushed his way into the Long Island bank this morning when Schmidt, an executive of the company, went there to tend to some business. He forced Schmidt to give him $10,000 from the safe and then tied the banker with a rope.

Before fleeing in Schmidt's Cadillac, the gunman telephoned Mrs. Schmidt. He told her he would leave the car in front of a nearby hospital. That is where police found it.

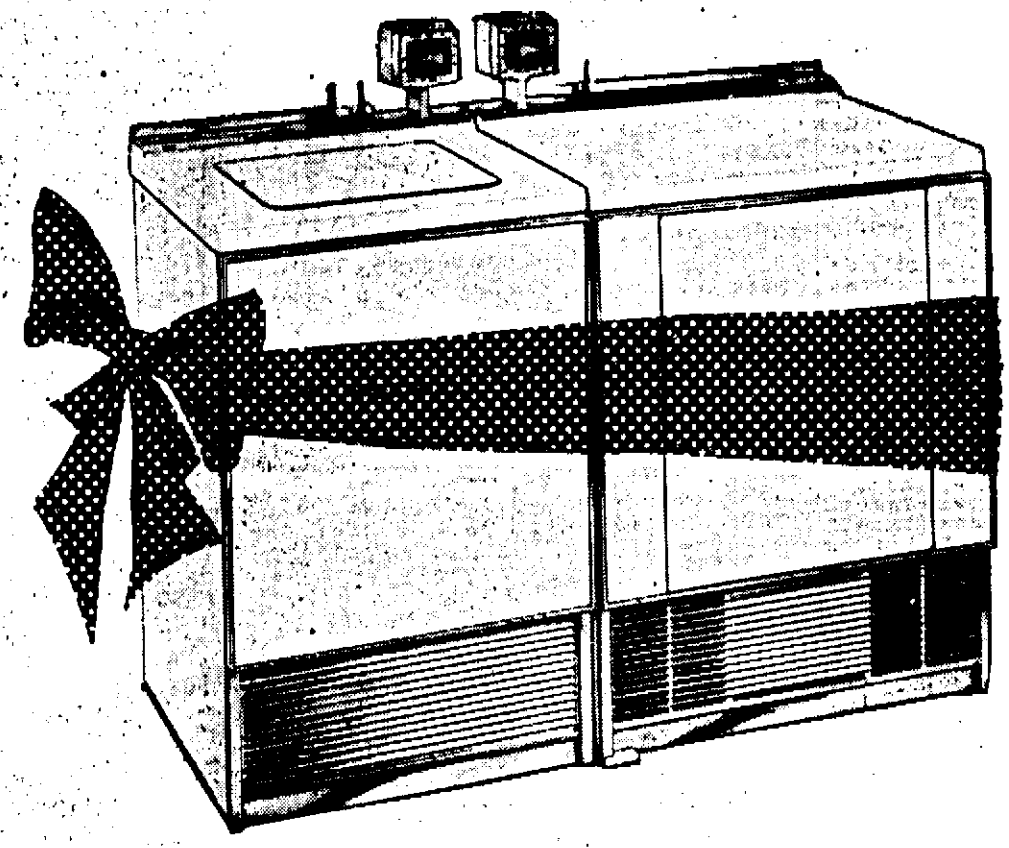

Chief of Liberia Wants His Yacht

MONROVIA, Liberia (UP) — President William V. S. Tuban says he found on his recent two-month tour of Europe that chiefs of state—for reasons of national interest—should have suitable ocean-going vessels at their disposal for such travels. He has asked the Liberian Congress to approve again an appropriation for a presidential yacht. He vetoed the act when it was first voted.

Mother Kills Two Sons, Self

GROVE CITY, Pa. (UP) — A minister found the bodies of a despondent young mother and two of her three young sons Friday in a carbon monoxide death bed she made in the snow behind her family car on a deserted farm. Authorities said it was definitely a murder-suicide case.

The third boy escaped asphyxiation by rolling from beneath the blankets. Although hospitalized for frostbite, he was expected to recover.

Mrs. Lois May Mong, 29, of nearby Pine Township, disappeared from home Friday night, leaving a note which said "look for me in an old strip mine." She took her sons William, 9, Frank, 7, and Timothy, 3, with her.

State police, local officers, and neighbors organized a search for Mrs. Mong and the boys after her husband, Roy, found the note.

The Rev. Robert Frederick, pastor of the Nazarene Church here came upon the tragic scene at about 9 a.m. after a woman parishioner who heard Mrs. Mong discuss the spot recently directed him to a deserted farmhouse.

The bodies of Mrs. Mong, William and Timothy lay under blankets and quilts on the snow-covered ground behind the automobile. She had piped the car exhaust fumes to the blankets through a hose.

Frederick said the third boy, Frank, 7, apparently survived because he was farthest from the end of the hose and rolled clear.

Negroes' Transfer Advised

CLINTON, Tenn. (UP)—The superintendent of Anderson County schools Saturday sought the transfer of nine Negro students who withdrew from integrated Clinton High School when they became the target of stones and eggs thrown by white youths.

Frank Irwin asked the nearby Knoxville school board to allow the Negroes to attend segregated Austin High School if they should voluntarily drop from the class rolls here.

• • • •

TOM JOHNSTON, chairman of the Knoxville board, said the group would consider Irwin's request Dec. 10. Irwin told the board that none of the students so far had asked to be transferred.

The Negroes were admitted to Clinton High three months ago under a U. S. District Court order. They went home Tuesday and refused to return to classes in protest against stonings and egg-throwing by white students.

Before they were admitted to the formerly all-white school here, the students attended Austin High for Negroes in Knoxville, some 20 miles away.

The Anderson County school board Thursday offered to pay tuition and provide transportation for "one or more" Negroes who would transfer to a segregated school outside the county.

• • • •

NEGRO PARENTS and relatives of the students expressed determination to keep them enrolled at Clinton, but called on the board to guarantee protection for their children.

More than 700 Tennessee National Guardsmen patrolled this town of 4,000 for 11 days last September after local law-enforcement officers were unable to control mob-like crowds protesting school integration.

Principal D. J. Brittain Jr., claimed some white students, encouraged by adults, were waging a campaign of intimidation and harassment against the Negroes in an effort to force them out of school.

Phones to Chiang to Get Answer

NORMAN, Okla. (UP)—Oklahoma University senior Clarence Springstead wanted to know whether a Chinese labor corps was used in France in World War I but he wasn't able to find an answer.

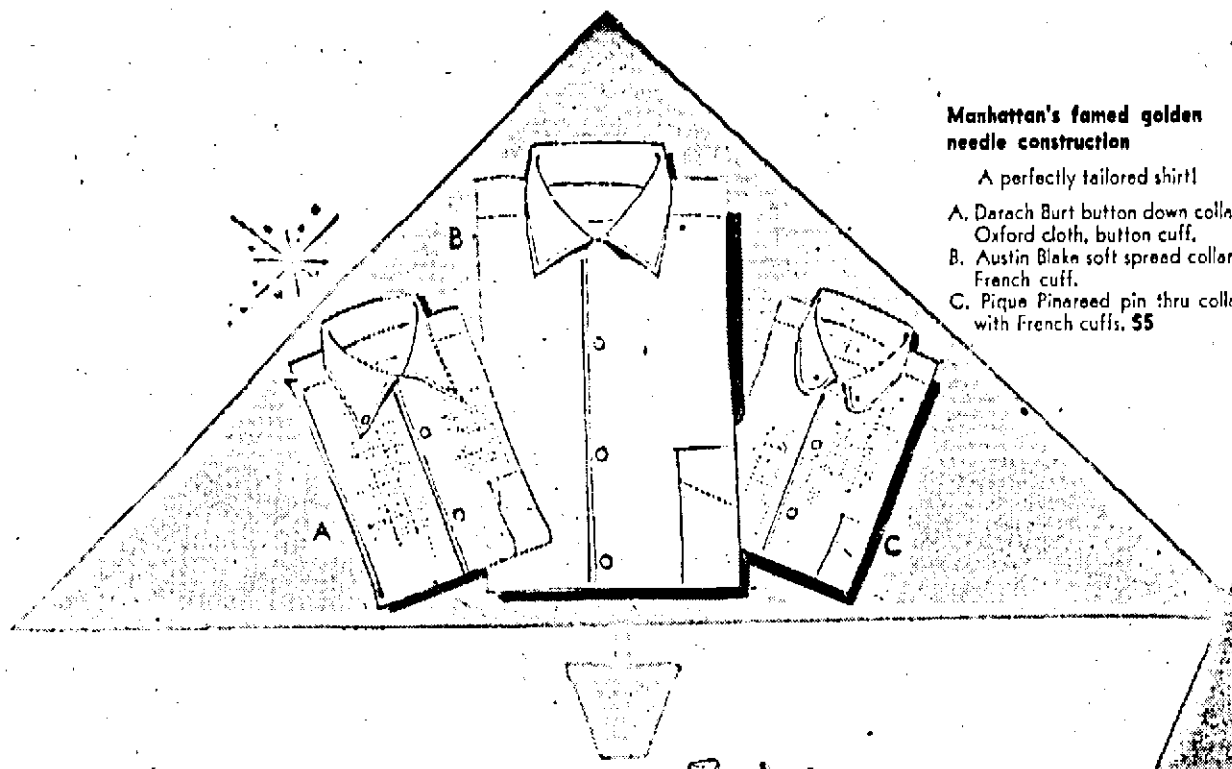

After failing to get the information for a history class, he telephoned the top man available—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek in Formosa.

Through his interpreter, the generalissimo told the student he couldn't answer off-hand but promised to check further and mail an answer.

First Aid Training for Defense Offered

Persons interested in first aid training for civil defense purposes are invited to attend a meeting 7:30 p.m. Thursday in Hamilton Junior High School, 1060 E. 70th St. Dr. A. Weil, in charge of the program, reports it also will include general civil defense information.

Discharge of Negro Explained

WASHINGTON (UP) — Air Secretary Donald A. Quarles said Saturday the Air Force accepted a Mississippi court's drunken-driving conviction of Lt. Titus A. Saunders as "sufficient grounds" for forcing the young Negro officer to resign.

In an exclusive interview with the United Press, Quarles said he did not review the court trial before giving Saunders the choice of resigning or being discharged "under less than honorable conditions." He said it was not the responsibility of the Air Force to determine the adequacy of the evidence.

It was sufficient for the Air Force, he said, that Saunders had been convicted and that the conviction had been upheld upon review by the Mississippi Supreme Court.

• • • •

SAUNDERS' resignation became effective Saturday. The 25-year-old Meigs, Ga., officer weighed two choices and finally decided to quit.

His former chaplain, the Rev. Benjamin H. Adams of Basking Ridge, N. J., asserted the Air Force had used threats against Saunders after pressure was brought by Sen. John Stennis (D-Miss.), a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee. Adams also claimed Saunders was convicted on "trumped up charges" and is "the victim of circumstance and racial prejudice."

The case, which caused days of anxious consideration by top defense and Air Force officials, has now come to the attention of the White House.

Gov. Frank J. Lausche of Ohio earlier this week wrote to President Eisenhower protesting that the situation confronting Saunders was "unjust in view of the circumstances." Lausche had refused to allow extradition of Saunders to Mississippi on grounds "the ends of justice would not be served."

• • • •

QUARLES SAID he decided Saunders would either have to resign or be dropped because it would be "improper" for him to continue in service with a penal sentence hanging over his head.

Saunders, at liberty on bail, was convicted in 1951 and sentenced to a $500 fine and six months in the labor gang.

As long as Saunders was faced with this sentence and possible extradition, Quarles said, it was obvious the young officer's usefulness to the Air Force was limited.

In reaching his decision, Quarles said he had not passed on "the validity of the evidence" on which Saunders was convicted. He did say, however, that the testimony was examined by his legal staff.

• • • •

IN THE accident that led to Saunders' conviction, his car, driven by a woman companion, struck an auto driven by a white woman. Saunders was found guilty on the basis of moving the car out of the line of traffic after the accident.

Bridges' Men Defy Senate Hawaii Quiz

HONOLULU (UP)—Dock and plantation workers resumed "normal Saturday work schedules" Saturday after a one-day, island-wide work stoppage in protest to the Eastland subcommittee hearings into alleged subversion in Hawaii.

Officials of Harry Bridges' International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union were not available to comment on the resumption of work. But industry spokesmen pointed out that Saturday is "normally a light day" with few workers on the job.

The Senate subcommittee, headed by James Eastland (D-Miss), met in a brief session at which former Territorial Gov. Ingram Stainback charged that the HAWU was "Communist controlled" and the union wielded a strong influence on Hawaii.

• • • •

STAINBACK, a Democrat, now a Territorial Supreme Court justice, said he was passed over for reappointment as governor in 1951 and "kicked upstairs" to the Supreme Court due to Communist pressure.

Union officials have maintained a stony silence before the subcommittee, in most instances refusing to give more than their names and addresses in response to questioning.

Sen. Herman Welker (R-Idaho), a subcommittee member, said at the hearing he had gained access to a "mimeographed document" which ordered HAWU witnesses to refuse to answer any questions beyond giving their names and addresses.

Stainback told the subcommittee Communists within the longshore union had been gunning for him since he fostered a movement leading to seizure of Hawaii docks which broke a longshoremen's strike in 1949.

The hearings recessed shortly before noon HST (5 p.m. EST) until Monday.

Teenagers to Get Polio Vaccinations

NEW YORK (AP)—The first mass polio vaccination of teenagers will start Tuesday in Phoenix, Ariz.

Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, said Saturday about 18,000 students in public and parochial high schools and junior colleges in Phoenix and Maricopa county will be inoculated.

O'Connor said the voluntary mass program was initiated by parents and school and health officials who were concerned at statistics showing that more than 40 per cent of this year's polio incidence in Arizona was among teen-agers and young adults.

A survey showed that 75 per cent of the teenagers in the county had not been inoculated.

Vaccine will be provided by the Arizona State Department of Health through a fund set aside by the federal government for the 0-19 age group. The Phoenix Union School District will purchase commercial vaccine for students over 19 and will charge $1 a shot.

GIRL AUCTIONEER SEES DREAM COME TRUE

Regina Okita, 14, who campaigned to have the annual police auction date changed from Monday to Saturday, sells the first of 167 unclaimed bicycles. The Poly High sophomore told City Councilmen the auction day should be Saturday so more school children could attend. Aiding her in Saturday's auction—one attended by many youngsters—were Officer Lloyd E. Keller (left) and Police Lt. Howard Sweet.

Icelanders Urge U.S. to Stay

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP)—Iceland's Social Democratic Party said in a statement Saturday that the international situation has deteriorated to the point that the presence of U. S. armed forces is necessary to bulwark defense installations.

The Social Democrats had pressed earlier in the year for removal of the U. S. forces stationed here, and waged a successful election campaign on that issue. Last March Parliament demanded that the U. S. forces withdraw from the Icelandic air base they have manned at Keflavik since 1951.

Negotiations have been under way for sometime. A Washington dispatch earlier this week said tentative agreement had been reached on operation of the air base.

Wilson Heads for Europe to Save NATO

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson will head for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization conference in Paris a week hence. There he will face again the question whether the United States plans reduction of its forces in western Europe.

The question has new point at this NATO meeting, for several reasons:

1. The continuing reduction in U.S. Army manpower.

2. The suggestions of Russia (undoubtedly for propaganda purposes) that the Soviet Union will withdraw its forces from occupied areas if the United States pulls its troops out of Europe.

3. The apparently still remote possibility that the NATO structure itself might crumble because of tensions among its leading members—the United States on one hand, Britain and France on the other.

• • • •

UP TO NOW, Wilson has insisted that the steadily progressing cut in total Army manpower is not affecting the combat effectiveness of the five Army divisions in Western Germany. Whatever trimming has been done in Army troops in Europe, Wilson has insisted, has been among service-type, support troops, not in fighting elements.

However, Wilson leaves for the Paris session fresh from budget-making meetings. At those meetings, the "force levels" of the military services for the next fiscal year are determined. A decision to accelerate the reduction of total Army manpower could compel some changes in combat strength in the five divisions assigned to the NATO forces.

• • • •

AT THE NATO sessions, which begin formally on Dec. 11, the foreign ministers and defense ministers of the member nations will ratify troop strength plans for the ensuing year.

The Soviet hints about a mutual withdrawal of Russian and U.S. troops to their own territories are viewed coldly here. They are described as another insincere play of Soviet political strategists.

Disbelief tinges any discussion of the possibility that the Western European military alliance might fall to pieces.

• • • •

EVEN IF the existing NATO structure did disintegrate, it is argued, a defense system still could be maintained through bilateral or multi-lateral agreements among the three major powers, Britain, France and the United States.

Those who suggest this, however, concede that should France decline to enter such agreements even a truncated military alliance system would be impossible. France, geographically if for no other reason, is the keystone in any plan to prevent Soviet invasion of the Western European plain.

Should a situation come about wherein the United States withdrew its land and Air Force from Europe, a whole new set of strategic plans would have to be pulled out of the presumably wide assortment of blueprints kept by the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

• • • •

DEFENSE of the United States then would be based upon and actually within the United States or, at the most, North America.

Offensive airpower would rest almost entirely on the long range bombers of the Strategic Air Command. Medium bomber operation would be limited or impossible.

Based back home in the United States would be five more Army divisions, added to the nine now at Army posts here—unless decision was made to reduce divisional strength.

Only naval carrier forces, operating and supplied from American ports, would be able to maintain station near Europe.

Red Prober Nearly Loses Life in Hawaii

HONOLULU (AP)—Benjamin Mandell, 65, of Washington, D. C., research director for the Senate subcommittee investigating communism in the Hawaiian Islands, went for an early morning swim Saturday and nearly drowned.

He was found floating off the Outrigger Canoe Club by another swimmer at 7 a.m. Doctors said he didn't start reviving until 8:30 a.m.

Mandell told William Arens, committee investigator, that he had gone for his usual early morning swim. He said he got in deeper than he thought, started for shore swallowing water and "that's the last I remember."

Arens usually goes swimming with Mandell, but did not do so this morning.

Mentally Ill Ratio Called 1:1

WASHINGTON (AP) — Everybody has a mental health problem at one time or another, a nationally - known psychiatrist said Saturday night.

Dr. William C. Menninger of the Menninger Clinic, Topeka, Kan., said in a speech prepared for the closing session of the sixth annual convention of the National Association for Mental Health:

"The statistics on the incidence of mental ill health have been variously cited as one (person) in 16, one in 12, and one in 10.

"However, even the most startling of these figures do not tell the entire story, because they refer only to the extreme cases of mental disorder.

"We have become so concerned with the severe manifestations — psychosis and acute psychoneurosis — that we have tended to overlook the common, everyday emotional disturbances which can be as upsetting and incapacitating as many of the physical illnesses."

He added:

"When we take these into account, the toll of mental illness must be reckoned as one in one, for there isn't a person who does not experience frequently a mental or emotional disturbance severe enough to disrupt his functioning as a well-adjusted, happy, and efficiently-performing individual."

• • • •

THE PSYCHIATRIST said that mental ill health does not always show up in an obvious clinical pattern, but that it may take the form of such things as:

Vague, gnawing anxiety or depression; ill-concealed feelings of suspicion, fear, resentment and hate; a variety of physical complaints which have no organic basis; aggressive acts directed against specific individuals or against society in general; and marital difficulties, occupational troubles, and school problems.

He said the nation's four million cases of "problem drinkers" constitute one evidence of the widespread effects of mental ill health. Also, such things as the 1,750,000 cases of serious crime each year, the half-million cases in juvenile courts annually, and the ratio of one divorce for every four marriages.

Widow Turns 200-Year Tradition Off

NEW YORK (UP) — History was made on Wall Street Saturday. For the first time in 200 years of financial activity on the street, a woman became head of a firm belonging to the New York Stock Exchange.

Mrs. Charles Ulrich Bay, widow of the former U. S. ambassador to Norway, took over as board chairman and president of the the 92-year-old firm of A. M. Kidder & Co. Her husband headed the firm at the time of his death last year.

Mrs. Bay, mother of three Norwegian-born adopted children, long had shared her husband's business activities and took over many of his duties when he became ill in 1954.

"It was inevitable that just such a thing as this would happen," she said. "We have women judges, engineers, department store presidents. All this seems perfectly natural to me."

Twin Studied for Transfer of His Kidney

BOSTON (AP)—Doctors at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital said Saturday no decision will be made immediately whether to transplant a kidney from 13-year-old Jerry Foster of Mink Creek, Idaho, to his identical twin Jimmy.

A hospital statement said Jimmy "will be under study for some time" before the decision is made. "Jimmy's condition is not critical at present," the statement said, "and his ailment is of an entirely different nature than that of three other twins upon whom transplants have been performed."

"Jimmy's illness," the statement said, "is due to abnormal development of the kidney rather than glomeronephritis. He has complicating infection of the ureteral tubes. However, his critical condition was relieved temporarily by surgery performed by Dr. Corwin Groom of Pocatello, Ida., improving the drainage from the kidneys."

The twins flew here Nov. 20, accompanied by their mother, Juanita.

Big Storm Brews in Canada

By Associated Press

Fair weather dominated most of the nation Saturday but more wet snow plastered the eastern Great Lakes area.

The nation's basic weather pattern continued mostly unchanged, but the weatherman said a rather intense storm was bearing down on the west coast of Canada that could send sub-zero cold churning into the northern states.

Heavy snow squalls continued throughout the day along the eastern shore of Lake Ontario. Watertown, N. Y., had a four-inch fall during the forenoon. Light snow or flurries spread across the New England states.

Relatively hot weather returned to Texas, with the mercury pushing to near 80 degrees. It was warm, too, in Southern California.

It was mild in the Great Plains with 60 degree temperatures as far north as Nebraska.

A slightly warmer trend was forecast for the east on Sunday, but an overnight frost was expected to dip as far south as Florida.

Two Girls, Youth Found Asphyxiated

HANSON, Mass. (AP)—Two teen-aged sisters and a 22-year-old youth were found dead Saturday in a parked panel truck. A second youth was unconscious but alive.

Police identified the dead as: Georgianna Moore, 16, her sister, Judith, 14, and Wallace Goldman, 22, all of Brockton.

Taken to Brockton hospital in critical condition was Herbert MacFaun, 22, of Easton.

• • • •

THE PANEL truck was found about 11:30 a.m. in a wooded lane off Route 27 near the East Bridgewater line by a man and his son who went to the woods to go target shooting. Its engine was running.

Police said they believed the deaths were caused by exhaust fumes.

The truck is owned by David Breen, a Brockton caterer by whom MacFaun was employed.

Breen earlier had reported he loaned the truck to MacFaun overnight, but that he failed to return it Saturday morning.

The girls' mother had reported them missing since 8:30 last night.

Brownell's Daughter Joan Weds

WASHINGTON (UP) — Joan Brownell, 21-year-old daughter of Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr., was married Saturday to Thomas Behan Jr., of Springfield, Pa.

Many Washington officials, headed by Vice President and Mrs. Richard M. Nixon, were on hand for the ceremony.

Brownell gave the bride away.

Undersecretary of State Herbert Hoover Jr., Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams, Disarmament Adviser Harold E. Stassen and almost all of Washington officialdom not at the Army-Navy football game crowded into the small church.

Ivy Baker Priest, treasurer of the United States, and Deputy Atty. Gen. Warren Rogers were among those ushered into the balcony.

Hoover switched plans and attended the wedding instead of the Army-Navy game as he had planned to do. The Nixons were late arriving because they had been watching the game on television.

1st Auto Death for Hobart, Okla.

HOBART, Okla. (AP) — This southwest Oklahoma city of about 19,000 persons recorded its first chargeable auto traffic fatality in history Saturday, the Highway Patrol reported.

A 16-year-old boy, Chester Beatty Jr., of Hobart, was killed when an auto in which he was a passenger collided with a Rock Island freight train within the city. Two other boys in the car were injured, one critically.

1,041-Pound Man Shipped by Air Freight

CHICAGO (UP) — A 1,041-pound man, who must be seen to be believed, slumped across a cast-iron reinforced bed aboard a cargo plane Saturday and said "a lot of others are worse off than me."

Robert Earl Hughes, 30, who claims to be the world's fattest man and has to fly on cargo ships because passenger aircraft are too small for him, paused here enroute to New York, where he and a publicity man hope to cash in on television appearances.

"But I don't want the money that much," Hughes said. "I'd gladly give it all up for a chance to be normal."

Hughes, dressed in blue work pants, gym shoes, and a short sleeved cotton shirt that required seven and one-half yards of 36-inch wide material, doesn't look the six feet, one inch tall he is. A beard of skin surrounds the lower part of his chin. His body is a glob of fat. But his smile is warm and sincere.

"What can I do?" he asked. "I've just got to make the best of what the Lord gave me."

• • • •

HUGHES, who can't walk more than 20 steps at a time, had to be put on the plane with an hydraulic fork lift. The little land travelling he does is done on a semi-trailer truck.

"I look at it this way," he said. "I can read, write, have a warm and comfortable home and a fine group of relatives. A lot of other people aren't as fortunate."

Hughes, who was born normal but began gaining abnormally at the age of six months, said doctors told him a ruptured thyroid gland, caused during a spell of whooping cough, is responsible for his weight.

"There is nothing I can do about this, I know that," he said "so I decided there was no use feeling sorry for myself. I was a little lonely when my mother died nine years ago, but now I live with my brother and his family and I have gotten sort of used to life."

• • • •

HUGHES, whose heart equals that of a 1,000-pound steer, quit school after the eighth grade when he weighed 595 pounds. Two years ago he and his sister-in-law's father hired a truck and began hitting the carnival circuit.

"We split everything right down the midle, 50-50," Wesley Dennis, 45, whose daughter married Hughes' brother said. Hughes lives with the couple and their two young children in a Hannibal, Mo., duplex. The Denises live next door.

"We're a happy family," Dennis said. "We have what we want to eat and we have two nice cars. Robert and I and all of us have created a little world all our own—away from the staring and the curious and the vultures."

Dennis said Hughes reads a lot, mostly detective and true story magazines, and watches television.

"He plays with his little nephews, too," Dennis said. "He's just part of the family. We don't let him get lonesome."

Mexico Turns to Rainmaker for Relief

MEXICO CITY (UP)—A rainmaker who claims remarkable results for his "ionic machine" will leave soon for northern Mexico to try to ease the prolonged drought in the parched Texas border area, it was reported Friday.

Sources close to Prof. Jose Ugalde said the government's Department of Hydraulic Resources will equip a mobile laboratory ofr him and send two engineers north to assist in his experiments.

Ugalde claimed recently that his "ionic ray" — whose exact nature is a closely-guarded secret — caused a heavy rainfall here. Weather experts scoffed at his claim, buf the hydraulic department said it would try anything that might end the long drought.

Russ Say 6,000 Top 100 Years

LONDON (UP) — Moscow radio reported that V. Shapiro recently interviewed more than 6,000 persons in the Soviet Union who are more than 100 years old. The broadcast quoted Shapiro as saying all of them "worked hard and, even at their present age, still enjoy working."

'GOOD MORNING!'

Filipino Discovers Long Beach Friendly

By LEE CRAIG
Harbor Reporter

A cheerful street sweeper gave the first impression of Long Beach life to Feliciano V. Koh, 33-year-old Filipino civil engineer here to study operations at the local port.

"I leave my hotel to find a bus to go to the harbor," Koh says, "I meet this man running the sweeping machine. I gape at it and he says to me:

FELICIANO KOH
Natives Are Friendly

"'Good morning, fine day'"—and he gives me big smile.

"I think, 'My, how friendly these people are.'"

Koh's official position at home in Manila is designing engineer of the Division of Ports and Harbors, Bureau of Public Works, Philippines.

HIS VISIT here is sponsored by the International Cooperation Administration, which, through the Maritime Administration, has arranged with local port authorities for him to study operations in this area for three of his six months in America.

In the six weeks he has been here Koh has not learned too much so far that will help him at home.

"At home, we do almost everything by manual labor," he says, "I see many techniques of construction here that I could use if only we had heavy machinery."

ONE THING, however, has particularly impressed him.

"Everyone works in harmony. Here, employes are told in staff meetings how their work fits into big picture. Morale is good. Everyone proud of their work.

"This, we should copy."

Koh was amazed at American workers' standard of living.

"I met a draftsman who rides to work in a Cadillac," he said.

Koh's biggest problem is that he misses his wife and three children back in Manila. He would like to meet fellow Filipinos here but is chary of making overtures to those he sees.

"I try it once," he says, "I get a dirty look. He was a Cambodian."

See Record in Wyo. Gasser

KEMMERER, Wyo. (AP) — A well which blew in with a terrific blast last week may develop into southwestern Wyoming's largest gas producer.

It is the Vaughan B. Connelly well in the LaBarge Field. The new gasser will have to be brought under control before an estimate of production can be made, but oil men say it will flow several million cubic feet of gas a day.

The gas, with high distillate content, blew out all the mud in the well, wrecked part of the rig and blew the roof of an adjoining shanty when it came in.

Connelly, an independent operator, is drilling another well in the field west of Calpet and is making locations for other wells in Sublette and Lincoln Counties.

LONG BEACH 12, CALIF., SUNDAY, DECEMBER 2, 1956

MALCOLM EPLEY, Beachcombing columnist who has been on vacation, will present his daily column to Press-Telegram readers starting Monday.

Record Mail Forecast by Postmaster

Postmaster George J. McMillin said Saturday he anticipates the largest volume of Christmas mail in the history of the Long Beach office, 5 to 10 per cent more than last year.

This is the way McMillin figures the Christmas mail: Outgoing Christmas cards and letters, 18,123,000; incoming Christmas cards and letters, 22,000,000; outgoing Christmas parcels, 1,100,000; incoming Christmas parcels, 1,400,000.

POSTMASTER McMILLIN suggests deadline dates for mailing gifts and greetings as follows:

Greeting cards and gifts for all out-of-town destinations in the mail by Dec. 10.

Cards and packages for local delivery posted Dec. 15.

Greetings and parcels for air mail not later than Dec. 20.

The postmaster asks all patrons to observe five basic rules for assuring prompt safe delivery of mail.

1. Address mail fully, using zone numbers if possible in both address and return address.

2. Sort quantities of local and out-of-town mail in separate bundles, label the bundles "local" or "out-of-town."

3. Be sure to put a return address on all cards and parcels.

4. Insure ample cushioning material when wrapping gifts and tie with strong cord. Gifts of delicate nature should be marked "fragile."

5. Insure packages and register items of monetry value.

CALL FOR VOLUNTEERS

'MD' March Set Tuesday

Many more volunteers are needed here for the Tuesday night "March for Dystrophy," J. Richard Shelley, local area campaign chairman, reported Saturday.

Shelley asked prospective volunteers—men or women—to contact Robert Mulvey, 4555 E. 10th St., march chairman, today. He may be reached Monday at the Ace Blueprint Co., 1711 E. 4th St.

"The march is our chief means of raising funds to aid the more than 200,000 victims of muscular dystrophy in America today," Shelley said.

"When you realize that 135,000 of this number are children in whom the disease progresses rapidly, then you know a cure must be found."

FUNDS COLLECTED will be used for county research projects at USC and UCLA, for wheel chairs and other orthopedic equipment, for physical therapy to prolong the lives of the victims of the incurable ailment and for diagnosis.

Muscular dystrophy patients in the Long Beach-Lakewood area are treated at the Tichenor Orthopedic Clinic, 1660 Termino Ave.

Shelley urged householders desiring to contribute to the march to light porchlights Tuesday night. The Long Beach-Lakewood goal for the fun campaign is $10,000.

GAIT TRAINING with parallel bars is received by Dennis Clifton, 7½, of 635 W. 19th St. Mrs. Nancy Mahan, physical therapist, aids the young muscular dystrophy patient. Fund march is set Tuesday night.

Hospital Aid Captained by Bud Ridings

Harry E. (Bud) Ridings Jr., Long Beach auto dealer and civic leader, Saturday was named general chairman of the multi-million-dollar United Hospital Fund campaign.

The appointment was announced by George A. Richards and Harry Buffum, chairman and associate chairman of the fund's leadership committee.

The campaign, which will get under way next month, will raise money to furnish and equip new hospital buildings approved by city voters in a special election Feb. 9.

• • • •

THE CAMPAIGN GOAL, which has not yet been announced, will be "the largest financial objective in the history of Long Beach philanthropy," according to E. B. Miller, fund president.

Ridings, now a member of the Board of Harbor Commissioners and who was named Long Beach's "outstanding young man of the year" by the Junior Chamber of Commerce in 1933, immediately made an appeal for public support of the forthcoming drive.

• • • •

HE POINTED OUT that the $10,500,000 bond issue approved last February was only for construction of hospital buildings. Equipping the hospitals depends on voluntary contributions of the people of the greater Long Beach area.

This will be the first general public campaign for hospitals in the history of Long Beach, Ridings said.

The drive already has the approval of 258 organizations — groups representing labor, parents, churches, businessmen, veterans and civic and service activities.

Participation of doctors will get under way in January, with major gifts scheduled for March and the public campaign slated for mid-April. The drive is expected to be completed by July 1.

Committees already are being formed for these and other phases of the drive—such as special gifts, men's and women's divisions, hospital employes, church relations and speakers' bureau.

Boat Harbor Buildings Nearly Ready for Use

Plans OKd for Other Bay Units

By GEORGE WEEKS
City Hall Reporter

The first three buildings at Alamitos Bay Marina will be ready for use about Dec. 15—well in advance of the opening of Basin 1—and preliminary plans have been completed for seven more structures to be built early next year.

Painting and other finishing work is under way on the utility and concession group.

The three buildings, constructed of masonry blocks and redwood siding, are connected by a roofed-over passage and service yard. They encompass 6,234 square feet of floor area.

• • • •

THE CENTRAL unit consists of a restaurant and kitchen, with a small clubroom on the second floor.

In the second unit will be a business office with space for a boat broker and a marine hardware store. The third unit consists of comfort stations.

The recently-established Marine Dept. will have its offices in the concession group pending construction of the second series of buildings. Quarters will be provided for Lawrence McDowell, department director, and Thomas McInturff, harbor master.

• • • •

PRELIMINARY PLANS for the second series of structures were approved last week by the Planning Commission. The architects, Montierth & Strickland, have 60 days in which to prepare final plans. Construction is expected to start early in March, City Engineer Jess. D. Gilkerson said.

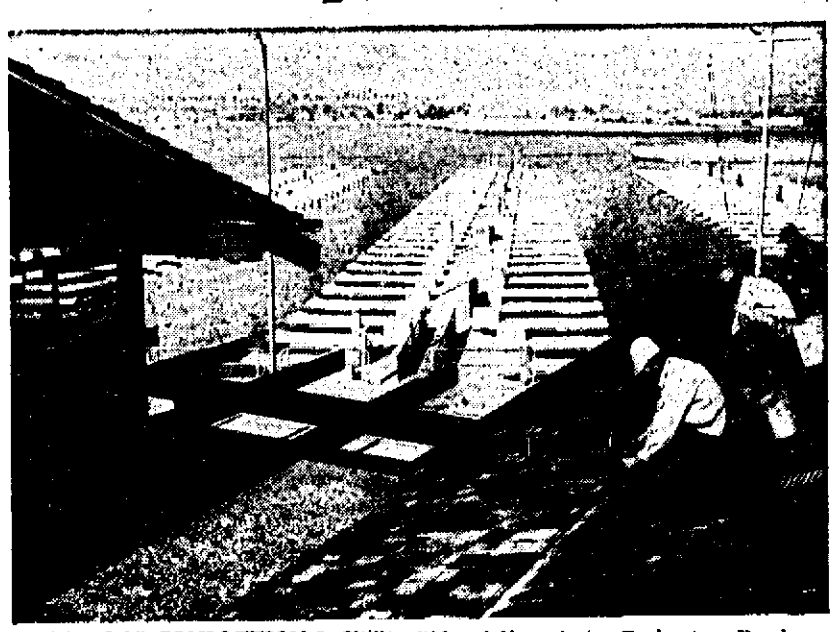

The seven buildings are estimated to cost $158,000. Like other marina units, they are being financed from the Tideland Oil Fund.

Principal unit in the second group is a headquarters building to be located at the southeasterly top of the marina area. Eventually it will house the marine director and harbor master.

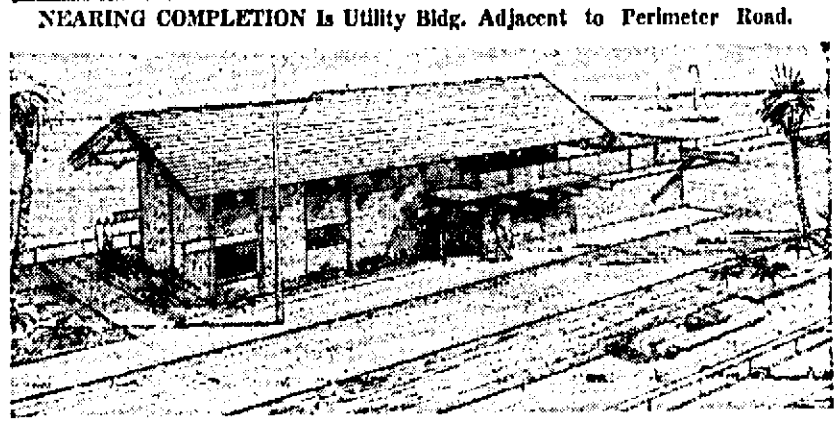

The main building will measure some 60 by 68 feet. Although most of it will be only one story high, it will be surmounted by an observation tower. Construction will be of masonry and redwood siding.

Adjacent to it will be a storage building for use of the city departments, Coast Guard and State Fish and Game Service.

A third unit will be a two-story fire station with all the usual facilities except that space will be provided for only one small land rig. A fire boat will be moored within easy reach of the fire company stationed there. The location is north of the headquarters building.

NEARING COMPLETION Is Utility Bldg. Adjacent to Perimeter Road.

FIREBOAT WILL Be Moored at Two-Story Station Near Headquarters.

Orange County Demos Air Dirty Linen at Conference

It was the same dirty laundry but a different washing machine Saturday for Orange County Democrats.

Members of two factions—feuding since October—gathered at the courthouse in Santa Ana to tell their side of the fight to a special hearing officer summoned by the California and Southern California party heirarchy.

He is Macklin Fleming of Los Angeles, an attorney, sent by William Rosenthal, Southern California party chairman, to listen to each side's version of the Oct. 8 meeting.

It was that session that split the county organization down the middle and left each faction claiming control of the county Demos.

• • • •

AT THAT MEETING, one group of committee members attempted to oust Chairman William McNulty of Yorba Linda.

Their action backfired and acting Chairman Fred Wilson of Costa Mesa charged all with conspiracy to overthrow the elected officers and suspended them.

Despite the opposing faction's objections, Wilson—acting on a tie vote—ruled he could adjourn the meeting. He did.

• • • •

BUT MEMBERS of the opposing faction held the meeting was not adjourned, continued with business at hand and proceeded to elect a new slate of officers. Part of their session was in the dark when pro-Wilson members shut off the lights.

Named to "replace" McNulty was Herbert Licker, Garden Grove attorney.

Since then, both the McNulty force and the Licker group have claimed command.

Licker was one of six persons suspended by Wilson at the stormy session.

• • • •

OTHERS WERE Eugene Greenwood, Buena Park; Lester Van Tatenhove, Santa Ana; Hazel Lewis, Stanton; William Lee, Costa Mesa, and Henry Gilmore, Santa Ana.

All this was aired again Saturday before Fleming but in quieter tones.

Wilson, huddling often with McNulty, did most of the talking in defense of his actions and in questioning the integrity of his opponent's actions.

• • • •

LICKER LED the rebuttal from his side.

Repeatedly, Wilson attempted to provide or obtain information of the Licker faction's actions prior to the Oct. 8 meeting in an effort to show conspiracy on the part of the pro-Licker members.

Fleming ruled only testimony concerning the meeting events could go into the record.

The hearing officer indicated it will be several days before a decision on the hearing is announced.

Magician to Appear Before Masonic Club

Royal Arch Masons, Royal Select Masons and Knights Templar will be guests of Long Beach Masonic Club Thursday noon in the Wilton Hotel. Henry Mendoza, magician, will entertain. The Rev. Dr. Russell M. Brougher will preside.

West Siders Will Carol for Yuletide

Three concerts and three nights of Christmas caroling have been scheduled by the West Side Boys' Club choir, reports G. A. Hopkins, director.

On Dec. 10 the boys will entertain the Naples Improvement Assn. at a 7 p.m. meeting in the Naples Elementary School.

Three days later the choir will be featured at the annual ham dinner of the central branch of the Boys Club, 1585 Chestnut Ave.

On the evenings of Dec. 18, 19 and 20, the 35-voice group will sing carols on Westside streets.

On Dec. 21, it will present a concert at its own Christmas party in their clubhouse at 1835 Willard St.

Hopkins, who is also director of the club, said the boys got together about five months ago just to sing popular songs. They were so pleased with the results, they decided to try more serious music.

Ages of the boys range from 9 to 13 years. Hopkins' wife, Elsa, is accompanist for the group.

Freeway Sign Curbs Up to City Council

Pro and con arguments on city legislation sharply restricting advertising signs in locations within 500 feet of a freeway are scheduled for airing at 9:30 a. m. Monday before the City Council's ordinance committee.

Chairman Virgil H. Spongberg has invited supporters and opponents to renew the controversy touched off last May when a more comprehensive series of amendments was first considered by the Planning Commission.

The revised version is less restrictive and makes exceptions for certain types of signs, such as those identifying the building on which they are located and the firm occupying the premises.

But the Chamber of Commerce, through a special committee headed by James Gordon, has reiterated its opposition to some of the provisions. Principal support is expected to come from spokesmen for the Planning Commission and for various civic groups already on record as favoring the measure.

According to the planning staff, the restrictions are necessary both for traffic safety and to facilitate freeway landscaping.

6 Choirs to Sing in Lakewood Center Tuesday

Six choirs from Lakewood-Los Altos churches will sing Christmas hymns and carols in Lakewood Center Tuesday from 7 to 7:30 p.m.

M. M. Taylor, project chairman for the sponsoring Lakewood Center Businessmen's Assn., said the choirs will appear in various locations along the mall.

The choirs will be from the Palo Verde Ave. Christian, Los Altos Methodist, Bethany Lutheran, St. Cyprian's Catholic, St. Thomas Episcopal and Lakewood Presbyterian Churches.

Choirs from six other churches in the area will sing on Dec. 11 in the Center.

New City Champion Hits 'Checker Bums'

Rudolph Krause, 53, of 230 Temple Ave., the city's new checker champion, says a good many nationally known masters of the game are little better than "bums."

Some champions do nothing but play checkers," explained Krause, who doesn't fit in such a category since he works every day at his job as presser for a local cleaners shop.

Krause's view on checkers might surprise those less proficient at the game:

"There is no real necessity to ponder a long time over your moves. Some players do it just to unnerve their opponents."

"One mistake against a good player and you lose the game. That's where checkers differs from chess—you can't make up for a mistake."

Kraus doesn't fit the picture of the typical checkers player in that he started playing the game only 10 years ago.

• • • •

KRAUSE IS a member of the Chess and Checkers Club at Lincoln Park where the city has provided a playing room. It's the only club of its kind in the city.

The tournament was held over the past month to name the champion. Fifteen of the best club players entered and, according to Vice President A. F. Whitehurst, the competition was hot all the way.

Each played a four game series with the other entrants.

M. H. Bapp was runnerup.

CHRISTMAS SHOPPERS AIDED

Stores to Stay Open Evenings

Starting Monday, Downtown stores will be open until 9 p. m. every day excepting Sundays.

The only exception to the Yule season night openings will be Dec. 24 when the stores will close at 5:30 p. m.

Vito Romans, manager of Long Beach Retailers Associated announced the evening schedules.

He added that all the Downtown stores would open at 9:30 a. m. daily through the Christmas shopping season.

DON SPRING, president of the retailers' group, cited Downtown as a "one-stop" shopping area.

He said the location of parking lots was such that no customer had to walk more than a block from one to get to his favorite store.

Brochures containing aerial maps of the Downtown area will be distributed at stores next week. The maps show specific location of the parking lots.

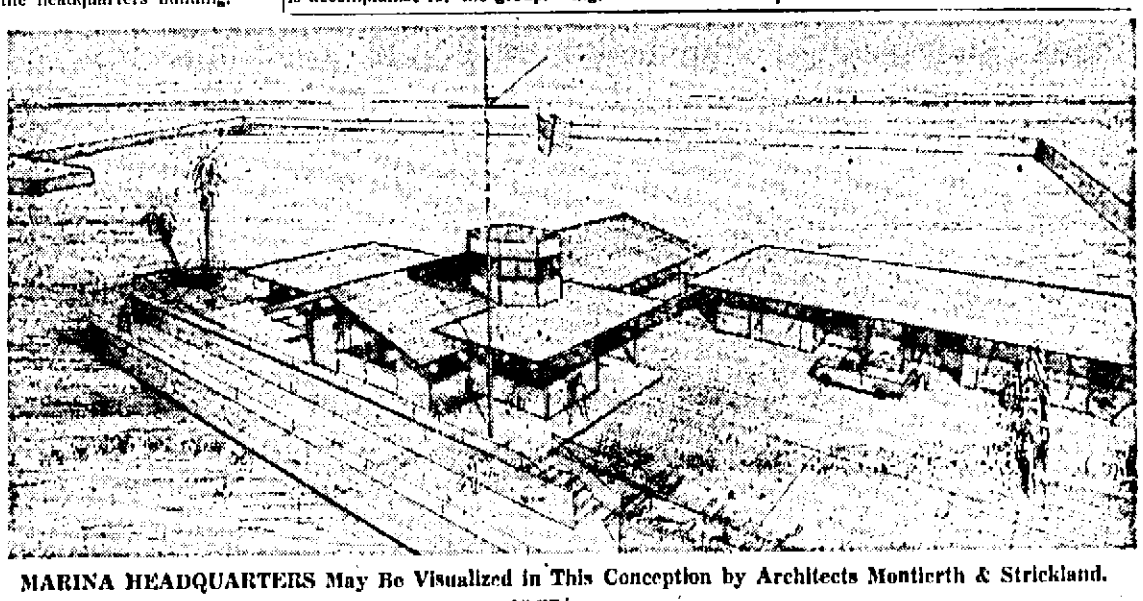

Since October 1955, there has been an increase from 45 to 60 in the number of Park and Shop lots Downtown, Spring said.

THERE ARE 843 stores Downtown, including 53 different types.

Spring also noted that the retailers this year have added to the area where Christmas street decorations have been hung.

The new locales include 3rd St. from Locust to American Aves. and another block on Pine Ave to 8th St. Decorations also are planned by the retailers for Broadway from Pine to American Aves.

MARINA HEADQUARTERS May Be Visualized in This Conception by Architects Montierth & Strickland.

There's Lots of Space for Your Boat in Basin

Practically everybody who has applied for slip space in Basin 1 of Alamitos Bay Marina will get it if boats meet requirements specified in the ordinance.

Lawrence McDowell, director of the city Marine Department, announced Saturday there is a waiting list in only one category, the 30-foot class of slip. In all others the available space exceeds applications.

Only a few slips remain in the large 50 to 80-foot class. The greatest number of vacancies is in the smallest group, the 20-foot berth.

Total applications approximate 75 per cent of the 342 mooring spaces in the basin, McDowell said.

The department is continuing to accept applications at 5373 E. 2nd St. Owners must apply in person and a deposit of two months slip rental is required.

McDowell pointed out that the ordinance bans "decrepit" boats, even if space is tentatively assigned in advance of inspection.

He predicted a rush of applications when owners of smaller craft take their boats out of winter storage.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

FHA Home Loan Rate Increased

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government Saturday boosted the interest rate on FHA home loans from 4½ to 5 per cent in a move designed to prime the dwindling flow of mortgage funds available to prospective home buyers.

The increased interest rate on loans insured by the Federal Housing Administration becomes effective Tuesday on future FHA commitments. It was described as "a decisive step to help home buyers to obtain mortgage financing."

The practical effect of Saturday's action should make it easier to get a home loan because of the more attractive return to lenders, but at the same time means an increase of millions of dollars in financing costs to future home owners.

City Aids Embezzler

ELLENVILLE, N. Y. (AP)—A bank president was arrested for a half-million-dollar manipulation Saturday, and townspeople rushed to the bank—not to withdraw but to deposit.

And while bank president William R. Rose was being arraigned on federal charges, held in $25,000 bail and questioned by the U. S. attorney's office in New York City, Ellenvillians were reported organizing a testimonial dinner to him. Rose, the leading citizen in practically every phase of Ellenville life, denied that he got any of the juggled bank funds.

Ike OKs Refugees

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — President Eisenhower shredded red tape Saturday and ordered 21,500 Hungarian refugees from Soviet terror admitted to the United States. The original plan offered asylum to only 5,000.

In announcing the big increase at the President's vacation headquarters, the White House said the greater number "will be brought here with the utmost practicable speed" under an emergency program. Eisenhower will ask Congress in January to take longer range action.

O'Shea Faces Charge

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actor Michael O'Shea has been ordered to appear in court next Wednesday to answer charges that he fired a rifle at a neighbor's tractor during a neighborhood feud.

The charges were filed by Harold Morrison, O'Shea's neighbor in Van Nuys. They have been feuding for months over the noise made by Morrison's son, Richard, 13. The boy said O'Shea, husband of actress Virginia Mayo, fired a .22-caliber rifle at a tractor which he and a friend were riding near the actor's home.

4 in Family Perish

MT. KISCO, N. Y. (AP)—The wife and three children of a United Nations interpreter died early Saturday in a fire that broke out when he fell asleep while waiting for a pot of cooking grease to get hot enough to make fish and chips.

Dead from smoke poisoning were Mrs. Frances Hall, 35; John, 5; Spence, 4, and Patricia, 2. Ronald Hall, 40, suffered burns when he tried frantically to save his family from the flames that engulfed his ranch-type home.

Williams in Brazil

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP)—Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan and his wife arrived Saturday for a nine-day vacation visit to Brazil. Later, they plan to go to Uruguay, Argentina, Chile, Peru and Mexico.

Insured at 101

PUEBLO, Colo. (AP)—A Chicago firm is willing to insure the health of Mrs. Pauline Sandoval, who's 101 years old.

The sprightly Pueblo woman said the firm (Continental Insurance Co.) has accepted her application for hospitalization insurance.

Mules to B-r-a-a-a-y Their Last as Army Prepares to Disband Flop-Eared Battalion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army is abolishing its last mule-powered combat unit—the 4th Field Artillery Battalion—and assigning its honored colors to something called an "airphibious firing unit."

About 125 old Army mules and a few horses will be put out to pasture when the battalion folds up at Ft. Carson, Colo., this winter.

The new unit takes to the air at Ft. Sill, Okla., in 38 helicopters to learn new ways to move howitzers, rockets and other weapons for the ground forces.

The Army's lowly pack mules nonetheless have outlasted the fancier cavalry horses by 12 years.

The last cavalry unit turned over its mounts and took to motor trucks and tanks in December, 1944, and the cavalry was abolished as a combat branch the following year. Only the name remains, in the designation of an infantry outfit as the 1st Cavalry Division.

The Army now has 116 horses and 314 mules, all of the latter in the United States. Except for an elite ceremonial unit of seven perfectly matched greys, used in military funerals at Arlington National Cemetery, horses and mules perform only odd jobs.

With the decision made to disband the last pack animal combat unit this year, the Army is now looking to the future of its feathered friends, the homing pigeons. Although they have served with honor in every Army campaign since 1878, the pigeons are also on the way out.

This will leave the Army with only its dogs. The Army now has 1,350 sentry dogs, and is training more of them to serve for Air Force guard duty.

Although the mule is passing from the Army scene, its name is being preserved in a way in the form of a type of jeep identified as a "mechanical mule."

But to the Army's dying breed of muleskinners, the clatter of a gas engine will never be a substitute for the braying of an ornery Army mule.

Virgin Islands Park Dedicated

CRUZ BAY, Virgin Islands (AP)—A tropical beauty spot in the Caribbean Sea became the 29th American national park Saturday.

In dedication ceremonies, U.S. Secretary of the Interior Fred A. Seaton accepted title to more than 5,000 acres of palm-studded land on St. John Island and formally established "the Virgin Islands National Park" 991 miles southeast of the tip of Florida.

The property was donated by Laurance A. Rockefeller, New York businessman.

500 Expected at Weed Parley

SACRAMENTO (AP) — More than 500 persons are expected at the annual California weed conference at Fresno Jan. 22-24, the State Agriculture Department said Saturday.

Farmers, county, state and federal workers, representatives of companies making weed control materials and farm equipment distributors have been invited.

Auto Plunge Off Ferry Kills Woman

RAVENSWOOD, W. Va. (AP)—Mrs. Marion Archer of Racine, Ohio, en route home after a day of Christmas shopping, drove her car off an Ohio river ferry Saturday and was drowned.

Two men smashed a rear window and saved her 7-year-old ward, Lillian Mae Weekly.

Ferry attendants said Mrs. Archer, 70, made a perfect approach to the empty boat. Suddenly the car speeded up, crashed through a chain at the end of the ferry and plunged into the river.

The car windows were shut and the auto sank slowly. Fred Jones of Cleveland and Dave Young of Mount Vernon, Ohio, who were in a cars behind, dashed aboard, smashed the window and rescued the little girl.

BED WETTING OR GETTING UP NIGHTS

Are you worried and embarrassed by "Bladder Weakness" (Getting Up Nights or Bed Wetting, too frequent, burning and itching urination) or Strong, Cloudy Urine, due to common Kidney and Bladder Irritations, which at times result in Backache and Nervousness? Such irritations may also cause tension or loss of sleep so that you feel old, tired and depressed. In such cases, CYSTEX usually gives quick, wonderful, soothing relief by combating germs in acid urine, and by analgesic pain relief. Over a million CYSTEX tablets used prove safety for young and old. Get CYSTEX from druggist today. Money-back guarantee.

VFW Chief Urges Curbs on Neutrals

DENVER (AP) — National Cmdr. Cooper T. Holt of the Veterans of Foreign Wars proposes a get-tough policy toward neutral nations.

Holt, from Chattanooga, Tenn., told newsmen here that American military and economic aid should be withheld from countries refusing to take a stand against Russia.

"We're against any military or economic aid to Tito or Nehru — or any of them who want to remain neutral in these days when the only choice is between democracy and communism," Holt said. He added that the VFW has no objection to aiding foreign peoples in need.

Holt said the United Nations should maintain a military force "ready to enter any freedom-loving country which Russia enters."

If the U. N. passes a resolution "condemning Russia and telling it to get out of Hungary —they should have some means of getting them out," he declared.

Almost Painless Drill Introduced for Dentists

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A high-speed dental drill which results in "almost painless" cavity preparation was demonstrated here Saturday.

Drs. Arthur Dugoni, San Francisco dentist, and Dr. John Rhoads, prosthetic dental professor at the college of physicians and surgeons here, showed the new drill over a closed television circuit to some 600 alumni from California, Oregon, Nevada and Arizona in their 58th annual meeting.

• • • •

THE NEW MACHINE develops speeds of more than 100,000 revolutoins per minute instead of the present 6,000 to 15,000 range.

A rubber bushing on the burr or drillhead, and a cushion of air developed when the drill is operating, reduces the vibration which Dr. Rhoads said is responsible for most of the discomfort during dental drilling.

The drill cuts cavity preparation to one-fourth of the present time, Rhoads said, and vibration becomes almost imperceptible when speeds exceed 60,000 revolutions per minute.

FRICTIONAL HEAT is disposed of by jets of water and air from the handle, he said.

No claim is made for completely painless drilling, he said, but the increased ease and speed in its operation results in "much less tension and fatigue among patients, as well as much less complaint of discomfort and bone-conducted noise." He said "many patients who formerly asked for local anaesthesia find they do not need it now."

Labor Merger a Year Old; Crises Ahead

WASHINGTON (UP) — The AFL-CIO celebrates its first anniversary this week, with some crises behind it but more ahead.

The first year since the Dec. 5, 1955, merger that produced the 15-million member AFL-CIO has been spent mainly in consolidating the strength of its national leadership and policies, under various stresses and strains.

Starts were made toward the goals of organizing the millions of unorganized workers, eliminating jurisdictional conflicts among the AFL-CIO's 138 member unions, strengthening labor's political influence, cleaning corruption out of the labor movement, ending racial discrimination in union membership, and completing the merger of state and city AFL-CIO groups. But progress has been at a plodding pace, at best. There also have been no significant mergers of rival AFL-CIO unions.

• • • •

IN AN ANNIVERSARY statement, AFL-CIO President George Meany said "we have made considerable progress so far in establishing unity as a living fact and an effective working force. As a result, we will be able to forge ahead more rapidly in the year to come."

In its second year, he said, the AFL-CIO will pour "our full energies" into organizing new union members, and will "lead a nationwide drive" for "progressive" legislation, including federal aid to education, better housing, broader application of a higher minimum wage and "thorough-going changes" in the Taft-Hartley Labor Act.

The AFL-CIO's first major organizing target—700,000 non-union textile workers, mostly in the south—was set last June. The executive council decided to give all its aid to the textile union from the CIO, following months of fruitless negotiations for merger or at last a joint organizing agreement between the old CIO union and its rival from the old AFL.

Since then, the AFL-CIO also has assigned organizers to help unions in the chemical and tobacco industries.

• • • •

BUT IN late August, the executive council concluded that even with cooperation in these fields, something more was needed before any big organizing could be accomplished in the South. A staff committee is studying the possibility of a big "educational" campaign to break down southern hostility to organized labor.

In the field of legislative activity, the AFL-CIO and 17 other national organizations in various fields have formed what is probably the biggest lobbying group ever set up in this country. The combined group is set to work for passage of a federal aid to education bill in Congress next year.

AFL-CIO officials have little hope, however, of achieving action on the Taft-Hartley Labor Act next year. At best they think efforts to change the act will result in a stalemate as occurred in 1954 or lack of any action as occurred in 1955. At worst they fear opening the "Pandora's Box" of changes that labor doesn't want.

Organizationally, AFL and CIO state and city groups in 29 states—including the most highly unionized states—still are delaying their mergers. The predominant obstacle appears to be personality and union rivalry. The deadline is Dec. 5, 1957. Meany has said that unless the deadline is met, the national AFL-CIO will simply lift charters and establish new state and city groups.

Russian Relief Cargo Arrives at Alexandria

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt (UP)—A Russian ship loaded with relief supplies for Egyptian war refugees arrived Saturday.

A large crowd met the vessel, shouting support for Egyptian President Nasser and Soviet Premier Bulganin.

The leader of the Soviet Red Crescent (Red Cross) mission told reporters:

"This gift is the expression of the Soviet people's friendship toward the struggling Egyptian people and is proof that a friend in need is a friend indeed."

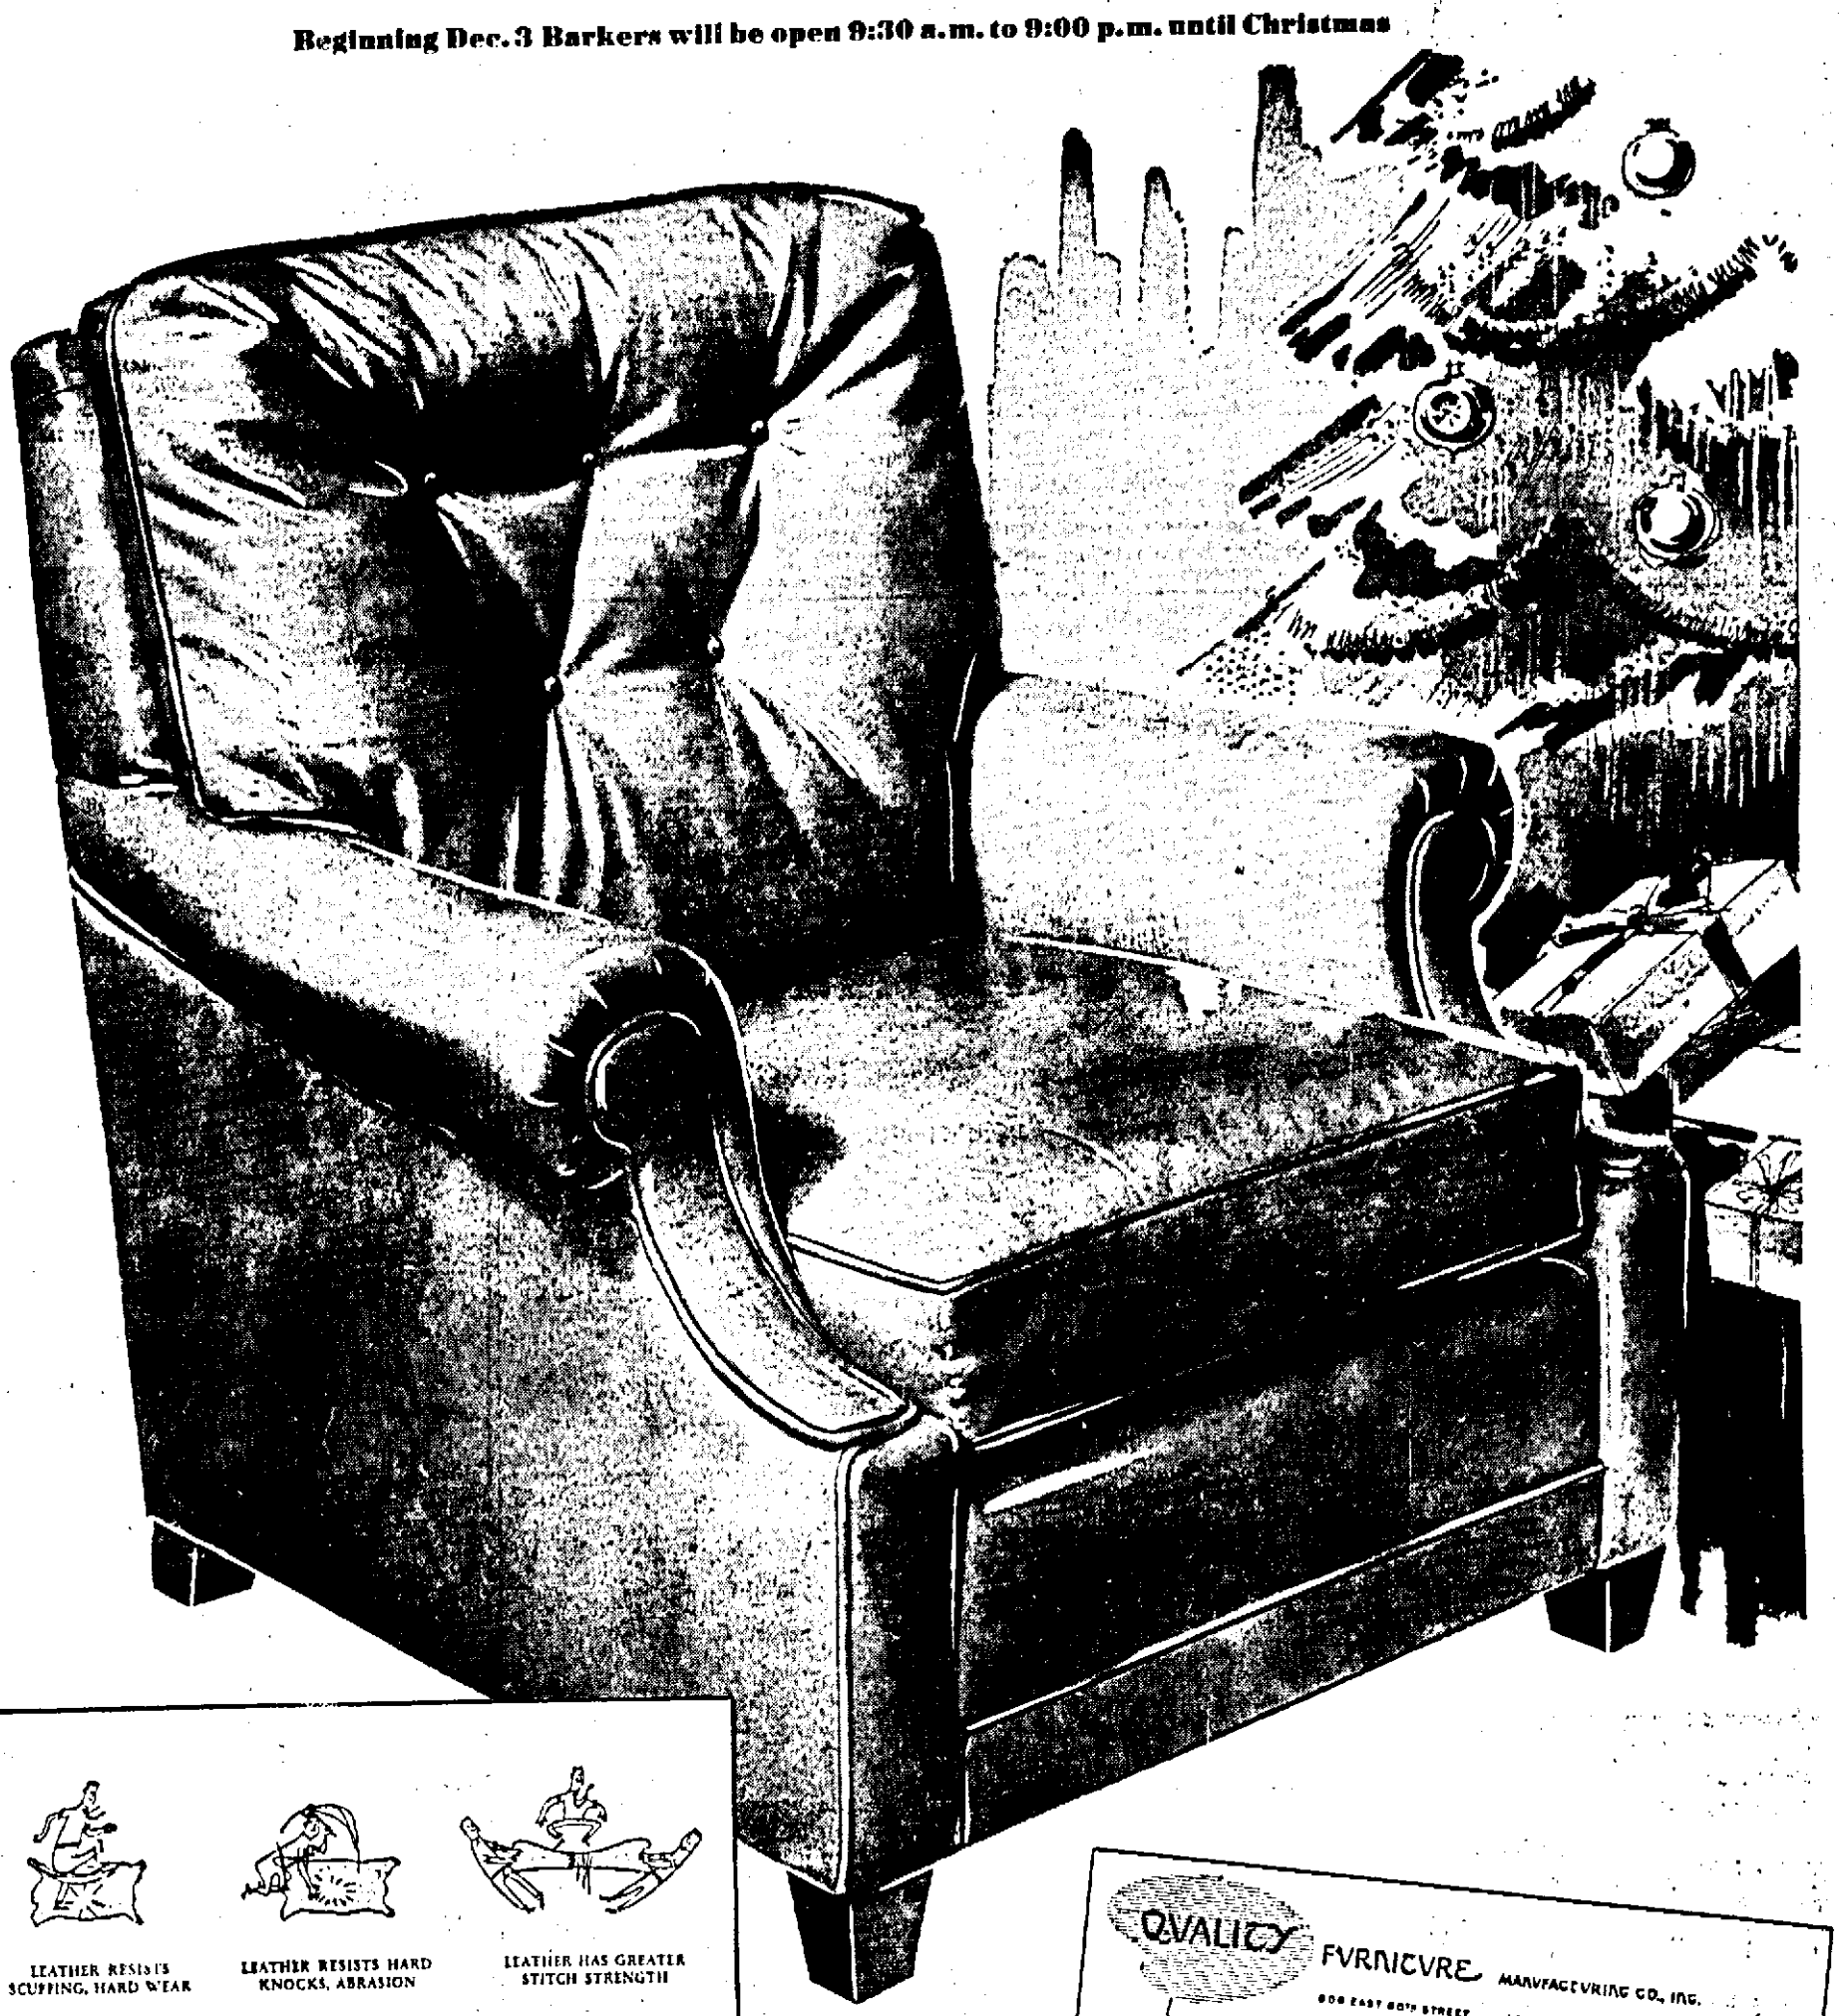

The shipment included 3,000 tons of wheat, 500,000 tins of food, 10 ambulances, a completely equipped field hospital and medicines.

READIES FOR FIRST L. B. VISIT

Hawaiian Steamship Co.'s S.S. Leilani, which will begin passenger service to Hawaii from here and San Francisco next February, is shown receiving a final coat of paint at Camden, N. J., before delivery to its owner. The 700-passenger vessel is due here late in January, loaded with visitors from the East Coast. Several million dollars have been spent to enlarge and modernize the ship's facilities.

TRUCK TRAILERS ON RAIL CARS

Mail to Be Speeded 'Piggy Back'

Now it's "piggy-back" mail, Verne Scoggins, regional director of the Post Office Department, announced Saturday the "piggy-back" system will be started this week. It will be used to expedite delivery of Christmas parcel post and bulk mail between San Francisco and Southern California.

Loaded truck trailers will be mounted "piggy-back" upon flat rail cars.

From the Los Angeles freight yards, trucks will move the trailers to a temporary mail terminal at Chell Air Force Base. The base will service communities within 25 miles of Los Angeles.

The operation is expected to result in 650,000 sacks of mail by-passing the Los Angeles Post Office terminal annex.

KIT CARSON VISITS SMALL FRY HERE

Surrounded by kids clutching his pictures, television's Kit Carson handed out autographs to the small fry gathered at Butler Brother's Department Store in Lakewood Saturday morning.—(Staff)

Hungary Ousts Last Yank Correspondent

VIENNA (UP)—United Press Correspondent Russell Jones, the only American newsman to remain in Budapest from the start of the all-out Russian campaign to crush the Hungarian revolt, Saturday was ordered to leave Hungary within three days.

Peter Kemp, correspondent of Catholic publication, was given similar expulsion orders by the Hungarian foreign ministry.

Jones, whose first Hungarian visa expired Friday, had been negotiating with the foreign ministry for several days for an extension until the end of the year.

Saturday he was summoned to the foreign ministry, given a three-day visa valid until Monday and told he must then leave.

"What happens if I stay?" Jones asked.

"Please, Mr. Jones, do not try to stay," he was told.

Kemp, who came to Budapest on behalf of the "Universe" and stayed on to represent the London Daily Express, previously had been given a visa valid until Dec. 9. Saturday it was cancelled and he was given a three-day visa similar to Jones'.

Jones entered Hungary on Oct. 29 without any visa at all but got permission to stay one month from the ill-fated government of Premier Imre Nagy.

Austin Goes Home

BURLINGTON, Vt. (AP) — Warren R. Austin, former U. S. ambassador to the United Nations who suffered a stroke at his home Oct. 12, was discharged Saturday from Mary Fletcher Hospital.

The 79-year-old former senator, who retired in 1953, suffered partial paralysis of his left side.

I, P-T Printer E. J. Quick, 35 Years on Job, Retires

Earl J. Quick, 3611 E. 23rd St., who worked for The Independent, Press-Telegram and its predecessors 35 years, set his last line of type for the newspaper last week.

Feted at retirement ceremonies, the printer was presented a cash gift from his associates by Les Williams, representing Long Beach Typographical Union 650, Independent, Press-Telegram Chapel.

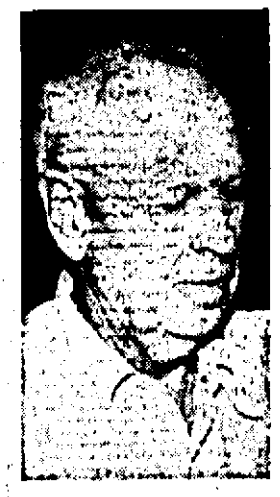

H. F. Burmester, Press-Telegram editor, presented Quick with a watch inscribed, "In appreciation of 35 years faithful and efficient service." In addition, the printer will receive full retirement benefits.

A native of Prairie City, Quick moved with his family to Perth, N. D., in 1904. It was there that two years later the 17-year-old boy first worked as a "printer's devil" after school.

In 1909 he started his apprenticeship with the Kallspell Bee in Montana. In 1921 he came to work for the Long Beach Press, predecessor of the Press-Telegram.

Quick and his wife, Katharine, are the parents of Mrs. Joanne Keen.

One of the printer's principal hobbies has been bowling. He has chalked up two perfect 300 scores.

Union Oil Transfers Control of Tankers

LOS ANGELES (UP)—Union Oil Co. of California turned over the management and operation of its tanker fleet Saturday to Pacific Coast Transport Co., a subsidiary.

E. L. Hiatt, vice president for transportation, said the switch was in line with the firm's policy of contracting for services not directly connected with production, manufacturing and marketing of petroleum and petroleum products.

L. B. Library Offers Christmas Ideas

The Long Beach Public Library reminded residents Saturday that ideas and suggestions on all aspects of the Christmas holiday are available at the library.

"Books can offer a great deal of practical help on every phase of the Christmas celebration," Librarian Edwin Castagna explained.

Material ranges from the story behind Christmas to instructions for making gifts, decorations and Christmas cakes and cookies, the librarian said.

The story behind the celebration of Christmas is told in such books as James Barnett's "The American Christmas," Maymie Krythe's "All About Christmas," Frances Weiser's "The Christmas Book," Alfred Hottle's "1,001 Christmas Facts and Fancies," and Earl Count's "4,000 Years of Christmas."

• • • •

POETRY AND stories are found in "The Home Book of Christmas," edited by May L. Becker; "Let's Celebrate Christmas," by Horace Gardner; "The World's Greatest Christmas Stories," edited by Erick Possett; and "A Christmas Book," by Dominic Lewis.

The library has numerous books on holiday decorations. They include Patricia Roberts' "Party Decorations for Christmas and Other Occasions"; Theodore Saros' "Christmas Lighting and Decorating"; Ann Wertsner's "Make Your Own Merry Christmas"; Dorothy Biddle's "Christmas Idea Book," and Marjorie Young's "Decorating for Joyful Occasions."

Other titles which have chapters on decorating, in addition to helpful material on gift-making, greeting cards and food, are "Popular Mechanics' Christmas Handbook," and "Today's Woman Ideas for Christmas."

• • • •

FOR HOLIDAY MENU ideas, the library has Charlotte Turgeon's "Cooking for Christmas" and Zella Boutell's "The Christmas Cook Book," which include both recipes and bits of legend, and the "Christmas Cookie Book," by Virginia Pasley. Carli Laklan's "Gifts From Your Kitchen" has more than 300 recipes for Christmas and other gift-giving occasions.

Numerous books are also available which offer suggestions for attractive and useful gifts that can be made at home.

Instructions for gift wrapping are covered in Margery O'Shaughnessy's "A Simplified Guide to Gift Wrapping" and Drucella Lowrie's "The Art of Wrapping Gifts."

IN SMALL BUSINESS CLASS

Every Man's a Boss!

They want to succeed—and they want to be their own bosses.

Those are the common interests of the 30 or so persons who meet at Long Beach City College Business and Technology Division at 7 p. m. Tuesdays.

They are members of a class on "How to Organize and Operate a Small Business." The instructor is Mrs. Eva Tibbetts.

With the exception of a married couple, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn M. Minott of Garden Grove, each student is bent on entering a different type of small business. Starting any business these days takes a lot of courage and know-how, says Mrs. Tibbetts.

• • • •

THE MINOTTS plan to enter the motel or lodge resort field. They say they are motivated by a desire to "get out of large cities and away from big business."

Joe DeMaio, 41, of 2021 W. Canton St., was cited by his instructor as a good example of the man who will probably succeed in an industrial shop.

After 11 years as a sheet-metal worker, J. L. Cobb, 28, of 1819 E. 52nd St., wants a life divorced from factory routine. He's considering a hardware or sporting goods store.

• • • •

WITH A $200 "shoestring," petite, brown-eyed Yvonne McFarlin, 21, of 2324 Earl Ave., has already opened a small dance studio. She plans to confine her instruction to children.

Richard L. Davis, 21, of 1213 E. Washington St., has a manner as brisk and engaging as his butch haircut. He hopes to own a combination garage and service station.

Morris H. Adger, 24, of 356 Truman Boyd Manor, already is a successful candid cameraman—but he, too, wants to be his own boss. With five years' experience in portrait work, he feels he has a basis for his own business.

These and other students in the class use a State Department of Education text. They also benefit from the practical knowledge of their instructor, Mrs. Tibbetts.

Pontiff to Hold Rites This Week

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Pius XII today will begin participating in weeklong spiritual exercises in preparation for the Christmas season.

As last year, they will be conducted by the Rev. Giorgio Loiacono, Jesuit priest and professor of theology and philosophy, who will speak daily in a chamber near the Pontiff's Vatican apartment.

The Pontiff will sit alone, but the orator's daily spiritual talks also will be heard by cardinals and other high Vatican prelates who will take their places in an adjoining room. During the period, ending on Dec. 8, the Pope will suspend all audiences.

New Division Chief

WASHINGTON (AP) — Brig. Gen. William M. Breckenridge has been selected as the new commander of the 5th Infantry Division at Ft. Ord, Calif., an Army source said Saturday.

He now is chief of staff of the 5th Corps in Germany.

Knight Hails Electricians; Cites Deaths

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gov. Knight complimented electricians Saturday night for their safety work but noted that 30 persons were killed by electricity in California last year and urged even greater safety measures.

Speaking at a Los Angeles apprenticeship union graduation ceremony for electrical workers, Knight said "management and labor, working as a team, have it in their power virtually to wipe out electrical injuries and deaths."

"They tell me that the industrial revolution is entering a new phase, that mass production is to have an electrical brain," Knight said.

"They call this automation. The electrical industry which has been giving us light and heat and power—radio and television—will soon be even more indispensable to our way of life."

Graduate Gets Marilyn Note

CHESTER, England (AP) — Jeremy Spenser, 19, graduating from a military school here, said among his letters of congratulations was one from Marilyn Monroe. He declined to say what she said. Spenser recently worked with Miss Monroe in a film she made in England.

Flier Fined for Hitting Man

PRINCESS ANNE COURTHOUSE, Va. (AP)—Edward B. Segar, who was piloting a plane which struck his uncle while the latter was in a duck blind, has been fined $100 on a charge of reckless flying.

The wing tip of Segar's plane hit Edward R. Baird as he hunted in Back Bay Last Nov. 23.

Segar, 22-year-old commercial pilot, said he had flown close to the blind to drop a note to his uncle telling him where to look for ducks.

Judge J. Davis Reed, in imposing the fine against Segar, said the Civil Aeronautics Administration is investigating the case and will decide whether or not Segar's pilot license should be revoked.

1912 CRISIS RECALLED

Our Fleet Was One Ship

The crisis in the Middle East has turned back history's pages for one retired naval chief petty officer here.

For Bob Myers, 64, of 458 Platt St., the pages flip backward to November, 1912.

He was a seamen aboard the coal-burning, four-stacker cruiser Montana. The ship was moored to a dock in the "Back Channel" of the League Island Navy Yard at Philadelphia, Pa.

The United States was at peace, but there was war overseas. The fight was between the Balkan States and Turkey, then known as the Ottoman Empire.

Turkey's boundaries extended along the eastern Mediterranean from the Bosporus to the Egyptian border at Gaza, a familiar name in today's history.

• • • •

THE MONTANA and a sister ship, the Tennessee, were ordered to leave in 48 hours to reinforce our Navy in the Mediterranean.

BOB MYERS
Casbah Off Limits

Uncle Sam's Mediterranean fleet in 1912 consisted of one converted yacht called the Scorpion. It had seven officers and 80 enlisted men.

The Montana, making an average speed of 14 knots, reached Gibraltar in eight days and the Mediterranean in five more.

Her destination was Beirut, now in Lebanon but then in Syria. She was to patrol between Port Said, Egypt, and Alexandrette, Syria.

"Ours was a watchful, waiting mission," recalls Myers. "We participated in no armed maneuvers.

"We toured the Turkish coffee shops, found the Turks very friendly and tried smoking their hubble-bubble pipes. We frequented the shopping bazaars and acquired many souvenirs, some of which were stamped 'Made in U.S.A.'

"We drank huge quantities of rich German pilsner beer for a 'bechelek' (11 cents) a quart.

"We observed that the old ways lingered and the camel caravan was the principal method of moving supplies into and out of the city."

• • • •

AFTER ABOUT seven months of "watchful waiting," the Montana was ordered back to the states. En route, she stopped at Algiers.

"I remember that the Casbah was off limits and we were warned to keep away," said Myers. "Naturally, it was the first place we went."

Myers, now an employee of the Southern California Edison Co., was discharged from the Navy in 1927, but stayed on the reserve roster. He was recalled for duty in World War II and was assigned to maintain the electrical works at the Naval Air Station in Clinton, Okla.

"I'll never forget that place," he said. "I was the only sailing man on the whole air station."

FBI Poised to Seize Hawaii Subversives

By JOSEPH GRANT

HONOLULU (AP)—FBI agents here are ready to strike at a moment's notice to arrest potential subversives throughout the Territory of Hawaii.

A well kept watch list is in FBI files here. The agents cooperate closely with civilian police and military intelligence agencies, primarily the counter-intelligence corps, in compiling the list.

It gives the latest information, practically up to the hour, of the location of all persons on a "I-A" suspect list.

The FBI had the same type of list ready when the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor, although its Honolulu office opened only in 1939.

The FBI's first order when it opened then, from Agent-in-Charge Robert C. Shivers, was to "make a thorough appraisal of all the factors which have a bearing on the internal security of the islands."

By the evening of Dec. 8, 1941, a total of 482 people had been interned.

Since then the names have changed but suspect lists are still top priority in FBI and counter-intelligence offices.

• • • • •

MOST OF the information on suspects is obtained from informants, paid or those who volunteer information. What they say is closely evaluated, and the information is coupled with an evaluation of the informant himself. This is to guard against rumor mongers or purposely planted false information.

Known espionage agents are rarely arrested during peacetime except in case of emergency.

• • • •

THE FORMER Agent whose name could not be disclosed, also pointed out:

"The Russians are old pros at this game, while we're still relative amateurs. But one thing is certain—we don't worry too much about the so-called 'prominent Communists' that make the papers.

"It's the quiet man who has been voting the Republican or Democratic ticket, pays his taxes, takes his kids to Sunday school and mows his own lawn Saturday afternoon.

"He doesn't have a police record. You probably would never remember his after passing him on the street."

But the 1-A lists probably have his name if he is involved in espionage or a potential saboteur.

Fire Destroys War Mementoes

HILLSBOROUGH (AP) — Retired Lt. Gen. Delos C. Emmons' collection of military mementoes was destroyed by a fire in his home Friday night.

Damage to a study and bedroom was estimated at $25,000.

"Everything I've collected all my life was burned," said Emmons, 67, who was World War II commander of the Western Defense Command.

The loss included autographed photographs of Presidents Roosevelt and Eisenhower, Winston Churchill and other dignitaries; family records dating back to the Revolutionary War, battle flags, and citations for the general's many medals.

Santa, Reindeer Too Busy to Stand Still

ARLINGTON, Va. (UP) — Arlington police were looking for Santa Claus and his reindeer "Blitzen."

They said a nine-foot Santa and his reindeer disappeared from a display being constructed at an Arlington shopping center.

Queen Inspects Float

Miss Universe, Miss Long Beach Prepare for Parade

By VERA WILLIAMS

Miss Universe of 1957—Carol Morris of Iowa—visited Pasadena the other day to see the Long Beach float on which she will ride in the 68th annual Tournament of Roses on New Year's Day.

Eddie Rickenbacker, celebrated war aviator, will be grand marshal of the parade.

As the world's first lady of beauty, Carol will help Long Beach portray "First in Beauty," as this community's floral entry, in keeping with the pageant's 1957 theme, "Famous Firsts in Flowers."

Miss Universe will have four attendants: Miss Welcome to Long Beach, who is Sybil Smith; Miss Long Beach City, who will be chosen among city employes; a girl from Long Beach State College and a girl from Long Beach City College. These beauties have not yet been chosen.

• • • •

FOR THE PARADE, Miss Universe will wear the gown in which she was crowned last summer; her attendants will wear matching aqua gowns.

Long Beach floats have been consistent winners in Tournament parades, and "First in Beauty" is expected to be a strong contender for the Sweepstakes award.

Mrs. Isabella Coleman of Pasadena, who has designed most of this city's floats since 1932, is designing the 1957 float. It will have between 250,000 and 300,000 blossoms, she estimates, including 1,000 cattleya orchids, 7,500 large shocking pink "Better Times" roses and 5,000 China White chrysanthemums.

Seventeen feet high, 20 feet wide and 42 feet long—the maximum dimensions permitted by Tournament officials—the float will have a three-tiered base supporting a large swan, a Cupid fountain and a large throne protected by a dais.

• • • •

"BETTER TIMES" roses will cover the tiers forming the base and a full-length geometrical design made of cattleya orchids will decorate the pool of white roses.

Orchids and China White chrysanthemums from Treasure Island and Peter Paul chrysanthemums also will cover the sides of each tier.

The swan made of Treasure Island chrysanthemums will float in a pool fed by the Cupid Fountain of Love made of cyclamen petals.

Miss Universe and her four attendants will be sheltered by an Arabian canopied dais from which four turrets will extend. Orchids and roses will decorate the dais and throne.

• • • •

MISS MORRIS, who comes from Ottumwa, Iowa, captured both the Miss United States and Miss Universe titles at the Miss Universe Beauty Pageant in Long Beach last summer.

Now under contract at Universal - International Pictures, she said she is "thrilled" that the University of Iowa will meet Oregon State College in the Rose Bowl Game, and the Hawkeye band will be seen in both the parade and game.

The statuesque 21-year-old brunette is 5 feet 7 inches tall, weighs 125 pounds, and measures 36-23-36.

• • • •

THE NAME Eddie Rickenbacker is practically synonymous with daring and with aviation.

In World War I, "Captain Eddie," flying primitive planes and without benefit of parachute, downed 26 German aircraft, giving him the title of America's "ace of aces." He was the most decorated flier of the war, holding the Croix de Guerre with four palms, Legion of Honor medal, Distinguished Service Cross with nine oak leaves and the Congressional Medal of Honor.

When the nation entered World War II, Rickenbacker went into the service again. He flew to all sectors on confidential missions for top leaders of the war effort.

DRAWING OF Long Beach float for Tournament of Roses holds attention of Carol (Miss Universe) Morris and float designer, Mrs. Isabella Coleman. Behind drawing is papier-mache figurine of Cupid, which will wear floral decorations on parade. Miss Universe will be queen of Long Beach floral display.

EX-MISS WELCOME TO LONG BEACH, Judy Ware models aqua acetate taffeta gown which will be supplied by Buffum's Department Store to the four beauties who will ride float with Miss Universe in Rose Tournament parade on New Year's Day.

U.S. Election Confusing to Russ Editor

MOSCOW (AP)—A Soviet editor who recently toured the United States as a State Department guest complained that American elections are too complicated. There are too many candidates, he said.

Here in the U.S.S.R. things are simpler: one party, one candidate.

The editor, V. L. Kudryavtsev of Izvestia, in the third of a series of articles giving his impressions of the U.S.-sponsored journey to observe the elections, said of the American practice of presenting to voters a long list of candidates for offices ranging from President to minor county posts:

"Truly one has to be an employe of a Washington institute of government affairs and not plain 'Joe Smith' to make out some extent what this is all about."

• • • •

THE SOVIET Communist journalist, who is accustomed himself to vote for a single-party, single-slate of candidates at home, complained that the American elections are monopolized by the Republican and Democratic parties.

He said that "actual control over the elections is taken over by two major parties. It is not known on what laws the claims for monopoly rights to represent the American public are based."

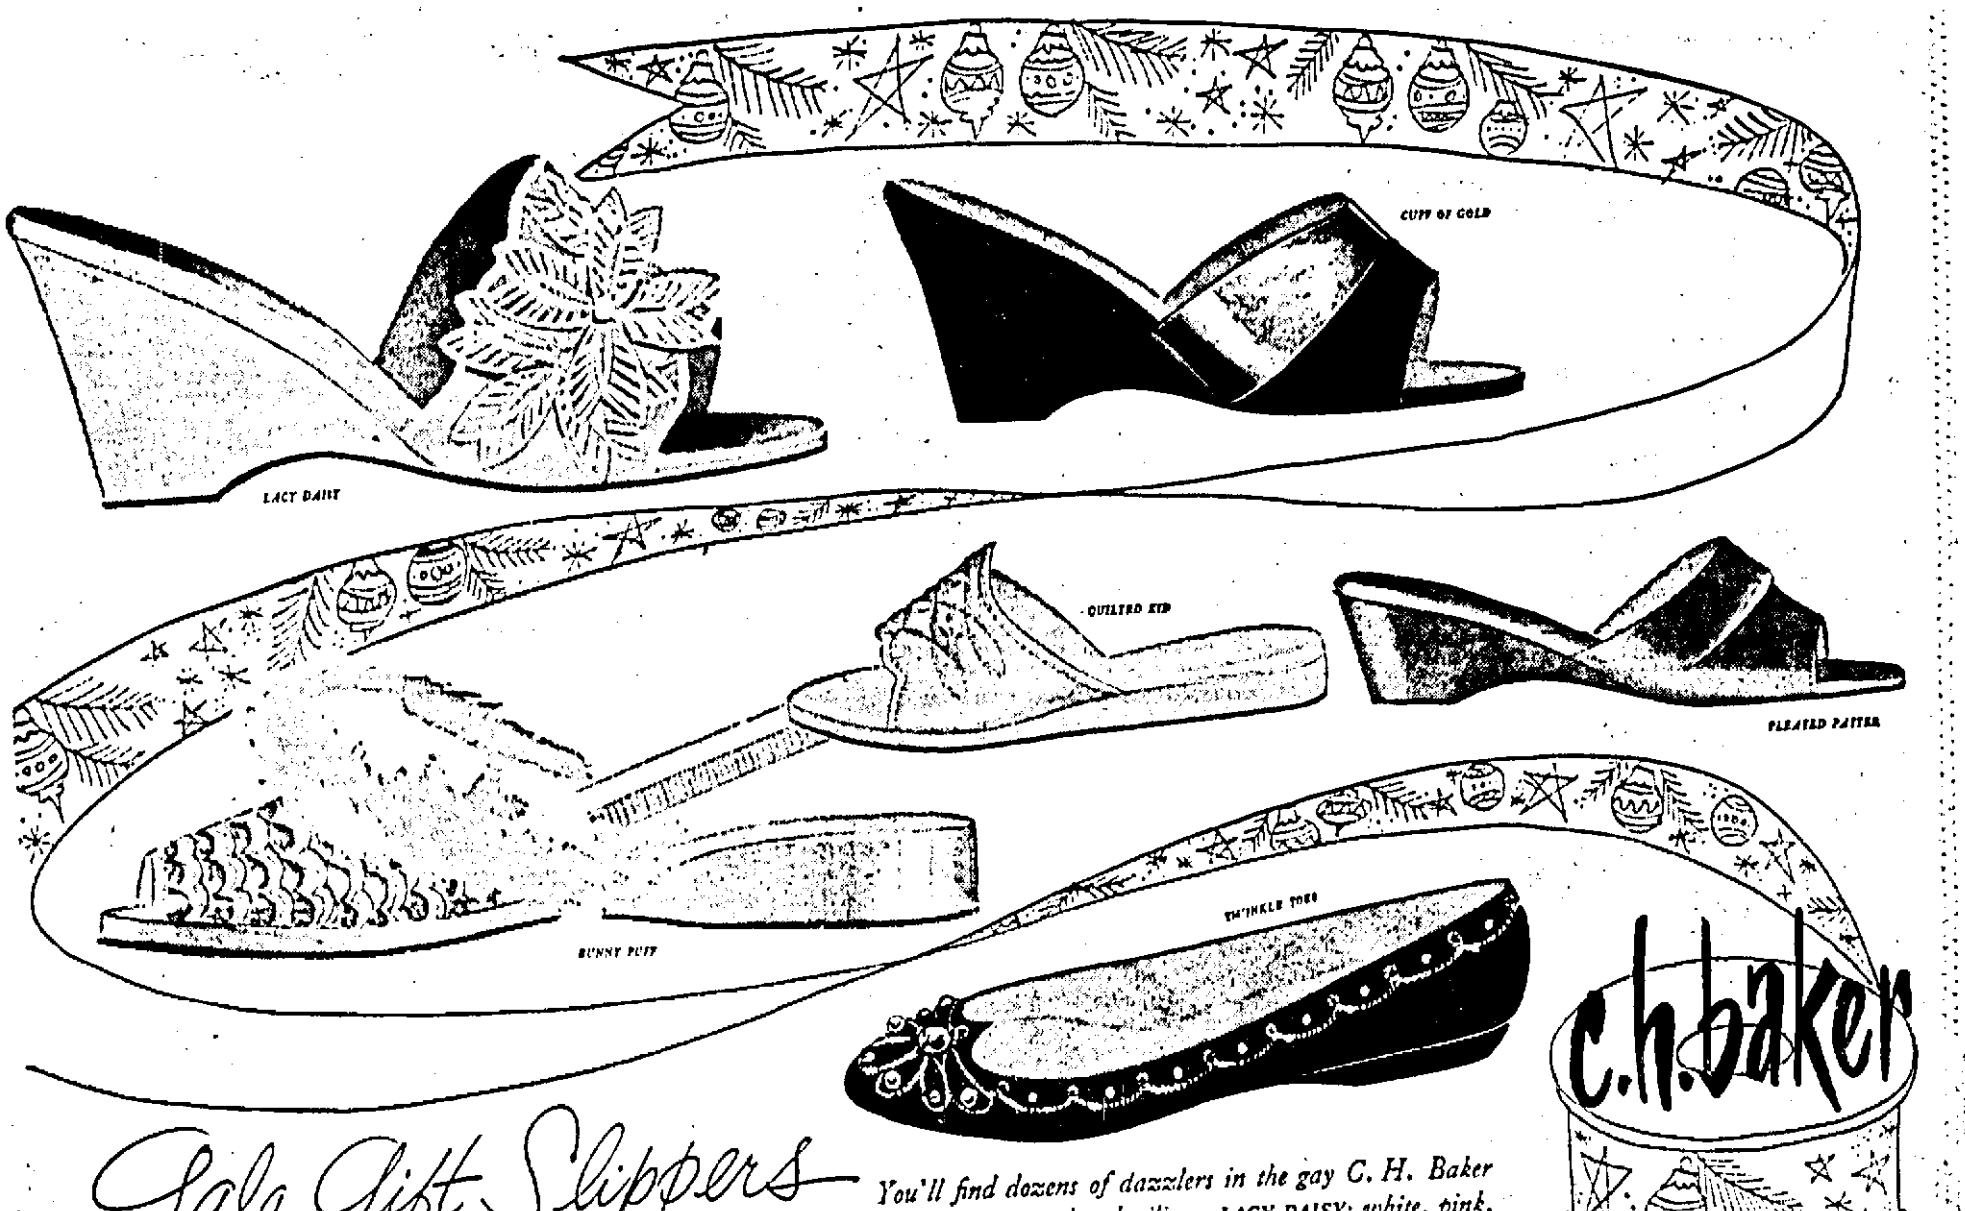

"Ruling circles of the United States fear the appearance of organizations on the political scene which could advance candidates from social groups," he wrote.

• • • •

THEY STRIVE to pass off the Republican and Democratic parties as representatives of all Americans without exception, without separating them into social groups."

Kudryavtsev expressed surprise at the presence of police at election polling places.

The Russian journalist concluded: "The most important impression we brought from our trip is that the American people are striving for peace and want good, friendly relations with the Soviet Union.

CATASTROPHE FACED

Population Growth Problem for Japan

By DON BALDWIN

TOKYO (AP)—The Japanese people, whose industry and ingenuity welded a chain of tiny, mountainous islands into a great nation, today face a national catastrophe because of a vast and expanding population.

This California-size nation might support 60 million people. A few weeks ago the population topped 90 million, a figure which experts in years past have warned would be the "explosion" point. And government experts say the number of Japanese will increase every year until 1990 when the population will hit a peak of 108,475,000.

Experts around the world are watching Japan's efforts to trim its population. It may provide a test tube picture of what some scientists believe the whole world must ultimately face.

What is Japan doing to head off catastrophe? It has cut its birth rate to an all-time low in the years since World War II. It has a five-year economic plan which could be projected over a longer period. And some progress is being made toward developing new sources of food supply.

• • • •

BUT FEW EXPERTS think Japan can solve its problem alone, and many are hesitant to say a solution exists.

When the war ended in 1945 Japan counted 72 million people, about two million more than prewar. In the following 10 years its population increased 17,300,000, more than the 1950 population of Argentina.

The birth rate, low in 1945, jumped to 34.3 per 1,000 population by 1947. At the same time the death rate, steady at around 17 per 1,000 prior to the war, began a sharp decline to less than half the prewar rate.

Last year both birth and death rates hit new all-time lows, according to Welfare Ministry statistics. Births totaled 1,730,000, or 19.3 per 1,000 population, compared with about 25 for each 1,000 in the United States. Deaths totaled 690,000 or 7.8 per 1,000, well below America's 1954 average of 9.2 per 1,000.

• • • •

IT IS PREDICTED that Japan will reach a population of 100 million before 1970 and a peak of 108,475,000 in the following 20 years. After that, the population will decline and again fall below 100 million by 2015.

Study Urged on Effects of Radiation

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP)—A pilot study of the effects of radiation on the human body that would include 10,000 or possibly 100,000 persons has been proposed by Dr. L. H. Snyder, president of the American Assn. for the Advancement of Science.

Snyder, who is dean of the Oklahoma University Graduate School, told 250 delegates at the Oklahoma Academy of Science meeting here that there is an urgent need for accurate information and records on radiation exposure.

Snyder particularly mentioned lack of information on fallout of strontium-90, which he called "insidious."

"It is unfortunate that much of our information on these matters has reached us second hand from monitoring data of other nations," he said.

MOOSE PASTURE STOCKS

Public Buying Pie-in-the-Sky

By ROGER GREENE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pie-in-the-sky promoters are bamboozling the American public out of more than 150 million dollars a year in the biggest explosion of wildcat stock ventures since the roaring 20s.

Officials of the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC)—the federal "watchdog" agency over securities—are broadcasting that warning as complaints from victims of get-rich-quick stock schemes pour in from all parts of the country.

The SEC's big headache is that thousands of investors, caught up in the fever of a stock market boom, are cashing in gilt-edge "blue chip" stocks to buy risky or worthless securities sold to them over the telephone by total strangers.

Why do they do it?

Big, grey-haired Tim Callahan, SEC special investigator, shook his head wearily.

"It's incredible," he said, "just incredible what people will fall for."

• • • • •

CALLAHAN, AN almost legendary Yale football hero who twice made Walter Camp's All-America teams, said "boiler room" gyp artists masquerading as reputable brokers are peddling frozen Canadian Moose Pasture and Rocky Mountain Goat runs for tens of millions of dollars—and inflicting widespread heartbreak and tragedy.

"Telephone pitchmen, called loaders or dynamiters, put the pressure on victims to find out what securities they own and then switch them out of good, sound stocks and bonds into cheap unlisted securities," Callahan said.

Pitchmen get the names of prospective victims in a variety of ways including the purchase of lists from disgruntled former employes of reputable investment houses. Others may advertise investment advice. For three months or so the advice is relatively sound—then they throw the hooker.

The louder, said Callahan, is the prima donna of the boiler-room pirates. "He'll put in a long-distance call from New York to a rubber worker in Akron, Ohio, and tell him: 'Mr. Jones, a man in your position in life should have 10,000 shares of this wonderful stock.'

TIM CALLAHAN
It's Incredible

"In no time at all, the guy in Akron is so flattered he's gulping. He doesn't want the broker to think he's a cheapskate, particularly after the broker called him all the way from New York. So he agrees to buy 200 shares at 4 dollars a share, and the gyp pockets 800 dollars for three minutes' work over the phone."

Callahan said stock buccaneers often operate from blind addresses, without numbers on the door, in rat-infested lofts. One New York firm used the fancy-sounding name of a singing waiter in a German Hofbrau on its nameplate. It paid him 100 dollars a week for the privilege.

• • • •

SEC OFFICIALS emphasized that such boiler-room vultures—so called because of the din created by their fast-talking sales pitch in crowded hole-in-the-wall quarters—should not be confused with the vast majority of scrupulously honest investment firms.

Nevertheless, says SEC Chairman J. Sinclair Armstrong, the problem of shady dealers in serious and getting worse.

Flooding the country with glittering and often hard-boiled appeals to avarice, crack boiler-room "dynamiters" make as much as 3,000 to 6,000 dollars a week sitting at the telephone and high-pressuring victims in distant states.

One firm, recently shackled by the SEC, had a whopping bill of $207,369.32 for long-distance tolls in the first eight months of 1956.

Another New York broker, also the target of a SEC crackdown, sold 8,952,693 shares of dubious Canadian "Moose Pasture" stock for $30,629,302 and harvested a profit of $4,425,397 in a few months.

Among other things, according to the SEC, boiler-room spielers make widely exorbitant claims of rich oil strikes and promise that the stocks will "double your money before Christmas." All too often, the bottom drops out as the gypsters, having exhausted the field in one stock, turn off the pressure and start ballyhooing another wobbly issue.

• • • •

"SOMETIMES YOU wonder how they get away with it," Callahan said in an interview at the SEC's New York regional headquarters.

Callahan, the SEC's star roving sleuth, estimated there are 50 to 60 "boiler rooms" now operating in New York City alone.

Others are running full blast in Jersey City and Hoboken, N. J., and in several Canadian cities. Many of the Canada-based racketeers, he said, are Americans who were driven north of the border by tight U. S. laws.

Co-Owner of Cafeteria

Charles Guy Kerr, former executive secretary of the Virginia Country Club, died in a local hospital Saturday. He was 79.

Kerr, a realtor, lived at 11912 Tina St., Norwalk. He formerly was a part owner of the Mission Cafeteria here. He had lived in the Long Beach area 42 years.

Survivors are a son, Charles R.; daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Logan; brother, Bert; sisters, Mrs. Pearl K. Rankin, Mrs. Hazel Holliday and Mrs. Bertha Breakey; two grandchildren; and three great-grandchildren.

Funeral service will be at 11 a.m. Monday in Mottell's and Peek Chapel, 3rd St. and Alamitos Ave., with the Rev. James Earl Bartlett officiating. Interment will be in Westminster Memorial Park.

Banner Metal Firm New Industry Here

Banner Metal, Inc., 2939 Victoria St., one of the newer industries to locate in the metropolitan Long Beach area, is now at full production in its new location, Ed Shaw, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Industrial Development Committee, reports.

"Vincent J. Ryan, president, and James D. Wilson, sales manager for Banner Metal, were guests at the Chamber's Board of directors' meeting last week to report on their company's operation," Shaw said.

Ryan said Banner Metals is the west's largest manufacturer of wire shelves, advertising display racks, and special material handling containers and equipment.

"Approximately 98 per cent of all baked goods in Southern California is delivered to stores on Banner's palettes.

"These sanitary trays were designed to replace the more cumbersome wooden trays used by many bakeries at one time.

• • • •

"THE COMPANY also manufactures wire baskets for cooking tuna. These are used by most of the tuna canneries in this area.

"One of our metal racks is specifically designed for radar construction. Radar sets and components are built on these racks and then shipped intact to their destination.

"Each salesman coming with the company has a unique challenge. Unlike most salesmen, he does not have certain customers to begin with, nor a particular territory. It is up to that salesman to build his own customers and territory by determining what Banner can manufacture that will suit the needs of a buyer. One example is the substitution of metal trays for wooden trays in a bakery.

• • • •

"THIS COMPANY worked closely with world-famous furniture designer Charles Eames in designing a metal chair that has outlasted several other types that have been introduced on the market in the past five or six years.

"The company was founded in Los Angeles 25 years ago under the name of Wire and Metal Manufacturing Co., and has had three different owners. It occupied facilities at 2033 E. 38th St. six years before obtaining a 20-year lease on this new facility here in the Dominguez Estates area.

"We are now employing 100 persons at our plant, but we look forward to expansion in Long Beach in the near future and will probably soon employ approximately 300 persons.

"Banner Metals is more than pleased with its location here in smog-free Long Beach. We have found everything convenient for our employes and for the company itself," Ryan concluded.

Park Village Designed for Luxury Life

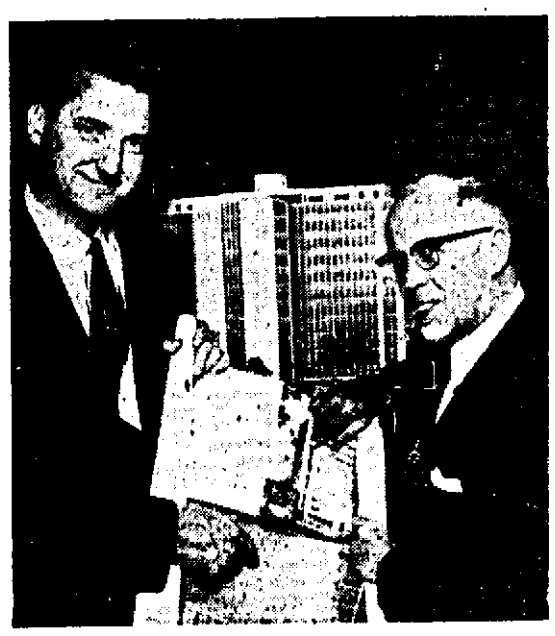

Park Village Estates in Anaheim have been designed for families with an inherent pride of ownership who want comfort and a real home, not just a shelter, report Pierce and Armour, the developers.

Located in Anaheim on Crescent between Magnolia and Dale Aves., the homes have 3 bedrooms and a family room, 2 full baths with stall showers.

Each home has a fireplace, extra wide overhangs and is filled with many extras found only in luxury-priced custom homes.

Among the features, the homes offer forced-air heating, O'Keefe & Merritt range and oven, G. E. dishwasher, G. E. disposal, range hood and fan, G. E. washer-dryer and the kitchen has great storage space.

Priced from $15,950 to $17,750, the homes may be reached from Long Beach by driving east on Carson St., which becomes Lincoln Blvd., to Dale St., just east of Hwy. 39, turn left and follow signs to models.

NEARING START OF ROYAL PALMS

Architects J. Richard Shelley and Francis O. Merchant, AIA, are shown with detailed working plans which they have completed for Royal Palms mutual-ownership apartments. The 12-story structure will be built at First and Atlantic Ave., downtown Long Beach. Construction is due to start soon, it was announced.

Royal Palms Construction Near

Completion of one of the last steps before start of construction of the Royal Palms apartment tower was announced with the finishing of the final detailed plans and specifications of the 12-story building. Architects J. Richard Shelley and Francis O. Merchant have completed these architectural drawings, and a complete set of plans is now on display at the model apartment.

Definite date for the excavation and start of construction will be announced shortly, according to E. T. Moore, of Moore Realty, sales agents.

In accordance with FHA regulations governing this development, all purchasers must be approved by the FHA, and the processing of applications is now 75 per cent completed. Because some applicants have not qualified, several units—including a few choice view apartments—are now available and will be placed on sale Monday, according to Moore.

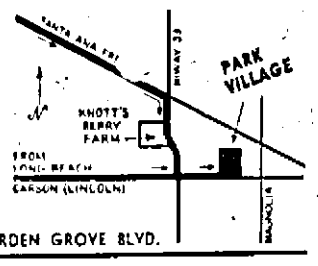

The steel, concrete and glass structure is due to rise at First and Atlantic Ave., a block from the ocean. Colorful kitchens, with built-in electric oven and range, are one of the many modern features of the 161 apartments. Swimming pool, patio, and social lounge are recreational facilities provided on the main floor.

Under the co-operative plan for operation of the Royal Palms, the regular monthly payment of the owner-resident covers all payments for interest and principal, taxes, insurance, repairs, maintenance, heating, redecorating, repairs, water, replacement of appliances, and reserve funds.

REALTY OFFICE OF WEEK

In business here 10 years, the E. T. Moore Realty Co. was selected for honor by the Long Beach Board of Realtors as the Realty Office of the Week. Here is shown the main office at 4151 E. Carson St. Other offices are at 4560 Orange Ave., 76 Atlantic Ave. and 2451 Bellflower Blvd. The firm reports $8,500,000 in sales the first 10 months this year. Moore, former Realty Board president, is active in many civic ventures and his offices provide complete realty servicing, including sales, rentals, property management, leasing, exchanges, escrows, loans and insurance.—(Staff photo.)

IN FOOTHILLS

Shown is one of 56 different exterior stylings offered in Sun Gold Hills, Santa Gertrudes and Janine Aves., north of Whittier Blvd., in the fast-growing east Whittier area.

Sun Gold Hills Sales Soaring

Crowds visiting Sun Gold Hills have doubled in size since the completion of work on Whittier Blvd., which has been widened and resurfaced, it was reported yesterday by Robert H. Walter, president, Sun Gold, Inc.

As a result, sales of the $17,000 to $25,000 individualized homes have reached a new peak and there has been a big rush to buy a limited number of homesites offered within the development, at Santa Gertrudes and Janine Aves., north of Whittier Blvd.

The lots, which range in size from 90 feet by 120 feet to full acres, are priced from $7500 to $10,000. Full acres are offered for as little as $8900, according to Robert H. Smith, sales manager.

The lots are being sold for 25 per cent down, with 10 quarterly payments at six per cent, he said. Both VA and FHA terms are available to home buyers with monthly payments arranged from $110, including all costs. Vets pay about 10 per cent down while non-vets are making down payments of approximately 25 per cent.

Homestead Gardens Sale Gets Results

The big "Homestead Sale" of quality-built residences at Homestead Gardens in Garden Grove will continue this weekend following the sale of over $300,000 worth of homes during the past 7 days, it was announced yesterday by Walker & Lee, Inc., sales agents.

Feature of the special sale is the opportunity for both vets and non-vets to move into the 3-bedroom, 2-bath homes for only $50.

"These new special 'Homestead Sale' terms have brought us the biggest crowds of the fall selling season," stated a Walker & Lee spokesman. The homes are located on Verano St., just north of Westminster Ave., within easy access of the Santa Ana Freeway.

• • • •

EXEMPLIFIED BY a display of model homes with complete furnishings by Aaron Schultz, the Homestead Gardens dwellings are built on spacious lots containing a minimum of 7200 square feet, have thermostat controlled heating, big wardrobe closets, steel casement windows, fibre-glass insulation, acoustic ceilings, lath and plaster walls, stall showers with large glass doors and big garages with added storage space.

Other home features include garbage disposers and many kitchen conveniences. All homes have wide driveways, weatherstripping on doors, 40- to 50-gallon automatic water heaters, gutters, downspouts, and wide overhangs. While some models have Modernfold doors to add to the flexibility of living arrangements.

New Apartments Proving Popular

The latest in apartments for Downey, Woodruff Square, is drawing much interest of renters, said Robert E. Rodgers, Jr., of the Southtown Realty and Investment Co., agents.

Woodruff Square's location at Woodruff and Foster Aves. is accessible to all every-day needs. Two shopping centers are located within three blocks of the buildings. There are four schools very near to the project and North American Aviation and Rheem Manufacturing Co. are within a 5 minute drive.

Features of the apartments, designed and built by Jerome M. White & Associates, Los Angeles, are built-in copper hoods within a 5-minute drive. lighting, garbage disposals, hardwood floors, wardrobe closets, built-in TV antenna outlets.

SPECIAL SALE

A special "Homestead Sale" of three-bedroom, two-bath homes at Homestead Park permits both vets and non-vets to move in for just $50. Typified above, the residences are located on Verano St., just north of Westminster Ave., Garden Grove.

Security Traders Honor L. B. Man

At the annual election of the Security Traders Association of Los Angeles, Clemens T. Lueker, 3856 Pacific Ave., was elected vice president for 1957.

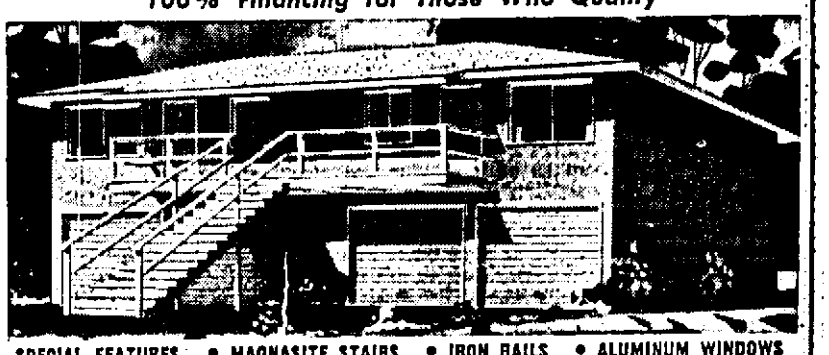

Lueker, who is manager of the trading department of Hill Richards & Co., is currently serving as secretary of the association, and in the previous year also held the office of treasurer.

He is a lifetime resident of Long Beach, graduating from Polytechnic High School in 1936.

Big Health Center for Steel Workers

PITTSBURGH (UP)—A "positive approach to maintain the employe in health" underlies the plans of the nation's second largest steel-maker for its $400,000 health center.

Construction has started here on the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. health center which will serve the 12,000 employes of the firm's Pittsburgh works.

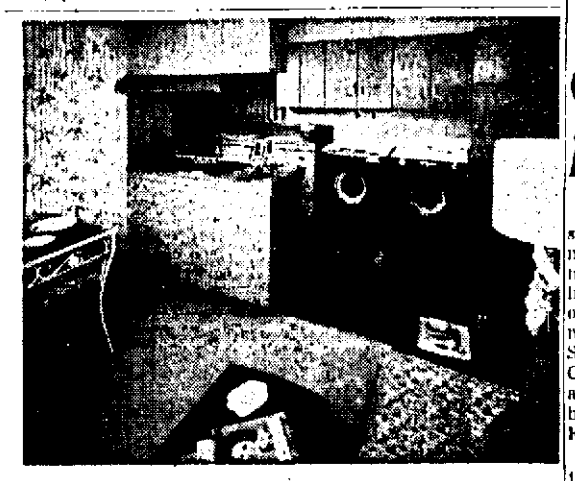

The one-story building of steel and glass will house a suite for first aid treatment, facilities for physio-therapy and rehabilitation, an emergency operating suite, X-ray equipment, private consultation and examination rooms, a laboratory, an electro-cardiogram room, nurses' quarters, a library, and a conference room.

Adm. Ben Morcell, chairman of the J. & L. board, said:

"We regard our program as one of preventive medicine which cooperates with constructive public health activities."

The corporation's medical director, Dr. D. J. Lauer, put it this way:

"There are two approaches to industrial health. The traditional one has been a negative and defensive approach. We propose a positive approach to maintain the employe in health."

IN ANAHEIM

The above kitchen view is representative of the New Approach Homes of the Butler-Harbour Construction Co. Four finished models are on display at 8333 Lincoln Ave., Anaheim, just off the Santa Ana Freeway.

Will Continue Opening of New Approach Unit 2

Extension of the grand opening of a new second unit of New Approach homes and announcement that some homes may be had in time for occupancy before Christmas holidays are expected to attract large weekend crowds to the popular new residential community in Anaheim.

"Construction is being pushed on a number of homes to meet the demand for homes for the holidays," declared a spokesman for the Butler Harbour Construction Co., developers of the property at 8333 Lincoln Ave., just off the Santa Ana Freeway.

Four furnished model homes, with decor by C. Tony Pereira, are attracting large crowds week-days, as well as week-ends. The homes were designed by AIA Architect Roy W. Donley and are priced from $16,000 to $17,995.

• • • •

IT WAS NOTED by Walker & Lee, Inc., sales agents, that veterans may buy on terms which allow them to move in for as low as $675 down, including all costs. For non-vets, there are FHA terms as low as $2,900 down, plus costs and impounds.

Planned for families in the $500 to $600 a month income range, the homes have such luxury features as large sliding glass doors, color-styled automatic gas ranges and ovens with lights and fans, natural ash kitchen cabinets, tile counters, tile range tops with wainscot, automatic dishwashers, garbage disposers and louvered windows.

A FAIRVIEW RANCHO

Corner of kitchen in new Prince Charming series of Fairview Ranchos, featuring exciting all-new Waste King built-in equipment is shown. Development is at Fairview and Bristol Ave. in Santa Ana.

Charm Is Appealing in Fairview Rancho

The unusual combination of story-book charm and almost magical automatic kitchens, makes the new "Prince Charming" series of Fairview Ranchos one of the most attractive and novel developments in the Southland, according to Frank Chandler of Key Land Co., sales agents for the D & E Corp.'s big-family homes at Bristol and Fairview, in Santa Ana.

Designed to reflect much of the charm of nearby Disneyland, Chandler points out that these 3-bedroom and 2-and-a-den, 2-bath, 2-car garage homes, also present the remarkable new kitchen equipment created by Waste King, such as the built-in gas range with automatic pilot, "spillover" trays, and burners guaranteed for life, the unusually large wall oven with full-view window, eye-level control panel, waist-high broiler, and automatic oven-tender timer, all available in charming new colors.

• • • •

ALSO INCLUDED in these kitchens is a super-quiet built-in dishwasher with roomy contour racks and a revolutionary rinsing and drying action that prevents steaming up of walls and windows. And, of course, the famed Waste King Pulverator.

Full price for the "Prince Charming" series of Fairview Ranchos is only $13,750, Chandler reports, with monthly payments of $69.67, which includes principal and interest. Veterans still pay the easy way, with no down payment except impounds and closing costs.

However, not only the kitchens and the easy financing, Chandler reports, are drawing value-wise homeseekers to Fairview Ranchos. Equally attractive are the quality-construction features of the homes themselves, he points out, with their wide brick fireplaces of floor-to-ceiling height, the spacious dining rooms and terraces; the abundant supply of natural-finish ash hardwood cabinets; the select oak floors and lath and plaster walls.

There are separate service porches.

To reach Fairview Ranchos from Long Beach take 7th St. to Bristol, then turn right on Bristol to the furnished models.

On Oil Group

DALLAS — Carl T. Gates, Fowler Drilling Co., Long Beach, Calif., has been named national vice chairman of the transportation committee of the American Association of Oilwell Drilling Contractors, it was announced by Jack H. Abernathy, president. The AAODC, with headquarters in Dallas, is an association of more than 640 contractors who drill 75 per cent of the nation's oil and gas wells.

Can Trade Old Home for New

Trading in an old house on a new one is getting to be an accepted buying procedure according to Alvin P. Pedersen, one of the builders of the Goetz Villa homes in Garden Grove. Many paying on a VA or FHA loan may have a considerable equity built up in their old house, he explains, and this equity can usually be converted into cash to cover the down payment and costs of moving into a new, larger, more suitable home.

The only difficulty in most cases is that the home owner doesn't know how to go about making the exchange. "We have made it easy for them," Pedersen stated. In all cases, if a house qualifies under our home trade-in plan, we feel reasonably certain of making a complete transaction suitable to the present owner within 30 days."

• • • •

THE GOETZ VILLA HOMES that are offered under this trade-in arrangement are among the most completely equipped homes ever presented in this area. For example, even clothes poles and incinerators are included. The kitchens boast of fully built-in ovens and ranges, as well as the garbage disposal, exhaust fan and hood, dishwasher and exceptionally spacious cupboard and cabinet space.

The spacious living rooms are highlighted by huge corner fireplaces with extensive use of brick reaching from hearth to ceilings.

To see the Goetz Villa homes, from Long Beach, drive out to 7th St., turn north on West St. to Lampson Ave., then west to the sales office and model homes.

Job Agencies Elect Bane

The South Coast Chapter of California Employment Agencies recently chose Taylor F. Bane of Caldwell Personnel Agency to head the group for the coming year. Bane is well known as a personnel specialist.

TAYLOR F. BANE

Other officers for 1957 include Robert Cushman, Sierra Employment Agency, vice president; Mrs. Vi Bane, Certified Personnel, secretary-treasurer; Leo Hill, Select Personnel; Mike Payette, Belmont Employment; Blaine Smith, Wes Employment Agency, Norwalk, and Flo Bailey of the Flo Bailey Agency in Compton on the board of directors.

T. F. JOHNSON
To Speak Here Tuesday

FHA Official Realty Speaker

Thomas F. Johnson, assistant commissioner of the Federal Housing Administration, Washington, D. C., will be the speaker at the Board of Realtors breakfast meeting Tuesday in Lafayette Hotel.

Johnson, former economist of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, is in charge of the operations and functions of the various FHA programs and the legislative proposals for changes in the programs.

Verne Morrill, program chairman for the month, arranged for Johnson's appearance.

A trio from Wilson High School will sing Christmas carols. They are Connie Gillette, Marilyn Wright and Kay Donald.

FHA Appraiser Realty Speaker

Morris Leenov, FHA chief appraiser for the Long Beach area, will be the speaker at the North Long Beach Real Estate Club breakfast meeting Thursday morning at Mayo's Cafe at 8 a.m. Josephine Clendening is program chairman.

Will Convene in Palo Alto

Loren H. Evans, president of the Long Beach Assn. of Life Underwriters, will head a large delegation of Long Beach life insurance men at the California State Association of Life Underwriters' Mid-Year Convention this week in Palo Alto.

According to Evans, who represents Manufacturers Life Insurance Co. in Long Beach, 1344 E. 7th St., the meeting will be held Dec. 6, 7 and 8 at Rickey's Studio Inn near Stanford University.

Headlining the list of speakers will be A. Jack Nussbaum, president of the National Association of Life Underwriters.

The meeting will also feature a large display of materials used by the Long Beach professional association and other California associations in their work.

Soft Goods Gains Seen in Big Christmas Buying

NEW YORK — An emphatic resurgence of downtown selling coupled with a strong swing to soft goods sales and an overall increase in retail sales are indicated for Christmas, 1956, in a nationwide survey of department store retailers conducted by the Bureau of Advertising, American Newspaper Assn., through its member newspapers.

The survey included 110 retailers representing 55 key markets in 24 states and two Canadian provinces.

Fully three-quarters of the retailers surveyed expect downtown stores to gain ground this Christmas against outside competition. Ten per cent expect downtown stores to lose ground, while 15 per cent either expressed no opinion or stated they had no such problem.

• • • •

BACKING UP evidence in recent months of a trend back to soft goods selling are the beliefs of 74 per cent of the retailers surveyed who expect a bigger percentage gain in soft goods than hard goods.

When placing their advertising retailers continue to rely on newspapers as their basic medium, survey results show. More than 8 out of 10 retailers interviewed plan to invest 80 per cent or more of their advertising budget in newspapers. Sixty-three per cent will place 90 per cent or more of their ad funds in newspapers, and 15 per cent will allocate the entire Christmas ad budget to newspapers.

IN GARDEN GROVE

Typified is the Midwood-Signature Homes "Special Edition" series shown on Dale St., between Ball Rd. and Cerritos Ave., in Garden Grove. "First Edition" homes are at Magnolia and Cerritos, nearby.

Garden Grove Signature Homes Are Located in Expanding Area

Tremendous growth of the Garden Grove area, as reflected in the rapid building of new churches, schools and shopping centers, is further underscored in increased crowds visiting Signature Homes, outstanding new residential development.

James Waters, sales manager for Midwood-Signature Homes, reported that 20 new churches have been organized in Garden Grove in the past two years and said that 8 new schools are now under construction.

Additionally, he pointed out, 8 new shopping centers are now rising.

"All this activity is indicative of the growing popularity of Garden Grove as a residential area and helps explain why we have thousands of visitors weekly to see our two displays of furnished model homes," he said.

• • • •

ONE DISPLAY is a showing of 4 furnished homes in Signature Homes new "First Edition" series of luxury 3-bedroom and family room or 4-bedroom, 2-bath residences at Magnolia and Cerritos Aves. The "First Edition" homes are priced from $15,800.

The second display exemplifies the "Special Edition" series, companions to the larger homes offered from $11,700. These have 3 bedrooms and 2 baths and are being shown on Dale St., between Ball Rd. and Cerritos Ave., not far from the "First Edition" homes. All of the furnished models are open daily and Sunday from 10 a.m. until 8 p.m.

Vets may buy the smaller homes on terms from $234 down, plus costs and impounds, while vets' down payments are from $316, plus costs and impounds for the larger homes.

FHA terms are offered non-vets on homes in both series, with monthly payments from $52.50 and from $66.42, both principal and interest, applying to the smaller and larger Signature Homes.

Street Name Now Longer

CHICAGO (AP)—Street names are getting longer.

A survey of 971 typical street names has been made to determine what is happening to their street signs and their designs.

Today's average street name has almost seven letters, but the average is held down by such old-time favorites as Oak, King, Queen, Walter, River, High, East, West, North and South.

The higher average is due to the suburbanite's desire for a quaint or exclusive sounding street like Wykihaven, Frost Woods, Briar Cliff, Trestle and Magnolia.

Anaheim Home Fair Takes Cal-Vet Loan

Starting today Anaheim Home Fair Homes have been equipped to take advantage of the new 3 per cent Cal-Vet Loans, it was announced by Tom Keys, sales manager for Walker & Lee, who are handling the sales for this popular Anaheim development.

This financing for California veterans can mean a saving of $25 per month based on rates for normal mortgage financing. "Of course," Keys stated, "FHA financing is available to non-veterans."

Among the many exceptional features found in the Anaheim Home Fair Homes are built-in Western-Holly range and oven, built-in GE dishwasher, built-in GE washer and dryer in color; modern or provincial hardwood cabinets of alderwood, birch or ash, slumpstone or brick fireplaces with paneling, big family rooms with breakfast bar, steel casement windows, oak floors, open beamed ceilings, and custom lighting fixtures with choice of provincial or modern.

Monthly payments to the non-veteran on FHA terms that include principal and interest are only $62.25 per month. Monthly payments on Veteran financing that also include principal and interest are only $78.17.

In cooperation with the United States Marines, Anaheim Home Fair Homes have been designated as an official collection agency in the "Toys for Tots" drive and convenient receptacles have been placed throughout the development so that visitors may place their toys so some needy child will have a Merry Christmas this year.

To reach Anaheim Home Fair Homes from Long Beach drive out Carson (Lincoln in Orange County) to Euclid and turn right to Broadway and model homes.

Sees Million Homes in '57

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Walter H. Dreier, president of the United States Savings and Loan League, predicts that more than a million new homes will be built in 1957.

Dreier made the statement as the executive committee of his organization met to complete plans for the start of the group's annual convention.

The league claims a membership of more than 4,300 savings and loan associations which finance about 40 per cent of American home purchases.

Dreier said that the "worst of the decline in new home building is behind us."

"If during 1957," he said, "there appears to be any chance that the number of new starts will drop below the million mark, I am positive that the national administration and the Congress will act promptly to prevent any such decline." He added:

"The building and sale of new houses in many areas has slowed down for reasons in addition to financing problems. New and existing houses are staying on the market longer, because the demand for housing is not as strong now as it has been in other postwar years."

Imperial Estates Selling Well Ahead of Building

There are three main reasons why the homes in Imperial Estates new unit 16, in Norwalk, are selling faster than they can be completed, explains Frank Chandler of Key Land Co., sales agents for the recently opened large 3-bedroom, and 2-bedroom and den family residences with two baths, built by the D and E. Corp.

"First," said Chandler, "although they are secluded and 'away from it all,' they are only 20 minutes from the Los Angeles Civic Center. Second, the fine quality of their construction can be seen at a glance. And third, the terms on which they are being sold are easy for everyone."

Full price is from $13,100, with low down payments to veterans, plus costs and impounds, and low monthly terms of $60.38, which includes principal and interest.

• • • •

COMBINING THE practicality of traditional design with the best of contemporary design, the sturdy conventional construction of these homes is shown by their fine interior detailing — the genuine lath and plaster walls, acoustical plaster ceilings, oak hardwood floors over raised wooden subflooring, and large sliding glass walls to the spacious patios.

Built-in functionalism and beauty, it is explained, extends into every room in these homes, especially the kitchens with their many handsome ash cabinets, upholstered breakfast buffet, colorful ceramic tile countertops, range hood with fan, semiautomatic dishwasher, and sink-installed disposer. Big separate service porches are also provided for all laundry-day activities.

All lots are being professionally landscaped. Three furnished models showcase the homes. They are reached by Lakewood Blvd., to Rosecrans Ave., with a left turn on Curtis-King Road to the development.

IN IMPERIAL ESTATES

Quality of construction, fine detailing and functional built-ins are stressed in the Imperial Estates' new 16th unit, at Curtis-King Rd. and Rosecrans, in nearby Norwalk. Built by the D & E Corp., the development offers many stylings, including the one shown above.

Reds Giving Farm Medal

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union has announced a new medal — this time for "virgin land development."

Inaugurated to spur one of Communist leader Nikita Khrushchev's pet projects, the medal will go to collective farmers, workers on state farms, machine tractor stations, and trade union functionaries for outstanding work in developing virgin or long fallow land in such areas as Kazakhstan, Siberia, the Volgabasin, and the northern Caucasuses.

Crossroads Village Homes on Sale Near Santa Ana

Crossroads Village, a collection of California contemporary homes, opens a new unit for sale today in the southern suburbs of Santa Ana, Marvin Stiller, sales manager, announced.

Minutes from El Toro as well as the beach cities, the new homes have been priced from $12,975 to $13,235 for 3 and 4 bedrooms, den or family room, 2 baths and numerous built-in conveniences.

Designed by Cliff Olsten, the new Crossroads Village homes are all built on large lots with a maximum of glass walls and specious interiors.

KITCHENS FEATURE built-in ranges and wall-oven, garbage disposer, range hoods, birch cabinets and Formica-topped drainboards. Living rooms have sliding glass doors and giant Texas sandstone fireplaces. Bathrooms utilize chrome accessories, Coralite tile, glass showers. Bedrooms have deep walk-in wardrobes. All homes are heated by forced air with thermostatic control reaching to every room.

For vets, monthly payments run as low as $65.79, including principal and interest. Homes in the area are already occupied, with schools, churches and shopping centers nearby. Downtown Santa Ana is less than two minutes away.

To visit Crossroads Village from the Beach cities, drive Coast Hwy. 101 to Newport Beach, out Newport Blvd. to Delhi. From El Toro, take Inland Hwy. 101 north to Newport Blvd., then left to Delhi and right to furnished models.

Builder of Crossroads Village is the well-known Godbey Development Co., with headquarters in the area.

A PARK 7 HOME

Sales of $650,000 of Park 7 "Traditional Series" homes, such as the model pictured above, have been made in less than 4 weeks, sales agents reported. The new Park 7 Homes are located 11 minutes from the heart of Long Beach, via E. 7th St.

New Park 7 Series Selling Fast

An appreciative public has purchased $650,000 worth of the new, Park 7 "Traditional Series" homes in less than 4 weeks, Don Coleman, sales agent, reported.

Coleman said he had "never seen anything like" the public enthusiasm for the new 3-bedroom homes which were recently opened to the public.

Designed by Architects Carlson and Middlebrook, the "Traditional Series" homes are a sharp departure from the celebrated Park 7 "modern classics." They feature towering cedar shake roofs and sparkling diamond - lite windows. Rough used brick and wide use of wood paneling are prominent on the gabled exteriors. Eaves are wide and sun-sheltering.

• • • •

LOCATED exactly 11 minutes from downtown Long Beach, the new Park 7 homes are priced from $15,475, complete. They are available both to veterans and non-vets on low VA and FHA terms. Monthly payments are as low as $79.70.

Within the new homes, living rooms are built around fireplaces of used brick or slumpstone, with wide, raised hearths, each containing a fireplace log lighter.

Typical of the attention to detail in the new Traditional Series are such items as silent mercury switches throughout, and unique folding mahogany closet doors which make possible immediate access to all parts of the closet.

• • • •

IN THE SUN-LIT Park 7 kitchens are built-in oven and range in color, garbage disposer, kitchen exhaust fan and durable ceramic tile.

Among many construction "firsts" in the new homes is the new 2-4-1 sub-floor construction designed by the Douglas Fir Plywood Assn. This method insures absolutely level floors and eliminates the shrinking and settling common to new homes.

To visit the new development, take 7th St. straight east from the heart of Long Beach to the big Park 7 signs.

Large Crowds, Sales Soaring in Midwood-Signature Estates

Heavy sales and increased crowds greeted the opening of two furnished model homes at Midwood-Signature Estates in Fullerton Sunny Hills area, it was reported yesterday by Sales Manager James H. Walters.

Walters said the long Thanksgiving weekend was the start of one of the best weeks in the history of Signature Estates.

Complete with furnishings by Lloyd's of Long Beach, the new display of model residences is located on Highland Ave., just east of Richman Ave., and is reached from Los Angeles by following the Santa Ana Freeway to Commonwealth Ave. which is followed to Richman Ave., where a north turn leads to Highland Ave. and the new dwellings.

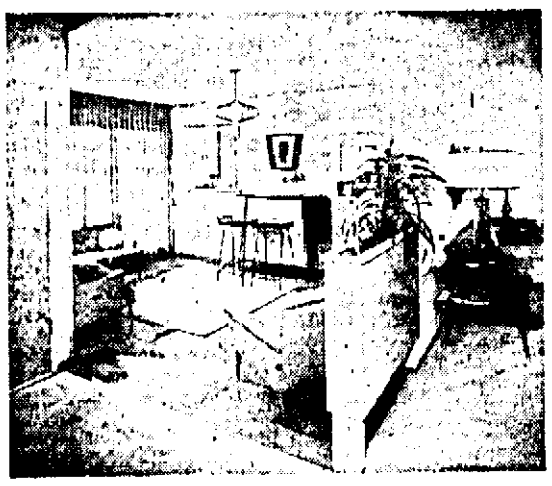

"All Signature Estates homes have two attractive baths and buyers are given their choice between 4-bedroom floor plans and plans with 3 bedrooms and an ideally arranged family room," Walter said, pointing out that the development offers the widest selection of architectural stylings.

• • • •

ESPECIALLY POPULAR, he noted, is the inclusion of all-electric kitchens, complete with such conveniences as wall-hung refrigerators and freezers, built-in ranges and ovens, automatic dishwashers, automatic washers and dryers.

Offered in a wide choice of colors, including turquoise green, woodtone brown, petal pink and canary yellow, the appliances are a "no cost extra" in the homes which are priced from $22,900.

Terms for vets are from $460 down, plus costs and impounds. Non-vets pay low FHA down payments and from $91.81 monthly, principal and interest.

IN SUNNY HILLS

New Midwood-Signature Estates homes, as typified above, are now being shown on Highland Ave, just east of Richman Ave., in the Sunny Hills region of Fullerton. Four-bedroom and three-bedroom with family room plans, all with two baths, are offered.

Joins Prudential

George V. Fenton, 3774 Concuista Ave., has been appointed agent for the Prudential Insurance Co. in the Long Beach district agency, it was announced yesterday by Robert B. Turner, manager.

Cunningham Newest Unit Selling Fast

Cunningham Co. surpasses it's reputation for top construction and fine features in their latest development, Stratford Homes of Anaheim, reports Charlie Sanders, sales manager, who has been associated with the construction company's developments 8 years. The Broadway Euclid Series of 3 and 4-bedroom, 2-bath dwellings are really being purchased by home-seekers who value the ideal location as well as the construction qualities of the homes, said Sanders. Many of the buyers, he reveals, are second-home-buyers who are using their equities to finance the down payments on Stratford Homes.

Rare hardwood sakar cabinetry highlights the kitchens, which have an abundance of cupboard space, gas or electric built-in oven and range, ventilating hood and fan, garbage disposal, dining areas, formica counter tops and built-in clocks and door chimes.

• • • •

PANELED FIREPLACE walls —many with built-in bookcases —built-in dressing tables in some models, luxury-size bathroom mirrors, dust-free slab doors and lustrous oak floors with 2-inch tongue and groove subfloors are features.

Formica sink tops in both baths, Pullman lavatories, and a stall shower in the master bedroom bath, sliding glass doors, patios, service porches, storage room and hobby space in the oversize garages, sidewalks and street lights installed are more of the qualities.

Priced from $15,750, Stratford Homes are available on both VA and FHA financing. Models are reached from Long Beach, by driving out Carson St. and turning right on Euclid Ave. to Broadway.

Harbor Park Estates Are Selling Fast

Spurred by the wishes of new owners to be completely settled in their homes by the holiday season, Harbor Park Estates sales show an advance expected to remain steady, reports a spokesman for the development of 3 and 4-bedroom, 2-bath homes. In addition to the immediate possession of the homes, the ideal Garden Grove location and the many top quality features are more sales incentives.

Both veterans and non-veterans are buying the homes which have the expensive features associated with homes costing much more, salesmen say. Among the many qualities are 2-car garages, plastered interiors, built-in Roper range and oven, select hardwood flooring and disposal units.

With the industrial areas of Santa Ana, Long Beach and Los Angeles all within short commuting distance, the subdivision also enjoys the proximity of famous Southland recreational areas including Disneyland, beaches, golf courses, parks and resorts.

New shopping centers, fine schools and churches, community activities are also within easy access of the homes. Non-veterans pay only $900 down, while veterans are buying Harbor Park Estates by paying impounds only to move in.

Visitors drive out Garden Grove Blvd. (7th St.) to Hwy. 39, turn north to Chapman Ave., and continue past Harbor Blvd. to the models.

Buyers Given Occupancy in Brief Period

Buyers of Chapman Woods homes in Garden Grove may still take possession of their new dwellings in time to observe the holiday season completely settled. This was announced by a spokesman for the 3 and 4-bedroom, 2-bath dwellings who said the homes have special appeal for families who have outgrown their homes and need the spaciousness offered by Chapman Woods homes at a moderate cost.

Living rooms with sliding "Horizon" window walls, bathrooms with Pullman lavatories, colored fixtures and tiled stall showers, central hall planning, backyard incinerators, Royal Jet forced air heat with summer ventilation, insulation, weatherstripping, raised foundations with oak flooring and Telejack-TV outlets are some of the features that, in spite of the low price, present luxury living in a preferred location.

Kitchens have birch cabinetry, Armstrong linoleum and disposal units.

Priced from $13,850 to $14,650, Chapman Woods homes are being purchased for only $95 cash required. Visitors drive out Garden Grove Blvd. (7th St.) to Hwy. 39, turn north to Chapman Ave. and east to 9th St.

GOETZ VILLA

From Long Beach: drive east on 7th St., 1200 block (Garden Grove Blvd.) to West St. then north to Lampson and west to Goetz Ville.

PRICED FROM $16,400

This is one of the models of the big Holiday Park homes, priced from $16,400, which are finding a ready market among growing families desiring spaciousness, the developers report.

Big Holiday Park Homes Appeal to Growing Family

With 3 large bedrooms, an all-purpose room and 2 baths, Holiday Park homes of Garden Grove appeal strongly to families who want the spaciousness of a well-constructed home and a large, tree-studded lot, reports a spokesman for Walker and Lee, Inc., sales agents.

The recent announcement of VA financing in addition to the FHA financing has spurred sales in the subdivision, it was noted. A Davies, Keusder & Brown, Inc., development, Holiday Park homes are available in Provincial or Contemporary architectural treatments, with heavy shake or rock roofs and color coordinated exteriors.

• • • •

KITCHENS ARE EQUIPPED with built-in Gaffers and Sattler ovens and ranges, rotisseries, fully automatic Waste King dishwashers, food puverators, Stanthony vent hoods and breakfast seats or dining peninsulas.

Fireplaces, in a variety of treatments, are complemented by the generous use of masonry.

A brick wall, with fireplace centered and raised to present a strong focal point, is popular with buyers who also praise the free-standing fireplace backed with indoor barbecue and the raised hearth with seating or decorating space of brick on either side.

Sliding glass walls, concrete patio, wide, 4-foot hallways, open beam ceilings in some models, large, sliding door wardrobes, electric heaters in both baths, Pullman lavatory, oversize stall shower, glass-enclosed tub and shower, roof and ceiling insulation, forced air heat with summer vent switch and intercom system wiring are more of the qualities.

PRICED FROM $16,400, Holiday Park homes are available to non-veterans for from $2900 down. Veterans with monthly salaries from $550 may qualify for VA financing.

Furnished models, open daily and Sundays at West St. and Chapman Ave., one mile south of Disneyland Hotel, are easily reached from Los Angeles by driving out Santa Ana Freeway to Harbor Blvd., south to Katella, and west on Katella to West St., south to the model homes. From Long Beach, visitors drive out 7th St. (Garden Grove Blvd.) to Hwy. 39, turn left, (north) to Chapman and east on Chapman to West St., north to the homes.

Such a multitude of features is not usually found in a home in the low price range of "Hi-Way '39' Plaza." Located on Huntington Beach Blvd., just 5 miles from Huntington Beach, the new homes, between Bolsa and Sugar Ave. are adjacent to fine shopping areas and excellent schools.

Only $95 Needed by Non-Vets

Down payments for non-veterans of only $95 with no costs, no impounds, is attracting many home buyers to the big 3 or 4-bedroom, 2-bath homes in Ellanbee Manor, states Frank H. McFarland, sales agent for the Laramore Construction Co. development in West Orange County.

Much larger than the average home of its price ($11,250 to $11,850) Ellanbee Manor features over 1,300 square feet of living area set on extra wide lots in a fine residential neighborhood.

The homes feature wide picture windows in the living and dining areas and French doors to the patio spaces make indoor-outdoor living a reality while remaining in keeping with the provincial styling.

• • • •

FINDING THAT most families with growing children not only want, but actually do need more than one bath, the floor plans include a bath and a half or two full baths in all cases. The extra breakfast areas adjacent to the kitchen and separate from the dining rooms also appeal to large families.

To see these homes, drive out the Santa Ana Freeway to Harbor, then south past Disneyland to Westminster Blvd. Turn south past Disneyland to Westminster Blvd. Turn west to Newhope and south again to the Ellanbee Manor sales office. From downtown Long Beach, drive east on 7th St., which becomes Garden Grove Blvd. Continue to Harbor Blvd., then south to Westminster, west to Newhope and south to the open model homes.

Only 20 Hi-way '39' Homes Left to Sell

A complete sell-out of all remaining homes in Hi-Way "39" Plaza is predicted by Gilbert J. Hayes, sales agent. Only 20 of these distinctive "California Living" styled homes remain.

Contributing to the development's success is the value offered in these spacious 3-bedroom homes, as well as quality of construction, both interior and exterior.

"Publicity about relaxing credit restrictions has sent more people out house hunting," Gilbert J. Hayes said. "Although our term structure already is the most liberal possible, we have benefitted by recent news stories about the government lowering of down payment levels."

Hi-Way "39" Plaza homes require an initial payment of only $50 for veterans to move into the custom-styled homes. Monthly payments for vets, covering all charges, range from $73 to $77. Income requirements range from $325 to $350 gross per month.

• • • •

HI-WAY "39" PLAZA homes have been in great demand, Hayes said, because they meet all the buyers' demands for basic soundness as well as outstanding architectural beauty. In addition to hardwood floors, genuine lath and plaster and raised foundations, the Plaza homes boast such features as garbage disposals, weather-stripped doors, generous size closets and wardrobes, spacious room arrangements, liberal use of ceramic tile, and stall showers.

Road History Does Repeat

CHARLEMONT, Mass. (UP)—The first anti-turnpike organization in America was founded here just 150 years ago.

It was dedicated to the elimination of the ancient turnpike system of toll roads. Twenty-seven years later the Massachusetts legislature finally voted the turnpike out.

In November Massachusetts opens its new $239,000,000 East-West Turnpike. Incidentally, it will be a toll road.

PAINTERS DONATE SERVICES

Painters and decorators from the Harbor Chapter of local Union 256 gave up their day off to do a complete paint job on the North Long Beach YMCA at 6095 California Ave. More than 40 painters finished the project in less than five hours. Not only was all of the labor donated but the Whitley Paint Stores with an assist by the Olympic Paint Co. furnished all of the paint and material for the job. This is the second time in six years this job has been done by joint effort of this local and Whitley Paint Stores.

VISITED AUCA LAND

Adventurer's Home With Head (His Own)

By ROB SWANSON

Armand (Bolder) Landry, 41-year-old adventurer, anthropologist, photographer, lecturer and former Long Beach resident, is home from a reconnaisance trip through Auca Indian territory in the Ecuador jungle—with his head still on his shoulders.

The Aucas butchered five American missionaries there a year ago and Landry couldn't help consider the possibility that he might not only be killed but his head removed and shrunken.

During two months in the jungle, however, Landry and his party—a guide named Tarzan and four Indians—didn't see a single one of the dreaded Aucas. However, the adventurer spotted through a spyglass a scantily attired Indian woman and a baby who might have been members of the fierce tribe.

• • • •

THERE WAS another near contact.

"We ran across a freshly abandoned camp of Aucas one morning and picked up spears and a number of artifacts," Landry said. "Apparently we must have outnumbered them and they fled."

For five days in the jungle, the party would have been helpless against attack because their river boat collapsed, plunging guns, cameras, camping equipment and canned food into the water.

Landry, who resided here at 2131 Jay Mill St., in 1952 and 1953 and who now lives in Los Angeles, said the reconnaisance probe into the jungle provided many valuable lessons on equipment and procedures.

He plans a "final penetration" into the jungle early in 1957, remaining there for about a year.

Among the items that will be needed will be a flat-bottom metal boat with outboard motor, small airplane, camping equipment, 16-millimeter camera, tape recorder, guns, food.

He hopes to obtain many of these necessaries through contributions and from lecturing fees.

• • • •

A FORMER professional rodeo cowboy, Landry was accompanied as far as Quito, Ecuador, by Elly Hecksher, photographer and independent motion picture producer.

Landry piloted a jeep loaded with nearly a ton of equipment and foodstuffs down the Pan-American Hwy. as far as San Jose, Costa Rica, where the expedition waited for 77 days for a Grace Lines steamer to pick them up for the final journey to Ecuador.

ARMAND LANDRY
Displays Auca Spear

The planned return trip to the jungle next year has the double purpose of scientific investigation and "pacification" of the Aucas, Landry said. In this, he added, he has the approval of the Ecuadorian government.

Meanwhile, he plans to write books and also to publish some kind of "jungle news" magazine to report on the progress of preparations for the expedition.

Equipment is needed for this project, too, including a typewriter and mimeograph machine, Landry reports.

HALE, HEARTY

Woman Over 101 Insured

PUEBLO Colo. (AP)—A Chicago firm is willing to insure the health of Mrs. Pauline Sandoval, who's 101 or older.

The sprightly Pueblo woman said Saturday the firm (Continental Insurance Co.) has accepted her application for hospitalization insurance.

Mrs. Sandoval started wearing glasses only a year ago and said she has been in a hospital only once. That was for a kidney ailment 16 years ago.

Catholic church records at Walsenburg, Colo., show she was a parish member in 1855 but her exact age is uncertain. Mrs. Sandoval's birth certificate was destroyed by fire.

It Happened Last Night

By Earl Wilson

TWINKLING STAR

NEW YORK — Edith Adams had come up through television and the swank saloons to the star's dressing room in a Broadway hit.

Her cigar-smoking, mustache-tweaking, TV-star husband, Ernie Kovacs, was helping her fit up the dressing room when he announced:

"There's one thing the room lacks."

EDITH ADAMS

Removing a half-smoked cigar from his mouth, he placed it on the edge of the dresser, where it perhaps remains even now.

"You're right, that's better!" Edie said, hugging him.

There've been some changes made at the St. James since these TV folks came along and went into "Li'l Abner." Edie started furnishing her dressing room before the opening night—which is supposed to be bad luck in the theater.

Nor does Edie say, as many actresses might, that she has now achieved the very heights of her ambition in the role of "Daisy Mae."

Instead she looks at Ernie and asks, "Next time, huh?"

"Next time, Baby," he says.

• • • •

SHE MEANS that next time she'll truly be the star — her name billed over the title. Now it's billed under the title, but she does have the star's dressing room. And Roz Russell, with whom she appeared in "Wonderful Town," recently reminded her, "I told you that in three years you would have your own show. And it's only two-and-one-half!"

Ernie spoofs the star's dressing room bit.

"In television we gag it," he says. "On the star's dressing room we usually put up a sign saying 'Men's room' or something."

Blond Edie, who's from Wilkes-Barre, Grove City, Pa., and various New Jersey points, has been in TV probably longer than Ernie — starting away back when she was "Miss U. S. Television" — and by now is accustomed to most of that industry's foibles . . . and her husband's.

• • • •

WIFE-LIKE, she totes a dozen or 15 cigars for him when they travel.

"One night a perfume stopper came out," she says, "spilling perfume all over my bag."

"Have you ever tried to smoke a perfumed cigar?" asked Ernie, still indignant.

Into the dressing room Ernie brought, one night, an Elvis Presley handkerchief he'd purchased for Edie in a Times Sq. store.

"Just as I was buying it," he said, "a woman came up for my autograph. She said 'You are — — —,' and I nodded. Then she saw what I was doing, and hesitated. I suspect that she wasn't sure she wanted my autograph after that."

Busy as he is with his own NBC chores, Ernie must watch his wife's health, too. Visiting her out-of-town before the show got to New York, he got worried.

"Her ribs were sticking out . . . there was no chest whatever," he told me with a worried look.

"I put her on a diet to make her gain weight.

"I made her eat cakes, desserts, ice cream. I gained seven pounds!"

Edie was on Jack Paar's TV show, also on Stork Club, as well as her husband's own partner when he did a forenoon show . . . and it was while she was on Ed Sullivan's show doing a Marilyn Monroe impersonation that some of the producers saw her possibilities as a Daisy Mae.

"Before she got so skinny," says Ernie, "Edie had such a great figure — even I used to like to look at it."

SCREEN COMEBACK

Jane Withers, after a nine-year absence from the screen, returns to co-star in Edna Ferber's novel, "Giant," for Warner Bros. Here, as Vashti, Miss Withers enacts a scene with Robert Nichols, who portrays her husband, Pinky.

Ann Blyth May Get Helen Morgan Role

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Ann Blyth is a surprising front runner in the choice to play Helen Morgan on the screen.

Director Mike Curtiz so far has auditioned hundreds of actresses, many of them unknowns, for the role of the wistful singer who skyrocketed to fame with her singing of "My Bill" in Ziegfeld's original "Show Boat."

"So far," says Curtiz, "Ann has made the best test. I'd sign her tomorrow if (producer) Jack Warner approves."

Ann, long known as Hollywood's "little lady," scored heavily in a test scene wherein she performed a hootchy-kooch dance.

"I didn't want to test Ann," said Mike, "because she is the symbol of sweetness but she begged so hard, I gave in. I directed Ann in 'Mildred Pierce' and should have known what a great actress she is."

• • • •

Mike says the ideal personality and physique of Helen Morgan would be an Ava Gardner with the talent of Audrey Hepburn.

Another hot possibility for the role is Julie London, the modern singer who most sounds like Helen.

"She made a wonderful dramatic test," reports Mike, Mike, in the midst of the biggest search since Scarlett O'Hara, says casting is the biggest headache in Hollywood today.

ANN BLYTH
Leads in Tests for Part

Exhibitors want big names and the few big names know it.

"As soon as a star becomes a big name, he asks 50 per cent, even 75 per cent of a picture. At that rate, we couldn't even afford a piano for Helen Morgan to sit on. I've looked at hundreds of unknowns but finding one good enough for this role is like striking oil."

Public Notice to People From Other States

Preferably the South, Southwest and Midwest who really know, like and appreciate "REAL" pit, hickory-smoked barbecue. No frills, no fancy decorations or high prices. We are writing about the Pit Barbecue at 2120 E. Anaheim where you can get a really good beef or pork sandwich for 43c or an over liberal plate of chicken, spareribs, beef or pork with country cole slaw and barbecue beans for $1.25.

The owner, a transplanted Texan, says he started this because he individually likes good barbecue and couldn't find it. Why don't all of you authorities on the subject go out and try his? Maybe you can prove a Texan wrong.

He has take-out service and plenty of tables inside and out. He is open from 11 a.m. to 3 a.m. every day. Closed Mondays. You might even meet a friend at the Pit Barbecue.

Buyers Take Most Accessories

By LEE LINDBERG

DETROIT (CP) - The desires of American motorists have changed radically from the days following World War II when many buyers complained about dealers forcing useless accessories on them.

Today, with new cars in abundance, buyers often ask for just about everything in the book.

Heaters and radios in recent years have been so popular that they almost were considered "standard" equipment. But since the war, there has been a steady upswing in the popularity of other extra cost items — automatic transmissions, windshield washers, turn indicators, back-up lights, power features and the like.

A three-year study just completed by Dodge shows that the trend for more and more gadgets is expected to continue.

• • • •

"SAFETY, COMFORT and convenience are fast becoming as important to today's automobile customer as are design and performance," said Lee F. Desmond, Dodge vice president in charge of sales.

Heaters, now ordered on nearly 98 per cent of 1957 Dodge cars, still are the most popular extra cost items.

Spurting into a close second are automatic transmissions. The Dodge story showed that Torqueflite and Powerflight were ordered on more than 95 per cent of its new models.

Automatic transmissions have become so popular that some General Motors, Ford and Chrysler divisions have done away with the standard gear shift altogether.

• • • •

THE DODGE survey showed that orders for power brakes have increased from 13 per cent in 1955 to nearly 22 per cent on its current models, while power steering now is being installed on one-thing of its new cars.

The only optional item offered by the company which hasn't convertibles.

shown an increase in popularity is tinted window glass.

In styling, more and more motorists are going in for hardtop

WORLD OF WHEELS

Chief of Ford Edsel Division Optimistic

By ART STEPHAN
Independent, Press-Telegram Auto Editor

A prediction that many new car buyers who helped make 1955 the all-time record auto sales year will come back into the market for 1957 models was made by J. C. (Larry) Doyle, general sales and marketing manager of the newly named Edsel Division of Ford Motor Co.

In a luncheon address before a group of bankers and finance men in Los Angeles, Doyle estimated the 1957 new car market at more than 6,000,000 units. He also revealed some hitherto unknown facts about the 1955 record year when 7,170,000 new cars were registered.

The 1955 market was not "borrowing from tomorrow" as so many people have tried to prove, Doyle said. "Instead it revealed a new depth to the market and saw new car ownership begin to approximate a level more consistent with the size of our population and its vast buying power.

"Studies have shown," he said, "that new car buyers of the current year come principally from people who did not buy a car the previous year.

• • • •

"THE 1955 installment buyers are liquidating their obligations in an orderly manner and many will be able to enter the new car market again in 1957," Doyle said. "This does not necessarily mean that all who can buy will buy, but they represent a vast source of prospects and many can be converted to new car buyers during 1957."

Ford Motor Co. spent considerable time and money ascertaining why the 1955 market was such a surprisingly large one, Doyle said. Three important facts were discovered:

1. One third of the new car buyers of 1955, or approximately 2,500,000 people, previously had been used car purchasers.

2. Almost 60 per cent of the cars sold were in a price range that started with top models of the low price field and went up through the medium price field.

3. This upgrading was not confined to the automobile industry because the new and rapidly expanding middle income group represents a substantial and reliable element in our economy.

During the past five years, Doyle said, families with an annual income of $5,000 or more have increased from 23 per cent of our population to 41 per cent. Our people feel that by 1965 more than 50 per cent of all American families will be in this bracket.

Clea was sales manager for Storey-Ricketts Hudson agency a few years back. He has with him another man long on experience in the auto field — Jack Whiteside. Jack has been with Clea the past 6 years, having been in the auto business since 1917.

Ray Chapman, well - known Auto Row salesman, mainly for Pontiac and Chevrolet, now is on the showroom floor at J. P. Lamerdin Pontiac in Compton. Other local men on the staff of this dealership include Duke Hazlett and Ace Archibald.

OLDS SPONSORS IOWANS—Of special interest to local residents whose family roots are intertwined with the tall corn of Iowa is the announcement that the State University of Iowa's marching band and its famous Scottish Highlanders will make their first appearance in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena on Jan. 1.

The 115-piece band and the Highlanders, composed of 75 Iowa co-eds, will take the trip to Pasadena under the sponsorship of the Oldsmobile Division of General Motors, according to Jack Wolfram, general manager of Oldsmobile and vice president of GM.

Jaguar Credited With Making Sports Cars Popular Over U. S.

By PAUL WALLACE

After briefly describing the MG in a recent column, the next logical step in any discussion of popular sports cars is the Jaguar.

If the MG introduced sports cars to postwar America, the Jaguar popularized them.

The original XK-120 sports roadster was built in 1948 as a show model. It was equipped with a new double overhead-camshaft engine which closely followed racing car principals.

With the sleek, streamlined body that now, eight years later, is still much admired, the car was an immediate sensation.

• • • •

INFLUENCED BY the public acclamation, Jaguar Cars, Ltd., set aside plans for a new sedan and began tooling for production of the roadster whose performance was more than equal to its appearance.

The first XK-120 engine developed 160 horsepower. The same 3½ (210 cubic inch) power plant today has been hopped-up to develop 220 horsepower in the C-modified model.

The original XK's offered style and performance formerly available only in high-priced custom machinery of the Ferrari class.

The Jaguar was then and still is the standard of comparison among sports cars.

• • • •

ITS BASIC BODY LINES, which already are considered classic, have remained unchanged and rival in functional beauty anything that has come along since.

The car now comes in convertible (with roll-up windows and padded top) and hardtop coupe models as well as the popular roadster (and two sedans which utilize the XK engine).

The sports models with the C-modified engine which gets the car to 60 mph in 8.4 seconds delivers locally for upwards of $4,000 depending upon equipment.

• • • •

THE POTENT JAG is a good choice for the driver who wants plenty of urge. It is among the larger and heavier imported sports machines.

Not a light-feeling car to drive around town, it is at its best on the open road. Its handling qualities are excellent and it is one of the easier sports machines for the novice to control through hard corners and at high speed.

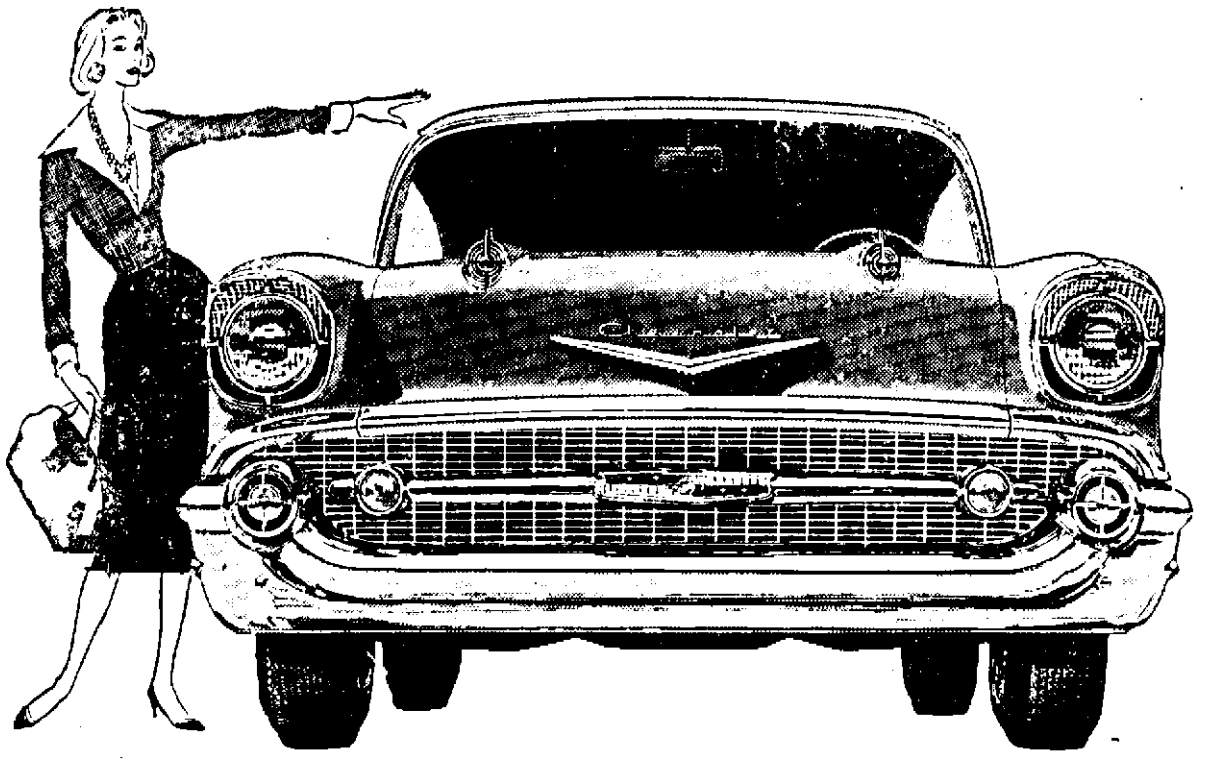

The XK models of our experience incline to be somewhat sensitive about holding a tune and they are not easy on gasoline and oil.

But Jaguar remains a very fast, luxuriously finished and ruggedly built car and an outstanding auto anyplace it goes.

RETIRED EMPLOYES

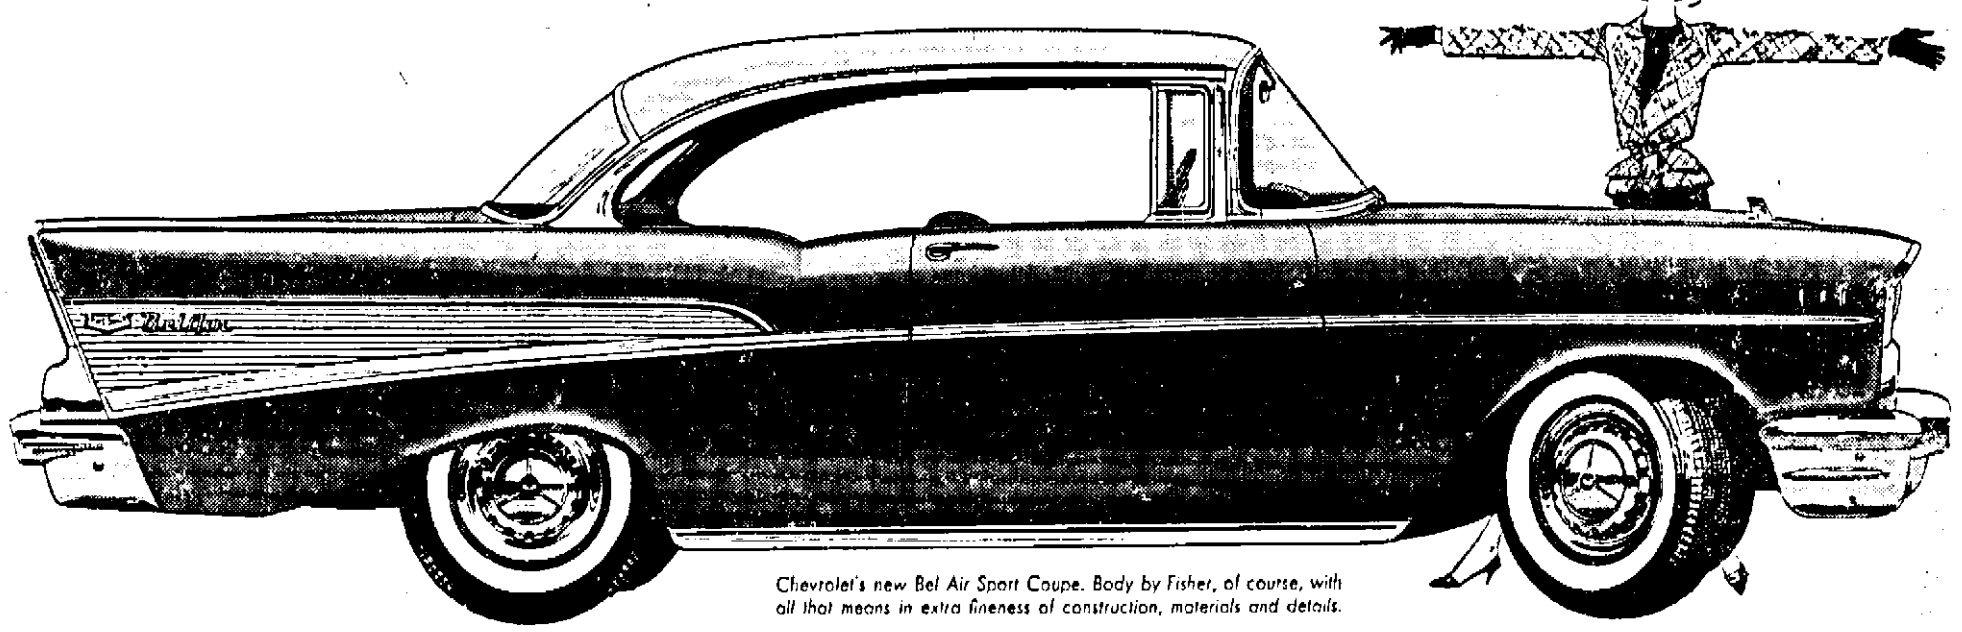

Members of the National Assn. of Retired Civil (Federal) Employes, Chapter 21, will meet 1:30 p.m. Wednesday in Mottell's & Peck Garden Room, 930 E. 3rd St.

See the '57 Chevrolet now on display. It's sweet, smooth and sassy!

Chevy's lower and longer... and every inch a beauty!

Chevrolet's new Bel Air Sport Coupe. Body by Fisher, of course, with all that means in extra fineness of construction, materials and details.

Sure it's longer and lower. And lovelier, with the smartest, smoothest design anybody's come up with for '57. And livelier, with new power (even fuel injection!) plus Turboglide automatic drive—the first and only triple-turbine transmission.

The handsomest profile on the highway belongs to the '57 Chevy! It's clean-lined, close to the road. Looks longer and lower—and it is! Here the bright new ideas begin, and they go on and on, inside and out.

Things you'll especially like: A colorful choice of 20 new models. Remarkable pep and handling ease. A superb six. New V8 horsepower options that range up to 245.* And a choice of two automatic drives as extra-cost options. There's famous, frisky Powerglide. Or Turboglide, Chevy's new automatic that brings you triple-turbine takeoff and the smoothest going yet.

You may find it hard to put your finger on the thing you like best about this sassy new Chevy. Could be its happy feeling of lively, easy-going fun. Or the pure satisfaction of driving a car that's so agile and responsive. And so new and daring in design! Could be any or all of those things—all good reasons to stop by and pick out your favorite among the 20 new Chevrolet models.

N.Y. Show to Shelve Motorama

By DAVID J. WILKIE

DETROIT (AP) — Theoretically "dream" cars will be banned at the National Automobile Show opening in New York's new coliseum Dec. 8, but—

There will be a lot of cars whose engineering and styling weren't even dreamed about a few years ago. The cars on display at the $10 million revival of the manufacturer-sponsored auto show will qualify as "production" models, but as one industry show representative put it, many of them will be "jazzed up" to the limit.

There will be several models that would cost you $10,000 before you could get title to it; there will be the last word in huge trucks, all-aluminum coaches and other vehicles and a couple of hundred exhibits of products related to motor vehicle production.

There will be cutaway exhibits of engines, transmissions, brake systems, power-operated accessories and extra emphasis on the efforts the industry is putting forth to make motoring safer.

• • • •

THE SHOW ITSELF is the first to be sponsored wholly by the auto makers since 1940. It will run from Dec. 8 through Dec. 16. Revival of the show this year temporarily has shelved General Motors' Annual Motorama.

Several cars new to the production lines will have their initial public presentation at the show. Chrysler has a brand new model in what it calls its "300 series." It is called the "300-C," has an engine developing 375 horsepower with two four-barrel carburetors, dual headlights, a cockpit type interior, and high-swept tail fins said to reduce steering corrections in cross-winds by 20 per cent.

Chrysler reports it has been driven at an average of 145.7 miles an hour over its 4.7 mile oval test track.

• • • •

FORD WILL SHOW its new retractable all-steel hardtop model scheduled to go into production in January. The Mercury Division will show its newest creation, the Turnpike Cruiser, which was in the "dream" car category only a year ago. Styling and engineering details still are being withheld.

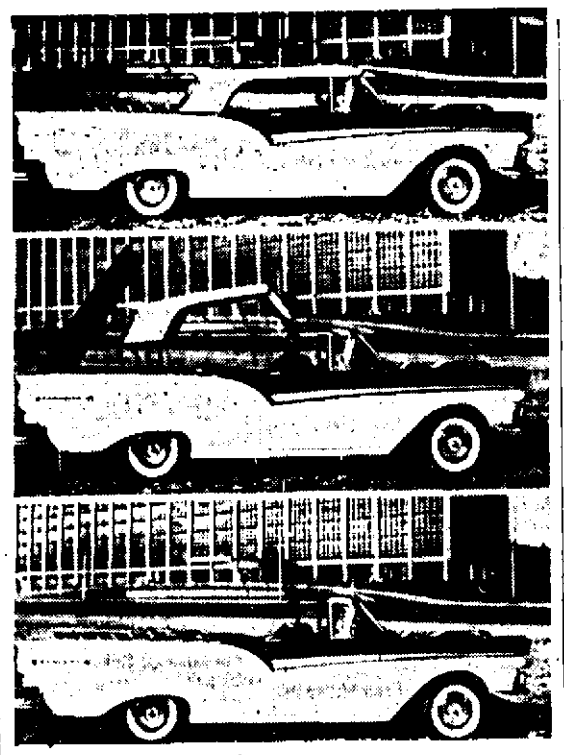

Each General Motors division will have full line exhibits. The Chevrolet exhibit will include the 36 millionth passenger car to be built by the division, and a Corvette sports model equipped with a fuel injection system instead of the conventional carburetor.

A cutaway display of the fuel injector designed to demonstrate how it operates also will be part of the Chevrolet display. A price tag of $485 for the injection system was disclosed only last week.

Cadillac again will show its super prestige model, the Eldorado brougham, with many styling and design changes since its first presentation at the GM Motorama. Designed for limited production, it boasts many features that were in the "dream" area a few years ago.

Also scheduled for first public showing next Saturday is the 1957 Packard. Packard finished its 1956 model run late last June. Its planning for 1957 was clouded in uncertainty until Studebaker-Packard Corp. announced a few weeks ago that defite production schedules had been drafted.

Current plans are to introduce the 1957 Packard at dealerships in January.

HARD TOP TUCKS AWAY

Ford Motor Co. is showing this truly convertible hard top convertible. With the top up it resembles a standard hard top but when the steel roof and rear window swing on hinges the top can be packed away in the trunk. Ford Plants Set Record for Output

Ford Division, for the first time in its history, built more than 8,500 cars and trucks in a single day to set two new production records, it was announced Saturday. Total value of the day's production is close to $20 million.

R. S. McNamara, Ford Motor Co. vice president and Ford Division general manager, said the plants were operating at near-maximum overtime to meet an unequalled demand for new 1957 Fords.

As soon as Wednesday's total production was tabulated, Henry Ford II, company president, sent telegrams to the employes and managers of each plant congratulating them for their "continuing all-out effort to produce not only the quantity of new Ford cars needed to meet the unprecedented demand, but also the quality demanded by our customers."

• • • •

McNamara said Wednesday's total production was 8,542 units, breaking a record that had stood for more than a year.

Passenger car production alone was 7,370 units, 454 units above the previous record that had been set on Tuesday when 6,916 units were built. The record broken Tuesday also had stood for more than a year.

Ever since introduction of the new 1957 Ford on October 3, the division's 15-car assembly plants have been working on heavy overtime schedules, now up to 35 per cent, to meet customer demand. McNamara said demand for the cars has outdistanced even the most optimistic expectations of the division and its dealers.

Australia's Fast Growth Bringing Costly Inflation

SYDNEY (AP) — Inflation has hit Australia with the wallop of a kangaroo kick right where it hurts the most — in the pocketbook.

Bank economists list present living costs at 130 per cent higher than in 1945, compared to a 75 per cent increase in Britain and a 50 per cent raise in the United States.

The average Aussie knows little and cares less about bankers and their adding machine statistics, but the spectre of inflation now shadows him through all his waking hours.

Any attempt to get by on his 1950 budget would change living in Australia today to a mere existence. The average "bloke" or wage-earner would only be able to half fill his morning tub because of increased gas and electricity rates.

The cost of the traditional steak-and-eggs Australian breakfast would leave him with just the eggs and some onions on the plate, at today's prices. Today's Australian can ride only one mile on the buses, streetcars and electric trains for the money that formerly carried him two and three miles.

• • • •

THIS CREEPING inflation, with its ever-rising cost of living, is the price Australia pays for national growth.

Australia now has 25 per cent more people than it had at the end of World War II. This means larger physical output in both primary and secondary industries. Never before has there been as much money and labor spent on public works, factory building and new industries. There has been greater capital investment on the nation's farms and sheep stations — in machinery, buildings and pasture, plant and livestock improvement.

All the same, this better "national" picture leaves the wage earners unimpressed. Their salaries creep up with "basic wage" hikes, but never catch up with the heavier expenses involved in the mechanics of living.

Australia took its worst inflation jump in 1951 — when the Korean War shot wool prices to record highs. With too much money around, the cost of living jumped to 70 per cent above the 1945 figure. At that time Britons were tightening their austerity belts against a 40 per cent rise in living costs, while Americans only faced an over-all rise of 12 per cent.

Worse still, the trend remains uncurbed as government and employer battle the vicious cycle of higher wages-higher costs-higher wages. In the past 12 months, food and groceries have gone up another 10 per cent, for instance. Rents, already up by 40 per cent since 1950, went up eight per cent.

Southland PANORAMA

Month-long December events in Southern California provide a gamut of sights, sounds and aromas for Christmas season sightseers.

Brilliant scarlet poinsettias are blooming throughout the Southland.

The subtropical marine vegetation in the Undersea Gardens off Santa Catalina Island sprouts new growth. The big fish of this undersea forest are visible from glass bottom boats leaving regularly from Avalon.

Mile-high orchards in San Gorgonio Pass yield bumper crops of Rome Beauties, Golden Delicious, Winesap and other varieties in the Oak Glen apple harvest.

• • • •

AN ANCIENT CHRISTMAS flag, the red and green burgee which flew over European cities in the Middle Ages, was hoisted Saturday over Santa Monica City Hall. The city will sponsor 12 performances of its annual Nativity Play beginning Dec. 8, at Miles Playhouse, Lincoln Park.

Other sights of the month include Glendale's dazzling six-block tunnel of lights on Brand Blvd., and Ontario's three-mile-long Christmas Tree Lane.

Southern California, in the same parallel as the Holy Land, may look at a Yule sky similar to that of the Holy Land and compare a recreation of the exact Nativity sky in Griffith Planetarium.

There are nightly performances by children's choirs in San Marino's sixth annual program at Huntington Dr. and San Marino Ave.

• • • •

MANY UNUSUAL BREEDS of pigeons will be exhibited Tuesday through Sunday at the Glendale Pigeon Show in the basement of the Glendale Civic Auditorium.

• • • •

• • • •

PRO-AMATEUR GOLF Tourney, the fourth annual at Palm Springs' picturesque Tamarisk Country Club, is scheduled for Saturday and Sunday.

• • • •

SAN DIEGO'S ANNUAL Poinsettia Festival for nine days starting Saturday, includes Poinsettia Ball, Poinsettia Bowl Football game between top service teams and Poinsettia Show in Balboa Park. World's largest poinsettia farm in nearby Carlsbad is in full bloom.

• • • •

LAS POSADAS on Olvera St., Los Angeles, the traditional Mexican celebration preceding Christmas, is enacted nightly in the quaint Mexican marketplace, starting Monday and running through Dec. 24.

• • • •

DRY LAND SKI schools for adults, free of charge, will be conducted at Ladera County Park, Los Angeles, from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m., Dec. 4, 5, 6, 11 and 13. Ski schools also are planned for Farnsworth Country Park in Altadena, Arcadia County Regional Park and Crescenta Valley Park in La Crescenta.

Army Clearing Budapest Rubble

VIENNA (AP) — Radio Budapest said Saturday night generals, colonels, majors, noncommissioned officers and privates would go out today to help clear away the debris of war in Budapest.

But the rubble-clearers will be members of the Hungarian army —not the Russian army that did most of the damage.

Valentino Keeps Fans Even Today

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite the movie and theater idols that have come and gone since the 1920s the popularity of one silent film star apparently is undimmed.

When the New York Public Library took down an exhibit of 200 photographs of stage and screen "greats" only two had been "lifted" by the passing fans. Both were of Rudolph Valentino.

QUICK! NEW DENTURES
on my year-end offer
WAIT UNTIL NEXT YEAR
to make your 1st CREDIT PAYMENT

WHY NEW DENTURES NOW-INSTEAD OF NEXT YEAR

It's better to get new dentures now for two reasons: FIRST, we are less busy during the holiday season than any other time of the year. Although we try to spend as much time as is needed on any case during the whole year, now we have more than enough time for everyone.

SECOND, to encourage you to get new dentures now instead of waiting until next year, we are extra liberal on credit. Save your cash for holiday fun and expenses. If you need it you may have two full years to pay.

WHY 2 YEARS TO PAY, WHEN NEEDED

Although most people find it easy to pay my low prices in the customary 15 months, I want to remove the money barrier even more. Make up your mind now to have new dentures when you first need them—right now when you want to look your best—why wait until next year?

PARENTS CAN'T HELP

Children Facing Bleak Yuletide

By DICK FRIEND

"The five little children are well cared for, they have a clean home, but their parents are unable to provide a Christmas for them. The parents both are ill, and were just released from the hospital. The mother must stay at home to care for the youngsters. The father reports daily to the hospital, and can only do light work. Christmas will be bleak for these five children. Case 54."

This is typical. It is a case worker's report to the Christmas Cheer House. It is a story of need—a story that will be repeated nearly 1,200 times in Long Beach this Christmas.

It's a story of a family on its last leg, financially down and nearly out, lacking the funds to offer even an assemblance of a normal Christmas.

ALREDAY, 600 families have been listed at the Clearing House. Many more are expected. Starting Monday, volunteers will be on duty at the Armory, 851 E. 7th St., taking more names. They'll also be taking the names of Long Beach people who can help—by donating dollars, canned goods, toys or clothing.

The Clearing House is just as it's name implies. Agencies throughout the Long Beach area, including Salvation Army, Catholic Welfare Agency, and scores of others, supply the names to the House.

There, workers do the rest—with the generosity of Long Beach people. Entire families can be adopted—and many have already. Neighborhood groups have signed up to supply necessary gifts and food for a needy family.

GIRL SCOUT troops have joined together to adopt families.

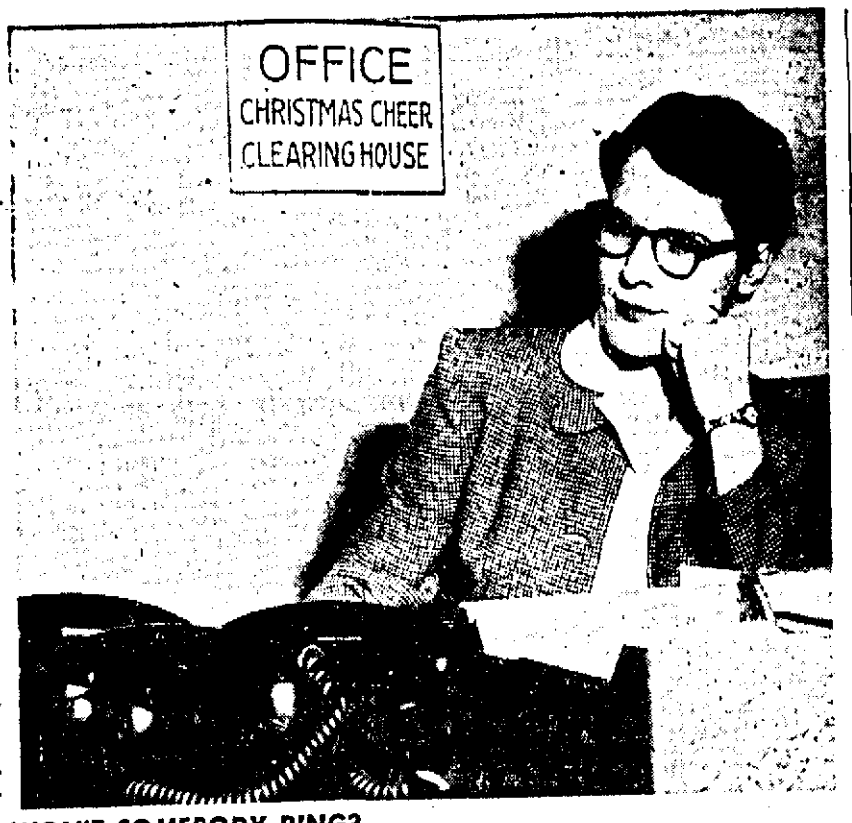

Organizations and more fortunate families also have registered.

If the donor wishes, he may go out and buy and wrap the gifts desired by the family. All names are carefully screened by case workers.

"We need volunteers to help answer the telephone, and after Dec. 10, when our large warehouse opens up, we will need new clothes and food and good toys," said Peggy Fluley, coordinator of public information for the clearing house.

Those who desire to adopt a family, which costs from $15 up depending on the size of the family, should call the clearing house at HE 7-4179 or HE 4-7170.

Those who cannot afford to adopt an entire family, but who desire to help others, also should call, she said.

WON'T SOMEBODY RING?

At Christmas Cheer Clearing House, Mrs. C. L. Samaniego awaits phone calls from Long Beach folks wanting to adopt needy families for the holidays. You can pledge aid by telephoning HE 7-4179 or HE 7-4170.—(Staff Photo.)

$100 A PLATE

Golden Boy Award Dinner Scheduled

With all proceeds slated for the Boys' Clubs of Long Beach, the second Golden Boy Award Dinner—at $100 a plate—will be held here Thursday evening.

The dinner, described as a "gourmet's delight," will be served at the Victor Hugo Restaurant, 730 E. Broadway. It will be provided by Fred Hershorn, second vice president of the clubs and owner of the restaurant.

• • • •

MORE THAN 100 persons are expected, according to Maurice A. Bugbee, executive director of the club.

The club last year cleared $13,000 on the first dinner.

At the dinner, a prominent Long Beach individual will be named to receive the Golden Boy Award for devoted interest and service to the clubs.

Superior Judge Fred Miller received the first award last year.

• • • •

THE FOUR club branches, Red Feather services of the Community Chest, are the Central, 1585 Chestnut Ave.; East, 1205 Freeman Ave.; West, 1835 W. Willard St., and North, 5160 Via Veranda.

Officers of the board of directors are Will S. Taylor Jr., president; Dr. Kenneth Lightbody, first vice president; Hershorn, second vice president; John De Vico, secretary, and Guy S. Balser, treasurer.

College Sets Art, Health Forum Talks

Abstract art, health problems of the senior citizen and world affairs will be subjects of Long Beach City College General Adult Division meetings this week.

Paul Darrow, art instructor at Scripps College, Claremont, will lecture at the monthly Art Forum at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday in Room 502 of the art building on the Lakewood Campus. His subject will be "The Development of Abstract Art."

Dr. George W. Ainlay, a specialist in geriatrics, will moderate a panel discussion on "New Advances in Geriatrics for a Better Life" at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday in Washington Junior High School auditorium.

Panel members will be Dr. Carroll J. Bellis, a local surgeon; Dr. R. L. Fowkes, oral and dental surgeon, and Yngve Ahlm, physical therapist. The meeting will be the last in a series on health problems of the senior citizen. It originally was scheduled for Wednesday afternoon.

Dr. Giles T. Brown will present the third lecture of a series at 7 p. m. Monday in Room 202 at Poly High School. His topic, "South Africa, Land of Treasure and Trouble, Part I," will be illustrated with color slides.

64,538 WATCH HORNUNG RETURN KICKOFF 95 YARDS

SC Conquers Notre Dame, 28-20

By DAVE LEWIS
Sports Editor

LOS ANGELES COLISEUM—The Fighting Irish of Notre Dame never fought harder for a victory than they did here Saturday, but they were up against too much for the eighth time this season and finally were plowed under by Southern California, 28-20, in a crunching battle before 64,538 fans.

Only a superhuman performance by Notre Dame's great all-American, Paul Hornung, kept the Trojans from breaking the game wide open and recording as decisive a win as they did a year ago in their 42-20 romp that signalled the forthcoming collapse of the Irish this season.

In fact, it was Hornung's electrifying 95-yard kickoff return in the closing seconds of the third period that kept Notre Dame very much in the ball game as the two teams headed into the final quarter with SC holding only a slim 21-20 lead.

But the Trojans quickly pulled out to a "safe" eight-point lead at 28-20 in the first 46 seconds of the fourth period when Ernie Zampese exploded 38-yards through right tackle for a touchdown.

Ball control, which wrecked UCLA's Bruins a week ago, was successfully employed again at that point by SC to keep Notre Dame from mounting a threat while there was still enough time to pull the game out of the fire.

And with only 2½ minutes left to go, the Trojans began hitting the sagging left side of the Irish line as they hammered their way to the four-yard line before the battling Notre Dame players rose up to hurl back the Troy surge that appeared destined to rack up still another score.

After holding for downs on the four, the Irish, whose "spirit" had been questioned by former Coach Frank Leahy only last Thursday, mounted a furious aerial attack in denial of the charges as they shot the works in a last-ditch effort to register another score and as time ran out they were poised on the SC 33 after roaring 64 yards.

Not even a touchdown or a conversion at that point, however, could have saved the Irish from closing out the most miserable season in the history of the school. It was their eighth defeat against only two victories.

Meanwhile, the Trojans rang down the curtain on their 1956 campaign with a creditable 8-2 record that was climaxed by victories over UCLA and Notre Dame for the first time in the same season in 18 years.

It was one of the most exciting games of the collegiate season in the Coliseum as the Trojans swarmed into a 7-0 lead; then yielded six points to the Irish, only to finish out a wild first period with a 14-6 lead. Notre Dame closed the gap to 14-13 at halftime.

Southern California pulled out to a 21-13 lead late in the third period only to have Hornung make it 21-20 with his spectacular kickoff return.

The bruising contest was featured in particular by savage line play and the spirited performances of both clubs produced some of the most fierce blocking and tackling seen this season.

Even in defeat Hornung stood head and shoulders above the other players on the field. He certainly justified his all-American rating and his selection by the Green Bay Packers as the bonus pick in the recent pro draft.

Hornung was sensational all afternoon. . . . A real workhorse who was dangerous every second he was in the game.

Holding him to 49 yards total offense is a tribute to the fine defensive play of the Trojans.

He carried the ball nine times for a net of 24 yards and a 2.67 average that was cut down when he was spilled for a 10-yard loss attempting to pass in the fourth quarter and loss of a sizeable gain earlier in the game because of a penalty.

The Irish ace also returned two punts for 45 yards and had a third runback of 46 yards nullified by a clipping penalty; punted seven times for a 38.14 average; completed one pass in two attempts for 25 yards, and caught three passes from Bobby Williams for 26 yards while having another reception for a gain of 25 yards wiped out by another penalty.

He carried the ball on two kickoffs, picking up 24 yards on one before breaking loose on his 95-yard scoring jaunt.

Hornung accomplished this offensively against Trojan defenses set especially for him whether he played quarterback or left half.

Much of Hornung's finest play of the day, though, came on defense where he made several great "saves" for the Irish.

But while Jess Hill, bowing out as SC's head football coach to take over the athletic directorship, described Hornung as a "wonderful player," he said he can only rate him next to Troy's own Jon Arnett.

Hill says Arnett, who closed out his abbreviated five-game season against Stanford in midseason, is a much better runner than Hornung.

• • • •

THE TROJANS opened with such a rush that it appeared as if they'd blast Notre Dame clear out of the stadium, taking the opening kickoff and marching 66 yards in 10 plays for the TD as Don Hickman ripped off 19 yards, C. R. Roberts hurtled 11 yards and Jim Conroy finally rolled out around right end for 10 yards and the touchdown at 3:34. Ellsworth Kissinger, whose field goal last week toppled UCLA, promptly booted the first of his three conversions. The other was kicked by Rex Johnston following the second touchdown.

But any hopes that Trojan backers might have had of seeing a runaway win over the Irish were quickly dispelled when Notre Dame fought back after the kickoff with a 76-yard drive of its own sparked by a freak 40-yard gain on the first scrimmage play.

Dick Lynch fumbled as he stabbed at right tackle and left end Dick Royer recovered the ball in the air and raced all the way to the SC 36-yard line.

• • • •

WILLIAMS FINALLY shot right up the middle on a "sneak" for six yards and the score at 8:06. However, Hornung's kick was wide to the left and SC maintained a lead it never relinquished.

The Trojans bounced back after the kickoff with their sec-

28 Firsts but U.S. Now Is on Defensive

MELBOURNE (AP) — U. S. Olympians, having dominated the track and field phase of the 1956 games with a brilliant bunch of Yankee Doodle Dandies, now must look to their swimmers and divers in the final run with Russia for the unofficial team championship.

It's going to be close. And the Yanks may not make it.

Despite a record-smashing 15 gold medals in men's track and field, where the Americans piled up 232 points, Uncle Sam enters the last week of Olympic competition with only a 463 to 390½ edge over Russia in the point standings.

Over-all, the United States has bagged 28 gold medals, to 18 by the Russians. But there isn't much hope of adding many more to that U. S. total outside of the swimming competition.

Swimming and diving is the last of the "blue-ribbon" events in the Games. But there are a swarm of fringe sports to be decided, including gymnastics, and the Russians figure to make the most of it.

SATURDAY WAS a great day for America, Australia, France, Ireland and the ninth consecutive crowd of 100,000 in the Melbourne Cricket Grounds.

Bobby Morrow of the United States won his third gold medal of the Games—tops for the men—by anchoring the American 440-meter relay team to victory in the world record time of 39.5.

Mildred McDaniel of the United States unexpectedly won the women's high jump and set a new world record of 1.76 meters, or five feet 9¼ inches to cap the fine all around performance by American girls.

The United States 1,600-meter relay team with Charley Jenkins running his lap in a sparkling 43.4 won its event in 3:01.8.

Slender Ron Delany, the Villanova student from Erie, battled his way out of the pack in the greatest 1,500-meter field

RECORD SEEN

Million-Plus See Games

MELBOURNE (AP)—Olympic Games paid admissions Saturday reached almost the million and a half mark, which means Melbourne will set an all-time record with one week of the events still to go.

Never before have such throngs seen the Olympic track and field events—capacity crowds of 100,000 every day.

Only the stadium at Los Angeles in 1932 was bigger than the Melbourne Cricket grounds and this was little more than half full on many days.

Jackson Next for Floyd?

CHICAGO (AP) — New heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson's first title defense probably will be against Hurricane Jackson, but Floyd's manager certainly would like Rocky Marciano to try a comeback against his 21-year-old successor.

At Toronto, however, Marciano said he would not end his retirement announced last April.

Cus D'Amato, Patterson's beaming pilot, told a news conference Saturday that he was interested in any title defense which would bring the most money at the gate.

• • • •

THAT BROUGHT up Marciano's name and D'Amato quickly conceded a meeting between Rocky and Patterson would be the "most desirable match that possibly could be made."

"There is no doubt it would draw the biggest gate in the history of boxing," he said.

While D'Amato was discussing Patterson's plans, the new champion—who left by automobile a few hours after belting out Archie Moore for Marciano's vacated title in the Chicago Stadium Friday night—was arriving at Brooklyn where his wife, Sandra, bore a 6½ pound daughter Friday night.

D'Amato said that, although IBC President Jim Norris held no "exclusive" with Patterson, he would accept whatever match Norris promotes.

• • • •

AS A HORDE of sports writers interviewed D'Amato, just two floors down in the same hotel a grim-faced Moore was breakfasting with no more than a word of sympathy from passing acquaintances.

Moore still talked about a match with Jackson, but the IBC reportedly has a Detroit light heavyweight title defense in mind for Moore against No. 1 contender Chuck Spieser.

SILENCE!

Yells Make Reds Jittery

LONDON (AP)—Radio Moscow complained Saturday that yelling fans at the Melbourne Olympic Games were creating a "nervous tension against Soviet sportsmen" and hinted darkly at political inspiration.

The Soviet newspaper was quoted as saying that "honest fans" were turning into "political hawlers."

"The more exciting the contest of Olympic athletes, the more pent-up the emotions in the public seats. But one cannot justify those who turn from honest fans into political hawlers and attempt to create among the public a nervous tension against Soviet sportsmen," it said.

ONLY ONE BOWL BID STILL OPEN

Navy Says No, 4 Others Yes

By Associated Press

Tennessee, Baylor, Syracuse and Georgia Tech accepted prized bowl invitations Saturday while Navy, held to a 7-7 tie by underdog Army, rejected a Cotton Bowl invitation.

The selection of Colorado's Orange Bowl opponent, expected late Sunday, will complete the lineup of major postseason games. Here's the way the bowl situation shapes up:

Rose Bowl—Iowa (8-1) vs. Oregon State (8-2-1).

Sugar Bowl—Tennessee, 10-0) vs. Baylor (8-2).

Cotton Bowl—Syracuse (7-1) vs. Texas Christian (7-3).

Orange Bowl — Colorado (7-2-1) vs. either Clemson (7-1-2), Duke (5-4-1) or South Carolina (7-3).

Gator Bowl — Pittsburgh (6-2-1) vs. Georgia Tech (9-1).

Each of the bowl games, except the Gator, will take place on New Year's Day. Pittsburgh, which has a regular season game remaining against Miami (Fla.) next Saturday, will meet Georgia Tech Dec. 29.

Rear Adm. W. R. Smedberg of Navy turned down the Cotton Bowl invite minutes after the completion of the game in Philadelphia. Smedberg told the Navy team he did not think it in the best interest of the Navy to accept a bowl bid after the tie.

Syracuse, which lost only to Pittsburgh this year, quickly grabbed the Cotton Bowl spot after Navy had turned it down. Syracuse, featuring the great Jim Brown, will be the first Eastern team to play in the Dallas Bowl since Penn State in 1948.

'NO FEUD WITH LEAHY'

Irish Never Quit Fighting--Terry

By DICK ZEHMS

LOS ANGELES COLISEUM—Contrary to one man's (Frank Leahy) opinion, the Fighting Irish of Notre Dame are still fighting—right down to the last whistle.

As spirited as any Notre Dame team ever visiting this giant saucer, the Irish fought for every inch of real estate—with their lives—before they surrendered to SC's Trojans here Saturday afternoon before 64,538 fans, 28-20. Be reminded, please, that they were 13 point underdogs going into their 1956 season finale—a dismal year of two victories and eight defeats.

This, then, was the worst season in Irish history. But they never quit fighting, as charged last Thursday by former N. D. Coach Leahy in a public announcement. In fact, only their spirited play kept the Trojans from piling on more abuse.

As for Irish Coach Terry Brennan's announced intentions to answer Leahy following the game, it exploded in thin air. There is no feud.

"We never quit fighting today," stated Brennan, who is ending his third season at the South Bend command. "We played as well as we did against SMU and Oklahoma. It was one of our better games.

"What Mr. Leahy said is his opinion. He watches our games. He is entitled to express his beliefs, the same as anyone else.

"No, I don't believe there is a feud between us, nor do I think the fact that I denied Paul Hornung the chance to appear on Leahy's television show Friday night had anything to do with his Thursday statement criticizing our spirit. The request was made to me for Hornung's appearance last Tuesday. . . . I don't let any of

Once Over Lightly

by DAVE LEWIS

Probably the deepest satisfaction derived from sports writing is to forecast correctly a major event such as Friday night's heavyweight championship title fight . . . particularly when an overwhelming majority of observers went for the loser — Archie Moore.

We frankly were amazed in checking the forecasts to see so many scribes throughout the nation tabbing Moore. While Arch was the logical favorite off the records, Floyd Patterson nevertheless had everything going for him.

As we pointed out in our Friday column, we were stringing along with Patterson to win, adding that "I've never considered any other selection since the fight was first signed."

We also said that Patterson figured to chop the "Ancient One" into hamburger if he could weather the first few rounds.

Well, as it turned out, Floyd produced his own weather in the early rounds . . . blowing up a heat storm for Archie in registering a surprisingly easy victory.

Moore showed absolutely nothing . . . except, of course, that he's an old man trying to keep active in a young man's game.

We gave Patterson all four completed rounds and had him ahead in the fifth, too, when the end came with blinding suddenness when Floyd jumped in with a paralyzing left hook that startled Arch down and on his way out of the heavyweight championship picture for good.

THERE WERE many reasons why we picked Patterson, some of which I am not at liberty to divulge.

But one is that we were told that Arch is but a hollow shell of his former self. The fast pace at which the old boy has lived down through the years plus his advancing age finally took its toll. Rocky Marciano wouldn't touch Moore until his handlers were sure Arch was far enough over the hill so as not to be too troublesome . . . and that was 18 months ago. Moore, who "lives it up to the hilt," couldn't help but go back even more in the past year.

Secondly, the big rap against Patterson was his "questionable" win over Hurricane Jackson last June. But far too much emphasis was placed on that bout by certain observers.

Actually, we thought Patterson made a strong showing against Jackson, especially in view of the Hurricane's record of making his opponents look bad with his freak style. Only one man has ever stopped the "animal," Nino Valdes beat him via a KO over New York's three-knockdown rule and only then on a disputed knockdown. As I recall, Jackson got tangled up in the ropes and was not on the floor when the referee pulled him down for the third time in one round and ended the fight.

In our follow-up column on the Patterson-Jackson go last June, we had Floyd winning all the way . . . giving him eight of the 12 rounds as against only one for Hurricane with three even.

In fact, we were told by one veteran handler of fighters while in Chicago a few weeks ago that Patterson would need to put out only half the effort he did against Jackson in order to handle the burned-out Moore.

BUT THE MOST important reason for picking Patterson was the word from Floyd's manager, Cus D'Amato, during our trip east.

D'Amato is noted for being conservative to a fault and he convinced us when he said that he was certain Floyd not only would win . . . but would win by a knockout.

"I never would have taken the fight if I didn't think so," he said. "I even consented to fighting in Chicago where the officiating has left a lot to be desired. I do my worrying before I sign, thinking that maybe I didn't do the right thing and maybe overlooked something important.

"But once I sign, I'm relaxed. And this time I've never been so sure of anything in my life when I say that Floyd will flatten Moore!"

Everyone knows that Moore can punch, but still another ring source in the Midwest told us that he doubted that Arch could catch up with the exceptionally fast Patterson before running out of gas.

The key to Floyd's quick KO victory, of course, was his speed afoot and his remarkably quick hands.

It was obvious from the outset that Moore was in there looking for just one opening so he could explode a combination on Floyd's chin and finish it quickly.

INTERCEPTIONS RUIN RICE, 46-13

Baylor Romps to Bowl Bid

WACO, Tex. (UP)—Baylor won a Sugar Bowl berth Saturday by smashing Rice, 46-13, sparked by a band of alert pass defenders and a fleet of backs led by Del Shofner.

A crowd of 20,000 fans saw the Bears score in every period, winding up the season with a third-place finish in the Southwest Conference in a wild contest which brought Baylor two touchdowns on pass interception runbacks. A third interception set up another score.

Shofner scored two touchdowns and stood out on defense along with all-America guard Bill Glass, who intercepted a Rice pass in the third period and ran it back 45 yards to the Rice three to set up a touchdown.

Rice held Baylor to a 20-13 halftime edge, and twice tied the Bears in the first half. But the Bears erupted in a frenzied second half marked by two touchdowns within two minutes early in the third period.

Led by quarterback King Hill, Rice completed 18 of 33 passes for 227 yards, but Baylor stopped the Owls when it counted, intercepting four passes with runbacks totaling 160 yards.

Shofner scored on a 30-yard pass late in the second period from quarterback Bobby Jones and on a 10-yard run in the fourth quarter.

Fullback Charles Dupre scored twice, plunging three yards and running a pass interception back 48 yards. Sophomore fullback Billy Pavliska scored on a 5-yard run after intercepting a Rice aerial.

Rice tied the Bears twice in the second period, once on a one-yard plunge by Hill, and later when fullback David Kelley bounced over from the two. Kelley sparked the 90-yard march with a 40-yard run.

Bruin Five Crushes Nebraska

UCLA's Bruins made it two in a row over the visiting Nebraska Cornhuskers Saturday night with an easy 78-60 win at Pan Pacific Auditorium.

The first half was somewhat slow, UCLA ran it to 21-4 after eight minutes as Nebraska had trouble finding the bucket. Nebraska got only 21 hoop attempts in the first half and made good on only five for a poor 21 per cent average. The visitors' accuracy from the free throw line was only eight out of 17.

UCLA left the court at the half with a 38 to 18 lead.

NEBRASKA looked like a different team in the second half and started whittling at the Bruins. With about six minutes left to play the Cornhuskers cut the lead to 61-54 as forward Don Smidt started peppering the basket with field goals and free throws. But in the last five minutes, UCLA again eased away.

Smidt, who got only two field goals in the first half, tanked 18 points in the second and was high scorer of the contest with 22. Forward Jim Halsten led UCLA with 17, and teammate Dick Banton had 15.

BYU Downs Washington

PROVO, Utah (UP)—Brigham Young University out-hustled the University of Washington Saturday night for a 70-65 basketball victory, despite 32 points scored by Bruno Boin of the Huskies.

The smaller BYU Cougars held off the taller Huskies and stalled out a thrilling final three minutes.

Boin, remarkably agile for a man 6-feet-10-inches tall, plunked in long hook shots from the right hand corner. He also was a standout on both backboards.

Oxy Wins SCIAC Harrier Crown

POMONA (AP) — Occidental College won the all-Southern California Intercollegiate Athletic Conference cross country run Saturday with 16 points.

Redlands was second with 55 points, Caltech had 78 and Pomona-Claremont 95. Whittier was not entered.

The winning time over the four-mile course was 20 minutes 19 seconds. The event was held at the Mt. San Antonio Junior College course with Occidental as the host.

Duquesne Wins, 70-55

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Even without all-America Si Green, Duquesne University's basketball team experienced little trouble Saturday night in whipping Florida State, 70-55, as junior Bob DelPalma hit for 21 points.

Mich. State Quint Loses

EAST LANSING, Mich. (UP) —Iowa State, led by guard Gary Thompson with 21 points, grabbed an early six-point lead Saturday night and then coasted to a 60-53 victory over Michigan State in a non-conference basketball game before 7,467 fans in Jenison Fieldhouse.

The Cyclones dumped in six points on four free throws and a layup before the Spartans even got organized. From there on Iowa State matched point for point with the Spartans throughout the game. The Cyclones led 30-20 at halftime.

Dons' Surge Overcomes Cal, 70-56

BERKELEY (AP) — The University of San Francisco Dons, trailing through most of the game, finished with a rush Saturday night to beat California, 70-56, and run their record victory string to a new intercollegiate record of 37 straight.

California grabbed a 36-30 halftime lead as a crowd of 7,200 saw the contest. Larry Friend, a senior forward, tallied 16 points in the opening stanza. It wasn't until the final six minutes that the Dons could take over the lead.

As they went ahead, 52-50, Friend left the game with an injured leg and the Dons pulled steadily ahead.

Mike Farmer, Gene Brown and Mike Presseau, all veterans from last year's national championship club, spearheaded the closing drive.

It was the second victory of the season for the Dons who Friday night downed Chico State, 63-52, to set an all-time collegiate record for consecutive victories.

Friend, who did not return to the game after being injured, wound up high point man with 21.

Rams-Pitt Game Even

PITTSBURGH (Special)—The first television "bowl" game of the year will be screened to the Southland this morning when the Los Angeles Rams and Pittsburgh Steelers meet here in the National Football League's cellar bowl.

Unlike other bowls, the Rams-Steeler meeting is not a post-season affair, although it may be wishful thinking for Ram coach Sid Gillman and Steeler boss Walt Kiesling. Both clubs have two games remaining after today's contest, but both coaching staffs have been looking ahead to 1957 for some time.

THE RAMS ARE sole occupants of the Western Conference cellar with a 2-7 record. The Steelers share the Eastern Conference basement with

Pittsburgh will be without the services of Lynn Chadnois, its top running halfback, and Gary Glick, the defensive whiz who was the Steelers' sure-fire bonus choice last year. Both are through for the year.

Ram casualties range from the definitely out status of linebackers Larry Morris and Hugh Pitts, end Ron Miller, tackles Frank Fuller and Charley Toogood and guard Jack Ellena to the injured-but-will-play category of halfbacks Tom Wilson and Ron Waller.

TO PLUG SOME of the holes, the Rams signed Bear castoff Jess Castete, a defensive halfback, and took linebacker Bob Griffin off the injured-reserve list.

The Rams, after being drubbed, 56-21, by Baltimore last week, are still looking for their first road win of the year. They have beaten only the Eagles and 49ers. Pittsburgh holds a 20-17 exhibition win over the Rams, but resemblance of either team to September form is coincidental.

Rabbits Lose in Overtime

By RON DRESNICK

Two free throws by forward Tom Monson in the last 29 seconds of the three minute overtime period gave Downey High a 57-56 victory over Poly Saturday night and the championship of the seventh annual Long Beach Invitational basketball tournament. A crowd of 1,300 watched the finals at the Long Beach City College gym.

Monson, a 5-9 jump shot specialist, besides securing the Viking win with his last second shots, scored a total 20 points and was named outstanding player of the tournament.

Going into the final quarter the game was tied 40-40, when Monson began to take charge. With the rebounding support of Dick Roche, who snared eight in the last period, Monson fired through 13 points during the final 11 minutes, seven on free throws.

Poly evened the score at 51-51 with 2:25 to go but a charging foul, Monson's two free shots and a Downey interception killed the Hare chances.

In the game for third place, Torrance High trounced Alhambra, 72-53, as Richard Ruffell and Jerry Matthews hit 25 and 20 points, respectively.

THE CONSOLATION bracket finals see-sawed back and forth before Artesia's Pioneers went on a second half spree to down Lynwood, 49-33.

Although losing the championship, Poly led with three all-tournament selections, placing center Art Brush, Kent Hazard and Fred Jingles on the all-star squad.

Others to make the select ten were Tony Rosales, Downey; Don Livingston and Paul Collier, Alhambra; Ruffell and Matthews, Torrance; and Don Bailey of Artesia.

The defeat for the SCIF defending champion Hares stopped a Poly win streak of 18 straight games extending back to the 1955-56 season.

Irish Fought All the Way--Terry

my players cut the night before a game.

"Believe me, no Notre Dame team has ever fought with more raw courage and determination than this one . . . This team has never stopped fighting. We've made mistakes, yes, and we lack experience. . . We've been hit by injuries, yes, and they've hurt. But this team has never wanted one minute for the desire to play all-out all the time.

"I expect to be back at Notre Dame next fall. This year we had two problems. We knew about one of, them—a green team—before the season ever started. What we didn't know was the series of injuries which would befall us.

"Freak accidents played a part in our downfall, too. One boy sprained an ankle walking out of the dressing room for an afternoon practice. Another time, one of our players stepped on another player's toe.

"SC played a good game. Zampese is a fine runner. The penalties certainly hurt, but I'll make no comment on the officiating. I shouldn't take anything away from SC's superlative effort."

• • • •

AS AMIABLE and pleasant as if he'd just finished off a thick steak, the young Notre Dame coach took the defeat and turn of events in stride. He had strong words of praise for Hornung, his all-America quarterback who played at left half against SC because of thumb injuries.

"If there's a better back in the country than Hornung, I'd like to see him," offered the Irish coach. He had in mind, of course, Paul's scintillating 95-yard kickoff return in the third period. Then he added:

"Hornung can do everything well and some things exceptionally well. He's been a great player for us. If we wanted him to play guard, he'd do a good job.

"I'm disappointed with the season, naturally, but if I had it to do over again I wouldn't make very many changes. Our problem has been defense all season. We could move the ball against everybody. But we couldn't do enough stopping."

Then he went back to the Leahy controversy.

"I think there are any differences between Leahy and me, you'll have to talk to him. I know of none. Frank's statement naturally had some influence on our players. They were confused and mad."

It ended there, except for one parting shot.

"Anyway, I haven't any ulcers," he quipped.

• • • •

HORNUNG DIDN'T think the Irish played any harder than they have in other games. "In every game, we've just been trying our hearts out. We all realize that we just didn't have it this year at all. We just didn't have the horses."

Leahy's tirade on the lack of Irish spirit didn't fool SC Coach Jess Hill. At the Friday night Trojan football banquet, he expressed the belief that the scorching statement was designed to incite the Irishers to Herculean effort.

"I didn't think the Notre Dame boys were laying down out there," he said in the noisy Troy dressing room after the game. "There was never any doubt about their spirit. Who ever made the statement apparently doesn't know much about Notre Dame teams."

After tossing the bath, he turned to impressions of his own team, which he regards in the warmest manner.

• • • •

"OUR BOYS did a good job," he said. Ernie Zampese ran well. Jim Conroy looked great at quarter. He's improving with every game. He'll be a great one. Big Karl Rubke played one of his best games. He was all over the field.

"We didn't alter our defense for Hornung's operations at left half, although our defense was keyed to stop him. Wouldn't you? He's an all-American. He's dangerous at any position. He was the boy we had to watch even if he was the water boy.

"I don't think Hornung is as good a running back as our Jon Arnett, but he was great on that kickoff return. Both are All-Americans in my book."

Of the season, which ended 8-2 for Troy as against 2-8 for Notre Dame, Hill was obviously pleased.

• • • •

"THIS IS the first time since 1938 that a Trojan team has beaten both Notre Dame and UCLA on successive Saturdays in one season," he enthused. And nobody could question his exhuberance. "This was the finest group of boys to represent SC that I have had. This could have been quite a team, except for certain little problems." Everybody knew this referred to certain conference actions too.

"This is it," he concluded. "This is the last college game for me as a coach. It was a nice way to end it. Our boys went out in the second half to win the game. They did."

Is he a candidate to succeed himself? "For a 50-year contract, yes," he joked. "I'm getting to be an old man!"

Decision to Filippo

Veteran Lou Filippo of Los Angeles survived the rapier thrusts of Kid Castro of Manila for 10 bloody rounds to win a unanimous lightweight decision Saturday night in Hollywood Legion Stadium.

Filippo bled almost continuously from cuts over both eyes for five rounds.

Filippo had Castro on the canvas for a three-count in the second and staggered him in the fourth, fifth and sixth.

Stockton Scores Potato Bowl Win

Stockton College scored twice in the second quarter and led all the way to trim Orange Coast, 20-12, before 11,780 in the annual Potato Bowl game at Bakersfield Saturday night.

Stockton took the lead when Dave Veerkamp zipped 11 yards on a pitchout, boosted it to 13-0 on Marshall Dragomanovitch's two-yard plunge and ended its scoring in the fourth period on Lew Schmid's 33-yard dash.

Orange Coast scored in the third period when Ted Dinkler pounced on a wild Stockton pitchout in the end zone and in the fourth quarter on Bob Crockett's 15-yard pitch to Jack Mahlstedt.

Bond Leads Tribe in Second Half, 65-54

PALO ALTO (UP) — Stanford forward Bill Bond cracked open a see-saw contest Saturday night as he made eight points in the final five minutes to lead the Indians to a 65-54 win over St. Mary's.

Bond, only lukewarm in the first half, got the range on the Stanford pavillion basket after the intermission, racking up 16 of his 19 points.

St. Mary's forward Odell Johnson razzle-dazzled the Indian defense in the early part of the game. He forced his way through under the backboard on several fast breaking plays to flip the ball through the hoop.

Buckeye Cagers Wallop Butler

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UP)—Frank Howard and Ken Sidle scored 23 points apiece Saturday night to pace Ohio State to a 98-82 basketball victory over Butler. It was the opener for both schools in the Bucks' new 3½ million dollar St. John Arena before a crowd estimated at 9,600.

Butler held two-point advantages twice early in the first half but the Buckeyes grabbed a 33-32 lead midway through the session and coasted from there.

Pat McCormick Eyes Big Double

MELBOURNE (UP)—Pert Pat McCormick, the high-diving housewife from Long Beach, Calif., sparkled into the spotlight today as the main hope of the U. S. swimming forces for new gold medal achievements this week.

Miss McCormick goes out on Tuesday to seek Olympic championships in both the platform and springboard women's diving events, both of which she won in the 1952 Games at Helsinki. Should she again emerge as a double winner, she would be the only woman in the history of the modern games to do so.

Oregon St. Wins, 68-65

LARAMIE, Wyo. (UP)—Oregon State College's basketball team successfully stalled for the final two minutes Saturday night to halt Wyoming, 68-65, in the season opener for the Cowboys.

In the first half Oregon State led the Cowboys by as much as 17 points. Wyoming hacked at the visitors' advantage steadily and tied the score 63-63 with 3:47 minutes remaining. A hook shot by Dave Gambee and a free throw by Jim Anderson put the game on ice for Oregon State.

LUNDY'S SHOT WINS, 62-60

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (UP)—Big Lamar Lundy, only a week out of a football uniform, dunked a basket with five seconds to play and his Purdue Boilermakers edged Evansville College's defending Indiana Conference champions Saturday night, 62-60.

Evansville led by 13 points at one time in the first half, but superior height gave the Boilermakers control of the rebounds and pulled them back into contention.

Hitting the high spots . . .

BEAR FACTS. If either Paul (Bud) Hastings or Greg Engelhard sidles up to you, gives with a tap on the shoulder and wants a few secret minutes of your time, look out! They are after a new head football coach at the University of California . . . and might want you!

Yes sir, Bud and Greg have been appointed, in their executive capacities with the Associated Students, a two-man coach-seeking team from Berkeley. They will prowl the land in secret—incognito, false mustaches, gum shoes and all that—in search of a successor to the warm, friendly Lynn (Pappy) Waldorf, who has resigned.

This is the procedure Cal will pursue in picking a successor to the Wise Walrus of Strawberry Canyon. They may be on the prowl now, for that matter. They were scheduled to begin their search shortly after the Stanford game.

Pappy's contract runs until July 1, 1957, but a new coach will be needed by next spring to introduce his system, hence the operating plan adopted for the Cal executives. Greg will attend the annual meeting of the grid coaches next Jan 6 in St. Louis while Bud may be miles away—negotiating with a candidate.

Cal wants a name coach. Greg and Bud actually have two missions to perform. They'll be sounding out prospective hirelings on two conditions—interim coach and permanent coach. Since UCLA wants out of the Pacific Coast Conference and the old order is in a shaky state, wiser heads at Cal believe perhaps an interim coach might be the better step until all is peace and quiet in the PCC.

Right now, however, the names most prominently mentioned for the Cal job are Rod Franz, the former All-American who is Bear frosh coach, and Eddie Erdelatz of Navy.

Anyway, one big name coach has told prominent bay area Cal grads the Bear job is a big risk:

"A man would have to have his head examined if he jumped into the Pacific Coast Conference as it stands today. I don't even think the conference schools know where they are going!"

BREAKDOWN. The split was strictly geographical when Pacific Coast League baseball writers voted Tommy Heath of Sacramento and Bob Scheffing of Los Angeles co-managers of the year.

Sacramento, San Francisco, Portland and Vancouver chapters of the voting group picked Heath. San Diego, Los Angeles, Seattle and Hollywood went for Scheffing. Only Seattle strayed from the sectional line!

Don't laugh. Most Texas colleges and high schools sponsor rodeo teams. Rodeo competition is conducted in the spring months. Other sports suffer.

Sammy coaches the bulldoggers and ropers. He knows from experience. He has had to do the bulldogging and roping on his own ranch for many years.

PCC Faces New Crisis

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Today starts make-or-break-week for the Pacific Coast Conference, still embattled on the problem of aid to football players and other athletes.

Alumni of UCLA, one of the schools hit hardest by conference penalties over illegal help to gridders, have moved to bolt the conference, apparently to operate independently.

The threat undoubtedly exerts pressures as the conference studies such questions as revising the athletic code in regard to aiding athletes and elimination of the round robin schedule. That schedule went into effect this past season requiring each team to play all others with the exception of Idaho.

Placed on probation, fined and assessed loss of player eligibility along with UCLA were SC, Washington and California.

Chancellor Raymond B. Allen of UCLA terms the conference code unrealistic in regard to aiding athletes.

Changes will be made in the aid section of the code, President Robert Gordon Sproul of the University of California, chairman of the PSS Presidents' Council, said after a recent meeting that none of the members suggested keeping the code in its present form.

Today the powerful council holds a day-long session in San Francisco. They'll prepare proposals for the faculty representatives from the nine schools to study during the conference meeting in Beverly Hills, Monday night through Thursday. Generally these proposals can be considered mandatory.

Should UCLA leave the conference under antagonistic conditions, the problem of scheduling games arises, not only for football but for the other intercollegiate sports.

Whatever, UCLA's future may be, the alumni group has brought the Pacific Coast Conference to another crisis in a series dating back to last spring.

SC Conquers Notre Dame

ond drive, this one carrying 77 yards in nine plays as Roberts boomed 18 yards over tackle and Zampese ripped off 10 more on key plays to set the stage for the scoring play . . . the identical pass maneuver that produced their touchdown against SC last week.

Conroy pitched out to Roberts going wide to the left and the big fullback then passed 15 yards to Hilliard Hill in the end zone at 11:52. Johnston's kick made it 14-6.

• • • •

NOTRE DAME overcame two 15-yard clipping penalties early in the second quarter in putting together a 51-yard scoring drive for their next touchdown. The Irish picked up 25 yards on a pass interference penalty, made 25 more on Hornung's pass to Royer and another 14 yards on Williams' pass to Bob Ward to put the ball in position for Williams' 10-yard scoring bomb to Bob Wetoska in the end zone at 7:34. Hornung's kick was good and the score was 14-13.

After an exchange of fumbles near midfield, SC began moving again late in the second stanza, rolling from their own 25 to the Irish 34 before Doug Kranz' pass was intercepted on the Notre Dame 10 by Williams, who returned 30 yards to the 40.

• • • •

NULLIFICATION of Hornung's spectacular 46-yard punt return from the Notre Dame six to SC's 48 was what got the Irish into big trouble in the third period and set the stage for Troy's third touchdown.

The clipping penalty not only wiped out Hornung's run, but shoved the ball back to the Notre Dame one. The ensuing kick from deep in the end zone came out to the 36 from where the Trojans struck in seven plays.

A fourth-and-nine pass from Conroy to sophomore end Don Voyne clicked for 15 yards and the touchdown at 13:20 and Kissinger kicked goal to make it 21-13.

That lead stood up just 13 seconds, though, when Hornung streaked 95 yards with the kickoff and then kicked the conversion to make it 21-20.

• • • •

AGAIN THE Trojans refused to leave themselves vulnerable on the scoreboard by fighting back after the kickoff with a 73-yard surge in six plays capped by Zampese's 38-yard scoring run just 46 seconds after the final period got under way.

The touchdown came on a fourth-and-one play . . . and Zampese caught the inrushing Irish secondary flat-footed when he broke through the line on a drive over right tackle.

In wrapping up the victory the Trojans accomplished a rarity in collegiate football by taking two straight games from Notre Dame. It's only the third time in their classic 28-game series that Troy has been able to put two wins back-to-back.

Snead Takes Palm Beach Lead by Two

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Old pro Sam Snead took the lead Saturday in the West Palm Beach Open Golf tournament with a subpar round of 34-37—71.

Combined with a 68 in Friday's 18 holes, the round gave Snead, of Boca Raton, Fla., a 36-hole total of 139.

A couple of youngsters on the winter tour are only two strokes behind. They are Don Addington of Tecumseh, Mich., and Gardner Dickinson Jr. of Panama City, Fla.

Three strokes off the pace is Walter Burkemo of Detroit and another stroke back is Mike Fechik of Mahopac, N. Y.

17 Grid Teams Finish Season With Clean Slate

NEW YORK (AP)—Oklahoma and Tennessee, the nation's two top-ranked teams, came through unscathed Saturday on the final day of the 1956 college football season to keep the nation's perfect record list at 17.

The Sooners drubbed Oklahoma A&M, 53-0, and Tennessee defeated Vanderbilt, 27-7, to wind up season's play with 10 victories each.

CRUSH COLONIALS

Kentucky in 94-66 Romp

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Vernon Hatton, a flashy, homegrown guard, set Kentucky's basketball attack off to a sizzling start Saturday night and the Wildcats coasted over Washington and Lee, 94-66, in their season opener before 11,300.

Hatton's deadly accuracy in the early going and the rebounding of center Ed Beck and sophomore forward Johnny Cox helped Kentucky to a 20-point bulge just past the middle of the first half and the winners were in no danger thereafter.

TITLE VISIONS?

Rademacher Can Dream

MELBOURNE (AP) — Pete Rademacher of Grandview, Wash., the new Olympic heavyweight boxing champion, is pledged to remain amateur in spirit and action but there are no restrictions on his dreams.

And, like every other American in the Olympics, he knows that Floyd Patterson won the world heavyweight title only hours before Rademacher won his. And every other American, like Rademacher, knows that four years ago at Helsinki, Patterson won the Olympic middleweight crown.

He's not saying, but he can dream.

ever and took the metric mile in 3:41.2 for an Olympic record.

Australia's golden girl, Betty Cuthbert, joined Morrow as a triple gold medal winner by anchoring her nation's 400-meter relay team to victory in the world record time of 44.5.

Alain Mimoun, the little Frenchman, won his nation's first gold medal in capturing the classic marathon, finishing as fresh as he started and the vast crowd loved it. They even seemed to enjoy a baseball game between an American Army team and an all-star Australian team, won by the Americans, 11-5. The announcer proudly said it was the biggest crowd ever to see a baseball game and he probably was right.

• • • •

TO CAP THINGS off, Bob Clotworthy won the men's springboard diving championship for the United States and his teammate, Bill Yorzyk, won the men's 200-meter butterfly event.

Clotworthy, Mountainside, N. J., won the men's springboard diving with Don Harper, Palo Alto, Calif., second and Glen Whitten, Lakeland, Fla., fourth.

Yorzyk, Northampton, Mass., who bettered his world record with a 2:18.6 clocking in the semifinals, "coasted" home with a 2:19.3 to win the 200-meter butterfly gold medal. Jack Nelson of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., was fourth.

The other swimming final was strictly an Australian event, Dawn Fraser, who had waged a battle of record with Lorraine Crapp in the preliminaries, led an Aussie sweep in the gals' 100-meter freestyle with a world record clocking of 1:02. Lorraine was second in 1:02.3 with Faith Leech slipping in ahead of Joan Rosazza of Torrington, Conn., for third by a tenth of a second in 1:05.1. Shelley Mann of the Washington, D. C., Walter Reed Swim Club, was sixth.

• • • •

AND OF COURSE, the rangy, slick American basketball team wound up the Olympic tournament by defeating Russia, 89-55, and adding another victory to the American list.

Boxing and wrestling were disappointments for the U. S. Only light-heavyweight Jim Boyd of Rock Mount, N. C., and heavyweight Pete Rademacher of Grandview, Wash., came off with gold medals—while Russia won the team boxing championship. The best Yank in wrestling was Dan Hodge of Norman, Okla. He managed a silver medal for a second in the middleweight division as Russia again took a team title.

Now the United States goes on the defensive. Finished are its traditionally strong sports of track and field, rowing, basketball, weightlifting and boxing.

Ahead lie sports in which the Europeans excel and in most of which the United States will be lucky to pick up a few crumbs.

Miami Blasts Florida

GAINSVILLE, Fla. (UP) — With fullback Don Bosseler racing 72 yards for one of his two "scores and setting up a third Miami whipped Florida, 20-7, Saturday in the "frustration bowl" game between two good elevens that will spend New Year's in the NCAA doghouse.

Some 40,000 fans watched the Miami Hurricanes jump to a quick 14-0 first half lead. They then canceled out Florida's only score in the fourth quarter with Bosseler's brilliant run to preserve Miami's undefeated record with just one game to go.

The only Florida score came with 7½ minutes to play when end Dan Pelham broke through to block a Miami kick, grab the ball on the 20 and run across untouched.

• • • •

ON THE THIRD play from scrimmage after the Florida kickoff, Bosseler's run put the Miami lead out of reach. He cut through left tackle from his 28 toward the sidelines and then ran the distance in a clear field.

The victory left Miami's record marred only by a tie with Georgia, but the Hurricanes end the season next week against Gator Bowl-bound Pittsburgh because they are banned from bowl play this season by the NCAA. So is Florida.

• • • •

THE FIRST Miami touchdown was set up by Bosseler, who intercepted a pass from Harry Spears on the Miami 40 and returned it 20 yards. Ten plays later the Hurricanes moved to the one, and quarterback Sam Scarnecchia sneaked over.

Fumble Sets Up LSU 7-6 Win Over Wave

NEW ORLEANS (UP)—Jimmy Taylor, a big fullback with a feather tred, scored a touchdown on a one-yard plunge, then kicked the extra point Saturday to give LSU an upset 7-6 victory over Tulane before 60,000.

LSU's winning score was set up by a Tulane fumble on the Green Wave three yard line and came three plays after Tulane had held an LSU drive on the three.

Tulane substitute fullback Jimmy McCoy fumbled and center Durwood Graham recovered for LSU. Two plays later Taylor went over from the one and booted the extra point.

Tulane, which had numerous drives stalled within short sight of the end zone scored early in the second period to take a 6-0 lead.

Fullback Ronny Quillian scored from two yards out, but tackle Emmett Zelenka failed to convert.

Plainsmen Turn Tide

BIRMINGHAM (UP) — Veteran Auburn quarterbacks Howell Tubbs and Jimmy Cook threw the ball and end Jerry Elliot caught it to trounce Alabama, 34-7, before a sell-out crowd of 44,000.

It was Auburn's third straight win over an Alabama team trying to work out of a dismal three years football depression.

Navy Ties Army, Nixes Cotton Bowl Bid

Sooners Breeze to 40th Straight

STILLWATER, Okla. (UP)—Oklahoma's greatest football team kept its blaze of glory bright Saturday, defeating its home-state rival, Oklahoma A&M, 53-0, for its 40th straight victory—a new national record.

The Big Seven champions apparently cinched their second consecutive national championship. They are not eligible for a bowl trip this year under conference agreement with the Orange Bowl.

Oklahoma gained 520 net yards rushing and set a new national record for a season with an average of 391 yards per game.

Junior halfback Clendon Thomas scored twice in the first half to go ahead of his all-America running mate, halfback Tommy McDonald, in point-making. Thomas banged over from the one after an Oklahoma drive of 74 yards in the first quarter and took a 7-yard pass from McDonald in the end zone five minutes later.

• • • •

THOMAS CLOSED the season with a total of 108 points to 102 for McDonald, a senior playing his last game for Oklahoma.

McDonald's only touchdown came in the final period. Thomas, Saturday's rushing leader, set it up with a 41-yard romp to the 17, and McDonald went the rest of the way on the next play.

Oklahoma's first touchdown, coming on the fourth play of the game, set the tone for the one-sided affair before 36,500 spectators. Quarterback Jimmy Harris gained 24 yards on the first play from scrimmage, and fullback Billy Pricer took a handoff through center for 37 yards for the touchdown.

Jay O'Neal, understudy to Harris, figured heavily in two scoring thrusts before halftime. He set up one touchdown with a 19-yard throw to halfback Carl Dodd, then lateraled to halfback David Baker from three for the score.

• • • •

IN THE THIRD period, O'Neal and Baker duplicated this tricky run-lateral for another touchdown from the three, capping a drive of 65 yards in 11 plays.

Thomas gained 123 yards in 15 carries to 75 in 13 carries for McDonald.

ORDER EXAM FOR SADDLER

Give Moore 3½ Months to Defend Light-Heavy Title

CHICAGO (UP) — Archie Moore must defend his light-heavyweight boxing title by next March 18 or forfeit it, the executive committee of the National Boxing Assn. ruled Saturday.

"Moore's last title defense was against Yolande Pompey in London June 18," said George Barton, NBA committeeman and boxing commissioner at Minneapolis. "Under our regulations, he was to defend it again within six months time, or by Dec. 18. But because of the physical beating he took from Floyd Patterson he was granted a three months extension."

Featherweight champ Sandy Saddler was ordered to undergo a thorough physical examination no later than Dec. 10. If found in shape, he must sign by Jan. 15 for a title defense. Saddler is on the mend after an auto accident.

The NBA went on record as recognizing Baton Macias of Mexico as bantamweight champ and Mario D' Agata of Italy the No. 1 contender.

Middies Rally for 7-7 Tie

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — Favored Navy, outplayed for three periods, rose to fury pitch in the final moments Saturday and turned an Army fumble into a touchdown that netted a 7-7 come-from-behind tie, but the failure to win cost the Midshipmen a trip to the Cotton Bowl.

Immediately after the game Rear Admiral W. R. Smedberg III, superintendent of the Naval Academy, announced that Navy had decided to turn down a bid to play Texas Christian in the Dallas, Tex., classic on New Year's Day.

"I do not think in the light of our record that it would be in the best interests of the Naval Academy to participate in a post-season bowl game," Smedberg stated. The players did not get to vote.

Navy finished with a record of six victories, one defeat, and two ties.

• • • •

HOWEVER, Smedberg left the impression Navy would have accepted a bid had it won the game. The service schools have an "unwritten rule" that they will not play in post-season combat unless they are victorious in this game. Navy won here two years ago and beat Mississippi in the Sugar Bowl, 21-0.

The Middies, hemmed inside their own 50-yard line most of the afternoon by a dog-eat-dog Cadet line, marched 27 yards in seven plays after pouncing on a Cadet miscue and scored with seven minutes left to play.

Sophomore fullback Dick Dagampat crashed over from half a yard out. Ned Oldham kicked the point which gave the bruised Middies a tie in a game in which breaks played the major part in both scores.

• • • •

THE CADETS' lead touchdown early in the third period was set up when quarterback Dave Bourland snagged a Navy pass and returned the interception 28 yards to the Middies' four. Bob Kyasky, the Army's siege gun all season, ripped over left tackle on the first play. Dick Murtland kicked the point.

Navy never could steam past mid-field under its own power as the lightning fast Cadet line kept up the relentless pressure. The only sorties to Cadet territory came when a bounding punt was touched by an Army end and then recovered by a Middie on the Army 20, and on an earlier fumble recovery at the same point.

The Cadets still were trying in the final seconds when Jim Kennedy tried a field goal from the Navy 36 but it was short and time ran out before Navy could put a play in progress.

• • • •

BOURLAND, the question-mark quarterback who had agonizing moments all season, supplied the two key plays to Army's third-period score.

The signal caller pulled the quick kick out of the bag early in the third period to rock Navy back to its 20. Then Bourland latched onto a pass by Tom Forrestal and run it to the Middie four before he was chased out of bounds.

Dagampat was the workhorse in the Navy TD drive. He carried to a first down on the 11 and another first on the half-yard mark. Then he smashed over.

Tech Power Rips Georgia

ATHENS, Ga. (UP)—Georgia Tech riddled Georgia, 35-0, Saturday for its ninth victory against one loss and immediately accepted a bid to play Pittsburgh in the Gator Bowl Dec. 29.

Georgia Tech used a one-two punch at fullback to pierce the hard shell of Georgia's line and halfback Paul Rotenberry then scampered merrily as the Engineers turned the game into a romp.

Tech players in their dressing room accepted the Gator Bowl invitation by unanimous vote. It will be Tech's sixth consecutive bowl appearance. The Engineers have won all five.

Fullbacks Ken Owen and Dick Mattison softened up Georgia in a brutal first half before a crowd of 50,000 and Rotenberry turned the ends with an eight-yard touchdown sweep and a 33-yard breakaway that set up another score.

• • • •

THE ISSUE never seemed in doubt after Tech marched 86 yards for its first score in the second period. Rotenberry shot over right tackle for the final eight yards after Mattison had churned 46 yards in eight carries during the drive.

Georgia Tech took the second half kickoff and 43 seconds and four plays later had its second tally. Jimmy Thompson returned Pud Mosteller's kickoff 18 yards to the Tech 28. Then Rotenberry took a pitch-out from Wade Mitchell, turned right end and streaked 53 yards to Georgia's 19 where Marion Bush hauled him down.

• • • •

THOMPSON WENT for 14 and a Georgia offside penalty moved the ball to the one, where Mitchell sneaked in.

Tech exploded for three touchdowns in the fourth quarter as the tired Bulldogs could muster only slight opposition.

Rebels Come From Behind for 13-7 Win

OXFORD, Miss. (UP) — Mississippi mounted a last minute drive Saturday to whip Mississippi State, 13-7, in their 52nd annual football game before 34,000 fans.

Ray Brown and Paige Cothern were the heroes of the Mississippi rally. Cothern's leap over center put it on the four. Brown went through the middle to score.

Both previous scores came on breaks in the second quarter. First, Brown went back to pass from the 50, looked around, and passed directly into the arms of State's Jimmy Dodd, who raced 45 yards to score. Bobby Tribble's conversion was good and State led 7-0.

Then came Mississippi's break a few plays later. State quarterback Billy Stacy fumbled and he was downed on his two.

Two plays later Cothern bulled through left tackle with little more than two minutes of the first half left.

Northwestern Sets New Field Goal Mark

EVANSTON, Ill. (UP)—Veteran Dick Mast and a trio of sophomores led Northwestern to a 99-60 victory over Western Michigan Saturday night.

The Wildcats set a new school field goal record by collecting 44 baskets compared with the old record of 39 against Michigan in 1945.

Gopher Zone Earns Win Over Vanderbilt

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UP)—Minnesota, trailing Vanderbilt 34-30 at the half, switched into a zone defense Saturday night and rallied to a 63-60 victory in the season's opener for both teams.

Forward George Kline paced the Gophers, dropping in seven field goals and five free throws.

Vanderbilt jumped off to an early lead, rolling ahead by 10 points during the opening moments. However, the Gophers began clicking in the second half, pulling ahead by eight points at one stage.

Dayton Opens Bid

DAYTON, O. (UP)—The University of Dayton began its quest for national recognition with an easy 84-48 basketball victory over Gustavus Adolphus here Saturday night.

MAJORS LEADS 10TH STRAIGHT WIN, 27-7

Vols Smash Vandy, Accept Sugar Bid

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UP)—All-America Johnny Majors guided Tennessee to a 27-7 win over Vanderbilt Saturday, capping a perfect season, and the Volunteers immediately accepted a bid to the New Orleans Sugar Bowl.

It was the 10th straight victory this season for the Volunteers, second-rated team in the nation.

Tennessee, which also won its first undisputed Southeastern Conference crown since 1946, accepted the Sugar Bowl bid as soon as the game ended.

Majors personally scored once on a 25 yard run, tossed two key passes in another touchdown drive and kept another going with a clutch 12-yard run.

Fullback Tommy Bronson made two of the Tennessee scores, diving over twice from one yard out.

• • • •

VANDERBILT PUT UP a stubborn fight for two periods but Majors' touchdown early in the second half broke the game open.

Tennessee, in traditional fashion, turned two fumbles into touchdowns in the first half.

In the opening period guard Bill Johnson recovered a Vandy fumble on the Commodore 38. Majors was tossed for a loss but then threw to end Buddy Cruze for 24 yards to the 16.

From there Majors and Bronson carried to the one where Bronson just went up and over the Vandy line for the score.

Vandy, with quarterback Don Orr in good shape for the first time in weeks, snapped back to tie the score.

Orr intercepted a Tennessee pass on the Vanderbilt 32 and Vandy moved 68 yards in 14 plays with Orr, halfback Phil King and fullback Jimmy Butler carrying the burden. Butler went over from the three.

That was all for Vandy except for a last period splurge that died deep in Tennessee territory.

Tennessee went ahead in the second period after taking a Vandy fumble on the Commodore 25. The Vol second team went over in two plays with fullback Carl Smith scoring.

Early in the third period, Majors scampered 25 yards for the touchdown that really broke the game open.

Tackle John Gordon, end Roger Urbano and guard Bill Johnson were standouts for Tennessee defensively.

Last Minute Safety Earns Missouri Win

COLUMBIA, Mo. (UP)—Coach Don Faurot's Missouri Tigers pounded out a safety with only 39 seconds left to go Saturday and ended Faurot's 19 years of Missouri coaching successfully, 15-13, over Kansas.

It was Faurot's 101st win in his tenure at Missouri and almost didn't come when a fumble on Missouri's final conversion attempt left the game tied 13-13 with only 3:12 to go.

The safety came when senior tackle Chuck Mehrer grabbed Kansas halfback Bobby Robinson in the end zone with 39 seconds left. On the play before, the determined but stalled Tigers had pounded Kansas back from its 20 to the four.

TCU Reserves Subdue SMU

DALLAS, Tex. (UP)—Reserve quarterback Dick Finney and scrub halfback Carlos Vacek, who had never thrown in a game before, tossed touchdown passes Saturday as Cotton Bowl-bound Texas Christian downed stubborn Southern Methodist, 21-6, before 32,500 persons.

Sandwiched in between Vacek's 10-yard second quarter flip to end Harold Pollard and a final period four-yard scoring pitch from Finney to scatback Virgil Miller, the Texas Christian first team managed to convert a Southern Methodist fumble into an eight-yard touchdown run by quarterback Charles Curtis.

With the reserve units carrying the brunt of the offensive success against injury-stricken Southern Methodist, TCU tucked away a 7-3 season record and an undisputed Southwest Conference second place to carry into the New Year's Day bowl against Syracuse.

• • • •

SOUTHERN METHODIST had scored first on a four-yard drive by halfback Charles Jackson in the second period after the day's most spectacular play—a 75-yard interception return by SMU guard Tom Koenig—had set up the situation.

The Methodists put up a terrific scrap in view of the fact that four of its first six backs weren't even in uniform due to injuries and the quarterbacking was in the hands of sophomore David Musslewhite, who had seen only one minute of varsity action all season.

But, the TCU ground attack, sparked by the reserves, was too much for SMU to handle as it rolled up 279 yards to 64 for SMU.

Tigers Bid for Bowl in 28-7 Victory

CLEMSON, S. C. (UP)—Clemson rolled to a convincing 28-7 football victory over undermanned Furman here Saturday in its drive for a bid to meet Colorado in the Orange Bowl.

All-Conference halfback Joel Wells opened the scoring with a 15-yard touchdown run ending a 70-yard drive from the initial kickoff. He scored again in the second period from the two after Furman had tied the game with a 90-yard first period march. Furman halfback Jackie Powers raced two yards for the touchdown.

Late in the second period Clemson got its first touchdown via passing with quarterback Charlie Bussey throwing for 13 yards to end Dalton Rivers in the end zone.

The victory gave the Tigers an overall 7-1-2 record and left it 4-0-1 in the conference.

San Jose Bogged in Hawaii Mud

HONOLULU, T. H. (UP)—The University of Hawaii beat San Jose State at its own passing game Saturday night and posted a 20-0 victory in a mud bath before 6,000 football fans.

The game, which was the last one for retiring Coach Bob Bronzan, tied the Spartan's all-time record of seven losses in one season.

San Jose's vaunted passing attack bogged down in the wake of an all-day downpour. Quarterbacks Bob Reinhard and Marv McKean completed but five of 16 attempts and had three intercepted.

'ARMY BEST WE'VE MET'

Midshipmen, Erdelatz Disappointed at Bowl Ban

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—Rejection of a Cotton Bowl bid by Admiral W. R. Smedberg rankled more in the Navy locker room than the failure to beat Army.

Smedberg's decision left a bitter taste that exceeded the disappointing 7-7 tie. Coach Eddie Erdelatz made no attempt to hide his feelings and remarks by the players echoed his thoughts.

Erdelatz said this was the best Army team he has seen in seven years. "Definitely the best we've met all season," he added. "We didn't move the ball. We had an early opportunity but didn't cash in."

Animated gestures and expressions of disgust were mute evidence of how the Army players felt about the tie.

Coach Earl Blaik said, "In there is the most disgusted group I've ever seen. They thought they should have won, and so do I. How could they say anything after the way things went?"

ARAGON 12-5 PICK OVER GENE POIRIER

Oddsmakers have installed Art Aragon a 12-5 choice over New York's Gene Poirier for their non-televised 10-rounder next Tuesday at Hollywood Legion Stadium.

Aragon, currently ranked as the world's fourth best 147-pounder, will be making his first start since stopping Cisco Andrade, Aug. 29 at Wrigley Field.

Poirier's two best showings this year were decisions over Danny Perez and Carmen Flore in New York. He also gave Gaspar Ortega a close battle at St. Nick's in New York before dropping a split decision.

Gold Nita Snares Feature as Bob's Folly Disappoints

John F. Mawson's Gold Nita, a little filly with a great big heart, sprinted to a half-length victory Saturday in the $13,650 Pacific Coast Quarter Horse Racing Association California-bred Stakes before 10,120 fans who wagered $613,793 on a nine-race card.

Both the attendance and mutuel figures were new records for a fall meeting at Frank Vessel's friendly Orange County course.

Gold Nita, seemingly beaten a hundred yards from the wire, came with a great rush between horses to turn back Clabber Pat and Peaceful Acres in 18.4 seconds for the 350 yards and, coupled in the wagering with Mobile's Mite, paid $2.80, $2.20 and $2.10 across the board as one of seven favorites to get home in front.

• • • •

THE VICTORY of Gold Nita, a 2-year-old daughter of Chudej's Black Gold—Penita, bred by her owner, a Los Angeles industrialist, was worth $6,142.50 and was her second of the meeting.

Gold Nita was away a trifle slowly, her stablemate, Mobile's Mite, filling in as pacemaker. But Mobile's Mite surrendered the lead after 100 yards and Clabber Pat and Peaceful Acres took over.

Midway through the stretch, jockey Kenneth Chapman got Gold Nita in top stride and she worked her way up between horses to wrest command near the wire and draw out quickly.

• • • •

THE AMAZINGLY formful day had only one real disappointment and that was Dr. R. T. Leneve's Bob Folly, world record holder for 440 yards, who wound up fifth in the companion feature, the $5000 Johnny Dial Stakes at 400 yards, as a 95 cents-on-the dollar favorite.

Bob's Folly was never in the chase as Betty Jo Kiser's Vanetta Dee grabbed the lead from Dividend nearing the finish to win by a head in 20.5 seconds for 400 yards, with Alfaretta third.

SAN MATEO (AP) — Bobby Brocato topped the $500,000 mark in turf earnings Saturday, winning the featured $15,685 Bay Meadows Handicap in the track record-breaking time of 1:40 4/5 for the mile and a sixteenth.

The five-year-old son of Natchez, highweighted with Johnny Longden at 128 pounds, took the four-horse feature with speed in reverse.

The Argentine-bred Hollandes II, with Willie Shoemaker up, was second by a length, and Count Chic was third.

Bobby Brocato, in breaking the old track standard of 1:41 3/5, paid $3.30 as the solid favorite.

United States Five Praised—Best Ever

MELBOURNE (AP)—Coach Gerald Tucker Saturday night described his U. S. Olympic champion basketball team "as good as any ever assembled in the world."

The highly-elated American said "everybody down here has tried to figure out that these kids are not as good as they really are. But they would be equal to any team in any league anywhere."

Tucker described the Russians as "good" and said the Soviet team would be representative of American collegiate basketball but would not win very many games.

"They would have to play our game," Tucker explained, "as American basketball differs considerably from that played in Europe. The Russians handle the ball well and are a well coached group."

• • • •

THE FINAL GAME, which the U.S. won handily, 89-55, was anti-climactic since the Russians had already been drubbed by an almost identical score, 85-55, in an earlier meeting.

So thoroughly did the Americans dominate the game that Soviet athletes left the arena in embarrassment at halftime when the count was 56-27.

Tucker singled out Bill Russell, K. C. Jones and Bob Jeangerard, as the leading factors in the title win. They scored 13, 15, and 16 points respectively in the gold medal game—Jeangerard's was high for the contest — and Russell and Jones turned in their finest defensive efforts of the eight games played in the Olympics.

Russell, who was drafted by the Boston Celtics and is sought after by the Harlem Globetrotters, says he has no plans now about turning pro. He said: "All I can think about right now is that we won. I'm getting married Dec. 9 and I haven't got time to go thinking about anything else."

Bob Kelley Says---

By ALAN CLINE
(Pinch-hitting for Bob Kelley)

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The University of San Francisco Dons, No. 1 basketball team in the nation, still has height, experience and hustle. But Coach Phil Woolpert has a mighty problem. No Bill Russell.

Russell, 6-10 mainstay of a team which set the national collegiate consecutive win record of 55 and won two NCAA titles, and his teammate, K. C. Jones, Don Captain and a tremendous competitor, have graduated. Both are in Melbourne with the victorious U. S. Olympic basketball squad.

"Jones was always there when the team needed a lift," Woolpert said. "It is a gift he has . . . an intangible . . . something lots of people don't see."

AND HOW ABOUT the loss of Russell, the giant with the knack of knocking opponents' shots back into their faces and the ability to score with a backward two-handed "dunk" shot?

"There just isn't anyone to fill Russell's shoes," Woolpert said.

The Dons opened their 25-game season Nov. 30 against Chico State and although they won rather handily, Woolpert feared they would not be ready, even for that game—that even three first stringers back from last year's squad won't begin to make the team jell until midseason.

HE EXPLAINS his national champions practically started together as freshmen. They knew what each other was going to do before he did it.

As for the 1956-57 club, Woolpert says:

"We'll have a lot of hustle and drive but we're bound to make mistakes."

Carl Boldt, who draws Russell's job; Mike Farmer and Gene Brown form the nucleus of the club.

Boldt, 6-5, is described as an excellent ball handler, a good shooter and adequate on the backboards "although no Russell."

Farmer, 6-7, a forward, is strong, good on defense and another good outside shooter.

Brown, 6-3, is the team's best ball handler who Woolpert says can get off shots where very few can. He filled in superbly for Jones last year.

THE OTHER TWO starters are Mike Preaseau, a 6-5 forward, and Dave Lillevand, a 5-11 guard. Preaseau is a speedy and capable rebound man while Lillevan is rated as deceptive and a great competitor.

The three top reserves are Art Day and Al Dunbar, two junior college transfers from Hannibal-Lagrange (Mo.) and Charlie Russell, Bill's brother.

Russell, 24, and a year older than his famius brothers, is a service returnee and a forward.

Day, at 6-9 has plenty of potential, Woolpert says, but doesn't have the wingspread or the strength of a Bill Russell. But Day is only 19. Dunbar is another 5-11 speedster.

SAY PRESS QUARTERED AT 'CLIP JOINTS'

MELBOURNE (Sunday) (UP)—A writer in the Sydney Daily Telegraph said today that some of the hotels and nightspots in Melbourne are earning a reputation as a "nation of latter-day bushrangers." (highway robbers).

"With prices blantantly and admittedly increased for the duration of the Games, a number are giving service and facilities only slightly better than usual," the writer said.

"It is fortunate, however, that this banditry is being offset by the henerosity and hospitality of other hotels and by thousands of private citizens.

"But some of the international press is quartered at the clip joints and the world is going to hear about it," he said.

Tartars Drill for 4th JRB Contest

By JERRY HALL

Compton College footballers put aside their crown this week and get down to the grim business of polishing an attack to hurl at the Texas invaders in the Junior Rose Bowl Saturday.

The national championship the Tartars tucked away last week won't mean much to the Arlington, Tex. challengers, because they are armed with a booster shot of confidence. They romped all over the team that almost upset Compton (15-12) recently — the Cameron, Okla., Aggies.

Arlington beat Cameron 27-13. A month later the Aggies journeyed to Compton and charged the towering Tartar linemen off their feet for three quarters, but their squad of only 24 tired in the late going.

• • • •

COMPTON HAS A 10-0 record, running up 303 points to the opposition's 24. Arlington has a 8-1-1 slate, falling only to Tarleton, Tex. That was a 30-7 setback, but quickly explained. The Arlington squad was bedridden with the flu until game time. The JRB promoters eagerly produce a doctor's notarized statement to all doubters.

This Compton team rates right with the best of Tartar powerhouses of the past. It is right on the heels of school records in several departments. The team established a new school record for most touchdowns during the regular season—61. No other Tartar team has scored so many or been scored on so seldom.

The Tartars are going after their 36th in a row without defeat.

Compton has never lost a bowl game. This is its fourth appearance in the Pasadena JC classic and a repeat performance, as the Tartars defeated Hinds, Miss., in last year's game.

By JERRY WYNN

Would Santa Maria Country Club in little Santa Maria outdraw the Los Angeles Country Club in big Los Angeles as a site for a golf tournament?

An emphatic "yes" was the answer of Ralph Evans, Southern California PGA tournament committee chairman.

Our question was made in reference to the selection of Santa Maria as the site of the State Open next May and came on the heels of a lively debate on why the Southern California Open flopped (as PARticulars predicted it would) at Tijuana last month.

"I don't think the State Open would draw more than 200 people at Los Angeles CC," Evans startled us with. "There's a good chance that with good promotion, the tournament will be a success at Santa Maria."

Why was the Southern California Open a flop?

"The sponsors didn't deliver as they promised," said Evans. "Tijuana enthusiastically wanted the tournament and assured us it would be a success. They just didn't deliver."

According to one Long Beach pro who competed, there were scarcely more than 100 persons in attendance for all four days of play. In addition were these factors:

1. The tournament was not held in Southern California.

2. You had to go nine places down the order of finish to find a Southern California home club professional.

3. The large field was almost bare of leading amateurs in a tournament which is presumably supposed to be a test between the amateurs and professionals.

PARticulars had criticized the SC-PGA tournament committee for its selection of Tijuana. But according to Evans, it had no other choice.

"I tried all summer to get a sponsor and Tijuana was the only one to respond. The bid by Lakewood Rotary Club you referred to was made after arrangements had been completed with Tijuana. If they are still interested in it next year, we will be very happy to talk with them."

We didn't mean to imply personal criticism of Evans in our column concerning Tijuana. There are few more efficient and personable pros than the dapper little Clock CC representative.

(P.S. Would Santa Maria outdraw Los Angeles? It's hard to believe. We don't.)

HOLE-IN-ONE honors to Dick Smith and S. A. Krieger.

Smith, of 321 Pomona Ave., hit a 9-iron ("a real good sweet shot") into the 135-yard 18th hole at Recreation Park while playing with Glenn Krebs, Joe Feldik and Joe Sparks.

Krieger, of 300 Granada Ave., connected on the 93-yard third hole at the South Course in a family threesome of Ronny and Marilyn Krieger.

ONCE OVER—

the boxing business knew . . . that he wasn't strong enough to shoot the works from the start. He had to gamble on a one or two-punch victory. He laid back waiting for such an opening that never came as young Patterson methodically cut him down.

Patterson's blazing speed never gave Moore a breathing spell and his body shots had Arch breathing hard by the end of the third round, according to Jimmy Powers, the TV announcer. Floyd confirmed this in his dressing room statement that he knew he had him after a punishing blow to the body in the third.

While Patterson is not a devastating puncher, he hits sharply and often. The blows are more punishing than they appear to be on the TV screen. They sap the strength of an opponent.

Only ones around now with a chance against the new champion are Eddie Machen . . . and the retired undefeated heavyweight king, Rocky Marciano.

Sid Flaherty undoubtedly will insist on several more tuneup fights for Machen before turning his tiger loose against Patterson in a big outdoor show either late in 1957 or in June of 1958.

Meanwhile, a Patterson-Marciano outdoor bout next summer is still a solid possibility.

As we have reported, there are indications that Rocky will announce a comeback sometime in March or April!

Last-Second Score Wins for Holy Cross

BOSTON (AP)—Senior quarterback Billy Smithers connected with Paul Toland on a 20-yard pass with 40 seconds remaining to enable Holy Cross to edge past stubborn Boston College, 7-0, Saturday in the 53rd meeting between the Jesuit rivals before 34,176 chilled fans at Fenway Park.

Boston College turned back four other scoring bids by the Crusaders from Worcester before Toland slipped by a BC defender and took Smithers' high lob.

Minors Open Meet Monday

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Baseball comes out of moth balls Monday when the minor league meetings open with a top-heavy draft, proposed new bonus rules agenda that includes the annual and a "save the minors" program.

The current bonus rule, a sore spot with many baseball men for the past 10 years, will come under attack by a Chicago White Sox bloc which seeks adoption of so-called "premium player draft" as a means of permitting rookies to play one year in the minors before entering the majors.

The major league clubs will conduct their annual draft of minor league players Monday.

Among the top draft eligibles of 2,856 players are such former bonus babies as Paul Pettit, Gus Kerlazakos, Frank Leja, Bruce Swango, Joe Amalfitano and Ed Cereghino. Draft price ranges from $2,000 for class D players to $15,000 for open classification (Pacific Coast League).

No Soccer Games at L. B. Stadium Today

There will be no soccer games played at Veterans Memorial Stadium today because of the National Challenge Cup matches in Los Angeles. Next Sunday Pan Americans meet the Vikings and Magyars tangle with the Scots here.

Rosewall, Gibson Win

ADELAIDE, Australia (UP)—Althea Gibson of New York battled to an 8-6, 7-5 triumph over Shirley Fry of St. Petersburg, Fla., in the women's final of the South Australian tennis meet Saturday, while Ken Rosewall overpowered Lew Hoad, 6-1, 7-5, 6-1, in the all-Aussie men's windup.

Miss Fry was the better retriever, but Miss Gibson was powerful with her service throughout and also capitalized on a fine volleying game.

Rosewall exercised nearly perfect control with his placement shots to win the championship from Hoad.

CC Enters Pre-Coast Sail Meet

By BOB RUSKAUFF

A double portion of sailing action on Newport Bay is on tap today, featuring (1), opening fall championship races sponsored by Balboa YC and (2), a tune-up series at Newport Harbor YC, hosted by UCLA and pointing toward the 12th Pacific Coast Intercollegiate championships, Dec. 15-16.

For the first time in several years, Long Beach City College will be in the action today, likewise in the championships, which are expected to lure teams from a dozen schools.

Viking team captain, Lee Thompson, said that helmsmen today will be Jim Clinton and George Chapman, with a "mixture of crews. From what happens in the tune-ups we'll pick our winning combo for the championships."

Defending Dec. 15 and 16 will be Occidental which—via skippers Tom Ramsey of Long Beach and Peter Frost, Newport—last year walloped all rivals to take the title. Pomona-Claremont, represented by Llewellyn Bixby IV, now graduated and looked toward his Armed Forces stint, and Win Fuller were runners-up.

BYC's fall series today will have in action boats over 14 feet length. The championships will conclude next Sunday. Also opening two Sundays of series action for all classes, will be boats racing at Redondo under sponsorship of the Wind'ard YC.

• • • •

LONG BEACH will be site of annual meetings of two speedboat racing organizations. Inboarding's Southern California Speedboat Club will hold its big banquet Dec. 22 at Pacific Coast Club, under direction of rear-commodore-driver, Bob Willis. Los Angeles Speedboat Association has Feb. 2 slated, at the Lafayette Hotel. The LASA Yule party is Dec. 15 at Nicodell, Hollywood.

Fishin' Around

By DONNELL CULPEPPER

It's hard to pin down the recent revival of interest in fresh-water fishing except to attribute it to the warm weather which has bathed California for more than a month. Actually, we received more calls from fishermen than hunters last week.

The requests for angling information come at a time when only the southern counties are open to trout fishing and, we might add, when there is so little water that most trips are hardly justified. However, here's a rundown on the best bets in case California's summer-like weather continues through December:

• • • •

ISABELLA LAKE—190 miles from Long Beach via Bakersfield and Kern River Canyon. Trout fishing fair to excellent with many two-and three-pounders being taken by trollers. Boats and motors for rent at the landing. New campground completed near the lake. Private boats may be launched for a specified fee, but all boats must observe rules, which are strictly enforced. When wind starts to blow dangerously, sirens are sounded and all boats must go to shore. Kernville is three miles from lake and there are five modern motels there. The lake now holds 175,000 acre feet of water.

Arrowhead Lake — Fishing fair to good. Summer stocking program really paying off now. Boat landing will be open all winter and fishing permitted every day, weather permitting.

• • • •

TROUT PLANTINGS were made at Crystal Lake and the East and West Forks of the San Gabriel River last week. Fulmor Lake (Riverside County) also was restocked. In San Bernardino County, Arrowhead, Green Valley and Gregory Lakes received fish, as did the Middle and North Forks of Lytle Creek. Another stocking of catchable-size rainbow went into Matilija Reservoir (Ventura County).

Clyde J. Thisse and Leonard R. Delmar, both of Long Beach, did a scouting trip to Cachuma Lake, near Santa Barbara, and saw some anglers take limits and partial limits of rainbow. Thisse reported that one fish was weighed in at 3 lbs., 2 oz.

Cachuma is in the Santa Ynez Valley between Santa Barbara and Buellton. Camping facilities as yet are limited. Boats and outboards are available and private boats may be launched for $1. The Department of Fish and Game is not stocking the lake this winter, but there seems to be a good holdover of fish from last summer and previous seasons.

• • • •

SCANNING OTHER fishing fronts, we find that Little Rock Reservoir will be unsuitable for fishing within a matter of days. The irrigation district is draining the lake because of drought conditions. DF&G wardens hope to rescue the fish there and transplant them to other areas.

El Capitan and San Vicente, the only reservoirs still open for fishing in San Diego County, are producing very poorly.

Legg Lake will be closed Dec. 31 for an indefinite period.

And that just about covers the nearby fresh-water spots. If you want to try for bass and catfish, head for the Colorado River and Lake Mead, Havasu and Mohave. Weather is ideal there at this time and fishing at times is excellent.

The cutthroat season is on at Walker Lake, Nev., and trout in the 6-to-9-pound categories are filling the refrigerators there. As long as the balmy weather holds, fishermen should continue to do well there, trolling deep just off shore. If you are interested in accommodations, write Barney O'Malia, El Capitan Club, Hawthorne, Nev.

• • • •

THE PHEASANT season ends today in all parts of the state except at the private clubs which have contracts with the DF&G. But there's still time to hunt quail and chukars (if you can find 'em) and, in addition, the band-tailed pigeon season is under way.

Best places for the bandtails will be Abel and Frazier Mountains, where wardens have noted heavy concentrations of birds. After this opening week end, they may scatter widely. The outlook is poor in Orange and Riverside Counties, even though there's a normal good-sized population of the birds near Idyllwild.

Duck hunting has ranged from poor to fair, with weather conditions changing every few days in Imperial Valley. Hunters on the state-controlled units (Hazard - Wister and Finney-Ramer) did exceptionally well on those windy days, but the hunting fell off in more moderate weather.

Waterfowlers returning from central and northern California also are complaining about the bluebird weather. The birds are everywhere but they are too smart to come within range of guns when the sky is clear.

• • • •

MAIN INTEREST in ocean fishing turned to the surf, where anglers were doing exceptionally well for this time of year. There have been some big catches of opaleye in the Laguna Beach area, as well at the Federal Breakwater, off Long Beach.

Barred perch are starting to hit all the way from the border north to Santa Barbara and several clubs in the Santa Monica area have set dates for winter derbies.

Deep-sea fishing tapered off, with only the half-day and all-day boats running out of Long Beach landings for the rockfish banks.

'MOST POPULAR'

Name Victor on Tuesday

The hot contest for the "Most Popular Football Player" in Long Beach high schools was narrowed down to six candidates Saturday as the vote count continued following the final voting last Friday.

Those in the running for the honor were Jim Smith and Henry Andrews of Poly, Dave Groff of Millikan, Dave Floyd of Wilson, and Al Roman and Walt Osgood of St. Anthony's.

The winner will be announced in Tuesday morning's Independent.

Reds' Robinson, Sox' Aparicio 'Rookies of Year'

NEW YORK (UP)—Leftfielder Frank Robinson, who wasn't even on the Cincinnati Redlegs' roster last spring, and shortstop Luis Aparicio of the Chicago White Sox Saturday were selected as the major league "rookies of the year" by the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Robinson was the unanimous choice of the 24-man selection committee in the National League, while Aparicio was named on all but two American League ballots.

Robinson wound up the 1956 season with 38 home runs, tying a rookie record set by Wally Berger of the Braves in 1930. He batted .290 and drove in 83 runs.

Aparicio wound up with a respectable .266 average, batted in 56 runs in 152 games and banged out 18 doubles, six triples and three homers.

As a fielder, Aparicio led all shortstops in total chances (759), assists (474) and putouts (250). He figured in 91 double plays and committed only 35 errors.

Tele-Vues by TERRY VERNON

Danny Kaye clowned his way to fame and fortune but there's a "Secret Life of Danny Kaye" that hasn't been highly publicized, nor does Danny want it to be. However, persuasive Edward R. Murrow talked Kaye into letting the "See It Now" cameras follow Danny on a 50,000 mile globe-girdling trip.

Appearing before an audience of one spastic child in Greece and an audience of thousands in Belgrade, Danny Kaye is seen in action as the Ambassador-At-Large for the United International Children's Emergency Fund (UNICEF).

Language barriers fell before the smiling Kaye and his buffoonery and everywhere he went, from the London Palladium to the sands of the Moroccon desert, he won hearts for his cause of better understanding and peace.

It's a 90-minute tour on TV over (2) starting at 4:30 p.m.

DAYTIME DATA

"Let's Take a Trip" (2) at 9 a.m. goes to basketball practice at Columbia University . . . The Rams-Steelers game on (2) at 11 a.m. . . . Sen. Wayne Morse visits "770 On TV" at 12 noon on (7) . . . Rabbi Edgar F. Magnin tells the story of Chanukah on (11) at 1:30 p.m. . . . "Jalopy Derby" on (5) at 2 p.m. from Gardena with more races on (11) at same hour. (5) won rights to telecast the Gardena Races in a court fight so (11) moved its scene to San Berdoo where jalopy races are also held, and Bill Welsh does the calling . . . A film report on earthquakes and what causes them is billed for (4) at 2:30 p.m. . . . Carveth Wells "Explores the World" on (4) at 3 p.m. with a report on missionaries, "world's greatest explorers" . . . Money to Loan 29

St. Nicholas started a famous tradition with simple gifts...

Today's Santa Claus must supply millions of varied gifts.

NEED MONEY FOR CHRISTMAS?

Keeping-up with Santa Claus often puts a heavy strain on the budget, and most of us need extra money to match our gift-buying to our gift list. If you need extra money, see PF right away, as your friends and neighbors do.

Down-Hearted!
Will Someone Have Me?
DEAR FOLKS:
I am looking for a home who would appreciate me. I consist of a beautiful complete living room including rugs, TV, lamps, etc., fine triple type dresser bdrm. set, twin maple bedroom set for youngsters or adults, handsome inlaid chrome dinette set with six chairs and lovely refrigerator, gas range and fine automatic washer. And if some nice couple likes me there are blankets, dishes and silverware.
I am available for no money down for only $445 complete. My monthly upkeep is so low you won't be disappointed.
P.S.—I could make some family very happy who are now in town, or someone who is just starting out with no credit. Thanking you in advance, hope to see you soon. If you can't use all of me, you can have part of me.
I can be seen daily 10-9 and Sunday 11 to 6. I'm located near intersection Manchester Blvd. & Broadway, ½ blk. of Manchester, L. A.

Hastening a Child on Road to Recovery

By BAXTER OMOHUNDRO

"T. L. C." is a treatment often vitally needed by child patients in the strange, sterile surroundings of a hospital ward, but it's one that busy doctors and nurses sometimes are hard-pressed to provide.

But more than 100 women from throughout the harbor and South Bay areas are giving an abundance of "Tender, Loving Care" to youngsters at Harbor General Hospital, Torrance.

RECEIVING HIS SHARE of "T. L. C." at Harbor General Hospital is Dennis Wiemart, who gets a big hug from Mrs. C. A. Tillman of Lomita.

The women are members of Volunteers for Children, organized a little more than a year ago by the group's president, Mrs. John Stoddard of 3209 Antonio Dr., after she read of a similar volunteer corps in New York City.

A housewife and mother as are many of the members, Mrs. Stoddard goes to the hospital when her two healthy youngsters are in school.

She and the other volunteers help the children on the road to recovery with morale-lifting activities: reading, playing, talking and lots of motherly cuddling.

It fills an important emotional need that no prescription from the hospital pharmacy could ever provide. In effect, the women are "stand-in mothers," since the children's real parents usually are allowed to visit them only two hours weekly.

PRESIDENT AND FOUNDER of Volunteers for Children at the hospital, Mrs. Virginia Stoddard of Torrance, gives a goodnight-kiss to little Elaine Kuehl as she tucks her into bed.

The volunteers spend at least two hours weekly at the hospital. They wear white blouses with pink pinafores, which they provide.

In addition to the members who go to the hospital, there are 60 associates who make toys and garments for the youngsters.

More members are needed to round out the organization's program, according to Mrs. Stoddard.

"We're particularly looking for women who can serve during the evening 'tuck-in' time," she reports. "Bed-time is when the children seem to miss their parents most."

The V.F.C. program is supported to a large extent by area service groups, with the local Kiwanis Club undertaking the project this year.

Such organizations have helped the volunteers provide the tiny patients with a wheel chair, stroller, cradle gyms, toys, speech therapy clinic, television set, film and viewers, books and Christmas party.

"We never meet socially," Mrs. Stoddard explains. "Our only aim, and our greatest reward, is to see a smile on a sick child's face."

STORY TIME is a happy time for hospitalized youngsters Dale Erwin and Nancy Lackey, as they listen to Mrs. Terrell Croskrey of Harbor City.

SILVER SPLENDOR

Provisionals of Assistance League of Long Beach sort through holiday decorations for that "something different" that traditionally places their Silver Ball among the city's outstanding social events of the season. While this year's decorations will remain secret until the event—Friday at Virginia Country Club—Leaguers, from left, Mrs. Henry Vlets, Mrs. Carlos L. Cates, Mrs. Francis Heusel, president, and Mrs. Harold Maggart (seated on table) promise a lovely setting in silver and green to complement the formally-clad revelers. The evening will begin with a 7 o'clock cocktail hour, followed by dinner and dancing.

Silver Ball Glows on Horizon

Thoughts of thrift shops, girls clubs and other philanthropic endeavors will be forgotten Friday as Long Beach Assistance Leaguers gather at Virginia Country Club for their annual Silver Ball, arranged by League provisionals, and distinguished as the group's only "purely social" event of the year.

Traditionally a high spot on the city's social calendar, the formal event will begin with pre-dinner cocktails at 7 o'clock, followed by dinner and later dancing to the music of Jimmy Whetmore and his orchestra.

Mrs. Fred Tucker Jr., and Mrs. George Barker, League actives, are heading the ball committee as chairman and co-chairman respectively. Mrs. William Rhorer who is in charge of decorations is keeping them a well guarded secret, but reveals guests will find themselves in a color scheme of green and silver.

In charge of invitations and reservations for the 100 couples expected at the gala event are Mrs. Eldon Bassett and Mrs. John D. Walker. Other provisionals assisting in preparations are Mmes. Ernest Belcher, Chris Conway, Elliston Farrell, Carlos T. Gates, Arthur Hagge, Harold Maggart, Gilmer Millie, Waldo Moore, Douglas Newcomb, Burson Schooling, and Henry Vlets.

Through the Eyes of a Refugee

By ILKA CHASE

The arrival of the first Hungarian refugees in this country, moved me to compose the following letter. It might have been written by one of the newcomers to a friend who had also escaped from his unhappy homeland, but who found refuge elsewhere in Europe.

DEAR PEPPI:

Well, Peppi, we have arrived in America. I wanted to write you sooner but it was a long, tiring trip, although exciting, and so many new impressions have crowded in upon me, I am only now getting things sorted out in my mind.

As we stepped from the plane onto the big airport an Army band was playing loudly. It had a strong umpah umpah beat and, at first, I thought it was the American national anthem, but after a few moments I realized it was Brahms, the Hungarian Dances 5 and 6. You know me, Peppi, I am musical and personally I don't mind if I never hear Brahms' idea of Hungarian gypsies again, but it was a kind gesture. The Americans wanted to make us feel at home.

One thing that startled me, though, was the number of soldiers about. Peppi, the Americans are afraid of us! Five soldiers to every one of us. "No, no," I wanted to tell them. "Don't worry; we are in your debt, we are grateful to be here," but when you speak so little of a language it is hard.

"One More, Please"

There were even more newspaper reporters and men with cameras than there were of the military. Imre's son, Sandor, was on the plane, too. He speaks good English and hoped maybe to get a job on a paper, but poor boy, I do not think it will be possible. The profession must be greatly overcrowded as it is. We posed and posed for our pictures, but always the photographers asked for just one more. Possibly their cameras aren't very good and they can't be sure of results. That is one thing we could do to repay a little, maybe.

Please get in touch with Joseph in West Berlin. A couple of years ago I lent him some money. I don't want the money back but I would very much like him to send me a good German camera and I will give it to one of the nice American newspaper photographers.

After we were photographed we marched over to an outdoor platform, where a distinguished gentleman, the Secretary of the American Army, Mr. Wilbur Brucker, made a speech. There was a strong wind blowing and Mr. Brucker and the other gentlemen of the delegation and ourselves were all quite cold. Mr. Brucker looked rather unhappy, but you could see he felt he had to do something official.

The first thing he said was that he wanted to initiate us. For a moment I was worried. I remembered the initiations at the university — dumped in cold fountains, swallowing worms — it was nothing I wanted to go through at my age. But I would have done it, Peppi, without a murmur. I would not want an American to think we Hungarians are cowards, but as it turned out Mr. Brucker didn't mean what I had thought.

On Freedom

The next thing he said was, "I want you to know what freedom is all about." I looked at the others. Some of them looked sad and some had curious little smiles. I think maybe Mr. Brucker doesn't understand that we

PROVISIONALS PLAN

Dancing to the music of Jimmy Whetmore's orchestra will follow dinner when Assistance League of Long Beach calls a halt to philanthropic endeavors long enough to enjoy its one big social function of the year, the annual Silver Ball, slated Friday at Virginia Country Club. Among provisionals serving on the planning committee are, left to right, Mrs. Chris Conway, Mrs. Eldon S. Bassett, Mrs. Gilmer Millie, and at fireplace, Mrs. William G. Rhorer.

Traditional AAUW Event to Open Christmas Season

"Christmas Windows" will be theme of a tableau to be presented by the Arts Section following the traditional Christmas dinner Tuesday of Long Beach Branch, American Society of University Women, at First Congregational Church.

Husbands have been invited as special guests, and will be honored by being seated at special tables reserved for couples.

Mrs. Robert Prior, chairman, reports that five Christmas scenes have been painted by Mrs. A. M. Myers and herself for the tableau, and will complement favorite Christmas poetry selected by the committee. Youngsters who will pose in the pictures are Ronny and Michael Clark, Pat and Rosemary Myers, Suzie Arnold and Pamela Newel.

A voice choir, under the direction of Miss Carlotta Bennett, will provide narrative settings before the scenes are opened. Miss Bennett has created an original poem from the theme "Christmas Windows" which will be presented as a climax to the prologue.

Mrs. Clemit Hale, music chairman, has arranged for Miss Harriet Wood, harpist, to provide delicate tracery of Christmas music while the paintings are being shown.

"Angel Face" by Eileen Fisher will be presented by the choir preceding the first scene of a stained glass church window.

Lettie Van Deveer's "Secrets" will narrate the familiar scene of children investigating packages under a Christmas tree.

Next "The Christmas Cookie Lady" by Eileen Fisher will set the scene for an old fashioned kitchen, "Santa Claus Magic," another delightful selection by Eileen Fisher, will narrate a department store Santa scene.

The final scene, showing the soft lights of a village at night, will close the tableau as the choir recites "O Little Town of Bethlehem."

More than 40 members have been working on the program's preparation, according to Mrs. Forrest Clark, program chairman, who urges members and guests to let the festive occasion begin their holiday season.

HOLIDAY WELCOME

A glimpse into the delights of the "Cookie Lady's house" is enjoyed by Ronny Clark and Rosemary Myers in this setting from the holiday tableau to be presented at the AAUW traditional Christmas dinner Tuesday at First Congregational Church. Portraying the Cookie Lady is Miss Carlotta Bennett.

Admiral and His Lady to Host Party

The Commander Mine Force U. S. Pacific Fleet, Rear Adm. M. E. Murphy, and Mrs. Murphy have extended invitations to a cocktail party at the Mine Force Flag Mess next Sunday from 5 to 7 p.m.

Over 100 guests have been bidden, prominent citizens of both Long Beach and Los Angeles as well as senior naval officers on active and retired lists.

Assisting the host and hostess receive will be Adm. Murphy's Chief of Staff, Capt. Robert Martin, and Mrs. Martin and Lt. E. A. Drabent.

For the festive occasion Mrs. Murphy is planning her decor to reflect her favorite colors, the russet tones of late autumn. An hors d'ouvres buffet table will hold tall candelabra and an intricate arrangement of fall blossoms.

The Wild Waves Say

—By IOLA MASTERSON—

DECEMBER JUST WALKED through the door carrying an armful of 19 shopping days until Christmas!

Biggest welcome this annual visitor received was out at Lakewood Country Club yesterday where Verna (Mrs. Wilbur Lee) Candy and her mother, Anna (Mrs. M. L.) House gathered together 160 of their friends to put them in a holiday mood. For the bridge luncheon the hostesses left no doubt that December was the honored guest by using her favorite colors, red and green. Assisting were Nancy Mertz, Nora Clarke, Austrid Hammond, Vera Briggs and Alice Irvine.

THE RINDEST THING the Sandlarks do each year is to present their Christmas Fantasy and the smartest thing anyone can do is go and see it! Here's why. The wonderful display of holiday decorations are all for sale. The Fantasy is taking place this weekend in the Wilton Hotel lobby and is open to the public from 10 a. m. until 10 p. m. today and until noon tomorrow.

Among those who saw it Friday at a preview coffee hour and proclaimed it "best yet" were Grace London, Emmy Lou Ingram, Virginia Carey, Ruby Kean, Frances Starr and Mary Alice Johnson. Can't remember whether it was Emmy Lou or Ruby that couldn't be budged from in front of a particularly unusual entry depicting a scene at the North Pole and all made of white fur. Maybe they saw more than table decoration possibilities in that display! In the presence of fur, you know, women are wily!

PINK SO DELICATE it looked fragile as cotton candy was used by Betty Lou Hayter, Marion Bigony and Joanne Christensen for their invitations bidding women whose friendship they share to a coffee hour at Assistance League Clubhouse next Friday. Among those asked to assist have been Judy Deatherage, Shirley Peek, Patti Landis, Barbara Paquette, Martha Tyfield and Aimee Walker.

DIANE ADAMS WAS suddenly "stricken" with a good old-fashioned case of happiness Friday and everyone near her caught the merry bug. She was guest of honor at a bridal shower given by Babs Graham and Pat Van de Water at Babs's home, 3809 Pine Ave. Blond, slender Diane, who will wed Jim Stevenson next February, was presented with a group gift of crystal.

BIRD OF PARADISE and golden crysanthemums blazed their way across the buffet table at Assistance League Clubhouse Wednesday in a handsome floral goodby to autumn when Edna (Mrs. Marion) Houser and Grace (Mrs. Fred) Hudson entertained at a bridge and brunch party.

THAT WORD CHRISTMAS will have the monotonous sound of a broken record in a couple of weeks but right now it has a wonderful ring to it—especially when it accompanies those two other familiar words, "annual party." Gyro Club is having its guest night Christmas dinner dance next Saturday at the Mounted Police Clubhouse and among those who have received invitations from members are Margaret and Bob Sully, Maxine and Bill Clemo, Lillian and Dan Farnham, Betty and Decatur Mitchell, Joan and Greg Hoskins, Jackie and Bob Campbell, John and Dick Simmons, the Earl Downeys, Pat and Jim Collins, the William Gillis', Marge and Tom Fagin, Jackie and Dean Lucas and the Melvin Hamers.

IN THE FACE OF SUCH LOGIC as, "If your suitcases are still packed, why not travel?" we were unable to remain mad at Dorothy and John Munholland who returned from three months in Europe on Nov. 17 and then took off again just four days later for San Francisco! Didn't sound like we-all around here had much appeal to the Munhollands until Dorothy assuaged our feelings (when they finally came home to stay Monday) with that bit about packed bags. Actually they went up to spend Thanksgiving with Dorothy's brother and sister-in-law, Elinor and Joe Campbell and stayed to see the Big Game. What about their travels? Had a wonderful time, bought an MG sedan in England which they are having shipped to them here, and toured all through Europe, the Scandinavian countries and Britain.

IF, WHEN THEY WALK, their heels click like castanets well, that figures! Charlene Bennett and Fritzi Myer returned Friday from Mexico after three weeks full of buenas dias. They divided their time between Mexico City and Acapulco where the Senoritas Bennettez and Myercis had un tiempo fantastico.

HENRY HOPKINS GATHERED some very close friends around him for dinner at the University Club the other night and the very closest was Elizabeth Ann Dix. Guests soon learned that dinner was the least important thing about the evening when Elizabeth and Henry confided they planned to be married next Saturday, Dec. 8. Formerly of Long Beach, Henry has resided in Los Angeles for the past three years where he is now serving as supervisor of the Architectural Dep't, State of California. His bride-to-be is formerly of New Zealand. They will answer the million dollar question at First Baptist Church in the City of the Angels.

THE SEASON OF "littlest angels" has a new recruit this year. Ready to view her first Christmas in cherubic splendor is Kathy Anne Kline, Captain Henry and Ramona (Kirkpatrick) Kline's first baby. Born in Albuquerque, N. M., where Henry is doctoring at Sandia Base Hospital, one of Kathy's first visitors was grandmaw Eleanor Kirkpatrick. Eleanor, we understand, wasn't bothered by the state highway patrol for driving too fast on the way over. Patrolmen figured it was the aeronautical boys' responsibility to book her for flying too low! Raymond proved grandfathers are more composed and took a conventional type aircraft over at a later date to drive the family car home. This time with its tires firmly on the road the entire trip!

IF THE ROARS OF laughter rattling the walls of the Long Beach Community Playhouse Thursday night seemed louder than usual that was to be expected. What else, with the members of seven Lions Clubs and their "lionesses" in attendance to see the players' current comedy, "The Solid Gold Cadillac." Members of each club had pre-theater cocktail parties and after the show they congregated at the Hawaiian Restaurant for midnight supper. What made it especially riotous to the maneless kings of the asphalt veldts was the appearance of brother Lions (genus: downtown club) Keith Houdyshell and Val Deuser in starring roles. Vito Romans was chairlion for this pride of playgoing leos.

LES LAWSON SR. is over in Melbourne, Australia, and where this sports lover's eyes should be we'll bet by now there are sparkling reflections of two gold medals! While he's "down under" Della is "way up there" in Longmeadow, Mass., to spend Christmas with daughter Jane, Gil Keegan and their children. Les will fly back into town Dec. 7 and then take right off again for the East and a Yule rendezvous.

WHILE THE NAME LAWSON is still on the tip of our typewriter might as well let it tell you not to ask Dick or Elva to go anywhere next Saturday night. Don't ask their bridge playing cronies Clara and Harold Odmark, Kay and Stubb Elliott or Cleone and Sol Deeble, either, because they have a date with a couple of bridge tables at the Lawsons' for their "club's" annual Christmas party and bid-bake.

THIS TYPEWRITER has something else it wants to get off its keyboard, so before it blows its magic margin we'll let it tabulate. Mention of the Olympics is what did it. Other Long Beach games watchers are Jackie and Harry Wood, who flew to Aussie land Nov. 8, pausing for five days in Honolulu en route before continuing to Sydney to visit friends and relatives (Harry's father was an Australian). Then on to Melbourne. These Alamitos Bay Yacht Club members have more than a casual interest in the sailing events because Harry, competing in a Finn-Mono type craft, represented the West Coast in Olympic eliminations this summer in San Francisco and in the finals held in Massachusetts, placing sixth in the nation. They'll be home Dec. 12.

Lawhorn-Niederberger Vows

In an evening ceremony in Belmont Heights Methodist Church, two Long Beach State College graduates, Joyce Neiderberger and Paul William Lawhorn, recited wedding lines after the Rev. Charles Yoder.

The bride's own youthful beauty was magnified by her lustrous heirloom bridal dress, designed by William Cahill, of pure silk satin and dyed to match ice-blue guipure lace. The gently gathered bell-shaped skirt swept back to a cathedral length train, adorned with lace insertions re-embroidered with silk cord. From its scalloped front peeped ruffles of pleated nylon tulle. Empire folds of satin on the closely fitted bodice were filled in with matching lace and the natural edge of the lace formed a wide decolletage. A coronet of lace and pearls held her illusion tulle veil. Orchids and lilies of the valley blended in a delicate bouquet.

Mrs. Jack Grier was matron of honor and Charles Lawhorn performed the office of best man. Others in the entourage were Miss Joan Potter, Mrs. James Martin, Richard Blatterman and Myron Pelsinger.

The feminine attendants wore dresses which echoed the brides' in color and detailing, but were of deeper blue and were accented by their bouquets of red roses.

The bride is the daughter of Walter Niederberger, 5719 E. 2nd St., and of the late Mrs. Niederberger. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Lawhorn of Downey.

Before she attended LBSC, the bride was graduated from Polytechnic High School and Long Beach City College. Her affiliations include TNT and Delta Delta Delta. Now a teacher at Newport High School, the bridegroom attended high school in Downey and, later, Whittier College.

After greeting guests at a church reception, the just-weds left for a stay in San Francisco and Carmel, then returned to take up residence in Seal Beach.

College Staff Annual Fete

All members of Long Beach State College faculty and staff are invited to the Faculty Wives annual Christmas party Thursday evening. Gathering at the campus Little Theater, guests will bring donations for the Long Beach Christmas Clearing House.

The program of two one-act plays presented by the college drama department will include "Love and Mathematics" written by student Vernon Lynn and directed by Earl Byers. Under the direction of Elizabeth Baker will be the medieval miracle play, "The Second Shepherd's Play."

Serving at Christmas tables in the Student Lounge following the plays will be Mrs. Robert Wylder and her committee, Mmes. Irving Ahlquist, George Appleton, Edwin Becker, Roscoe Buckland, Brice Grant, Wilfred James, Darwin Mayfield, Ernest Miner, Lawrence Peterson and Robert Winslow.

How America May Look to an Hungarian Refugee

have good reason to know what freedom is all about. Then he said he wanted us to applaud the American Flag.

Travel is certainly broadening, Peppi, and when I get back to Hungary or, God willing, if I am to make a home here, I shall remember this quaint custom when friends come to visit and ask them to applaud my furniture and my flower garden.

Fine, Filling Food

After we had applauded the flag which, by the way the children loved doing, they thought it was a game, we applauded what was called "the men responsible for the top-level handling of this great enterprise." That was us. We were the enterprise.

Later we went to the barracks and they fed us. Fine filling food: pea soup, pork chops, mashed potatoes, lots of good things but, Peppi, I see a chance to start a little business. Americans don't understand about coffee.

There were toys for the children, and needle and thread and razors for us. It was very touching. We were all beginning to have tears dripping off our noses until Hanni and Lajos Pfeister stuffed their toys down the beautiful American toilets, and that broke up the sentiment.

The customs were nothing. Of course, we had nothing either but there was no red tape such as we would have had at home. It is wonderful to have a refuge, but it is difficult to be dependent.

We are grateful beyond measure but we shall continue to work and to pray for the freedom of our own country.

Your friend,
GYULA.

Yule Vacation

The holidays will find Mr. and Mrs. Henry Levitt of Park Estates on a vacation that will take them to New Orleans, Havana, Miami and New York. They will make the trip by air and will be gone a month.

UNICEF Leader Honoree at Taubman Cocktail Buffet

Mrs. Guido Pantaleoni of New York City was the honored guest Friday at a cocktail buffet given by Mrs. George P. Taubman, 1429 La Perla.

President of the US Committee for UNICEF (United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund), Mrs. Pantaleoni has been in the Los Angeles area for a western conference of the organization.

Both she and Mrs. Carter Collins of Berkeley, Northern California chairman for UNICEF, are weekend house-guests of the Taubmans.

Party guests Friday evening learned that Mrs. Pantaleoni's parents were Antoinette and Jozef Adamowsky, well known musicians who played before many crowned heads of Europe, later taught at the New England Conservatory of Music and played in the Boston Symphony.

Mother of five children, the honoree spent seven years on the stage and became director of the Children's Theater Bureau of the Association of Junior Leagues of America.

Her husband, of Italian, English and Irish ancestry, lost his life during World War II. His background, coupled with his wife's Polish and Swedish ancestry has given the family the happy alias of "The Little United Nations."

Spirit of Christmas Reflected in Varied Activities Planned by Military Women

By VIRGINIA NEWTON

Suddenly it's the Christmas season and the parties take on a very festive air. Among those planning their once-a-year holiday party are the popular Wives of Navy Doctors Club members who will gather at the Officers Club, Allen Center, on Wednesday, Dec. 12, at noon for their traditional meeting around the Christmas punch bowl where they will be served by Mrs. F. W. Thompson.

Board members will be the hostesses for the luncheon. Mrs. Harold Hirshland will be in charge of the decorations, and Mrs. George F. Cottle will present names of needy service families that the club will furnish with dinner, presents and clothing.

Mrs. Lewis Dorgan is in charge of reservations, and all wives of Navy medical and dental officers in this area are invited to attend. Many out of town guests are expected.

Mrs. Arthur Spring is the houseguest this weekend of Mr. and Mrs. Clare Ennis in Los Angeles. Also with them are former Navy folks, Mr. and Mrs. Knox Perrill.

Word has been received from former residents, Rear Adm. and Mrs. Martin J. Lawrence of Mare Island, of the marriage of their daughter, Sally, to Leroy Otho Ward, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman E. Ward of Rockville, Md. Mrs. Ward will finish her course in nurses training at Garfield Memorial Hospital in Washington while her husband completes his two-year tour of duty aboard the USS Canberra. Upon completion of his Navy duty, Ward will continue his teaching career.

Capt. and Mrs. B. A. Smith will be moving shortly to San Jose, where the captain takes over command of the USS Chara. He will be relieved here as chief of staff to Commander Cruiser Division Three by Capt. Gordon Selby, who comes to this area with Mrs. Selby from Washington, D. C.

Last Wednesday night, the wives of officers attached to the USS Helena enjoyed a bridge gathering at the home of Mrs. C. E. Rambo.

Mrs. J. D. Johnston had as her recent houseguests from Las Vegas, Lt. Cmdr. and Mrs. R. V. Neighbors and daughters.

Dec. 7 has been chosen as the important date for Air Force Officers Wives Club Christmas luncheon in the Officers Club at the Air Base. Hostesses will be Mrs. Gene Newberry and Mrs. Charles Nottingham. With a fashion show as part of the Christmas package for members, Mrs. Leon Forman will commentate and club members will act as models.

Wives of officers attached to the USS Los Angeles were present recently at a very pretty baby shower given by Mrs. Eugene Geiger for Mrs. Charles H. Black.

Last Wednesday night, Mrs. William Cox and her daughter, Ann, prepared a beautiful surprise birthday dinner—plus a huge birthday cake for CWO Cox. Also sharing honors on the birthday was Lt. Thomas Moore, also from the USS Bryce Canyon. One of the guests, Mrs. Patsy Stagner of Honolulu, entertained with Island dances.

Just returned from several months in the east are former Navy Cmdr. E. W. Sweezy and Mrs. Sweezy, who were houseguests of Sweezy's mother, of Wilton, N. H. They were most happy to get back to all this Christmas sunshine, leaving an 8-inch snowstorm behind.

Recent houseguests of WO and Mrs. C. R. White was Mrs. Pansy Stagner of Honolulu, who stopped en route to witness her daughter Dorinda's marriage in Kansas City, Mo., to Lawrence Nicholson. Over last weekend, the threesome were down in San Diego seeing former Navy friends.

Other recent houseguests from Hawaii, and former Island neighbors of the Whites, were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Zane, who returned to Hawaii, with Mrs. Zane staying in their home there, and Zane going on to his Army post in Korea.

At the recent Air Force Officers Wives Club dessert bridge party, hostesses were Mrs. Alverson and Mrs. Roma Brooks. Winners for the afternoon were Mmes. Xyla Stevenson, Nita Jensen and Roma Brooks.

Officers Wives Club of Long Beach members are reminded of their Christmas luncheon party Wednesday and that instead of the exchange of gifts, each will give toward the Christmas fund for needy service families the club will sponsor this year.

Air Force Officers Wives Club members will be hosts to their husbands and friends on the evening of Dec. 9 at the cocktail hour in the Air Base club for their annual formal Christmas party. Playing for the dancing will be Joe Kemper's Orchestra.

Gamma Phis to Convene

Mrs. Philip E. Putnam will open her home at 1431 Josie Ave. to the luncheon meeting Tuesday noon of Long Beach alumnae of Gamma Phi Beta. Her co-hostesses are Mrs. Malcolm Johnson and Mrs. Charles E. Bennett.

Members have been asked to bring food, clothing or toys for the chapter's basket for a family at Christmas.

Mrs. C. J. Wiede, president, will conduct the meeting.

Mmes. Putnam and Weide attended the inter-city council meeting Thursday at the Wilshire Country Club in Los Angeles.

PEO Meeting

Unaffiliated PEO members are invited to a meeting of Chapter OL at 12:30 p.m. Tuesday at the home of Mrs. R. V. Nicholas Jr., 4200 Blackthorne Ave. Reservations may be made with the hostess.

Will Elect

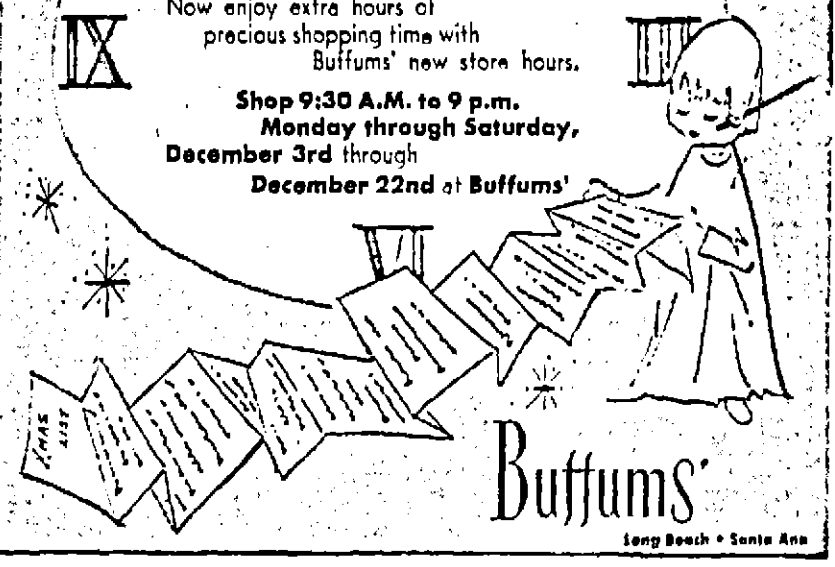

Election of officers will take place Tuesday when Del Mar Rebekah Lodge No. 275 convenes at 8 p.m. in Machinist's Hall, 728 Elm Ave. Mrs. Lorna Ronerson is chairman.

Celian Christmas Party to Benefit Juvenile Bureau

Preparations for Christmas are under way for The Celians as they gather decorations and make plans for a party Dec. 10 in the Community Room at Bank of Belmont Shore.

Continuing its practice of rendering service to the Long Beach Juvenile Bureau, the club will feature at its Christmas party a tree in honor of boys and girls who will turn to the Juvenile Bureau personnel for many kinds of assistance during the coming weeks. Each Celian will bring gifts for these children and teenagers — lipsticks, socks, underwear, toys, pocket combs and other items—which will be purchased especially for the occasion, and used clothing which has been laundered or cleaned and mended, and purses and bags to take the place of the paper sacks sometimes representing the only equipment the young person has.

Plans for the party were discussed at a recent meeting at the home of Miss Mabel Erkine. Mrs. Lincoln Arnold is service chairman for the group.

Other activities of the Celians in past weeks have been a gathering in the spacious new Park Estates home of Mrs. Don Erb, and a party at which Mrs. Gerald Desmond was hostess. Mrs. W. S. Payne Jr. and Mrs. Frank R. Jagerson are new members who were honored at Mrs. Desmond's party.

MEETING OF RED CROSS LEADERS

A massive amount of planning and organizational work is done each year months in advance of the annual Red Cross Fund Drive in March. Among those who have already accomplished much to insure the success of the 1957 drive are these outstanding district representatives from the ranks of Red Cross volunteer leaders, from left, Mmes. William A. Holmes, Lakewood Plaza; Nellie Combellack, Signal Hill; Wayne Meinert, North Long Beach; John Baker, West Long Beach; John Hackett Jr., Dominguez, and Glenn K. Buss, Lakewood. They were feted this week at a luncheon.

Red Cross Honors Volunteer Leaders

By IOLA MASTERSON

In an air of friendly informality, area chairmen and colonels of the 1957 Red Cross Fund Drive were honored at a garden party Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Lon Peek, 703 E. Roosevelt Rd. Mrs. Peek is campaign chairman of the Women's Division.

Autumn colors added their warmth to the vibrant party. Tables, set in the sheltered patio of the Peek home, were effectively decorated with fresh harvest fruits and vegetables tumbling from horns of plenty.

Following a delicious luncheon, prepared and served by volunteers of the Red Cross Canteen, Mrs. Peek welcomed the 100 women who were guests in her home. She then asked Mrs. J. Roscoe Howell, vice chairman, to introduce guests at the head table including Mrs. James H. Dowson, chairman for the Greater Lakewood area; Virgil Gillispie, chapter chairman; Earl Fust, 1957 campaign manager; Mrs. Homer Grant, chairman for volunteers; Mrs. W. Ray Webb, ticket chairman for the annual Red Cross fashion show to take place March 6; Mrs. Carol Scott, who gave the invocation; and Roland Bach, chapter manager.

Bach gave a short talk on the roll the volunteer plays. "There could be no Red Cross without volunteers," he said, and added that from its inception women have provided the basic strength of the corps.

Mrs. Orville Cole was then presented to give one of her popular dramatized play reviews. She chose the gripping "Diary of Anna Frank." Through the portrayal of its tragic true life characters she brought a most timely message to the women, working together in a service dedicated to combat just such human suffering as the play depicted.

The area chairmen Mrs. Peek has asked to serve with her include Mmes. Scott, East Side; Malcolm Todd, Central; James Mills and Eli Kling, West Side; John Hackett Jr., Dominguez; Odie Wright, Bixby Knolls and Los Cerritos; George Vermillion, North Long Beach; Ralph Williford and Glenn K. Buss, Lakewood; and William G. Holmes and James Hayes, Los Altos and Lakewood Plaza.

AT DESERT CLUB

County Supervisor Burton Chace and Mrs. Chace of Long Beach are pictured at Shadow Mountain Club in Palm Desert during a weekend visit. They are among scores of prominent Southlanders who have joined in festivities at the smart desert spa since its formal opening Nov. 17 heralded the beginning of the winter season.

Duggans Golden Day

Lending special sentiment to festivities surrounding Mr. and Mrs. George A. Duggan, 2202 Bermuda St., as they celebrate their golden wedding anniversary today at Lakewood Country Club, will be the attendance of members of their original wedding party, and many of the original wedding guests.

Attending the pair at their marriage Dec. 5, 1906, in Golden, Colo., as well as at today's reception, are Mrs. Ella Tangye of Denver, Colo., sister of Mr. Duggan, and H. L. Ward of Long Beach, brother of Mrs. Duggan. Their ringbearer, Mrs. Dorothy Knowlton of Berkeley, also will attend today's fete.

The reception for 200 guests has been arranged by the honored pair's sons-in-law and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Warren A. Sparks and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rochrick of Long Beach. Four generations of the Duggan family will be represented by their two daughters, three grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren.

Original wedding tintypes will be displayed in reception decor, as will the couple's wedding certificate.

The Duggans established their first home in Lujane, Colo., where Mr. Duggan was with the U. S. Reclamation Service, later returning to Denver. They moved to Long Beach in 1926 and prior to his retirement in 1950, Mr. Duggan was associated with Shell Chemical Corp.

Kathleen Lynn Harwood

Local Pair Linked by Romantic News

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Harwood of 312 Ximeno Ave. have announced the engagement of their daughter, Kathleen Lynn, to Richard Whitlock Dickinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dickinson, 3849 Pacific Ave., and grandson of Mrs. Nina Wolf Dickinson, Long Beach, and the late Mr. Earl Dickinson, and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond C. Whitlock of Colorado Springs, Colo.

The betrothal news was revealed at the fall banquet of Brethren Christian High School in Nixon's Fullerton Restaurant.

Miss Harwood, a senior at Brethren, is active in interscholastic sports and devotes much of her time to solo and choral work both at school and at church.

Her fiance is a member of the champion water polo team and the basketball squad at Long Beach City College and is affiliated with the Schola Cantorum on that campus.

The young couple plans to further their college education before setting a wedding date.

Married 50 Years, Pair Will Mark Anniversary

The story of their 50 years of marriage and half a century of Long Beach history will be intertwined in memories recalled today by Mr. and Mrs. David A. Nims, 315 Cherry Ave., when they celebrate their golden wedding day.

About 50 friends have been bidden by the couple's son-in-law and only daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Holmes, to their home at 1920 Bermuda St. for open house from 2 to 5 p.m. Their son, David, his grandfather's namesake, will assist.

Bouquets of bronze chrysanthemums, floral sprays and greenery, and golden bells will be reminders of the wedding theme and will create a festive setting as the elderweds cut a towering tiered wedding cake and sip a toast of golden German Rhine wine punch.

It was 1905 when Mrs. Nims' father, Samuel Brown, brought his family to Long Beach from Extra, Iowa, to settle on a 40-acre ranch on the south slope of Signal Hill. The choice site, with the days of pulsing oil wells still closed in the future, was green with fruit trees — guavas, oranges, lemons, limes, figs, persimmons and walnuts. The family home was a huge one — its 16 rooms, with 8 red brick chimneys, a striking marker against the skyline.

The following year, Mr. Nims, who had met Rachel Brown in Extra where he was visiting his schoolteacher brother, followed her here and they were married, staying on at the ranch for six years. Three years after the birth of their daughter, in 1909, they moved to Los Angeles. In 1923 they returned to live at their Cherry Avenue home, and have resided there since that time.

Golden State

A public card party will be sponsored by Golden State Auxiliary No. 279, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Tuesday in Veterans Memorial Building, Broadway and Cedar, with proceeds earmarked for the VFW home fund. Mae Bell will be in charge. A second event is planned for Dec. 10 when the group will entertain 100 men in Ward 8, Sawtelle Hospital, at a Christmas party. Games, refreshments and gifts will be enjoyed. Florence Gale is chairman of the day.

WRC to Elect

Election of new officers will be conducted at a 12:30 p.m. meeting Wednesday of Womans Relief Corps No. 93 at Veterans Memorial Building. Mary McDonald will preside.

Virginia Maurer

Parents Tell of Betrothal

Former Long Beach residents Mr. and Mrs. William Maurer, now of Garden Grove, are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Virginia Marlene, to Harvey Henry Loterbauer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Loterbauer, Crandall, S.D.

The bride-elect is a graduate of St. Anthony's High School, Long Beach City College, and attended Long Beach State College.

Her fiance attended schools in Crandall.

No date has been set for the wedding.

TO BE BRIDE

Helen A. Shaw, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Shaw, 6261 Orange Ave., will marry Thomas W. Quick, son of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Quick, 1054 E. Market St., in June. She attends Jordan High School and her fiance is a graduate of Jordan.

Will Install

Installation of new officers will take place when the Auxiliary to the Long Beach Fire Department convenes Thursday at 12:30 p.m. in the Red Velvet Room of the Lafayette Hotel.

Mary Lou Hauck Pretty Bride

Demure in a bridal gown of white lace and satin, Miss Mary Lou Hauck spoke wedding vows and exchanged rings with Neil Edward Andersen at a nuptial mass celebrated Nov. 17 by the Rev. James P. Lynch.

The skirt of the bridal gown, worn over a hoop, billowed gracefully as the bride walked down the aisle with her brother, Arkie C. Hauck, who gave her in marriage. Lace of the bodice and the full length sleeves was repeated in scallops at the neckline. She carried a cascade of white roses.

Elaine Hauck was her sister's maid of honor, and Marjorie Smith served as bridesmaid. Both were attired in waltz length gowns of Wedgewood blue satin with matching blue velvet circles and brief veils. The maid of honor carried light pink carnations and the bridesmaid deeper pink.

As his best man the bridegroom chose Donald L. Taylor. The wedding guests were escorted to their places by Harold Bernstein and Richard Hauck, brother of the bride.

Following the ceremony, a reception took place in the gardens of the bride's mother, Mrs. Lucille J. Hauck, 215 Termino Ave. Floral arrangements of white stock and chrysanthemums adorned the buffet table as well as the bride's table on the lanai.

The newlyweds departed on a trip to Carmel and San Francisco and are now at home in Long Beach.

The new Mrs. Andersen was graduated from St. Anthony's High School and St. Vincent's College of Nursing, Los Angeles. Son of Mr. and Mrs. George Andersen of Longview, Wash., the bridegroom attended Lewis and Clark College in that state. He is now serving with the Air Force in Long Beach.

Thrust and Parry Play

When the national tournament begins tonight in New Orleans, many of the hands will be full of such thrust and parry exchanges as we see in today's example. Both sides have the chance to play well, but the final good play is decisive.

West opens the jack of hearts, reasonably enough, and declarer wins in dummy in order to try the spade finesse. West wins with the king of spades and shifts to the eight of diamonds since it is clear that all of the other suits are hopeless.

If South plays a low diamond from the dummy, East will cover with the nine. If declarer plays the ten of diamonds from the dummy, East will cover with the jack. In either case, the idea is to drive out South's king. West will later get in with the ace of clubs and will lead another diamond, thus permitting East to drive out South's king. West will later get in with the ace of clubs and will lead another diamond, thus permitting East to take the rest of the suit.

	NORTH ♠ 10 8 4 ♥ K Q 2 ♦ Q 10 2 ♣ Q J 4 2
WEST ♠ K 9 7 2 ♥ J 10 9 6 ♦ 8 6 3 ♣ A 3		EAST ♠ 6 3 ♥ 5 4 3 ♦ A J 9 7 ♣ 10 8 6 5
	SOUTH (D) ♠ A Q J 5 ♥ A 8 7 ♦ K 5 4 ♣ K 9 7

North-South vul.

South	West	North	East
1 N.T.	Pass	3 N.T.	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead—♥ J

So much for the good play by the defending side. Now let's see how declarer can parry this thrust. The correct play is to put up the queen of diamonds from the dummy. East must win with the ace, since otherwise declarer will later make a second diamond trick with the king.

Now, however, East cannot safely continue diamonds. If East returns the jack of diamonds, South can win with the king and thus establish dummy's ten.

East is therefore obliged to abandon the suit, and South can win with the king and thus establish dummy's ten.

East is therefore obliged to abandon the suit, and South can keep his king of diamonds to stop the suit when it is next led. Declarer has time to knock out the ace of clubs while he still has a diamond stopper, and thus easily makes his game contract in no-trump.

Emblem Club

Mrs. Tom Carr and her committee, working with the refreshment committee headed by Mrs. Howard Stebbins, are making arrangements for the Christmas party and gift exchange to be given Wednesday by Emblem Club 106 in Machinists Hall. Mrs. R. A. Berg will preside.

Mrs. Allen N. Willett to Guide Lakewood GOP Club

At a beautifully appointed harvest theme buffet luncheon in November, Lakewood Federation of Republican Women concluded a busy and work-filled year with election of new officers.

Heading the new executive board as president for 1957 is Mrs. Allen N. Willett.

Mrs. Willett is a graduate of the University of Kansas and also did post graduate work at the University of California at Berkeley. She has taught in Kansas, Arizona and California schools. She is active in church work, is president of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon mothers' club in Long Beach, and during the recent political campaign served as secretary to Assemblyman Bill Grant. She lives with her husband and three children at 5361 E. 20th St.

Mrs. Darcy L. Cage, president of the Los Angeles County Federation of Republican Women, was guest of honor at the meeting. She spoke on "The Republican Story" concluding with commendation for the accomplishments of the Lakewood club.

Mrs. Cage then installed Mrs. Willett and the other new officers of the club, Mrs. Joseph Striegel, first vice president and program chairman; Mrs. Henry Markkanen, second vice president and membership chairman; Mrs. Horace Cushing, third vice president and press chairman; Mrs. Lyle Gardner, recording secretary; Mrs. Clyde Causey, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Keith Davis, treasurer; and Mrs. Leon Benwell, auditor.

Chosen to Assist at Annual Party

Mrs. Fred B. Clarke of Long Beach has been chosen as one of the patronesses of the Cardinal's Christmas Party for Children to take place Dec. 16 in Los Angeles' Ambassador Hotel.

With His Eminence James Francis Cardinal McIntyre as host, the annual benefit party, staged in the hotel's Embassy Room between 2 and 4:30 p.m., will echo with the Christmas glee of tots aged 3 to 8 from Southland orphanages, nurseries and foster homes.

Special decorations will include colored balloons, holly and a massive tree covered with shimmering tinsel, as well as a magnificent Italian hand-carved Nativity Scene from the collection of Adolph Pusek.

Why Grow Old?

'Sister, You Made Me Boil,' Writes a Reader

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

The following is a reproduction of part of a letter I received recently from one of my readers. "Apropos of your article—'I am Just a Housewife'—Sister, you made me boil! So a homebody can lie down whenever she wants to, huh? She isn't under pressure, huh?

"Not under pressure? No matter how much pressure a career girl might be under, she usually has Saturdays, Sundays and holidays and a two-week vacation. How much time does a housewife have off?

"Go to the library? The only time I ever go is to get some mystery stories for my husband. I consider it a great luxury to be able just to read today's paper today.

"I do not like the term 'housewife' either but I detest the word 'homemaker.'

"I don't know what I think I have accomplished by writing this letter but I just had to blow off some steam."

You have accomplished just what you said, "blown off steam." That is one way we writers can be of service to our readers. We often act as safety valves.

You also have presented the other side of the picture, one which I myself often have written about in this column. Over and over again I have said that there is no harder job in the world than taking care of a house and young children, without help.

In the article which disturbed this reader I was suggesting that the housewife keep in mind always the importance of her job, that new information about child psychology, interior decorating and nutrition, would add zest to her life.

I still think, and know from experience, that the woman in the home CAN lie down once in a while for a few minutes if she really wants to do so. She can spend a few minutes on herself. I think the woman who wrote to me is making a mistake in not taking out a few books for herself when she does go to the library.

The care of a home and small children is so demanding and constant that unless the woman makes a real effort to avoid it occasionally she will lose sight of herself as an individual. Time wrenched from duties, even a small bit of time which is invested in rest or diversion (a hobby perhaps) will allow her to live her life with less fatigue and more zest.

The women in the home sometimes forget that many of the "career" women also run homes, and even have children. Many of them work harder over the weekend than they do during the week.

If we are determined to do so we can enliven any rut we find ourselves in.

Judge Ralph K. Pierson

Chef of the Week

Judge on Trial as Cook; Does Something 'Fishy'!

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
Independent, Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

Born in the land of the gourmet—the hominy grit and the chicory, Chef of the Week Judge Ralph K. Pierson is seen today, passing judgment on an oyster "stew." It's "the most" in his menu "court."

In case you're a bit slow this morning, he came from romantic, old New Orleans. Though he can boast about the many crawfish caught in the Louisiana bayous, his real childhood love was to accompany his dad to the fish wharf on an oyster eating spree.

At the age of 10, his family moved to Denver, Colo. It was there that he "boned up" on grammar school, high school and baseball. The advent of New Years Eve, 1923, found him entering the Port of San Pedro, Calif., which was to become his future home. Three months later he brought his bride from Denver.

Having been exposed to "law" men all his life, he enrolled in Southwestern Law School. His grandfather, his father, five uncles and eight or 10 cousins all suffix their name with "attorney at law."

Pierson opened his first law office in San Pedro, where he remained until 1933. It was then that he became city attorney at Compton. He served there until 1949, at which time he was appointed to the Municipal Court at Long Beach. In October of '53, former Gov. Warren assigned him to the Superior Bench, where he is the affable calendar judge for his six colleagues.

While Judge Pierson has been around for quite a time, he recently made headline news with some sartorial advice to two "ducktail" hair-styled "customers." Lawyers and clients take heed as to how you're shorn.

At home, our "chef" loves to putter, and has a small work shop to putter in. He loves to cliff-garden in his Portuguese Bend home. It becomes a bit precarious at times—that is, if he takes time out for beach "sighting."

Pierson belongs to Anchor Masonic Lodge 273 at Compton, and serves the grand lodge on both the grievances and commercialism committees. With a profound interest in boys, he is immediate past district chairman of Midland District Boy Scouts.

And now . . . for that oyster stew. Here's how he does it.

OYSTER STEW
(About 6 Cupfuls)

Heat well in a double boiler:
2 tblsp. butter
1 pint oysters with liquor

Combine and scald in a saucepan:
3½ cups milk
2 tblsp. butter
1 tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. pepper

Stir and blend well in a cup:
½ cup milk
1½ tblsp. flour

Add these ingredients to the scalded milk, stir and boil it until it thickens and pour it over the hot oysters. Place the stew OVER, not IN, hot water for 15 minutes before serving it.

Sorority Plans Snow Ball

Plans for their annual holiday Snow Ball have been completed by members of Beta Rho Chapter of Theta Sigma Phi and the dance will take place Saturday at the American Legion Hall, 59th St. and Orange Ave., with festivities slated to begin at 8 p. m.

A traditional winter motif will be used for decorations. Proceeds will be used to aid needy families at Christmas. Committee members in charge include Helen Crowell, Jackie Bartlett, Helen Ritter, Joan Roper, Georgia Shamburg and Maxine Shamburg.

Our Children

Understanding of English Is Basic Key to Success

By ANGELO PATRI

Language is basic to civilization. Words have great power. The use of them can mean the difference between success and failure in any department of life. The choice of the word, the inflection it is given, the tone in which it is spoken can make all the difference in the world to speaker and listener.

Facility in language, then, ought to be an achievement desired by students in secondary schools and colleges. To be persuasive in speech, to write with distinction, clarity and directness, to be able to select and use effectively the very right word is to have a commanding place in any society.

Yet we find students, even some graduates of institutes of higher learning, unable to make a brief speech with any degree of effectiveness, to write a letter in direct and informative style, or with (shame be it known) ability to spell ordinary words correctly. We are not putting enough emphasis on the importance of language in our schools.

Beginning with the youngest children, attention should be paid to, accent should be placed upon, the value and importance of pronouncing words correctly, using them so as to indicate knowledge and respect for their value.

In our great cities where many children of foreign-born parents attend school, language becomes a major subject, above all others. These children must learn to talk the English language without a foreign accent, learn to spell its words, write it correctly. This presents a terrific problem to the teachers. With an overload program, with time for language limited, they struggle, often in vain, to overcome the language difficulties of their pupils.

These classes should be given more time for study and use of the English language, even though that cuts out some other subject. If, in the elementary classes, the pupils learn to talk, write and spell well, the teachers who meet them in secondary schools will be able to teach them more effectively in all other branches, because the understanding and use of our language is fundamental to the learning of any subject.

Slang, catch words, wisecracks, often pass for language. These may have their places, though I grudge them any, but school is not the place for them. Learning the English language is no slaphappy task, as anyone who has struggled through it will agree. It requires steady, concentrated attention and practice.

"By their speech we shall know them."

HOUSE OF NINE HAS NO COMPETITORS

The House of Nine, specialty shop for women who wear small size clothes, announces that it has no actual competitors in the retail field. Stores that have a petite department or junior miss section are not specializing in the same way as the House of Nine.

Now a national retail chain operating in 28 cities in 10 states, the House of Nine continues to offer apparel in sizes five, seven and nine only. Its clothes are bought to specific requirements and are perfect in style and fit. It also claims the largest selection in sizes five, seven and nine in America because of the great buying power of the firm.

"Buy your size where they specialize," is the slogan of the House of Nine shops which have gone a long way in solving big problems for little women.

Speaker, Bazaar Top Events for Ebell Club This Week

Two events—an inspirational talk and a fall festival—fill the Ebell of Long Beach calendar to overflowing this week. On Monday members will hear Dr. W. Ballentine Henley talk on "Tomorrow Is Here," a treatment of man's apparent destiny and a glimpse into a future filled with hope and encouragement.

Dr. Henley has earned academic degrees in law, government, religion and history. He serves on the board of three hospitals and is a member of the American and California Bar Associations. Other affiliations include the Los Angeles Board of Advertising Club, Breakfast Club, Rotary, and Board of Water and Power Commissioners. He was affiliated for 10 years with the University of Southern California. He is listed in Who's Who in America.

Mrs. James A. Worsham, program chairman, will introduce Dr. Henley. Mrs. L. E. Shanks will preside at the business meeting at 1:30 p.m. Group 2, Mrs. William F. Goyette chairman, will be hostess at the noon luncheon.

Handmade articles, home baked goods, candy and other foods will be included in the variety of booths at the Ebell fall festival Friday morning and afternoon in the patio of the club.

Orange bread and tea will be served by one of the groups from opening time, 10 a.m., until the close at 4 p.m. Luncheon from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. is the project of another group. Every group within the club will sponsor a booth.

Card playing will be offered in the lounge. Tickets for luncheon and cards may be purchased at the door. Members and friends of Ebell are invited to attend.

Widows Club

Spanish American War Veterans Widows Club members will exchange inexpensive Christmas gifts during their meeting Tuesday at 12:30 p.m. in Linden Hall. Mrs. Helen Woolums will preside at the brief business session following the turkey luncheon.

Your Baby & Mine

She Paddles Him

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Advice in this column of any kind, is not built upon this adviser's personal bias. Naturally it enters in. But advice on subjects such as discipline is based on the group findings on this important subject. It is obvious that no matter what stand one takes, someone will disagree. Personalities enter into this, too.

It is only because it has been found that children respond better, or just as well, to disciplines not based on physical punishment, that this viewpoint is expressed so often in this column.

Mrs. S. A. C. has one child of 16 months and she already is convinced she has discovered the secret of good discipline. And maybe she has—for her.

She writes, "I give my baby the best care I know of and I have had several courses in child psychology and baby care. I feel since all children are different, parents should find out what punishment works best in each situation.

"In my case my boy is too young to be reasoned with and too young to be deprived of privileges, yet old enough to run in the street or away with another child if I am not looking. I think a little paddling works better than anything. I certainly do not enjoy this, but think this is a good punishment if done in a spirit of love and not just to satisfy one's anger.

"May I ask why it is so cruel to give a spanking (and I certainly don't mean a beating or face slapping) when there is only a momentary sting and other punishments could be detrimental to his personality or health permanently?

"I could bring my baby inside when he runs away—as you suggested—but then he would be denied air and sunshine. Now he plays where I can watch him and only rarely runs into the street. I believe in using praise more than punishment, but when it is a dangerous habit, like running away, spanking works better."

Let us amend this to say, for you and for the moment. If spankings worked perfectly to discipline children, there would be nothing to the subject, for easily eight out of 10 parents use it. But there are different parents as well as different children and spankings make some defiant and rebellious, others sneaky, others weakly submissive, lacking all initiative. For though you say spanking may mean a momentary sting—others may mean any kind of physical belaboring which subdues a child and hurts him.

You'll find I am sure—as all individuals have — that while a little paddling on the buttocks does not harm a small child—he readily outgrows the right response to this and then discipline really becomes something you must think about, not just pass off with, "Oh, I'll give him a good spanking."

Our leaflet on "Obedience and Discipline," may be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it and 10 cents to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of the Press-Telegram.

This feature appears daily in the Press-Telegram.

Plan Unique Style Show

North Long Beach Women's Club will meet Wednesday at Houghton Park Clubhouse for noon refreshments to be followed by a unique fashion show presented by the Goodwill and special music by the Choralettes. Group Three with Mrs. Harold Gross, chairman, will serve as hostesses.

Club members will model including Mmes. Gross, Paul Lawrence, J. L. Montague, George Webb, Carl LaPont, Vinton Pease, James Wagner, Claude Leverette and Francis Crawford. Mrs. Rawlin Abrahamson, program chairman, will introduce the program. Members of the Junior Club will be honored guests of the day.

The executive board will meet at 10 a. m. with Mrs. Virgil Koon, president, in charge.

Vital Meeting

New officers will be elected at the Monday meeting of Emily R. Jewell Tent No. 15, Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War. Members will gather at 7:30 p.m. in Veterans Memorial Building, Broadway and Cedar. Dr. Mabel Conger will preside.

Mrs. Topper Smith

Smith-Mill Nuptials Read in St. Luke's

Miss Mary Ellen Mill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Mill of Palos Verdes Estates, and Topper Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. James K. Smith of Long Beach, were wed in double ring services in St. Luke's Episcopal Church. The Rev. C. Lee Mills was officiating clergyman.

Fall floral decor for the Nov. 9 evening ceremony included large China chrysanthemums and oak leaves banking the altar, and clusters of the same flowers and vivid-hued leaves decorating aisle pews.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an Empire-styled gown of white silk Italian taffeta, styled with imported trellised lace bodice, Peter Pan collar and short sleeves. Her fingertip illusion veil fell from a Dutch cap of taffeta and she carried a white orchid and lillies-of-the-valley corsage on a lace-covered Bible.

Matron of honor Mrs. Judd A. Goldfeller and bridesmaids Rosemary Wooldridge and Grace Davis were in waltz-length bottle green iridescent taffeta frocks and carried sprays of copper wood roses and Talisman spider chrysanthemums.

Stanley G. Johnson served as best man, and the 350 guests were seated by David Norton, James Warren, Howard Solce, Paul Sonnino and Richard Tubbs.

Following a reception at the Virginia Country Club, the young couple departed on a honeymoon trip to Warner's Hot Springs. They are now residing in Belmont Shore.

The bride is a University of Southern California alumna, presently attending Long Beach State College.

The bridegroom, now teaching journalism and English at Millikan High School, attended USC and is a graduate of Long Beach State College. In addition, he is director of Los Altos Methodist Church Choir. Smith has been prominent in the music and speech fields for many years.

Out-of-town guests here for the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Herman Barjmann of Stockton, cousins of the bridegroom, who were house-guests in the James Smith home. Other cousins of his attending were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bices, Scott and Kathleen, of San Marino, who returned from Europe in time for the wedding, and an aunt, Mrs. S. P. Scott of San Marino.

Reception to Honor Director

By VERA WILLIAMS
Independent-Press-Telegram Art Editor

Today will be the final day to see the California Water Color Society and Spectrum Club shows in the Municipal Art Center, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd.

A reception for Art Director Jerome Allan Donson and Mrs. Donson who arrived recently from Florence, S. C., is slated for 8:30 p. m. Saturday, with the Municipal Arts Committee host. Mrs. Jim Krest is president of the Municipal Arts Committee and Eddie Frank is chairman of arrangements for the reception. Four Japanese girls will serve tea.

Combined with the reception will be a preview of "The Art of Japan," a three-part Japanese show which officially will open the next day, to run through Jan. 13. Included will be drawings, calligraphy, prints and folk arts such as ceramics and basketry.

"Motif No. 1, Rockport," which won Alvin Beller of Lomita top honors in the recent San Pedro Art Assn. show, is being moved to the permanent exhibit in San Pedro High School.

The painting, of the famed red fish shed at the end of the stone pier at Rockport, near Gloucester, Mass., won the Art Patrons purchase prize and first honors in water color.

It shows the shed on which hang several lobster float markings, part of the pier, a sail boat in the foreground, a youngster sunning and another youngster diving from the pier.

Beller, a native of Detroit, spent considerable time with art colonies at Gloucester and at Woodstock, N. Y., in the Catskills. He received his art training at Detroit, Gloucester and with Arthur Beaumont here.

Paul Lauritz, who has received 75 medals and awards, will show pictures and paint a marine in oil at the meeting of the Community Art League in Kiwanis Hall, 9302 E. Laurel Ave., Bellflower, at 8 p. m. Monday. Doors will open at 7:30 p. m.

Winners of the recent juried show are: Oil, Evelyn Carpenter, first; Jean Brass, second; Ethel Elliot, third; J. J. Salter, R. W. Alcock, Virginia Breson, Agnes Warrick, honorable mention. Water color; Elizabeth Walsh, first; Dorothy Simonich, second; Nona Taylor, third; Betty Hays, Edna Padrick, Charlott Troesch, honorable mention.

Winning pictures may be seen in the Bellflower library.

Following a custom of years, Paul Conner will show his paintings, principally desert scenes, in Pacific Coast Club Galleria during December. Also following a long-time custom, he has asked a group of friends to exhibit with him. This year they are Helen Daniels, Margie Cate, Russell Combs, Joseph Nordman, Chris Gronfeldt, Pearl Jones, Gertrude Kruegar and Mrs. J. L. Elmendorf.

A reception for Mr. and Mrs. Conner, open to the public, is planned for 2 to 5 p. m. Dec. 9.

In the main galleries of the Los Angeles County Museum, Los Angeles, the 36th annual exhibition of the California Water Color Society closes today.

Lucille Brown Greene, Long Beach artist, is represented by a casein, "Kids' Matinee No. 2." Mrs. Greene is chairman of the art department of Santa Monica High School.

Elsa F. Warner, head of the art department at Poly High School, shows "Vernal Mood."

Other artists from this area include Rex Brandt, who won a $50 prize, and his wife, Joan Irving of Corona del Mar; George Carich of Costa Mesa and Jay Meuser of San Pedro.

Following the Los Angeles showing, the exhibition will be in Oakland Museum Jan. 5-Feb. 3.

Lucille Brown Greene also has two pictures in the Women Painters of the West exhibit in the Greek Theater, Los Angeles.

Oil paintings by Evelyn Delight Carpenter, 5850 Dunrobin, Lakewood, will be displayed in the Whittier Art Gallery, 727 S. Painter, Whittier, through Dec. 14. The show will be open to the public Sundays, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, 2 to 5 p.m.

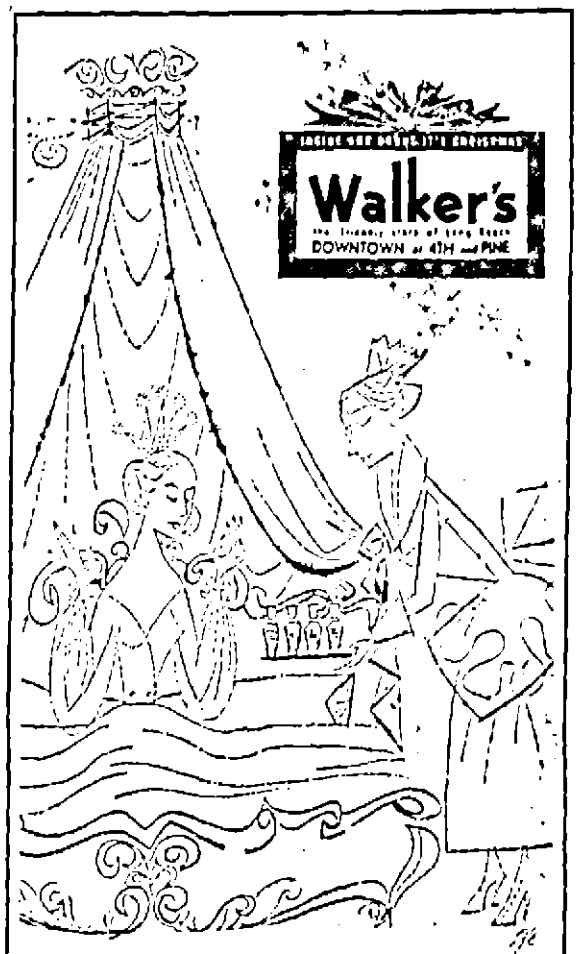

Paintings by Helen Crail and Laura Artz, drawings and jewelry by Catherine Richter, hand decorated fabrics, fine china and enamels by Florence Gendron will be shown from 1 to 5:30 p. m. today at 2412 E. 1st St.

Hill-Foust Betrothal Revealed

—Perry Griffith.

Miss Nancy Lee Foust

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Foust of 3734 Gaviota Ave. have announced the engagement of their daughter, Nancy Lee, to Edwin Morris Hill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hill, 362 E. Home St.

Thirty guests at a recent tea in the Foust home learned of the betrothal when they gathered in the dining room to view a beautifully decorated cake inscribed with the couple's names.

The bride-to-be was graduated from Polytechnic High School where she was active in campus affairs, including Pi Sigma Phi Sorority and Portia Welfare Club. She attended USC and is now enrolled at the California College of Commerce.

Her fiance, a Jordan alumnus, is majoring in criminology at Harbor Junior College.

No date has been set for the wedding ceremony.

Susan's Window Shopping

CASUAL COMFORT A LA ELEGANCE for milady's at-home hours . . . that aptly describes this two-piece outfit priced surprisingly low for the working gal to slip into after a hard day. The Lucina blouse, trimmed in nylon lace, is completely drip-dry. Priced at about $4, it comes in sizes 32 to 38. For under $6, the velveteen capri pants, sizes 7 to 15, offer budget-wise luxury.

For the name of the store showing this style, phone Susan at HEmlock 5-1161, Ext. 249, from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. Monday through Friday, or write Susan, Dept. A, Independent, Press-Telegram, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Symphony Sponsors Teachers' Workshop

Old King Cole, the merry monarch of the nursery rhyme, called for fiddlers three, but when Fred Ohlendorf, Assistant supervisor of Music, Long Beach Unified School District, called for fiddlers he called for ten times three.

The occasion was a workshop for teachers of instrumental music, sponsored by the Long Beach Symphony Association. The distinguished musician who met with the teachers Friday was Robert Gross.

Gross is to be soloist at the Dec. 9 concert of the Long Beach Symphony Orchestra. He is a violinist with an imposing concert record. At the age of 12 he was awarded a fellowship at Juilliard Graduate School in New York, the youngest student ever admitted there. His Town Hall debut was in 1944 and this was followed by many New York concerts, including performances with Stokowski and the CBS Symphony.

He has given premiere performances of such works as the Roger Sessions Concerto (with Izler Solomon in Chicago and with Stokowski on tour) and of solo violin works by such composers as Hindemith, Krenek and Schoenberg.

Gross has instructed at the Juilliard School and is currently a member of the faculty of Occidental College.

Lauris Jones, conductor of the Long Beach Symphony Orchestra, and Ohlendorf, member of the board of directors, made it possible for teachers of music in the public schools to confer with Gross as part of the local association's program for the development of fine music in the community.

Gross will play the Khatchaturian "Concerto in D Major" when he appears as soloist with the orchestra on Dec. 9 at Concert Hall. Tickets are available at Humphreys, 130 Pine Ave., or from the Long Beach Symphony Association, 5336 Appian Way.

Film 'Tour' for Guests

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Wagner were hosts in the second of a series of cocktail and buffet dinner parties in their Alamitos Bay front home Saturday evening. Colored slides of Central American scenes were shown by Mrs. Wagner's son, Dr. Ryland B. Madison, who, with Mrs. Madison recently returned from a five weeks air tour of neighboring countries.

Gold and wine colored mums and autumn leaves with gold candles were the decor on the lace-over-gold silk covered buffet table and also in the living room where 50 guests "traveled" via colored pictures to Cuba, Panama, San Blas Islands and Guatemala.

Barbara Taber Joins Bridal Ranks to Become Mrs. John Joseph Trani

St. Cyprian's Catholic Church was the setting when Miss Barbara Ellen Taber became the bride of John Joseph Trani. Father Mario Matic performed the double ring ceremony uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Taber, 4440 Charlemagne Ave., Long Beach, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Trani, 964 23th St., San Pedro.

Entering on the arm of her father, the bride chose a period gown of rosepoint Chantilly lace and tulle over candlelight satin. Styled with scoop neckline and long pointed sleeves, the gown featured a bouffant skirt of tiered lace. A crown of orange blossoms held her veil of silk illusion and she carried a cascade arrangement of white orchids and stephanotis on a white prayer book.

Miss Paula Taber attended her sister as maid of honor, attired in turquoise embroidered crystalline, Empire style, with bouffant skirt and carried a bouquet of talisman roses.

Bridesmaids were Mmes. Edward Encinas and Francis Crouse. They wore gowns of maize yellow crystalline and carried talisman roses with yellow streamers.

James Trani served his brother as best man; ushers were Ira Beaver and Peter Costa.

A reception in the parish hall of the church was followed immediately by a family breakfast at the home of the bride's parents. Hostesses were Mmes. Jack E. Walker, Donald P. Nash, William Clatt, Gayle McCune, Ira Beaver and the Misses Jeanne Hilt and Louise Trani.

The new Mrs. Trani is a graduate of St. Anthony's High School and attended Long Beach City College. Her husband graduated from San Pedro High School and attended Compton Junior College.

Following a wedding trip to San Francisco and the Bay area, the couple will reside at 4571 E. Carson.

Days of Forty-Niners

LONG BEACH STATE COLLEGE EVENTS

—by PLACER MINER—

The accent will be on eating and entertainment at Long Beach State College these next few days.

The Tekes (Tau Kappa Epsilon Fraternity) get things started today when they reverse the usual order of things and wait on their mothers at their first Mother-Son Tea. The affair, with about 80 persons expected, is set for 1 to 3:30 p.m. in the Student Lounge.

Dr. George Barker and Jim Dukes, Teke advisors, are in general charge, with Claude Klug entrusted with the details for refreshments.

Purpose of the tea is to give everyone in the Teke circle a chance to get acquainted with everyone else. There is also a possibility, say Teke spokesmen, that a TKE mothers' club will result from the get-together.

At about the same time the girls of Zeta Tau Alpha Sorority will be hosting their parents and ZTA alumnae at the home of pledge Mary Campbell, 3125 E. Ocean Blvd., from 1 to 4 p.m.

The sorority members are using this occasion to kill two birds with one stone: first, they hope the affair will allow parents and alumnae to become better acquainted and, second, they are thanking their alumnae for all the help and support rendered the chapter at LBSC.

Finally, Sunday evening, Calliias, Long Beach State's women's honorary service group, will host servicemen for the fourth straight year as they entertain 150 members of the armed forces with a hot dish dinner and an evening of entertainment at the Long Beach Armed Services YMCA.

Calliias, expecting their guests to be in top form to dispose of home cookin', have called on Associated Women Students for a little help with the serving.

After the tables are cleared, the servicemen will be treated to performances by LBSC drama groups and the two winning groups in last week's Barbershop Quartet Contest on the campus.

Wednesday evening will see the annual Fall Sports Awards Banquet at the Imperial Restaurant in Garden Grove. The place will be filled with hungry athletes, coaches, school officials and friends of the teams.

After dinner the gathering will get down to the serious business of making awards to members of the football, cross country, and water polo teams.

Movie highlights of the football season just ended will wind up the affair.

Saturday will see two more campus groups gathered around the proverbial festive board.

Pi Omega Pi, national business education honorary, will hold its Initiation-Installation Dinner at the Officers' Club of the Long Beach Air Force Base. Time will be 5 p.m.

A little while later, it will be the Industrial Arts Club with a dinner dance. Ol' Placer Miner is lacking details on this one: communications aren't too good yet between our new administration building and the Industrial Arts people on the lower campus. We understand, though, that past IA affairs like this have always been most successful, and we imagine that Saturday's gathering won't be any exception.

Before we forget, congratulations to the winning groups in last Wednesday's Barbershop Quartet Contest: Tau Kappa Epsilon Fraternity in the men's group, and Delta Zeta Sorority in the women's division.

Placer Miner may be a bit old fashioned, but he can't quite grab on to the melodies (?) of the present rock-and-roll period. 'Twas nice to hear the harmonies of days gone by. We'll be looking forward to next year's sing.

ATTENTION ALL SPORTS EDITORS—AND PHOTOGRAPHERS!!!

Long Beach State gets the jump on the regular bowl game season when cuties from the Alpha Phi and Delta Delta Delta sororities battle for the campus flag football championship next Thursday noon in the first annual "Powder Puff Bowl Game."

Sigma Alpha Epsilon is sponsoring the affair, and is furnishing the coaches. Reports from the rival training camps say the girls are all keyed up for this one and want to take home the winner's trophy to their sorority.

Placer Miner visited the Alpha Phi practice field a couple of days ago. The girls had two teams working out, but so many males were eager to lend a hand with the coaching that the speedy backs could scarcely find running room. We were impressed by one of the Alpha Phi formations—an eleven (wo)man line and a three girl backfield.

This coming game is one we can't afford to miss.

Jim Dutch, Phi Kappa Tau prexy and head of the Interfraternity Council, is in New York this week attending the national Interfraternity Conference.

Taking note of the temperatures the eastern half of the country has been having lately, we venture to say that he will appreciate smoggy, warm California when he gets back.

Fifteen coeds vie for a spot in the New Year's limelight Tuesday noon when they compete in the semi-finals of the Miss Long Beach State contest. The field will be narrowed to five, with the finals scheduled for Dec. 14 at the college Christmas Formal.

The lucky winner will represent LBSC on the Long Beach city float in the Rose Parade, sharing honors with Miss Universe, Miss Welcome to Long Beach, Miss City of Long Beach and Miss Long Beach City College.

By ANNE GILCHRIST

Members of Long Beach National Business and Professional Women's Club suddenly became aware that Christmas is just a "whoop and a holler" away when they met Monday night at the YWCA.

With President Eunice Snyder conducting, they completed plans for their traditional club Christmas party which will take place just one week from tomorrow at Jones Dining Room and also heard Ruth Shoemaker explain plans for their annual party for the ladies of Casa Consuela Rancho Los Amigos which is slated for Dec. 8.

Other reports of recent club activities and accomplishments were made by Eve Tichenor, Catherine Campbell and Ella Barre.

Florence Eddy was welcomed back after a seven and one-half month sojourn in Europe and during the social hour, presided over by Gladys McPike and Helen Lee Beebe, was surrounded by sister club members anxious to hear all about her travels.

Osteopathic Assistants

Dr. Ethan A. Peterson of Compton and his wife were guests of Osteopathic Medical Assistants at their last dinner meeting at Hoefly's, Belmont Shore. Dr. Peterson, recently featured on the TV show, "I Search for Adventure," re-told the story of adventures during an unprecedented trip in 1939 across the Pacific Ocean from Hong Kong to Yokohama and thence to the harbor here in a Chinese junk. He later sailed this tiny craft down the coast of Mexico to Panama, Ecuador and again across the Pacific. On each journey Dr. Peterson was accompanied by his petite and charming wife who served as projectionist and showed pictures of their travels while he narrated.

Hostesses of the evening were Beverly DeFrancis, Janice Sewell and Amelia Richardson. Margaret VanAmburgh, president, conducted the meeting. Eileen Ware, program chairman, introduced the guests.

Susan B. Anthony DAR Chapter

Mrs. Edgar A. Fuller, past state regent of Daughters of the American Revolution and a past reporter general of the Smithsonian Institute was the distinguished speaker at the last luncheon meeting of Susan B. Anthony Chapter at Lakewood Country Club. She explained the purposes of DAR and of many of its specific aims. Of particular interest was her description of the work of DAR chapters in such foreign countries as France, England, Canada and China.

Miss Mildred Murphy, regent, conducted with Miss Mary Frances O'Brien serving as chaplain. Others participating in the program were Mrs. Opal C. Simpson and Mrs. Grace Dewey.

PERSONALIZED PATTERN

SYLVAN RICH of Martini Diminutives believes that even the petite woman can carry extravagant detail, provided it is cleverly scaled down to size. Here he takes a princess silhouette, guaranteed to add height, and gives it a fetching side swipe, a deep inverted pleat that is bias bound and topped with a bow. The bodice hides pleats on the outside seams that start on a line with the bust and extend to the shoulders, a trick that gives an effective release. Make this custom made pattern with its accurate perforations for easy and precise matching in satin, brocaded silks, faille, taffeta, shantung, plain or embroidered cottons. From this chart select the one size best for you.

Sizes	Bust	Waist	Hips	Lgth. from Nape of Neck to Waist
10	34	25	35 Inches	16 Inches
12	35	26	36 Inches	16¼ Inches
14	36½	27½	37½ Inches	16½ Inches
16	38	29	39 Inches	16¾ Inches
18	40	31	41 Inches	17 Inches

Size 12 requires 5¾ yards of 39 inch material for dress. To order Pattern No. A-2056, state size; enclose $1.00. Address PERSONALIZED PATTERNS, Box 1005, G.P.O. Dept. LZ-13, New York 1, New York. Personalized Pattern Booklet PZ available for 50c each. If paid by check add 4c.

Worry Clinic

Marriage Is No Escape; True Love Needs Testing

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case T-331: Louise M., 17, told her high school teacher she was going to elope, so the teacher sent Louise to me.

"Dr. Crane, I am madly in love with Frank," Louise exclaimed with great fervor. "Besides, my home life is so unhappy, I just feel I shall go crazy if I don't get away from my parents. They are quarreling all the time. And my father gets drunk almost every week. Then he comes home and beats my mother and me.

"So I think marriage would solve my problems, don't you?"

• • • • •

GIRLS, IF YOU simply wish to get away from an unhappy home, there are better outlets available which you should try before a hasty marriage.

For example, join the women's division in our military service. Therein you will get a good education and also be away from your quarreling parents. But never rush into hasty marriage as an escape from unhappiness at home. That is unfair to your husband, as well as to yourself.

Outlined below are some of the underlying reasons why girls rush into weddings, even though they seldom admit them so frankly until they break down under a rigid cross-examination by a psychologist or other marriage counsellor.

First, girls often decide on a wedding because it seems the fashionable thing to do. This is especially true in rural and small town areas where the coeds in the senior year of high school are often engaged and planning weddings soon after commencement.

Many a girl is thus stampeded by social pressure. She feels she isn't in the approved top social bracket unless she does what the rest of her crowd are doing. This, incidentally, indicates a "sheep" type of personality. Such a girl is also likely to smoke cigarets, drink liquor and do whatever else seems to be popular with her group.

• • • • •

OTHER GIRLS, like Louise, have unhappy homes, so they marry to escape the situation. Alas, girls who grow up in unhappy homes are not likely to have the know-how to build happy homes of their own. So they often foist upon their own youngsters the same type of discord from which they tried to escape by their early elopement. Some selfish women also marry to avoid having to get up early every weekday to go to an office or factory job. They imagine a wife has the life of indolence. This is the opposite of the real facts, especially if a wife is accepting her proper obligations.

For a successful housewife has the most difficult career any woman can ever select. It far exceeds in complexity the demands upon a woman lawyer or a female physician.

• • • •

MANY WEDDINGS also occur because immature girls get infatuated after their first kiss and mistake such sexual excitement with true love. There is a vast difference:

True love is unselfish. Sexual infatuation is exceedingly selfish and demanding. It is the type that leads to premarital sexual affairs. True love thus involves waiting until the prospective husband has a good trade or profession so he can support a family. And till the wife has finished high school, plus at least a year of business college or university work, plus another year on a job where she can learn how to earn and budget money.

True love can survive a rigid rating of yourself and your sweetheart, so send for the 200-point "Tests for Sweethearts." Beware the urge to rush into marriage, for that very fact usually indicates infatuation; not true love.

Please enclose a long, 3-cent stamped self-addressed envelope and 20 cents in requesting a Dr. Crane Bulletin. Address: Dr. George W. Crane, in care of Hopkins Syndicate, Mellott, Ind.

Molly Mayfield
'Happiness Pills' No Blessing

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I know that modern science is fine—but it certainly has thrown me a curve. I suppose I have only myself to blame, but that doesn't solve much of anything.

My husband and I have been married for 10 years. He is a lawyer and quite a good one, a good provider and an interesting companion. But while we always have had many things in common, the pace at which he learned to live was pretty frightening.

I swear his mind almost never stopped working. He'd wake me up in the middle of the night to tell me he had just hit upon a solution to this case or that. Or he would decide out of a clear blue sky that we ought to get up at the crack of dawn and go fishing.

Life certainly was never dull, but it was nerve-wracking. It got to where I thought he was getting ready for a mental breakdown. He said that was a bunch of nonsense, that he always had been high-strung but that he felt fine and was healthier than he'd ever been. (You'll notice I'm putting this in the past tense, because it's all changed now—on account of me.)

I kept insisting that he have a checkup and he finally agreed.

He came back from the physician's office saying the doctor had told him he was in the best of health. Then he produced a bottle of white pills which he said the doctor had prescribed, somewhat reluctantly, to make him calmer. Then he suggested we go out to dinner.

He began taking the pills that night, after we got home. And, believe me, we haven't been out to dinner since! My husband is still sweet and kind, but he's changed so much. He's downright placid about everything, never gets disturbed, sleeps through the night like a baby. In short, he's unutterably dull!

I called the doctor to ask "why" and he said the white pills were some of the new tranquilizers that everybody had been talking about. He said they were working on my husband just the way they should, and that the effects were nothing to worry about.

I couldn't very well tell him that I wasn't worried—just bored. I wish I had my livewire back, even if our life was hectic. But hubby just smiles and says this new relaxation is wonderful and he's certainly glad I suggested it. What now?—OUTWITTED.

DEAR OUTWITTED:

Remember the verse that ends ". . . always wanting what is not?" You seem to be re-enacting it.

Quite frankly, your husband sounded intriguing and delightful as he was originally. And it would seem that his mode of living wasn't harming him at all. I'll bet there are a lot of housewives who are saying to themselves, after reading your description: "She didn't know how lucky she was."

So now you've gone and changed him, very drastically and very rapidly. You don't like your handiwork.

These tranquilizers, a doctor tells me, have proven quite successful in some cases but do have their drawbacks. No medicine ever can be classed as an unmixed blessing.

As to your present problem, I can only see two ways out. First, you might try hiding the pills when he gets home, pretending sweetly that you haven't seen them.

Then ask him to take you to a show or go for a drive—while he's not being tranquilized. If he agrees, let's hope he'll realize the fun he's been missing, throw away the pills and get back to his original personality.

But if he persists in being "tranquil," I suggest you start taking the stuff, too.

It may not restore your husband as he used to be—but maybe it will keep you calm enough not to be troubled about the way he is now. And I just can't resist a tiny "ha ha" at your expense.—M. M.

ANY MOUNTAIN MAN WORTH HIS SALT WILL TELL YOU: "TH' SNAKES MAKE TH' NEATEST, CLEANEST, PURTIEST, LOVINGEST, WORKINGEST FEMALE INJUNS, BAR NONE!"

LANCE DISCOVERED THIS NOT LONG AGO WHEN, NEAR DEATH FROM A BLACKFOOT ARROW, THE PRETTY MANY ROBES ATTACHED HERSELF AS NURSE AND INSPIRED HIS RECOVERY.

WHEN THE LONG KNIFE TOOK HIS OWN SWEET TIME RECOVERING, EVERYONE IN THE VILLAGE AGREED THE COUPLE SOON WOULD RIDE OFF TOGETHER, AND THE UNION WOULD BE A HAPPY ONE...

BUT INSTEAD, LANCE RODE OFF WITH HIS COMPANIONS...AND MANY ROBES FLED INTO THE WILDS TO BE ALONE WITH HER GRIEF...

AT THIS POINT OUR STORY MOVED WITH LANCE INTO THE SOUTHWEST. MEANWHILE, MANY ROBES PLEADED WITH THE SPIRITS TO RETURN THE LONG KNIFE...

THE DISTRESSED GIRL MADE EVERY SACRIFICE KNOWN TO CUSTOM...AND AT LENGTH A GREAT SPIRIT CAME TO HER AND SAID, "FOLLOW THIS MAN AND SHOW HIM YOUR HEART...AND THOUGH YOU ENDURE GREAT SUFFERING, IN THE END HE SHALL BE YOURS AND YOU SHALL BELONG TO HIM....."

ALONE, WITH A BONE KNIFE HER SOLE PROVIDER, MANY ROBES SET OUT AFTER HER WHITE WARRIOR. IT HAD BEEN DAYS SINCE HIS DEPARTURE AND THE GIRL COULD NOT HAVE KNOWN HIS DESTINATION. SOME UNSEEN FORCE POINTED HER SOUTHWEST...AND TO THE SOUTHWEST SHE FOLLOWED.....

YOU'RE BREAKING MY HEART!

LOOK AT THE WAY YOU CARRY BUNDLES--YOU DON'T SEE ME WITH ANY STICKING OUT OF MY POCKETS, OR WITH THE PAPER TORN OFF!

WELL, IT GIVES YOU SOMETHING TO CRAB ABOUT--AND YOU LOVE THAT!

I'VE BOUGHT ENOUGH CHRISTMAS GIFTS FOR ONE DAY, BUT MOM WANTED ME TO STOP IN HERE FOR SOME WIENERS! WAIT RIGHT HERE!

HERE'S THE MEAT! YOU CARRY IT--I CAN'T MANAGE ANY MORE BUNDLES!

GO RIGHT AHEAD AND LOAD ME DOWN--JUST AN OLD TRUCK HORSE!

I'LL TELL MOM PLENTY ABOUT YOUR SLOPPINESS WHEN WE GET HOME!

LOOK AT THAT SON OF YOURS, MOTHER--JUST LOOK AT HIM! TORN PACKAGES, CAP SLOPPED ON HIS HEAD, STUFF STICKING IN HIS POCKETS!

YES--AND MAYBE YOU SHOULD HAVE TAKEN A LOOK AT YOURSELF!

WHY, I THOUGHT I GAVE THE MEAT TO WILLIS!

Count the measures - or shake the can - prove M·J·B gives you extra value, extra flavor!

Try shaking several brands of coffee next time you're at the store. You'll notice other coffees rattle, but M.J.B's quiet. That's because it's packed solid... right to the brim! M.J.B's quiet can tells you there's a bonus of extra measures...2 to 8 measures more to the pound than other leading coffees. Flavor roasting is the secret. M.J.B expands each bean to release all the deep, rich coffee goodness. This increases the volume so you get extra measures and more flavor in every pound. Try the shake test!

You can't make a bad cup of M.J.B!

The mountains are starting to move at Long Beach Post Office as Christmas mail —huge sacks of it—pass through. Merle Hansen stows a big load in his truck.

Postmaster McMillin and C. E. Davis, of L. B. office check $1,500,000 stamp shipment.

Postage: $1,500,000

By Clarence Bernard Propes

POST OFFICES throughout the land are waiting for mountains to move in, floods to inundate, and avalanches to smother and paralyze their operations.

That is what, by every sensible rule, should happen to the Post Office Department when the Christmas mail comes roaring through the chutes. These events won't be disastrous, however, for the postal service is calmly prepared for what will strike in the next few days.

In Long Beach, a million and a half dollars' worth of stamps are in the vaults. Dozens of shiny new ball point pens are chained to the counters. A thousand extra employes are ready to swing into action. A forest of mail racks waits on the floor of a specially-hired warehouse. Sixty-one giant trucks and 190 private cars are prepared to do the bulky handling.

LONG BEACH'S Postmaster George J. McMillin regards the problem placidly.

"We'll get it out and you can be sure that any Christmas parcel in our hands on Dec. 24 will be delivered in time."

Superintendent of mails Verne Brustkern nods in agreement.

"The mail will go out as rapidly as it comes in," he promises. "The public can help by mailing as soon as the address is written. We'll keep the parcel post windows open as long as anyone is in the lines, and there will be numerous pickups at corner mail boxes."

The Long Beach post office will do about $900,000 worth of business this month. Chief Accountant J. Ernie Sohn says there has been a steady 5 per cent rise in postal receipts.

"In 1950 we did $412,000 worth of December business. Last year it was $735,000, and it will continue to grow."

AT 818 E. 12TH ST. is a temporary warehouse with 28,000 square feet of floor space, soon to be completely covered with bags of parcel post. It is now a re-echoing jungle of metal racks with suspended mail sacks. The bags are labeled for every corner of this country and every major geographical division of the world.

A clerk is working a rack of sacks labeled for the Far East. He picks up a Christmas package addressed to Bombay and labeled, "Don't Open Until Christmas."

"Someone must think steamships are awfully fast," says the clerk. "But, then again, maybe he thinks we're awfully slow and won't get it there until next Christmas."

"You can see the mail come toward Long Beach like a tidal wave," says another clerk. "Most of it is outgoing, headed for the eastern seaboard. It will build up to a tremendous volume and then the bulk of it will be addressed to the Middle West. About a week before Christmas, the outgoing mail will trickle down to a comparative nothing and there'll be a mountain of mail addressed to Long Beach."

THE SADDEST and sweetest-smelling job is that of the clerk who rewraps broken parcels. The air around his bench is filled with the fragrance from broken bottles of toilet water and perfumes. Spilled talcum gives a broken box of dates a sexy aura, and neckties are freshly colored with jams and jelly.

"Poorly wrapped packages are our greatest headache," says Parcel Post Clerk Francis Scott. "Some of those we receive would hardly survive a trip downtown and they certainly won't last in the mails. Too many people use flimsy paper and weak string."

"Use a stout carton and, if the article is fragile,

"Make another move and you're a goner!"

SOUTHLAND'S SHORT SHORT STORY

The Getting Used to It

By Blaine Nels Simons

Illustrated by Clyde Winslow

IN MY EARLY BOYHOOD days a favorite time of year was the summer vacation at Uncle Ben's farm. Besides having many things to do there I also enjoyed my Uncle Ben. I thought he was a character. Aunt Mary probably thought so, too, and he proved it one summer.

I had just turned thirteen. Uncle Ben started out the first evening in his usual way. While Aunt Mary and I were finishing the dishes, he solemnly stated:

"Carl Nestor escaped."

Without further comment he went back to reading his newspaper.

"Who, Ben Willis, is Carl Nestor?" snapped my Aunt. She was always irritated when she felt his dramatic side was beginning to show.

"Oh, you know, Mary, the scar-faced fella that held up Gus Benson's service station down the road a couple of years back," he replied without looking up.

"When did he escape?" she asked.

"Last night, paper says. No one's seen him since." Uncle Ben rattled the paper loudly and looked up at me. "Maybe he's in your room, my boy, maybe —"

"Ben Willis, of all things to say to a twelve —"

"Thirteen," I piped.

"—thirteen-year-old boy! Now you go over to the sports page and don't mention that convict again!"

HE DIDN'T, but all night long I dreamed of scar-faced convicts.

By the time I got down to breakfast the next morning Uncle Ben had left for the fields. He had also left my Aunt in a bad mood.

"That uncle of yours! He took his shotgun with him. I—"

"Do you think he—"

"No, I don't think he thinks that convict's within fifty miles of here," she answered for me. "But you know your Uncle Ben and his dramatics. Told me he figured he'd see the convict and get the reward. More'n likely he's only after a crow or two and the twenty-five-cent bounty on them. I really—" she shook her head and went back to her work.

During her good-natured tirade I had taken the silent opportunity to gulp down my breakfast. Now I grabbed the sack of lunch that had been put up for me and was out the door heading toward adventures by the river.

"Be sure to say hello to your uncle if you see him," shouted Aunt Mary.

BY THE TIME she had finished the sentence I was coasting past the barn. The barn! I wondered if my hiking stick from last year was still in the haymow where I'd left it. It would be just the thing for vaulting the mudflats. Setting my lunch down I hurried inside. Climbing the ladder two steps at a time I reached the loft and headed for a corner where I'd remembered leaving it.

"Make another move and you're a goner!"

I can remember even today that my heart stopped beating then and my very breath sucked from me.

Somehow I was able to turn my head to the right and saw a man standing there. It was too dark then to make out more than his outline.

"Who, who—" I finally was able to stutter.

"Shut up, kid," he whispered savagely. "Commover here and siddown — and shut up."

I stumbled the two feet to him and sat down. It was a relief to me that I was still trembling because it proved I was still alive.

I WAS CLOSE ENOUGH now to see he was carrying something in in his right hand. An ax! The ax from Uncle Ben's woodshed!

His face was close to mine now and I could see a scar running across his forehead.

"Carl Nes—" I stammered.

"Shut up!" He clamped his other hand over my mouth, then relaxed his hold and sat back. "Didn't know you was old enough to read papers. But it makes no difference. Just shut up."

Light was beginning to filter into the loft now and I glanced towards the haymow door.

"Listen kid," he growled softly, "don't go gittin' any ideas. I don't know why you come here but you're gonna stay." He looked over at me closely. "When they expect you back?"

I could have bitten off my tongue after I said, "Suppertime."

"Fine. We'll just sit here 'til then. Then when the farmer comes home we'll slip down the back way to the river. Boy, you're my ticket out of here," he chuckled hoarsely. "I'm glad you come."

I WAS SITTING a couple of feet from the edge of the loft. When I glanced over toward it — where freedom lay so close — he grabbed my arm.

"Aint no use figgerin' a way out, boy. I'd have you before you could make a move. So sit back —" he shoved me back into the hay, "and shut up."

He clutched the ax tightly but relaxed his grip on me. I didn't move a muscle. I could breathe and think and talk, but I felt helpless — like the summer before when the ladder fell down when I was on the barn roof. There was no use thinking. Aunt Mary would figure I was at the river and Uncle Ben would think I'd come by the field while he was at the other end. I tried to forget these things but I couldn't.

Funny how the farm sounded when I couldn't see it. The calves bound for the State Fair moved restlessly in their stalls below us. Now and then the sound of a whinnying horse would drift in from the pasture — like it was miles away. Chickens cackled around the farmyard and the ducks quacked their way to and from the pond. But it was the stillness I noticed most of all, I remember. How peaceful it was on the farm. It should give time to think and relax — but every time I tried to, the vision of Carl Nestor and his ready ax blocked my attempts.

I DON'T KNOW how long we'd been there when I heard the sound of a car coming into the yard. I sat straight the minute I heard it.

My captor sat up too, but in a moment lay back down again. "Take it easy, kid," he grinned. "It aint the cops — too old a car. No one'll be looking for me here, anyway. You can bet on that. I hiked six miles last night cross-country to get here near the river. They're lookin' for me to take a road, steal a car, or catch a freight. But not me. I'm followin' the river. They won't be looking here."

By now I, too, suspected this. No hope for the police. I was tired now and lay back. A feeling of loneliness started coming over me and in a moment I recall that I was almost completely overcome in a wave of homesickness. I turned my head to hide from Nestor the helpless look that must have been on my face, and tried to crawl deeper into the hay as though to find some warmth and comfort waiting for me there.

"If you're thinkin' a hidin' in the hay, or crawlin' through it somewhere, you better stay where you lay. This old ax ain't too sharp but it'll do the trick."

I FROZE ON HIS WORDS, but I will never know if it was his words that stopped me or the sharp prong my right hand touched deep in the hay. A pitchfork! My hand quickly and silently moved over its surface. It was a pitchfork! A weapon!

I looked at Nestor. He was lying back again. He hadn't seen my right arm move, hadn't seen the look that had, I know, momentarily crossed my face. Then I looked at the ax he was holding and knew again I was licked.

I lay back but shifted my position slightly so that my hidden hand gripped the neck of the pitchfork. I watched Nestor. He never looked at me but he didn't relax his grip on the ax handle, either. We must have stayed that way for an hour — or maybe it was just a few minutes.

SUDDENLY THE SOUND of a team jangling and pounding its way up the river road met my ears. Uncle Ben! He was coming home for lunch! Then I groaned silently. He'd never know I was here.

When I jerked into a sitting position I'd almost pulled the pitchfork out with me. Luckily Nestor had been looking in the direction of the road so hadn't seen me. He followed the sound of the horses until they stopped.

"Whoa there, boys," I heard Uncle Ben shout.

"Farmer comin' home for lunch," grunted my guard. He sprawled back in the hay again, apparently confident Uncle Ben wouldn't be looking for us.

AFTER WHAT SEEMED to be several minutes I could hear Uncle Ben's voice again — up by the house. Then I could hear him tromping down by the barn, then back to the house again. How I wanted to shout his name — but couldn't. How I wished he'd know — somehow — that I was up here. Maybe he'd get suspicious that he hadn't seen me by the field. Maybe he'd find my lunch sack where I'd left it down by the barn door before I'd come up here. Maybe — Then I gave up thinking of maybes.

Dead silence. Then footsteps again. Uncle Ben's? They approached the barn — and entered. Now they were creaking towards the hayloft ladder. They stopped — and I stopped breathing again. My hand tightened on the unseen pitchfork. I looked at Nestor. He was leaning towards me, but looking around me at the ladder top. His fist was tight around the ax handle, knuckles white from the pressure.

THE LADDER GROANED. Uncle Ben — was it Uncle Ben — was coming up. Nestor motioned me down and back as he sank to a ready crouch.

We were about six feet over from where the ladder rested on the loft. It was gloomy enough in the

Tons of nickels and dimes. Shipping room for bank's coin business is seen above. Through this room pass more than 60,000 pounds of coins each week.

Bags of coins are dumped, carried by escalator (background) to the counting head of the receiving machine.

You'll Need Your Change

By Jack B. Kemmerer

LAST YEAR, we, the people of this country, put $1,900,000,000 in coins into vending machines, not counting telephones, parking meters and service machines such as coin-operated TV receivers. For these coins we received items ranging from hot coffee, cold drinks, hot soup, cigarettes and fresh fruit to pocket combs, toothbrushes, handkerchiefs, music and hot meals.

There are more coins in use today in the United States than ever before, and the amount is still on the upswing.

FOR EXAMPLE, when telephone companies throughout the nation raised the cost of a phone call from a nickel to a dime, many areas were again pinched for dimes. When the state of California passed a sales tax several years ago there was an extreme shortage of pennies.

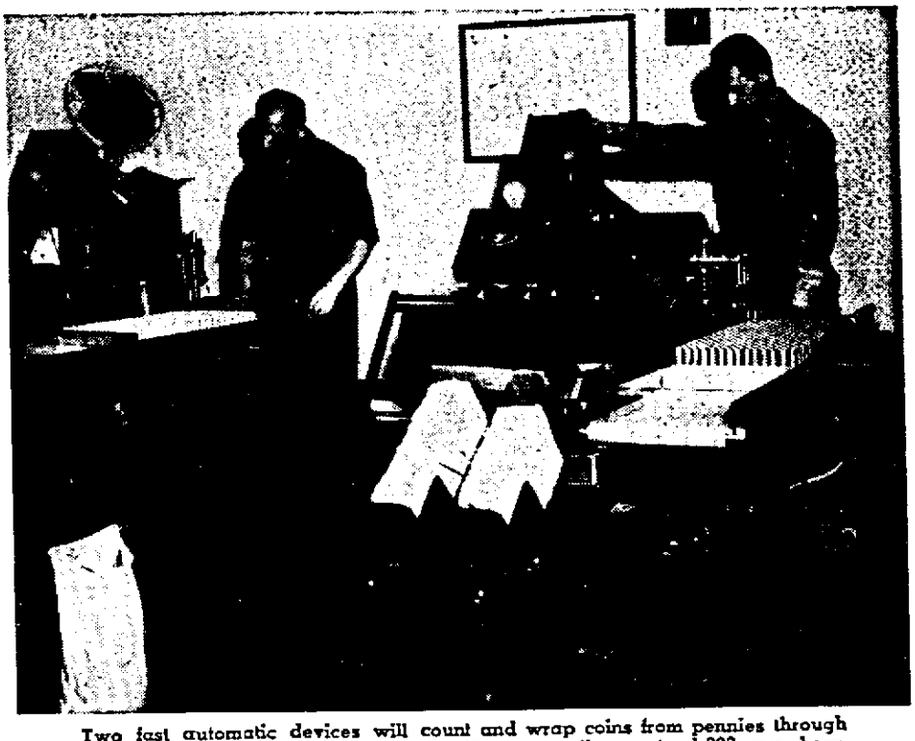

THE TREMENDOUS population growth in southern California has the banks working overtime to meet the greatly increased demand for pennies, nickels, dimes, quarters and half dollars. Today, Los Angeles handles more coins than any other city in the world. To keep ahead of this need, banks have installed highly mechanized equipment for all phases of the work.

One such installation, Security-First National Bank of Los Angeles, is the largest in the world and currently sorts, counts and wraps more than 30 tons of coin in a five-day week. This adds up to approximately one half million rolls of coins per month, varying anywhere from $300,000 to $600,000 per week.

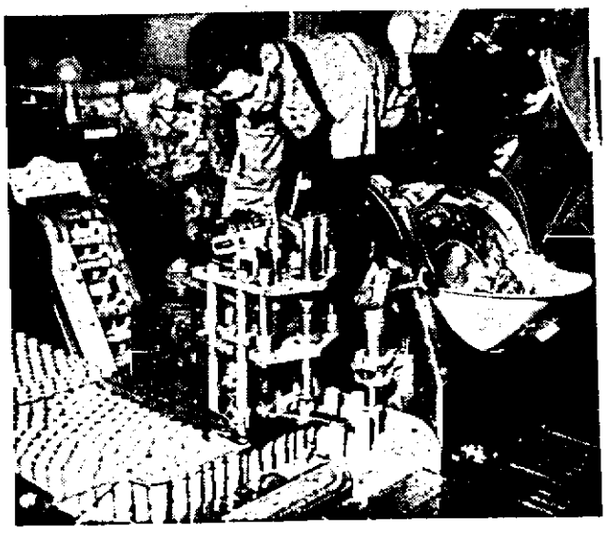

MONEY COMING into the vault arrives in armored trucks. An armed guard in a bullet-proof, glass - enclosed cupola overlooking the truck delivery area flashes a coded signal to another guard in the vault.

The second guard presses a button and a heavy steel door is raised electrically. The raised door exposes a conveyor belt which carries the money sacks to the underground level.

Downstairs, the heavy sacks are unloaded on handtrucks. Guards push the trucks through several more steel doors into the vault for sorting, counting and wrapping.

Two fast automatic devices will count and wrap coins from pennies through quarters in paper-covered rolls and will count rolls up to 1,000 per hour.

Counting head (right) counts and sends each coin to filler tube (center). Pre-rolled wrappers are at left.

This device sorts mixed coins, rejects slugs, foreign and damaged U. S. money.

Coins are stored in underground vault, ride to surface on belt to fill the orders.

FASHION

Black Is Back

With the party-and-dance, theater-and-cafe season full upon us, hats have stolen the spotlight in the fashion news—and black is back as never before! A new hat wardrobe is a must. Patou, Paulette Svend, Le Monnier and Gilbert Orcel stole the Paris shows, and G. Howard Hodge has put signature labels in a delightful line of American hats that are far ahead stylewise and good for many seasons. Here are 3.

Of imported French velour, this dramatic high toque has cerise satin binding and brilliant ornamenting.

Peek-a-boo pink satin band and rhinestone ornament make this dramatic black pillbox an original beauty.

Black can be exciting—and black IS exciting in this three-tiered cushion brim with mauve-pink accenting.

HOLLYWOOD

Gable Dealt a Hand of 4 Queens

CLARK GABLE is returning to the silver screen, surrounded this time by four comely, man-hunting queens.

Playing the part of a notorious western gunman, he rides into the town of Touchstone after escaping a posse. He hears the story of the McDade gang, a band of bank robbers, who were reportedly wiped out at Wagon Mound but not until they had hidden their loot of $100,000 in gold. When he goes after the gold he collides with the four widowed McDade girls: Birdie (Barbara Nichols), Ruby (Jean Willes), Sabina (Eleanor Parker) and Oralie (Sara Shane). None of them has seen a man in two years!

With Gable wheeling for the gold and dealing for one of the four beauteous widows, things really sizzle in "The King and Four Queens," United Artists CinemaScope and DeLuxe Color production due about Christmastime.

OUR COVER

The satiric pen of famed caricaturist Al Hirschfeld shows Gable neatly balancing his four queens. (Note: Gable's horse seems to be enjoying his glamorous passenger list.)

Clark Gable plays role of a notorious western gunman in his newest movie, "The King and 4 Queens."

In search of gold, he's dealt hand of four restless queens, Birdie, Ruby, Sabina and Oralie (not shown), daughters-in-law of Ma McDade (Jo Van Fleet, at right).

But after taking part of the gold and examining his prize, winning hand of queens with typical Cable care, Clark discards all but one, pretty Sabina.

HE RECALLS BATAAN DEATH MARCH

'Stay on Your Feet or Die'

By Bud Lembke

ADVENTURE doesn't often drop in the lap of a man. He must thrust himself in its path. It takes luck, too, for one to cast aside the humdrum and live dangerously.

A decision to travel and a spin of a globe, and the die was cast for John L. (Larry) Kiernan in March 1938. When the globe stopped spinning, his finger was pointing at the Philippine Islands.

Storm clouds had been brewing for some years over the Far East, and so it was with high hopes of finding excitement that Kiernan left Long Beach and took a ship to Manila.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO this week, Kiernan began reaping more thrills than he'd bargained for.

It was an unbelievably cruel adventure that was to take him through the infamous Bataan Death March and pile horror upon horror during nearly three and one-half years of Japanese imprisonment.

On this anniversary of Pearl Harbor and Japan's attack on the U. S., Kiernan is once more living quietly in Long Beach. He is one among the 10 per cent of American forces trapped on Bataan Peninsula who lived to tell the tale. It is an ordeal the like of which few men in history have had to undergo.

More than a decade since it ended, Kiernan finds it difficult to recall details of the misery, the slow, inch-by-inch starvation, the relentless attrition of a man's endurance and the senseless punishment. But most of the terrible drama is etched indelibly in his memory.

THE DEATH MARCH—"stay on your feet or die."

A hundred men wedged into a stifling, torrid box car smaller than the average American living room for a ride of death from one prison camp to another on a war-time Thanksgiving Day.

Forced at bayonet point to hold your hands high over your head for an hour and 20 minutes, while an army of mosquitoes feasted on your exposed body and bit your face until your eyes swelled shut and didn't open for four days.

Ordered to stand at attention and, too weak from the extraction of an ulcerated tooth to comply, jerked to your feet and knocked to the floor.

Those were but a few of the low points in the series of calamitous events.

Kiernan was working as an accountant at a gold mine near Baguio in northern Luzon when the radio cracked out news of the Japanese attack.

Just before Christmas, the 60 Americans at the mine, in the face of the advancing Japanese army, fled to an isolated sawmill previously stocked with food.

IN A COUPLE OF DAYS, Kiernan and two of the mine engineers decided to make a break for it and try to reach Manila to join the U. S. Army.

By a circuitous route, they hiked out of the mountains and in two days reached Manila.

From their experience at the mine, all three were familiar with demolition work and were hired upon arrival as supervising engineers with an Army unit that won fame as "Casey's Dynamiters," named after the commanding colonel.

Kiernan's assignment was to haul in dynamite for demolition of the huge Pandan oil installation. It was finally touched off on Dec. 31, he recalls, with a "tremendous roar and the most frightening burst of flame and smoke any of us had ever seen."

There had been no time for him to be sworn into the Army. That came three weeks later when he received a field commission in Bataan, where he had raced in a wild ride with a commandeered car on New Year's Eve, over a pitch black road past the fleeing populace and retreating Army units.

THREE TIMES, engaged in building trails and roads, his unit was moved back. On April 6, the Japs broke through. Every man was pressed into a final, frantic stand. Word was passed to lay down arms on April 8.

In 100-degree, humid tropical

Wrap Gifts to Show You Care

Neatly wrapped in carefully selected paper, the gift above will prove to recipient that giver really cares.

By Caroline Coleman

YOUR CHRISTMAS gifts this year can be more wonderfully exciting - and better express the spirit with which you give them—if you take the time to wrap your presents with care and ingenuity.

There's no end to the clever devices you can employ, but the important thing is first to understand the fundamentals of gift wrapping.

According to Marcia Simpson, gift-wrapping stylist for Ben-Mont Papers, Inc. and one of America's most foremost authorities on the subject, gift-wrapping begins inside the box. Treat every gift as though it were precious and fragile. Wrap your gift in fine white tissue - wads of cotton, if the gift is small and you'll add a touch of elegance.

Selecting gift paper can be fun. For small boxes—the kind used to hold gifts like ties, stockings, or handkerchiefs—a small, over-all pattern is usually best. Holly, mistletoe, angels: a whole host of small patterns is available.

For boxes large enough to hold appliances, a robe, or a large toy, choose a paper with one larger, dominant center design - a glistening Christmas tree, for example.

WITH YOUR GIFT wrapped in tissue and your paper selected, you're ready to wrap. There are four basic steps.

FIRST - Lay the gift wrapping paper, face down, on a clean, flat, surface. Place the box, upside down, on the paper. Try to position the box on the paper so that the design will show to the best advantage when wrapping is completed.

SECOND - Cut the paper so that it is wide enough to go around the box and overlap 2 or 3 inches. The paper should also be cut to extend slightly more than one-half the depth of the box at both ends.

THIRD - Fold the paper up and around, overlap and seal with a decorative gummed sticker or with cellophane tape.

FOURTH - As illustrated, fold top ends down tightly and make diagonal creases at the sides and then fold sides in. Seal with a decorative gummed sticker or with cellophane tape. Do the same at the other end.

NOW YOU'RE READY to tie the package with ribbons and attach decorative bows. According to Ben-Mont's Miss Simpson, there's only one basic method of tying ribbon, but this may be varied by placing the ribbon off center in any direction. Here again, you can use your imagination in selecting the size, type and texture of ribbon that seems most appropriate. In tieing, there are four steps.

FIRST Hold ribbon on the top of the package, allowing the short end to extend about six inches beyond the center.

SECOND - Bring the ribbon the length of the package, then at starting point, cross ribbon and bring it around width of box and back to starting point. Be sure that the ribbon does not twist on the bottom of the package.

THIRD - Cut off the ribbon, but leave 4 or 5 inches. This end is then brought over and under the crossed ribbon.

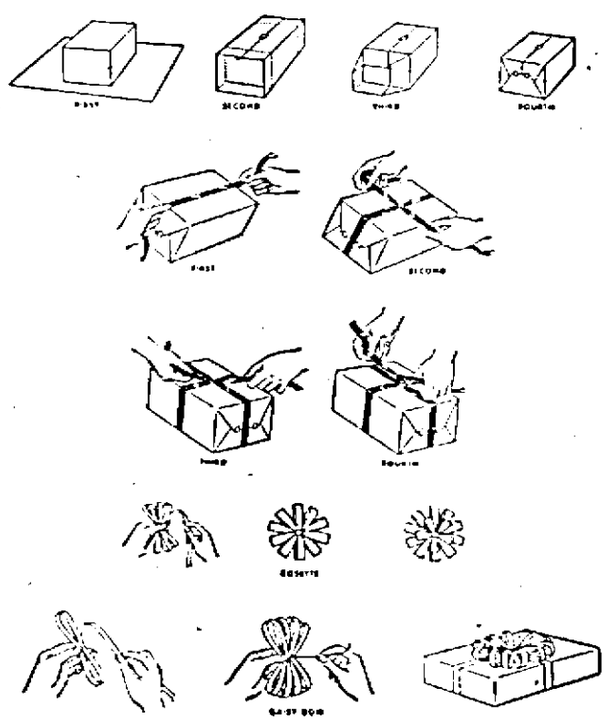

FOURTH Pull up tightly together and tie a knot.

THERE ARE SCORES of fancy bows you can apply. Two types are especially popular, and they're easy to make.

DAISY BOWS - As illustrated, form ribbon in any number of loops of any length. Tie in center with another piece of ribbon and attach to package.

ROSETTES — As illustrated, form ribbon in loops measuring with forefinger. Tie same as daisy bow. If curling ribbon is used, curl ends by drawing ribbon between th mb and dull edge. To make double rosettes, tie smaller rosette on top.

Now fasten the gift card, and the job is done. If you chose your gift paper thoughtfully, wrapped the package with care, and added an attractive ribbon, it will be quite clear on Christmas day that you care about the person who's getting your gift.

How to wrap gifts tie ribbon, make bows and rosettes (details in accompanying article) illustrated above.

Children of the Stars

Still photographers covering the Hollywood beat term it a "good day" when they can grab a couple of shots of a film personality with his or her children on set. Still photographers at Universal-International Studio did even better recently with three of the top stars.

When Laraine Day made return to films in "Toy Tiger," her children, Chris and Michel, visited her on the set.

His Art Depicts Medieval History

Finishing touches are applied to his 36-foot mural on history of treatment of mentally ill by E. C. Wallin of Long Beach State College faculty.

AN ART INSTRUCTOR who is something of an authority on the treatment of the mentally ill . . . !

That is Eugene C. Wallin, faculty member at Long Beach State College who last summer as a graduate student at Pennsylvania State University painted a mural for the admissions lobby of the new state hospital at Hollidaysburg, Pa.

It is a 36-foot, four-section mural, each of the nine-by-five foot panels dealing with a separate period in the history of mental care.

THE MURAL, which fulfills part of Wallin's thesis requirements for his doctor of education degree from Pennsylvania State, traces the evolution of care of the mentally ill from early herb dosages to modern psychiatric techniques and miracle drugs.

Included in the pictorial narrative are Dorothea Dix, who traveled about the country in the last century exhorting state legislatures to support welfare institutions, and spending her own fortune in the process; Thomas S. Kirkbride, who formed a team with Miss Dix and designed and built mental hospitals, including a model institution in Philadelphia; and Benjamin Rush, a signer of the Declaration of Independence and the first American physician to do research on mental illness.

WALLIN USED the moon—once believed to cause madness and the origin of the term "lunatic" as a symbol running through the mural. It dominates the first panel but gradually is "eclipsed out" in the next three.

The artist painted the mural in a quiet spot on the Pennsylvania campus—the artificial ice skating rink. He fastened his canvas onto four wooden frames and hung them on pulleys from the ceiling.

HE HAS PAINTED in oils for years, and exhibited in a show in the Illinois State Fair.

He is a native of Rockford, Ill., and received his bachelor of arts degree from Beloit College, Wis., in 1949 and his master of fine arts from the University of Iowa in 1951.

Yule Feast of Lights

By Ellen Saunders

REDLANDS UNIVERSITY'S annual public Christmas program—the moving Feast of Lights—is scheduled for the campus chapel this year on Dec. 15 and 16.

This will be the 10th consecutive year the unique dramatization of the Christmas story has been presented at the college.

Performances are planned for Saturday and Sunday nights and Sunday afternoon.

The pageant takes place in two parts. The first act tells the story of the Nativity, tracing the thread of prophecy of the coming of Christ through the Fulfillment. It is presented in song and narration interspersed by music from the big four-manual Cassvant organ and orchestral accompaniment.

FOR THE CLIMAX of the program, the audience joins with the 150-member student choir in the singing of the traditional Christmas carols.

During the early part of the second act, the chapel is illuminated with a single candle at the altar.

Then, one by one, faculty members representing the 12 apostles light other candles from the altar flame.

The Feast of Lights figuratively becomes that when the choristers light their candles, the chapel gradually lighting up with the hundreds of winking flames.

WITH THE CHOIR moved to illuminate the manger scene, now visible for the first time, the audience begins filing out of the sanctuary as the choristers sing "Silent Night."

Each spectator stops at the door and looks back for a last glance at the singers, each holding a candle, standing below the manger scene in which Mary, Joseph and the shepherds and kings kneel in adoration before the Christ child.

Postage

use plenty of packing," says another clerk. "Wrap the carton in heavy paper and use heavy cord — pulled tight. Any parcel wrapped like that will get through in good shape."

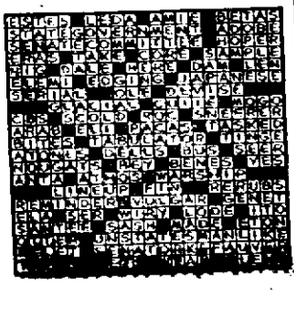

THE CALM of the post office is that of a David, full of faith, prepared to cut a giant down to size. This giant will be conquered, but only to spring up again, bigger than ever next year, which is another story.

"This Christmas rush is just part of the job," says a carrier. "I've been at it 12 years and it's just a matter of getting used to it."

He paused reflectively. "Come to think of it," he adds, "I've never gotten used to it, but who wants to get used to Christmas?"

The Mission California Forgot

The Mission Nuestra Senora de la Soledad, long neglected, is being restored by the Native Daughters.

By Helen Smith

THERE is a mistaken belief that all of California's picturesque missions along El Camino Real have been restored.

One of the originals, built in 1791, was completely neglected until 1939. The adobe walls of Mission Nuestra Senora de la Soledad, located midway between King City and Salinas, had long been in the process of returning to the soil from which they were made until discovered by California Native Daughters of the Golden West.

Through the efforts of this group the mission, 13th in a chain of 21 founded by the Spanish padres as they walked along the Kings Highway almost two centuries ago, has been partially restored.

IN AUGUST of 1955, the original bell that once called Indian neophytes to services in Mission Soledad, rang its summons again in the rebuilt chapel for the first time in 118 years when secularization brought almost immediate ruin to the edifice.

Founded on Oct. 9, 1791 by Father Fermin de Lasuen, the building was never pretentious nor as attractive as those located in this area. It did, however, serve as an important link in the chain and continued the development of the Salinas Valley area.

IN 1834, 700 Indians were dependent upon the mission. It was stocked with 4500 head of cattle, 163 horses and mules and 4950 sheep. Six hundred and eighty three bushels of grain were harvested in one year.

Mission Soledad was a refuge for coastal missions when the pirate Bouchard plundered and burned along the Monterey shores. Although the soil was comparatively poor, through the kindness of the padres prosperity and contentment abounded there for more than 40 years.

THE PICTURE quickly changed when the priests at Mission Soledad were divested of their authority. The Indians forsook their religious teachings by the hundreds and in only a few short years decay set in.

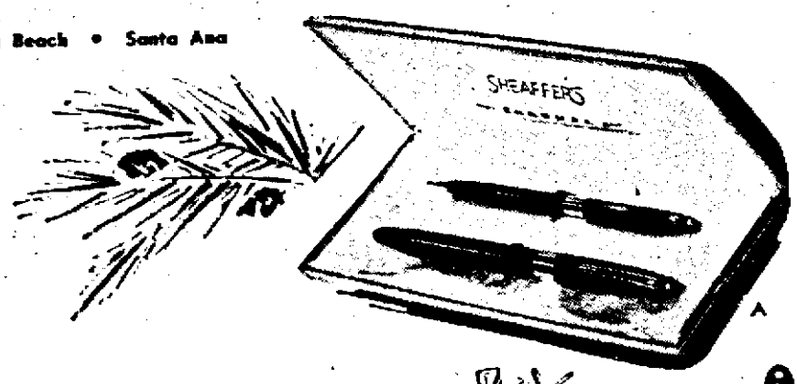

Fr. Vicente Francisco de Sarria, then in charge, was unwilling to desert the Indians even though the church no longer supported the missions. A few of his followers stayed by him until he died of hunger and want and his remains were carried to Mission San Antonio de Padua for burial.

Mission Soledad is the only one overlooked by state-wide programs to rebuild these venerable structures. Because it is a priceless landmark, the Native Daughters of the Golden West have undertaken a restoration program with the result that $26,000 has been spent on the project to date.

The graves of Jose Joaquin de Arrilage, governor of California, and Padre Florence Ihanez are located somewhere among the ruins. It is hoped that they will be revealed during future building.

Although the walls were reduced almost to ground level and mute desolation prevailed, old records provide complete architectural details to enable the old and stately church and school to again take its place among California's famed historical spots.

heat on April 17, Kiernan began the torturous 100-mile Death March to San Fernando Pampanga. Those who fell or tried to get water out of a muddy ditch along the road were shot or bayoneted.

Many of the American troops started the march with canteens of water, but mid-way along, the Jap soldiers moved through and stripped these from the parched captives.

About three-fourths of the 200 men in Kiernan's group made it to San Fernando Pampanga. It was the first in a seemingly endless string o. hellish experiences that was to reduce Kiernan from a healthy young man standing five feet, eight inches and weighing 142 pounds to a disease-ridden skeleton of less than 70 pounds.

THE BOXCAR RIDE to O'Donnell Prison, where "incredible filth," dysentery, malaria and slow starvation began to exact a steady toll of lives.

Cabanatuan Prison, in central Luzon.

A lesson here.

Four men try to escape, are caught attempting to crawl under the fence. Each is given a shovel, and an American sergeant is sent along with them in a guarded truck.

He brings back the hair-raising story: the first man is shot; the next in line is forced to bury him in a shallow grave; then he is shot, and the fiendish plot unfolds until the sergeant digs the fourth would-be escapees's grave, and he returns.

"I know of no successful escape from a Japanese prisoner-of-war camp," says Kiernan. "It was foolhardy, and I never gave it a thought."

November 1942, and a grim 13-day voyage to Japan. Kiernan and 569 other prisoners crammed in the hold of a small ship with only one small toilet "honey bucket" and everyone suffering from dysentery. The men clad only in cotton khakis, starting out in unbearable heat and running northward into winter's paralyzing cold, with waves washing down on the wretched men through the open hold.

JAPAN, ANY Camp Tanagawa on the main island of Honshu Kiernan suffering from the diseases of manutrition: beriberi, dysentery, scurvy, periodically partially losing his eyesight. Under the pretense of calisthenics, the weakened men forced to do the "goosestep" every morning.

Zentsuji Prison on the island of Shikoku, for 2½ years. No heat in the barracks, but above all, "the one real problem was food—we were being starved gradually, but systematically."

But through it all, Kiernan had hope.

"Those who didn't, died," he explains.

Ironically, the bigger men died first. Their constitution demanded more calories.

A diabolical blow at the mind and morale.

Red Cross shipments of food and medicine were brought out to the camp, stacked in the middle of the compound and there they lay.

"The Japs allowed us to sit on the boxes but they never let us open one, and men died because they didn't," says Kiernan.

A FINAL MOVE to Rokuroshi Camp on Honshu, and Kiernan was at his lowest ebb. His fingernails and hair had stopped growing, yet his captors kept him working hard, digging in a sweet potato patch.

Then one day a rumor from a guard that the Americans had "used a terrible weapon to destroy one of our cities." On Aug. 22, 1945, eight days after the unconditional surrender, the heretofore arrogant Jap camp commander humbly brought the news to the senior officer among the prisoners and to a man, they dropped to their knees in prayer.

Not a pretty story, but one with a happy ending for Kiernan.

Retired from the Army, he works for Long Beach Gas Dept., resides with his attractive wife, Bettie, at 3315 E. First St. He is now 43.

He has had a couple of major stomach operations, but his health is now good.

HOW DID HE survive what so many others couldn't?

"It wasn't determination completely, because I heard men say: 'I won't die. I'm going to beat this thing.' And then die as they said it," he states quietly.

"Maybe it was luck. It's anybody's guess."

Soap Opera Is Her Dish

Mary K. Welles, former Long Beach girl, is going great guns as an actress in New York soap opera.

By Earl Wilson
"It Happened Last Night" Columnist

ACTRESS Mary K. Welles of Long Beach is an avid "soap opera" listener — and it isn't only because she acts in them.

"I even listen when I'm at home," confided Mary K., who's currently in New York and heard on ABC Radio's "True Story," "Whispering Streets," "When a Girl Marries."

Mary K. formerly lived on Loma Ave. in Long Beach and her mother, Mary Ludewig, was a radio script writer for Station KGER and a free lance writer for the old Long Beach Sun.

"When I was 3 years old I decided I wanted to be an actress," Mary K. said. "Mother said, 'Sure, sure, you'll be a school teacher.'

"But when I got to be 12 and still said I wanted to be an actress, she said, 'Okay, by this age you ought to know.'"

MARY K. REMEMBERS her drama coach, Miss Dougherty, at Wilson High School. She also took lessons from the Long Beach coaches, Mr. and Mrs. Elias Day, and appeared at the Community Playhouse.

After making two pictures at Paramount, Mary K. headed for New York eight years ago where she's made her mark on radio and TV (Robert Montgomery, Philco Playhouse, etc.). During the summers, she's had roles with some of the big stock companies, including Elitch Gardens in Denver.

"I prefer radio to television," Mary K. said emphatically, and she's a veteran of both.

"THE DIFFERENCE IS this," she said. "TV is a challenge to your nerves — radio to your talent."

"Working on TV is like giving a performance in tight shoes."

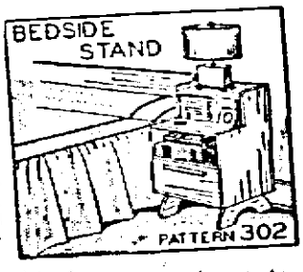

Mary K.'s the only one of her family ever to be in show business, but she told me her fifth great uncle was pretty famous.

"Who's that?" I asked.

"George Washington," she said.

Casey Stengel, boss of the Yankees and wife Edna relax in recreation room of their Glendale home.

Casey Takes It Easy

By Bob Myers

Associated Press Staff Writer

THE CASEY STENGEL in the off-season quiet of Glendale isn't much different from the Stengel of the excitement of New York as the manager of the Yankee baseball club.

Only the physical surroundings and the atmosphere are in contrast, and a sharp one it is.

In New York, Casey is under pressure. Life there is one of big crowds, and exacting demands, and residence in the luxury of an apartment overlooking Central Park.

This, of course, is apart from the demands Casey faces each day as the working field general of the New York Yankees, a job which pays him more than $80,000 a year.

GLENDALE IS FAR different in the few months of the year that Casey can call it home.

Here Casey Stengel of the ball field wars might well be Charles Dillon Stengel, his christened name.

The Stengel of this off-season, off-beat mood lives in a large two-storied home well back of a wide front lawn.

Back of the house is the sun house. It fronts on a swimming pool large enough to accommodate most of the neighborhood's children, which it frequently does.

This handsome home was built by Mrs. Stengel's father. The pool is the oldest in Glendale. "Casey," says Mrs. Stengel, "has been in it twice."

THE "OLD PROFESSOR" is really taking it easy this off-season, his most strenuous activity is emptying the waste-paper baskets. More constructively, he enjoys barbecue cooking and is highly accomplished in the art of lighting a successful blaze.

Casey is getting large chunks of just plain rest, taking a nap when he feels like it. Occasionally, he drives out to inspect some family real estate. On Saturday afternoons, he is glued to his television set to watch football.

Now Casey is at the very peak of the game. His Yankees have won seven out of eight pennants since he took over as manager, and they have won six world series.

"I can verify that Casey has not changed a bit," Mrs. Stengel comments.

"SOMETIMES HERE at home, maybe after a cocktail, he'll try to get by with a little bragging about himself.

"But he doesn't get very far. Not with me, or Jack or some of our nieces to calm him down."

Casey interrupted and started out on his favorite theme—the Yankees, and the 1956 Series.

"Casey," said Mrs. Stengel, "turned in the greatest job of managing this year he ever did."

Casey, with a familiar, rasping growl, which seldom scares anyone too much, grunted.

"Aw, cripes, what do you know about it. Now you take..."

"Now you just listen," interrupted Mrs. S., regaining the floor. "I ought to know something. I'm out to the ball park every day."

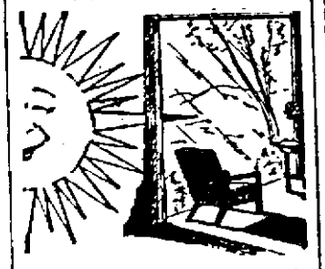

SHE WENT ON to recall that she wanted Casey to retire from baseball in 1949, and again in 1952.

"But when we won in 1953," said Mrs. Stengel, "I decided that if he was that good a man-

Adventure With No Holds Barred

JACK LONDON was a man's man, a rough-and-tough, no-holds-barred adventurer. He had his first drink (beer) at the age of 9, became an oyster pirate in San Francisco Bay at 16, and later became a U.S. officer to wipe out the pirates who were destroying the oyster beds. He breezed through the University of California at Berkeley in 19 months and then raced for the Alaska gold rush without waiting for his graduation paper. He was the first to run the rapids on the McMillan River above White Horse while other miners portaged around, bummed across Canada and the United States as a hobo, lived in the slums of London, crossed the Pacific in a small boat called the Snark. He became a reporter to cover such epochal events as the Russo-Japanese war and, finally — before his death in 1916 — built his famous Wolf House on his ranch at Glen Ellen, Northern California.

Through all his countless adventures he had a burning desire to write, and write he did. And everything he wrote was imbued with all the movement, color and excitement he found in his own adventures.

Wishing to preserve London's best stories in a single volume for a new generation, Irving Shepard has edited "Jack London's Tales of Adventure" (Hanover House, $4.95). In the introduction he explains that he has attempted to select the most absorbing tales London ever wrote — reflecting a representative selection from all phases of the adventurer's diverse literary career—novels, sociological and political essays, sports, war reporting, autobiography, travel.

Mr. Shepard did his job well. The volume contains selections from such famous books as "The Seawolf," "Martin Eden," such adventure as "The Cruise of the Snark," his reporting on the Jeffries-Johnson fight, and 25 of his famous short stories. The work is illustrated with an album of London photographs, many of them quite rare. Men with red blood will read this one from cover to cover.

MONICA STIRLING, author of the widely commended "Boy in Blue" gives us in her new volume the story of a French love affair, "Some Darling Folly" (Coward McCann, $3.50). An artist with words, Miss Stirling sketches with controlled sweeps actor Remy Malet, lovely Sophie Dubois and her husband Etienne; and she recreates scenes of Paris, of the world of the theatre and of the courts, with the heart and mind of the below-surfaces craftsman. This short but most satisfying story of the handsome actor's affair with his married lover is delicately done, with no offensive language, with subtlety. Though the impression left is not so deep as that left by Miss Stirling's previous work, it does offer the mature reader a suspenseful evening as the two lovers spar for positions. Cleverly, Miss Stirling often keeps the husband in the background; but his presence is always felt; and he comes alive, as do the two lovers, and other characters as well.

"ONE WAY TICKET," mystery by Bert and Delores Hitchens, 5530 Parkcrest St., will be published this month by Doubleday, Inc. Mrs. Hitchens, a mystery writer of long standing, is the author of 30 mystery books, some written under the nom-de-plume of D. B. Olsen. This is the second book in which she and her husband have collaborated. The new book is a fast-paced, technically accurate story of railroad detection. Last year their "F.O.B. Murder" won many mentions among lists of the year's best, including the New York Times' "Best Ten."

FOOD

Cookies for Christmas Gifts

By Mildred K. Flanary
Independent-Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

ALWAYS WELCOME are gifts of food. If the food is gaily packaged, that's a "plus"—and if it reveals that an individual's tastes have been remembered, then it is a compliment as well as a gift. We cannot always make our gifts so meaningful but, at Christmas, we should make a special effort toward something extra.

Cookies, which make an ideal gift, may be packaged in any way that suits one's fancy—in boxes, baskets, in cellophane, foil or other pretty papers. Many families have traditional recipes for making Christmas cookies, but perhaps the following recipes may provide a desired variety.

Brownies

¾ cup sifted cake flour
½ teaspoon double-acting baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
⅓ cup butter or other shortening
2 or 3 squares unsweetened chocolate
2 eggs
1 cup sugar
½ cup chopped walnuts
1 teaspoon vanilla

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift again. Melt shortening and chocolate together over hot water. Beat eggs well, add sugar gradually, and beat thoroughly. Then add chocolate mixture and blend. Add flour and mix well; then stir in nuts and vanilla.

Bake in greased 8x8x2-inch pan in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 25 minutes for moist chewy brownies; or 30 minutes for cake-like brownies. Cool in pan; then cut in squares or rectangles. Makes about 20 brownies.

If desired, frost with confectioners' icing, which may be tinted green and flavored with peppermint, and press ½ candied cherry on top of each brownie.

Confectioners' Icing

1 egg white stiffly beaten
2½ cups sifted confectioners' sugar
2 tablespoons hot water (about)
½ teaspoon vanilla

Add about ½ sugar to egg white, beating thoroughly. Add remaining sugar, alternately with water, until of right consistency to spread. Add vanilla and beat thoroughly.

Mincemeat Surprises

3½ cups sifted cake flour
2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup butter or other shortening
½ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
1 egg, unbeaten
2 tablespoons milk
1 teaspoon vanilla

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Cream shortening, add sugar gradually and cream together until light and fluffy. Add egg and beat well. Then add flour, alternately with the milk, a small amount at a time, beating well after each addition. Add vanilla and blend. Chill until firm enough to roll (about 2 hours).

Roll dough ⅛ inch thick on lightly floured board and cut with floured 2½-inch cookie cutter. Place half of cookies on ungreased baking sheet. Place one teaspoonful of Mincemeat Filling in center of each and spread out to within ¼ inch of edge. Cut small hole in center of each remaining cookie; then place on top of filling, pressing edges together to seal. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees F.) 10 minutes, or until done. Makes about 2½ dozen cookies.

Mincemeat Filling. Combine 1 cup mincemeat, ¼ cup firmly packed brown sugar and ½ teaspoon rum flavoring; mix well.

Christmas in a Magic Kingdom

Giant tree, carolers and costumed performers will roam through shops and streets of Disneyland in the Christmas season, in manner of drawing above.

By Jeri Ceresi

BRIGHTEST SPOT in all the Southland this Christmas will be Walt Disney's Magic Kingdom in Anaheim.

Walt is presently readying a glorious old-fashioned festival for the enjoyment of the thousands of holiday season visitors to his 20 million-dollar entertainment capital.

Live entertainment in the form of hundreds of visiting choral groups, orchestras, choirs and bands will blend with the park's majestic yule season decorations to carry the happy spirit of Christmas to all lands.

Added to these visiting groups, who will appear on a scheduled basis, will be the Disneyland Carollers, costumed performers who will roam the streets, shops and restaurants of the Magic Kingdom each day from noon till closing, starting Tuesday, Dec. 11.

LAST YEAR'S Christmas at Disneyland drew excited praise from the thousands of holiday season visitors, both local and from out of state. Theme of the decorations will carry the joy and beauty of a turn-of-the-century Christmas time, in harmony with the park's 1900 era Main St. area.

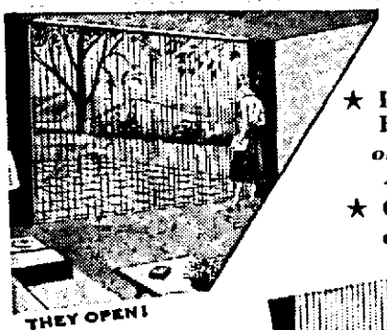

Youngsters will delight to long forgotten Christmas customs as they are revived through the magic touch of Walt Disney. Older folks will relive childhood memories with the wandering carolers, old-fashioned festooning and "period piece" window decorations of the Main St. shops.

All of Main St. will seem a giant Christmas package, decorated on every foot of its length. Overhead, natural green garlands reach from buildings on both sides of the street. The authentic gas lamps that illuminate Main St. will be hung with Old English holly wreaths and silver and gold bells.

ILLUMINATED cutouts of sacred and festive Christmas scenes will greet the visitor at every turn. Capping the decorations and providing Main St. with its most spectacular sight are the buildings themselves, outlined with thousands of multi-colored light bulbs.

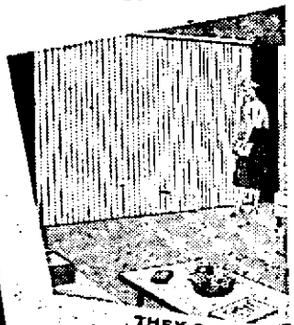

At the terminus of Main St., in Disneyland's Central Plaza, will be the park's giant tree — a full 40 feet in height and decorated on every bough and stem, capturing in its evergreen branches all the joy and happiness of the Christmas season.

Making Capital of Disadvantages

Artistic landscaping and ingenious architecture join to make this house "at home" on narrow, sloping lot.

Ojai fieldstone used for a fireplace and wall in beautifully grained ash highlight the living room of Dr. and Mrs. Hans Weil and their two girls.

By Eileen Ball

FROM THE STANDPOINT of beauty and from the excellence of its location, the lot Dr. and Mrs. Hans Weil found at 263 Granada Ave. was a superb "find"—especially for this city where land for building is as scarce as the proverbial hen's teeth. But what they did not fully appreciate — until their architects showed them — was the enormous difficulty of designing a house for this comparatively narrow lot that sloped so abruptly from its north side in a seven-foot drop. The topographical characteristic coupled with the special desires the Weils had in mind for their home imposed a great many restrictions on their architects, Richard Poper and William Lockett, AIA.

The house that resulted is scarcely a year old. It embodies all that the Weils wanted—and more. It is highly functional, the architecture extremely attractive, and it turns the disadvantages of the site to aesthetic advantage, belying both the drop and the width of the lot.

THE EXTERIOR of the house is of sandalwood stucco, cream-colored wood and natural redwood board and batten siding. The width of the house is seemingly extended through use of spans of redwood eggcrate lattice.

Kitchen and dining areas of the Weil home merge into a unified and highly functional component. Two rooms effected by closing a leather partition.

north side of the lot was a retaining wall of used brick. Now, the walkway leading back to the secluded entry is bordered by planting and this low, attractive wall.

To the left of the front door is a fixed panel of clear glass against which grows a mass of tropical greenery. This attractive entryway is completely sheltered by the flat overhang of the roof, plastered underneath with the sandlewood stucco.

The front door opens to a completely separate entry carpeted in brown and white tweed wool and paneled in natural ash. A free-standing cabinet of curly Japanese ash stands out from the entry wall on wooden legs, a unique arrangement for guest wraps.

To the right of the entry is the living room with an unusually high ceiling, a dimension determined largely by Dr. Weil's highly prized possession—an antique breakfront, more than 300 years old. From the Bishop's Castle in Freiburg, Germany, this enormous piece of furniture stands nearly as high as the ceiling which is two feet above average. Of solid rosewood, it is 10 feet wide and has multi-paned doors of hand blown glass.

BALANCING THE ROOM at the opposite end is a fireplace of combined Ojai and Santa Maria fieldstone. The ceiling is of white acoustical plaster spanned with heavy beams and two walls are completely paneled in natural honey-colored ash.

Two painted walls are of a shade of sandlewood that identically matches the boucle curtains. They drape the west exposure that is almost completely glass. Centering the glass walls are panels that slide open to a sheltered terrace and the garden. Spanning the width of the glass is a lighting trough that effectively lights the beamed ceiling.

The room is furnished with a pair of sofas—modern in line and upholstered in off-white wool tweed, a pair of Dux chairs from Sweden that are upholstered in a pink-and-brown geometric print, a round cocktail table and a handsome corner table of oiled teakwood.

TO THE LEFT of the entry is the den . . . a sanctuary that is exclusively Dr. Weil's domain. It is mahogany-paneled and features vast amounts of built-in bookshelves and storage compartments, and includes hi-fi system and an enviable collection of records. Along the other side of the room runs a bank of windows that overlook the walkway. Here is Dr. Weil's large birch desk. A pair of teak and oak chairs with rush seats plus a love seat upholstered in oatmeal tweed provide seating. Everything for Dr. Weil's convenience and enjoyment—in pursuit of his profession at home and of his hobbies—is included in this room.

Directly beyond the entry is the kitchen and dining room, an area which, essentially integrated, may be readily separated by an expansive folding leather door.

The floor of the dining area is cork. The end walls and the ceiling are putty colored. The other wall of the dining room is "papered" in natural burlap, a wonderful material for the art connoisseur who changes his paintings occasionally, for this is a wall covering that hides the nailholes!

A LARGE AND simply designed dining table of birch has matching chairs upholstered in turquoise. Over the table hangs a contemporary light fixture of brass. Draperies are sill length, of a colorful harlequin pattern flecked with gold.

The large kitchen has a wealth of ash cabinets. Separating the dining room from the preparation area is a large breakfast bar, wide enough for the proper setting of china and glassware. Countertops in the kitchen are surfaced with beige linen-like plastic. Flecked vinyl flooring is copper, black and white. From the kitchen a door opens to the patio, facilitating the serving of outdoor meals. The back door opens to a completely sheltered breeze way to the garage, a feature of importance to a doctor who must, occasionally, make night calls in all sorts of weather.

Connecting the two bedrooms of the Weils' daughters is a spacious bath specifically designed for their joint use. A long Pullman counter surfaced with pink-and-black figured plastic contains two lavatories. On either side of the bathroom are built-in chests exactly the same size. Dorothy's bedroom is turquoise and brown. Ruth's room is decorated in shades of pink and chocolate.

THE MASTER bedroom has putty-beige walls and ceiling, with one long wall completely lined with wardrobes. The bedspread is deep turquoise. Large windows overlook the front of the lot and are curtained with sill length sandlewood draperies. A built-in chest of drawers is crafted of natural ash and terminated in a handy dressing table backed with a plate mirror. Hand blocked paper was used for two walls of the room, featuring a dull gold geometric pattern on an effective ground.

The master bath is large. Its fixtures of seafoam green match the tile Pullman counter. Lab green wallpaper coordinates the monochromatic scheme.

Living room is oriented to the patio and garden. The single level was gained by filling in the property.

Little Lick-Em Sticks

DON'T BREAK your fingernails while cleaning the kitchen tile. Nor should you bruise your fingers polishing carved furniture. Instead, use a lollipop stick! Not for Susie's pleasure alone was this small wooden cylinder created. It and its near relative, the ice cream stick, if washed and kept handy in a drawer, will make life sweeter for you, too! You lick off the goodies and the little sticks will lick tough household chores.

Cleaning tile and around faucets, for instance, can be done this way: First smooth on liquid cleanser, bleach, or scouring powder moistened with water. Allow this cleaning medium to soak into dirt and stain for a few minutes. Make sure that it reaches into all cracks and corners. Then, using pointed end of lollipop stick, work soil gently loose from seams in tile, corners, around faucets and drains. Flush away with warm water, rinse and wipe dry. You'll have gleaming, new-looking tile again—and no chipped fingernails.

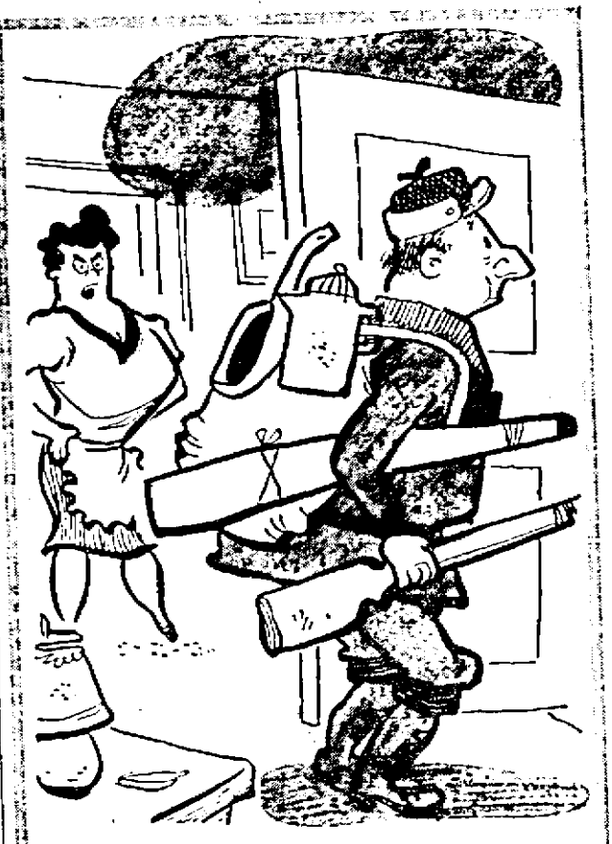

YOUR KITCHEN range will not be quite the ogre to clean it sometimes appears to be if you let a lollipop or ice cream stick help you. Wrap a cloth about a stick, dip in cleaning solution. And poke away at the dirt and grime on gas burners, sharp corners and other hard-to-get-at places that seem to be a part of every kitchen range. Rinse with hot soapy water, wipe dry. Furnace grates and radiator grilles glow their appreciation at the same treatment.

These little sticks, when wrapped with cotton and dipped in furniture oil, will polish clear to the bottom of those curlicue cracks on furniture scrollwork. Watch the dusty crevices and corners (even those that defy your trusty vacuum cleaner) come shining clean once more.

BY WRAPPING a fluff of cotton about a lollipop stick you can: oil a lock or hinge with minimum of muss and effort; touch up marred or scratched woodwork with paint or varnish; clean gently but thoroughly around the dials of your automatic washer, dryer, refrigerator and other appliances; get behind locks and in corners of windows.

You can loosen burned-on food from pots and pans with a lollipop or ice cream stick. You can stir small cans of paint with them. In fact, before attempting any task that demands scraping, poking, polishing or stirring, ask yourself: "Will a lollipop stick do this for me?"

HELEN L. GILLUM

"Just where do you think you're going?"

HUMOR CONTINUES to find its way into some of the best fall books, three of which are especially recommended for belly-busting guffaws.

In "Hunt and Be Damned" (Prentice-Hall, $2.95), Lawrence Lariar—who has long hunted in Flatbush, near Coney Island, and who has been hunted by laugh seekers—cartoons and writes his way to his best effort yet (he has compiled many such collections) in a gallery of hunting types such as "Alcoholics Unanimous," "Through Field and Stream and Hem and Seam," "How to Cook Your Own Goose," and "The Handy Hunters Dictionary." Just the thing for a pleasant easy-chair safari.

"The Hokinson Festival" (Dutton, $5) contains almost 500 cartoons of Helen E. Hokinson's characters—urban, suburban and exurban—which have made readers of The New Yorker exclaim with delight for lo, these many years.

"The Pick of Punch" (Dutton, $3.95), edited by Nicolas Bentley, is a big book crammed with wits and nitwits in the cause of satire and the lighter brand of lunacy. This collection, out of the famous and respected old British magazine, is a galaxy of the world's best writers-in-the-lighter-vein and it's really great!

Christmas Ornaments

Bright aluminum tree, candle or reflector will add to yule decor outdoors. What's more, they're easy to make.

By Walter Finch

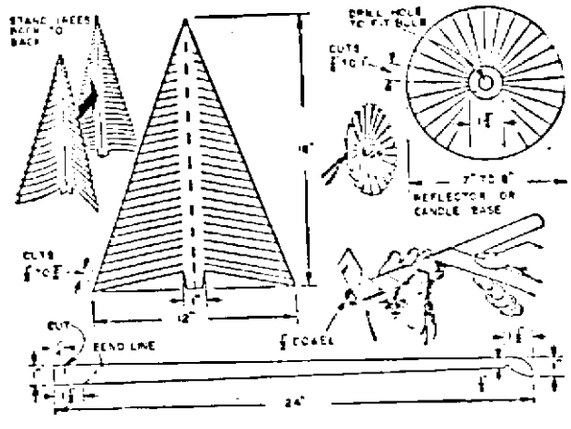

BRIGHT ALUMINUM shaped as a tree or candle and as a king-size reflector for outdoor lights will make your home gayer this Christmas. They're easy to make, too, from Do-It-Yourself aluminum. Because they're metal and won't rust, you can use them again, year after year.

To make the tree, cut the triangular shaped blanks as shown. Bend each half down the center, then cut parallel slits from each side ½" to ¾" apart, using ordinary scissors or household shears. Set cut halves back to back on a mantle or as a table centerpiece.

The reflector is simply a disc of plain aluminum sheet with slits cut into it from the edge. Drill the hole to fit the bulbs.

WIND THE STRIP cut for the candle around a ½" dowel; then pull out the dowel. Bend the bottom end to fit into one of the slits cut into a base like the reflector. When the season is over, the candle is simple to take apart and store.

Reynolds Do-It-Yourself aluminum is available at your local lumber or hardware store.

Bargain in Spain

Spanish hotels and restaurants, already a bargain, now have government-fixed price ceilings on table d'hote meals, according to Trans World Airlines officials in Madrid. Maximum prices for four-course meals are: Luxury class, $1.40; first-class, $1.15; second-class, 95 cents; third-class, 75 cents. TWA's Holiday Discount Fare to Madrid is another bargain — $479.60 round trip from the United States, allowing 15 full days in Europe.

Tell him it's you without an electric clothes dryer—tenderly protecting your nice clean (and still wet) wash because you got no cooperation from the weather man.

Tell him the cure: a shiny new electric dryer. It saves you the lifting and bending and dependence on the weather. It saves clothes—they dry fluffier, cleaner and fresher smelling. They last longer, too.

Tell him it has to be an electric dryer, of course. Because it's so safe. Because you simply plug it in. And because it costs less to buy! (Electricity is your biggest bargain in modern living.)

I understand there are several kinds of "taverns" in England. What are they like?

THE BAR SYSTEM in England is so complicated that I gave up trying to work it out. There are pubs. The pubs include "private bars" sometimes, "public bars" sometimes, and "saloon" bars. The beer is drawn from the same tap. But the prices are different according to where you sit.

As near as I can figure it out, you can take a lady into the saloon bar and sit down. In the private bar you sit on a stool. In the public bar, you stand up and play darts.

Beer is ordered by the pint or half pint. And if you order beer you don't get what you think of as beer. If you want beer you order bitter. There's something called "arf and arf." I have not had nerve enough to give it a chemical test.

The pubs are good for luncheons. Some that I've tried in London and liked are The Antelope, Jack Straw's Castle and Nag's Head.

We would like to see some of the French countryside. How would you suggest we go?

I PREFER to drive in France. Buy the Guide Michelin (on any sidewalk magazine kiosk.) Tells you prices, best hotels, best cellars, best foods. All in all the best driving guide in the world. The French National Tourist Bureau, 8 Avenue de l'Opera, has a list of car rentals ranging from $2.25 to $150 per day (15 days or more) plus 3½ to 6½ cents per kilometer. Or look in the Paris edition of the New York Herald Tribune.

My daughter is planning to do some summer school work next year. She thinks she would like Mexico. Can you tell me of any schools there that offer summer courses?

Some schools in Mexico catering to Americans for summer study are Mexico City College, La Escuela Interamericana, Saltillo (Coahuila), Instituto Tecnologico de Monterrey, Monterrey (Nuevo Laredo) and Universidad de Guanajuanto, Guanajuanto (Guanajuanto). Language and culture courses mainly.

For art the Instituto Allende, San Miguel Allende (Guanajuanto).

For a complete list of Latin American schools that give summer courses, write for Opportunities for Summer Study in Latin America. Available for 10 cents from the Pan American Union, Department of Cultural Affairs, Division of Education, Washington, D. C.

Your mailed questions will be answered (no phone calls). Send stamped and addressed envelope to: Stan Delaplane, Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, Sixth and Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif.

Tongue-Twister

Among the hundreds of Welsh tongue-twisters is a place called Tu Hwnt i'r Bont, says Pan American. It's a cafe on the banks of the River Conway near a hump-backed stone bridge. Unless you're a good speaker of the language, you'll have a hard time getting anyone to say Tu Hwnt i'r Bont, when you mean "beyond the bridge."

Pan American World Airways

Chez Justin in the village of Eze on the French Riviera is typical of relaxing centers that dot the Mediterranean seacoast of France. Charming, out-of-the-way places are often just as attractive as are the more glamorous resorts, much cheaper to live in and provide a better insight into the warm, sunny land.

Going to Europe?

Anticipating another Europe tourist record next year, local travel agencies are already offering a free "mailing-piece folder" put out by Cook's Travel Service called "Europe Summary of Escorted Tours 1957."

Folder outlines eight escorted Europe tour routes with 102 departure dates from New York and Montreal from March 6 to Oct. 9, plus suggestions regarding several other tours and routes from January onward.

Inclusive fares range from $846 for a 40-day "popular" tour from Montreal, to $2,338 and up for a 56-day "grand tour" from New York with crossings in first class on board Cunard's "Queen" liners.

Many first-time visitors to Europe, travel agents find, prefer escorted tours as an easy way to see the Old World without having to keep an eye on baggage, passport regulations, customs, hotel accommodations and other travel details.

Waikiki Booms

Hawaii's fabulous hotel development at Waikiki Beach, a tourist "eighth wonder," may soon see another tower of tourism rise on one of the world's most famous strands.

And thereby soon may pass one of the travelers landmarks —the Halekulani Hotel, as such —now known as a bit of the old and true Hawaii. The Halekulani is up for lease or sale.

The hotel was founded by Robert Lewers and has been under the continuous lease or outright ownership of Kimball family since 1917 when it was taken over by Clifford Kimball. It is now operated by the Kimball interests under the direction of George P. Kimball, trustee, and Richard K. (Kingie) Kimball, general manager. It is located midway on Waikiki Beach between Matson and Kaiser Hotel properties, a prime beach area with top swimming, surfing and catamaran sailing conditions. Although of only 190 rooms, it is one of the four top Waikiki hotels on a beautifully landscaped site capable of supporting an operation of some 1,000 rooms.

Greater service to Waikiki, greater revenue possibilities and the need for 3,000 more hotel rooms in the area to care for the projected influx of tourists in the jet transport age has led to the decision to modernize, according to the Kimballs.

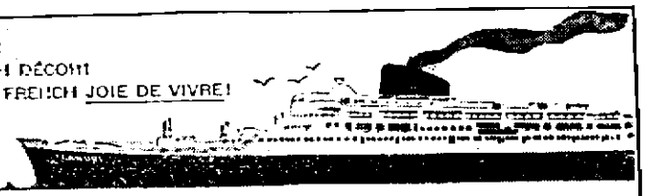

Meantime, the service that has won the Halekulani global fame will be continued, with the hope that any future deal may incorporate a continuance of many of these desirable features, it was indicated.

"Mele Kalikimaka!"

Modern catamaran, a version of ancient Polynesians' twin-hulled canoe, is used by Santa Claus in Hawaii.

By Catherine McNaught

CHRISTMAS is a latter-day fete in the ancient annals of Hawaiian Island customs and, therefore, it is only natural the Hawaiian Santa Claus should come sailing into Honolulu from the sea, to leap ashore with his pack of good things. No sleigh for him on this happy coral shore!

And his merry greeting is "Mele Kalikimaka!" instead of the usual "Merry Christmas!" That's because "r" and "s" were foreign to the original Hawaiian language and the natives could not handle them in speech.

Before the coming of the white man the Hawaiian people were pagan in belief and the celebration of Christmas was an alien observance. It now seems odd that the general acceptance of Christmas was delayed due to the objection of the first missionaries from Boston, a serious and dedicated people. Too intent on educating and converting the natives they discouraged their noisy, boistrous way of celebrating the Christ Mass.

Ethiopia Calls

Ethopia is beckoning the traveler with a bent for the unusual. Connecting with Trans World Airlines flights into Cairo, Ethopian Air Lines is flying an ever increasing tourist load to Addis Ababa each week. And now that the "big rains" have stopped, the land of the Conquering Lion of Judah expects an even greater influx of travelers.

Hotels in the capital city are excellent and trips into the countryside surrounding the capital are scenically rewarding. The climate is akin to California, visitors report.

THE HAWAIIANS are basically a happy people and will celebrate anything. They had always delighted in religious festivals, but in 1819 when the Kapu system of the old gods was discarded, they were without a religious belief. For this reason the native chiefs welcomed the missionaries and encouraged their people to become Christians. Today the Christmas holidays are celebrated with a zeal and noise which drives many of the more conservative citizens out of the cities, as firecrackers are an essential part of the celebration.

The first Christmas observance recorded in the Hawaiian Islands took place in 1786, prior to the arrival of the missionaries, aboard the English ship, the Queen Charlotte, anchored off the island of Kauai. Native chiefs were invited and gifts were distributed to the children on shore. This was the period when a flourishing fur trade with the Orient had developed and British and American ships started arriving in large numbers. They had discovered the strategic location of the islands and stopped to take on water and supplies.

HOWEVER, IT WAS not until 1862 that King Kamehameha IV and Queen Emma, members of the Church of England, gave official sanction to the Christmas holiday, and published a proclamation to that effect. A Christmas Eve service was held in the church, which the King and Queen attended, followed by a torch light procession through the streets singing carols, ending at Iolani Palace. Christmas as a religious observance was thus established.

There are unusual phases in the Hawaiian forms of celebration. Each Christmas Eve there is a pageant with carols on the balcony of the Iolani Palace. With no racial prejudice, Japanese, Chinese and Hawaiian children enact the Nativity scene, and the singing of carols is often accompanied by ukuleles and steel guitars. Christmas menus often consist of roast pig and poi, breadfruit and devil-fish, accompanied by plenty of limu, a form of seaweed.

THE LIBERAL popping off of firecrackers probably originated from the Chinese custom of setting off fireworks to frighten away bad spirits. But the enthusiasm is the same as on the mainland, and the true Christmas spirit prevails.

From time immemorial the catamaran, the Polynesians' big double canoe, was the means of transportation and exploration from island to island. So, to the deliriously happy children of Honolulu it seems most appropriate for Kris Kringle to arrive aboard a catamaran with Christmas trees in the rigging and bags of toys in the hold.

PET PARADE

A Word About Exotics

By Eleanor Avery Price

YOUR GENUINE love or distrust of wild animals would determine whether you would be successful in raising an unusual pet such as the mischievous honey bear, or kinkajou, a member of the raccoon family, pictured with this article. And don't fool yourself that animals won't know the difference!

Sheila Stedman, founder and organizer of the World League of Animal Lovers in Durban, South Africa, has proven over and over again that so-called wild animals can instinctively detect friend from foe, and she has witnessed some strange and kind actions toward her by jungle beasts, although she is no longer surprised because she has a true feeling of friendliness and affection toward every wild creature ranging from the smallest animal to the huge elephants of Uganda.

ANOTHER GREAT animal lover, one whose name has been heard and seen frequently this past year, is Prince Ranier III of Monaco. For years the Prince has spent his spare time collecting, keeping, and studying exotic pets. By 1955, a truly fine zoological park was completed on part of the rocky section of the palace gardens.

Prince Ranier himself captured many of the animals which now occupy Centre E'Acclimatation Zoologique de Monaco, the park's name. Fortunately the climate of Monaco is mild and suitable for his exotics.

All of Prince Ranier's captives are treated as pets and are therefore exceptionally tame. The zoo contains chiefly anthropoids such as chimpanzees, an orangutan and gibbon apes, but there are also other monkeys such as the squirrel, black spider, Uakari from Madagascar, and the Woolly.

THE FIRST ZOO is attributed to China and the first emperor of the Chou dynasty who reigned about 1100 B.C. This zoo was called Intelligence Park and was apparently created for scientific and educational reasons.

The ancient Greeks and Romans captured wild animals but slaughtered them in gladiatorial shows. In later years, royalty and wealthy persons maintained menageries, aviaries, and aquaria. Among them were Henry I, Henry III, Henry IV of England and Philip VI of France.

Cuddles, an affectionate and mischievous kinkajou, or honey bear, is Mrs. Mary Weatherbee's interesting pet.

IMPERIAL VALLEY Kennel Club will hold a dog show and obedience trial on Sunday, Dec. 9, at Holtville. Several nearby motels will accommodate guests with well-behaved dogs.

IF YOUR DOG is a barker, get a water pistol and keep it loaded and handy. If the barking is unnecessary, give the dog a squirt right in the face, then scold severely and shake your finger. Eventually an upraised finger will quiet the animal.

The Getting Used to It

loft so that whoever was coming up just out of the bright sunlight wouldn't be able to see us. I could hear the steps groaning one by one. Then —.

It was Uncle Ben! In his right hand — a shotgun! My mind raced with my heartbeat. Uncle Ben pulled himself up and looked around, eyes blankly passing mine several times. He walked slowly towards the haymow door. His back was towards us. Did he know — or was he just being dramatic again to scare my Aunt Mary? I grinned at the thought. Then all of a sudden I felt completely relaxed. The long wait was over. That long, lonely fear of the morning had conquered itself, and I thought, It must be the getting used to being afraid that's worst . . . that's it, the getting used to it!

I LOOKED AT NESTOR. Fear — a stranger to him that morning — was beginning to etch into his face. I looked at Uncle Ben. Now just beginning to open the hayloft door, he was oblivious to fear, but might not be in a minute.

Suddenly a wave of strength seemed to sweep over me. My right hand clutched the pitchfork's neck tightly and I rammed it out in the direction of Nestor's back. He gave a wild shout and leaped up, droping the ax in his panic and raising his hands. As I scrambled up I saw Uncle Ben turn quickly, shout something and then, in his excitement, blast a hole in the barn roof with the shotgun. I stumbled backwards and fell off the edge of the loft.

"You're under arrest," I heard Uncle Ben shout in a high-pitched voice.

It was then that I hit the barn floor, I suppose, for I remember no more.

CAMERA ANGLES

Situation With Lens Appeal

By the Shutterbug

"A BOY and his dog"— how many times have you read this phrase or seen it pictured in books and magazines? The idea behind it is so universally appealing that it has been used in advertising campaigns for products as diversified as life insurance and linoleum.

In our every-day picture taking, too, children and pets are among the most popular subjects. Someone recently pointed out that more cameras are aimed at kids, canines and cats in one day than at the Grand Canyon in a whole year.

What more could any family want for its album than a happy-go-lucky, youngster-and-dog snapshot like this?

IT'S INTERESTING to note that both youngsters and their favorite animals actually have a great deal in common as subjects. Both of them—whether pictured together or separately—provide plenty of action, can be alternately angelic and aggravating, demand considerable patience on the part of the snapshooter, and view the world from a much lower eye-level than we adults do.

It is by capitalizing on these special characteristics that the picture-taker can succeed in getting really superior snapshots. Shooting kids and their pets is by no means "kid stuff"—but the results are rewarding and make whatever efforts are involved thoroughly worth the little extra time it takes to achieve just the effect you want.

IN MANY CASES, some perfect shots of children and pets we've seen wouldn't have been possible at all unless the picture-taker had come down to their level. Inhibition thrown to the winds—and armed with a few appropriate props like lollipops, balls and biscuits—the snapshooter should be prepared to caper about, laugh and play with his young subjects.

Lively is the word for any child and his pet. So your camera must be ready to catch them "in action"—at precisely the moment when the small youngster and kitten together discover the warmth of an electric blanket, or the tiny pup takes to gnawing on the child's bunny-eared slipper.

To tell your story, don't rely on one shot only—make a series of them.

LONG BEACH CAMERA Guild will have a black and white print contest at 8 p.m. Wednesday in Municipal Art Center, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd.

Winners in the November competitions: Black and white prints, Virginia Wieland, first; Evelyn Richmond, second; Virginia Callender, third; W. J. Thomas, Virginia Callender and Dr. F. W. S. Modern, honorable mention. Color slides: Harold Marosh, first; Virginia Callender, second and third; Evelyn Richmond, Esther Modern, Carl Van Steenbergen and Clara Watkins, honorable mention. Albert Nadeau of Hollywood Camera Club judged the black and white print contest and Charles Schmenger, past president of the YMCA Camera Club, judged the color slide competition.

Casey Stengel Takes It Easy

ager baseball needed him more than I—or California—did."

Casey and Dizzy Dean are past masters in fracturing grammar. Stengel has an edge on Diz, however. He has an amazing knack for sentences that run without benefit of pause or period and eventually end up with such profound conclusions as:

"A club should win in that Brooklyn ball park regardless if it loses."

Many writers have tried, and generally failed, to write down a complete Stengel observation. So, for posterity, on the day I called on him a tape recorder was set up in Casey's den.

He was asked for his reactions on being named the American manager of the year for the fifth time.

HERE IS THE REPLY, which required more tape than we thought it would:

"Well, I'd have to say on this award of the year that naturally the first thing you'd have to say, that is, you should be thankful for the award of that kind and you should be thankful it was not given by one man but by a number of men that are authorities on baseball because they have followed the sport so many years and because it's a voting proposition in which the majority share and therefore that's why you get the selection and feel honored because you have received the selection from the men who voted you the award, which is the writers, the sports writers.

"And the second thing is you got to thank naturally is your ownership for making it possible that they own a ball club and were successful enough to have scouts pick up enough players to make it a very good team.

"And third and last certainly you have got to thank the ball players and the coaches for cooperating great enough to win a pennant and a world championship and naturally that makes the manager more successful, in which no doubt success generally gives you the award although it isn't often you get the award just because you win a pennant or world championship.

"And the fourth thing is you got to be satisfied with yourself that you're doing a good job with the talent entrusted to you."

the recent contest of the Southern California Council of Camera Clubs. Slides taken at the recent convention of the Photographic Society of America at Denver, will be shown under the auspices of El Camino Camera Club at 8 p.m. Monday in Plummer Park, 7373 Santa Monica Blvd.

FOUR YEARS AGO one of the game's all-time greatest, Ty Cobb, said:

"Casey deserves to be in the Hall of Fame. He has shown the greatest ability to successfully manage a ball club and surely deserves credit as the top manager of all time."

Cobb's observation still looks good in 1956.

THE GOLD-PLATED camera has made its appearance, for those who want super-elegant exteriors on their shutterboxes. The German-made Regula 35-mm camera with lever-actuated film advance, coupled rangefinder, double-exposure prevention, and a beautifully gold-plated case, has been introduced into this country by Burleigh Brooks of New York. Lens is a 2.8 Steinheil, 45-mm focal length, and a carrying case designed like a jewel-box can be had, too.

LEITZ OF WETZLAR has just introduced an addition to the Leica family, a new wide angle lens. It is called the Summaron 28-mm, f5.6, and covers an angle of view of 75.4 degrees.

There's no card table problem in the Elmo Jenkins home. This one is just lowered from wall (left) by Mrs. Jenkins. It's a Van Gogh scene (right).

And in the Jenkinses' den, a Toby mug scene swings down and out as a table, disclosing storage behind.

Van Gogh Inspired This Table!

By Caroline Coleman

A HOUSEHOLDER'S occasional need of a table in a small space typifies the reason the market for folding card tables is so stable. For more reasons than a game of bridge a housewife finds herself dragging a card table out of the hall closet with weary regularity. It offers itself up willingly as a surface upon which the kids can paste, draw and eat snacks. It makes a fairly stable prop for a typewriter and doubles as a desk over which to strew income tax papers.

But storing it and setting it up is, at best, somewhat of a nuisance. Not so for the Elmo Jenkinses, who have ingeniously devised a way of gaining spur-of-the-moment table tops without the hauling, dragging and pinched-finger routine that often goes with the card table.

MRS. JENKINS' dining area has, in addition to a large dining table surface that stays hidden away in its wall compartment, an eye-deceiving snack table that never gives away the secret of its presence between occasions of use.

This table looks exactly like a wonderful reproduction of a Van Gogh street scene as it hangs against the wall in a handsome, natural-wood, shadow-box frame. And, really, that is exactly what it is — until Mrs. Jenkins decides to convert it into a table. Then the picture, which is mounted on a sturdy thickness of masonite, is unsnapped from its top clip and lowered in much the manner of a wide ironing board. As the picture swings out from the wall to assume the horizontal, the frame swings free from a top hinge, establishing itself as a rectangular "leg" upon which the table is supported.

INSTALLED in the den is a similar device. Here, the picture is of Toby mugs framed in deep shadow-box scallops of pine mounted on a larger rectangle of thick masonite. As the latter is lowered to present a handy work desk, the framed picture swings free to form a prop. Further function is found in the recess behind the masonite top. Shallow shelves, hidden when the table is latched shut, hold pens, pencils, writing paper, checkbooks and all the other small items needed at the average desk. Average? That is hardly the word for the clever brainstorms of the Jenkinses!

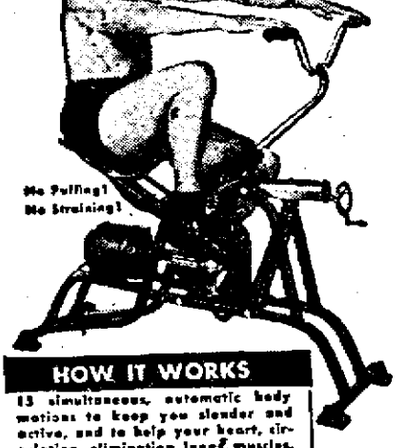

Excuse for Party

Tourists in Miami may scurry for home on hearing reports of a possible approaching hurricane, but to old-time residents it's an excuse for a party. An article in the current ASTA Travel News, official publication of the American Society of Travel Agents, reveals that many a Miami hostess holds a hurricane party featuring canned goods, sterno, candles, plenty of Scotch and a battery radio. Added precaution includes a a bathtub of water in case the mains are temporarily shut off.

Shea's Castle--Little-Known

By Jo Hindman

SHEA'S CASTLE, near Lancaster in the Mojave Desert, is a well-known landmark, but mysteriously little is known about the man who built it.

It is said that when the booming 20s were just getting underway, a successful real estate man withdrew from the lands market and invested in a desert domain, an aggregate of homesteads covering 1,369 tawny acres tucked into a spur of west Antelope Valley. The fabulous, many-roomed castle that rose upon the sunbaked earth stands imperishably today, but memory of the slender distinguished-looking Irishman who built it, referred to only as R. P. Shea, is fading into blurry recollection. Legend, too, whispers of Shea's wife, a sad colleen from the Emerald Isle, whose heart finally broke within the walls of the castle seared by the sun-gold blaze of desert floors. She wearied with longing for rainy Irish skies.

Begun in 1924, the castle was completed within two years. Strange was the sight and stranger the tales as stone lodged against stone, raising thick walls and rounding out real towers into the crenelated rock parapets — warlike battlements as genuine as any in the Old Country. Shea, people say, sent an architect to Ireland to gather authentic ideas.

LIKE A PICTURE from a storybook, the towers and battlements clustered on a lonely alluvial desert meadow cause a blink of surprise in today's America.

Oldtimers in the area recall that "everyone worked on the castle," and as the grain and alfalfa fields were being blighted by an arid cycle at the time, the economic lift given to the area by the wages and currency circulated by Shea's enterprise is still remembered gratefully today. Some say it is a replica of Blarney Castle in Ireland. Shea's castle towers are round; Blarney's famous one is square. However, the massive architecture definitely calls to mind the staunch masonry of wild northern Ireland near County Cork. Irish masons came to California to help build it.

NATIVE STONE was quarried on the grounds, hewn into blocks, and used in constructing the castle. The millionaire's passion for authenticity resulted in costly importations: Walnut and cedar for paneling, marble from Italy for fireplaces, inlays of precious woods from Europe for flooring. Beautiful native onyx also was used. Cost was not an item, but perfection was.

The layout includes eight bedrooms, seven bathrooms, six fireplaces, large servants quarters, steam-heated and electrically lighted; hotel-size pantry and kitchen, fountain-cooled courtyard and circular tower rooms. Hand-adzed beams are sunk into stuccoed walls and ceilings, hand-wrought chandeliers are impressive and leafy ironwork frames the dining room archway that leads down three steps into the shag-carpeted main hall that can be warmed by a massive fireplace.

A six-car garage adjoins the main castle building, but reminiscent of feudal splendor is a stone stable, also towered, buttressed and the size of a 10-room house; a dairy, miscellaneous buildings, and two pond-sized, roofed cisterns perched on the hillside to collect water from springs above. The property has 22 live running springs, two of which supply water to the residence.

A CHECK DAM, currently dry, once collected the waters of a seven-acre lake as shown on an old geological survey map. The castle lies at 2,847 elevation.

The castle and its grounds are inclosed by 11½ miles of woven wire fencing, seven feet high, stoutly set in concrete and worth $120,000 if duplicated today. A private entry road, graveled and outlined by granite boulders, can be reached by a country dirt road off 140th Ave. about 20 miles west of Lancaster or Palmdale, and is entered beneath an elaborate grillwork flanked by a granite sentry box.

Aerial view of Shea's Castle reveals warlike parapets copied from castles of Ireland. Stable is in upper left center. Castle is in Antelope Valley.

HOW TO Make a Scandinavian Bird in the Christmas Tradition

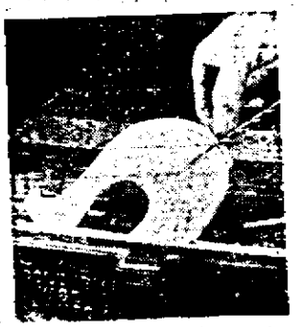

1. A GAY, QUAINT Christmas symbol you can make yourself will become—with passing years a part of your family's own Christmas tradition.

2. DRAW BIRDS with soft pencil on ½-inch pine ruled into 1½-inch squares, as indicated in this photograph. Material can be any soft pine available at your lumberyard, or you can salvage it from old crates, boxes. Wood that shows the least grain is easiest to work with.

3. COPING SAW cuts into soft pine like butter, and follows curves you marked. Keep the blade at right angle to surface so cut edge will be square. If you're making several, tack two pieces of stock together, and cut both at one time. It's faster—and ensures uniformity.

4. DRILL HOLE for doweling leg before you start to round the edges and shape the bird. If you'll mark direction of hole on the side, it will help you guide the drill. Dowel about 3/16 of inch makes right-size leg—and it should be about 2 inches above the little square base.

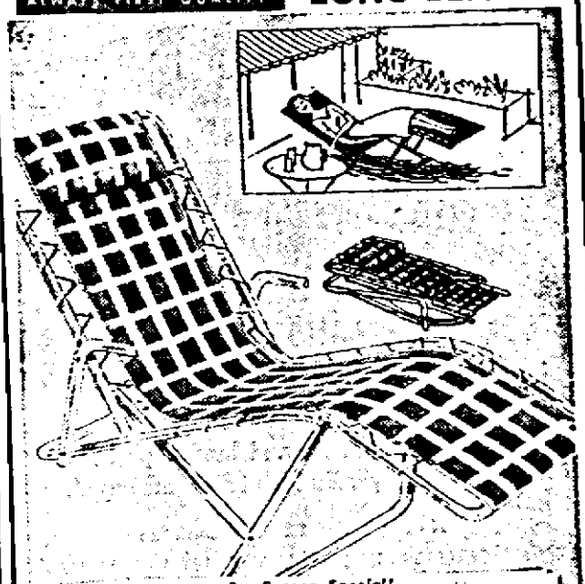

5. SHARP KNIFE or razor blade is your carving tool. Mark lines you'll want to cut for feathers, eye, and take light cuts, following lines. First cuts should be shallow V-grooves. Then deepen them gradually, as you widen and smooth cuts. Watch grain direction, to prevent knife from digging in.

6. PAINTING BIRDS is easy, now that the feathers and tail are carved. The carving helps to guide your brush true, even if you're a novice. Give bird base color first, 2 coats of white. Then hit-or-miss feathers with yellow, blue, green, or red.

GARDENS

Potted Tulips Are a Challenge

By Bob Gilmore

Tulip bulbs may be potted as late as December in Long Beach area and still be sure of prize-winning blooms.

GROWING potted tulips with 12-inch stems is not an impossibility in Southern California. As a matter of fact, you can force tulips in your own garden and produce blooms as gorgeous as those seen in a florist's shop during spring. Special cultural demands must be met but these are neither complicated nor expensive. Your five-year-old child actually can grow prize-winning tulips in your home.

It is unfortunate that so many Southern Californians blame the weather for their failure to grow prize-winning tulips. The weather, of course, is different from that experienced in Holland, back east or in the Northwest. Yet it is possible to compensate for our lack of cold weather and still obtain top quality results.

Briefly, the way to grow tulips in the open garden in Southern California is to plant them late and deep. These same conditions can be emulated when growing the plants in pots. As a matter of fact, excellent results will be obtained by planting tulips all through December; and while, quite obviously, you cannot plant tulips deep in a pot, yet the benefits of deep planting can be realized by keeping the bulbs in a dark, cool and uniformly moist situation.

IF THE BULBS have been precooled, they can be planted as late as Christmas and they will flower in April. Bulbs that have not been precooled should go into the soil sometime prior to that time. The reason for this is due to the nature of the tulip bulb. The embryo flower is contained within the bulb. As the weather warms up, this flower bud moves upward in the bulb. By precooling the bulb this bud remains down at the base and that is why deep planting for this area is a sensible procedure as the soil is cooler lower down.

The best size pot is a 7-inch container. You may place from four to five bulbs in this size pot. They should be planted just slightly under the surface and spaced equally apart. The soil should be loose and porous and must not be rich or the bulbs may rot. You must not use any manures in the compost, as the burning may result. Experienced tulip growers in this area usually add a small amount of bone meal to the soil mix. This food will not burn and becomes available slowly. Also, some charcoal may be added for its purifying effect.

CONDITIONS such as result from growing plants under lath are ideal. It is advisable to place on top of the plants a mulch or straw about one inch thick. Two benefits are realized: The mulch keeps out light and also aids in retaining uniform moisture.

One very important cultural demand is that the moisture in the pots be kept uniformly damp. Avoid radical changes from extreme dryness to sogginess, as this definitely will inhibit normal plant growth. The pots should be raised on rocks or boards so that their base will be at least one inch off the surface. Three or four such supports will allow the air to circulate beneath the pots and excess water to escape.

A well balanced plant food may be applied lightly when the flowers are in the bud stage.

For a Green Christmas

For those who associate color with Christmas, about the greenest green is found in succulent jade plant.

By Karen Smith

SOME PEOPLE dream of a white Christmas, but most of us in Southern California think of Christmas as green with perhaps gay red berries or various colored baubles adding highlights here and there.

If Christmas is green to you and you wish to give someone the greenest-green potted plant you can find, consider Crassula agentea, the succulent jade plant. Such a gift not only is entirely satisfactory for mild climates but it can tolerate neglect. Although a rich sandy loam with good drainage is to its liking, it can thrive in poor soil and hit-or-miss watering.

Pale pink clusters of star-shaped flowers twinkle in the center of leaf rosettes during December, usually in time for the holidays.

The jade plant needs sunshine whether it is a potted plant in a window or growing outdoors in the garden. Some shade, however, appears not to harm it.

IF YOU WISH to transplant the potted plant or a rooted cutting, have the soil dry so it will not pack hard around the fleshy, succulent roots. After it is planted, moisten the soil and keep it gently moist until the plant is established.

The jade plant is easily propagated by cuttings of stems and by leaves. Cuttings should not be planted for a few days after they are taken to give them a chance to form a callus on the cut end. When the protective film has formed, plant in medium moist sand or a mixture of moist sand and soil until the roots form.

Tips on Gardening

GARDENING TIPS for the week . . . It is possible to harden the plants in your garden by gradually diminishing their water supply. This will enable them to get through the winter with a minimum of suffering from the cold.

A mulch of peat will aid in keeping the soil moist during dryness or periods of long-lasting winds. And when it rains this mulch will prevent puddling on the surface. It will also reduce the caking over of the surface.

Berried shrubs such as pyracanthas and cotoneasters will guarantee color in your garden during the winter months. The bright toned berries will prove as attractive indoors for floral decorations as in the outdoor garden.

By Dorothy Jonson

Don't prune roses in December. This is too early and, too early pruning is a common mistake among rosarians.

Clean roses (and this applies to all plants, of course) that grow in a healthy soil, will withstand a great deal of insect infestation and plant disease. So, if you haven't as yet given your roses a fall cleanup spray with a lime-sulphur-oil emulsion you may still have time to do it, since December is usually a mild month here in California. By doing this, you will prevent a great deal of insect life from over-wintering in your roses and on the surface of the soil.

PAUL HOOVER

Seven of Em

AFTER SLAVING all week over a hot Wedgewood or O'Keefe & Merritt, Mom can hardly be blamed if she wistfully asks Pop for a rest on Sunday morning.

If Pop is alert, kind and thoughtful (as all fathers and husbands should be on Sunday morning) he'll pop Mom and the rest of the family into the car and whisk 'em off to Paul's of Lakewood restaurant, Bellflower Blvd. at Carson St.

Everybody will be delighted because Paul's serves all kinds of wonderful Sunday breakfasts from 7 a. m. to 1 p. m. in both the coffee shop and large dining room.

Owner Paul Hoover's breakfast specialty is little thin hotcakes served a la carte for 35 cents. Each patron gets seven of the little beauties, plus maple syrup and melted butter in individual containers. The hotcakes go particularly well with another of Paul's specialties — his famed homemade sausage patty, which is 40 cents a la carte.

TWO OTHER interesting breakfasts are the Truck Driver's bonanza for $1.90 and Southern fried cornmeal mush for 75 cents. The big Truck Driver breakfast consists of a steak or pork chop, two fried eggs, potatoes, toast, jam and choice of beverage. The fried mush is accompanied by a patty of sausage. In addition, the restaurant offers five complete Club Breakfasts, ranging in price from 45 cents to $1.10.

All of these breakfasts are served daily from 7 a. m. on in the coffee shop. Sunday morning, however, is the only time they are served in the dining room.

Another item of special interest to Mom (and Dad, too) are the Wednesday luncheon fashion shows at Paul's. Staged by lovely models from the Long Beach Fashion Guild, the shows start at 12:30 p. m. The models, displaying new winter and spring styles, stroll through the Stag Room, dining room and coffee shop. Regular luncheon prices prevail, starting at $1.

LAKEWOOD OF COURSE
This is Christmas Catalogue No. 2
SHOP 9:30 TO 9:30 DAILY UNTIL CHRISTMAS

CHRISTMAS . . .

the very name conjures up visions of delight . . . the glittering tree and the bulging stocking, the reverent voices of carollers, the shining eyes of children. Among its wonders, too, are the love of family and the affection of friends as expressed in the giving of gifts.

For millions of Southlanders, May Co.—with the greatest gift selection in the West—is, of course, the Christmas store . . . a whole wide, wonderful world of gifts for all.

If you're an arm chair shopper, you'll find this Catalogue No. 2 (together with Catalogue No. 1, of last week) all you'll need to do your purchasing easily and quickly by mail or telephone.

If you'd rather browse in person among the thousands of gifts we've carefully selected, do come to one of our five big stores—Downtown, Wilshire, Crenshaw, Lakewood, Valley—where you'll find a most heartwarming Christmas-y welcome!

SUGGESTS THE FASTEST, CLEANEST SHAVE YOU'VE EVER HAD!

Norelco WITH ROTARY BLADES

Other shavers operate on the principle that your beard grows like a row of pins — like this

Only NORELCO shaves according to your beard's pattern — like this

- Catches every whisker — long or short — no matter which way it grows
- 12 self-sharpening blades — can't nick or irritate the face
- Fits the head — extra quiet — lubricated for life
- FASTER — two rotating heads clip every whisker at its base
- CLOSER — sharp as a straight razor, with every modern safety feature
- SMOOTHER — no break-in required. No beard-pull, no sting
- Stubble or 3-day beard — NORELCO'S shave is the greatest!

JAPAN—15 years after Pearl Harbor

For the first time, PARADE interviews the officer who says, "We should have invaded California!"—and shows how the U.S. is training Japan to fight again SEE PAGE 8

REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

COLUMBIA'S Hewitt is tackled by Dartmouth's line after hitting left side for six.

I'll always remember . . .

The team that ran the wrong way

by LOU LITTLE

I have seen many spectacular things happen on football fields — including our famous KF-79 play that beat Stanford, 7-0, in the 1934 Rose Bowl. But I don't think any game impressed me more than one we played against Dartmouth in 1931.

We had been shellacked by Dartmouth the previous year, 52 to 0. There was no mystery about why, either. The left side of the Indians' line, led by a fearfully big tackle named Hank Barber, had ruined us on both offense and defense. Since we were to play pretty much the same Dartmouth team the next fall, I mapped a simple strategy. We would run most of our plays against the right side of the Dartmouth line, thus steering clear of the devastating Barber.

The week before the game, we practiced running to the right side till my halfbacks, Cliff Montgomery and Ralph Hewitt, had their assignments down pat. Right from the opening kickoff, we slammed through the Dartmouth line for big yardage. At half time we were two touchdowns ahead.

But as we filed out for the second half, Hewitt took me aside. "Coach," he said, "I just realized something. We've been running our plays the wrong way — to their left instead of the right!"

I was stunned. Like the rest of the team, I just hadn't noticed it in all the excitement.

"Well, do as we planned," I told him. "Start running to their right."

The team did — but with astonishing results. Instead of picking up five or six yards a try as we'd done in the first half, we could barely get a yard.

Finally, in desperation, we switched back to running against their left, the side of the line that had killed us the year before. Immediately we started rolling again. The final score was 19-6.

Later I realized what had happened. When our boys ran against Barber and the left side, they ran hard, for we were out to avenge the previous year's beating at their hands. We lacked this drive against the right side, and so we didn't make yards. It taught me a valuable lesson. The greatest plans of the most talented people won't work if they lack two basic ingredients — aggressiveness and enthusiasm.

The author, retiring after 26 years as football coach at Columbia University, is regarded as more than a teacher of football. He is, say players, a great teacher of life. Here he tells about a moment that taught him something about life.

JAPANESE GENERAL Minoru Genda, Pearl Harbor planner, talks with PARADE's Shearer.

An anniversary—and an unusual report

This Friday marks the 15th anniversary of one of the most appalling sneak attacks in history—the Japanese bombing of Pearl Harbor, key U. S. base in the Pacific. The war thus unleashed ended in total defeat for the attackers and, ironically, a U. S. effort to turn our former bitter enemies into allies and friends.

How well has this effort succeeded? How do the Japanese feel about America today? How are U.S.-Japanese relations affected by the ever-present threat of Communism and the recent Russian-Japanese peace declaration?

To get the answers at this dramatic moment in history, PARADE's Editor Jess Gorkin and West Coast Correspondent Lloyd Shearer have just visited Japan. They interviewed for the first time the officer who planned the Pearl Harbor attack, talked with Japanese of high and low degree, questioned top U. S. military men.

PARADE believes the resulting Special Report will be called one of 1956's journalistic coups. You can read it today, starting on page 8. Read it with one thought in mind — there must never be another Pearl Harbor!

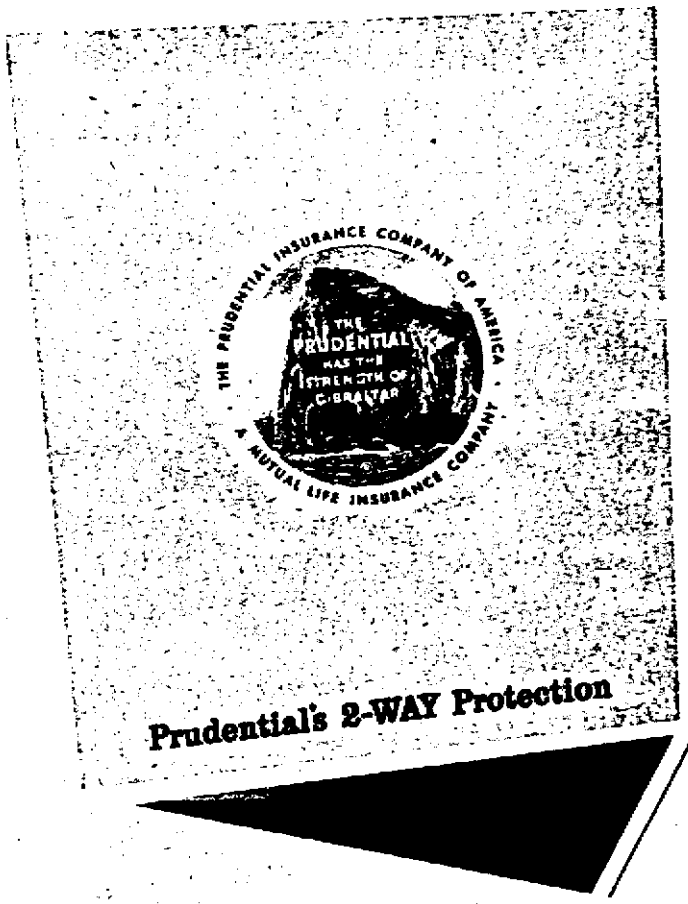

U. S. GENERAL Laurence Kuter, Far East Air Force head, poses with PARADE's Gorkin.

The sleek 1957 cars due to be unveiled here Saturday at the first National Automobile Show in 16 years represent some of the most advanced ideas of America's leading car designers. Many of them also reflect, in some degree, the ideas of teen-age boys vying in the Fisher Body Craftsman's Guild model building competition.

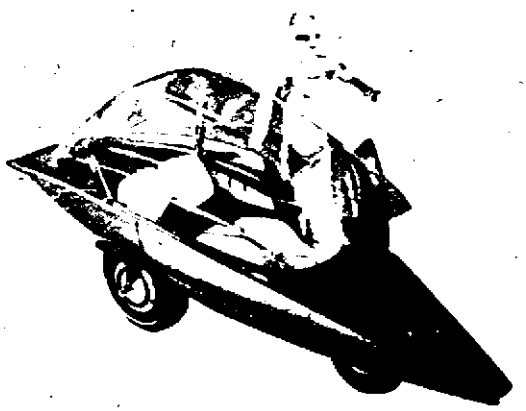

A number of entrants during the contest's 26-year history became professional designers. In fact, out of about 100 creative stylists at General Motors today, 35 once participated in the competitions. This year's competition produced a "preview" of what cars may be like in the future, along with $43,000 in university scholarships for the winners. Some 1956 dream cars are pictured here. How to choose toys

News: Baby dinners in a jar!

Facts About Late-Talking Babies

IF your baby's a slow-poke about talking, how can you help? First of all: Don't worry. Do you know late-talkers are sometimes extra-bright babies? Maybe your little one isn't bothering to talk because he's too busy learning to walk, or feed himself. He may start to talk, then stop while he learns a new skill. One thing at a time is his motto!

• You can help your baby talk by talking to him—using simple words in an easy-going way. As he eats, chat about baby's spoon. Good meat. Nice peas. When he tries to copycat your words, encourage him—but don't be eager. Tension can slow down talking. Another tip: Let baby ask for what he wants. If he gets everything by pointing or squealing, he may decide "Why talk?"

• To keep baby on friendly terms with his playpen, lift him out before—not after—he gets fussy-mad at it.

• "Cocktails" for baby? Yes, a tasty new fruit cocktail is now offered the nursery crowd by Heinz. And what a treat it is! Look for Heinz Mixed Fruit Dessert, either strained or junior.

• Safety is your first concern for baby's first Christmas tree (and all those to follow!) Check for: A fireproofed tree, a sturdy non-tip stand, tree lights and electric sockets in good condition, no lead foil or cellophane icicles and no breakable ornaments on low branches—baby might be tempted to find out whether they taste as good as they look!

• Keep your camera ready to snap pictures of baby's first starry-eyed Christmas- especially as he first spies that tree. Get a few shots of him playing with gift toys from the Grandma who couldn't come for Christmas; will she be pleased!

• Memo to Santa: Please bring toys that suit baby's age and stage of development. The right play tools help him learn skills—and have fun too. 1-to-3 month-olds like tinkling toys to listen to; bright hanging or floating toys to look at. From 4 to 6 months: toys to reach for, hold, bite on. 6 months to a year: lively toys to bang, push, take apart. And soft toys to cuddle.

• Your baby's fast-growing body soon uses up his "built-in" iron supply. Milk lacks iron, so the doctor adds iron-rich foods such as Heinz Strained Egg Yolk—a baby favorite. More than three creamy-textured yolks in each jar. Ready to warm—with or without milk—and serve.

• Do you know about Heinz tasty Strained and Junior Dinners? Baby's convenient new "miniature" meals are made of fine quality meats and vegetables, carefully balanced for nutrition and flavor. Treat your tot to Heinz Vegetables and Beef; Vegetables and Bacon; Vegetables and Lamb; Macaroni, Tomatoes, Beef and Bacon; Split Peas, Vegetables and Bacon; or to this brand new dinner which only Heinz fixes: Vegetables, Egg Noodles and Chicken. All come in glass jars to keep their better Heinz flavor, color and texture extra tempting and good.

15 years after Pearl Harbor

PARADE INTERVIEWS THE MAN WHO PLANNED THE SNEAK ATTACK

AMERICAN BATTLESHIP, the U.S.S. California, is seen slowly sinking after Japanese bombs caught her off guard.

JAPANESE PLANNER, Lt. Gen. Minoru Genda, recalls the days when he conceived a body blow at the unprepared U.S.

NO ONE old enough to remember December 7, 1941, ever will forget what happened that day. The surprise Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, America's mid-Pacific bastion, rocked this nation to its heels and touched off nearly four years of all-out war. Now, 15 years later, PARADE Editor Jess Gorkin and West Coast Correspondent Lloyd Shearer have visited Japan for a close-up look at the man who planned the Pearl Harbor attack and the Japan that emerged from its aftermath. Here is their exclusive report.

"IF THEY ONLY had listened to me," Lt. Gen. Minoru Genda says, "we would have invaded Hawaii. After the attack on Pearl Harbor and the other Oahu installations, we could have taken Honolulu pretty easily.

"This would have deprived the American Navy of its best island base in the Pacific. It would have cut the lifeline to Australia, and that country might have fallen to us like a ripe plum.

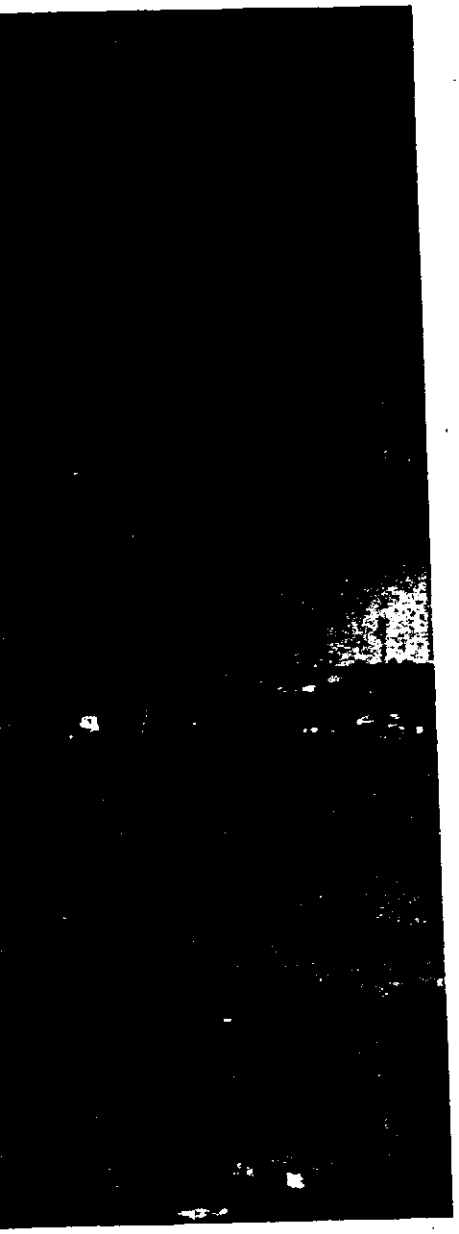

"I also was in favor of bombing the American aircraft factories and oil refineries on the California coast. In December of 1941 we could have bombed San Diego, Long Beach, Portland and Seattle without much opposition. I even suggested that we occupy California.

"With these victories won by the Japanese navy, our diplomats could have tried to work out an advantageous peace settlement."

So says the Japanese officer who planned the attack on Pearl Harbor — an attack that came nearer to crippling America than most of us ever knew. What manner of man conceived it?

Minoru Genda is short (5'2"), lean (120 lbs.), soft-spoken — and dimpled. In 1941 he was considered one of the most brilliant air tacticians in the Japanese navy. A lieutenant commander by rank, he also was a pilot of great skill and daring. Japanese referred to him and his colleagues as "Genda's Flying Circus."

An honor graduate of the Japanese Naval War College, a naval attache in London for two years, Genda originated (early in the Sino-Japanese War) mass employment of fighters to control the air in which friendly bombers were to operate. He was one of the first to advocate the employment of several carrier task forces for a single tactical operation (such as the assault on Hawaii). Before

Japan attacked the U.S., he predicted that aircraft carriers rather than battleships would decide the eventual victor.

Today, at 52, General Genda is in charge of Japan's new self-defense air force operations. As such he is regarded as a warm friend of the U.S. He flies one of our F-86F jet fighters, works hand-in-hand with our Air Force brass, is privy to many of our war plans should the Russians or the Chinese Communists move against Japan.

Recently, as we sat in Genda's office at Johnson Air Base outside of Tokyo, he spoke matter-of-factly of those fateful days 15 years ago. Nattily dressed in Air Force blues, he was polite, his manner friendly, his voice soft, his attitude that of the professional soldier.

"In 1941," Genda began, "our navy war-planners had two different principal strategies. The naval general staff, with Admiral Nagano as spokesman, advocated a bold thrust southward to the Dutch East Indies. The objective was the capture of vital oil areas — without which our navy could not operate for very long — before the U.S. Pacific Fleet at Pearl Harbor could interfere. Once it steamed out to sea, we would try to destroy it.

"The second plan was originated by Adm. Isoroku Yamamoto, commander-in-chief of our combined fleet. Yamamoto maintained that the Japanese navy should not invade southward without first immobilizing the U.S. Pacific Fleet. He feared attack in the Western Pacific before we could consolidate our gains. He suggested that we cripple the U.S. Pacific Fleet in a surprise attack while we simultaneously launched the southern offensive.

"He discussed the idea with Rear Adm. Takijiro Onishi, who assigned the Pearl Harbor project to me. He asked me: Was a surprise attack feasible?

"After weeks of study and research, I made my report. I said that a successful attack on Hawaii was very possible if we employed planes from all six of the 1st Air Fleet's carriers. This meant an attacking force of more than 300 planes.

"I suggested that we attack Pearl Harbor on a Sunday morning to gain maximum surprise. If the attack went well, I advocated that we land troops on the island of Oahu. We should then proceed to the California coast and spread demoralization by bombing installations there."

Once Genda had handed in his report, he sat back to wait while his superiors debated the plan. For the most part, the naval general staff was against it. Too much of a gamble, they said. Genda's own admiral, Chuichi Nagano, whose 1st Air Fleet would play the leading role in the Pearl Harbor attack, also opposed the plan.

But Admiral Yamamoto insisted that the U.S. Pacific Fleet was Japan's strongest foe and must be destroyed first. When the general staff still disagreed, Yamamoto threatened to resign. In the end he was given his way.

The Attackers Form Ranks

"On November 3, 1941," Genda recalls, "Admiral Nagumo and Admiral Yamamoto met in Tokyo and approved the Pearl Harbor attack in the event of war.

"Our naval fliers then began rehearsing their target runs over Kyushu, where the terrain somewhat resembles the land surrounding Pearl Harbor.

"On November 26 our task force, 31 ships in all, moved out of Tankan Bay in the Kurile Islands and headed for a pre-arranged stand-off point. Here, once and for all, we were to be told whether or not we were going to war against the United States.

"On December 1 we were told it was war.

"Well briefed by our intelligence, well prepared by our practice, fired-up with great fighting spirit, our fleet steamed full speed ahead. Then, five hours before we reached the location where our fliers were scheduled to take off, 200 miles north of Pearl Harbor, we received a most disturbing intelligence report from Headquarters.

"Our top-priority targets, the American aircraft carriers, were not at Pearl Harbor. Neither were most of your heavy cruisers. There were plenty of other ships, but I was keenly disappointed. I knew that your carriers would become the most important ships in the war. Having no alternative, we continued on course.

"At 6 a.m. on the morning of December 7, our carriers turned into the wind. Mitsuo Fuchida, senior air wing commander, led the first wave of 183 planes to Pearl Harbor. These planes consisted of dive bombers, level bombers, fighters and torpedo planes. It took them one hour and 49 minutes to reach their objectives. The first bombs were dropped on Wheeler Field to prevent fighter opposition. Dive bombers then attacked Hickam Field and Ford Island. Success was immediate. All eight battleships moored at Ford Island were hit. Planes at Hickam, Wheeler and Ewa were shot up on the ground.

"At 8:54 our second wave, 170 planes, arrived over Oahu to finish the kill. By 1 o'clock that afternoon all the surviving aircraft were safely aboard our carriers. We had lost only 29 planes and 55 men. We had sunk or damaged practically the entire battleship strength of the U.S. Pacific Fleet, inflicted approximately 3,500 casualties on service personnel, destroyed dozens of planes.

"Most important, we had achieved our objective in destroying a major part of the U.S. Pacific Fleet and thereby preventing that fleet from interfering with our operations in southern Asia. We didn't seize Hawaiian territory because we didn't have any army soldiers to occupy the territory. The army was saving its men for war against Russia.

"One of the big mistakes in the Pearl Harbor attack was our failure to bomb exposed oil storage tanks. If we had blown up the fuel as well as the ships, we would have rendered Pearl Harbor useless for a longer period of time.

FRIENDS TODAY: USAF Capt. Frank Sloan, WAF Capt. Mary Griffin, Japanese Lt. Taeko Fujii and General Genda.

"After the Pearl Harbor attack I felt more than ever that we had to seek out the American aircraft carriers and sink them. I was in favor of heading for California or Midway. But our tankers had already withdrawn to a designated refueling position on the way home and we had to rendezvous with them.

"Six months later at Midway, after your intelligence had intercepted and decoded all our recent messages and plans, your carrier planes sank our four largest carriers.

"From that point on, practically all of us saw the handwriting on the wall. Later in the war, when your B-29's began bombing Japan from the Marianas, you repaid us for the attack on Pearl Harbor a thousand-fold.

"One night in March 1945, I remember your General LeMay sent more than 300 B-29's to bomb Tokyo from an altitude of 7,000 feet. Each plane dropped at least six tons of jelly gasoline fire bombs on the city, burning out 16½ square miles and killing or wounding anywhere from 100,000 to 300,000 people.

"That was only one night," concludes the man whose plan touched it all off, "when many of us wished we had never heard of Pearl Harbor."

Why we're teaching the

JAPANESE TO FIGHT AGAIN

JUST GRADUATED, these Japanese pilots beam over their new rank. By 1961 the Japanese self-defense air force is expected to have 30 complete squadrons.

strength of the new Japanese air force.

TYPICAL of the change in Japan's air setup is Maj. Shiro Kono, today a U.S.-taught jet pilot (top). As a World War II fighter pilot (below), he downed two of our Navy planes, possibly one B-29.

The bitter and bloody Pacific half of World War II lasted almost four years. In it America suffered 170,596 casualties to the most fanatical, tenacious enemy we ever fought.

Today, that enemy has become our friend and ally — we hope.

All over Japan we are training yesterday's hated foe to fly American jets, fire American guns, man American ships, operate American radar. We are teaching them to speak English, employ our technical terms, wear uniforms almost identical with ours. To their industrialists we are turning over plans and specifications for the construction of our latest fighters.

U.S. airmen work side by side with Japanese pilots — often the same men who swore they would die before they allowed Americans to invade their homeland. In Chitose on Hokkaido, only 23 jet seconds away from Russian air bases in the Kuriles, American and Japanese follow together on radar screens the flights of Soviet MIG-17's.

The American taxpayer, of course, pays for it all. Is it worth it? Our military planners say yes. For in any war against the Reds — Russian, Chinese or both — we want Japan on our side.

Might the Communists invade Japan? Listen to Gen. Laurence Kuter, commander of our Air Force in the Far East and one of the most astute thinkers among all the Air Force brass. He says,

"We know the Communists always have had three objectives in the Far East: 1) to take over and control the vast manpower of China, some 473 million people, 2) to control the resources and raw materials of Southeast Asia and 3) to control the industrial productivity of Japan and its trained workers.

"In China they've met with complete success; in Southeastern Asia, with limited success; in Japan, with no success. And that's because we've been here loaded for bear.

"What we're trying to do," Kuter continues, "is teach the Japanese people to defend themselves. We're training Japanese pilots to replace ours. We're developing Japanese air defenses so we can withdraw ours.

"To the Communists, Japan represents the richest prize in the Far East. To us it represents the strongest anchor in the Pacific community of free nations. To make it possible for Japan, after 10 years of vacuum in air power, to defend herself and maintain an anchor in the West, we're extending ourselves to develop the highest order of defensive air strength that the Japanese economy can eventually sustain.

"By 1961 the Japanese will have 30 complete air squadrons."

A secret about your income that's getting around

It's no longer news that you're finding it harder to make your income do all the things you want it to do — because prices have been inching (sometimes bounding) up.

But lots of people have discovered they have been able to make their incomes climb, too. Just in case you don't know how they do it, here is the answer, in five parts:

First . . . You decide you'd like to get income from more businesses than the one you work in. You begin by making sure you've got some money left over after emergencies are provided for. Then consider investing your extra money in common stocks on the New York Stock Exchange. And don't think you have to be rich. Two out of three people who own common stock have incomes under $7500 a year.

Second . . . Remember that when you own stock you're part-owner of the company. If it grows and prospers you can grow and prosper with it — through increased income from dividends paid on your stock and increase in the value of your investment. This is how your income may keep pace with a rising cost of living.

Third . . . Some companies don't prosper or pay dividends. That's why it's important not to depend on tips or rumors but to get the facts before you invest your hard-earned money. The truth is, though, that last year nine out of ten stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange paid dividends and more than 300 of them have paid dividends every year from 25 to 108 years.

Fourth . . . Take your first step by reading our wonderfully useful little booklet "DIVIDENDS OVER THE YEARS," which lists those stocks with long dividend records, grouping them to show which ones have paid progressively higher dividends over the last ten years . . . which pay 5 to 6 per cent at recent prices . . . which companies have high earnings in relation to dividends paid (sometimes a sign of a "growth" stock) . . . and other valuable information.

Fifth . . . Get acquainted with the nearest Member Firm of the New York Stock Exchange. You'll get a cordial welcome and have an interesting experience. They'll give you advice and help you get facts you want about the kind of securities — stocks or bonds — that seem best suited to your pocketbook and needs. Ask them about the Monthly Investment Plan that enables you to buy stocks in America's greatest companies for as little as $40 every three months. And ask for your copy of "DIVIDENDS OVER THE YEARS." Or send the coupon. Plan to keep your income moving forward.

A-bomb survivors offer a new look at what we did to Hiroshima

$35 a month, such statements as this last are either double-talk or propaganda.

"You Americans are very confusing." So runs a typical civilian reaction. "Your General MacArthur comes here after the war and gives us a new Constitution. Many of us are not in favor of it, but the Japanese Diet passes it and we accept it. It specifically says Japan will never raise an army, navy or air force.

"Three years later the Korean War breaks out, and a Police Reserve of 75,000 men is organized to take the place of the American soldiers who were sent to Korea. Soon, the Police Reserve is equipped with tanks and guns and a new name — National Security Force. In 1954 the Government changes the name again, this time to Defense Force. It consists of three services: land, sea and air.

"Another thing. You tell us that Communists are evil, that they are against Christianity, individualism, freedom of speech and so forth. Most Japanese are not Christians, and we never had these democratic rights.

"It is too much to expect us to think the same way you Americans do."

The average Japanese is deeply anti-militarist, and with good reason. He has not forgotten that a tyrannical military clique led him into an utterly disastrous war against the U.S. Our bombs reduced Japan to a land of cinder-choked funeral pyres; we literally burned to the ground 90 different cities. Our armed forces killed or wounded approximately 6 million Japanese.

Yet in July, 1945, Japanese newspapers carried the militarists' claim that Japan lay on the threshold of its greatest victory. "The war is proceeding just as our leaders planned it," one journal reported. "The Americans have massed their men and ships off Okinawa. Soon they will try to invade Japan. But our soldiers, sailors and airmen are ready. We will drive them into the sea."

Five days later we exploded a single atomic bomb approximately 500 yards above Hiroshima.

The official casualty figures say the bomb killed 78,150

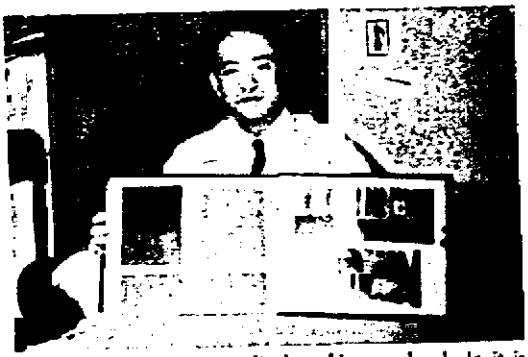

PEACE MONUMENT in Hiroshima is a shrine for many today. Damaged museum in background is an atom-blast reminder.

MINISTER Kiyoshi Tanimoto of Hiroshima's United Church of Christ describes the horror that A-bomb attack caused.

11-YEAR-OLD Hiroko Tomita, born 25 minutes before the bomb fell on Hiroshima, talks to PARADE's Lloyd Shearer.

DOCTOR Fumio Shigeto displays his scrapbook. In it is fogged X-ray film that told him the bomb's true nature.

persons and injured 37,425 of the city's approximately 345,000 population. Everyone we interviewed who was there at the time calls this a gross underestimate.

Says Kiyoshi Tanimoto, Reverend of the Nagaregawa United Church of Christ and one of the central characters in John Hersey's famous book, Hiroshima: "We lied about the number of survivors. We told the authorities there were more than there really were. We did this because we wanted to get more first-aid supplies, more help, more relief. My own calculation is that at least 250,000 people were killed by the atomic bomb."

Dr. Fumio Shigeto, currently director of the Hiroshima Red Cross Hospital, estimates the number of dead at 200,000. Dr. Shigeto, incidentally, was the first man in Japan to realize that the bomb was atomic.

"Our hospital was one of the few buildings left standing," he told us. "The wounded and dying crawled and staggered in by the hundreds. As hospital radiologist, I raced down to the cellar for film to X-ray some of the victims. When I took the film out of the case, I noticed that every sheet was fogged. I knew then that the bomb was radioactive."

Typically, the Japanese do not feel that there was anything unethical or particularly sinful in our exploding atomic bombs over Hiroshima and Nagasaki. "It was total war," they say. "In total war, anything goes."

After the Japanese surrender, we set up the Atomic Bomb Casualty Commission in Hiroshima to study the effects of our two A-bombs on the survivors. It now is a joint Japanese-American organization. Its doctors have examined more than 40,000 adult survivors and close to 75,000 children. Dr. Robert Holmes, its director, has drawn three conclusions concerning the effects of radiation on adults: It did not cause permanent sterility. There was a "significant increase" in the incidence of leukemia (though total cases numbered only 105). And eye cataracts "probably due to radiation" increased; these are small and affect vision only slightly.

And Drs. William Schull and James Neel, "There are no really clear indications that radiation history of parents has affected characteristics of their children."

We talked to an 11 year-old girl, Hiroko Tomita, who was born 25 minutes before the bomb was dropped. Hiroko told us that she was the only child living of the three who had been born in Hiroshima that day.

"I've been examined three times," she said, "and the doctors say my health is perfect. My mother, however, had radiation sickness after the bombing — you know, hair falls out, vomiting, and she is still weak all the time.

"It is very kind of Americans to interest themselves in us. I wonder if we would do the same for you. I have asked my mother, and she says she does not know. 'All I know,' she says, 'is that the American Occupation has been very good for the women of Japan.'"

COMMUNIST DEMONSTRATOR — one of 800 who recently tried to stop a survey for a new air-base landing strip near Tokyo — is collared by police. Now that Japan and Russia have signed a peace declaration, Japanese Reds are stepping up their activities among workers and college students.

SPECIAL REPORT

CONTINUED

Today Japan is Communism's No. 1

Actually, American troops no longer occupy Japan. The Japanese Peace Treaty, signed September 8, 1951, officially ended the Occupation. The U.S. Army has one under-strength division here, the 1st Cavalry, now down to 5,000 men. The Marines have another 5,000, and the Air Force and Navy probably 90,000 between them. These forces are stationed here under a mutual defense agreement.

There is no doubt, however, that the present improved position of Japanese women is the result of the American Occupation. General MacArthur freed them from near-slavery in 1945 by giving them the right to vote. They soon voted 39 members of their sex into the lower house of the Diet, won 985 state offices, joined some 30,000 municipal boards and took over 41 per cent of all the jobs in Japan.

Today, the Japanese city girl of 19 has given up her traditional kimono for Western dress. She attends a co-educational college. She believes in marrying a man of her own choice instead of being sold into marriage via parental agreement. She is empowered to sue for divorce.

She is against the continuation of Geisha schools, where young Japanese girls are trained to amuse and entertain men. She is powerful enough to compel the Japanese Association of Brothel-Owners to close down their palaces of legalized prostitution by 1957.

Mrs. Japan of 1956 is determined to do her own thinking and to demand far more rights than were ever granted her in the past. In Tokyo, Osaka, Kyoto and other large cities, it is commonplace today for Japanese women to accompany their husbands to cocktail parties and other social gatherings. Prior to World War II such behavior for women was unthinkable.

Of the seven major reforms instituted by the American Occupation, it is the considered opinion of Far East experts that the only lasting one in Japan will be the enfranchisement and freedom of women. Here are the other six, all apparently failures:

1) Removal of ultra-nationalistic and militaristic leaders. As in West Germany, where many former Nazis now occupy positions of power, top Japanese posts are reverting to potential enemies of democracy. A prime example is Ichiro Hatoyama, placed on General MacArthur's purge list as a rabid supporter of Hitler and Mussolini. Under Premier Yoshida, head man during the American Occupation, Hatoyama was the real power behind the scenes. The Occupation ended, he became — and remains — Premier in fact.

2) Democratization of the police system and abolition of the thought police. Prewar Japan was known for its oppressive and brutal police force. People who were suspected of thinking incorrectly — and this could mean anything — were beaten, thrown in jail, kept there indefinitely. Today Japan's police are polite to foreigners. According to many Japanese, however, they are well on the return road to old-fashioned strong-arm methods and general ruthlessness.

3) A new Constitution renouncing war and preventing the organization of armed forces. The Japanese Constitution now is a dead letter.

4) Land reform. Modest success has followed attempts to give poverty-stricken sharecroppers some ownership of the land they worked. But large tracts of land are still held by absentee landlords, and the postwar population increase has placed 20 per cent more people on the rural lands. All told, there now are 90 million Japanese on four islands no larger in area than the state of Montana. The land cannot support the people. Their only hope lies in emigration.

5) Destruction of the "zaibatsu," monopoly combines that controlled more than 90 per cent of Japan's industrial wealth before World War II. Like the I. G. Farbenindustrie and other cartels in Germany, the zaibatsu — through interlocking directorates, bribery, connections with the Imperial family and control of the banks — are pretty much back in the saddle.

The Unions — and the Reds

6) Development and liberalization of labor unions. The Occupation authorities encouraged the development of the Japanese labor movement, hoping the Japanese would keep to the path of collective bargaining. The unions instead have gone into politics and in some instances have provided the breeding grounds for Japan's Communists and their sympathizers.

One of the great dangers in Japan today is that the people are so anti-militarist that they regard the very real Communist menace as a military red herring. While there are only 100,000 listed Communist Party members at present, these Reds are active in the major labor unions. They have organized cells in most of the universities.

They even have sought to infiltrate unions of Japanese employes of the U.S. armed forces here. They have fought American military attempts to enforce political screening of Japanese employes, and have resorted to violence when we tried to survey land needed to accommodate our jets and air transports.

The Soviet mission in Tokyo has been the chief source of funds for the party. Now that Japan and Russia have resumed diplomatic negotiations, the Soviets undoubtedly will bring in a large number of agents from Moscow.

Currently the Japanese Communists are saying that there is no external threat to Japan that requires the presence of American bases here. Yet the three Communist air forces in Asia — Russia, China and North Korea — among them have some 8,000 aircraft, half of which are jets. This number constitutes one-third of the entire Communist air strength. The Communists have approximately 100 air bases on the Asian Coast facing Japan. Their bombers and fighters could reach any target in Japan within two hours at the most.

"If we weren't defended by U.S. air strength," says Capt. Yasukiyo Nishikori (who once was Edgar Bergen's house boy), "we would have been taken over by the Communists a long time ago. I don't know why it's so hard for the Japanese to see this.

"We are a very literate and educated nation. We know how the Communists took over so many other countries, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Rumania, Hungary, Bulgaria, Latvia, China — both from within and without. And yet our people think it can't happen here."

Fortunately, there are some Japanese who think it can happen here. These include the men who have joined Japan's self-defense force — the men we currently are training to fight. ■

THOUGHTFUL POSE lets Barbara Nichols show why observers compare her general appearance to Mae West's. Like Mae, also, she talks with few inhibitions.

She wants a HUSBAND

Barbara Nichols is young, alluring, moving toward stardom. Why can't she get a man?

COZY EMBRACE gratifies Fritz Lang, Barbara's director in Beyond a Reasonable Doubt (RKO). Single men, take note.

HOLLYWOOD.

Barbara Nichols, a buxom, ash-blonde beauty from Jamaica, L.I., came west two years ago in search of a husband. Her qualifications, she thought, were A-1. Now she's not so sure.

She had won 11 beauty contests around New York, served a stint as an Esquire cover girl, acted on Broadway in Pal Joey, starred in half a dozen TV plays. She had a whistleable figure (37-24-35) and a diploma from Jamaica's Woodrow Wilson High. What more could a girl need to lead nearly any red-blooded male to the altar?

Now 21, Barbara admits herself baffled. "After two years in Hollywood trying to hook a husband," she says, "I'm batting zero. The only thing I have to show for my time is a successful career. I've played with Van Johnson in Miracle in the Rain, Dana Andrews in Beyond a Reasonable Doubt, Clark Gable in The King and Four Queens. I've been signed at a grand a week for Pajama Game.

"But who needs this career bit? What I want is a husband. In Hollywood this is like asking for a miracle. As a matter of fact, miracles in Hollywood are more frequent than bachelors.

"Compared to the men out here," Barbara continues, warming to her subject, "men in the East are angels. Out here they're spoiled rotten. I'm talking about the single ones. You've never seen such ego, such selfishness, such vanity. You run into one of them and right away he says, 'Why haven't you called me?'

"Two days later I get a call and the guy says, 'I want you to come over for a barbecue. Oh, yes,' he adds, as an afterthought, 'on the way over, honey, will you stop and pick up a few steaks?' So I buy the steaks and we have a barbecue and then he cons me into washing the dishes and rearranging his furniture and then he sends me home. Some big deal.

"This is no isolated incident. It's happened to me on a dozen dates. The worst offenders are actors.

"Most actors — I won't mention any names — are very insecure. They're also lousy lovers. All they do is talk about themselves. They expect a girl to get intoxicated at the sound of their voices. I was out with one actor the other night. 'Darling,' he said, 'do you mind telling me how wonderful I am?' 'Excuse me,' I said, 'I feel nauseous.' "

Under the circumstances why doesn't Barbara return East? Back there, she says, "men are gentlemen."

The answer, it seems, lies in the stubbornness of this blonde beauty whom Clark Gable, for one, calls Hollywood's new Mae West. "I came out here," Barbara declares, "to find a husband. I don't care how long I stay or how many pictures I star in, I'm not going to return to Long Island absolutely manless. For a girl with my shape — well, it's incredible!"

Coincidentally, that's exactly what Hollywood thinks of Barbara Nichols. ■

The season's Junior dresses are made in gay 'Fair Lady' styles

by VIRGINIA POPE
PARADE FASHION EDITOR

Here's big news in Christmas and New Year's party fashions for Juniors: skirts are being lengthened, their hems coming to within 8 inches of the floor. This style is especially attractive when the skirts are full — as you can see in these photographs taken in the Terrace Room of the Plaza Hotel in New York.

You'll love to dance in fluffy nylon net or faille that bells over full petticoats. For the big ball of the season, when you want to be very formal, you may prefer a floor-length gown like the pastel-blue chiffon at right. According to all indications, with the "Fair Lady" styles in vogue, it's going to be a season of elegance.

Holiday fair lady

The soft beauty of nylon chiffon falls gracefully in the folds of this long pastel-blue gown. At the front, the bodice is draped in a modified Empire line; at the back, the folds are carried low over the hips. A David Klein gown. About $45. Gloves from Aris.

Man what MUFFINS!

Makes your mouth water just to think about 'em . . . hot and steamy, right out of the oven with butter melting into that wonderful All-Bran flavor. Man what muffins!

RECIPE

1 cup Kellogg's All-Bran
3/4 cup milk
1 egg
1/4 cup soft shortening
1 cup sifted flour
2 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup sugar

Combine All-Bran and milk. Let stand until most of moisture is taken up. Add egg and shortening; beat well. Sift together: flour, baking powder, salt, and sugar. Add to first mixture, stirring only until combined. Fill greased muffin pan 2/3 full. Bake 30 minutes in moderately hot oven (400° F.) Yield: 9 muffins.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

a delicious, ready-to-eat cereal, an aid to natural regularity.

TWO MEN have equal ability, turn respectively into a $4,420-a-year clerk and a $15,000-a-year executive. Is it luck — or strategy?

10 TIPS ON THE STRATEGY OF EARNING A LIVING

An expert tells you how to pace a successful career

by JULES Z. WILLING

The vast majority of us earn our living by working for others. How ample or meager a living we earn depends on many things, not least the ability to market our services consistently to the greatest advantage.

Two men start equal in ability and potential. Fifteen years later, one is an office manager at $85 a week, while the other is a $15,000 executive. Luck? Perhaps. But more likely it's because one man used strategy that made the most profitable use of his talents and opportunities.

The strategy of earning a living is much like that of warfare and courtship. My analysis of the progress — or lack of it — of thousands of men in all walks of life over a period of many years discloses 10 basic rules of good career strategy. Here they are.

1 Don't fail to measure your progress periodically. The years between 24 and 35 are your working capital; they must be invested in projects that will yield a rate of return that will insure an adequate living for the rest of your life. In one year, you might put into and get out of a job all that is possible. If you spend a second year on that job, you spend about 9 per cent of your capital in a way that will yield no future return.

2 Don't look for security, permanence or long-range future in your early jobs. The chances of your making a lifetime career with your first, second or third employer are remote. The shorter your career has been, the less you should be concerned with the long-range prospects of your job, and the more value you should place on the kind of experience it gives you. There's nothing wrong with taking a dead-end job that gives you valuable experience — which in turn may help you land a permanent job with greater opportunities.

3 Keep a "career file" on yourself. This is your sales portfolio. Put into it evidence of your ability, your achievements, your rising status. Remember that it often is impossible to go back and try to gather proof of past accomplishments — so collect that proof as you go along. Your file should include suggestions you made and recognition they brought you, your raises or promotions, your firm's organization chart showing your position, samples of outstanding work you have done and the like.

4 Cultivate your contacts. It is much easier to develop friendships with people outside your company who might later do you some good if you do so while you are safely and securely employed. Don't wait until you are "between jobs" to develop helpful contacts: it may be too late.

5 Be sure to add to your qualifications as you progress. Too many people believe that raises and promotions are adequate evidence of increased ability. Frequently, these merely are evidence of momentum. If your next job is to be better than your last, you must be prepared to offer more to your next employer. What is that "more" going to be?

6 Test your market value from time to time. Too many people assume that because they are considered valuable employees in their jobs, they will be considered equally valuable on the open market. This, unfortunately, is too rarely true. The best way to find out the market value of your services is to explore outside job possibilities occasionally, even if you're not serious about applying. If you find it difficult to gain acceptance, you may spot weaknesses you can correct before they impede your progress.

7 Keep abreast of technological changes in your occupation, regardless of your age. Your way of doing things may be perfectly adequate for the firm that now employs you, but will it be adequate for others? When your firm adopts a new technology, will you be qualified to stay?

Only by keeping a sharp eye open for the new skills constantly being required in old occupations can you prevent yourself from becoming obsolete. For example, if you are an accountant, have you made any effort to learn the new and complex accounting machinery introduced in recent years? Do you recognize that accountancy is veering away from the manual and toward the mechanical? Do you detect strong undertones of engineering science in your profession?

8 Aim for assignments that will increase your employability. Sometimes the thankless job that nobody likes can sound impressive to a prospective employer. Sometimes it fills out a gap in your experience. It also may give a different point of view toward your regular work, or a hint of ways your own job can be expanded. Similarly, easy assignments with lots of prestige inside the firm may do absolutely nothing to make you either a bigger or a better man career-wise. You might enjoy them, but you don't profit by them.

9 Strive for visibility in your work. As you go up, you inevitably will move into the shadow of a top executive. In that shadow lurks the career-killer: the anonymous job of "administrative assistant," where everything is done in your boss' name and on the strength of his authority, not yours. A lesser job, with more autonomy, where you can rise or fall on the basis of your own work, is usually safer in the long run — and gets you ahead faster.

10 After 30, begin to give as much thought to the firm as to the job. From now on, you'll be able to change jobs less readily. In five years, you should be well entrenched in your career. You can't afford to join a failing firm, one that has limited opportunities in the higher brackets, one that is in a declining industry, one shaken too often by reorganization and changes of management or one that isn't prepared to pay off on demonstrated ability in two or three years.

If you follow these tips, don't expect them to guarantee fame and fortune. What they will do, however, is give you a good yardstick of your ability and progress. The rest is up to you. ■

3-way Christmas Cookies

by BETH MERRIMAN
PARADE FOOD EDITOR

BASIC RECIPE

1 cup butter or margarine
½ cup confectioners' sugar
2 teaspoons vanilla
2 cups sifted enriched flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup quick rolled oats, uncooked

Beat butter until creamy; add sugar gradually; beat until fluffy. Stir in vanilla, flour and salt. Blend in rolled oats. (Dough will be quite stiff.) Shape in any of the ways shown at right. Bake on ungreased cookie sheets in moderate oven (325° F.) 20 to 25 minutes. Makes three to four dozen cookies.

1. COLORFUL COCONUT DREAMS: Shape dough into balls. Bake as directed (left). Cool on wire racks. Frost with thin confectioners' sugar frosting; sprinkle lightly with colored sugar before the frosting dries.

2. TOM THUMBS: To one-half of the dough add ½ teaspoon cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon each ground cloves and nutmeg. Shape dough into balls. Make depression in each with thumb. Bake about 25 minutes as directed (above left). When cool, fill centers with jam or jelly.

3. COOKY WREATHS: To one-half of the dough, add ½ oz. (½ square) unsweetened chocolate, melted. Shape ropes about 3" long; coil into circles. Bake about 25 minutes as directed (above left). Frost; top with coconut; place half a candied cherry in center of each wreath.

YOU can work wonders— with your imagination and Diamond Walnuts

Rocky Road Candy

½ lb. milk chocolate pieces
½ lb. semi-sweet chocolate pieces
16 marshmallows (¼ lb.) cut in quarters or 2 cups miniature marshmallows
½ cup Diamond Walnuts, coarsely broken

Melt chocolate over warm (not hot) water, stirring till smooth. Spread about one-fourth of the chocolate in the bottom of 8 x 8" buttered or waxed paper lined pan. Dot with marshmallows; sprinkle with golden Diamond Walnuts. Press in with fork. Cover top with remaining chocolate. A fork will help you distribute the chocolate evenly. When firm, cut in squares. A wonderful quick treat candy!

Sugared Walnuts: Stir together in saucepan 1½ cups sugar, dash of salt, ½ cup water and ¼ cup honey; cook to 242° on candy thermometer (soft ball stage). Remove from heat; add ½ teaspoon vanilla and 3 cups of crisp Diamond Walnut halves and pieces. (Food coloring may be added to syrup; also cinnamon or grated orange rind.) Stir till thick and creamy. Turn onto waxed paper and separate with 2 forks. Makes 1½ lbs.

Walnuts work wonders in cakes, cookies, desserts, hot breads, too! All look better, taste better, when you add Diamond Walnuts. Use them generously!

NEW RED OR BLUE CELLOPHANE BAGS

OR VACUUM CANS

IN-THE-SHELL OR SHELLED, DIAMOND WALNUTS GIVE YOU PLUMP KERNELS, FINE FLAVOR

In-the-shell – get Diamond Walnuts in cellophane bags (red for Large size, blue for Medium). They're California's finest – plump, tender kernels every time. Perfect for your nut bowl – it's fun to crack these thin-shelled nuts. Thrifty, too – you get over two full cups of usable kernels from every pound of Diamonds.

Shelled – for year-round use, get 8- or 4-ounce cans of Diamond halves and pieces. Vacuum-packed so you get them as fresh and sweet as the day they were shelled. Can re-closes tightly, protects crispness and flavor. Wonderfully convenient – surprisingly economical. Check the cost per ounce yourself.

Don't let worms kill your dog

To give your dog a complete safe worming at home, use a product proved effective against the two most frequent worms.

Large roundworms steal his food, common hookworms suck his blood. Either can kill a puppy and seriously weaken an older dog.

Eliminate both types of worms with Sergeant's Sure Shot Worm Capsules (Puppy Capsules for puppies and dogs under 10 lbs.). Sergeant's outsells all other worming products 2 to 1. Use twice a year and protect your dog. Only 75¢ at drug or pet counters.

TEEN-AGE TOPICS

Teenagers, as a rule, do not feel secure about choosing clothes, and often do not want to take the advice of their parents. Here are some of your letters on the subject.

Q. Is it all right to wear Bermudas or slacks to a music lesson? Is it advisable not to wear an Italian jersey on the street? — R.F., Syracuse, N.Y.

A. I don't like to see Bermuda shorts or slacks worn by teenagers in big cities. In a small community, the costume should be acceptable.

I think it is all right to wear a jersey if it isn't too tight.

Q. What should you wear on 1) an ice-skating date, 2) a coke date and 3) a regular show date? — J.W., Indianapolis, Ind.

A. 1) You may want to wear a regular skating costume with a short skirt, but usually girls settle for slacks or a wool skirt with a heavy sweater. 2) On a coke date, wear school clothes. 3) For a movie date, most girls prefer a sweater and skirt or a simple dress.

Q. I am 14. Am I old enough to wear a suit? — V.S., Shamokin, Pa.

A. Yes, if it is simple and appropriate.

Q. At 12, I am 5 feet tall and weigh only 83 pounds. My mother tells me to wear fluffy skirts and full blouses. I want to wear straight skirts like the other girls. What do you suggest? — B.G., Allentown, Pa.

A. The kind of clothes you want to wear will make you look even thinner. Why not take your mother's advice?

Q. I am big for my age (13), but not overweight. I want to wear clothes that make me look older. — M.K., Chicago, Ill.

A. Within reason, you should dress to suit your years rather than your size.

Warning to

BEFORE A RACE, this woman studies a form sheet. One-third of U.S. track patrons are women.

women gamblers — Don't!

This frank confession — from a grandmother who learned the hard way — is must reading for every woman

ANONYMOUS
as told to DOUGLAS GREENE

I came out of a nightmare not long ago and I'm going to describe it exactly as I lived it. There won't be any fancy writing, but every word I am telling you is the truth.

I'm 52 years old and a grandmother — a young-looking one, please. Grandmas aren't what they used to be. We're better looking, keep ourselves nicer and are a lot more active than our own grandmothers were.

Maybe that was part of my trouble.

Anyway, I have three married children, two boys and a girl. One boy is an engineer in a far-off city, the other a plant manager several hundred miles from where I live. My daughter lives near me in an East Coast suburban community. My husband — he's a traveling man — and I live in a three-room apartment.

My friends and I used to have an occasional poker game ever since we were first married. But the card-playing was only incidental; we met just to get a night out, a few hours away from the responsibilities of raising a family.

Then, as our children grew up, something happened. We had more time to ourselves, so we began meeting more regularly. Somewhere along the line we raised the stakes from a 2-cent to a 10-cent limit.

Later on, the children were starting to get married and leave home. Time got heavier and heavier on my hands. I visited my daughter regularly — but how often can you go without becoming a mother-in-law pest? When her babies came, of course, I had plenty to do helping out. But as they got bigger, I was needed less and the loneliness grew worse.

Up Go the Stakes

That's when the card games got more active. All of us, it seems, were in about the same situation. We raised the stakes again — to a 25-cent limit.

Gradually I became more and more interested in cards. I began reading books on how to play, studying odds and figuring out new ways to win. Now I had something to do, to be interested in. Once I won $75.

This lasted for months. Then, slowly but surely, poker began to lose its kick. I was feeling the need for greater excitement.

I graduated to the horses.

It was an easy, natural and completely painless switch. It was natural because my husband and I used to go to the track — not very often but once in a while, as many people do. But then it was just a day's outing. Now there was a real kick to it. I loved the thrill of doping out the races and watching what happened. I loved the fear — yes, fear — that would grab me when I had bet a fairly large sum.

I loved winning. And when I lost, it made me want to come back and win even more. I went to the track as often as I could, sometimes two or three times a week.

The long trips back and forth were tiring. However, I soon found the solution — a solution that ended up in misery and shame for me.

I was out walking with a friend one day. She pointed to a fat man on a street corner. "See that fellow?" she said. "He's a bookie." The next day I went out and found the fat man. I asked him if he'd take my bets. He had seen me before and so he said that he would.

This seemed to solve all my problems. Now there were no long trips to the track.

AFTER A RACE, loser unhappily watches her horse trotting past winner's circle.

Gambling addiction: New peril to women

What happened to the author of this article also is happening to thousands of other U.S. women, according to police officials. Says Howard Winter, manager of the famous William J. Burns International Detective Agency: "... Women have never gambled as much as they are now. The situation is worst in Chicago, Los Angeles, San Francisco, the Florida resorts, New York and Nevada. More husbands than ever are coming to us, asking our operatives to find out what is happening to the household money and the cash in joint accounts. We have to tell them ... that it's being lost in gambling."

Most of it, of course, is lost at the horse tracks. (The Thoroughbred Racing Association recently found that women comprise 32 per cent of the patrons at U.S. tracks.) Others gamble at cards, especially "poker parties" held in apartments and sometimes staged by professional promoters.

Gambling, of course, is not necessarily harmful, points out Dr. Robert Holt, director of New York University Research Center for Mental Health. But, he adds, it can become an addiction that can wreck your life — as in the case of the author.

"Z.B.T. Moisture-Proofs" your baby against diaper irritation

Ordinary baby powders absorb irritation-causing moisture. Z.B.T. Baby Powder with Olive Oil repels it. Soothes like powder, protects like oil, guards tender skin against urine scald, diaper rash. After every bath and diaper change, give your baby the "moisture-proof" protection of Z.B.T. Baby Powder.

USED BY HUNDREDS OF HOSPITALS

'I looked up at the board that flashes the results. I felt my knees give way... I almost fainted'

All I had to do was stay home and wait for the results on the radio. It was a wonderful way to fill the lonely hours.

I didn't know it, of course, but I had become a compulsive gambler. I craved the excitement of playing just as the alcoholic craves liquor and the drug addict yearns for narcotics.

Nobody really believes he is an addict until it's too late. So I never gave any thought to the consequences. I was enjoying myself and that was enough. And yet I was sick — for compulsive gambling is a sickness just like alcoholism.

What made me sick? Loneliness, I am sure. But a very special loneliness that, I found out later, is hitting more and more women every year. We have our busy years raising a family and then suddenly it's all over. We feel lost, unwanted and unneeded. We're still strong and healthy and there's nothing for us to do.

But I had found something to do. Gambling filled my days with pleasure.

Suddenly there wasn't so much pleasure. I started to lose.

Day after day, week after week, I lost. Up to this point, I had never gone up or down more than $150. So I always had money to bet, using a tiny savings account and my house money. But one day I found I was $500 in debt.

Borrowing, Borrowing

I owed the fat man $100. I had borrowed $200 from a friend on a flimsy excuse and I had gambled away $200 that my husband had left me to pay insurance premiums.

I looked up another friend. My daughter, I told her, had smashed up her car and wanted to get it fixed before her husband found out. She lent me $250.

But instead of using this $250 to pay back my friends, I worked twice as hard trying to dope out the horses. And I doubled my bets, figuring I'd make a killing, get even — and then quit.

But I didn't make any killings. I found myself getting deeper in the hole.

I went sleepless two nights in a row, worrying and wondering what to do.

But, really, what else was there? I went out and began borrowing small sums from my friends. After a week I had part of what I needed.

But again the fever took hold. Again I gambled. Again I lost.

Now I was about $1,000 in debt and badly scared. I went to my old jewelry box and took out my bracelet watch and gold earrings. They brought $150 at a pawnshop.

I wanted to go to a finance company, but I was afraid they would write to my husband — and I didn't want him to know anything about this. Although he was, and is, a wonderful man, I was afraid he would be horrified at what I had done.

100 per cent Interest

So instead of going to the finance company, I went to a woman who, I had heard, loaned money. I borrowed $300. I was to pay her back at the rate of $50 a month for a year. I knew the rate — 100 per cent — was illegal, but I needed the money. I had a little book in which I wrote down all my debts. The list was getting longer.

I could think of only one way out — one big killing on the horses.

I took my fur coat from storage and pawned it for $175. I went to the track and bet every cent I had — over $600 — on one race.

My heart pounded as I walked away from the window. I couldn't watch the race. I wandered under the grandstand until I heard the roar that told me they were off.

When the roaring stopped, I walked out. I looked up at the board that flashes the results.

I felt my knees give way and I almost fainted. I had lost.

The next day I did what I hoped I'd never have to do. I pawned my diamond engagement ring for $400. From the pawnshop I went right to a 10-cent store and bought a paste ring which looked almost like my own. I put this on and prayed my husband wouldn't look too closely.

I should have stopped then. But the pull was too strong, made worse by fear and the desperate longing to get even. I kept borrowing, betting and losing.

My pride was gone. I'd borrow a dollar from anyone — the butcher, the fruit man, the candy-store owner. I asked them all. Deep down I knew that someday my husband would find out, but I tried never to let myself think about it.

How does a woman feel when she has to ask her groceryman for a dollar to bet on the horses? After you've held your head up high for many years, reared a fine family and kept a lovely home, it's a feeling that's impossible to describe.

But I know how I acted. I couldn't look people in the eye any more. I couldn't even look in a mirror at myself. I couldn't sleep. I didn't care how sloppily I dressed. I couldn't even eat.

And every time I thought of my family and how they'd feel when they found out, the hurt became unbearable.

One rainy night I sat down and counted up all my debts. I owed a total of $4,000.

I went to a closet, pulled down one suitcase and packed a few things. I didn't know where I was going. I had only a few dollars in my purse. I was over 50 years old; jobs would be hard to get. But I had to leave rather than face my husband and children.

I walked toward the door. In the foyer is a large mirror. I caught a glimpse of myself and turned my head away.

A key turned in the lock. The door opened and my husband walked in. I hadn't expected him home from his business trip for a week.

We looked at each other. I stood there holding my suitcase and began to sob.

He came over and led me to a chair. "Tell me all about it," he said.

"I'll Go Now"

Someone had told him, of course, some one of the dozens of people I owed money to. It didn't matter now.

The whole story poured out. When I finished, I said: "I'll go now."

"Where are you going?"

"I don't know."

He took away my suitcase. "You're not going anywhere," he said.

I looked at him, dry-eyed, but with an overwhelming sense of love and gratitude.

It cost my husband his life's savings to pay off all the debts. In return, I made a solemn vow to him that I would break my addiction. And I did, though it took long months with my husband standing by to help when the temptation became almost too much.

Today my life is a full one — without gambling. One of my sons has moved back to the city and my time now is happily taken up with my grandchildren, community activities and a number of hobbies that I have recently discovered.

But I know there are many thousands of other women, bored and lonely, who still gamble heavily. They don't know they are addicts. And they don't know the terrible heartache that their addiction will cause.

If my story wakes them up, then what I suffered won't have been in vain. ■
